NO FEAR OF EPIDEMIC IN PATH OF FIRE

Sanitary Measures at Baudette Insure Health Protection.

State Authorities Give Sanction to the Work Done.

Governor Thanks Canadians for Help During the Conflagration.

Baudette, Minn., Oct. 15.—Fears that an epidemic of typhoid fever might break out here following the fire disaster have been dispelled by the declaration of the state health officers who have taken charge of the situation here. Dr. H. W. Hill and Dr. George D. Haggard, who have made a careful study of the situation, declare that there is nothing at present to indicate danger of such a scourge, and Dr. Hill will return to St. Paul. Dr. Haggard remaining to supplement the sanitary work already done here.

Water for the refugees here has been taken from wells, and there has been fear of contamination of the water, but the sanitary measures adopted by the relief committee headed off the early danger, and the later measures are believed to have completed the work so well begun. The prompt disposal of the carcasses of dead animals is declared by the health officers to have been a great step toward the prevention of disease.

Thanks Railroad Officers.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 15.—Governor Eberhart of Minnesota sent the following message to Manager M. H. McLeod of the Canadian Northern railway from Baudette, Minn.:

"On arrival here I learned more fully of the splendid efforts of your company to render assistance to the stricken people of Baudette and Spooner and surrounding country. I am satisfied that had it not been for the prompt and effective efforts of your employes the loss of life would have been much greater.

"Your prompt efforts to bring succor

THOUSANDS WOULD FLY LIKE TEDDY

Aviator Hoxsey Receives Many Letters Asking for Invitations.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 15. — When Col Theodore Roosevelt made a flight in an aeroplane with Aviator Arch Hoxsey here last Tuesday, he aroused much interest throughout the United States in the subject of aerial navigation. From all parts of the country, evidences of earnest wishes to sail skyward after the manner of the former president have been forthcoming in every mail. Fully 3,000 persons have written urgent letters requesting that they be accorded opportunities to fly with Hoxsey, "the man who took the ex-president up in the air."

SOLDIERS GO TO BORDER

Another Detachment of Duluth Militia for Fire District.

Are Summoned By a Telegram From Adjt. Gen. Wood.

Fifty Duluth militiamen, comprising twenty-five men from Company C and twenty-five from Company E, arrived in Baudette, Minn., today, having left here last night with six officers, on the Winnipeg flyer of the Canadian Northern. They will assist in preserving order in the region devastated by forest fires. Company A of Duluth and the Bemidji company have been in the fire district for several days. Col. C. E. Johnson of Mankato, first officer of the Third regiment, passed through Duluth yesterday morning on his way to Baudette to take command of his men.

Maj. H. V. Eva received a telegram late yesterday afternoon from Adjt.-Gen. Wood asking for fifty soldiers and "all available line officers." The men gathered hurriedly at the armory and then marched to the union passenger station, where they boarded the Missabe-Canadian Northern flyer for the North. There was no explanation with the message as to why the troops were desired.

Col. F. E. Resche, who is in general charge of the relief work at Baudette, has written Maj. Eva that hay is needed for starving livestock. The administration of military government in the burned-over district and the distribution of supplies are being successfully carried out.

HARMON IS ATTACKED

Governor's Alleged Condoning of Grafting Now the Republican Cry.

Foraker in the Fight---Leaders Avoid All Mention of Taft.

By Willis J. Abbot.

(Copyright, 1910, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

Columbus, Ohio, Oct. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—There are two sides to every story, and when the story happens to be that of a hard fought political campaign there are apt to be more than two. This is the story of the Ohio campaign as related to me at Republican headquarters. It is, of course, partisan—the Republican statement of facts as their headquarters see them. But when the secretary of their state committee told me that I was the first Washington correspondent to visit their headquarters, or to seek information at first hand, I felt it essential to give the Republican story as fully as possible.

As Republicans See It.

I have talked with Mr. Harding, the candidate for governor on the Republican ticket; with Mr. Laytin, the chairman of the state committee; with the secretary and the publicity man of that committee. What follows is a composite word picture of their position and opinions today. I quote it all because it does not express my own personal judgment of the existing situation.

"Two weeks ago Judson Harmon would have been re-elected governor by 100,000. Today if the election were held he would win, perhaps by 40,000, perhaps by a more slender margin. But give us four more weeks to prose-

TOO MANY NAVY YARDS, SAYS MEYER

Secretary Would Abolish Half Those on the Atlantic Coast.

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 15.—Secretary of the Navy Meyer, addressing the business men of the city at a banquet last night, advocated the abolishment of half the navy yards on the Atlantic coast. He congratulated the Pacific coast upon having only two government shipyards, arguing that these may be brought to a greater degree of efficiency and made adequate to accommodate any fleet.

"I have inspected all the navy yards on the Atlantic coast from Maine to South Carolina and I must say that we have too many yards on that side," said Secretary Meyer. "Half of them should be abolished, and will be if Washington will support me.

"I am in accord with the general movement on the Pacific coast for adequate naval protection, but I am of the opinion that the fleet ought not to be divided at this time."

Senator Newlands of Nevada sounded a note of warning concerning the situation in Pacific waters, speaking directly of Japan as a menacing influence.

FIND POISON IN WATER IN WELL

Horse That Swallowed Some Died and Community Is Excited.

Bemidji, Minn., Oct. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Excitement reigns among the people living in the Third River country, southeast of Blackduck, in Itasca county, over what appears on the surface to have been an attempt at wholesale murder by means of poison. The matter was brought to light by the mysterious and sudden death of a valuable horse, belonging to George South, living on the Kaster homestead. Mr. South drove to the Kaster farm from Blackduck, and when he offered his horses water, but one of the animals would drink. Later, when water had been drawn from the well, Mr. South started to drink from the pail. The water tasted bitter, and Mr. South started for a well farther away. In passing the stable he discovered that the horse which had drunk water was in a spasm and the animal died in a few minutes. An investigation brought to light a quantity of stuff which has since been pronounced to be strychnine. Potatoes boiled in the water were unpalatable and bitter. A possibility that an attempt was being made at strychnine poisoning caused the supper to be left untouched. Several quarts of water from the well has been sent away for examination; and in the meantime a vigorous search is being made to ascertain who placed the poison in the well and the horses' mangers.

HUMANE CONFERENCE ENDS.

Inhumanity to Seals Theme on the Last Day.

Washington, Oct. 15.—The first American International Humane conference, conducted here this week, will be concluded today. "Inhumanity to seals," will be discussed, the subject to be presented by William T. Hornaday, director of the New York Zoological park.

Reports on animal protection in various countries of the world will be presented and there also will be a report of the international conference general committee on animals, including resolutions upon which action will be taken by the conference.

STANLEY KETCHEL BADLY WOUNDED

Springfield, Mo., Oct. 15.—Stanley Ketchel, champion middleweight fighter, was shot and, it is believed, fatally wounded on the ranch of R. P. Dickerson, five miles north of Conway, Mo., near here, this morning.

A message from Conway says Ketchel was shot by one of the ranch employes. He was shot with a 22-caliber rifle, the bullet passing through the right lung. The man who shot him escaped. Bloodhounds have been sent for to track the assailant.

Mr. Dickerson, at whose home Ketchel was visiting, was in Springfield when he heard the news. With physicians he left here on a special train for Conway at 9 o'clock this morning. The wounded man will be brought to a hospital here. Conway is forty miles east of here.

Fort Dodge, Iowa, Oct. 15.—Senator J. P. Dolliver spent a good night and was reported today as improving.

"LAY ON, MACDUFF"

CAMPAIGN LETHARGIC

Speakers in North Dakota Find Audiences Refuse to Enthuse.

Party Names Count But Little---Large Independent Vote Certain.

By J. F. T. O'Connor.

Grand Forks, N. D., Oct. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The politicians in this state are complaining that the campaign lacks enthusiasm. Indeed, it seems that a political distrust has swept across the country. The audiences in all parts of the state remain impassive. Everything which is said is received in what may be termed a doubtful mood. One prominent politician, when asked for an explanation, said that the people had been whipped, bullied and fooled long enough by office seekers and campaign managers. The refusal of the audience to enthuse is reported by all speakers of both parties, but the interpretation may be as given, or may not.

This condition will certainly result in one way. There will be the largest independent vote ever cast. The ballot will be studied over and the candidates will be carefully selected. The farmers

GALE ON FLORIDA COAST DECREASES

Hurricane May Lose Its Force in Gulf of Mexico.

Key West, Fla., Oct. 15.—The gale which prevailed here last night as a result of the West Indian hurricane was reduced to thirty miles an hour this morning, indicating the passing of the storm. At the same time the barometer rose to 29.61 at 7 a. m. No damage is reported to shipping, the steamer Olivette succeeding in getting inside the harbor last night after much difficulty.

May Die Out in Gulf.

Tampa, Fla., Oct. 15.—Indications this morning are that the West Indian hurricane continues to move in a westerly direction and may lose its force in the Gulf of Mexico. There are no signs, according to weather bureau officials, that the storm will turn and sweep up the Atlantic coast. The barometer is falling here this morning, reading 29.88 at 7 o'clock.

MAY CLOSE DAY AND NIGHT BANK

Legal Muss Responsible for Action in Los Angeles Institution.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 15.—Alden Anderson, state superintendent of banks, took charge last night of the All-Night-and-Day bank. His action was the climax of litigation extending for several months and centering in an effort to oust President Newton J. Skinner and the other officers of the institution.

The bank is solvent, according to the superintendent's announcement, and the depositors will not lose anything. If the differences are not settled, the bank's holdings will be liquidated. Upon the authority of the superior court, a stockholders' meeting was called yesterday, at which L. C. Brand was elected president. Skinner refused to surrender control and Anderson thereupon assumed control. The bank is capitalized at $200,000.

BIG AIRSHIP STARTS OUT OVER OCEAN

Walter Wellman Begins His Trans-Atlantic Flight at Last.

Trial Trip of the America Is Changed Into Real Attempt.

Carries Six Men, Food for a Month and 9,000 Pounds of Gasoline.

HURRICANE HEADED UP ATLANTIC COAST.

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 15.—Word has been received here from the weather bureau at Washington that the West Indian hurricane is coming up the coast. An attempt is being made by Wellman's friends to reach him and warn him to clear from the track of the storm.

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 15.—Walter Wellman's airship, America, is on its way to Europe.

After weeks of delay which had aroused doubt in the minds of all but the very staunchest supporters of Walter Wellman, aeronaut and explorer, that the flight would be attempted, news was flashed at 4 o'clock this morning to officials of this resort and backers of the enterprise that a start was about to be made. Melvin Vaniman, chief engineer, and F. Murray Simons, navigator, had paced the balloon shed throughout the night, halting their work of examination of every part of the balloon only to watch the weather.

Shortly after midnight the wind dropped to a slow southeast breeze, followed by a settling of one of the heaviest fogs known on the coast. Friends of Vaniman who have stood by him and declared their belief that he would ascend were overjoyed when Found With $2,000 Worth of Gems and $200 in Cash.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 15.—W. J. Smith, a traveling salesman of St. Louis, was found dead in his room in a local hotel last night. Two thousand dollars in diamonds and $200 in cash were found among his possessions. He is believed to have committed suicide.

FIRE COMES AFTER BALL

Two Harbors Opera House Destroyed By Fire Early in Morning.

Splendid Building Takes Fire After Railroad Men's Fine Dance.

Two Harbors, Minn., Oct. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen's ball was a splendid success last evening, but it later proved to be a very expensive affair. The Metropolitan Opera house, in which it was held, was burned. The building was decorated in red, green and white, and red, green and white lanterns were used for lights, and a large headlight was used on the stage. A large number of out-of-town people were down to the dance and the people of this city attended in good numbers. This ball was to be the last one before the roller season.

At 4:30 a. m., an alarm was turned in from the Commercial hotel, the opera house being on fire. The fire department responded quickly, but it was found that the fire had gained such a headway that it was impossible to save the building.

Fire Started in Rear.

From the appearance of the fire when the alarm was turned in, the fire had started in the rear of the building, possibly from a cigar butt, this theory is scouted because the last of the dancers left about 2 a. m. The building and equipment was valued at $10,000, partly covered by insurance. The building is owned by Charles A. Jernberg, who has some engagements booked and the roller season was to have opened in a few days. The Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen had borrowed the lanterns and headlight from the Duluth & Iron Range company. They were worth a considerable sum.

NOTES OF BOYS' DEPARTMENT

The second of the popular Friday nights was conducted at the boys' department last night and took the form of a game tournament, the champions in each class to remain champions until the next tournament to be held some Friday next month.

Roy Lonegren carried off the honors in the carom contest; Albert Gonska in the ping pong; Irving Grover in shuffle board, and Gerald Lonegren in the cue roquet. Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the tournament. Next Friday night the social committee will turn over the building to the freshmen class of the high school and every member of the class will receive a complimentary ticket for a swim in the swimming pool.

The older boys' meeting will be at 4:30. There will be a short talk, and Miss Jean Wanless will be the soloist. All boys 15 years or over are invited. The boys' department orchestra will meet Monday for organization. Boys who can play any kind of an instrument are invited to join the club.

"It Beats All."

This is the quoted from a letter of M. Stockwell, Hannibal, Mo. "I recently used Foley's Honey and Tar for the first time. To say I am pleased does not half express my feelings. It beats all the remedies I ever used. I contracted a bad cold and was threatened with pneumonia. The first doses gave great relief and one bottle completely cured me." Contains no opiates. Sold by all druggists.

PROPOSED GOVERNOR JOHN A. JOHNSON MEMORIAL

PLASTER MODEL OF THE MONUMENT.

The material submitted by Andrew O'Connor for the consideration of the Johnson Memorial commission consists of a study of the head of the governor in plaster, a plaster model of the entire monument, which includes the statue on a pedestal with its surroundings, and two colored sketches showing the sculptor's idea of the monument as it will appear when placed in front of the capitol building. Back of the statue is a wall up to the height of the pedestal surmounted by a frieze on which in relief are nineteen figures symbolical of the industries and resources of Minnesota. According to the plans submitted by the sculptor, the statue is to be in bronze, eight feet, eight inches tall, the pedestal of dull rose or red Minnesota granite, six feet high, the platform and steps of stones of various tints to be selected by the sculptor, enclosed by a dull red border of stone mosaic. In the center of the platform in front of the pedestal there will be a bronze plaque inscribed with letters in the Scandinavian style. The two seats which are placed on either side of the monument are to be of pink Knoxville marble. The back wall up to the height the industries and resources of Minnesota. According to the plans subfrieze and crowning mouldings and pilaster to be either of pink Knoxville marble or of a beautiful stone known as Roche Pouillenay. The shrubbery which will form a part of the landscape gardening about the memorial is suggested in the photograph by potted plants.

MARINE MOVEMENT IS LIGHTER

Ore Shipments for Present Month to Date Show Decrease.

Total Figures for Season Are Still Ahead of Last Year.

Ore figures of the three Duluth railroads show that the ore movement for the present month has shown a slump to date, and that the month of October of the present season will fall far below the same month last season.

The Duluth & Iron Range road figures show that for the first fifteen days of the present month, 499,000 tons of ore have been shipped from the docks. During the first fifteen days of last October, 630,331 tons were shipped from the docks at Two Harbors.

In October of last season the Duluth & Iron Range road sent down from the ranges 1,448,343 tons of ore, which will exceed the present month's record by quite a margin, if the present rate of shipment is continued throughout the month.

To the first of October last season the Duluth & Iron Range shipped 6,644,539 tons of ore from the docks, while to the first of October the present season, 6,757,840 tons have been shipped.

The figures of the Great Northern railway are ahead of the figures to date of last season, as are the month's figures to date.

To date the present season the Great Northern has delivered at the dock at Allouez bay, 7,352,593 tons, against 5,371,146 tons shipped last season.

For the first fourteen days of the present month the Great Northern has delivered to the docks 547,629 tons against 447,934 tons in the first fourteen days of last season.

The figures of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad show that the present month is not as heavy as last October, there being a noticeable slump in movement.

To date the present month, 709,959 tons have been shipped, against 1,025,801 tons during the first fifteen days of October, 1909.

The past week shows a tonnage movement of 235,772 tons against 371,237 tons moved in the second week of October last season.

To date the season is ahead of last season. So far the present season 12,575,511 tons of ore have been shipped, against 10,872,978 tons shipped last season, up to Oct. 15.

LIGHT FLASHES WHEN STEAMER WHISTLES.

An electric flash whistle signal has been installed on the steamer Promise of the Detroit, Belle Isle & Windsor Ferry company's fleet, and will be in service through the fall and winter. This signal, which is, of course, only in use after sunset, gives a whistle flash of distinctive character at each blast of the whistle, and of the same duration, so that in giving passing signals, whether the whistle is heard or not, its blowing is not in doubt.

CHICKENS ILL-TREATED

Health Commissioner Finds 500 Birds in Ill-Smelling Hole.

Says Conditions on Michigan Street Must Be Improved.

Conditions in several of the commission houses on Michigan street which handle poultry will have to be remedied, according to Dr. H. E. Webster, health commissioner, who went through several of them this morning to learn the exact conditions. He was accompanied by Charles Kitchen, chief inspector.

Dr. Webster stated that he found one house which should get attention from the humane agent as well as from the health department. He stated that he found at least 500 chickens and turkeys in one place which were not receiving proper treatment. It appears that they were bunched together in a small room without ventilation or proper light in such a manner that they were a menace to the health of the people who might use them for food. Complaints have also been made that the odor from the place was decidedly disagreeable to those in the building as well as in the adjacent buildings.

Another complaint was made to the department yesterday to the effect that a Michigan street firm was killing chickens without taking the proper precautions. It was alleged that the refuse was allowed to lie in the hot sun, causing stenches which were sickening. This was turned over to the meat inspector, who instructed the proprietors to clean up, which they promised to do.

Dr. Webster said this mornlung that unless the commission men cause improvements to be made, he will ask the city council to pass an ordinance which will give him the needed authority to compel them to do so.

MORE TELEPHONE FIGHT.

Tri-State Ruled Against in Grand Forks Squabble.

East Grand Forks, N. D., Oct. 15.—(Special to The Herald)—The franchise granted to the Tri-State Telephone company here was declared by Judge Watts of the Polk county distdict court to be void.

The tri-state company intends to ask the council for a new franchise immediately, and a repetition of the old fight is anticipated at that time. The Northwestern Telephone company is said to be back of the fight that is being made on the Tri-state company, as it now holds the field exclusively.

There were numerous points on which the decision was based, but more particularly allegations by the plaintiffs that the council's procedure in the passage of the ordinance was wholly irregular were responsible for the decision made.

MELROSE, MINN., WOMAN STRUCK AND KILLED BY CARS

St. Cloud, Minn., Oct. 15.—Mrs. Bernard Hinnenkamp, aged 58, while attempting to cross the Great Northern tracks at Melrose Thursday, was struck by a passenger train and hurled thirty feet. Death resulted instantly, the woman's neck and back being broken. The train does not stop at Melrose, and it is charged that it was going faster than the legal rate of speed through the city. An inquest will be held to determine whether the train crew is responsible for the woman's death.

NEW PARISH TO BE FORMED

French Catholics at West Duluth May Build a Church.

Mass Meeting of Those Interested in Plans Is Called.

Steps are being taken to organize a French Catholic parish at West Duluth.

There are a large number of French Catholics in the western end of the city who are not members of any particular parish and who are in favor of organizing the church. Father Quillien, formerly in charge of a parish at Sandstone, Minn., is at the head of the movement.

A meeting of all the French people at West Duluth, who are interested in the movement, has been called by Father Quillien for tomorrow. The gathering will be held at 3 o'clock at Gilley's hall, Central avenue.

It is more than probable that the meeting will result in a committee being appointed to look up a favorable site and furnish an estimate of what it would cost to erect a substantial church.

Duluth has only one French Catholic church at the present time. This is the St. Jean Baptiste at Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street.

SCHOOL GIRL SUCCUMBS AFTER A SHORT ILLNESS.

After a three days' illness, Myrtle Risen, an 11-year-old West Duluth school girl, died this morning at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Risen, of 5801 West Eighth street. Death was due to acute intestinal trouble.

The funeral will be held Tuesday, although no definite arrangements have been made. Burial will be made at Oneota cemetery.

Reception to Teachers.

A reception for the school teachers of West Duluth has been planned by the West Duluth branch of the W. C. T. U. Friday evening at the West Duluth Commercial club rooms.

An appropriate program has been arranged for the occasion and it is expected that there will be a large attendance. All members of the W. C. T. U. are expected to turn out for the affair.

WOMAN STRUCK BY STREET CAR

Mrs. Mary Peterson Sustains Injuries in Accident on Grand Avenue.

While returning from a visit to Proctor and intending to transfer from the Bay View Heights incline to the street railway company cars Mrs. Mary Peterson walked in front of an eastbound car last evening shortly after 9 o'clock and was struck, but not severely injured.

The accident happened at the transfer point, Sixtieth avenue west and Grand. She was taken in an ambulance to the Duluth hospital, where Dr. Graham dressed a bad wound over the right eye. She was taken home by Officer Fred Anderson.

The woman, who is about 50 years of age, resides with her nephew, Carl Berg, at 4031 Halifax street.

FILES PETITION IN BANKRUPTCY

The Duluth Box Manufacturing company, through O. H. Maatsch, yesterday filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in the United States district court. The firm was represented by its attorneys, Warren E. Green and John H. Norton.

Debts outweigh the assets nearly three times, it is claimed in the petition. According to the statement filed, the company owes $23,209.04 and has but $8,277.04 with which to pay it. The real estate is valued at $1,200 and the insurance will probably bring $6,000.

It is also claimed by merchants on Central avenue that the company has overdrawn its account in a local bank for several hundred dollars, and that a number of checks written on a pay day before the fire were returned.

It is understood, however, that the bank has heretofore extended to the company the privilege of overdrawing its account, and it is thought that there has been no attempt to defraud.

SUSTAINS FRACTURE OF SKULL, BUT WILL LIVE.

Although Leonard Duncan, 25 years old, steel plant laborer, has a fractured skull, sustained in a fall of forty feet Thursday, he will survive.

At St. Luke's hospital, where the man is in the charge of Dr. Seashore of West Duluth, it is stated that he will probably recover.

Duncan, who is a structural iron worker fell off the steel construction of one of the shop buildings at New Duluth. In addition to receiving a fractured skull, he also sustained a compound fracture of the thigh.

Yesterday he regained consciousness at the hospital.

SAY TELEPHONE LINES ARE STRUNG TOO LOW.

The council will be asked by a committee from the West Duluth Commercial club to see that the ordinance relating to telephone wires be strictly enforced. The ordinance provides that the wires shall be at least twenty-five feet from the ground. In some cases at West Duluth, it is claimed, that they have been strung as low as thirteen feet. It is also claimed that the local telephone companies have been charging exhorbitant rates for cutting wires for housemovers at West Duluth.

But little other business than that came up last evening at the regular meeting of the club.

Fans Will Attend.

A number of West Duluth football fans will leave tomorrow afternoon on the 2:05 Northern Pacific train for Superior to witness the contest between the strong Blaine Alumni team of Superior and the Fairmonts of West Duluth. The Fairmonts have strengthened the lineup for the game and it is expected that a fast exhibition will be seen in this game. The affair is scheduled to be held at Hislop park.

Non-Support Charged.

Nick Kilench of West Duluth was arraigned in police court this morning on a warrant sworn out by his wife charging him with non-support. She alleges that he has been negligent in this regard for the last eleven months. He entered a plea of not guilty and will be tried Wednesday morning.

West Duluth Briefs.

Mr. and Mrs. William Johnson of Virginia, Minn., are registered today at the Hotel Cody.

Harry Strand expects to leave tomorrow for a hunting trip in the vicinity of Gooseberry river.

Rev. D. W. Lynch, pastor of St. James Catholic church, Fifty-seventh avenue west, who has been ill, is reported convalescent.

Mrs. I. G. Wallin of 101 North Fifty-eighth avenue west has returned from a visit with relatives at Deer Park, Minn.

Sidney Perkins of Fifty-third avenue west has left for a few days' visit with relatives on the range.

R. J. Hamilton of the Scott-Kreidler company has left for a visit to his farm at Barnum, Minn.

Mrs. W. H. Herriman and daughter, Fern of Butte, Mont., who have been visiting at Chetek, Wis., returned yesterday to West Duluth on their way to Butte. They visited at the home of Mrs. E. D. Abbott of 5609 Grand avenue west.

The three patrols of Boy Scouts organized at Merritt Memorial M. E. church from members of the Oneota Boys' club this week, left today on the first hike into the country. Rev. E. F. Stidd and Freeman Randall were scout masters and the patrols were captained by Hamilton Morgan, James Gillis and Harry Randall. The boys carried a light lunch with them.

There will be special music by the choir at Asbury M. E. church tomorrow. In the morning Miss McLyman will render the solo and Ray W. Abbott will sing in the evening. The choir now comprises the Misses Eva L. and Daisy McLyman and Messrs. Byron W. Brooks and Ray W. Abbott.

WILL INSPECT THE POOR FARM

Health Commissioner Says Conditions Are Menace to Water Supply.

Dr. H. E. Webster, health commissioner, will accompany several members of the board of county commissioners to the poor farm next week to look over the situation which he alleges is a menace to the water supply of the city.

Dr. Webster sent a letter to the chairman of the county board recommending that a county hospital be established at the poor farm to care for the typhoid patients who are now there. He says that they have neither proper facilities for treatment, nor enough help. As a result the refuse from the institution, which is filled with typhoid patients, dumps into Chester creek without being disinfected. The creek empties into Lake Superior, and with the present condition of the intake pipe, the health commissioner fears that the city water supply might cause an epidemic of typhoid fever.

STIMSON SAYS TAFT REFERRED TO CAMPAIGN.

New York, Oct. 15.—Henry L. Stimson, Republican nominee for governor of New York, said in a speech at Carnegie hall last night that he was authorized by President Taft to say that "this New York campaign has nothing whatever to do with the nomination of a Republican candidate for president in 1912."

WEST END WILL PROBE WATER RATES

Hillside Improvement Clubs Claim Present Charges Are Unjust.

"We intend to sift this water rate business to the bottom," declared Former Alderman Peter Olson of the Sixth ward, in speaking of the alleged discriminatory rates which the Hillside Improvement club of the city claim that the water board is making in favor of the large consumers.

Mr. Olson is president of the West End Hillside Improvement club and a member of the joint committee, which will meet Monday night in conjunction with the East end and Central Hillside Improvement club committees.

"It is an outrage," says Mr. Olson, "that the small consumer has to pay 23½ cents for his water when the corporations can get their supply at about one-third of the cost, or 8½ cents. There is something wrong with this system and we intend to see what the matter is."

Mr. Olson stated that in addition to the discussion over the alleged unfair rates, that the matter of securing water connections for the West end hillside would be brought up also. The recent trouble over water at the Ensign school has made the matter more imperative, says Mr. Olson.

COLLECTION FOR FIRE SUFFERERS.

An opportunity to contribute to the fire sufferers who lost their homes in the destructive border town fires will be afforded to those attending the services at the Swedish Mission church, Twenty-first avenue west and Second street, tomorrow evening.

Rev. J. J. Daniels announced this morning that a special collection would be taken at the church tomorrow evening for this purpose. The money will be turned over to the relief fund as soon as possible.

At the church tomorrow morning, Rev. W. Hagquist, a returned missionary from China, who has spent nineteen years in the Orient, will occupy the pulpit.

PETITION FOR A NEW PAVEMENT.

At the meeting of the West End Commercial club last evening a committee of three comprising Fred W. Erickson, John J. Moe and Alderman C. P. Hoar was delegated to draw up a petition for Third street property owners to sign in regard to a new paving for that thoroughfare. If it is found that the sentiment is strong for the pavement the petition will be signed and sent to the council.

THE POLICE STATION IN NEW FIRE HALL.

The basement of No. 1 firehall will probably be placed into condition for use as a police station at the West end.

At the West End Commercial club meeting last evening Charles Mork reported that Chief Troyer had recommended this. The place will be fixed up so that it can also be used as a temporary cell for prisoners.

The West end police will also be provided with a telephone.

INJURED WHEN AUTO TRUCK HIT STREET CAR.

Herman Johnson, employed by the West End Auto company, and a passenger on a West Duluth and Aerial bridge street car, yesterday sustained a badly bruised arm by being struck by an automobile truck while standing in the gates of the street car at Lake avenue and Superior street. The car was turning the corner when the truck, belonging to a local wholesale house, bumped into the rear end. The gates were bent and Johnson's arm was also jammed.

Will Buy Building.

A deal is pending whereby the Excelsior laundry, Garfield avenue and Superior street, will come into possession of the two-story building on Twentieth avenue west, now occupied by the Home Laundry company. The transaction will not include the stock and fixtures of the Home Laundry company. The plans of the new owners have not been announced.

Gives Linen Shower.

Mrs. E. G. Battl of 2120 West Second street entertained at a linen shower for Miss Anna Peterson, a bride-to-be, at her home last evening. The affair was largely attended and the evening was spent in an enjoyable manner. Miss Peterson, who is to be married in November, lives at 2231½ Vernon street.

West End Shortrails.

Rev. Swaney Nelson, pastor of the First Swedish Baptist congregation, and Rev. J. W. Loughbridge, pastor of Central Baptist church, returned today from St. Paul, where they have been attending a Baptist convention.

The Young Ladies' Society of the First Swedish Baptist church held a fall festival last evening at the church, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street. A program was given and refreshments served.

Last evening a "spell down" was held at Central Baptist church, the affair featuring the entertainment given under the auspices of the young people's society.

The funeral of Mrs. Maria Swanstrom, who died Tuesday, was held this afternoon from the residence, 2510 West Third street and at Bethany Swedish Lutheran church, Rev. C. G. Olson officiating.

Rev. C. P. Carlson of Stockholm, Sweden, district superintendent of the eastern district of Sweden and a prominent pastor in the Swedish Methodist church, is in Duluth for a week's visit. Tomorrow he will occupy the pulpit of the First Swedish M. E. church, Twentieth avenue west and Third street.

cute the fight along the lines we have now taken up and we have little doubt that we will beat him.

The Graft Charges.

"The one issue in this campaign from now on is graft. We have the evidence in legal form, sworn evidence, showing that under the Harmon administration officeholders, big and little, have been grafting, and that Harmon, so far from resenting it, reappointed the little fellows and compelled the renomination of the bigger ones. 'Bill' Finley, the state oil inspector and the political manager of Harmon's campaign, stands charged with using more than $7,000 of the state's money to build up his political machine. He did it by certifying fees for oil inspection when no inspection was made. We do not assert that any of this money went into his own pocket. It was used to pay useless oil inspectors throughout the state and to keep them in line for Finley.

"The state treasurer, the only man on the Democratic ticket elected with Harmon, is tarred with the same stick, and among the lesser employes there are five who confessed to having charged the state for traveling expenses and hotel bills when they were really going home to see their wives, and not paying any hotel bills whatsoever. The treasurer has confessed to charging four days' expenses, including a hotel bill, to the state, when he was attending a Democratic convention.

Harmon Charged With Condoning Graft.

"We on the Republican side are going to change the whole tone of this campaign. We are going to make it on the anti-graft issue, and we attack Harmon not now, because we believe he kept the confessed grafters in office. We know perfectly well that he has had, and at this moment has, the business community of the state with him. The business men have believed that he was giving a purely business administration unvexed by politics and unsoiled by spoils. It is our business to show that it has been an abasolutely political administration, that it has turned over the spoils to the spoilsman and has condoned grafting which was not merely notorious, but a matter of court record."

Well, there you are. That is to be the "keynote" of the Republican campaign in Ohio from now on. State issues, taxation, public service, national issues are all to be set aside for the one issue of alleged graft and Harmon's alleged condoning of that offense on the part of his appointees.

Republican Hopes.

"The tide has turned," say the Republicans. They believe that the business community which has looked upon Harmon as the business candidate, will be weaned away from him by these revelations of alleged indifference to grafting. They insist that Cincinnati, which gave him 19,000 majority last time, will cast a 10,000 majority vote against him this time. This prediction is based on the theory that while Harmon got practically the whole "wet" vote in Cincinnati, he has done nothing for the "wet" cause and cannot hope to get that vote again. They bank largely, too, on possible defections in the Democratic party because of Mr. Bryan's ill-concealed hostility.

Foraker in the Fight.

No competent observer of politics would question the fact that the Ohio Republicans are—very belatedly—girding up their loins for a real fight. Foraker gets into the field in a few days, though there is grave apprehension on the part of the Republican managers that he may do more hurt than good. One of the characteristics of Foraker is to say what he thinks, and what he thinks of the present Republican powers in Ohio will hardly bear saying if results are to be favorable. I noted with interest the other night that when Governor Harmon spoke a few words of polite appreciation of Foraker his audience broke into wild applause; when he made a necessary, if perfunctory, reference to Taft it was passed over in silence.

No Enthusiasm for Taft.

That Taft situation, by the way, is curious. Here we have an Ohio man, who is president of the United States and even before his election had reflected honor on his state. Yet in certain districts the speakers from without the state are definitely instructed to avoid even casual mention of his name. In Columbus I have talked with every Republican of prominence and have noticed that they avoided reference to the president, or if trapped into speaking of him damned him with faint praise. Nor is there much more enthusiasm over Roosevelt. The New York convention and platform seems to have taken the steam out of his former admirers here.

Harding a Good Speaker.

Mr. Harding, the Republican nominee for governor, is a man of excellent presence and unblemished record. He is a typical product of the Middle West, a printer, the owner of a newspaper in a town of the second class, who, proceeding from the case to politics, became state senator and then lieutenant governor. He speaks easily and well, making rather an academic and argumentative speech than one that appeals to the crowd. Newspaper writers who have followed both men say that he speaks better than Harmon.

Honors Even on Organized Labor.

There is a certain compensation for the Harmon cause in the Harding nomination, in that both men are likely to have some trouble with organized labor. Harmon has been compelled to call out troops to guard Columbus during the street car strike—hence much outcry from professional labor agitators. But Harding has always run a non-union printing shop, so the honors on that issue seem about even. The two men personally are on the best of terms and Governor Harmon, speaking from the same platform with his opponent the other day, said gracefully that he hoped Mr. Harding would be elected governor some time, "but not this time."

are going to the polls this fall and their "X" will be marked with about the same care and consideration as they would sign a mortgage.

Independent Voters.

The campaign takes more and more notice of this fact. The politicians realize that to win, they must get the independent voter. There was never a campaign in which party names were used as little. In fact, it is dangerous to build up symbols and figures around the names of party leaders. Ex-President Roosevelt has lost friends since his silent slap at Congressman Hanna and the other stalwarts, while he was in the state Labor day, and again lately in his New York fight. Again, these actions have made other friends. President Taft's name is seldom mentioned and when it is there is no applause.

Perhaps two other elements contribute to the lethargic spirit of the campaign: First, no national speakers of the Republican party have been invited to tour the state. The reason is obvious. The stalwarts who believe that the old wing of the party, which has made the success of the Republican party possible, and which has given it its present position of power, would consent only to the speakers who represent that view; while the progressives, maintaining that their leaders are the saviors of the party, would not be satisfied with speakers advocating and adopting the stalwart views. Therefore it has been decided best not to invite any of the more prominent speakers or leaders such as Congressman Tawney, Dalzell, Cannon or Senators Beveridge, La Follette, Cummins, Aldrich, or Dolliver.

Democratic Ticket on Ballot.

The other element is the fact that it was doubtful whether or not there would be any campaign on the state officers, as the Democratic ticket, with the exception of Governor John Burke, did not receive enough votes to be placed on the fall election ballot. The primary election law called for 30 per cent of the total vote cast for the secretary of state at the last general election. The question naturally presented itself, was it possible for a majority party to pass a law which would practically annihilate the opposite political party? If the legislature could pass a law calling for 30 per cent, and thus deprive the Democratic party of representation on the fall ballot, it could pass a law making it much higher. The question was the reasonableness of the law. The makers of the law intended that the percentage would be placed high enough to keep the Democrats from voting at the Republican primaries and to keep the Republicans from voting the Democratic ticket at the same nomination. There is no charge that the Democrats voted the Republican ticket at the primaries, but the nomination of candidates never brought out 30 per cent of the voters, and did not under the primary law. Therefore the supreme court held that the law was unconstitutional as to that particular clause. This places the entire Democratic ticket in the field.

This fact may stimulate the Republicans to greater activity. There never was as much fear over the independent vote. Now the probability that this vote may be cast for the entire Democratic ticket gives the Republican managers good cause to worry.

Governor Burke's Speeches.

Governor John Burke has been campaigning in Nelson county and in Grand Forks county the latter part of the week. He will make an entry into Grand Forks, which is considered one of the strong Burke centers, this evening, when he is scheduled to address his first audience here. Hon. Tracy R. Bangs, the Democratic candidate for state attorney and Attorney Jones of La Moure will also speak. The governor's voice is holding out better than he had anticipated, and physically he seems to be growing stronger as the campaign progresses. He is well pleased with the support and the greeting he has received all over the state. Col. Martin, the Democratic sergeant-at-arms, is speaking to large audiences. He addressed a large audience at Grand Forks Wednesday evening.

Tuesday evening the Young Men's Democratic club of this city was organized. There were over 150 charter members who signed the roll. A. L. Madison, court stenographer, was elected temporary president; Dr. Arenberg, vice-president; John P. Conmy, secretary, and L. E'Sperance, treasurer.

C. A. Johnson, the Republican candidate for governor, has not made many speeches so far in the campaign, owing to the death of his little daughter who was burned, which has delayed his plans. However, he will in all probability commence his active speaking during the coming week, and will remain on the stump until election day.

Baby's Voice

Every woman's heart thrills at the cooing and prattling of a baby, and motherhood is her highest and purest joy. Yet the suffering incident to this great consummation of her life's desire, robs the anticipation of some of its sweetness. Most of this can be avoided by the use of Mother's Friend. This great remedy prepares the expectant mother's system for the coming event, and its use makes her comfortable during all the term. Mother's Friend assists nature in gradually expanding all tissues, muscles and tendons, it strengthens the ligaments, keeps the breasts in good condition, and brings the woman to the crisis in healthful physical condition. The regular use of Mother's Friend lessens the pain when baby comes, and assures a quick and natural recovery for the mother. For sale at drug stores. Write for free book for expectant mothers.

INCREASED ACTIVITY IN BUSINESS

New York, Oct. 15.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade today says:

The better feeling noted last week is confirmed by this week's reports; and although important elections are impending, the railroad rate controversy is still unsettled and the trade recession to a point considerably below normal continues, yet there are signs of increased cheerfulness and some increased activity. This is disclosed much less in the iron and steel trade than in the drygoods—the former moves slowly with a reduced production, but in drygoods there is a perceptible expansion in demand in all branches which exercises a healthy influence in both wholesale and retail trade, especially in districts closest to the crop-producing states.

In all branches of business, demand is still restricted mostly to immediate needs, but stocks are low and the situation is therefore a strong one in case buying confidence continues to expand and the factors which operate to produce reaction weaken. Irregular reports are still received from leading pig iron centers, a fair tonnage of orders being placed in some districts, whereas dullness is conspicuous in others and Bessemer and basic iron are tending toward a lower basis.

That there is general hesitation to contract for requirements is suggested by the usual statement of unfilled orders by the steel corporation which shows a reduction of 379,000 tons during September and the smallest monthly total with two exceptions, on record. In finished lines conditions are mixed and it is apparent that some consumers anticipate further price concessions. The railroads are not covering distant needs freely and there is a lessening of demand for structural material for bridge building.

Cotton goods in bleached, brown and colored have been advanced as a consequence of a larger demand and greater cost due to the rise in cotton. Leading lines of men's wear are moderately advanced. Yarns are in more active inquiry. Jobbers are doing a fair trade and are re-ordering in the primary market for immediate and spring delivery.

Footwear conditions continue on the whole unsatisfactory. New England manufacturers report a slight increase in business each week, but no orders of account are being received for spring delivery, as jobbers buy close to actual requirements. Trade is fairly good in some kinds of leather, such as belting, harness and sole, but upper stock continues low.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

During chapel exercises Monday morning, Mrs. Frances Squire Potter, who came to the city under the auspices of the Twentieth Century club, lectured to the pupils. The subject of her interesting talk was "The First Prophet." It was much appreciated by the students.

The gymnasium classes, which were to begin this week, have been indefinitely postponed, owing to the illness of Miss Smith. All the classes have been assigned to them. As soon as Miss Smith recovers, the gymnasium work will begin.

A special meeting of the sophomore class was called Wednesday. Chauncey Carpenter was elected yellmaster for the class, and the class dues were raised from five to ten cents a month.

The students have been assigned chapel seats in the assembly hall this week. On account of the increased number of pupils this year, there has been a certain amount of confusion among the pupils in obtaining seats. As it is now, the students on entering the assembly hall march immediately to their seats, saving considerable time and confusion.

The Shillerbund society was reorganized last week. Miss Dengler was chosen president; Lydia Woodbridge, vice president; Henry Halenbeck, secretary, and Elbert Vaughan, treasurer.

At the second meeting of the society, Miss Dengler spoke to the members explaining the purpose of the society. A number of German songs were then sung and the meeting adjourned.

Only the pupils of the upper German classes can be members of the society. Miss Dengler says that the membership is larger and more interest seems to be manifested than ever before.

WILL MEET IN DULUTH IN 1911

Minnesota Baptists Will Hold Convention Here Next Year.

The next meeting of the Minnesota Baptist convention, which has been in session at St. Paul the present week, will be held in Duluth during October next year. This was decided upon at yesterday's gathering.

Rev. J. G. Briggs of Owatonna will be the principal speaker at the opening session, with Rev. W. F. Clarke of Northfield as alternate. Speakers stated yesterday that there are many people in the state who have little or no opportunity to hear and benefit from the preaching of the gospel. A plea was made for more workers and a subscription, which brought in $1,500, was started.

PEAT BURNS DEEPLY.

Fire Going Down Three Feet Near North Branch.

North Branch, Minn., Oct. 15.—Several fires that have broken out in the big marsh three miles south of this city within the past two weeks have destroyed between 500 and 600 tons of hay besides causing the farmers of the surrounding territory no amount of trouble and annoyance.

It was at first thought that the fires were started from passing engines on the Northern Pacific, which runs directly through the marshy grounds, but late investigations do not seem to be able to fasten the blame to this source. The railway company has been lending all possible aid to the farmers in their efforts to cope with the disastrous fires and have had two of their section crews on the grounds since Saturday.

Several farmers who had hay on the low grounds hauled it to higher grounds and even plowed a good-sized fire break around it, but even this in some instances did not help them as it has been so dry that the very ground catches fire and burns. In a number of places it is reported that the peat in the ground has burned to a depth of three or four feet.

Primary Bill Passed.

Denver, Colo., Oct. 15.—Both houses of the legislature passed the direct primary bill, which now goes to the governor for his signature. The bill carries a modified convention or "assembly" clause, all the candidates in the "assembly" receiving 10 per cent of the vote to have their names on the ticket.

Sherman and Root on Stump.

New York, Oct. 15.—Vice President Sherman will take the stump for the Republican state ticket nominated by the Saratoga convention, which declined to accept him as its temporary chairman. Senator Root will also speak for the ticket.

FUND PASSES $17,000 MARK

Contributions for Fire Sufferers Within $3,000 of Desired Sum.

Believed That $20,000 Will Be Secured By Sunday Night.

Cash contributions and pledges to the fund being raised in Duluth for the relief of the fire sufferers on the border amounted to over $17,000 at noon today.

The public affairs committee, which has charge of the relief work, has $8,970.30 in cash on hand, which includes most of The Herald fund. The jobbers' and board of trade funds have not yet been turned over to the committee and a number of workers on the Commercial club fund have not turned in their complete lists, so that the total amount of the fund is much greater than the amount of money on hand.

The workers are hurrying their work and collections of pledges will be made immediately, so that the money may be available as soon as possible. Cash is needed by the relief committee on the border and the restoration of the towns and settlements destroyed by the flames cannot be begun in earnest until the committee has money with which to work.

The city set out to raise $20,000, and this total will in all probability be reached by tomorrow night, as many churches will take up a collection tomorrow for the purpose.

COPPERS RESPOND TO LIGHT BUYING

Pressure Disappears After Early Hours---Shorts Take to Cover.

The copper leaders advanced sharply today and most of the low priced issues moved forward smoothly. In a few instances, such as Hancock, in which the stocks had been subject to unusual advances there was some profit-taking. In the early hour the market developed a slight weakness on account of profit-taking but toward noon short covering came in the market and the weakness instantly disappeared. The leaders jumped forward and held their advance well.

The market displayed stubborn resistance to pressure and when the load was removed it reacted buoyantly and a small volume of buying orders sufficed to jack up values swiftly. After the early hours there was practically no pressure.

London copper metal was stronger today. England has been a heavy buyer of the red metal for the last two weeks. The tendency of prices is upward and some people predict 13c for electrolytic copper within the near future. There is a more optimistic feeling in regard to the future prices of the red metal.

A Calumet special to The Herald today said that production of the Bisbee district of the Calumet & Arizona for September was 2,400,000 pounds and of the Courtland district, 135,000 pounds. The production of Superior & Pittsburg was 2,125,000 pounds.

The local market had a good undertone and in the short session it was moderately active. Summit was especially strong and advanced from 41 cents to 45 cents and closed with bids at 47 cents. Butte-Ballaklava sold at $5.37½. Denn at $3.75, $3.62½ and $3.75, Red Warriod was firm at $2 and toward the close it sold at $2.06¼. Warrior sold at $7, Amazon at $2.37½ to $2.50 and Calumet & Montana at 94 cents and 95 cents. St. Mary's sold at 18 cents, 17 cents and 18 cents, and Tuolumne at $4.12½, $4.18¾, $4.25 and off to $4.

In the East Butte-Ballaklava sold at $5.25 to $5.12½. Amalgamated at $69.25, $68.87½ to $70, the highest price this stock has recorded in several months. Calumet & Arizona sold at $60.25, $60.50 and $60. Giroux at $8, Greene at $8 to $7.87½. Superiod & Pittsburg at $13.50, Ray Consolidated at $20.25 to $21.25, Lake at $35 to $35.75 and North Butte at $32.75 to $33, $32.50 to $33.

The Inspiration Copper company has sold to new interests the 200,000 shares of treasury stock at $10 per share, making the total amount of stock outstanding 1,000,000 shares. The company has in its treasury $2,000,000 cash for plant construction purposes. In connection with the sale of stock it is stated that work will commence at once on the proposed 5,000-ton mill. The company is now financed for at least two years. The purchasers of the stock include Hayden, Stone & Co., Thompson, Towle & Co., and other interests who are identified through actual control or partial ownership of the Utah Copper company, Nevada Consolidated Copper company, Ray Consolidated Copper company, Chino Copper company, Mason Valley and other porphyry mines.

Thompson, Towle & Co., say: The recent buying of Superior & Pittsburg, which has advanced the price about a point, would seem to have some justification from property conditions, judging from the following dispatch from our E. N. Skinner, who is now in Bisbee, Ariz.

He wires, "Developments on the 1,500-foot level of the Junction mine of the Superior & Pittsburg properties are very important. They have an ore body already developed 375 feet long and 50 feet wide, averaging 10 per cent copper, which is continuous from the thirteenth to the fifteenth levels. Both the Superior & Pittsburg and the Calumet & Arizona are curtailing production 16 per cent, which was started the middle of September, reducing the output from these properties to 4,000,000 from 4,400,00 pounds per month. The full effect of this curtailment, however, will not be apparent until the month of October. Dr. L. D. Rickette and Prof. James Douglas have completed their examinations of both properties, which will decide the possibilities for the consolidation of the two. The Calumet & Arizona company is apparently holding its own, while there is every indication of the Superior & Pittsburg making a big mine."

FRIENDLESS MAN DIES AT HOSPITAL.

Picked up by the police on Lake avenue, apparently friendless and penniless, a sick man, who gave his name as Seipp, died at St. Luke's hospital this afternoon after an illness of two days at the institution. He was found Thursday on the Lake avenue viaduct and since that time he has been in the hospital. The body was removed to the undertaking rooms of Durkan & Crawford. Seipp was well advanced in age and little is known about him.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

WALKER ON THE METAL

Says Domestic Consumers Show Greater Disposition to Buy.

Walker's copper letter in Saturday's Boston Commercial says:

"Copper is stronger. Lake is now 13c and electrolytic is 12¾c a pound. Domestic consumers are showing an increased disposition to buy, and foreign consumers are purchasing heavily. Although a great many rumors are in circulation to the effect that the brass business is getting slack, there is absolutely reliable information which goes to prove that the consumption of copper is still steadily increasing, both in this country and in Europe.

"The figures presented by the Copper Producers' association, covering the month of September, were even more favorable than expected. The American surplus decreased 20,087,531 pounds, and the world's visible surplus showed a shrinkage during the month of about 28,000,000 pounds. There was a heavy increase in exports, and only a slight decrease in domestic deliveries. Production and imports were much smaller. The general turn for the better, indicated by this report, was brought about without the aid of the production curtailment which began about two months ago, and which could not have been reflected in September refinery output. The producers' reports of the coming several months, therefore, should show much larger decreases in the world's surplus, and before next year is far advanced the statistical position of the metal should again be very strong.

"Consumption will go on increasing as long as the metal remains at its present low price level; and this, of course, will be necessary in order to absorb the existing surplus of copper, the accumulated old metal in the hands of dealers and the current heavy production. It is now very plain, however, that the accumulation of surplus supplies is a thing of the past, and that the metal situation is steadily growing stronger. Within a few months copper should advance to 14 cents a pound."

$00 RESTAURANT MAN IS FINED AT MARQUETTE.

Marquette, Mich., Oct. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Bush, a restaurant keeper of Sault Ste. Marie, who was indicted by the federal grand jury last week and pleaded guilty to having sold intoxicating liquor without a government license, was fined by Judge Denison $150 and given thirty days in the custody of the marshal. The marshal decided that nothing would be gained by remanding Bush to prison and he was permitted to go home on a promise of good behavior.

Mayville Fears Water Famine.
Mayville, N. D., Oct. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fearing that the winter weather will result in shutting off the city's water supply entirely by freezing the river all the way to the bottom, this city has decided to construct a dam and thus store up enough water to last through the winter. Goose river furnishes the local water supply.

Attorney Wins Libel Suit.

THE DISSOLVING PROCESS

Which we use in our practice of curing men of the worst kind of diseases, is a great step forward in medical science.

Years of experimental work were necessary before it was brought to its present high state of perfection.

If you have ever suffered, you know how little relief you can get from drugs alone, and the doctor who relies only on drugs for curing an ill shows that he is not keeping up with the progressive physicians.

We do not pour drugs into the stomach and thus disturb all the natural functions of that organ, but we get the medicine into the body, by wire as it were, through our dissolving process.

For example; a man comes to us suffering badly from peritonitis. To relieve the pain and swelling, we connect one wire to the patient's right leg, the other to the seat of the trouble, all parts and the whole side being covered with asceptic gauze, saturated with a solution of medicine. The electric current is turned on from a machine of our own invention, and immediately the pains subside and swelling diminishes. The patient is not yet cured, still this illustration shows that we do not pour drugs into the body like some physicians do.

We have the proper equipments and employ doctors of renowned skill who cure intelligently, surely and safely.

Call on us today, men. Consultations are free.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

FAIR

There was a foggy chill in the air last night, which made light overcoats comfortable, but that is to be expected in October and on the whole the weather man is behaving nicely. The sun is trying to break through the clouds today and the weather man promises generally fair weather tonight and tomorrow.

Crisp autumn weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 6:26 and it will set at 5:21, giving 10 hours and 55 minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

Barometric depressions centered over Western Ontario, California and the West Indies, respectively, caused rains over Eastern Canada, extreme Southwestern states and Florida during the last twenty-four hours. Warmer weather also prevails throughout the greater section of the Northwest. Areas of high barometer overlie Idaho, the lower Missouri valley and North Atlantic districts. Conditions favor generally fair weather at the Head of the Lakes during the ensuing thirty-six hours.

General Forecasts.

Chicago, Oct. 15.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Sunday:

Minnesota, Iowa and North Dakota—Generally fair tonight and Sunday.

Upper Michigan—Fair tonight and Sunday; cooler in northwest portion tonight and in northern portion Sunday; light frost tonight.

Wisconsin—Partly cloudy tonight and Sunday.

Southern Dakota—Fair tonight and Sunday; cooler tonight in west portion.

Montana—Generally fair tonight and Sunday; cooler tonight in northeast portion.

Upper Lakes: Moderate winds, mostly west tonight and Sunday; fair weather.

GARY TALKS ON STEEL PRICES

Says Law Does Not Order Competition But Only Bars Agreements.

New York, Oct. 15.—E. H. Gary, chairman of the board of directors of the United States Steel corporation, delivered the principal address at the annual meeting of the American Iron and Steel institute, a co-operative gathering of kindred trade interests. The speech was largely technical, but toward the end he talked of policy in the matter of prices. He said:

"It would be better for us all and better for the country if conditions in all departments of business were more stable and less likely to be disturbed by agitation, doubt or distrust. It sometimes has been urged that an effort to maintain reasonable prices for iron and steel is contrary to the natural laws of trade; that it is opposed to the law of supply and demand. This we do not admit. We do not undertake or advocate anything that is unreasonable, unnatural or unfair.

Wait for Low Prices.

"If prices are at any time higher than they ought to be, the consumer, whatever his pecuniary ability to pay may be, should wait until the prices are reduced. If the attitude of both seller and purchaser should be suggested, it would not be long before they would get together on a proper basis. A real, hearty cheerful and continued co-operation on the part of the members of this institute will secure results which should be entirely satisfactory.

"You have no right to enter into any agreement, expressed or implied; the laws of this country are opposed to it. But, as stated by the attorney general of the United States before the supreme court in the Standard Oil case, the law does not compel competition; it only prohibits an agreement not to compete.

Rights of Employes.

"Uppermost in our minds should be the proper consideration of the rights of our employes. We should make it certain that all are so located that they have the opportunity to be well housed, and well fed and well clothed. The wages paid should always be fair and reasonable.

"Particularly have we made great strides toward safeguarding our employes against accidental injuries. A continuation of these efforts will result in securing a larger measure of confidence on their part.

WINDING UP LONG JOURNEY IN CANOE

Two Minneapolis Men Paddle From Canadian Northwest to This State.

Grand Forks, N. D., Oct. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Paddling in a canoe up the Red river and into the Ded Lake river, thence into the Red lake and thence into various other lakes and streams with Minneapolis as their final destination, John Houston and Clarence Connor, claiming that city as their home ae making good time on a remarkable journey.

On July 2 last, they left Minneapolis for Edmonton, Can., arriving there on July 3. There they supplied themselves with provisions and made a tramp on the old so-called St. Paul trail to Athabaska landing, traveling nearly ninety miles where they struck a branch of the North Saskatchewan, where they purchased a substantial canoe from an Indian. The journey was then commenced down the Saskatchewan past Prince Albert, and by a six miles portage used many years ago by the Hudson Bay company, they got into Lake Winnipegosis. Here an improvised sail was made from a blanket which has helped in their progress since wherever the wind has been favorable. A portage from Winnipegosis to Lake Assinaboine completed their connection with the Red river.

TWO NEW YORK BROKERS FAIL

Minzesheimer & Co., and Thomas G. Gaylord Make Assignments.

New York, Oct. 15.—Two New York brokerage houses failed yesterday with liabilities aggregating nearly $2,000,000. One is the stock exchange firm of Charles Minzesheimer & Co., the other the firm of Thomas G. Gaylord, who was engaged in business under the name of Latham, Alexander & Co., cotton and stock brokers.

In each case an assignment for the benefit of creditors was made. Bainbridge Colby, attorney for the firm, was named as assignee by the Minzesheimer company.

With the announcement of the assignment, creditors of Minzesheimer & Co. presented a petition in involuntary bankruptcy against the concern and Edward G. Benedict was named as receiver. The petition in bankruptcy alleges that the liabilities exceed $1,000,000 and consist chiefly of loans from banks and trust companies. The collateral securing these obligations is estimated to be worth 20 per cent more than the claims.

Death Cause of Trouble.

In a statement, Mr. Colby, speaking for members of the firm, estimates the liabilities at $1,750,000 with assets of $1,250,000. He said, however, that the embarrassment was only temporary and predicted an early settlement with all creditors on a satisfactory basis. He denied a report that the firm was heavily interested in the short side of the market, and explained that the death on May 4 of Clarence Minzesheimer, former head of the firm and son of its founder, resulted in weakening the company's finances and necessitated temporary suspension for purposes of reorganization.

Present members of the Minzesheimer firm are: Arthur W. Joseph, Frank Maguire, Herbert A. Rosenfeld and Allan F. Cohn. It was founded about forty years ago by Charles Minzesheimer, who later retired. Its business for a long time was extensive and it has two branch houses in this city and one in Chicago.

The Gaylord Failure.

The Gaylord failure was not regarded in financial circles as of particular significance, as the business was only moderately large and he had no exchange connections. No statement regarding the finances of the firm was made.

Murderer Found in Quarry.

Quincy, Mass., Oct. 15.—The body of Luigi Restelli, the former granite manufacturer who shot six persons, two fatally, in this city last summer, has been found in an abandoned quarry hole near the scene of one of his crimes. He had committed suicide on the day of the murders.

In order to make death by drowning certain, he had atached to himself two pneumatic hammers weighing seventy-five pounds, and then handcuffed his wrists together.

LAND FRAUD TRUE BILLS

Seven Indictments Returned in Alaska Coal Land Cases.

Three Arrests at Seattle---One Accused Man Dead---Glavis's Work Shows.

Washington, Oct. 15.—After months of secret effort and patient waiting, the officials of the general land office here announced the indictment of a number of claimants to valuable coal lands in Alaska.

The entries involved number 154 and cover almost 17,000 acres of land, all of which lies in the Bering strait district, in which the Cunningham claims are located. They are what are known as the English, or Stracey, and the Christopher-Simmonds groups, the former containing eighty and the latter forty claims of 160 acres each. The deposits covered by these claims are believed to be as rich as those of the Cunningham mines, which cut a conspicuous figure in the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy. They are valued by the government at $100,000,000.

Seven Men Indicted.

The indictments were handed down in the United States district court, sitting at Tacoma, Wash., and resulted from the efforts of Special Agent Christensen, in charge of Alaskan matters. The indictments are against C. F. Monday, A. C. Stracey, Archie W. Shields, E. E. Siegley, in the first group, and Cornelius Christopher, George Simmonds and Mortimer C. Sweeney in the second.

Stracey, one of the men indicted is a resident of Vancouver and is charged with being instrumental in making some of the locations. Monday is an attorney in Seattle.

The charge against the indicted men is that the entries were made in the names of "dummies." The charge differs from the charge made in the Cunningham claims, in which there was no allegation that the entrymen took the claims for persons other than themselves, but rather that they had a previous agreement to work or dispose of their claims as a unit. It is said that few of the claimants in the new cases ever saw the land on which their names were used for locations.

Figured in Inquiry.

Both groups of claims figured to a considerable extent with the Ballinger-Pinchot inquiry. Charges of fraud in connection with the entries were made two years ago and it was asserted that investigation had been stayed by the land office, supposedly for some sinister purpose.

It also is known that another federal grand jury, sitting at Spokane in connection with the district court of the Eastern district of Washington, is considering still other charges of fraud in coal entries in Alaska, and that results are expected from these investigations similar to those obtained at Tacoma is evident.

Three Give Bonds.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 15.—Charles F. Monday, George Simmonds and Cornelius Christopher, all prominent Seattle men, have been arrested here on indictments charging conspiracy to defraud the government in Alaskan coal lands. They were released under bonds of $2,500 each.

Warrants also have been issued for the arrest of Algernon S. Stracey, an Englishman, Archie W. Shiels and Earle E. Siegley. Siegley was private secretary to the late Michael J. Heney, the contractor, who was building the Copper River railroad in Alaska for the Guggenheims.

Mortimer C. Sweeney, the seventh man for whom an indictment was returned, is dead.

Unearthed By Glavis.

All the Alaska coal claims, it is charged, were investigated and suspended by L. R. Glavis, who a year ago laid the matter before United States Attorney Todd in this city. Mr. Todd pointed out that there never had been any criminal prosecutions under the coal claims laws, and referred Mr. Glavis to the interior department. The department obtained first notice of the Stracey deal in 1892, when no coal land laws were applicable to Alaska.

It is charged that Monday induced the government to pass the Alaska coal land act of 1904. With this law behind him, Stracey, it is claimed, rushed forty-two of his employes, some of whom were unable to speak English, into Alaska, and induced them to file on the coal claims.

In the case of Christopher, the government charges that he, in company with Mortimer C. Sweeney, now dead, and George Simmonds, conspired in 1904 and 1905, to secure title to 11,000 acres of coal lands.

Three companies were subsequently formed, it is alleged, to secure patents under the act of May 26, 1908, consisting of the Cleveland Coal company, organized under the laws of Maryland, which took over sixteen claims; the Pittsburg Coal company, sixteen claims, and the Youngstown Coal company, fifteen claims.

NEGRO KILLS TWO AND WOUNDS TEN OTHERS.

Huntington, W. Va., Oct. 15.—Two persons were killed, two fatally wounded and five seriously wounded in a fight for the capture of George, alias "Red" Johnson, a fugitive negro. He shot and probably fatally wounded Detective George Lentz when the latter attempted to arrest him and shot seven members of the posse before being killed.

After fatally shooting Detective Lentz, the negro escaped into the hills back of the city and barricaded himself in a cliff, where he defied arrest. A posse led by bloodhounds soon trailed the negro to the cliff. When he saw the posse approaching, the negro opened fire and Charles Hale, who was following the hounds, was shot. A moment later George Blas fell with a bullet through his head. He died a short time later.

Mob Seized the Body.

The posse retreated to await reinforcements. When it advanced the second time, Johnson opened fire. During the fusilade, Chief of Police Clengpeel climbed to the top of the cliff, where the negro was barricaded, and getting the drop on him, shot him dead. The body rolled out into view and a mob dragged it down the hill to the city limits. Chief Clengpeel addressed the crowd, which apparently was bent on mutilating the body, and succeeded in getting it to the morgue, where later it was viewed by several thousand persons.

An examination showed that the negro had been shot nine times.

BRAINERD HAS RAISED OVER $2,000 FOR VICTIMS.

Brainerd, Minn., Oct. 15.—In half a day committees of the Commercial club raised over $2,000 for the fire sufferers. Lists are also being circulated at the shops and in town which will increase the amount of the contributions. Yesterday afternoon the Woman's Relief corps made a shipment of supplies to Baudette and on Tuesday will make another shipment.

ANTI-WHITE PLAGUE CAMPAIGN AT BRAINERD.

Brainerd, Minn., Oct. 15.—On Oct. 24 and 25 a steroptican picture exhibition and lecture will be given in the interest of the tuberculosis campaign now being conducted by the state board of health. The exhibition and lecture will be conducted by J. R. Dicky of the state board and on Thursday, Dr. Hill, a tuberculosis specialist, will deliver an address.

POLITICAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

Candidate for Judge of Probate

THOMAS J. McKEON

To the Voters of St. Louis County:

Mr. McKeon is a candidate for the office of judge of probate of this county and the following are the reasons because of which it is urged he should receive your votes:

The office in this large county should be filled by a trained lawyer.

Mr. McKeon is a graduate of Notre Dame and Michigan universities, coming to Duluth in 1892 from a full three-years' course in law, finished at the Harvard law school in Cambridge, Mass. He was admitted to the supreme judicial court of that commonwealth in 1892, and has been in active practice in this city ever since, during four years of which he was associate city attorney, and his record in that office compares favorably with any who have ever occupied that position. If you elect him he promises that all his time shall be devoted faithfully to the duties of the office.

When you have the choice between two men whose general education is equal and one has not the advantage of legal training and many years' experience in the practice of law, and the office is one requiring such knowledge and experience, should not the voter give the preference to the experienced lawyer, irrespective of the party label he may bear, provided he is an honest man?

Mr. Gilpin, his opponent, is not a lawyer. Mr. McKeon has nothing to say against him as a man and a good citizen, but he does say you should elect an experienced lawyer to the office of probate judge of this great county.

Vote for an experienced attorney.

THOMAS J. McKEON.

John Lind to Help North Dakotans Re-Elect John Burke—Speaking Dates of Republican Spell-Binders Announced—Democratic Mass Meeting Here Wednesday Evening—Mr. Miller Exhibits Peevish Mood—Move to Help Saugstad—Five Lake County Lawyers Want One Job—R. Lee Still Dizzy.

John Lind will not devote all of his time and attention to the campaign in Minnesota, but also will give North Dakota an opportunity to hear him.

John Lind to Visit North Dakota.

The former governor is scheduled to speak in Grand Forks and Fargo, Oct. 29 — about the time James Gray will be in Duluth. The first address will be delivered in Grand Forks at 10 o'clock in the morning and the Fargo speech will be made at night.

Mr. Lind is so well known all through the Northwest, especially in the states immediately adjoining Minnesota, that the announcement of his prospective incursion has been received with delight by the Democrats of North Dakota, who are putting up a splendid fight for the re-election of John Burke, who seems certain to win his third term fight.

The Democratic state central committee has been forced regretfully to turn down scores of requests that John Lind appear and speak in communities he cannot possibly reach. He is an extremely popular and effective campaigner and much in demand.

"We hope to see every man and woman on the range go to the polls on Nov. 8 and mark an 'X' after her name," says the Coleraine Optic in concluding an editorial announcement of the candidacy of Mrs. Katheryn H. Murchie of Deer River for superintendent of schools of Itasca county. The Optic editorial tells in a sketch way an interesting story of dramatic and pathetic force.

Strong Appeal To Itasca Voters.

Three years ago Mrs. Murchie's husband was so badly injured in a gasoline explosion that he became an invalid for life, and since then Mrs. Murchie has supported him and their son, winning the admiration and respect of the community by her cheerful bravery and capability. She is a graduate of an Eastern normal school and has had several years' experience as a teacher. "Mrs. Murchie needs the office and the county needs a person of her fitness and ability," remarks the Optic.

She is in the field as an independent candidate.

Governor Eberhart has returned to St. Paul from the fire zone, and will start out on his interrupted campaigning tour next week. Sam Y. Gordon, Republican candidate for lieutenant governor, will speak Wednesday evening at Anoka, at the invitation of the optimists of that county. Walter J. Smith of Eveleth, candidate for state treasurer, also will attend this meeting, as will C. B. Miller of Duluth, Anoka being in the Eighth congressional district. Senator Clapp will be in Duluth two days, Oct. 19 and 20, speaking on the 20th at the banquet of the Young Men's Republican club and the preceding day probably at a meeting to be arranged by the Republican county committee.

State Campaign Dates Fixed.

These dates have been announced by Simon Michelet, manager of the speakers' bureau at Republican headquarters in St. Paul:

Governor Eberhart—Oct. 17, Le Sueur Center in the forenoon, Winthrop evening; Oct. 18, Wood Lake forenoon, St. Paul, Mozart hall, evening; Oct. 19, Houston afternoon, Caledonia evening; Oct. 20, Preston afternoon, Spring Valley evening; Oct. 21, Heron Lake; Oct. 22, Center City.

Senator Nelson—Oct. 15, Alexandria; Oct. 20, Bemidji; Oct. 21, McIntosh; Oct. 22, Crookston.

Senator Clapp—Oct. 17, New London afternoon, Willmar evening; Oct. 18, St. Paul; Oct. 19, Duluth; Oct. 20, Duluth; Oct. 21, Heron Lake; Oct. 22, St. Charles afternoon, Rochester evening.

Frank Eddy—Oct. 18, Fish Lake; Oct. 19, Isanti; Oct. 20, Swanville; Oct. 21, Motley.

James Larson—Long Prairie, Oct. 18; Hewitt, Oct. 19.

S. Y. Gordon—Oct. 18, Cambridge; Oct. 19, Anoka; Oct. 21, Heron Lake; Oct. 22, Center City.

Elmquist—Oct. 19, Mapleton; Oct. 20, University, Minneapolis; Oct. 22, Dawson.

J. H. Davidson—Oct. 20, Garden City.

Franklin F. Ellsworth—Oct. 17, Lake Crystal; Oct. 18, Amboy; Oct. 19, Sherburn; Oct. 20, Truman; Oct. 21, Heron Lake; Oct. 22, Worthington.

Sydney Anderson—Oct. 17, Wabasha; Oct. 18, Mazeppa; Oct. 18, Zumbrota Falls; Oct. 20, Stewartville; Oct. 21, Alden; Oct. 22, Rice Land.

There will be a Democratic mass meeting next Wednesday evening in Rowley hall, on West First street between First and Second avenues. The Third ward Democratic organization is arranging for the meeting, which promises to be a large and interesting one, with prominent local speakers on the program, and some from outside points may be secured. There will be music and refreshments and every one, irrespective of party affiliation, has been invited to attend and hear the issues of the day discussed.

Mass Meeting To Be Held Wednesday Evening.

Clarence B. Miller, a visitor at the Republican state headquarters in St. Paul yesterday, was asked there what he thought of the political situation in this part of the state, and he is quoted as having said the Democrats were paying altogether too much attention to the congressional contest. Quite naturally, being of the Eberhart political school, he predicted that the Republican candidate for governor will have a substantial majority in St. Louis county. Also he conceded his own re-election.

Miller Peevish About Things.

Mr. Miller is getting really peevish. He doesn't like the way the Democrats are carrying on and is exceedingly free in saying so. His comment on what is said by Judge Jaques in his speeches is not calculated to impress the listener as praise of the judge, nor is it likely to impress the listener with the idea that Mr. Miller is incapable or resorting to unparliamentary language.

In the meantime, Judge Jaques is concluding his range tour with W. E. McEwen, meeting with unprecedented encouragement for an opposition candidate for congress and convincing his audiences that his arraignment of Congressman Miller is justified by the record. Undoubtedly the judge has done a great deal of good for himself during this tour, which ends with a rally at Chisholm tonight. Commissioner McEwen and Judge Jaques will return to Duluth tomorrow morning, as will Walter F. Dacey, candidate for county attorney, and Thomas J. McKeon, nominee for judge of probate.

Gustave J. De Mars of Fertile, Polk county, Prohibition nominee for the state senate, has formally withdrawn. This move probably is made for the purpose of advancing the cause of John Saugstad, whom Senator Stephens defeated at the primaries, but who is expected to get many votes in November by the sticker route. Saugstad is an optionist and has been a member of the house, with a considerable following in the Sixty-second. With the Prohibition candidate's name eliminated from the ballot, it may be the Saugstad men, who are making an organized fight against Stephens in suite of his victory over them at the primaries, believe votes which otherwise would go to Stephens will be given to Saugstad.

De Mars Makes Way for John Saugstad.

John Kinsella has joined the association of candidates for office of county attorney of Lake county, which probably will never hold a meeting, as it will be short lived, Nov. 8 being the limit of its endurance. Kinsella has come out as an independent. J. Gilbert Jelle and John Olson have previously declared their intentions and begun the circulation of petitions.

Five Candidates Three Independents.

John Dwan and D. H. Lawrence are the regularly nominated candidates and the general belief is that the fight is between them, with Dwan's chances bright.

Rudolph Lee, defeated candidate for senator from the Fifty-third district, devotes about three columns of space in his paper, the Long Prairie Leader, to a continuation of his propaganda against W. R. MacKenzie, secretary of the Northern Minnesota Development association, which it was supposed he had dropped, in view of the general disfavor with which it was received from the start.

Lee Is Hammering Away.

The original charge was that Secretary MacKenzie was using his influence in behalf of Senator Johnston because Lee had refused to sign the reapportionment pledge, he considering it more important to be free for action favorable to the option cause than to be definitely classed with the reapportionists. Lee is alleged to have said in a speech that the Northern Minnesota Development assocoation was being used as a tool of the brewery combine, and when he was denounced by Mr. MacKenzie for insulting the membership of the association by such words, he came back with an editorial in which he made the bald assertion that MacKenzie was responsible for the posting of certain campaign placards that described anti-Lee candidates as being pro-development men, which in fact they are. However, MacKenzie denies any connection with this phase of the case, and is supported in this contention by Editor Sheets of Akeley, who printed the placards.

To the unprejudiced reader, it would seem that Mr. Lee is hardly fair. In construing some of the comment quoted in part by the Leader, he shows a tendency wrongly to assume that MacKenzie's fault is conceded.

There will be a meeting of the West Duluth Republican club at the West Duluth Commercial club's quarters this evening. There will be speaking by candidates and others.

Square Deal Wins Success for Specialist

DR. A. M. LOUGHNEY.

"What has been the secret of your success?" was asked of A. M. Loughney of Loughney & Loughney's Bake Oven, third floor Christie building, Duluth, a few days ago.

"I treat every one fairly," declared the well-known specialist on rheumatic, stomach, bowel, liver and kidney troubles. "I tell each patient his trouble and thoroughly diagnose the case without asking questions. I charge nothing for consultation. I turn scores of people away who call to take my treatment. I only handle cases I can get the best results with. I don't promise anything I cannot fulfill. These, I believe, are the chief points of my success."

Hundreds of men and women, many of whom are prominent socially and in business, are living testimonials of the merit of the wonderful Bake Oven. They are now enjoying good health for the first time in many years, and they all agree that the Bake Oven is the medium through which health was restored to them. The Bake Oven is a clear scientific invention. It's no experiment, for its value has been proved for years. No bad results can come. It's simple, yet effective, and disease readily yields to treatment by it.

Loughney & Loughney occupy all of the offices on the third floor of the Christie building, located on Fourth avenue west, between First and Second streets. Consultation is free. Hours: 8 a. m. to 7 p. m.; Sundays, 9 to 12.

UNITED EVANGELICAL CHURCH CONFERENCE.

Canton, Ohio, Oct. 15.—The quadrennial conference of the United Evangelical church yesterday refused to elect a general secretary for the Keystone League of Christian Endeavor, thereby rejecting a long-discussed report of a committee.

Bishop Charles of Portland, Or., represented the Methodist Episcopal church in extending fraternal greetings. He advocated the establishment of a working agreement between the two denominations. Dr. J. H. Patterson of Akron bore greetings from the United Brethren denomination. He asked for an actual union of the denominations.

The privilege of canvassing the church for the purpose of raising $25,000 endowment for Dallas college, at Dallas, Or., was granted to the Oregon conference.

JUSTICE O'BRIEN TO BE SPEAKER

Will Make Address at Banquet of Duluth Knights of Columbus.

The banquet, which was to have been held by Duluth council, Knights of Columbus, Wednesday evening of this week in observance of Columbus day, will be held Monday evening, Oct. 24, in the Knights of Columbus hall on First street.

Heading the list of speakers will be Bishop James McGolrick of Duluth, Justice Thomas D. O'Brien of the supreme court of Minnesota, and W. D. Dwyer, formerly of Superior and now of St. Paul. Other speakers of local reputation will be John Dwan of Two Harbors, James P. Boyle of Eveleth, Father Floyd of Eveleth, Leo A. Ball and John D. Mahon, grand knight of Duluth council.

JUSTICE T. D. O'BRIEN.

The banquet will be preceded by a reception, which will mark the opening of the new hall and clubrooms of the Duluth council in the building at 210 West First street. The banquet will be followed by the program of musical numbers and addresses, the themes of the speakers to be centered around the life of the great Genoan and the significance of Columbus day, which is now a holiday by statute in fifteen states, a movement being will under way to make it a national holiday.

Well Known Hotel Keeper Uses and Recommends Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

"I take pleasure in saying that I have kept Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in my family medicine chest for about fifteen years, and have always had satisfactory results from its use. I have administered it to a great many traveling men who were suffering from troubles for which it is recommended, and have never failed to relieve them," says J. C. Jenkins, of Glasgow, Ky. This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

BIG AIRSHIP STARTS OUT OVER OCEAN.

he declared that the America would leave the ground within an hour.

Floated Into Fog.

It was 8:30 a. m. when the big craft left the ground. It floated right into the fog off shore, and within five minutes was lost to sight.

When the big airship left the ground Mr. Wellman did not know whether only a test flight would be made or if the trip to Europe would be started at once. It depended on how he found things when he got into the air, he said. Wireless messages received after the start brought word that the America was not on a trial trip, but was to attempt the Trans-Atlantic flight at once.

When he left here it was Wellman's intention to go north, following the New Jersey coast as far as New York. If he found that the airship was working to his satisfaction and that conditions remained right, he intended following the route of steamers up to Nantucket and then turn eastward and follow the tracks of the trans-Atlantic liners across the ocean.

Carries a Lifeboat.

He expected to make every effort to keep in the steamship tracks, so that in case of accident he would be close to steamers with wireless, with which the airship is also equipped, and could be quickly rescued if the crew was compelled to take to the lifeboat attached to the America.

As the balloon went into the air a parting cheer was given by about 1,000 persons.

Cheered By Crowd.

The six cool-headed heroes of the air waved their "goodbye" and climbed into the car of the immense gasbag and floated off in the dense fog that enveloped the entire island, while the crowd kept cheering.

At 10 a. m. the fog had partially lifted, but the America was out of sight from the beach and Boardwalk. The wireless aboard the balloon was probably not yet working, as no word had been picked up at wireless stations here.

This trip was scheduled as a mere trial, but the grim statement of Chief Engineer Melvin Vaniman that "we won't come back until we have had a try to Europe," was believed to mean that the men will not return unless some accident befalls the ship. It carries provisions for one month.

Dense fog with no wind made the conditions perfect and the balloon was out of sight almost immediately. The last reported sight of the America and its crew was secured by a volunteer crew of the yacht Olive, belonging to Col. Thomas Potter of Philadelphia, which guided the balloon out of the inlet.

Might Keep Going.

Just before starting, Chief Engineer Vaniman informed Mrs. Vaniman and friends that there was every reason to believe that the weather conditions would warrant the trip being continued, in the effort to cross the ocean.

Thousands of people were on the beach and on the Boardwalk watching for the big balloon in case a return is attempted. Wireless operators on Pier stations are being besieged with inquiries.

The work of getting the America out of the hangar began at about 7 o'clock. Sixty local policemen and firemen assisted Mr. Wellman and his crew.

Col. Potter's small motor yacht, by means of a rope, towed the airship the few hundred feet necessary to reach the water's edge. Those gathered to witness the start declare the sight was beautiful.

Provisions for a Month.

There are six men on the airship and they are supplied with provisions, mostly of the canned variety, sufficient to last them a month. The only means of cooking is with a small oil stove, but this, Mr. Wellman says, will do all the cooking they require.

Each man is provided with two uniforms, one of khaki and a much heavier one for use in case extraordinary cold weather is encountered.

It was estimated that the two engines, which were working perfectly, were pushing the balloon through the air at the rate of twenty-six miles an hour.

The crew aboard the America when she left the ground included Walter Wellman, Melvin Vaniman, chief engineer; F. Murry Simons, navigator of the expedition; J. K. Irwin, wireless operator, in charge of the America's system, and Albert Louis Loud and John Aubert, assistant engineers.

Can Carry Twelve Tons.

The airship's gasbag has something of the shape of a cigar and is 228 feet long. Its width is about fifty-two feet and it is said to be capable of lifting about twelve tons. The envelope carrying the gas weighs more than two tons.

Attached to the big gas bag is a car 156 feet long. The floor of this is really a large flat tank in which the gasoline is stored for the motors. The America carries three gasoline engines, one of which is a donkey and the other two are used for motive power. They are in the center of the car and are of about 80-horse power. A lifeboat twenty-seven feet long, to be used in case the balloon is wrecked, hangs beneath.

An equilibrator, 330 feet long, which takes the place of a drag rope used on balloons, is also carried. It consists of a long steel cable to which are attached thirty small steel tanks, each carrying seventy-five pounds of gasoline, and forty wooden blocks. The blocks are about twenty inches long. The equilibrator makes it unnecessary to carry ballast. It was intended that the balloon shall sail at a height of about 200 feet.

Big Supply of Gasoline.

If it settles close to the water the wood blocks and the tanks will float, thus relieving the balloon of some of its weight. As the gasoline is required the steel cable will be pulled up into the car of the balloon and a tank emptied.

Altogether the America carries 9,000 pounds of gasoline.

The craft is as thoroughly equipped with sextants, compasses and other instruments for locating positions as are the big ocean liners.

The captain of the yacht Olive when it returned to the inlet, stated that when he had the last glimpse of the airship her engines were not working. A member of the crew counted that the balloon would be kept in the air and every effort would be made to keep the engines in good shape for a trip across the ocean. The captain did not know whether the engines had been started.

After the airship rose and went out of sight it developed that one member of the crew had been left behind. He is Jean Jacon, the French motor expert.

At 11:05 the first wireless dispatch from the America was received here. "Headed Northeast," it said. "All well on board; machinery working fine. Good bye. J. Irwin."

Wireless Operator Miller just before noon had again spoken to the America through a vessel between the airship and the shore. While the message was not entirely plain its purport was that Wellman and his crew had decided to make the daring attempt to reach Europe.

"We are headed due northeast, but have taken no observation and will not know our exact location until noon," he read.

The America's wireless apparatus has a radius of about 100 miles.

Another message received here at 12 o'clock brought the news from Wellman that the start has been made for Europe. The America was making twenty knots an hour, according to Wellman, with the course laid east by northeast.

"All well on board, fog lifting at 11:15 and every bit of machinery working smoothly," said the message.

At 12:20 p. m. a message was sent by Operator Irwin on the America, was picked up by the United Wireless station in this city. It said:

"Still going to sea. Were forced to stop motors to put wireless outfit in working order. Now able to work wireless, and motors again started."

Message to Backers.

The first message from Wellman and his crew to the local men who backed his enterprise arrived at 1 p. m. It was directed to Joseph W. Salus, president of the local syndicate which has supported the project. It says:

"All did nobly. We are doing our best to repay your loyal support.

"WELLMAN."

In reply to the message, Operator Miller flashed the following message to all ships within his sending zone, with the request that they pick up the America as soon as possible.

"Walter Wellman, aboard the airship America:

"Great work. One of the achievements of the century. Plaudits from everybody. Our best wishes and godspeed to yourself and Vaniman. With your family and will stay with them, until we hear that you have reached Europe. Please continue to flash.

"JOSEPH SALUS."

BETHEL FUND TAKES JUMP

Gain of Nearly $3,000 Makes Total Amount Subscribed Over $25,000.

The Bethel building fund leaped to $25,489 today, a gain of $2,963 from Friday noon. This jump of practically $3000 was greeted with a cheer by the assembled team leaders. It was convincing evidence that as the campaign progresses, interest by the public increasing every day.

Next week the efforts of the executive committee among the largest commercial and financial interests of Duluth will begin to show larger results. It is a fact that some of the most notable contributions to the work of the project for a larger Bethel and a larger and better rescue home will be announced next week. It has been recalled that the great campaign out of which came the fine new Y. M. C. A. building hung fire at the eleventh hour many thousands of dollars short of the required amount. Then, suddenly, there was a wave of enthusiasm and at the very last minute the sum needed to complete the amount that had been aimed at developed almost miraculously and the new Y. M. C. A. was assured.

Everything that can be done to make the coming week a record-breaking one in the way of achievement for the great work that has held a large influence in the growth of the city will be done and that there will be some tremendous results is certain.

"A NIGHT OFF."

Farce Being Presented for Benefit of Sibley House Fund.

A large audience saw the first performance of "A Night Off," an uproariously funny farce, which was presented at the Lyceum this afternoon by a clever and capable company of youth amateurs. The performance will be repeated this evening and the prospects are for a crowded house as there is great interest in the performance. The proceeds will go toward restoring Sibley house at Mendota, Minn., the home of the first governor of the state.

The farce is being given under the auspices of the local chapters of the Daughters of the Revolution. Several members prominent in the state work of the society are in the city to attend the performance.

SHORTENS THE TIME TO CHICAGO.

The Installation of two trains by two different roads between Duluth and Chicago so that the departing time is after the arrival of trains from Western Minnesota and North Dakota has put the towns in the territory indicated twelve hours nearer to Chicago. Mail from the West is put on the Chicago trains that leave here in the evening and arrive in the Windy City the following morning. Heretofore people in Northern Minnesota have lost a night here or have been compelled to go to Chicago by way of St. Paul.

THE CHIROPRACTOR AIDS NATURE

Natural Cures Are the Best; The Chiropractor Gives Nature a Chance to Cure.

When a person breaks an arm it is not the doctor who heals the fractured bone, he merely adjusts it and allows nature to do the healing. In fact, no doctor would be able to heal it.

In similar ways all disease should be cured. Nature must have a helper. If she had none in the case of a broken arm; the arm would heal in a way, yet the arm would always give pain and would always be useless if it were not properly adjusted.

If you are suffering from some ailment that seems to give continued pain, the cause is from improper adjustment somewhere in the body, causing pinched nerves, which in turn starve the organ that causes the pain. Since all the nerve centers connects with the spine, it follows than that the spine should always be in perfect health and in proper harmony with all the organs of the body.

The spine gets "out of plum" in many different ways. Sometimes falls, strains, lifting and jars, cause noticeable pains. The less noticeable causes come from our daily work, chief of which is caused by unnatural positions assumed while working.

You may be suffering today from rheumatism, lumbago, dispepsia, constipation or any such disease and doctors have given you bottle after bottle of some drug, which was supposed to cure, but never did. The cause of these diseases is improper positions of the vertibrae of the spine.

The nerves which connect the organ to the spinal cord get pinched and cause a deficiency of the life giving forces; or cause lack of blood; or bring about too much blood in some other part of the body. This is in the nature of a blockade in the human body. It halts the progress of the proper workings of the organs, and naturally pain and disease result.

The way to remove disease and pain is to remove the cause which causes pressure on the nerves. The skilled chiropractor does this. He has studied the elemental causes of disease and removes the primary causes first. The results then are in the hands of nature. The two work in harmony with each other, and thus effect cures where all other methods have failed, simply because the other methods were wrong methods for they tried to remove the effects before the cause were removed.

You may never have known it before, but you should know that in Duluth is the largest and most completely equipped chiropractic offices in the world, under the able direction of Dr. D. W. Riesland.

It goes without saying, that it is here that hundreds have been cured from nearly every kind of disease. Dr. Riesland has proven that the chiropractic methods of curing disease are the safest, surest and they cure effectively and completely.

You should visit him at his offices at 707, 708, 709, 710, 711, 712 Palladio Building, Duluth, Minnesota. Many out-of-town people come miles to get the benefits of his expert skill and advice. You should call on him today.

PUTS AN END TO STOMACH MISERY

Indigestion, Gas, Heartburn or Dyspepsia Vanish in Five Minutes.

Every family here ought to keep some Diapepsin in the house, as any one of you may have an attack of Indigestion or Stomach trouble at any time, day or night.

This harmless preparation will digest anything you eat and overcome a distressed, out-of-order stomach five minutes afterwards.

If your meals don't tempt you, or what little you do eat seems to fill you, or lays like a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of Indigestion.

Ask your Pharmacist for a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin, and take a little just as soon as you can. There will be no sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach, Nausea, Debilitating Headaches, Dizziness or intestinal griping. This will all go, and, besides there will be no sour food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with nauseous odors.

MILLER IS AGAIN HIT

Congressman's Cannon Affiliations Roundly Scored By Judge Jaques.

"Billy" McEwen Tells Enthusiastic Evelethians of G. O. P. Weakness.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a very enthusiastic and well attended meeting last evening in Vail hall, Judge Alfred Jaques, Democratic nominee for congress; State Labor Commissioner W. E. McEwen, Walter F. Dacey, Democratic nominee for county attorney, and Thomas J. McKeon, democratic nominee for judge of probate, spoke.

Attorney John Peterson of this city presided and introduced T. J. McKeon as the first speaker. Mr. McKeon gave the briefest address of the evening, in which he mentioned he was a "filler in" and wished the local support, inasmuch as he had over twenty years of law experience, while his Republican opponent has as yet not been admitted to the bar.

Judge Jaques in an eloquent address assailed Congressman Miller's record at Washington, and showed up the weak points of his opponent in a very effective manner. He remarked that Miller had broken his promises with his constituents by voting for Cannon and three measures Cannon dictated. He averred he was in favor of a free house of representatives, and that by voting for Cannon and Cannonism, Miller had aided the present speaker, and betrayed the trust of the Eighth district voters. Miller's record was shown to be a repudiation of his constituents and the speaker stated that the people should now repudiate Miller.

Wants Miller to Speak.

The speaker stated that his opponent had as yet not appeared before the people this fall, and that he wished Miller would make a public appearance so that he could have some real opposition. He admitted that Miller voted against the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill, but argued that Miller had made special privilege possible by voting for Cannonism and the old house rules. The tariff bill was characterized as the craftiest, craftiest measure ever passed, and Miller condemned for being of the congressmen who, by voting with the Cannon crowd, had made it possible.

Judge Jaques stated that he wished the support of the audience as he believed that he could do more for the voters by voting with progressive Democrats and Republicans, than Miller who he averred had cast his lot with the reactionaries against the will of his constituents. He stated that he was in favor of election of senators by direct vote; no caucus; independent house of representatives; a progressive speaker of the house of representatives; a new tariff bill that will eliminate graft, and the adoption of new house rules that will give free speech to the congressman. The speaker made a very good impression, and his address was often interrupted by loud applause. His arraignment of Congressman Miller proved very popular and it is thought Eveleth will prove a Jaques stronghold.

McEwen Raps Eberhart.

State Labor Commissioner W. E. McEwen gave a most convincing address. He dwelt at length on the subject of economic equality and stated that law of supply and demand for the combinations had been relegated to oblivion, though it stil lexisted with labor. The faults of the tariff and labor conditions at home and abroad were vividly depicted. The administration of the late Governor Johnson was ably reviewed and the adequate legislative measures passed, enumerated. Emphasis was laid on the departments overhauled, the graft elimination, and what was accomplished during Johnson's administration. The speaker then took up the present state campaign, and assailed the present governor for being associated with Senator E. E. Smith, who by his legislative record was shown to be a representative of the organized brewery and railroad interests. "Jim" Gray, the Democratic nominee was characterized as honest, fearless, industrious and possessed of moral courage, while his opponent was claimed to be a sub-servant to the special interests. The county option matter was discussed. The audience was told that the real issue in this state was, should the people rule, or be ruled by the interests, with a vote for Gray, representative of the people and a vote for Eberhart, one in favor of the big interests.

Alderman Charles Jesmore of this city, Democratic nominee for sheriff, who made a strong run two years ago, was present but did not speak. He was complimented by the speakers and the mention of his name was the signal for much loud applause.

The meeting was concluded with an address by Walter F. Dacey, Democratic nominee for county attorney, formerly of this city, who made a short impressive address, and characterized himself as "Eveleth's candidate."

The speakers left today for Chisholm where they will address the people tonight.

MAKE PROGRESS ON BUILDINGS

Construction Work Going Right Ahead in Village of Grand Forks.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Oct. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—This week has seen the new Hughes building almost transformed, the work having gone on very rapidly. The walls are up to the roof, and the cornice and roof are being put up. On the inside the plumbing, heating and electric light wiring are going on, and the lathers have started to work. The building will be entirely enclosed and under roof within the next two weeks.

M. McAlpine has put the finishing touches on the improvements he has made this summer on his new brick building by putting in a new cement sidewalk on the north side of the building.

Mrs. Burnett, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kearney and Mrs. Whitney of Brainerd were guests at the Kearney home the first of the week.

The Modern Samaritans will initiate a large class at their regular meeting next Monday evening.

Miss Alseth of Park River, N. D., arrived the first of the week to take a position as stenographer in the office of F. F. Price.

C. B. Webster, candidate for judge of probate, was a visitor here this week on his way to Deer River, Big Fork and other points to the west.

Clerk of Court Rasmussen this week issued marriage licenses to Oscar Harlin and Mary McDonald of Marcell; Fred Dowling and Margaret C. Sjolund of Deer River; Harold G. Decker to Florence Rogers of Marble.

TEDDY TOO BUSY TO COME HUNTING

Being After Big Political Game He Cannot Tackle Minnesota Moose.

Biwabik, Minn., Oct. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ex-President Roosevelt is on the trail of big political game in New York just now, which prevents his coming to this section to hunt moose.

Hoping he might be able to come to Northern Minnesota for a moose hunt, a letter was sent from Biwabik urging him to make this place his headquarters. In reply Mr. Roosevelt says that while he would be "delighted" to have a hunt this fall, and had felt that he could spare the time, more recent summaries of his engagements showed that he could not spare the time.

As usual the former president writes a very friendly letter, deploring his inability to be here this fall, and again declaring his intention to further the cause of progressive Republicanism. Otherwise he does not mention politics.

CALL ELECTION TO VOTE BONDS

To Provide Money for Increasing School Facilities in Aurora District.

Aurora, Minn., Oct. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—A special election has been called for School District No. 13, upon petition of taxpayers to vote upon the question of issuing the bonds of the district to the state of Minnesota in the sum of $45,000, for the purpose of aiding in defraying the expenses of building the new Aurora high school building and the cost of building an additional school building at the Knox and Adriatic mines.

It was estimated that the Aurora high school building could be built for approximately $60,000, but it was later found that the building as proposed would cost over $100,000. This necessitated the issuing of bonds.

The school building at the Knox and Adriatic mines is a one-room building and there are at the present time over fifty scholars attending, with a constant increase, which makes a new building necessary. It is the intention of the board to have the new building erected at once, or as soon as the bond issued is carried.

Bids for the excavating for the foundation for the Aurora building have been advertised for and it is hoped that the basement may be completed before winter.

WORKMAN LOSES EAR LOBE.

Chisholm Man Hurt When a Boulder Falls.

Chisholm, Minn., Oct. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The lobe of the left ear of William Izzich, aged 35, employed in a quarry south of town, was torn off yesterday when he fell to the bottom of the quarry with a large boulder that had been discharged. In falling a distance of thirty feet his head struck a jagged stone, which tore off the ear lobe. Besides being disfigured he was not seriously injured.

Eveleth Musical Treats.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Local music lovers will certainly have their fill of entertainment this month, for Manager Carpentor of the Othello theater has secured Miss Elsie Thiel, the noted Hibbing violinist, for a three night engagement, commencing Monday, while Miss Donna Riblette of Duluth, assisted by home talent, will render a concert at the Wahlonlahde hall, Oct. 24, under the auspices of the ladies' guild of the St. John's church. On Oct. 28, the Tekla Farm-McKinney Concert company will give a musical program at the Monitor hall, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the First Presbyterian church.

RANGES DESIRE JUVENILE COURT

Meeting of Municipal Judges at Virginia Will Draft Bill.

Virginia, Minn., Oct. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—One of the most important matters for this section that will be considered by the St. Louis County Association of Municipal Judges who will meet next week will be the enactment of legislation allowing juvenile courts in the larger cities of the ranges.

This city, Hibbing, Eveleth and Chisholm on the Mesaba range and Ely on the Vermilion range believe they are entitled to such courts to handle the juvenile cases and will look to the next legislature to do something along that line.

The St. Louis county municipal judges will meet here next Wednesday in the office of Judge Carey. Judge Prince of Eveleth is president and it is expected there will be a full attendance of members. A committee will be named to draft the range juvenile court bill and other measures desired.

VIRGINIA HAS RAISED $5,000

Over That Sum Will Be Contributed By Liberally Disposed Citizens.

Virginia, Minn., Oct. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—This city has certainly done splendidly in the way of raising money and supplies for the fire sufferers. About $5,000 has already been subscribed and this splendid figure is expected to be passed considerably before the last dollar is subscribed by those whose hearts have been touched by the stories of suffering along the border. Six carloads of provisions and merchandise have been sent north and more will be shipped when needed.

To Give Charity Ball.

The City band, prompted by the spirit that is animating every one in this section to aid the unfortunates, will give a charity ball next Tuesday evening at the roller rink, the entire proceeds to go to the relief fund. An orchestra of twelve pieces under Prof. Kroft will furnish the music, each member of the orchestra donating his services. Mr. Kolstad will donate the use of the rink.

The printing and advertising has been donated by Messrs. Hannaford & Cuppernell and the Minnesota Publishing company. Mr. Nelson has donated the use of a piano. Ray Edwin will manage the grand moonlight waltz and grand march, "The Great Divide." J. M. Bailey will manage the floor.

The theaters are helping greatly in advertising and a number of young ladies volunteered to sell tickets. Several hundred tickets have been sold already. It is expected this will be the greatest social function ever held in Virginia, the entire proceeds to be donated to the fire sufferers. Mayor Hawkinson, J. R. Krogdahl and J. W. Bailey will act as a finance committee.

The local roller rink will be open for the season Saturday, Oct. 22.

IT PLEASED EVELETH.

Entertainment Given Friday By Crescent Literary Society.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first Crescent Literary society entertainment was given at the high school auditorium last evening before a large and enthusiastic audience. Vocal and instrumental numbers were rendered by members of the high school orchestra, Leslie Tobin, violinist; Maurice Levant, second violinist; John Masucci, cornetist; Charles Crottier tromBonbonist; Ruth Jesmore, pianist; Leonard Farnum, and the glee club, and in each instance the performers were well received. Recitations were given by the Misses Gertrude Owens and Rachel Harwood, and proved very entertaining. The hit of the evening was the shadow picture number as well performed by Maurice Levant, Percy Pryor, Gilbert Finnigan, Samuel Owens and Adeline Rohrer.

MEET AT DEER RIVER.

Convention of the Itasca County Sunday School Association.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Oct. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The convention of the Itasca County Sunday School association wil be held at the M. E. church in Deer River on the afternoon and evening of Oct. 21, and morning of Oct. 22. A large number of Sunday school workers are expected, and a good program of entertainment and Sunday school work is being prepared.

CHISHOLM NEWS NOTES.

Current Happenings Gathered for Herald in Range Village.

Chisholm, Minn., Oct. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mr. and Mrs. Will Anderson, for several years residents of Buhl, will move to Chisholm next week. Mr. Anderson is manager of a new co-operative grocery store which is soon to be opened here.

Rev. Father Isebell delivered his lecture on "The Great White Plague," in Bergeron's hall on Tuesday evening.

Cyrus Ziskin, who has been spending the last week in Grand Forks, N. D., returned to Chisholm Tuesday.

From the fact that a number of Chisholm people have lost their cows and horses of late, there is suspicion that there are cattle thieves around here. Andrew Toth, who recently moved in here from Ely, lost two milch cows lately.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Embleau of Duluth, after looking over the village of Chisholm, have decided to take up their residence here. They will have their household goods here shortly.

Dr. and Mrs. A. B. Kirk and Lawyer Woods and wife went to Duluth on Thursday to hear Melba.

Joseph Cummings and his crew of men are rushing the building of the concrete piers for the new water tower. When oompleted the tank will hold 250,000 gallons as against the present water tank, which holds about 25,000 gallons.

Prof. J. P. Vaughan and the members of Independent School District No. 40 of Chisholm autoed to Eveleth and Virginia on Thursday. They were on a tour of inspection of the schools in those cities with a view of obtaining information which will be of value in connection with the building of the new school building soon to go up in the northern addition to town.

W. Lilmatalnen and Miss Esther Tapola, both Finnish, were married on Saturday night last by Rev. Johnar Ketoven. The ceremony took place in the Finnish parsonage.

Mrs. A. B. Shaw of Buhl was a Chisholm visitor on Friday afternoon.

The carpenters have begun to lay shingles on the new Methodist Episcopal church building. Some of the window frames arrived today from Duluth and after these are set in, siding will be begun at once.

George K. Trask, clerk of the municipal court, who has been spending a week's vacation at his home in St. Vincent, returned to his desk on Thursday much benefitted by the little time off.

MOUNTAIN IRON IS AIDING UNFORTUNATES.

Mountain Iron, Minn., Oct. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The business men, citizens generally and even small children of this place are playing a prominent part in the relief of the refugees from the fire-stricken country. Inasmuch as the Duluth, Missabe & Northern Railway company agreed to transport free, donations for the fire sufferers, every citizen took a hold and did their best to get together clothing, groceries, bedding, cooking utensils and other useful things. All of the supplies were loaded into a boxcar and forwarded Thursday. The mining employes also did well. Several of the employes collected in the neighborhood of $600, which has been forwarded to the committees.

Will Grade Biwabik Avenue.

Biwabik, Minn., Oct. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—D. W. Scott, who controlled the original townsite of Biwabik and still has some lots to place on the market, was in town this week. He announced that he will grade Kanawha avenue one block north of Main street and put the lots this will open upon the market. Shaw avenue, the street on which the sewer and water extension is being placed, is now the last street opened on the east side of town. Kanawha is one block east of Shaw.

PROCTOR WANTS A PUBLIC RINK

Commercial Club Considers Its Establishment and Other Things.

Proctor, Minn., Oct. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Commercial club at its last meeting considered several matters for the advancement of this village. After the business had been transacted a social session was held Cigars were passed around and a lively sparring bout between two knights of the mitt given.

W. F. Clark, F. C. Mitchell and S. J. Raetz were appointed on the committee to look after the establishing of a public skating rink.

The street car proposition was again discussed and a committee consisting of C. J. Birch, Sr., Charles Rossiter, P. McCabe, George McEwen and Fred Hansen, was appointed to look into the matter and learn if possible how much work had been done on the proposed right-of-way with the appropriation that was made by the county commissioners for that purpose.

Street Lights Also Considered.

The matter of street lights was discussed and although no definite action was taken it was the sense of the meeting that provision should be made for lighting the town at an early date.

F. C. Mitchell, George Studley and Allen Buchner were appointed on a committee to assist E. S. Davis in collecting supplies and contributions for the fire sufferers on the border.

A party of young people met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Paulu Monday evening to help Miss Leona Paulu celebrate her seventeenth birthday.

The evening was spent in games and music and in the guessing contest the girl's head prize was won by Miss Margaret Rappold and the boy's head prize by Murdoch McBeth. The foot prizes went to Miss Bernice Crippen and Harry Bossuet. A dainty lunch was served.

The members of St. Rose's Catholic church will hold a fair at the village hall on the evenings of Oct. 18 to 22 inclusive. Elaborate plans are being laid and it is expected that the fair will prove the great success it has been in past years. Supper will be served Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings from 4:30 to 7:15. Chicken pie supper Tuesday and Thursday evenings. Oyster supper on Friday evening.

The Proctor State bank expects to move into its new building between now and the first of November. The new building is finished inside with a dark oak finish with tinted rough plaster walls and it will be equipped with vaults and time safe.

City Hall Work Progresses.

Work is progressing rapidly on the new city hall and jail. The foundation for the structure is just about completed and by this time next week the work will have progressed to quite a noticeable extent.

The B. of L. F. & E. are planning to give a ball on Friday evening, Nov. 4.

The regular Saturday evening train to Duluth will be run this week providing cars can be obtained for the purpose.

Harry Scar left yesterday for his home at Deerwood, after a few days' visit with friends here. He reports the arrival of a daughter at his home.

APPEAL LUMBER RATE CASES

Commerce Commission Will Take Them to the Supreme Court.

Washington, Oct. 15.—Steps have been taken by the interstate commerce commission looking to an appeal to the United States supreme court of cases which were decided against it a few days ago through the finding of a master of the United States circuit court at St. Paul. The cases involved an increase in the freight rate on lumber and forest products generally from the North Pacific states to Missouri river transfer points and to Chicago points.

The action against the commission's order was instituted by the Great Northern, the Northern Pacific and the Missouri Pacific railroad companies. It was an order to restrain the commission from putting into effect the rates on lumber which it had prescribed. The findings of the master, approved by the court as a part of its decision, practically fixed the rates in accordance with the desires of the railroads.

Luther Walters, acting as attorney for the commission, has left for St. Paul to institute an appeal in the cases to the United States supreme court. The appeal probably will be filed Monday.

CUTICURA REMEDIES CURED PHYSICIAN

Of Eczema. Now Prescribes Them and Says They have Cured when Other Formulas Failed. Proclaims Their Virtues to the World.

"THEY ALWAYS BRING RESULTS"

My face was afflicted with eczema in the year 1897. I used the Cuticura Remedies and was entirely cured. I am a practicing physician and very often prescribe Cuticura Resolvent and Cuticura Soap in cases of eczema, and they have cured where other formulas have failed.

I am not in the habit of endorsing patent medicines, but when I find remedies possessing true merit, such as the Cuticura Remedies do, I am broad-minded enough to proclaim their virtues to the world. I have been practicing medicine for twenty years, and must say I find your Remedies A No. 1. I still find the Cuticura Remedies as good as ever. They always bring results. (Signed) G. M. FISHER, M.D., Dec. 4, 1909. Big Pool, Md.

DOCTOR RECOMMENDED CUTICURA REMEDIES

When I was ten or twelve years old I had a scalp disease, something like scald-head. I suffered for several months and most of my hair came out. Finally they had a doctor to see me and he recommended the Cuticura Remedies. They cured me in a few weeks. I have used the Cuticura Remedies, also, for a breaking out on my hands and was benefited a great deal. I haven't had any more trouble with the scalp disease. (Signed) Miss JESSIE F. BUCHANAN, Jan. 7, 1909. R. F. D. 3, Hamilton, Ga.

Cuticura Remedies are sold by druggists throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., 131 Columbus Ave., Boston. Mailed free, latest 32-page Cuticura Book, giving description and treatment of affections of the skin and scalp.

WILL STEAL FEW BASES

Cub and Athletic Catchers Expected to Hold Runners Safe.

Records Show Mack Men Able to Convert Hits Into Scores.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 15.—The impression prevails among ball players that the Chicago Cubs can make more runs out of less hits than any team in the country. This was especially so with John Evers reaching first on passes and stealing bases perhaps as no other player could. This season the records will show that the Athletics had all the best of it in the American league in the way of scoring runs on few safe hits. The Quakers also made it plain that they could score a man from first with a long drive better than any club in their own league.

The grounds at Philadelphia are rather small for long drives, while it is just the reverse on the Chicago grounds, where there is plenty of room for a long drive in center field.

Comparison of Catchers.

Neither team will do any great amount of base running. Thomas is a stronger thrower than the average man thinks he is. Last season he was by all odds the most effective thrower that worked against the Boston Red Sox, showing fine head work and absolute confidence. John Kling is pretty sure to force the Mack men to respect his throwing wing, and yet Kling is more deliberate than Thomas, and though a fine line thrower, will not have the ball at second as soon as Thomas. Both men throw a ball easy to handle. Archer is the finest thrower in either club, but the chances are that Kling will do the catching, as he is known as the brainiest back-stop in the game today.

No ball team can hope to make a good showing without a first-class throwing catcher. The Tigers failed to show class behind the bat at any time during the last three attempts to win the post series, while they were always opposed by first-class workmen in Gibson and Kling. Base running has been practically a lost art in the post series, with the exception of two or three one-sided games where there was little effort to get the man. Billy Sullivan killed off the Cubs' chances the first time that he met them for the championship. In fact it was simply fun for Sullivan to get men who were willing to take a chance.

In the 1903 Games.

Lou Criger cut off the best base runners for Pittsburg in 1903. When the Giants and Athletics met there was little show for the Quakers to show their speed against Bresnahan, as they seldom reached first base. Hartsel once reached first and remained there to see three men go down without taking a chance when one run would have put his team in the running at the last ditch. In this series the Quakers acted as if they were doped, Chief Bender and Brisco Lord coming across with the goods, with Mike Powers showing up well in the few chances that he got.

Johnnie McGraw displayed natural ability when it came to leading his boys.

Boston Opinion Divided.

The feeling here in Boston is evenly divided as to the outcome next week. President John I. Taylor has picked the Athletics as the strongest club today in baseball, made so by a fine string of pitchers and a lot of ball players hustling their heads off.

Manager Fred Lake has picked the Cubs to win, figuring they are the greatest machine in the business, a great road team and game to the core. Lake has seen the Athletics work and says if they win it will be a great string of pitchers that will do it.

The Boston players have only seen the teams representing their own league play ball. The National league boys pick the Cubs and the American league pick the Athletics—and there you are. The men who write baseball for the local papers are pretty well divided, figuring that a little luck will win for either club. The Athletics have shown the best ball in Boston this season, while the Cubs were in and outers at the south end grounds. It was plain that the Athletics were always in fine shape, while the Cubs were forced to continually work extra men in the games, especially changing pitchers.

The Athletics worked their regular lineup in every game, while the line-up of the Cubs was continually changed about. Frank Chance would play a game and then lay off, but was always on the job, forcing his boys in a very aggressive manner.

Hustle for the Honor.

The thought of the large purse for the world's series kept the Cubs hustling for the honors of the National league, and nothing short of a game bunch would have finished as strong.

The Athletics and Cubs will have too much of a lay off after the important games of the regular season. These exhibition games will not help either club, and both teams will show up tender for the first game next Monday at Philadelphia.

Yale Vs. West Point.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 15.—Accompanied by several hundred of their class mates, the Yale football squad of forty men left here last night for New York and will continue in the morning to West Point, where the annual games with the army will be played. Yale expects a lively, but no stiff game, owing to the backwardness of the army eleven in using the new rules.

WARHOP WINS IN PITCHERS' DUEL

Weltse Works Well for Seven Innings But Finally Weakens.

New York, Oct. 15.—Victory perched on the banners of the New York American league club yesterday when they passed the Nationals in the last two innings of a well-played contest and won the second game of the post-season series by 5 to 4. The game was contested on the American league grounds, but as a whole lacked the nerve and tang of Thursday's game, won by the Nationals at the Polo grounds. This was due, perhaps, to reaction, now that the series is under way.

It was a pitchers' contest between the left-handed Wiltse of the Nationals and Warhop of the Americans, and the honors were fairly even until the last two innings, when, under a storm of sharp hits, Wiltse weakened and lost control. Warhop worked splendidly throughout the game and his effectiveness increased as the innings passed. After the third inning the Nationals made but one hit off him, and his under-hand ball came floating up to the plate as big as a balloon, only to break sharply before the National batsmen in mystifying manner, causing them to send up weak flies. Devlin alone solved Warhop's delivery, making a home run and a double which brought three of the National's runs across the plate. Fletcher at short did sparkling work.

Marquette Vs. Denver.

Denver, Colo., Oct. 15.—The Marquette University football team will clash with the University of Denver on University field here today. The Marquette team outweighs Denver, but the locals are counting on their fast ends to equalize Marquette's superiority in the center of the line. Among the officials are Joe Curtiss, the famous Michigan tackle, and Tow Cotton of Nebraska.

FAST BASEBALL AT WASHINGTON

All Americans Beat Philadelphia By Score of 4 to 1.

Washington, Oct. 15.—The All-Americans and Athletics gave a splendid exhibition of fast baseball yesterday, the latter winning by the score of 4 to 1. A fast play by Livingstone on Harry Lord's short hit in front of the plate was the only fielding feature, while the batting of Baker, two singles and a double, placed him in the limelight.

Every seat in the stand was taken and standing room was at a premium, and fully 1,500 fans crowded behing the ropes in left and center field.

Walter Johnson was a puzzle to the champions, holding to five scattered hits until the last inning, when he slackened his speed and two doubles resulted. Morgan also pitched well for five innings, but a double and three singles in the sixth decided the manager, Mr. Mack, to send Dygert in for the final two rounds, and the midget finished up in brilliant style.

Second Baseman Collins wrenched his knee in turning first after he had singled in the fourth inning, and the spectators became anxious as he limped off the field, but Capt. Davis reported him all right by the time the game was over, and he will be back in the game today. Score: R. H. E.

All-Americans...1 0 0 0 3 0 0 0 x—4 8 0

Batteries—Morgan, Dygert and Livingstone; Johnson and Street. Umpires—Egan and Dineen.

QUARRELS AND QUERIES

Appertainin' to and harping on the pathetic plight of Mr. Jeffries. First offense, with the reins hanging loose on poetic license.

As Jawn Greenleaf says, about the saddest of these:

When the wing was softly sighing
And those friends of mine were crying,
'Knock his block off, Oh you kid—'
In those days before the lid.
Then I listened, sadly listened.
And my hopes they gaily glistened,
As I chased and flashed for fishes,
Disregarding well meant wishes.
Now I wish that I had minded
And at training labors grinded;
For then they'd never whisper,
"He's a bloomin, blowin' blister."

Dan Hutchinson, the star quarter back of the University of Pennsylvania team, played a great game with eight conditions hanging over his head. It seems that this chap can play under any conditions. The faculty has barred him until such time as he elects to make up his deficiencies. Why be hard on a young man?

In answer to your error, would say that Simon Forgette, one of our fine looking young men, was captain of the crew last season. Do be careful.

Martin Hart has re-entered the ring, and will fight Con O'Kelly, the former wrestler, who is under the pugilistic wing of Tommy Ryan. Mr. Hart's last occupation was digging ditches. When seen last evening and interviewed, Mr. Jack O'Leary said, standing straight and gesticulating eloquently, with his right hand, the one with the diamond:

"I look for the Cubs to win. Their pitchers are great, and, then, too, Philadelphia has a tendency to make one slow."

"I am a former baseball player, and am becoming very near sighted, can hardly see anything. What would you advise me to do?" pens a penitent from Bemidji.

You have probably seen too much. Move to Superior. You won't mind being near sighted, for there's nothing to see.

"I have lived in a boarding house for nine years, and am thinking of entering the ring—do you think I will be successful?"

The trembling query of a boy volunteer.

If you have lived in a boarding house for nine years and are still sound and healthy, you have a wonderful constitution and should easily assimulate punishment.

TITLE BETWEEN ENGLISH WOMEN

Miss Dorothy Campbell and Mrs. Martin Playing for Golf Championship.

Flossmoor, Ill., Oct. 15.—Miss Dorothy Campbell, former British champion woman golfer and holder of the American title, and Mrs. G. M. Martin, American born, but now of Tavistock, Eng., disposed handily of their opponents in the semi-finals of the women's national golf championship at the Homewood Country club yesterday and will meet in the finals today.

Miss Campbell, whose home is at Hamilton, Ont., defeated her clubmate, Miss Florence Harvey, 4 up and 3 to go. Mrs. Martin vanquished Miss Lillian Hyde of New York 3 up and 2 to go.

Interest was greater in the Campbell-Harvey match. The first hole was halved in par four. Miss Harvey took the second, 6-7, Miss Campbell going into a bunker on her third. The champion squared matters on the third hole, laying a stymie and taking the hole 4-5. The fourth went to Miss Harvey when Miss Campbell lost her ball. The next three were Miss Campbell's in ordinary golf, but going to the eighth she dubbed her second into a ditch and sliced her fourth short, giving Miss Harvey the hole 7-6. The ninth was halved in 3, and Miss Harvey squared the match at the tenth. Miss Campbell drove into the trees and dubbed her second but was on the green in three. She putted miserably and the hole went to her opponent, 5-6. The champion took the eleventh, but missed a putt for the twelfth, which was halved in five. The next three holes and the match went to Miss Campbell. Twice in this round Miss Harvey drove off the course and was in the bunker once.

Miss Hyde was rather wild, probably owing to a lack of tournament experience, while Mrs. Martin played a steady consistent game.

GAME WITH EAST HIGH

Duluth Central Will Meet Strong Minneapolis Team Oct. 29.

Kodahpas Are Expected to Give Hillside Team a Battle.

Manager T. F. Phillips received word yesterday afternoon from East high of Minneapolis that the Twin City team had an open date for Oct. 29. Mr. Phillips scheduled the game and unless the Minneapolis team backs down the first real football game of the season will be seen on that date

The date of the game with Superior has been set for Nov. 5. The Superior game will be played in Duluth this year, and promises to be a fast and exciting contest and a test of the fighting ability of the Duluth team.

Manager Phillips is trying to schedule a game with either of the St. Cloud teams for the morning of Nov. 12. In case the game is arraigned the football team will go to Minneapolis in the afternoon to witness the Minnesota-Wisconsin game.

Next Saturday, Oct. 22, is an open date. A game with either Nelson-Dewey high school or the normal of Superior would be welcomed, but both the Superior teams seem unwilling to play the central team. There seems to be no reason for their unwillingness to play other than the fear of a beating at the hands of the Duluth team.

Any game with a high school team would be welcomed by the management of the Duluth Central team.

Owing to the injuries of Halfback Waldron and End Jeronimus, there will be a change in the lineup for today's game with the Kodapha club. Higgins, a sub end, will probably play in Waldron's place, and Boden will substitute at end for Jeronimus. Otherwise the lineup will be the same as in all the other games. The Kadapha club has a number of stars on its team and the Centrals expect a hard fight to win.

The second team has been doing exceptionally good work the last week, holding the usual long runs of the first team down and doing a considerable amount of offensive work themselves. If this fighting spirit is kept up it is thought probable that the management will reward the players for their services by jerseys with a second team insignia.

Today's lineup follows:

Central.	Position.	Kodahpa.
Higgins, Boden	r.s.	S. McCrae

BARNEY RACES JUST THE SAME

Keeps Readville Date in Spite of Disqualification By Association.

Readville, Mass., Oct. 15.—Despite his recent disqualification by the American Automobile association because of his proposed race with Pugilist Jack Johnson, Barney Oldfield raced against time yesterday at the regularly sanctioned meet at the Readville track, breaking the track record for one mile Driving his Benz "Blitzen" machine, Oldfield covered the one-mile circuit in fifty seconds flat. The former record was fifty-four seconds made by Ralph Palma in a Fiat, June 17, 1908.

Oldfield's time is not official and will not be accepted by the association, but it was taken by four stopwatches, two of which caught it under fifty seconds.

Oldfield's Knox stock car, which was driven by Ben Kirscher, won the feature event of the day, a one-hour race, traveling 62¾ miles.

Oldfield said last night:

"To win my first battle with the American Automobile association in the home of its president and with him on the track, is one of the greatest victories of my life. I came to Boston determined to fill my end of the contract. This I did, despite the official announcement that I had been outlawed from participating at any sanctioned meet. I have only begun the fight."

Old Timer "Comes Back."

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 15.—Tommy Burns, at one time the leading rider of the world, furnished the winner in the day's feature at the Downs yesterday afternoon, his Glucose, which was favorite, proving best over those which fought it out in a handicap at one mile and a sixteenth. In the running the winner went to the front at once and never afterward gave his backers an anxious moment, while Jacquelina, poorly handled, closed with a rush and was second in front of Gloria. Milton B. the second choice in the betting, finished next to last.

GOSSIP PICKED UP ALONG THE SPORTING HIGHWAY

Some Mathematical Dope on the World's Series—Corridon and His Sudden Nervousness—Packey and the English Cousins—That Down Town Park.

(BY BRUCE.)

If mathematical accuracy would proceed gently down the performance path with the unruly little Dope brother, there would not be very much speculation left as to the outcome of the world's series between the Cubs and Athletics, according to that great student of the game of baseball, Hugh Fullerton of Chicago.

Brother Fullerton is one of those kind of chaps who would reduce the outcome of baseball to the matter of figures. He figures baseball as some cold and analytical student figures the problems in physics. For instance, he is comparing the players of the two teams, position for position, by geometrical process, how much ground they cover, the chances of the ball getting by them, to the square inch of territory, almost, and by his method of reasoning, there is some square feet of open territory in the Athletic infield which does not exist in the air tight defense of the Cubs.

This is fine, shows that Fullerton has studied the game of baseball as few other men in this country have, and makes interesting reading for the fans. But it really does not tell any of us how each team will win the very important series.

Fullerton has figured how Tinker covers eight feet more in a certain direction than Barry, the shortstop of the Athletics, and how one of the Chicago infielders will also cover more mathematical ground than his position opponent on the other team.

For years and years, Bill, astute followers of the ponies have been figuring and following the ponies. They have in many cases figured the facts in the case to the last fraction, gone out and plunged for a killing—and lost. Dope and the actual performance seldom work together. For that very live reason, the Fullerton facts are liable to play false to premises on the days of the series.

How Tinker might be able to cover more ground than Barry, so many feet to the right and left, and so many more feet back and coming in to meet a slow hit ball; yet, remember, that on one or all of the days of the series Tinker might fail to play true to form, and Barry might surprise the natives by his wonderful playing.

Here is where horse races and baseball hold hands in the dark.

There was the case of Rolfe, a substitute that Comiskey was obliged to put in his White Sox lineup in the very important series between the Cubs and Sox, back in 1906. On paper, applying the baseball Bertillion system of Fullerton, this chap would have been the weak spot on the American league team. History will eloquently show where his playing did much to win the flag for the Sox.

And so there you are. Some one suggested yesterday that Zimmerman would be the weak spot on the Cub infield. His fielding record the present season would bear out this idea. Yet, if the contrary dope of past world's series maintains in the coming contest, this substitute is due to be one of the shining lights of the games.

Oldring is out for the Athletics, and in that fact there is encouragement for the supporters of the Cubs. Mack, it is understood will sling a young player into the outfield breach. History might record as how this chap would be the real paprika of the show.

It seems, if memory serves right, that Mr. Fullerton selected some other team than the Athletics to win the pennant in the Bancroft-Johnson league. No doubt this deduction was arrived at after sound and logical reasoning. Figues lie in baseball, often, and you can never tell from percentages just what a player will do in a short series of games.

Just at the present time of going to press, young John L. Corridon is the Dr. Cook of baseball. "Doc" Cook was credited with discovering the North Pole, and several other interesting if frigid places, while Mr. Corridon, third baseman for the St. Louis Americans, is the discoverer of a new feature of the batting of Napoleon Lajoie.

The Case of Corridon.

Mons. Cook blew up when it came to the third degree of inquisitive research, though why any one be inquisitive about a land where the gum drop has the chocolate eclair or the high ball beaten several degrees as a dainty delicacy? Now this modern discoverer of baseball may also weaken under the withering fire of the fat president of the American league.

"I was afraid of the ball," cried young Mr. Corridon.

"You are a bloomin' liar," reply those fierce bleacherites of Detroit, Mich., a town given to automobiles and batting averages.

Now they are looking up the records of careless Corridon. His name at the very start is against his being afraid. Look at his name all the way through.—John L. Corridon—and he says he is afraid.

Down in Detroit they say that this Corridon has the reputation of being one of the nerviest players who has broken into the league for many sultry summers. He used to fight the ball, all kinds, before he shrank shivering before the gentle bunts of Larry.

That is the Detroit side of the story. The Corridon controversy promises to loom large, and when fat Ban B. gets through with Corridon, that gent may admit that he has not really discovered that N. Lajoie is one of the most scientific hunters in the game.

When Did He Did It.

In writing a passing interview of Sam Langford, who has been putting in a profitable week of burlesque in Minneapolis, a writer on the Minneapolis Tribune lightly refers to Jack Johnson as one of the many men conquered by the squat negro from the habitat of the industrious bean.

Just when and where Sammy added the scalp of Johnson to those hanging on his door post, the records do not reveal. Sammy is mighty good, and mayhap can beat all but one Mistah Johnson; and that fighter, despite some fluctuating opinion to the contrary, he has hardly a chance with, if they fight in a ring.

Ace High With Cousins.

It is passing strange to read that Packey McFarland is the only American lightweight we have had since the glorious days and nights of Kid Lavigne. Strange as it may seem and sound, these cousins of ours have never put B. Nelson in the blue cradle of true greatness. He clinches and butts, the bloody bounder.

When Kid Lavigne was really a kid, no kid he journeyed over to England and beat up something scandalously a fighter by the name of Dick Burge. Mr. Richard Schell says this was not the Iron Man Burge, and therefore, suffice it to say, that he was some tough fighter, one whom the dress suited gentry of the National Sporting club thought clear down to the tips of their patent leather boots, could not be thrashed.

Since that time, for Lavigne did give the Britisher one artistic and thoroughly workmanlike thrashing, the dear English have waited for a man the equal of Lavigne. And in Nelson, and even in the great Gans, they have refused to recognize a prototype of the fighting boy from Michigan.

But since P. McFarland, a clever and classy boxer, but one who hits with the coyness of the servant girl testing the uprightness and general elasticity of cream puffs with a rolling pin, bested Freddy Welsh, these English have at last admitted to themselves that we have a lightweight with class and eclat.

Here we are disposed to believe that there are several boys who can best Mr. McFarland, any time the distance goes over the 20-round period. The interesting point is, that there is a wide and elemental difference between the judgments of the two nations on fighters. That was shown most clearly before the battle of Bunker Hill

Roof For the Park.

You read in the Herald yesterday of the efforts being made to give this city a modern down town park. That is what the city needs; how bad, all you fans know. There are business men in this town in plenty who love the game of baseball. There are many of them who would attend the games, were not the trip to the park so long. It is hard to get crowds out to a park, when a ride of from fifteen to twenty-five minutes is required going and returning.

Let us all hope that the business men of this city, those not directly interested in the securing of the property, as well as those who may have something to say whether the park will be constructed or not, put their shoulders to the wheel and help. Duluth is growing in every way. We are getting to be a big city. We want baseball and certain men are trying to give it to us. Baseball helps a town and hard-headed business men will tell you the same. With a modern downtown park very good things are possible for Duluth in the baseball line. Not only the fans should help in this movement, but also business men who are looking for their own individual good through a cause that will help the city.

College Nerve. This Is.

And they say he went to college, which he did. A pale and serious student of Swarthmore. After his little lessons were learned, this chap studied the habits of financially rich-quick members of the Who's Who in the recently arrived gang.

All of this is about a pot of a cool $100,000 to bet on the success of the Philadelphia Athletics against the Cubs. And the leader of the crowd, collecting the money and directing the general movements, is a college man, shudder, you pale thought followers of the dope in books, and he got his start in life by betting on a prize fighter.

This college cub is for the Athletics, first, last and all the time, and he is willing to lose some of the loose kale baled since leaving the class room, if the Cubs can get the number of the Mackmen.

They are forever asking, "What shall Clarence do after he gets out of college?" Bet on a fighter, if he happens to be the right one, and get his name in the paper. Wonder if this young man will ever come back to his alma mater and give one of these prosy talks on how to succeed.

STARRING FOR THE ADAMS TEAM

"ANDY" GRENNER,

Captain of the Adams Football Team, Who Has Starred This Season.

MINNESOTA VS. NEBRASKA

Gophers and Cornhuskers in Football Battle on Northrop Field.

Walter Camp Will Witness the Game From the Sidelines.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 15.—The most important football game on the Minnesota schedule so far this season and one to which Maroon and Gold rooters look forward to with a degree of uneasiness, will be played this afternoon on Northrop Field with the University of Nebraska. The game will begin at 2:30 o'clock.

The Nebraska team is credited with being one of the best turned out at that institution in several years. The line is heavy from tackle to tackle, and the backfield and ends are fast and clever.

Minnesota also has a heavy line from end to end with a fast but not altogether light backfield.

Minnesota and Nebraska always play a hard game. It is expected that the Minnesota players will be obliged to "let themselves out" for the first time this season. Walter Camp of Yale will be a spectator from the sidelines. The probable lineup of the teams is as follows:

Minnesota	Position.	Nebraska.
Pickering	le	Chauner
Walker	lt	Shonka
Bromley	lg	Elliott
Morrell	c	Colhons
Robinson, Smith	rg	Hornberger
Young	rt	Temple, Capt.
L. Frank	re	Lofgren

Rosenwald	lhb	Warner
Stevens	rhb	O. Frank
Johnston, Capt.	fb	Rathbone

Officials: Referee—Endsley of Purdue. Field judge—Holdness of Lehigh. Umpire—Lieut. Mumma of West Point. Head linesman—Hadden of Michigan.

FIRST GAME IN SEVEN YEARS

Harvard and Amherst Meet at Cambridge for Football Supremacy.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 15.—Harvard today will meet Amherst at football for the first time in seven years. When the Central Massachusetts players enter the Stadium it will be with the prestige of having defeated the Crimsons in their last meeting, 5 to 0. But, while Harvard was able to present an improved line-up it was feared by supporters of the Amherst team that Capt. Campbell and Miles, the right halfback, would be forced to retire after the second quarter. Both have injuries which may cause them trouble. The line-up:

Harvard.	Position.	Amherst.
Lewis	le	Roberts
McKay	lt	Bauman
Minot	lg	Proudfoot
Perkins	c	Pinkett
Fisher	rg	Cary
Withington	rt	Guetter
L. Smith	re	Madden

COBB LEADS IN THE BATTING

Georgia Peach Credited With Higher Average Than Lajoie.

According to a Detroit special to the Chicago Record-Herald, Tyrus Raymond Cobb, the sweet Georgia Peach, is the champion batsman of the world, winning that title despite the suspicious incidents at St. Louis, last Sunday.

The story is printed after statistics were gathered from several American league cities, and credits Cobb with an average of .386 points to Lajoie's standing of .385.

These figures are not official. No one will really know the winner of the highest batting honors until the official figures are published. The fact that these figures come from Detroit should be considered in the general scheme of the story.

NATIVE BELL SETS NEW RECORD

Three-Year-Old Filly Goes a Mile in Remarkable Time.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 15.—At the meeting of the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' association yesterday, Native Bell set a new world's record for 3-year-old trotting fillies by going a mile in 2:06½. The new mark was made in a trial against the record of 2:07 made here in 1908 by Leading Lady.

Early, Jr., furnished the other sensation when he smashed the world's record for the three fastest last quarters ever paced in a race. This happened in the 2:05 pace, when the gray son of the Earl paced the last quarter of the first heat in :29¾, the last quarter of the third heat in :29 and the last quarter of the final heat in :29¼.

General H., equaled the record for the fastest third heat trotted in a race when he negotiated the mile in 2:04¾ in the 2:07 trot. Spanish Queen equalled the world's record for the fastest fifth heat trotted in a race when she negotiated the mile in 2:07¾.

Silent Brigade won the Lexington stake for 2-year-old trotters in straight heats, and established a new record for the event, when he went the mile in 2:10¾. This was 2½ seconds faster than the record for the race made by Helen Hale in 1907.

IN THE MOTOR WORLD

TIRES ARE EXPENSIVE

Automobile Owners Are Becoming Weary of the "Hold Up" Game.

Cut in Crude Rubber Prices Fails to Bring a Reduction.

Why are automobile tires so expensive?

A few months ago the raw material or crude rubber known as standard and the best grade, for this is what auto tires are supposed to be made of, was worth $2.90.

Yesterday, the same rubber was quoted at $1.76, a decrease of $1.14, or within a few cents of being just half what the price was some time ago.

And yet—and this is the big point—there is no difference in the cost of tires. On inquiry at one of the retail establishments in Duluth where tires are sold, the salesman quoted the same price that has been in vogue for some time past. A 34x4 casing costs $48.50, the same price that owners were soaked—soaked is the word—when the price was up near the $3.00 point.

The salesman says that the tires his firm has on sale—meaning for sale—no one in Duluth has as yet noticed a real sale on auto tires, were manufactured during the time the cost of rubber was at its heighth. He says that his firm can not sell the tires at a lower price simply because the price of rubber has of late come down.

The point is, however, that a few weeks ago when rubber was high and then went higher the tires that were manufactured at the lower cost were boosted by this very firm. They could well afford to tack on the advance to the price that they had been getting and on tires that had cost them the old and higher price. When the price goes down, however, the firm does not notice it at all but continues selling at the high rate.

All this seems very queer to those who run automobiles. They take the stand that the firm is a speculator the same as is the firm which deals in copper stocks, wheat, flax or other commodities. They think if the price advances and it really costs more to manufacture tires, the firm is entitled to raise the price to conform with the increased cost of manufacture. They think, however, that when the price declines, the cost should be reduced. The firm should take the chances and not the man who pays for the rubber, the manufacture, the agent's profit, and then some. He seems to get it coming and going.

The tire is the most expensive part of the automobile. These days the engine is perfected to a degree that seldom gives trouble. There are but few repairs needed and the whole dissolves itself down to the fact that many could afford to own and operate automobiles if they would not constantly be "held up" on the tire proposition.

No Scarcity of Rubber.

No one claims there is a scarcity of rubber. In one of the leading magazines an article was printed recently warning people not to invest in rubber plantations at the invitation of those who advertised great dividends in this field. The article stated that contrary to the general opinion, and that, by the way, is what the promoters take advantage of to get subscribers to their stock, there is no scarcity of rubber. The article stated that there is more rubber than can be used. It stated that the market is flooded with rubber at times and that rubber is controlled by few. The latter is the reason given for the high cost.

It seems to be a very queer condition when in Duluth, for instance, the leading and largest handlers have not noticed that the cost of rubber has gone down and some of the smaller dealers have already taken it into consideration.

At one of the shops where tires are repaired the proprietor says that vulcanizing jobs that a few weeks ago cost $6 are now done for about $3.50. They state frankly that rubber has gone down and that as the material does not cost them as much as formerly, they are able to do the work cheaper. They are glad to give the customer the best of it for they realize that rubber has been no less than a "hold up game" for some time past. It has been productive to a few and the merchants have not become rich on their profits. They state this in emphatic terms and they are believed, for it is known that much of the profit has been taken off the tire before it gets into his hands.

All over the country auto owners are commencing to yell on the high cost of tires. The tire proposition is one that may yet kill the automobile business, it is claimed.

It is coming to a point where the owners will refused to be "soaked," and will prefer to stop running their cars.

Already this is noticeable. Cars are not used for every purpose as they were. People are beginning to be more careful. Many are not buying because of the high cost of rubber. Some are selling their cars, others are laying them up. Some of them are disposing of their cars at half and a quarter of their value because of the cost of rubber. They say simply that they cannot stand it.

The newer styles with larger wheels make necessary more rubber. When it costs $200 to fit out a car with a new set of tires which the owner knows can only be depended upon for a limited time, he commences to be afraid.

Just at present every owner in Duluth is grumbling aloud and a sale on auto tires or a notice of a decrease in the cost would cause a riot.

One East end resident of Duluth, who has maintained a large car for some years past sold it this spring saying that he could not afford to run it. He says that since he has not had to purchase a tire every few weeks he does not know what to do with his money, it piles up so fast.

He is not the only one. Everybody is kicking and all the kicks do not originate in Duluth either. All over the country the cry is being heard and the manufacturers will have to be contented with less profit or kill their business altogether.

AUTOMOBILE BY FAR THE CHEAPER

S. M. Butler, chairman of the contest board of the American Automobile association, has announced the results of the six-day economy test between an automobile and a horse and wagon, held recently in New York. A well known runabout not only won the test by a large margin, so far as expense was concerned, but it covered nearly three times as much ground as did the horse and buggy. The event was the first organized, systematic attempt by horse and wagon and automobile.

The event was conducted in a conservative manner in order that neither mode of transportation might benefit by unusual practices. As passenger mile cost was the basis of the test, the automobile was continually under the supervision of an observer appointed by Chairman Butler, the car being locked up in an official garage when not in service. Gasoline and lubricating oil were the only items of cost, as the car needed no repairs, adjustments or replacements. The gasoline and oil for the automobile were purchased along the day's route for the purpose of striking a fair average of retail prices.

In compiling the final figures of the test, depreciation of both the automobile and horse and buggy was taken into account. In the case of the automobile 20 per cent a year was allowed on a basis of 10,000 miles a year. This amounts to $180 a year, or $.18 a mile. Depreciation on the wagon, harness and horse is based upon an original cost of $275, the outfit supposedly lasting ten years and being capable of ten miles travel every day, making the depreciation $.0075 a mile. Following are the summaries of mileage, disbursements and depreciation on each vehicle:

DULUTHIANS ON THE RANGE

Touring Parties Enjoying Hospitality of Range Club---Other Auto Notes.

A number of Duluth motorists made the run to Virginia this afternoon. Others have planned to leave early Sunday morning.

The Iron Range Automobile association is having "doins" at Eas-qua-guma lake, and the Duluth people were invited to attend.

The range auto club is said to be a live member. They plan on building a clubhouse on the shores of this beautiful lake, and in addition are busy all the time improving their roads, which, by the way, are the best in this part of the country.

The number of automobiles on the range has increased greatly during the present season, and just at present the owners in that section are enthusiastic over motoring as a sport, and are combining their efforts to build a clubhouse at a central location for the use of all their members, keeping in mind constantly the good roads proposition.

Duluth owners can not yet see the point to a live automobile club. If some of that range enthusiasm could be installed here, the roads about Duluth might be made better and the owning and operating of an automobile more pleasurable.

Barney Oldfield, the king of them all, the greatest driver of a buzz wagon that ever held a wheel, if one is to believe an Ohio county seat paper, was disqualified by the American Automobile association for making a date to race Jack Johnson, the colored pugilist. Just what it means to be disqualified by this association is very indefinite. The A. A. A. sounds very influential, but Barney thinks he can get along without the A. A. A., and that association is very sure it can get along without Barney. The association has sent out a letter containing the word "whereas" many times, and explaining just why the famous driver was disqualified. The explanation sounds more like an apology than a writ of disqualification, and is signed by S. M. Butler, chairman.

The time is at hand, according to those that know, or say they do, when automobiles will be gearless. There will be no gear, the running gear, on which easy-going as well as hill-climbing will be done. It means another step toward simpler machines. The old gear system is very reliable, but if the gearless is successful, much scraping and unnecessary noise will be eliminated from the city streets.

Hugh Chalmers regrets that there should be any question as to who is rightfully the winner of the automobile he offered last spring for the best hitter in the American league. It was a good chance to break into print, and Hugh is a live one and never fails to be quoted. He has given a well-known garment concern the right to use his name in connection with a few of the best dressers. "Be successful like Hugh Chalmers and wear ready-made clothes," reads the advertisement.

The Hibbing man who offered $100 for the best time between Duluth and that town has not yet come across with his name. That amount means at least one new tire, and many Duluthians are anxious to have his name and the conditions of the contest.

Two Games in Indiana.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 15.—Two college football games are scheduled in Indiana for today. Indiana University plays Milliken, the Decatur, Ill., school at Bloomington and Rose Poly meets Depauw at Greencastle. The Indiana-Milliken contest is a practice game for the state school eleven to keep on edge for the Wisconsin game in this city, Oct. 22. The Rose-Poly-Depauw contest promises to be hard-fought, as both teams have been training hard for this meet.

Bout Postponed.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 15.—The ten-round boxing bout scheduled for last night at the Hippodrome between Frank Klaus of Pittsburg and Eddie McGoorty of Oshkosh, was called of on account of McGoorty being ill. Phil Knight of Kansas City lost to Kid Farmer of Peoria, on a foul in the first round of the bout, billed as the semi-windup. Knight delivered a left uppercut which landed low, rendering Farmer helpless after about one minute's fighting.

Missouri Vs. Iowa.

Columbia, Mo., Oct. 15.—The football teams of the University of Missouri and the University of Iowa will meet here today in a contest which is expected to be exciting. Coach Hollenback of the Missourians claims he has a strong team with which to face the Iowans. Coach J. B. Hawley, Manager N. A. Kellogg and the Iowa team arrived here yesterday and the latter went into secret practice during the afternoon.

STRONG BILL OF FOOTBALL

Adams vs. Broadways and Bryants vs. Proctor at Athletic Park.

Adams—		Broadways—
Hanson	c	Holden
Otterson or Foster	rg	McGraw
C. Olson or Burke	lg	Jay
Anderson	rt	Fish
Sutherland or Alder	lt	Iverson
Olsen or Crozier	re	Garissen
Brown	le	Hussy or Thompson
Kriz or Bexal	rh	Hirsh
Halley	lh	Williamson
Rosenegras	fb	McDonough
A. Grenner or Caulkins	qb	Sherman

A double bill of football will be offered at Athletic park tomorrow afternoon. The headline attraction will be the game between the strong Adams football team of this city, present leader of the city league, and the Broadways, which team disputes the championship aspirations of the Duluth shops. The Proctor team and the Bryants will furnish the windup of the afternoon.

The first game will start at 2:30, one half being played before the Adams-Broadway game starts. The big game will be played through to the finish, the Bryants and Proctors then finishing their struggle. Proctor comes down with what promises to be a strong team, and as the Bryants have been practicing steadily since their defeat by the Blaine alumni of Superior, this game promises to be almost as interesting as the struggle between the two larger teams.

The game between the Adams and Broadways is in the regular schedule of championship games, and the Adams men will put forward every effort to win tomorrow, as a victory will place them just that much further toward the championship. So far the present season the Adams and Blaine alumni of Superior are the strongest contenders for the Head of the Lakes supremacy.

Manager Geistman has scheduled a game with the strong city team of Virginia for a week from Sunday. Some former college players are members of the Virginia team, which is also very heavy.

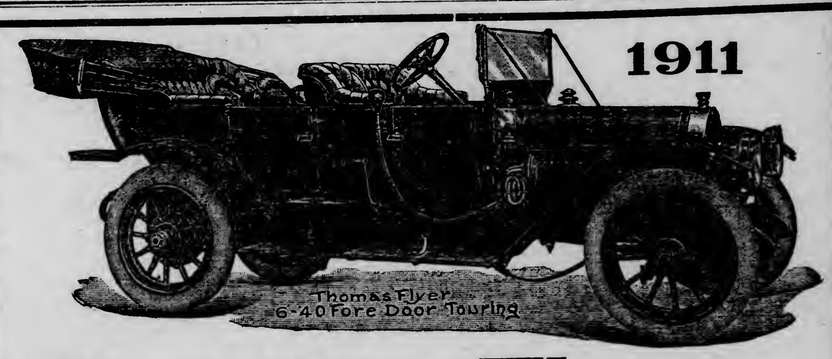

In the game of tomorrow the Adams will have their strongest lineup of the season, as from now on the team will be put through hard practice for the big games of the season. The Adams men have won every game so far the present season.

WOMAN DISCOVERS ANOTHER NEW STAR.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 15.—Still another new star has been discovered by Mrs. Willimina Fleming of the Harvard college observatory, according to announcement made by Prof. Edward C. Pickering. There have been only sixteen new stars found during the last twenty-five years, and of these thirteen have been discovered by the women assistants of this observatory.

The new star, whose approximate position is right ascension, 16 hours, 31 minutes, 4 seconds, declination, minus 52 hours, 10 minutes, 4 seconds, was discovered by Mrs. Fleming in the constellation Ara on Oct. 13. The magnitude has been estimated as varying from 6 to 10 between these dates. The spectrum is very faint. Apparently the spectrum had passed into a nebulous condition before its spectrum was photographed.

Thomas Flyers

A Wonderful Improvement

With long stroke, large valve, six-cylinder motor, with the new ¾ Elliptic Chromo Vanadeum springs, is a distinct boon to auto owners. They are used in America exclusively in Thomas cars.

Two to Sixty Miles an Hour on High Gear.

This sounds extravagant to the experienced motorist, no doubt; yet the Thomas Flyer will do it without any trouble. It demonstrated this convincingly by a public test over a 2,500-mile course two weeks ago. Thousands saw the demonstration and marvelled at it.

AT THE THEATRES

THE COMING WEEK AT THE THEATERS

LYCEUM—Monday and Tuesday, William Faversham in "The World and His Wife"; Thursday, Friday and Saturday, "The Kissing Girl."
ORPHEUM—Vaudeville.
BIJOU—Vaudeville.
ORPHEUM and LYRIC—Motion Pictures.

No place in this country are there more discriminating buyers of theatrical wares than in Duluth.

This has been proven beyond question this season. The day has passed when a New York syndicate can send second-rate companies, presenting hashed-over dramatic successes, and musical comedies to Duluth and expect to profit by it. This year the first-class attractions are being well patronized, and the second-class attractions are doing very light business. De Wolf Hopper played to big business here last Saturday night, and the Melba concert was a record-breaker, probably the biggest house from a financial standpoint the Lyceum ever held. The lesser attractions, some of which may have had some merit, drew but light houses. Next week William Faversham and "The Kissing Girl" should do well.

The same holds true of vaudeville. If the bill at the Orpheum or the Bijou happens to be a little below grade, the attendance promptly falls off. The good bills are playing to good houses at both theaters, and the poor bills promptly have their effect. Next week's bills at both theaters appear to be strong, if the advance notices received, are to be believed.

AT THE LYCEUM

"The World and His Wife."

William Faversham will present "The World and His Wife" at the Lyceum theater on Monday and Tuesday evenings of next week.

That Mr. Faversham achieved a big and important hit in this great drama is now known to all theatergoers. He has more than duplicated the success which he made two years ago in "The Squaw Man." Slander and its far-reaching effects on the innocent is the theme of 'The World and His Wife." The play opens with a happy household. Don Julian is the husband of a charming and beautiful woman. He is a man of large means and he has as guest in his home, Don Ernesto, the impoverished son of a man who has befriended him financially in his younger days. Teodora, the wife, and Ernesto the young friend, as well as the husband are genuine pals. The world, however, refuses to regard the relations of Teodora and Ernesto in this light. Slanderous gossips assail them from every quarter and Julian's own brother as well as the latter's wife are not the least acrimonious of the tattling crew.

At first the husband scorns all insinuations against his wife; then he listens, then doubts, and finally comes to believe. The result is a duel—not with his friend Ernesto, whom he believes, unjustly, the destroyer of his happiness, but with an outsider, who has spoken slightingly of his wife. In this duel the husband is fatally wounded, but before he dies he finds his wife in what his jealous rage he considers a compromising position with Ernesto. Julian having died of his wound, his brother Severo attempts to drive the wife, Teodora from the house. At this point Ernesto steps in and declares himself. He bids the man who has made all the trouble to go out and tell the world that he and Teodora are really lovers now. The world that has condemned them so unjustly for years may now damn them as much as it pleases. Public opinion has absolutely driven them into each other's arms. This last speech—being the finale of the play, is thrilling in the extreme. It has been stated repeatedly that this play had been hawked about the managers' offices in New York before finding its way into Mr. Faversham's hands. This is an error. The truth of the matter is that four years ago a copy of James Huneker's review of the German version of Echegaray's "El Gran Galeoto," from which "The World and His Wife" is taken, fell into Mr. Faversham's hands. He was then at his summer home in England. On his return to America, Mr. Faversham hunted up Mr. Huneker and proposed that he make an adaptation of the play for his use. Mr. Huneker told him that play writing was not his game; but that Charles Frederic Nirdlinger, who had already written several palys, was greatly interested in Echegaray's drama and was the right man to make an adaptation. Mr. Faversham acted on this suggestion and Mr. Nirdlinger made the adaptation as suggested by Mr. Huneker, calling it "The World and His Wife." No manager had the play under consideration, but Mr. Faversham accepted Mr. Nirdlinger's work on its completion. The notion that "The World and His Wife" had been suggested to several stars came about through a natural error. In 1899 Mr. Nirdlinger published a book called "Masques and Mummers." In this work there was a chapter devoted to Echegaray's "The Great Galeoto." Referring to several adaptations of this play, Mr. Nirdlinger wrote: "Most sensate students of the drama have long been cognizant of the poetic beauty and theatric power of "El Gran Galeoto." Many have striven, in vain of course, to convince managers and actors of authority of the peculiar allurements of this most human and vital and universal of Jose Echegaray's plays. Translations, adaptations, versions, a score of them, have pleaded for hearing. The late, or rather belated Mr. Palmer, held one of them in his desk throughout the entire period of his conduct of the present Wallack's theater; but he could see no certain merit in the work and flouted it for a succession of feeble fribbles that finally brought his regime to ruin." Yet ten years went by before a copy of James Huneker's review fell into Mr. Faversham's hands and the Nirdlinger version was under way. Surely, Mr. Nirdlinger's artistic discernment was employed to excellent purpose and lucky was Faversham that he read Huneker's review.

"The Kissing Girl."

From Detroit's veteran musical and dramatic reviewer, Mr. George Goodale, and the musical critics of Chicago, comes a flood of warm praise for the new musical comedy, "The Kissing Girl," which will come to this city for three days beginning Thursday, Oct. 20, with a matinee Saturday at the Lyceum, where it will entertain those on pleasure bent with the very latest book by Stanislaus Stange, a prolific and successful librettist.

The work is said to be studded with delightful lyrics and adorned with some twenty tuneful melodies by Harry von Tilzer—an Indiana boy who sought Chicago as the exploiting point for his first comic opera. Mr. von Tilzer openly deplores the fact that he was born in Indianapolis instead of Posey county where George Ade, John McCutcheon and Charles Major were born and "growed up." He believes that fame would have reached him earlier had his father moved to Posey county before he was born.

The Cort theater has been lavish in providing for the musical comedy an investiture in keeping with the magnificence of cast it presents here. They have gathered a company of excellent artists, the following being the principals of a cast and ensemble numbering seventy people:

Lina, "The Kissing Girl".....Texas Guinan
Fritz Kobus, a corporal in the Austrian army.....Dick Temple
Hippocrates Muller, a wealthy brewer.....Harry Hermson
Karl Oppe, the king's forester.....Louis London
Catharina, the brewer's daughter.....Marion Mills
Margaret Kobus, landlady of the "Hunter's Rest".....Ida Fitzhugh
Frou-Frou, a Parisian dancer.....Mlle. Vanity

The scenes of the operetta, three in number, are set in the Bohmerwald mountains of Bohemia, a locale that affords scope for exquisite scenery and picturesque costuming. The chorus numbers sixty-five, with a complete orchestra under the direction of whitney Mennington. The production was personally staged by Mr. Stange, assisted by Charles Jones, whose dance novelties are features of the play. Mail orders and reservations are now being received and the sale of reserved seats is now on.

Coming Attractions.

Manager Mort H. Singer is sending Harry Bulger in "The Flirting Princess" to the Lyceum on Oct. 23 and 24. This is a happy combination of clever comedian funny play, pretty music and the dashing "American Beauties." It is offered this year as it had been for the year in Chicago, with a company of excellence, supporting Mr. Bulger, including such well-known people as Estelle Janson, Charles Morgan, Maude Emery, Frank Carter, Dale Fuller, Arthur Cranston, Harry Dickerson, John Patton and others. Mr. Bulger is bringing along "The Famous Barefoot Chorus," which created such a commotion last season, also the first presentation of the now famous Vampire and Apache dances. "The Vampire" was suggested to the producer by Kipling's poem of the same name and Burne-Jones' picture, which hangs in the London museum at present.

Don A. Macmillan and his associates who have been entertaining the theater-going public in William F. Mann's "A Broken Idol," will be seen at the Lyceum soon.

This best of William's and Van Alstyne's laughing song plays will make a tour to the Pacific coast, playing a few one-night stands, and Duluth is on the list. "A Broken Idol" is a genuine comedy with a musical setting, the first act being in Chinatown, Los Angeles, during the New Year's celebration, and the second on the estate of a wealthy American at at Santa Monica, Cal. The idol is broken in a row in a Chinese chop suey emporium during the celebration by a party of Americans, who believe they have killed a Chinaman when they see it fall. They are allowed to believe this until the finale of the second act, when the tangle is straightened out. Gus Sohlke, general stage director of B. C. Whitney's productions, is responsible for the novelties, and has furnished new ones for this production.

The name of Martin V. Merle, author of "Silver Threads," is known to the brilliant circle of California journalists and artists who form the Bohemian club of San Francisco as that of a very promising young writer. He had already won recognition by "The Light Eternal," a serious drama, when he undertook the task of producing a play which would enable Richard J. Jose, the famous contra tenor, to display the talents for which he is remarkable. That the young Californian has been successful in this undertaking was conclusively proved in all the cities where "Silver Threads" has been presented, and will no doubt meet with the approval of the patrons of the Lyceum in the near future, when it will be produced for the first time in this city.

THE ORPHEUM BILL

Lole Fuller's "Ballet of Light" will be the headliner on the Orpheum bill next week.

The famous dancer and dance trainer produced the "Ballet of Light" at the Metropolitan opera house last winter. So great was the interest aroused in the ballet that it was decided to send it out over the vaudeville circuit and it has proved one of the biggest successes playing the Orpheum time.

Lole Fuller is the inventor of the fire dance and its most famous exponent. She has also invented numerous other dance novelties that are now used by grand opera, musical comedy and vaudeville companies. She is probably the most noted trainer of stage choruses in America.

There are eight young women in the "Ballet of Light," all chosen for their grace and good looks, and all carefully trained by this mistress of the art of dancing. In addition to the dancers there is a corps of six special electricians and property men. The dance is in three parts, representing the sea, the earth and the heavens. Each part has music specially written for it.

Here is what Frances Wayne, the critic of the Denver Times, said of the act when it appeared at the Denver Orpheum a few weeks ago: "For the first time a Denver audience was shown Lole Fuller's "Ballet of Light" with Lole absent to be sure, but the spirit of her genius pervading a stage prismatic with light and grace, fluttering bare-footed girls diaphaneously clothed, dancing to music that interpreted the story of the varying scenes. Miss Fuller works in electricity as a weaver works in therad and has turned the intangible element to marvelously beautiful uses. Also this woman who gave up frills and lobster for serious toil, has an assortment of young women in her service who seem to be under the uplifter's spell and who aid to elevate art on the tips of their delicate toes as the Duncans propose to exalt it on a Greek pillar."

A chap who bills himself as "The Marvelous Griffith" is the second big feature of next week's bill. Griffith is a lightning calculator. Without pen or pencil, he can raise a figure to the sixth power in eleven seconds; can multiply nine figures by nine figures in eight seconds. He opens his performance with the mental multiplication of three figures by three figures and the multiplication of a row of nine figures by a row of nine figures with amazing swiftness.

Griffith is said to be a mental prodigy, having a peculiar and almost abnormal mind. His memory is said to be remarkable, and he can recite dates and statistics until the brain of the ordinary person reels. The Baltimore Sun had the following to say of him: "His work is so strange that it is more like the result of some perfected mechanism than the production of a human mind."

Mr. and Mrs. Jack McGreevy have one of the biggest sure fire comedy acts on the Orpheum circuit. It is called "The Eccentric Fiddler and The Country Maid." The act has been on the circuit for several years, being changed but little from year to year, and it is loked upon as one of the most popular acts on the circuit. Mr. McGreevey's fiddling and the Sis Hopkins makeup of Mrs. McGreevy never fail to score, or least never have, and if Duluth audiences do not like this pair, they will be an exception to the general rule.

Lewis McCord & Company have a sketch they call "Winning on Wind." The hero of the story is an impecunious youth who borrows an apartment in which to be-married, his fiancee believing him to be wealthy as a result of the stories he has told her of his fortune. He succeeds in fooling her and her old fashioned mother and father, but not without many amusing complications. The sketch moves rapidly and has a whirlwind finish. It is said to be filled with amusing lines and situations.

The Duffin-Redcay troupe of acrobats claims to have at least one feat that is performed by no other acrobat on the vaudeville stage at the present time. One of the members of the company turns a triple summersault. They work at top speed all the time they are on the stage, and the act is claimed to be a succession of difficult and daring feats. There are several other tricks almost as difficult as the triple summersault, including a "double full twister" and a "loop the loop." They should be a big feature of next week's bill.

"Johnny Small and His Small Sisters" have an act that consists of songs, dances and comedy patter. There are three people in the act, a man and two young women, and they are claimed to have a very amusing and entertaining turn.

The Dalzars are comedy conjurers. They come to this country from the London Hippodrome, and are one of the importations of Martin Beck, general manager of the Orpheum circuit. While their conjuring tricks are said to be clever, they are not performed for the purpose of mystifying the audience, but of amusing it, and there is always an amusing expose of the trick after it is completed.

The Kinodrome and the overture by the orchestra will complete the bill. The opening performance of the new bill will be given Sunday afternoon, and there will be daily matinees all next week and a performance every evening. The overture begins at 2:15 and 8:15 p. m.

AT THE BIJOU NEXT WEEK.

AT THE BIJOU

Duluth people who attend the Bijou this week will have the chance of seeing one of the season's sensations in the acrobatic line which will be the George Bonhair troupe of six Risley acrobats.

Four of them are little fellows and the other two handle them with amazing dexterity in what is known as "Risley" work. They were recently the feature of the London Hippodrome, where they were engaged for an entire season. The little fellows are kept spinning and flying about with bewildering speed and the most spectacular feats are accomplished with apparent ease. Among the most impressive of their accomplishments is the tossing of one of the troupe to the shoulders of a two-high stand, a spectacular one-hand catch and a still more thrilling foot-catch, all performed with amazing grace and ease. This is claimed to be one of the greatest exhibitions of "Risley" work ever seen in America. These wonderful gymnasts do double somersaults with as much ease as most acrobats do singles. They were engaged to play the Sullivan & Considine circuit by B. Obermayer, the European agent for the circuit. After playing the Sullivan & Considine circuit, the act returns to the London Hippodrome for a long run.

A special attraction will be Varden, Perry and Wilber, who bill themselves as "Those Three Boys." They are three American boys, who by much study and practice have developed a high class act. Since becoming headliners they have toured the world playing for three years in Europe and have just returned to the states to tour the Sullivan & Considine circuit, which takes them to their homes in the far West. They are instrumentalists and all three also have voices of excellent quality. They sing popular songs. The following is a press note from the World, London, England, dated May 8, 1910:

"Varden, Perry and Wilber, a trio of brilliant American entertainers, who not long ago made a great impression during a six weeks' engagement at the Empire, Leicester square, are this week repeating their earlier triumphs at the Oxford. As interpreters of up-to-date

BILL FOR WEEK, OPENING OCT. 16

BALLET OF LIGHT — This is one of the Most Remarkable Acts in Vaudeville. Lole Fuller is to the Ballet, what Sousa is to the Concert Band World. This is her pet company.
GRIFFITH — "The Marvelous Grifith," he is called, and he is going to make a lot of talk in Duluth. He is a Lightning Calculator, and has a most unique act. He can multiply three figures in five seconds
MR. AND MRS. JACK McGREEVY — Duluthians laughed at Willard Simms and his Furnished Flat. Jack McGreevy is claimed to be even funnier. His act is one of the big screams of the Orpheum circuit.
LEWIS McCORD & COMPANY — "WINNING ON WIND," is the title of the Sketch they present, and it is going to be a close race for honors in the comedy line between this company and the McGreevys
DUFFIN-REDCAY TROUPE — Have your ever seen a Triple Summersault? There are about three acrobats in America that perform the feat. One of them is with the Duffin-Redcay Company, and he will do it every performance.
JOHNNY SMALL AND HIS SMALL SISTERS— The act is as novel as its title, although of a conventional type, consisting of Songs and Dances and Comedy Patter.
THE DALZARS — These clever people are Comedy Conjurers. Their acts are clever, and the expose of each is most amusing. It is not meant to mystify, but to amuse.
THE KINODROME and the CONCERT ORCHESTRA Complete the Bill
PRICES — Matinees except Sundays, 25 Cents. Nights, 15, 25, 50 and 75 Cents. Seats Reserved by Telephone are held until 7:30 only. You are invited to use the Theater Parlor for Theater Parties. A Maid is in attendance.

minstrelsy they have no rivals on this side of the water.

"In addition to being gifted instrumentalists they dance with a grace and animation that is wholly delightful.

"A humorous song rendered in Scottish dialect sent the house rocking with laughter."

A very pleasing number will be by Kitty Edwards, who is a clever comedienne from across the water and who is claimed to be one of the prettiest women on the European stage. She is bringing with her a repertoire of melodies never before heard in this country. Miss Edwards never wears the same costume or any part of it for any two songs in her repertoire and changes gowns for every performance during the week.

Thomas J. Leo and Jessie Chapman have an amusing farce in "Wanted, a Donkey." Their oddity is a conglomeration of music, dance and mirth, also some sensational horizontal bar feats. Mr. Leo's donkey characterization is one of the features of the act. Miss Chapman is seen in several original numbers.

A musical comedy favorite will be Eddie Dolan, who has left that field for the vaudeville stage. He has some new stories and songs and he appears in a character that is original with himself.

The big extra feature for the week will be Carter and Waters. The following is a recent notice from the Boston Journal while the act was playing at Keith's, which explains their clever offering: "Robert Carter and Katheryn Waters are back in town this week presenting one of their lively sketches at Keith's. Miss Waters is the same handsome, well-dressed, clever comedienne and Carter works with all of his accustomed briskness to gain the laughs that greet them from start to finish and the fun comes fast and furious until the curtain falls in a gale of merriment. The sketch they are presenting this season is entitled 'The Wise Mr. Conn.' A minstrel troupe is supposed to have just breezed into town, one of those Hi Hank kind that fight the fires at the tanks with a big bass drum and half a dozen trombones. Mr. Conn has gone to sleep in a Turkish bath under the happy influence of a massage and steam and wakes up to find that some absented minister's son has gone off with his glad rags and left him a clerical frock and dip in its place. Luckily there is a letter in the pocket addressed, and Mr. Conn beats it, as they would say, to get back the gay spring vest. Now that letter is from one sweet girl friend to another asking her to look after her brother, who is a theological student and is very timid and has never in his life before strayed so far away from home as the seminary. Mr. Conn, who hits the tanks, is shown into Miss Louise Strong's drawing room. Miss Strong is charming, one of our most up-to-date golfing girls, but she is warm-hearted, very, and she does not wait for any explanations after she reads the letter and sees the clerical dip. She just waltzes right in to put Mr. Conn at his ease. Does she do it? You must see that mad finale at Keith's this week when the bric-a-brac goes out of the window to realize just how she did."

The moving pictures for the week will show two strong comedy subjects. A matinee is given daily at 2:45 and a performance every night at 8 and 9:30. A school children's matinee is given Saturday afternoon at 2:30.

AT THE MOVING PICTURE HOUSES

Excellent bills have been arranged for the Orpheum and Lyric theaters next week. At the Orpheum there will be a dramatic film, "The Chink at Golden Gulch." A humerous film will be "The Sage, the Cherub and the Widow." A stirring series of pictures is "For Her Country's Sake." Miss Maddox will sing.

At the Lyric a humorous film, "All on Account of a Lie." More Than His Duty," is a highly dramatic theme and the pictures are among the best that have been shown at the Lyric for some time. "Kentucky Pioneers," is a descriptive and dramatic film. Mr. Merritt will sing.

In Varietydom.

Eva Tanguay is ill and has abandoned her projected tour. She is under the care of a throat specialist.

Sarah Berhardt is packing the huge Coliseum, London. She plays an act from "l'Aiglon" with quite as much fire as if she were not a grandmother. Her weekly stipend is said to be $4,000.

Elbert Hubbard starts upon his tour of the Orpheum shortly. The sage of East Aurora appeared in Chicago for a week last spring, but this will be his first regular vaudeville experience of any length.

The Garrick, San Diego, starts playing Orpheum acts this week. The arrangements permit of acts playing there three days a week, thus breaking the jump from Los Angeles to Salt Lake City.

Will Cressy is able to appreciate a joke even when it is on himself. Here is a story he tells in the New York Telegraph:

Just after we had finished our act at the Orpheum in Minneapolis, a "drunken gentleman" made his way to the box office.

"Shay," he said to the ticket seller, thickly, "what do you want to hire such rotten actors for? Why don't you get some good ones?"

The ticket seller asked him which act it was that met with his distinguished disapproval.

"Why, that old Rube in there with that 'Town Hall' play."

"What are you talking about?" said the ticket seller, indignantly; "that is considered one of the best acts on the stage."

The bibulous gentleman thought for a moment, looked at the ticket seller closely for another moment, then said earnestly:

"Honestly, is it?"

"Why, sure it is. That is one of our best acts."

The bibulous gentleman thought for a moment, shook his head, and as he turned away said, almost tearfully, to himself:

"By gosh, I'll never go to another vaudeville show as long as I live."

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

It has been announced, but then denied, that John Hare would come to this country this season. Now comes another statement to the effect that he will come in the spring, and that Charles Frohman has arranged for him to give a number of his former successes.

In the production of "The Merry Wives of Windsor," to be made by the New theater next month, Edith Wynne Matthison will play Mrs. Ford, Rose Coghlan will be the Mistress Page and Louis Calvert will be cast as Falstaff.

Langdon Mitchell's new play, which he has written for Mrs. Fiske, and which she will produce in the spring in New York, is called "The New Marriage."

"The Fortune Hunter" is to have a London production. It is now being arranged that Winchell Smith's comedy shall be shown in the Wyndham theater early in the winter.

William Faversham is to make two new productions during his New York season, beginning in December. His first offering will be "The Faun," by Edward Knoblauch, the author of "The Shumalite" and "The Cottage in the Air," to be followed by a Shakespearian revival, but which play that is to be given has not been announced.

An official report as to the financial outcome of the "Passion Play" at Oberammergau shows that the receipts fell far behind expectations. Two hundred and twenty-five thousand visitors attended the fifty-nine performances which were given, and the net profits were $351,000. It was expected that 400,000 visitors would attend this years' production and that the profits would be something like $500,000.

Chilly weather and rain cut down the attendance of visitors. Many of the performances were given in the rain. Thousands of persons who flocked to the little village were driven away by the disagreeable weather. Nearly 700 persons took part in the 1910 production. Part of the net profits will be divided among the performers and part of it will go to the village of Oberammergau, to be used for hospitals, civic improvements, and the regulation of communal affairs. Some of the players will receive only the equivalent of $1 for all of their appearances. Those who took the leading parts will get the equivalent of only a few hundred dollars.

Rehearsals of "The Iron King," a comedy by Cosmo Hamilton, have begun, Frank Adair, a baritone singer, is cast for the title role. The scenes of the play are laid in Pittsburg.

Among the enterprises of Henry W. Savage yet in the distance is a production of "The Lieutenant's Ward," a German play by Leo Walthier Stein and Ludwig Heller. Messrs. Stein and Heller were the authors of the play from which "The House Next Door" was adapted.

Edward Sheldon is the youngest successful playwright in the United States. It has long been the fashion to sneer at college-bred litterateurs and elocution-school actors, and probably with reason, but Mr. Sheldon is an instance of what a young man, with native talent, can be taught in the way of stage technique. The author of "The Nigger" was a member of a class in play writing at Harvard, and actually learned the rudiments of play construction at the hands of a teacher. His first serious attempt to win the approbation of the public for his cultivated talent as a playwright was with "Salvation Nell," which was successfully played by Mrs. Fiske. "The Nigger" is his second play, and as it betrays a riper experience and an advanced knowledge of human nature, it has won a still greater measure of success. A curious thing in connection with this play is the fact that Mr. Sheldon has never traveled in the South, and yet those who are familiar with the Southern section of the United States say that "The Nigger" is remarkable, not only for its dramatic intensity, but also for the remarkable fidelity to Southern life and character which it displays. Mr. Sheldon is only 24 years of age. He was born in Chicago.

Nat Fields, the big brother of Lew Fields, has one of the principal comedy roles in the latter's big production of "The Jolly Bachelors."

Miss Wish Wynne, the "Feminine Harry Lauder," is booked for an early appearance on the Orpheum circuit. Miss Wynne is the latest theatrical importation from the tight little isle that now furnishes a large part of the entertainment of American variety audiences.

Last Monday Maude Adams began an extended tour of the South, appearing in the principal theaters of that territory, represented by Frohman, Klaw and Erlanger. Miss Adams will remain on tour in "What Every Woman Knows" until January. Then comes the long-promised production of "Chantecler."

Pauline Perry has been engaged for the prima donna role in "The Silver Bottle," described as a tabloid musical comedy, by Bozeman Bulger, with music by Samuel Lehman. Miss Perry appeared for a time on tour in "The Merry Widow." She came more prominently into notice through her singing of Adeline in "The Climax."

Mlle. Pavlova, the celebrated Russian dancer, who is to make a tour of this country with Mr. Mordkin and a company of sixty, arrived in New York last week. Regarding the imitations of her dancing which were given by Cissie Loftus in London, Mlle. Pavlova laughingly admitted that she was deeply interested in them because she had personally coached the American mimic in them.

M. M. Theise is thinking of booking Jack Johnson in London and the provinces. If Mr. Theise succeeds, the black pugilist will be easily the most contracted smoke that has ever crossed the Atlantic.

Miss Adele Cheridah, the adopted child of Billie Burke, is making her debut on the stage in "The Girl of the Train," which has just been produced by Charles Dillingham. She is 13 years old, not much younger than her pretty foster mother.

John Emerson, who staged "The City," "The Watcher," "The Whirlwind" and other notable dramatic productions for the Messrs. Shubert, and who also played the important roles in these productions, is to play a leading male role in support of Mme. Kalich in her new dramatic production, which is now in rehearsal, "The Woman of Today."

Mary Mannering, who underwent an operation for appendicitis recently, is improving rapidly, and her physicians believe she will be ready to take up active work again within the next two weeks. Proceeding upon this assumption, her tour in "A Man's World" is to begin Oct. 26. As only minor or changes have been made in the cast of the play since its exceedingly successful tour last season, rehearsals will neither be long or arduous.

That old farce favorite, "My Friend From India," is to be made into a musical comedy following the plan of "The Three Twins," which was "Incog" set to music. Karl Hoschna is to write the music for the new production.

Nat M. Wills and La Titcomb have been booked for an American tour in vaudeville, beginning Nov. 21. Since their marriage the tramp comedian has insisted that he and his wife shall appear on the same bills. He is known to have fixed one salary for the two acts, but the division is not stipulated in the contracts.

When Thomas W. Ryley reorganizes "The Storm" he will place Josephine Victor in the leading role. Miss Victor was leading lady for Wilton Lackaye when "The Battle" was first presented.

"The Penalty," another play of the Cohan and Harris output, will be sent on tour again this season. The opening date is Oct. 17. Hilda Spong will be promoted to the eminence of star.

Mary Roberts Rinehart, one of the authors of "Seven Days," whose threat of total blindness was recently reported, sailed for Europe with the assurance that her sight is preserved.

Mrs. Rinehart was stricken with acute eye trouble at her summer home at Bemus Point, N. Y., a few weeks ago on the eve of her intended departure for Europe. The report was that she was menaced with permanent loss of sight. She came at once to New York, where she has been living quietly ever since under medical treatment. She said Saturday she had been assured the trouble was past and would not recur if she was prudent.

George M. Cohan has decided not to open his new George M. Cohen theater with "The Little Chauffeur," the musical comedy he had been preparing, but will substitute a new straight comedy from his own pen, in which he will use most of the principals intended for the musical affair.

Under the management of Herbert M. Morkheimer Violet Dale will rise to the eminence of a full-fledged star later in the season. To this end Morkheimer has acquired the rights of a farce, entitled "A Message From Reno," written by Mark Swan and Charles Barnard.

Leo Fall, the composer of "The Dollar Princess" and "The Girl in the Train," has called Charles Dillingham that he expects to make his first visit to New York late next month in order to witness the performances of the latter play at the Globe theater.

Eddie Foy in "Up and Down Broadway" will dedicate the new Shubert theater in Brooklyn about the middle of October.

Liebler & Co., will make the first production of Mascagnii's new opera, "Ysobel," at the New theater, Nov. 14.

Olga Nethersole has made a contract with Liebler & Co., by which she will be under their management for the next two years. She will appear in a repertoire of plays and will also have a new one.

Among the company supporting Felix Haney as alderman in "The Man of the Hour" are Joseph O. Le Brasse, Edward McKin, P. Jefferson Hollow, Joseph C. Coughlin, William Lloyd, Harry J. Hewitt, Mart M. Starr, Gertrude Fowler, Anna Lehr and Martha Holly.

Monday night Forbes-Robertson reopened to a crowded house at Maxine Elliott's theater, New York, every seat having been booked in advance for the one thousandth performance of "The Passing of the Third Floor Back" in England and America. To celebrate this anniversary presentation a handsome souvenir was presented to each person in the audience.

Emma Carus, the co-star with Eddie Foy in "Up and Down Broadway," occupied a similar position with Harry Bulger in "Wonderland" a few seasons ago. She was also featured with the original New York production of "The Great White Way" and "The Mimic World."

Instead of one sensational stage setting, as in "The Midnight Sons," there are three immense and unique scenic pictures in "The Summer Widowers."

During this month James T. Powers will appear at the Belasco theater in "Havana." About the holidays Mr. Powers will appear in a new musical comedy.

Charles Frohman has decided to make a revival of Oscar Wilde's drama "The Importance of Being Earnest." It will be remembered that William Brady desired to produce this play with an all-star cast, but upon objections from Mr. Frohman, on the ground that the latter owned the exclusive American rights to the drama, Mr. Brady substituted "Diplomacy." Now that "Love Among the Lions" has proved a failure, Mr. Frohman finds it necessary to produce something in which the activities of the English comedian, A. T. Matthews, may be utilized, and has determined to revive the old play and give Mr. Matthews one of the principal parts.

Mr. Frohman also has found an outlet for the talent of May Blaney (Mrs. Matthews), who also has been appearing in "Love Among the Lions." Miss Blaney is to be intrusted with the role of the hen pheasant in "Chantecler" when the Rostand drama is produced.

Klaw & Erlanger have booked "Ben Hur" in a number of open-door theaters in the smaller towns, doing the business direct with the local managers themselves.

John Cort is to build two new theaters, one in New York and one in Philadelphia.

Henry Woodruff and the company to support him in "The Genius," which will be presented under the direction of Mort H. Singer, are busily rehearsing the new play by Brothers de Mille with ten musical offerings by Paul Reubens. The cast was personally engaged by Henry Woodruff in New York and taken to Chicago, where the rehearsals are in progress under the supervision of William Post.

"Seven Days" ends it run at the Astor theater on Saturday night, Oct. 22. The comedy will have played fifty weeks and a total of 401 performances without loss of a day since the opening night last November. With one exception the cast is identically the same as opened in the piece. The company will spend the greater part of the season in Boston and Philadelphia, returning to wind up in Brooklyn and the outlying theaters in Manhattan.

Olga Nethersole is the latest star to come under the banner of George Tyler, of the Liebler firm. For the next two seasons she will appear in a repertoire of her plays in addition to a new play.

Blanche Ring has inaugurated a tour in "The Yankee Girl," which for vastness of territory and length of time covered will probably hold this season's record. Her tour is booked up to July, 1911, and in the interval Miss Ring will have appeared in all the important cities between New York and the Pacific coast. She will go north to Montreal, west to San Francisco and return to New York next summer by way of the important Southern cities.

A part of the Gillette equipment for his repertoire tour in his six famous successes will be a genuine fife and drum corps, used only in one play, but so difficult to obtain on the short notice always incident to a change of bill in any repertoire scheme, that Mr. Gillette, with his usual precision, has decided to keep the whole fife and drum corps constantly on hand.

It has been agreed between Ethel Barrymore and Charles Frohman that that actress shall continue in the role of Zoe Blundell in Pinero's play, "Mid-Channel," until the middle of January instead of, as intended, producing a new play New Year's. Meantime Jan. 8 has been settled upon as the date for the first performance of Sir Arthur W. Pinero's new comedy in London. This will be the first Pinero play ever produced by an American manager in London.

"The Speckled Band, an Adventure of Sherlock Holmes," the new Conan Doyle detective play that Charles Frohman now has in rehearsal and will produce in Boston on October 25, for the first time on any American stage, will require, during its action, the presence and actual handling of a huge snake. A cobra seventeen feet long has been produced and is being daily rehearsed for the purpose. Edwin Stevens will head the cast of "The Speckled Band."

The most emphatic success of the current theatrical season in London is the de Caillavet and de Flers comedy "Inconstant George," which John Drew acted in this country last year and then, through Charles Frohman, graciously turned over to Charles Hawtrey, who is playing the piece before crowded houses nightly. Mr. Hawtrey not only possesses the Frohman prompt-book for "Inconstant George," but an exact duplicate of the Frohman production, and even the Frohman stage manager.

When "Our Miss Gibbs" begins its brief tour of the principal cities, prior to the return to England of the members of the London Gaiety theater, especially secured for this American season, it will be acted precisely by the same company that carried the piece to such a substantial triumph during its engagement of three months at the Knickerbocker theater, New York. The cast will include Pauline Chase, Gertrude Vanderbilt, Bert Leslie, Fred Wright, Jr., Aylwin and Kitty Mason.

The Best Original Essay
On the Beer Question Wins

$50 IN GOLD

Have you ever given much thought to the question of beer as a beverage and nutritious food?

Or have you confined your thoughts on beer entirely to the mere pleasure of drinking it?

Been drinking is a many-sided question as to its wholesomeness, food value, etc. On these pages in subsequent issues we are going to present a series of eight articles on the benefits to be obtained from temperate and moderate beer drinking. There is much educational and healthful value to be derived.

Read these articles, so that you may get the opinions of the best authorities on the subject. Learn the advantages that lie in the use of a strictly good beer, such as ours.

Then write an essay incorporating your own ideas on the subject.

Three competent judges, to be announced later, will pass upon the merits of these essays, and the author of the best article will be presented with

NEW GOLD FIELD IN ONTARIO

Exploring Syndicate Which Was First in Field Disposes of Eleven Claims for $1,700,000—Entire Region Staked By Gold Hunters.

Marquette, Mich., Oct. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Jack Wilson, successful argonaut, who brought many years of vicissitudes in exploratory work in Canada to a successful conclusion in September of last year by discovering some marvelously rich quartz gold deposits in a new field some 220 miles north of North Bay, a station on the Canadian Pacific near the north shore of Lake Nipissing, is in Marquette for a few days. His mission here is to take his father and mother to Southern Michigan, where they will henceforth make their home.

Mr. Wilson originally went north from North Bay on an agreement with certain parties to explore on their joint account. He made a considerable personal investment for supplies for the trip, and had assembled a large party. He had just gotten fairly started when the men for whom he agreed to work withdrew from the deal. But a Chicago man, named Edwards, took their place and the expedition was continued. The discovery of gold was made after many weeks of the hardest kind of work in the pathless Canadian woods. Mr. Wilson, himself, found the first gold. Claims were staked out in the interest of the exploring syndicate, and then other claims were staked by members of the party on their joint account. News of the discovery quickly found its way south to the railroad, and within two months 5,000 people had flocked into the new district. By the first of this year the entire region for many square miles around was taked in claims taken up by the greedy gold hunters.

Mr. Wilson says that the people interested with him have already disposed of eleven claims for an aggregate sum of $1,700,000. Six of these claims, comprising some of the richest showings in the new field, were sold for $1,500,000 and five for $200,000. The claims were disposed of under a satisfactory contract and large payments have already been made under its terms. Besides his interest in these claims, Mr. Wilson says he is interested in twenty-five other claims in the new district on varying terms.

The new region is now undergoing much development. But two small stamp mills have so far been erected. They are of limited capacity, but projects for other mills are outlined and during the coming winter several hundred teams will be employed hauling machinery and supplies. There is no railroad into the new field, and practically all the heavy hauling has to be done during the winter, when good sleigh roads can be had.

Mr. Wilson regards the new field as one of the richest gold districts on the continent and predicts the opening of several rich mines. From now on its development will be rapid, as capital has been attracted to it and some influential capitalists have taken hold of the development of promising prospects.

TUOLUMNE DOES LEGAL WORK

Disputed Vein Has Complete Series of Shafts and Raises —Models of Workings Will Be Used at Trial of Case.

Butte, Mont., Oct. 15.—The Tuolumne Copper company has just completed a series of shafts and raises, upon which it will base its theory that the vein in dispute apexes in the Tuolumne ground, and in the compromise Jessie strip, to which it claims ownership by purchase from Patrick Meagher many years ago.

The work includes an inclined shaft sunk at a point a short distance from the main working shaft. This inclined shaft was sunk to a depth of about 135 feet, following a footwall, and from the 400-foot level a raise has been carried to connect with the inclined shaft. A winze is being sunk from the 400-foot level to connect with a drift run from the Jessie claim, and it is expected that this winze will be completed within the next ten days. The completed work it is expected by the Tuolumne officers, will prove the continuity of the vein, and models made from it will be used as an exhibit when the case with the North Butte company comes up for trial in the district court.

The Tuolumne company is now shipping at the rate of about 4,000 tons of ore a month, the average value being between 8 and 9 per cent copper, with good silver values.

ARE LOOKING FOR LOST MINE

Valuable Property Is Quest of Two Prospectors in Arizona —Has Been Cause of Many Searches in Past Seven Years.

Florence, Ariz., Oct. 15.—Prepared to stay for several months and determined to go over every foot of the ground in the district if necessary, Tom Worden and Jack Wordny left Florence several days ago to search for the Weedin lost mine, which in the past seven years has been the cause of many searches.

In 1903, Col. T. T. Weedin was prospecting in the hills twenty-one miles east of Florence. Tired from carrying a heavy sack of samples he had knocked from promising ledges, Weedin sought rest under the shade of a friendly bush.

Weedin's eye was caught by a quartz ledge a few yards away. As he started away, Weedin knocked a sample from the ledge the size of a small teacup. It seemed to contain little but pyrites, but he put it into his sack along with the rest.

Little thinking that he had placed his hands on a fortune, Weedin expected so little from the sample that he took no special notice of the district, except that the ledge was in a gulch about four feet wide and two feet deep.

After reaching home, Weedin carefully looked after the other samples he had gathered and then to complete the examination broke open the samples from the quartz ledge. It contained a chunk of gold the size of an English walnut.

Though anxious to return at once to the spot, Weedin was detained in Florence two weeks by reason of his being clerk of the United States court. He states now that those two weeks were the most trying time of his life. He could not keep his mind off the danger of some prospector happening on his fabulous mine.

While court was in session several heavy rains swept over Pinal county. When Weedin attempted to return to the gold soaked ledge he could find no trace of it or the gulch. He sought for days without result.

Weedin feels certain that the heavy rains which fell while he served in court filled the small gulch and possibly forever hid from view the rich ledge.

Six times Weedin has searchd for the ledge in the past seven years. He constantly hopes that another rain will uncover the ledge and expose it to view.

Worden and Woodny have obtained from Weedin an accurate description of the locality of his discovery. They have agreed with him that if they find the ledge he will be included as a one-third owner.

Weedin estimates that the ore will run $60,000 in gold to the ton according to the samples he found. He still has in his cabinet at Florence the two halves of the piece containing the gold.

GOOD STRIKE AT PARADISE

Full Face of Copper Ore, Averaging 7 Per Cent, Encountered at Depth of Eighty Feet—Another Strike Expected.

Douglas, Ariz., Oct. 15.—Never have the prospects of the Paradise district appeared so bright to the residents as at present time, according to Renwick White, editor of the Paradise record, who is in the city. One mining strike of importance has been made and another is believed, from all indications to be at hand in the immediate future.

Last week a full face of copper or averaging 7 per cent and carrying in gold average value of $4 to the ton, was broken into at a depth of eighty feet. While some drifting through the body has been done in the time intervening between the strike and the time Mr. White left Paradise, there were no indications that the ore was not in a large body. Capt. Duncan, who is a wealthy and influential resident of St. Louis, has much property in the Paradise district and has expended close to $100,000 in its development. It is believed that his reward for his faith is not far distant.

While Mr. White considers the strike the most important in the history of Paradise, the work being carried on by the Califofrnia & Paradise is also of especial moment to the camp. This company is working steadily toward the contact and expects to break into ore at any time.

By the time the drift is in about sixty-five feet, or as soon as it has passed through the dike of the porphyry that cuts through the formation, rich ore is confidently expected, for there was high-grade ore—lead carbonates—in the bottom of the thirty-five-foot winze on the 100-foot level, sixty-five feet above the present level. There are several other instancs in the district, in conditions rather similar, where pipes, shoots and veins of lead-silver ore are found at a depth of 200 feet, just as strong as ever and still going down.

BOND ISSUE IS GOING WELL

Butte & Superior Will Be Able to Build Mill and Carry on Extensive Operations Soon—Heinze May Head Merger of the Independents—Clark Discusses Copper Conditions.

Butte, Mont., Oct. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Butte & Superior company management is very confident over the outcome of its bond issue, and there is every reason to believe that the company will derive sufficient money to carry on its operations on an extensive scale and will be able in the next thirty days to arrange for the construction of a mill on its property to treat the ore. The company has some payments on property coming due early in the coming year and the bond issue money will also supply enough to meet these obligations. While there are quite a number of small stockholders selling their holdings, the great majority of the persons have subscribed for their pro rata allotment and it is stated on what seems to be reliable authority that Former Senator W. A. Clark of this city will take up the bonds allowed him under his holdings—indeed, there is some reason to believe that the senator will probably take up a quantity of the bonds left over after the stockholders have received their allowance. The time expires Oct. 20 for subscribing to the bonds so far as the stockholders are concerned. General Manager R. M. Atwater, in speaking of the property, said that the company was shipping 350 tons daily to the Basin concentrator that will average 21 per cent zinc, 73 per cent of which is saved in the milling. He said that for September the total operating costs, outside of new construction, were $4.50 per ton. During the past month it should be remembered that the mine was closed down for a short time on account of an accident to the hoisting plant, but the profits for the month, not including new construction, were $20,000.

Butte-Ballaklava Suit.

The suit of the Anaconda Mining company against the Butte-Ballaklava company has again been continued, this time until Nov. 10, on request of the attorneys for the plaintiff. A short time ago, it will be remembered, a temporary restraining order was issued at the instance of the Anaconda company and it is now up to the Butte-Ballaklava company to show cause why it should not be made permanent. The right to the property in dispute promises to be very bitterly contested by both sides.

Merger of Independents.

The report that the independent mining companies are to be merged under one management is beginning to receive considerable attention among people interested in mining. Just what will become of the movement it is yet hard to say, but there is no doubt that at least several of the leading men of the independent companies are in favor of the project, provided satisfactory arrangements can be made. At the present time nothing has been done beyond an informal discussion of the subject between some of the heavy stockholders of several companies. Suits are now pending against two of the leading companies, the Tuolumne and the Butte-Ballaklava, brought by the Anaconda and North Butte companies, claiming the illegal extraction of ore and mining in ground belonging to the latter concern. It is therefore not at all probable that anything of a decisive character will be done until there is a decision in the cases mentioned, which means probably several

AT THE LAKE COPPER MINES

Drilling By Keweenaw Disclosing Copper Ground in Ashbed Lode Traversing Old Phoenix Property—Indiana Planning for Vertical Shaft—Further Improvement in Situation in Centennial Mine.

Houghton, Mich., Oct. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The diamond drill operations of the Keweenaw Copper company continue to result in the disclosure of copper ground in the Ashbed lode traversing the old Phoenix property. The newer drill holes are going down to the northward of the earlier series and will cut this formation at somewhat greater depth. The first core yielded by one of these deeper holes shows excellent copper values indicating that the values disclosed in several of the shallower holes carry downward to a depth sufficiently great to warrant investigation by shaft and lateral openings.

Indiana.

The Indiana Mining company is working out plans for a vertical shaft to be sunk in the vicinity of the several drill holes put down in what is generally known as the Indiana felsite bed. This formation has yielded several very rich copper-bearing cores at a depth of about 1,450 feet, the mineral occurring both as fines and nuggets in a felsite and amygdaloid bed several hundred feet in thickness. The deposit is a puzzle, and little or nothing is known concerning its dip or strike, but apparently is very rich and thick. Sinking the shaft from the position planned will require the greater part of two years time to bring it into the lode. The work is expected to begin shortly.

Centennial.

There has been a further improvement in the situation in the Centennial mine, where drifting northward at the thirtieth and thirty-third levels recently opened into what appears to be a continuation of the Wolverine copper shoot for which the company has been seeking so many years. The drift at the twenty-eighth level came into excellent copper ground several months ago, but it was not until more recently that the laterals below entered similar enrichment and if anything somewhat better values. The twenty-eighth and the thirtieth level drifts are well under the South Kearsarge workings and will be temporarily stopped while drifting below those laterals will be prosecuted with greater vigor. The two shafts opened in this property are bottomed at the thirty-fifth level. No sinking is now nor has for some months been in progress.

Hancock.

The Hancock Consolidated Mining company is making excellent progress in blocking out ground in their so-called No. 3 lode. This lode is opened by winze and raise from the eleventh level to the eighteenth, and by drifts at all levels from the thirteenth to the eighteenth inclusive. The ground is well charged with copper generally and at points is remarkably rich. No official figures are available, but reliable estimates place the total tonnage blocked out at around 1,000,000 tons. These work-

DEVELOPING AT THE SUMMIT

Three Shifts Are Employed in Sinking New Shafts at Good Depth—Superior & Boston Company Encouraged Over Prospects—Difficulties at Superior & Globe Rapidly Passing Away.

Globe, Ariz., Oct. 15.—Development work and construction is continuing with the same rapidity at the Summit property, formerly under the control of the Gibson Copper company. Three shifts are being worked in the new vertical shaft and each shift consists of six men. The shaft is now at a depth of approximately 600 feet and will be sunk to further depth.

Drifting and opening up of the old stopes in the underground workings is going on and the old workings are being put into shape for extraction of the lower grade ore that was neglected under the former management. The greatest depth the old workings attained was 400 feet on an incline of about 45 deg, making a vertical depth of about 4,200 feet. There was a level every 100 feet on the incline shaft and from these levels the highest grade shipping ore only was extracted.

This ore averaged about 20 per cent in copper values and the ore as taken from the mine had in many cases to be mixed with waste to run the grade down to the 20 per cent average. This of course necessitated the establishment of ore that is of workable grade now and that by a little treatment can be run up to shipping grade. It is not decided whether or not a mill will ever be built on the property.

One of the greatest inducements for the erection of the concentrator planned was the dump at the vertical shaft which contained over 100,000 tons good milling ore. The stopes from which the high grade stringers were gouged also contain a lot of the same kind of ore that is in the dump. Some recent screen tests, however, made by J. P. Hamilton show 75 per cent of the values can be saved out of 25 per cent of the ore. Whether or not it will pay to run the other 75 per cent of the ore through a mill to regain 25 per cent of the values is the question now being decided. There is some talk of an aerial tramway to Ray, but nothing definite has as yet been decided on that score.

The distance from the Summit to Ray is about eight miles with a difference in elevation of 2,700 feet. The possibility of a gravity tram is evident and this may be the solution of the problem that has kept the Summit property from developing to the stage it ordinarily would under more favorable conditions. The problem of enough water to run the concentrator has been another difficulty and an argument in favor of the transportation of the ore to some distant point for treatment. The company employs sixty men.

Superior & Boston.

With seventy men at work at the Superior & Boston Copper company the development work and exploitation is progressing as usual. Six men a shift are working three shifts in the sinking of the McGaw shaft which is to date at a depth of approximately 850 feet below the collar. Water in troublesome quantities is not encountered, and the shaft sinking is progressing at a pleasing and efficient rate. The crosscut on the eighth level is 190 feet from the shaft and in limestone. The limestone is quite mineralized and the indications of copper values is very encouraging.

This crosscut will penetrate the vein at a point just east of where the strike of the vein changes by about sixty degrees further west of its general north west and south east trend. This is quite a sharp change, the strike of the vein and it is expected to occur on the eighth level by reason of the fact that the change took place on both the fourth and sixth levels. In these levels the ore bodies did not occur right at

ORE SHIPMENTS ON THE WANE

Lake Superior Mines Suspending Production or Curtailing Operations for the Season—Doubtful If October Shipments Will Exceed 5,000,000 Tons—Maas Mine to Have Concrete Shaft.

Lake Superior iron ore shipments are on the wane. There has been a notable slackening lately and it is doubtful if the movement for the month will exceed 5,000,000 tons. Open pits are already suspending production for the season. Other mines are curtailing operations materially. The beginning of the end has set in earlier than last year, but with considerably more ore forwarded than at the corresponding time in 1909, it is certain that the outgo for the season will surpass all former records. The shipments via the Great Lakes will round the 40,000,000-ton mark by the first of November, which will compare with 42,500,000 tons as the combined rail and water movement for the entire year of 1909.

With one exception, all the active mines of the Marquette iron range are located in Marquette county, Mich. These are forty-eight in number, according to the annual report of the mine inspector, and during the year ended Sept. 30 they gave work to 6,546 men, compared with 5,682 men the preceding fiscal year. There were twenty-nine fatalities, a rate of 4.45 per thousand men employed. The inspector states that the year has been a fairly good one, although the shipments have not been quite as large as were anticipated early in the season. Operations have been suspended at the West Republic mine at Republic, and work has been resumed at the Lucy, Breitung Hematite No. 1 and Milwaukee-Davis mines at Negaunee; the Erie and Kloman at Republic, and the Franklin at Humboldt. Two new mines, the Maitland at Palmer and the Barnes at Dexter, have been opened during the year. A new concrete shaft is being constructed at the Negaunee mine at Negaunee, and considerable diamond drill exploring is being done at different points in the county. The Foundation Company of New York has recently completed a concrete shaft at the Northwestern mine at Gwinn, and is preparing to sink two more shafts at Cyr, three miles from the Northwestern. Both of these mines are properties of the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company, as is the Negaunee mine.

Maas to Have a New Shaft.

The Cleveland Cliffs company has decided to reconstruct the shaft at the Maas mine at Negaunee, from surface to the ledge, a distance of 175 feet, using concrete instead of timber. The contract has been awarded to the Foundation company. It is planned to begin work about Dec. 1, at the close of the shipping season. It is expected that it will take about five months to complete the task. It will be necessary to suspend mining operations while the improvement is being made, but none of the men will be laid off. Those who cannot be employed at the Maas will be transferred to the Negaunee mine. The installation of the concrete lining will put an end to the flow of water that now comes through the quicksand above the ledge. This inrush of water is a heavy one, and it is a question whether it has its source in Teal lake or nearby springs. The workings are comparatively dry, so that with a wall of concrete enclosing the upper portion of the shaft, the cost of pumping will be greatly reduced.

When the Maas shaft was sunk the quicksand ran in from the surface on all sides, forming a great cavity. With the shaft completed to the ledge, the rock hoisted was dumped into this big surface opening. The Foundation company will have to remove many tons of the rock while the concrete is being put in. It will be some time before the concrete shaft that the Cleveland-Cliffs company is constructing at the Negaunee mine is completed, since it will be 700 feet in depth. The work is being done by the company's own men, and it is progressing satisfactorily. Three teams are kept constantly at work hauling gravel for the concrete, which is mixed on the surface and lowered into the shaft. The old shaft at the Negaunee mine will, in time, be abandoned and all of the hoisting will be done through the new one. As there is a considerable quantity of ore near the old shaft, and that will be taken out on the caving system, it ultimately will be necessary to remove a number of the mine buildings.

Cliffs Shafts Mine.

At the Cleveland Cliffs company's Cliffs Shafts mine at Ihspeming, the erection of an ore-crushing house is practically completed and the machinery is now being installed. The building is of steel, and in conjunction with it there is in progress of construction

BIG DIVIDENDS BY THE MINES

Present Year Will Show Enormous Disbursements—Nearly $56,000,000 Paid During the First Nine Months —Copper Companies Distribute $20,000,000.

Owing to the unsatisfactory condition of the copper and other metal markets during the earlier part of the year it was generally believed that 1910 would not be a profitable year to the holders of stock in American mines and metallurgical works. With the closing of the third quarter of the year, however, judging from the figures available to the Mining World, the year, it is believed, will close with a record of dividend disbursements greater than that for any year in the history of the mining industry.

Between Jan. 1 and Oct. 1, 123 mines and metallurgical works reporting to the Mining World have paid dividends totaling $55,887,047, as compared with $45,927,275 paid during the same period in 1909 by 103 companies. That the dividend payments of these mines and works are of regular occurrence is proved by the fact that since incorporation they have yielded profits which permitted the disbursement among shareholders of the enormous total of $680,838,141. This is equivalent to a return of 113 per cent on the total outstanding capital of $600,447,784.

In addition to the above there was declared during the nine months of the year by nine securities holding corporations, $10,992,523, as against $13,187,595 during the same period in 1909. Since incorporation these nine companies have paid to shareholders $113,461,747, a 36 per cent return on the $341,172,125 issued capitalization.

Then, too, there are large profits which have been divided by numerous private and close corporations, to say nothing of the vast sums earned by smaller mine owners and prospectors.

Of the 123 companies contributing to the year's total, ninety-one are classed as gold-silver-lead-zinc producers, and contributed $23,139,865 to the $55,887,047 total. Of these, fifty-four operate properties in the United States, and they distributed among shareholders $13,429,893. Fourteen Canadian companies, ten operating in Ontario and four in British Columbia, contributed $5,839,976. Twenty-one Mexican companies participated in the distribution to the extent of $3,658,930.

Twenty-three copper companies, all but one operating in the United States, divided among shareholders during the nine month of 1910, $19,482,118. During the same period in 1909, sixteen companies distributed $14,854,022. On their combined issued share capital of $119,893,114, a return equivalent to 289 per cent has been made since incorporation, which means that $359,232,658 has been divided among shareholders.

Seven metallurgical companies, having an issued capitalization of $225,491,950, have paid to shareholders $105,725,407, a return equivalent to 46 per cent. So far this year these seven companies have distributed $12,175,064, as compared with $8,431,044 during the same period in 1909.

PROGRESS AT THE KEATING

Ore Bodies Widen Out at Depth and Values Are Steady —Drifts on Two Levels Encounter 17 Per Cent Copper.

Butte, Mont., Oct. 15.—McDowell Graves, superintendent of the Keating Gold Mining company's properties in the Radersburg district, was in the city a few days ago and reported most enthusiastically as to the splendid progress which is being made in the mines, both in the way of development and in actual production of high-grade ores.

On the 600-foot level, says Mr. Graves, the mine is opening up beyond all expectations. The ore shoot has widened out materially and is now fully four feet in width. All of the filling between the walls is ore and there is practically no waste. The ore shoot is the same as on the 400 and 500-foot levels, but with the increasing width the ore values are even better than above. The values average between $14 and $16 to the ton, which nets the company a handsome profit.

On the 400 and 500-foot levels the drifts have recently encountered an ore body which gives as high as 17 per cent copper and the same high gold values as heretofore. The copper is a chalcopyrite, and it is reasonable to believe that the copper values will increase with depth, while, as far as the work has thus far proceeded at depth, there is no diminution of the gold values, but on the contrary there is a decided tendency toward increased gold values and more permanency of the ore deposits.

The Keating Gold Mining company is now shipping ten cars of ore a week, but this is shortly to be increased to double that amount.

RICH GOLD FIND AT BISBEE

East Side Mine on the Edge of Sulphur Springs Is in Gold-Bearing Ore in Two Shafts—Rich Ledge Found.

Bisbee, Ariz., Oct. 15.—Bisbee and the Warren district have long been famous for their great copper mines and it is now evident that within a short time a big producing gold mine will be added to the list of wealth makers that are as a whole second to none on the continent. The East Side Gold company's mine, but six miles from Bisbee on the edge of the Sulphur Springs valley is proving to be a gold property of great merit and has been attracting the attention of the mining men of the district.

This property, consisting of six patented claims, was first opened up about seven or eight years ago by C. C. McCoy, who operated it in a small way and shipped a little high-grade ore to the smelters. He sunk a shaft to a depth of more than 100 feet and ran drifts and opened up a good showing of ore.

The company which owns the property was financed in Lambertville, N. J.. In march of this year the stockholders decided to resume operations as they had great faith in the property and President Rittenhouse was sent to Bisbee to personally superintend the work. When Mr. Rittenhouse arrived he put a small force of men to work, and development has been steadily carried on ever since with splendid results as a large showing of gold-bearing quartz ore has been opened up.

While sinking the lower shaft to the 100-foot level an eighteen streak of gold ore was opened up and this ore continued to the bottom of the shaft, where it dipped to the northeast and joined a larger body of ore opened later.

While cutting the station an unexpected ore body was entered and the whole floor of the station was cut in ore. This ledge is well defined as any ever struck in the Warren district. There is twenty feet of the ledge matter which lies between a quartzite hanging wall and a porphyry foot wall with the dip to the southeast. The ore will average about $25 to the ton.

Mining men who have visited the property within the past few days are convinced that this ledge, discovered in the cutting of the station, is one of the greatest finds made in recent years in the Warren district and absolutely assured the East Side of becoming an important gold producer.

THE GIROUX CONSOLIDATED

Preparations to Construct Mill and Possibly Smelting Plant at Ely—Company Buys Water Rights to Steptoe and Murray Creeks.

Ely, Nev., Oct. 15.—In conformity with the statement recently made by John D. Ryan, it is learned that the Giroux Consolidated Mining company is making preparations to construct a mill and possibly a smelting plant at Ely. It is said that the final decision has been reached regarding the building of a smelting plant, and it is possible that concentrates from the mill may be shipped to the International smelting plant at Tooele.

It is understood that the Giroux company has bought the townsite and the water rights to Steptoe and Murray creeks. This, of course, means the existing rights of these two streams of water, which are said to have a sufficient flow to amply provide the mill plant of a large capacity. The ground in question is a large area, a portion of which the company is said to have the mineral right to, and this deal will give the surface rights also.

From this report it is surmised that the management contemplates erecting the mill near the present site of the plant that was constructed under the Giroux regime. This would give the plant a flat country on which to operate, and a large area for tailings which would flow down the valley by gravity force. The water from the two streams would have to be pumped some distance to the plant, but a large reservoir will be excavated near the mill, so that a liberal supply can be assured at all times. From present indications it seems probable that the company will complete arrangements for building the plant at an early date.

Three shifts of miners are employed in the drift recently started by the Giroux company from the 1,200-foot level of the new Giroux shaft toward the flooded lower workings of the Alpha shaft, 750 feet distant. It is estimated that the drift can be finished in sixty days. Structural steel workers are busy on the framework for the buildings of the permanent hoisting plant. The company continues to prospect its sulphide deposits by means of three churn drills, though no statement has been given out as to the quality of the product found.

MINING IN THE BLACK HILLS

Homestake's Annual Report Shows Good Results—Not Hurt By the Long Labor War—Railroad Into Carbonate Camp Is Possibility.

Lead, S. D., Oct. 15.—The annual report of the Homestake Mining company for the year ended June 1, 1910, has just been made public. It is of particular interest, owing to the serious labor trouble through which the company went last winter. Despite the fact that the big property closed down on Nov. 24, 1909, and only reopened on Jan. 9, 1910, and did not get running at full capacity until March 3, there was a dividend disbursement of $982,800. During the year the company mined and treated 1,237,381 tons of ore of an average value of $3.6357 a ton, giving a bullion production of $4,498,751.1. The total expenditure in running the six milling plants, the slimes, regrinding and assay plants and including water and tramway was $819,740.63, while the cost of mining, including the surveying, was $1,820,134.60.

Probably the heaviest expenditure in new work was the hydro-electric plant the company is constructing in Spearfish canon at a total cost of over $1,000,000. The company spent on it during the year $282,044.25, the tunnel work alone costing $177,503.54, while timber lands cost $21,618.65 more and property purchases $1,-802.82.

Under the head of milling costs, regrinding, one of the most interesting features of the company's comparatively recent work, cost $18,688.49, a reduction of over $4,000 from the same figure last year; it will be still further reduced next year. The bullion freight cost $7,865.58; also a substantial reduction. Owing to the fact that the company now sells its bullion to the United States assay office at Deadwood this figure will be practically done away with from now on.

Debits for the year totalled $5,298,-623.38, including the balance on hand June 1, 1909, of $677,389.48. Disbursements totalled $4,816,874.88, which left a balance on hand June 1, 1910, of $481,748.50. Of the receipts bullion brought in $4,498,751.11. The foundry, which does considerable outside job work, brought in $78,-856.12, while wood receipts were approximately $20,000.

There is possibility of a railroad into Carbonate camp, where the Bunce properties are opening up some rich ore. The camp has lain idle for many years, but since the resumption of work by Mr. Bunce on the Iron Hill and other old properties and the striking of some rich silver veins and also gold ores, mining has taken a decided upward trend. Samples were sent to the Colorado Metals Reduction company, which reported that the ore could be treated by its smelting process at a cost of $1 per ton, with coal at $4. The Burlington railroad may be induced to run a spur into the camp from Deadwood or Crown Hill.

Construction of the new 200-ton cyanide plant of the Alder Creek Mining company is not to begin before next spring. The plans have been adopted, but it was decided that it was too late in the fall to get the mill in shape before winter set in, especially with the cement work.

PLACERS IN MAGPIE GULCH

Immense Dredge Being Constructed Near Helena to Work Placer Ground in Montana—Review of Eagle's Nest Group of Claims.

Helena, Mont., Oct. 15.—For more than a month a gang of forty men has been constructing an immense dredge on the river near here, and it is expected that by December 15 it will be ready to begin operations in Magpie gulch, where it empties into Lake Sewall, the reservoir or storage site of the Canon Ferry dam. About 400 acres of ground is to be worked. Title has been secured by a syndicate composed of California and local residents. O. W. Vandergrift, manager of the syndicate, made this announcement: "We have secured 400 acres of placer ground at the mouth of Magpie gulch and are now building a $150,000 five-foot close connected dredge with a capacity of 100,000 cubic yards a month. It will be one of the most modern in the country. The plant will be electrically driven with power from the Canon Ferry dam. To thaw the surface in the winter, steam heat will be used. We figure that we have enough ground to keep the dredge in operation for at least six years."

Two new mining companies have filed articles of incorporation with the secretary of state. Walter Oakes and L. P. Ketchem of Seattle promote the Magpie Development company, which has an authorized capital of $500,000 and will operate in the Helena district. The company has liabilities of $45,680. M. J. Scott, J. B. Frisbie and F. H. Butler are the incorporators of the Bamar Copper company, which will operate in the Butte district with an authorized capital of $1,500,000.

R. A. Bell of this city has issued a review of the Eagle's Nest group of twenty-nine claims, the discovery of which he attributed to a forked stick. The formation is of the same massive granite as Butte. Veins have been traced the entire length of all of the claims, and each tier has, it is said, from two to five. In all there are twenty-seven veins varying from six to sixty feet in width. Their direction indicates that they are extensions of the Corbin-Wickes vein, although said to carry higher values. The total tonnage of the claims is estimated at 121,000,000, and it is declared that it would take nearly a century to extract the ore above the tunnel level, producing at the rate of 2,500 tons a day. The properties are in the Clancy district, fifteen miles south of Helena. Assay returns from trial shipments run from $25 to $50 a ton. The chief development work has been done on the B. & G. claim, including a 250-foot shaft with levels at three places.

months. It is said that the proposed alliance or merger was first proposed by F. Augus Heinze, who stands prepared to put the Davis-Daly into the merger, provided suitable terms can be arranged. It is said that at least one of the heads of a leading company insists that Mr. Heinze head the merger as manager of affairs. Before leaving this city he would make no definite promises beyond saying that he was in favor of the scheme, but said that after his return to this city from Europe he would be glad to take up the proposition, and that in the meantime the managers of the different companies could get together and make a draft of proposals which would be acceptable.

Building New Ore Bins.

A large force of men are at work constructing the new ore bins for the St. Lawrence mine to take the place of the ones which collapsed a short time ago, while still another force of men are at work retimbering the shaft of the mine. This latter work would have had to be done in a short time even if the accident to the ore bins did not happen, so the advantage of the closedown is being taken to do the retimbering now. This month's output will not show any decrease in consequence of the St. Lawrence being down, as the output of other mines has been increased to make up for the 1,000 tons a day hoisted by the St. Lawrence company. An effort will be made to have the St. Lawrence ready to resume operations about Dec. 1.

Clarke on Copper Conditions.

"Butte has nothing to fear from any of them, for it has been demonstrated that in Butte the ore continues to depth, and there will be mines here when we are gone." Thus spoke Former United States Senator Clark the other evening at a banquet tendered him by the country club. Continuing his discussion of the copper conditions he said: "It is true there has been a little depression, but that is so of any locality. There have been mines opened and claims made elsewhere that copper can be produced cheaper than in Butte. It is easy to skim the cream from the milk. When they get deeper they will find that copper cannot be produced easier than here."

The senator, in a most interesting address, pointed out that the great trouble was that the producers have been going on regardless of the market, with the result that there has been an over-production, the buyers have held off and the price has been depressed. In consequence of these conditions the producer had to sit up and take notice and the leading men came together and decided on a curtailment. This restriction of production, the senator pointed out, was simply a necessity and not to operate in any way in restraint of trade. "The production will be reduced," he said, "until the consumption overtakes it, and I believe that period is about here. I believe at this time next year we will see a better market." Mr. Clark said there were now only about fifteen producers in this country working on a large scale and two or three in South America and in Europe.

Anaconda Statistics.

Butte, justly styled "the greatest mining camp in the world," with a pay roll of $1,250,000 a month, sends out millions of dollars every year for coal and material required for the Anaconda company mines alone. Some idea of the amount of money expended and the operations carried on during a year may be gained from some statistics recently prepared and which are considered absolutely reliable. The figures are: Ore mined yearly, 5,000,-000 tons; value of coke consumed, $2,-050,000; value of coal consumed, $2,-020,000; value of limestone used, $360,-000; value of lumber used, $1,376,000; value of copper produced, $30,000,000; value of silver produced, $5,000,000; value of gold produced, $1,500,000.

The Butte & Superior Mortgage.

The new $1,000,000 mortgage on the property of the Butte & Superior Mining company has been filed for record in this city. It is executed to the North Western Trust company as trustee and covers the Black Rock, Niagara, Four Johns, Raymond, Constitution, Enterprise, Jersey Blue, Laura, Admiral Dewey, Silver, Duluth and Nob Quartz lode claims. The bonds bear 6 per cent interest, run for ten years and are designated as "gold refunding and improvement bonds." A portion of the money derived from the new bonds will be devoted to taking up the old issue of $500,000.

The Smoke Case.

The leading attorneys for the Anaconda Copper Mining company have gone to San Francisco to appear before the United States court of appeals in the celebrated so-called smoke case. This case was heard before the United States court of this district more than one year ago and Judge W. H. Hunt, after reviewing evidence which had been taken before the master in chancery, refused to grant the demand of the Deer Lodge ranchers that an order issue closing the Washoe smelter, but did not say that there had been a small damage to vegetation, which he asked the company to so remedy so as to prevent the alleged poisonous gases from floating through the air and down into the Deer Lodge valley. The ranchers were not satisfied with the decision and took an appeal.

ings are now connected with the big vertical shaft by crosscuts at the thirtenth and eighteenth levels through which the rock will be trammed for hoisting it being planned to use the old incline shaft for men and material exclusively. The vertical shaft is sinking steadily below a depth of around 2,700 feet and should eventually tap the Quincy-Pewabic lode calculated to lie at a depth of about 3,600 feet at this point. The power plants at the big shaft are receiving the finishing touches and may possibly go into commission this month. There has been some talk of a mill test this winter, but no official announcement to that effect has been made, though it is very probable that production on a small scale will begin to dispose of the copper rock taken out in the course of development work and for which there is little space available for storing on surface until the time that the company's own mill would be built and in service.

Atlantic.

The situation in the section 16 mine of the Atlantic Mining company continues without much encouragement. Drifting is in progress north at the sixteenth level in one of several copper bearing lodes any one of which may prove to be an extension of the Superior lode. This work is showing a little copper. A diamond drill is also engaged in seeking values at depth below the present bottom of the shaft. The old Atlantic tract to the northward is being explored with the expectations of finding a continuation of the Quincy-Pewabic lode. This work will probably be followed by diamond drilling at other points in the hope of locating one or more of the many known copper bearing lodes of this district nearly all of which traverse one or the other tracts of this company.

Isle Royale.

The Isle Royale Copper company has again resumed sinking in the No. 4 shaft, which was bottomed at the seventh level about one year ago, following a policy of curtailment inaugurated by the Calumet & Hecla company, which had shortly before that come into the control of this property. The decision to resume sinking was probably brought about by the very favorable turn in the developments in territory tributary to that shaft and in the south laterals of the No. 2 shaft next north, which as they get out under the old Huron workings lying between these shafts disclose a better grade of rock. The No. 2 shaft is sinking below the twenty-eighth level or about 3,000 feet from surface. Shafts 5 and 6 next south of the No. 4 are bottomed at the sixth and eighth levels respectively which depths they gained about one year ago. No preparations have been made to resume sinking there and work in those shafts continues confined to drifting. In the Baltic lode which has now been definitely located on the Isle Royale acreage, operations are confined to diamond drilling in an effort to locate pay ground at depth. This shaft is bottomed at the fifth level, 970 feet from surface and in poor ground. A drift runs southward at the third level is in lode material for fifty feet or more, but generally barren of copper. To determine whether or not both shaft and drift are in a poor bar so frequently found in this big formation, a diamond drill has been working downward in the lode from the end of this lateral and about fifty feet from the Houghton Copper company's end line.

this bend in the vein but on the eastern wing and especially on the western extension.

On the sixth level the ore bodies which maintained to a large extent the production of 10 per cent ore were west of this turn and toward the Arizona Commercial line. Practically the whole fourth level was in diabase and while a large amount of ore was extracted from this level both in the past and since the Superior & Boston people have had control it is the sixth level that has lent so much encouragement and that produced the best quality of ore.

At a point between the fourth and sixth levels occurs a fault running across the shaft and which accounts for the limestone formation on the eighth level. The foot wall of the vein on the sixth level is quartzite. The hanging wall is of shale. This shale comes in to form the hanging walls somewhere between the fourth and fifth levels in a wedge shaped mass and is cut off between the sixth and eighth levels by the fault that dropped the limestone. It is not expected that the crosscut now running to the vein on the eighth level will strike any great amount of ore bearing territory as previous experience on the upper levels would seem to preclude this. Drifts will be run both east and west from the junction of this crosscut and the vein is expected that 100 feet or so of the easterly drifting will show up the shot that was encountered on the next level above.

Superior & Globe.

The diamond drill on the 660-foot level of the Superior & Globe property is at a depth of 300 feet below that level and the progress is again picking up due to the fact that firmer ground has been encountered.

At a point thirty feet above the 300-foot mark and in to it a soft streak was penetrated that had to be drilled two or three times, due to caving of the hole. At last it was decided to fill the entire space with cement, leaving it to harden for the proper period and to redrill through this cement leaving it as casing to protect the hole from filling. Some time was wasted in this operation but conditions are better now and more efficient work can be done.

The hole is now at just one-half of its ultimate depth, the dept hnecessary to penetrate the vein. On the completion of this hole a second one will be started on the 660-foot level. About twenty feet back of this point where the drill is now operating the vein crosses the cross-cut running east and west. Drifts have been run both ways on the vein for forty or fifty feet and in the face of one of these drifts the drill will be set up to drill a horizontal hole on the strike of the vein.

Arizona Commercial.

It is learned from fairly reliable source that the Arizona-Commercial people are having good luck in the encountering of ore bodies due to the drilling on the 700-foot level.

The contract for 120 feet of shaft sinking at $80 a foot is continuing and the shaft crew consists of eighteen men. The program since Aug. 10, has amounted to thirty or forty feet, the difficulty being mainly due to the excessive flow of underground water. Four or five other men are employed underground cutting out stations and crosscuts for the diamond drill which has been in operation for several months.

It is understood that the drill is now sinking the fourth hole somewhere east of the Eureka shaft but it is impossible to learn what the discoveries have been up to date beyond that one has been encountered. The holes have varied in depth from 200 to 400 feet.

Somewhat the same difficulties have been encountered in drilling the Superior & Globe people have found, namely, that soft ground has been penetrated that necessitated filling with cement and redrilling. The western extent of the workings at the Arizona Commercial property is four or five hundred feet. At a point 200 feet or so west of the Eureka shaft crosscut will soon be run into the hanging wall of the vein and a fifth diamond drill hole will be put down here at an angle sufficient to penetrate the vein at a depth of 400 feet

According to a statement by one of the officials recently in Globe, the probabilities are that the smelter will again be put into commision about the first of the year.

Arizona-Michigan.

The monthly development sheet of the Arizona-Michigan Copper company shows a total progress for the month of September of 226 feet in the Black Bird and Telfair workings combined. This has been accomplished by a force of fifteen men and this force has lately been cut down to twelve men with the recent curtailment of development.

During the month of September the north crosscut at the 400-foot level of the Black Bird shaft progressed thirty-five feet, leaving the crosscut ninety-eight feet in length. It was expected that the Old Dominion fault would be penetrated at this distance but the fault which broke at the 300-foot mark evidently threw the vein farther to the north. The south crosscut on the same level progressed twenty-six feet and stopped at a point sixty-one feet distant from the shaft.

At the 500-foot level of the Telfair shaft the southeast crosscut which penetrated the vein at the 1,134-foot mark and continued in it a distance of thirty-five feet, was run during September a distance of seventeen feet.

On the footwall side of the vein during the latter part of August drifts were run both east and west. The east drift was developed a distance of forty-three feet during the past month and is now being driven at a distance of sixty-three feet from the junction of the crosscut.

The south drift was developed thirty feet during September and is now a distance of forty-three feet from its junction with the crosscut. The winze on the footwall of the vein which started during September is at a distance of seventy-five feet from the collar. Ground water level has not as yet been reached and it is improbable that any ore will be encountered above that point. The vein matter, however, in the winze and also in the east drift looks good for the encountering of future copper values and bands of almost pure hematite are being encountered and are widening out as depth is gained in the winze.

two long trestles of the same material. It will be more than a year before all of the improvements planned for the Cliffs Shafts property will be finished, as they include considerable work in addition to the erection of the new crusher building and trestles and the installation of machinery. Both of the shafts are to be provided with five-ton skips, in addition to the cages. The skips will be used exclusively for hoisting ore and the cages will be used for the raising and lowering of workmen and the handling of material going into the mine. No timber is used in the drifts and stopes of this property, as the formation throughout is hard. One cage in each shaft will easily take care of all the work, exclusive of the ore hoisting. In order to install the skips it will be necessary to rearrange the interior of the shafts, as the skips will be operated in the compartment now occupied by the cages.

The officials of the company plan to make a number of surface improvements at the Cliffs Shafts next year. The old tracks leading from "A" shaft over the top of the rock dump, which were put in when the mine was first opened with the late William Sedgwick in charge, will be removed and the openings will be filled. It is possible that the carpenter shop, now located on the hill, will be removed to a point near the machine and blacksmith shops. It is not expected that the new crusher will go into operation before the first of the year. None of the workmen will be laid off while the changes are being made in the shafts. One shaft will be used for the hoisting while the other is being repaired, and if necessary a double shift will be employed underground.

Gleason's Rich "Strike."

In 1844—so it is related in the Gladstone (Mich.) Delta—there came to America one who was destined to be among the pioneers of Northern Michigan and a potent factor in the discovery of its rich mineral deposits. At the age of 24 he first made Northern Michigan his home. Realizing the opportunities that the iron ore fields offered he became interested in mining exploration. Several times has he experienced that joy which come to him who, after having his patience sorely tried and suffering untold deprivation, finally makes the "strike" which crowns his efforts with success and makes him a benefactor to his community. Such men need to be of sturdy character, patient, persistent, untiring. Such a man is Michael Gleason, the young emigrant of 1844.

After continuing in the field of exploration for a number of years, and feeling that he was entitled to live a life less strenuous, he became interested in business, and in 1895 went to Gladstone and engaged in the grocery business. But the old fever had not been eradicated, and the "call of the wild" becoming too strong, he gave up his business and again started for the mining regions. He chose a location near Iron River, Mich. Associating with him his son, Matt Gleason, and E. G. Hilliard of Minnesota, he again commenced the work of exploration.

After two years, becoming convinced that he "had a good thing," and needing more capital, he went to his friends in Minnesota and Gladstone and laid the matter before them. Seeing that large amounts of money were necessary to continue the work, it was thought best to form a stock company, and so the Gleason Exploration & Mining comyany was organized with a capital stock of $100,000, with one-half of its stock owned in Minnesota and one-half in Gladstone. Recently, at Gladstone, the shareholders of this company tendered Mr. Gleason a banquet and presented him with a gold watch, celebrating the culmination of his hopes and ambitions, for he had "struck ore." Success was his and riches the reward of those who had stood by him.

Two mines had been discovered, a conservative estimate placing the amount of marketable ore in sight at 5,000,000 tons. Contracts had been entered into with the Davidson Ore Mining company, subsidiary to the New York State Steel company, leasing the mines to that company on a royalty basis of 50 cents per ton, it agreeing, however, to pay a minimum royalty each year of $25,000. It is expected that during the coming year there will be mined and shipped from 50,000 to 75,000 tons of ore, and each year thereafter from 200,000 to 300,000 tons, netting to the Gleason Exploration & Mining company from $100,000 to $150,-000 a year for the next thirty years. Dividends amounting to 24 per cent of the total capitalization have already been paid since May 1, 1910.

By the suspension of operations at Corrigan, McKinney & Co.'s Colby and Ironton mines at Bessemer, Gogebic range, in the neighborhood of 800 men have been thrown out of work. Only sufficient employes are retained to keep the shafts in good condition. The Suspension came as a surprise. There is a large amount of non-Bessemer ore in stock at the mines, still it had been hoped that the properties would be retained on the active list. The period of the suspension is indefinite. However, it is likely to continue perhaps throughout the winter.

A STEADY DRAIN

Sick Kidneys Weaken the Whole Body---Make You Ill, Languid and Depressed.

Sick kidneys weaken the body through the continual drainage of life-giving albumen from the blood into the urine, and the substitution of poisonous uric acid that goes broadcast through the system, sowing the seeds of disease. Loss of albumen causes weakness, languor, depression. Uric poisoning causes rheumatic pain, nervousness, nausea, cricks in the back, gravel and kidney stones. The proper treatment is a kidney treatment, and the best remedy is Doan's Kidney Pills. Here is good proof in the following testimonial:

E. S. Moulton, First avenue, Two Harbors, Minn., says: "I was suffering from a pain in the small of my back for a long time. I finally decided to try a good kidney remedy and procured a supply of Doan's Kidney Pills. I was much pleased with the results of their use and I am now free from pain and feel better in every way. I know that Doan's Kidney Pills are a valuable remedy and am pleased to recommend them."

MINNESOTA UNIVERSITY

Branch of the Archeological Institution of America Is Founded.

Co-Operative Book Store Is Being Planned By the Students.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—A branch of the Archeological Institution of America, which was founded in 1819, has been established at Minnesota, with branches in Minneapolis and St. Paul. President Northrop has promised to be the president of the branch, and Prof. Savage is the secretary. Governor Eberhart is very much interested in the work and will probably be one of the vice presidents.

Many lectures will be given during the year. Prof. Breaster, a noted Egyptologist, will lecture some time in November on the Soudan and his work there.

The first school, the American School of Classical Studies, was founded at Athens in 1881. Another school is in Rome, one is in Santa Fe, and one is in Arizona. The society which is founded here will take up work on the primitive American Indian.

New Instructors.

T. C. Trott of Chicago, who has been practicing architecture in that city, has been appointed instructor in architectural rendering. Two other appointments have been made in the engineering college. R. W. French of Detroit is to be instructor in drawing, and F. A. Kirochner, instructor in mechanical engineering.

Co-operative Book Store.

It is almost a certainty that a students' co-operative book store will be established here at the university. Bernard A. Casserly and Fred Tydeman, who are interested in the movement, have received information from other colleges where such stores are in operation. It is found that at those places the stores have been conducted very successfully and that the students have been able to secure books at a cost much less than it is possible to purchase the books at outside stores. The plans for the proposed store are now under consideration by those interested and more thorough information regarding the movement will be furnished in a few days. The store has met with the pronounced approval of the faculty, a number of whom are personally interested in the proposition. It is hoped by those working for the organization of the store that they will have it ready for business immediately after the Christmas holidays.

The Sophomore's Mandates.

Artistically engraved on brilliantly colored posters the long-heralded mandates of the sophomores suddenly appeared on the campus Wednesday morning. They adorned every conspicuous spot on and near the campus glued to the sidewalks and spiked to the telegraph poles. They were everywhere present to carry their warning message to the first-year students. It was not only the six "laws" which held the attention of those who paused to meditate upon the uncertainty of the freshman's life. Surrounding these six dictums was a horde of adjectives which would put to shame the press agent of Ringling's circus. Such a collection of descriptive words has never before been known in the history of journalism.

The laws themselves follow:

Law 1—No freshman shall wear a stiff hat or derby upon the campus.

Law 2—No freshman shall wear any prep. school insignia.

Law 3—Freshmen shall tip their caps to sophomores on the campus.

Law 4.—No freshman shall sit on the armory fence.

Law 5.—No freshman shall fuss on the campus.

Law 6—Freshmen socks and ties are to be seen and not heard.

Scientific Convention.

Plans are being completed for the annual convention of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, which is to be held at the university during the Christmas holidays. Dr. L. O. Howards, the permanent secretary of the association, Prof. F. E. Clements, Dean Downey and Prof. H. F. Nachtrieb inspected the buildings at the University of Minnesota yesterday and discussed the adaptability of each building for the uses of the convention. The drill hall of the armory will probably be used for the general address.

Each department will meet in the building here that is generally devoted to that science.

Celebration Postponed.

The celebration planned for Saturday afternoon in commemoration of the forty-eighth anniversary of the University of Minnesota, has been indefinitely postponed because of the inability to get all the old graduates together. It had been planned to attend the game in the afternoon and have dinner together at one of the hotels. On account of the short notice, R. B. Thompson, who was in charge, could not get together more than fifteen of the men.

The First Chapter.

Members of Ann Sargent chapter, Daughter of the American Revolution, which is composed of girls of the university, and a small group of alumnae, think they can justly claim the distinction of constituting the first chapter of college girls. Barred completely, New York is the only disputant of this honor, a chapter having been formed there by Mrs. William Cummings Story, who ran for president-general at the last congress.

"While the chapter at Barnard did in reality gain recognition by the national society at Washington before we did," said Mrs. Charles W. Schneider, who founded the local chapter, "this chapter was the first to be started and should therefore be recognized as the first organization." Ann Sargent chapter was founded in Dec. 1908, and owing to a delay in getting their papers at Washington, was not recognized by the national society as soon as was the Barnard chapter, which was not formed until after this chapter."

Advisors for Freshmen.

Faculty advisors have been appointed for the freshmen and will commence their work next week. Each advisor has been given a group of freshmen, made up, as far as possible, acording to the wishes of either the student or the advisor. Each advisor will call a meeting of his individual group early in the week and explain the system. After that each student is expected to confer with his advisor on any subject which may trouble him.

General Athletic Ticket.

A general ticket, admitting the holder to all athletic contests during the year may be in force next season. Such a ticket would include a certain number of football, baseball, track and gymnasium contests. The ticket would be put on sale at the beginning of the fall semester. The backers of the movement are endeavoring to secure the permission of the authorities and a systematic action will soon be taken. The athletic board of control will discuss prices at a future meeting, so that a ticket can be sold that will mean no loss to the different organizations or to the athletic association and yet be an advantage to the student. If adopted and worked successfully next year, the ticket may be extended to include debating and oratorical contests.

Effects of Racial Mixtures.

In studying the effects on the human physiognomy of the amalgamation of the races, photographs of those who know their racial proportions are being taken in the sociology laboratory under the direction of Prof. A. E. Tenks of the ethnology department, assisted by Mr. Roland Matthews.

The purpose of this work is to determine the effects in physiognomy of the mixture of the races. One front view and one profile is taken and although the names of the persons are taken, none are used in the work; they are simply kept for reference. The photographs up to this time have only been of students of the university, but Mr. Matthews expects soon to get out into the city for material.

NORMAL NOTES

The Greysolon Literary society held its regular meeting yesterday afternoon in Mrs. Lyons' room. The program was as follows:

Instrumentl solo ..... Mrs. Lade.
"The Indian in History" ..... Elizabeth Wasley.
"The Indian in Fiction" ..... Fanny Lumn.
Selection from "Hiawatha" ..... Hilda Foster.
"The Indian in Poetry" ..... Emma Peterson.
Two pictures—"The Indian Two Hundred Years Ago" .....
"The Indian Now" ..... Rose Signer.
Autumn song .....

It was a very interesting program and all the members of the society enjoyed it.

The Thalian Literary society posted a new program Thursday, which will be given Oct. 28. Miss Hazel Heimbaugh designed the poster, which was done in gold and brown, the class colors, and carried out the idea of Halloween very suggestively. The program will be as follows:

Piano solo ..... Martha Mobeck.
Recitation ..... Rebecca Walker.
Witch scene from "Macbeth" ..... Dolly Armundson.
Reading—"Tam O'Shanter" ..... Mary Myron.
Extemperoneous speaking on Halloween pranks ..... Members.
Vocal selection—"The Jack O' Lantern" ..... Esther Minor, Mabel Bostad.

It will be a closed door meeting.

Dr. Kline read one of Uncle Remus' stories in chapel Monday. It was very amusing and every one enjoyed it.

The "new" juniors held a meeting Monday to discuss the party which they are planning to give at Halloween time.

Miss Elizabeth Schaeffer visited Miss Edna Schaeffer at Torrence hall last week.

Miss Capitola Kater, Miss Jessie Stephan and Miss Genevieve Lambert went to Two Harbors yesterday to remain over Sunday.

Miss Lida Peterson has gone to Cloquet, and Miss Edna Schaeffer left Friday for Palmer's, to visit her sister.

Among those who visited the school this week were: Miss Ruby Krause, Miss Ruth Twohy, Miss Clara Stocker, and Miss Mabel Stephens, the supervisor of music at Hibbing.

Dr. Kline spoke about "Loyalty and Patriotism" to the students Thursday morning. "In the school room patriotism should be taught first because loyalty naturally grows out of this," he said. He told of the loyalty of the soldiers in the Civil war and how the negro came to enter the army.

• • •

Mrs. Lyons and Miss Ely will entertain Monday evening at the first of a series of chafing dish parties, for the members of the faculty.

The third-year class held an important busines meeting Wednesday at recess. The sophomores and third-year students are planning to give a party for the freshman class soon. The committee on refreshments consists of Mildred Campbell, Bessie Bouck, Ruth White and Callie Oppel. Bertha Hopkins, Gerda Klippen, Etta McMurtry and Hilda Foster have charge of the decorating. Eunice Ularud, Lily Perry, Martha Mobeck and Mamie Watch will have charge of the entertaining.

THE BRIBED AND THE BRIBER.

Col. Roosevelt "got a hand" in Illinois when he rebuked the venal members of the Illinois legislature who stand convicted before the bar of public opinion of having sold their votes for money. It gave his audience satisfaction to hear him talk this way about them, and no doubt it will give similar satisfaction to all who read his words:

> The men who you speak of as "jackpotters" are traitors to the American people; traitors of the basest kind, and it is infamous in anyone to condone their iniquity or to support them and stand behind them, directly or indirectly. The presence in public life of such men is a menace and a scandal, and I do not care a rap whether they belong to my party or to some other party. I hold it my duty to be equally hostile to them in either event.

That polishes off the takers of bribes very admirably, and the Colonel is to be commended on his rigid morality and his implacable enmity to corruption.

The only trouble with the kind of a talk the Colonel made in Illinois is that it tends to make the taker of bribes so conspicuous in the seat of scorn that people won't pay proper attention to that infinitely worse traitor, the giver of bribes. Of course the Colonel wouldn't defend the giver of bribes. Very likely if he had happened to think of it he would have added a burning paragraph about him, too. But he didn't.

The legislator who takes a bribe is a contemptible scoundrel. There is no doubt about it. He is pitiful, shameful, abject, mean, rascally. You can exhaust the dictionary's supply of phrases of contempt without overdoing it.

But when you and the Colonel have dressed the taker of bribes down to your heart's content, and you turn from him to the giver of bribes, you will be amazed at the poverty of the language. The terms that seemed adequate when you used them on the paltry taker of bribes are ridiculously inadequate when you try to make them describe the giver of bribes—the rich man, seeking power or peli, who uses his wealth to tempt the people's servants to betray their masters; the man of wealth and greed who uses the enormous leverage of his money to pry public servants loose from their allegiance to the public.

The man who takes a bribe is a scoundrel and a criminal and he ought to be punished.

But the man who gives a bribe—the man who dangles his fat rolls of bills before the covetous eyes of poor men, men with families to support and perhaps mortgages to pay, men who are from the classes to whom the problem of making both ends meet is a perennial sword of Damocles whose imminent falling means destruction—this man, whose ruthless greed and reckless covetousness of power or pelf refuses to stop at the debauchery of public servants, deserves phrases of scorn and contempt to the forging of which we should be glad to see the Colonel devote his marvelous talent for the telling phrase.

The Colonel refuses to eat at the banquet board with Lorimer, for whose election a legislature was prostituted, yet he ate contentedly with men who had invited Lorimer, who said that he was good enough for them, and whose money, perhaps, went into the "jackpot" fund that dragged scores of Illinois legislators into the gutters of disgrace.

It is well enough to rebuke the bribe-taker, but the chief business before the American people, and before the Colonel if he sees his duty clearly, is to flay the thick hides of the greater rascals whose corruption funds buy treachery and bring shame to those who burn their fingers with these soiled dollars.

SOCIALISM IN THE COLLEGES.

Whatever one may think about Socialism as a school of economics or as a political party, it must be reckoned with; and its economics are likely to attract serious attention sooner than its politics.

Everybody should take note of the fact that Socialism is spreading in this country. Those who view it as a deadly menace will take note of its spread that they may lay plans to defeat it—which can only be done by destroying its plausible arguments, and never by calling it and its followers names and by ascribing to it tenets that it does not hold. Those who believe in it will take note of its spread as an encouraging sign for the future.

As a matter of fact, if you exclude party Socialism from consideration, it is very hard to draw the line between those who are Socialist and those who are not. Every man who believes that the government must assume closer control over industry with a view to seeing that the rewards of industry are distributed according to deserts rather than according to greed and cunning, might be called a Socialist of a kind. The party Socialist would not recognize him as a comrade, perhaps; but the reactionary and the beneficiary of present conditions will be quick to call him a Socialist.

And if a definition of Socialism is adopted that is wide enough to include all those who believe that the government should exert itself to bring about the greatest good for the greatest number, and that it should work toward a more just distribution of prosperity, Socialism would embrace pretty nearly everybody who thinks at all clearly.

But Socialism as a definite policy of popular ownership of the tools of production is growing rapidly. Thousands are close to a belief in its policies who are not members of the Socialist party.

As proof of the spread of Socialism, there is interest in the report of the Intercollegiate Socialist society, just published.

This society, of which J. G. Phelps Stokes is president, has active chapters in the following colleges: Harvard, Yale, Cornell, Columbia, Barnard, the College of the City of New York, Chicago university, Stanford university, the universities of Pennsylvania, Minnesota, Michigan, Wisconsin, Oklahoma, the Kansas State Agricultural college, Marrietta college and the New York Dental college. Promises of an early establishment of additional chapters have been made by the undergraduates at Dartmouth, Johns-Hopkins, Trinity, the universities of Indiana, South Dakota, Oregon and Washington, Wittenberg college and others.

Says the Boston Transcript: "One of the largest and most active of the chapters is that reared in the conservative atmosphere of Harvard. The Harvard Socialist club throughout its career has had the vigorous backing of the late Prof. William James, the eminent psychologist, whose Socialistic tendencies during the last few years have been marked. Three hundred Harvard students last June signed a petition asking that Socialism be included in the college curriculum, the subject to be taught by one in sympathy with the movement."

UNITED THEY STAND, DIVIDED THEY FALL

Says the News Tribune: "John Lind naively takes the stand that the progressives of both great parties should vote together in the election next month."

Of course he takes that stand. In what other way, in the name of justice, can the people hope to get results?

The old game of keeping the people divided by hard and fast party lines, so that the organization in control of the Republican party could do the will of special interests and count upon the party's support, was a merry old game that has worked out vast profits for the few, vast misery for the many, vast shame for the republic, and great confusion to democratic government.

But that game is ended.

It worked very well, devilishly well, in fact, until the people realized what it was doing to them; whereupon they proved once more that while you can fool all of the people some of the time, and some of the people all of the time, you can't fool all of the people all of the time.

The time has gone by when the average American voter will accept party prosperity as the chief end of man.

The time has gone by when men will stay behind party barriers for no better reason than because they happen to be there, and because party leaders inform them that they can't be good citizens unless they remain there.

Results are what people are looking for nowadays—results for the country, results for the state, results for themselves and their fellows. They have found out that when they contented themselves with getting results for their party, these results worked out for the benefit of a self-chosen few, and not for the common good.

Congress itself has set the example. In the party name, the administration at the last session presented to congress a railroad bill that would have set the cause of railroad regulation back ten years. It was perfectly satisfactory to the railroad magnates, and totally unsatisfactory to everybody who wished to see the railroads deposed as masters of the public, and made to yield obedience as servants of the public.

If the commands of the Republican party leaders had been obeyed, that bill would have become law just as it stood. President Taft, in the name of the party, practically commanded its passage without change.

But it didn't pass unchanged, fortunately for the people. The progressives in both parties in congress voted together, and whipped that bill into pretty decent shape before they allowed it to pass. That the votes for the amendments which changed it from a "railroad" law to a people's law included practically all of the Democrats and only a minority of the Republicans is in itself an illuminating fact.

Results were secured in this case by getting the progressives in both parties together. If they had voted with their parties, the administration's railroad bill would have passed by a strictly party vote, Republicans for and Democrats against.

What the progressives in congress did in the matter of the railroad bill, progressives outside of congress should do on all vital issues—vote together for results.

If that is done in Minnesota Standpatter Adolph Eberhart and his standpat crew of corporation lobbyists will go down to defeat, and James Gray, progressive, with his following of progressives of both parties, will win.

ROOT FOR THE SUPREME BENCH.

A Washington dispatch says: "President Taft is considering United States Senator Root for appointment as chief justice of the supreme court. No decision has been reached yet by Mr. Taft in regard to the chief justiceship, but Senator Root is regarded by him at this time with much favor. There is good reason to believe that Mr. Root would accept the place if it were offered to him. It is understood that President Taft will wait until after the November election before settling the chief justiceship."

Senator Root is the chief and ablest member of the cabal of subtle statesmen that represents "big business" in public affairs.

He is the most dangerous of its members because he is the most cunning and the most able.

It is not to his discredit that he is a corporation attorney, but it is to his discredit that he never has ceased being a corporation attorney. Corporation attorneys are men of strength and ability, but when they enter public life they should cease being corporation attorneys, and should devote their strength and ability to the service of the people.

Root hasn't done that. As a public servant he has been far more serviceable to the powers that prey upon the people's necessities than he was as a corporation servant.

Placing him upon the bench of the highest court in the land would give him new and peculiarly dangerous power. He might use that power in a way to satisfy his own conscience, because unconsciously his mind bends to the cause of the strong rather than to the cause of the weak. But even if his decisions in favor of the strong met the approval of his own conscience, colored as that conscience is by lifelong association with big business, big money and big greed, he would be dangerous still—and still more dangerous.

If President Taft should appoint Elihu Root to the supreme court of the United States, it would be the crowning infamy of his administration. If he wishes to pack the court with men of reactionary tendencies, he can find no one who will serve his purpose better than Root.

If he is willing to let his appointments to the supreme court register in that high body the prevailing sentiment that the time has come when humanity must stand first and property interests second, then he will put there no such man as Root.

And if the president does intend to appoint Mr. Root to the supreme bench, he does well indeed to postpone that action until after election, along with the Ballinger-Pinchot report, the Lorimer report, the Oklahoma Indian report, and the other ticklish matters in the hands of Republican congressional committees that are being postponed to a time when they can have no bearing on the party's prospects at the polls.

REFORM THE BILL OF FARE.

When you go into an eating place, bringing an admirable appetite and the price to appease it, and the bill of fare is brought you, really now, honest-and-true, cross-your-heart, do you enjoy finding the items on that bill of fare printed in a foreign language?

Do you think, off-hand, of any good reason why those items shouldn't be printed in English? Do you think of any good reason why, if menus may be printed in French, theater programs might not be printed in Italian, concert programs in German, and railway time tables in Greek?

Isn't it, on the other hand, a ridiculous imposition? Of course you pretend that it doesn't bother you. You peer wisely at the page of more or less mutilated French, hastily call to mind the fact that the items in the first division probably are soups, the next fish, the next two meats, etc., and with a muttered prayer for safety you blindly indicate what seems most plausibly to square with your desires.

If you hit it right, you are happy, self-satisfied, and perhaps, to you own mind, a good deal of a linguist. If you happen to hit it wrong you pretend that what you get is just what you wanted, though it really is a tremendous surprise to you.

The chances are, in any event, if you are the ordinary kind of mortal, that you will pretend that you know just what it says on that page of alien language, that you will struggle through as best you can, and that you will go away without entering a protest.

Yet you have a right to protest, and to protest bitterly. This is the United States of America, and English is spoken here. So are a few hundred other more or less fantastic tongues, but English is the language of the country. You are entitled to have presented to you a bill of fare printed in plain English, and if you have a particle of spirit—which probably you haven't—you will demand such a bill of fare and refuse to be contented until you get it.

A story in the Cleveland Plain Dealer illustrates how this ridiculous imposition afflicts a long-suffering humanity:

> A self-possessed young woman strolled into one of the larger downtown cafes. She spoke to the waiter in that decisive tone which distinguishes the initiated, and glanced over the French bill of fare with the nonchalant air of a Parisienne.
> "I'll have," she began, as she plunged into the sea of French dishes, "I'll have—let me see—Oh, yes, I'll have some bisque tortoni, a Suzana roll, pommes de terre, and a little of that fromage. And, garcon, you might as well bring me a cup of coffee."
> The waiter gasped. He started to speak but the young woman froze him with one of those icy stares peculiar to the thoroughly sophisticated. And the order arrived—two kinds of ices, boiled potatoes and a piece of cheese.
> But she ate it as if she has been used to that sort of diet all her life.
> They say in restaurants, grillrooms and cafes that it's quite ordinary for guests to order boiled eggs and four varieties of stewed prunes when they really want a roast of pork and apple sauce. This young woman's mistake was not unusual.
> But still the head waiters and the chefs throw up their hands and with many gestures and a perfectly good Swiss accent declare that the dear old langue de France will never be stricken from bills of fare as long as they have a skillet or a rolling pin to fight the project.

Down with tyranny! It isn't a menu; it's a bill of fare. He isn't a chef; he is a cook. Those are not pommes de terre; they are potatoes. That is not fromage; it is cheese. Let there be a new Declaration of Independence and a new American Revolution which shall drive alien tongues off the bills of fare and supplant them with good English—or the best English available.

MR. LEE'S SORE THUMB.

Taking note of the bad grace with which Rudolph Lee of Long Prairie is accepting his defeat for state senator probably is giving his sore thumb more prominent notice than it deserves. Yet Mr. Lee returns so persistently to his attack on the Northern Minnesota Development association, to which he ascribes his defeat, that there is danger that his impugning of the motives of the association may be misunderstood.

Mr. Lee denies that his vindictive attitude is due to soreness over his defeat, but it is hard to make anything else out of it. We do not know whether the agents of the association opposed him. They deny that they did, and their denial is quite as convincing as Mr. Lee's charge. It was the understanding at the Bemidji and Crookston meetings that the association should see to it that none but loyal friends of Northern Minnesota, who would put its just cause first on their programs, should be supported for the legislature. If the officers of the association had reason to believe that Mr. Lee did not answer that description, they had a right to oppose him, whether they did or not. Mr. Lee is bitter because the association has been "dragged into politics." Bless your soul, that's what it was formed for, and if the association opposed Lee, Lee's present attitude goes far to justify its opposition. Northern Minnesota wants men in the legislature who will put its cause first, not men to whom their own affairs count heavier than justice to Northern Minnesota.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

BRYAN AND ROOSEVELT.

To the Editor of The Herald:

William Jennings Bryan, once great and powerful, is passing from the political arena. Theodore Roosevelt, advocating the same principles, standing on the same issues and adopting one after the other of Bryan's planks is at present the leading figure in the Republican party.

A study of those two great men is interesting, indeed. It shows us how progress is only a relative term. What William Jennings Bryan predicted ten years ago was understood only by a few. Today his views are the living issues of the American people. Roosevelt calls them "new nationalism," but, in fact, it is nothing new at all.

Radical people and radical parties seldom get control over a nation. But if we would have no men of Bryan's type, it would be a sign that all the people were satisfied with conditions as they are, and there would be no progress. Fortunately we have a good many of them and the present uprising is one of the most hopeful sights, indicating the political restlessness of the American people and the increased dissatisfaction with boss rule and party machinery.

ORDINANCE COVERS IT.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Is there not some Minnesota law by which the automobile owners, who cut out their mufflers in going up hill may be arrested? If there is, why is it not enforced? Yours respectfully,

ONE WHO IS ANNOYED.

Duluth, Oct. 14.

There is a city ordinance covering this point.—The Editor.

The House by the Side of the Road.

He was a friend to man, and lived by the side of the road.—Homer.

There are hermit souls that live withdrawn
In the peace of their self-content;
There are souls like stars that dwell apart,
In a fellowless firmament;
There are pioneer souls that blaze their paths
Where highways never ran;—
But let me live by the side of the road
And be a friend of man.

Let me live in a house by the side of the road,
Where the race of men go by—
The men who are good and the men who are bad,
As good and as bad as I.
I would not sit in the scorner's seat,
Or hurl the cynic's ban;—
Let me live in a house by the side of the road
And be a friend to man.

I see from my house by the side of the road,
The men who press with the ardor of hope,
The men who are faint with the strife,
But I turn not away from their smiles nor their tears—
Both parts of our infinite plan;—
Let me live in the house by the side of the road
And be a friend of man.

I know there are brook-gladdened meadows ahead,
And mountains of wearisome hight;
That the road passes on through the long afternoon
And streaches away to the night.
But still I rejoice when the travelers rejoice,
And weep with the strangers that moan,
Nor live in my house by the side of the road
Like a man who dwells alone.

Let me live in my house by the side of the road,
Where the race of men go by—
They are good, they are bad, they are weak, they are strong,
Wise, foolish—so am I.
Then why should I sit in the scorner's seat,
Or hurl the cynic's ban?
Let me live in the house by the side of the road
And be a friend to man.

After Election.

San Francisco Star: The Republicans promise to make public the source of their campaign contributions—after the November congressional election.

The report of the standpat Republican members of the Ballinger investigating committee is to be made public—after the election.

Nothing further is to be said of the $5,000,000 Taft-Humphrey ship subsidy grab bill—until after election.

The soft pedal is to be applied to the Oklahoma Indian lands thievery—until after the November election.

Nothing is to be done with the Lorimer investigation—until after election.

No step is to be taken in the Sugar trust-friar lands Philippine scandal—until after the November election.

And, last but not least, from the standpoint of relative importance, the national monetary commission, of which Senator Aldrich is chairman, will not make its report recommending a central government bank—until after the November election!

Imposing Upon a Generous Nation.

World's Work: In announcing the result of a long and painstaking investigation of the pension situation in this country, the World's Work does not charge that the pension bureau is corrupt; it is not. Nor inefficient; for neither is it that. We do assert that the body of legislation passed by successive congresses subservient to the old soldier vote, and extended by liberal interpretations put upon it by authorities of the pension bureau, has made so broad the road into the national treasury that there is no reason why any man who was living at the time of the Civil war need go without a pension. We do point out that the evidence taken in pension cases is naturally ex-parte, and that as the war recedes the deaths of responsible officers and undesirable witnesses make fraud more and more easy; and we do assert that the pension rolls abound in aberrations of the proper purpose of the military pension system; that they are packed with unworthy and perjured names, and honeycombed with fraud.

Since our investigations began—and they have been pursued without aid from the pension office and in the face of the commissioner's refusal to open the list to inspection—we have come across:

Cases where two and even three persons had drawn pensions for one man's service;

Cases where pensions have been continued long after the proper beneficiaries were dead;

Cases where one man has drawn several pensions;

Many cases where deserters are receiving pay equal to that of men who served to the end;

Cases where "bounty-jumpers" had been given double pensions;

Cases where men absolutely without military records have been given an enlistment and honorable discharge;

Innumerable cases where soldiers are being given compensation for ills utterly unconnected with army service;

Cases where women never married to soldiers are pensioned as legal widows;

Cases where girls born long after the war, who had married veterans for the sake of their pensions, are being paid by the nation.

He Loves Me, He Loves Me Not.

Metropolitan Magazine: "God doesn't love me any more," sobbed Mary to her mother one day.

"Why, dear, God loves everybody; what do you mean?"

"Oh, no, He doesn't love me, I'm sure, for I tried Him with a daisy."

THE TRICK OF TALK.

One of the most original passages in Owen Johnson's amusing book, "The Varmint" (The Baker & Taylor Co.), is devoted to the secret of successful school conversation. It has a much wider application.

"Supposin'," says Finnegan, "supposin' you come into the room with that hat on—it's a bum hat, by the way—and some one pipes up; 'Get that at the fire sale?' What are you going to answer?"

"Why, I suppose I'd grin," said Stover slowly, "and say: 'How did you guess it?'"

"Wrong," said Finnegan. "You let him take the laugh."

"Well, what?"

"Something in this style: 'Oh, no. I traded it for luck with a squint-eyed, humpbacked biter-off of puppy-dog tails that got it out of Rockefeller's ashcan.' See?"

"No, Dennis no," said Stover, bewildered. "I see, but there are some things beyond me. Every one isn't a young Shakespeare."

"I know," said Finnegan, accepting the tribute without hesitation. "But there's the principle. You go him one better. You make him look like a chump. You show him what you could have said in his place. That shuts him up, makes him feel foolish, spikes the gun, corks the bottle."

"By Jove!"

"It's what I call the Superiority of the Superlative over the Comparative."

"It sounds simple," said Stover pensively.

"When you know the trick."

"You know, Dennis," said Stover, smiling reminiscently, "I used to have the gift of gab once, almost up to you."

"Then let's take a few crouching starts," said Dennis, delighted.

"Go ahead."

"Room full of fellows. You enter."

"I enter."

"I speak: 'Dink, I bet Bill here a quarter that you used a toothbrush.'"

"You lose," said Stover; "I use a whiskbroom."

"Good!" said Dennis professionally, "but a little quicker, on the jump, get on the jump, get on the springboard. Try again. 'Why, Dink, how do you get such pink cheeks?'"

"That's a hard one," said Dink.

"Peanuts!"

"Let me think."

"Bad, very bad."

"Well, what would you say?"

"Can't help it, Bill; the girls won't let me alone!"

"Try me again," said Stover, laughing.

"Say, Dink, did your mamma kiss you goodby?"

"Sure, Mike," said Stover instantly; "combed my hair, dusted my hands, and told me not to talk to fresh little kids like you."

"Why, Dick, come to my arms," said Dennis, delighted, "A Number 1. Mark 100 for the term. That's the trick."

"Think I'll do?"

"Sure pop. Of course, there are times when the digestion's jumping fences and you get sort of in the thunder glums. Then just answer, 'Is that the best you can do today?' or 'Why, you're a real funny man, aren't you?' sarcastic and sassy."

"I see."

"But better be original."

"Of course."

"Oh, it's all a knack."

"And to think that's all there is to it!" said Stover, profoundly moved.

"When you know," said Dennis in correction.

"Dennis, I have a thought," said Stover suddenly. "Let's get out and try the system."

"Presto!"

"The Jigger Shop?"

"Why tarry?"

At the Jigger Shop the Gutter Pup, looking up from a meringue entirely surrounded by peach jiggers, hailed them:

"Hello, Rinky Dink! Changed your mind, eh? Thought you were homesick."

"Sure I was, but Dennis came in with a bucket and caught the tears," said Stover gravely. "I'll call you in next time. Al, how be you? Here's what I owe you. Set 'em up."

"Pres bien!" said Dennis de Brian de Boru Finnegan.

"Hobbled."

"Where are you going, my pretty maid?"

"Darned if I know, kind sir," she said.

"May I go with you, my pretty maid?"

"Yes, if you'll hobble, sir," she said.

"How do you walk, my pretty maid?"

"I don't; I just hop, kind sir," she said.

"Do you enjoy it, my pretty maid?"

"It makes me dizzy, sir," she said.

"You are wise to the fashions, my pretty maid."

"I tumble to everything now," she said.

"How can you beat this fashion, my maid?"

"By staying abed, kind sir," she said.

"Now, will you marry me, my pretty maid?"

"How can I walk to the church?" she said.

"I'll bring the minister, my pretty maid."

"Then we'll both be hobbled, kind sir," she said.

The Gravy Tickled His Palate.

Harper's for October: A certain Doctor C——was once reading a very strenuous paper on total abstinence before a clerical club—so the story goes—when the entertainer went out to tell his wife how many she was to provide for at supper.

"What are they doing?" she asked, and was told the subject of the essay. "What shall I do?" she cried. "Here I have brandied peaches, and it is too late to change."

"Make no change," said her husband. "It will be all right."

The essayist had the post of honor at the right of the lady of the house, and she presented him with a dish of the peaches. After a while she said to him, "Doctor C——, won't you allow me to give you some more of these peaches?"

"Thank you," he replied. "They are excellent."

A little later she said, "Doctor C——, may I not give you another peach?"

"No, I thank you," said he apologetically, "but I will take a little more of the gravy."

An International Question.

Life: There is a little matter which has evidently escaped the notice of our ambassador to England. A short time ago, Harry Payne Whitney, with a party of guests, spent $50,000 for a single day's shooting upon the Helwick Hall moor at Upper Teesdale, and a number of the London newspapers criticised the proceeding as not worth while.

Our ambassador should insist upon more respectful treatment of American citizens. If this money had been contributed by Englishmen there might possibly have been some basis of criticism, but the affair is entirely our own. We have the right to give our millionaires, young or old, whatever income we please, and, of course, after we give it to them, it is their duty to spend it in a way to reflect the most credit upon the financial condition of our country.

Capital and Labor.

Life: There may be a struggle between capital and labor, but it needn't alarm us. One has but to glance at history to see that civilization is taking care of this question as fast as evolution will permit.

In the beginning the Lord made heaven and earth, but nowhere on the landscape was there a particle of capital. Then the Lord made man. Still there was no capital. Then man began to labor and, lo! there was capital, produced by the labor of the man.

Ever since that time man's labor has been producing capital. What is the result? Capital is increasing. Labor is decreasing. The rich don't have to work and many of the poor are not allowed to work.

What will be the ultimate result? Everything will be capital and no labor will be necessary.

That will be the end of the struggle between capital and labor.

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

The Present Unrest.

Unrest in politics, in business, in society, in the churches. Unrest in the Occident and the Orient. Unrest among the poor and the rich, the educated and the ignorant. A general dissatisfaction with things that are, a reaching out for something better, a cutting loose from old moorings, the severing of long-time party affiliations, a general call for this or that or the other thing from this, that or the other fellow or institution. Men are throwing overboard old allegiances, they are forming new compacts and alliances. Never in the history of the world was there such a universal ferment. Everything is being thrown into the melting pot. What shall the outcome be?

Disquieting indeed to persons of a conservative temperament is this widespread unrest. They see in it a growing tendency on the part of the people away from substantial and enduring things and toward superficial interests. They are apprehensive of the outcome. They would rather have the world stand pat than move forward toward uncertain and undefined goals.

I respect this attitude but I do not sympathize with it. Stagnation is the thing I dread far more than unrest. Who really wants to see China now that it is once awakened from its sleep of centuries turn over and take another long nap. Who favors the return to the Sultanate of Turkey of Abdul Hamid "The Damned?" Does any sane leader in the field of religious thought wish to have the hide bound Calvinism that for years held men in the grip of fear, again dominate Scotland or old England or New England? Unrest is the sure sign of life. When the patient begins to stir after the operation it means at least a fighting chance for life. When the patient begins to stir after the operation it means at least a fighting chance for life. When the hepatica and the violet in spring push their tender blades above the ground we see in their emergence the sure prophecy of waving harvests and barn filled with plenty. These are glorious days in which to be living simply because things are changing and changing swiftly so that the heretic of yesterday becomes the saint of tomorrow so that the political doctrine and the social order which when first formulated on paper by venturesome spirits alarmed the public speedily become every day and commonplace beliefs.

But there is a kind of unrest that does not make for progress and that harms him who cherishes it. Leaving the old anchorage does not necessarily make a man a successful voyager. Hasty and unreasonable revulsion from the party in power or from the faith of the fathers is a purely destructive move and does not of itself blaze a path to the golden age. Just now the country seems to be full of people who are out of sorts with the existing situation, but who hardly know what they want, or who if they do know exactly what they want, have not quietly and patiently considered how the end of their desires may be best attained.

Moreover that kind of dissatisfaction with the present order which fails to see the importance of the individual's contribution to the common welfare is also a guarantee of progress. Too many of us want somebody else to carry our load. We are too ready to put it up to some institution or even to the government when we ought to stand manfully at our posts of duty and solve our own problems. Let our dissatisfaction begin with ourselves. Let us repent, first of all, of our weakness, extravagances, timidity, irresolution, insincerity, pride, selfishness. Let us learn that the way to be rid of inward restlessness is to rest calmly in God and in his sure and gracious designs for men. THE PARSON.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Tit-Bits: "You can't guess what sister said about you just before you came in, Mr. Highcollar," said little Johnnie.

"I haven't an idea in the world, Johnnie."

No "New" Tariff.

Wall Street Journal: The protected manufacturer pitifully asks that the "new" tariff shall be given time to prove its usefulness. We have no "new" tariff. It is the same old bungling iniquity, with a nominal redistribution of the burden, but without the correction of a single vice. The more you change it, the more it is the same thing, and as the electors have shown all over the country already, to claim any mercy for it on the grounds of experiment is childish.

THE COMMITTEE OF APPROPRIATIONS--NO. 1

By SAVOYARD.

In a personal sense, and even for the public service, the retirement of James A. Tawney from congress is a bereavement on the one hand and a disaster on the other. If we shall except Oscar Underwood of the minority, there is no man on the floor of the present congress so well equipped for chairman of appropriations as "Jim" Tawney. His voice is ever for economy. He has saved this country a thousandfold his salary. He has been a watchdog of the treasury without a brass band to spou. his honesty. Like many a greater man in the country, he came from the shop of toil. He is a blacksmith by trade, and there is not a community in our land where he could not make a living forging horse shoes, shoeing horses, "cutting" tires of vehicles, and other labor that the modern industrial economy has left to the "village blacksmith."

Fate was rather cruel to this admirable man, and some harsh things were said of the way he got to be chairman of appropriations. When Hemenway was made senator, there was absolutely nobody for the place on the Republican side except Tawney. Hill of Connecticut might have served, but he was engaged elsewhere. So Tawney was appointed. He thus became a part of the house organization, and loyalty prompted him to support it. His mistake, and it was a grave one, was opposing, in debate, statehood for Arizona and New Mexico. It was a stultification that Cannon, Grosvenor, Dalzell and the others should not have exacted of him. And painfully did he expiate it when Mark Smith drew on him—II Samuel xx: 9-10.

Had Tawney been silent, he would have escaped that blistering retort. But many a greater man has done precisely as Tawney did in similar situation. Nobody ever dreamed that there was any odor of corruption clinging to it.

The committee of appropriations was created in the life of the Thirty-ninth congress—maybe the Fortieth—in compliment to Thaddeus Stevens and to relieve the committee of ways and means of some of its labors. Coinage, weights and measures, and banking and currency, were also taken from ways and means. Stevens was too old and feeble to undertake the onerous work of the committee, and Elihu B. Washburn was the real chairman, the watchdog of the treasury, and a vigilant and faithful one he was.

Speaking of Stevens. In some respects he was one of the greatest parliamentary leaders who ever spoke our tongue, but he was animated by hate ever, and by love never. Indeed, he did not even love the negro; he only hated the slave-holder. He was a clubfooted man, a phase of the mark God put on Cain, and for his deformity he hated all mankind.

He died with a threat on his lips. He was a Greenbacker, for rag money, and so was "Pig Iron" Kelly. The last speech Stevens made in congress, or about the last, was a notice served on his party that if the house passed the bill to pay the national debt in anything but greenbacks, he "would vote for Seymour, even if a worse man than Frank Blair were on the ticket with him." They dragged the bill out in a twinkling. Old Thad died in August, 1868, and when Grant got to be president in 1869, the first bill he approved was one to pay the bonds in coin. How Dan Voorhees used the harp on that! And if Thad Stevens and Pig Iron Kelly had been in the flesh in 1896 both of them would have been shouting for Bryan and 16 to 1, if the tariff had not kept them in line for its graft.

Elihu B. Washburn succeeded to the chairmanship of appropriations when Stevens died, and he fitted the job precisely. He was as honest as Bill Morrison and he was as vigilant as Bill Holman. He was born in Maine, and his father's sons held four seats in the house of representatives, a record no other family can boast.

Washburn, in opposing a raid on the treasury, was fond of quoting the doggerel beginning:

"Hark! Mr. Speaker, I hear a lion
In the lobby roar."

And then he besought somebody to advise him whether to let the beast in or turn him out. It came down in tradition from a parliamentary ordinance of the time of Charles II, a very great prince, by natural endowments, but a king whose only use for a "statesgeneral" was to get a supply of it. But old Washburn, honest man and true patriot, held the purse strings as tight as was possible when to be a loyal man and to hate treason and rebellion was license to plunge your hand into the treasury up to the elbow. It was the period of Credit Mobilier, the era of Sanborn contract, of Lee's and Stocking, of "General Average," and all that. It was the palmy day of the lobbyist and the grafter—all in the name of loyalty.

Gen. Grant was a constituent of Washburn's, who got him a commission in the army in 1861. In the terrible lottery of blood, Grant got the capital prize, and thus Washburn was a very prominent man, the discoverer of the "greatest general since Napoleon, if not since Hannibal," as the voiceful and sonorous and flamboyant hyperbole of that day had it. That Grant was a very great man nobody will deny, and a greater man than general is now generally conceded. But that aside. Washburn become one of the most powerful men of the country because he had writ a letter to Dick Yates in 1861, advising that Capt. Grant, West Pointer, be appointed colonel of the Twenty-first regiment of Illinois volunteer infantry, which was accordingly done, and that made Grant what he was, or rather it gave him opportunity for Appomattox.

Grant got to be president. Washburn wanted to be minister to France. But he also wanted his name to be among the secretaries of state. Grant was a man who never subscribed to the infamy of that miscreant, Talleyrand: "Some services are so great that they can only be repaid by ingratitude," and so he made Washburn secretary of state. After a few days the secretary resigned and was appointed to France, where he did good service during the Franco-Prussian war of 1870-1871.

But there is a sequel to that. Grant came back from his tour around the World. Conkling, Cameron and Logan had fixed to nominate him for president in 1880. Had Conkling been as much of a boss in a New York Republican state convention then as Teddy Roosevelt was the other day the thing would have gone through. Carpenter was dying, and Logan depended on Washburn to hold Illinois for the third term.

Washburn failed him, and joined the recalcitrants. The rest is history. Blaine nominated Garfield and Conkling elected him. Washburn dropped out of public life, and politics in America is nothing and has been nothing, so far as men are concerned, but what it was in Rome between the regime of Brutus who banished Tarquin and the time of the Brutus who slew Caesar.

I shall again take up the committee of appropriations in my next.

CLAIMING OUR POUND OF FLESH

Warfare Against False Scales and Measures—Deceitful Practices in Various Trades—Measures Needed to Protect Public.

By JOHN KJELLANDER.

City Sealer of Weights and Measures, Chicago, Ill.

(Exclusive Service The Survey Press Bureau.)

(Recently there has been an awakening to the opportunity for making the examination of weights and measures a more valuable protection to the public than the routine work of recent years has proved itself. Mr. Kjellander has been so successful that the United States bureau of standards announced that in Chicago only 5 per cent of the scales in retail stores were faulty whereas in many cities as high as 60 per cent of the scales examined gave underweight.)

Every trade or line of business that we have investigated contributes instances of short weight or measure, either through design or custom. In Chicago nineteen inspectors are kept extremely busy trying to see that the consumer gets sixteen ounces net weight for each pound purchased, and a quart for a quart and a peck for a peck.

We first test all the scales and measures and after they have been sealed we send inspectors to make purchases and learn if the dealers are using the scales and measures correctly. We found when we first started this system a large number of dealers and clerks who could not see the sixteen-ounce mark on their scales when weighing nearly as well as they could that for fourteen ounces. Repeated prosecutions have had a wholesome effect.

I had an ordinance passed providing that if milk or cream is sold in glass bottles each must have the capacity blown into the glass or otherwise permanently indicated. This made the milk dealers and bottle manufacturers come in droves demanding that a leeway under and over measure be allowed. After giving them ample time to weed out their short bottles, I sent inspectors to test those found in use. As a result $3,500 in fines and costs was collected. The dealers appealed to the supreme court of the state which said that if it was impossible to make every bottle alike they could hold a little bit more and that a quart or a pint meant just what it said and nothing less.

Our first try out of milk bottles showed in round figures that 7,000 out of 10,000 ran small. Our last test which was made in June tells an entirely different story, for out of 4,500 bottles only 500 were small.

The ordinance regulating the sale of bread in Chicago when I came into office was held invalid by Judge Windes of the superior court. I had a new ordinance drawn up to overcome the objections he had made and we went before him a second time on a test case. He held against the city again and we went up to the supreme court where we were upheld. The Bread ordinance has now been taken up to the United States supreme court by the bakers on an appeal. This is the first time in the history of the country that this question has been laid before the highest tribunal in the land. A decision is expected in this matter in the near future.

An ordinance was passed requiring that a ticket showing the net weight must accompany each load of coal and be given by the driver to the purchaser upon delivery. This ordinance stopped the practice of delivering an order of say twenty tons in four or five loads with a bill covering the entire amount with the last load. Formerly if an inspector stopped one of these loads the driver would say he did not know how much was on the wagon as it was part of a delivery of ten or twenty tons. The inspector was helpless because if he weighed the load and any short weight had been delivered previously, it could always be made up later on. Now when an inspector stops a wagon he must be given a ticket showing the weight of that particular load. If he finds the weight to be short or if there is no ticket, a card is given the driver for his firm asking them to explain why the ordinance has been violated. If no satisfactory reason is forthcoming a suit is sent over to court.

A number of small dealers formerly drove into a wholesale yard and ordered 1,800 pounds of coal. If stopped by an inspector they would tell him they did not have money enough to buy a ton and that the other 200 pounds would be delivered later on. Of course no ticket accompanied the load so no case could be made out but if they were not stopped the 1,800 would have been delivered for a ton.

During the last session of our legislature I had three bills pertaining to weights and measures introduced. One was to revise the weights and measure laws and make them more comprehensive. This measure called up in the dying hours of the session lost by three votes. The second, which passed, was an act giving power to city councils and presidents and boards of trustees in vilages and unincorporated towns to pass ordinances requiring the sale of various kinds of dry commodities by weight instead of measure. A large number of peddlers and dealers buy their potatoes, etc., by weight and then turn around and sell them by measure. In case of potatoes they get sixty pounds to the bushel and make five pecks out of it by selling them by measure.

The third bill introduced was what was commonly termed the "Net Bill" and provided that all goods sold in original packages should bear the net weight, the net measure or numerical count of the contents conspicuously displayed upon the outside. For some reason it was not reported out of the committee.

This bill is very much needed and its lack is a most important defect in the laws intended to insure to the public honest weight and measure. After the manufacturer has attained a certain popularity for his product he apparently tries to get the money he spent in advertising by cutting down the size of the package. He is careful, however, to preserve the same general appearance. Sometimes if the weight was at first one pound he calls it "size one" after it is reduced. In North Dakota where there is a net weight law similar to the one rejected in Illinois, the gross weight in ounces for canned goods has increased "in spite of the fact that prices for food products have very materially increased and we might expect slack fillings were not our law being enforced" as is pertinently pointed out in the official state report.

The national pure food law does not give adequate protection in regard to the weight of goods in original packages because it merely requires that the weight or measure shall be given correctly if stated at all.

IN THE LITERARY WORLD

THE HERITAGE OF THE DESERT. By Zane Grey. New York: Harper & Bros. $1.50.

Seldom does a more vivid and enthralling story come the way of the review desk than this. It is a tale of the Painted Desert in the '70s, of contests between Mormons and cattle rustlers, of conflicts between man and man, between man and beast, between man and the merciless desert. It tells about Jack Hare, a young man who came West dying of consumption, and was cured by the free, open life of the desert mesas. Also, he fell in love with Mescal, a beautiful daughter of the desert with Navajo blood in her veins, and to win her he had to fight Mormon customs, the jealous malice of border bad men, and the cruel hardships of the thirsty sands. The story tells how under the arrogant encroachments of the cattle rustlers the patience and endurance of the Mormons with whom Hare cast his lot were broken, and how they rose at last in sweeping vengeance. It tells how Jack Hare killed wolves and bears, how Silvermane, the king of the wild mustangs, was captured and tamed, and how he was the salvation of Jack and Mescal. Hare's ride on Silvermane across the Painted desert in search of Mescal, led by Wolf, a progeny of the wild, is as diverting a bit of description as we have lately come across. The story is full of action, and the background of the Southwest is painted in with vivid and correct coloring. Above all, it has roality, for the author is at home both in the regions he describes and in the telling of a good story—though so far as we know, this is his first novel. "The Last of the Plainsmen," a descriptive work published several years ago, covered to some extent the same territory.

MAX. By Katherine Cecil Thurston, author of "The Masquerader" and "The Gambler." New York: Harper & Bros. $1.50.

Katherine Cecil Thurston's great success with the unique plot of "The Masquerader" hasn't been duplicated by her since, nor has she duplicated it in the present volume. Neither "The Gambler" nor "Max" has reached the level of power and novelty attained by "The Masquerader."

Nevertheless, all three volumes are fascinatingly readable, the last hardly less so than the first. The "Max" of the original theme of "The Masquerader" is ingenious, but it hasn't the novelty of the original. Yet the novel is certain to interest, and in skill of narration, power of character-drawing and other technical factors in literary workmanship, "Max" is as strong as "The Masquerader" and stronger than "The Gambler."

The story of "Max" begins on the night express from Berlin to Paris. Among the passengers is a Russian boy queerly dressed and evidently poor. In the same compartment with him are three men, whose curiosity he seems anxious to avoid. Two of them set him down as an anarchist, but the third —Edward Blake, a cosmopolitan Irishman—is strangely drawn to him. When they arrive in Paris, Blake stops the boy and questions him, but is coolly repelled. Later, chance throws them together again, in the Place de la Concorde. Blake has a superstitious feeling that the meeting is fated. He enters into conversation with the boy—Max—and almost on the instant they become good friends. They go to a cafe, and Max shows his genius as an artist by drawing a remarkable picture of a table top. Afterward he takes an apartment in the Rue Muller, and with Blake begins an ardent search for the idea that is to be his inspiration for a great picture. Together the two visit all sorts of queer places—Bohemian cafes, the Bal Taharin and the like. The story is saturated with the atmosphere of Paris—the most delightful city in the world to those in quest of new experience and adventure.

At last Max paints his great picture —a picture, he says, of his sister Maxine, who remarkably resembles him. Blake sees the picture and promptly falls in love with it. He insists upon seeing Maxine in the flesh. Max reluctantly, and after a quarrel, consents to the interview, and Blake falls in love with the reality. Then, after a time of emotional stress and misunderstanding, the truth comes out: Max is Maxine. The good comrade, the whimsical, warm-hearted, venturesome boy, suddenly becomes the charming woman of the world. The transformation is managed with wonderful skill. All at once it is seen that Max's illusive attractiveness has been feminine from the beginning, while Maxine has all the freshness, audacity and honesty of the boy, Max.

The remarkable emotional situation thus created is developed in a way that makes the story as original in its love-interest as it is in its extraordinary plot. Max (or Maxine) is a genius and has resolved to sacrifice everything to her art. Acknowledging her sex, she sends Blake from her, after a passionate scene, and he loyally goes. Then follows a contest in which one's sympathies are almost as much with the boy, Max, as with the woman, Maxine. Yet the conclusion, in which love unexpectedly triumphs, is eminently satisfying. The story is swiftly, brilliantly told, every incident increasing the suspense until the climax is reached. Above all, the heroine is a true creation—a unique figure of gallant, adventurous youth—bewildering in her two-fold charm as boy and woman, yet thoroughly consistent with herself. It is quite fair, at least, to say that "Max" is the best story of its kind that has appeared since "The Masquerader."

A little book of short verses of the same uneven quality as other earlier publications by the same author. Most of the poems deal with affairs of the heart, and they run from delightful to tame.

THE IMPOSTER. By John Reed Scott. Philadelphia: J. B. Lippincott company. $1.50.

A story of Maryland in colonial times. The hero, a young Englishman, finds the way open to him to win prominence and pleasure and a pretty girl in the colony by making the people believe him to be one Sir Edward Barkington when in fact he is somebody else. He almost loses his chance to marry the girl he wants to as a result of his deceit, and also shares the peril of his new-found friends at the time of a raid on a country house by a band of pirates. Of course everything ends well, but the story would be easier reading if the author knew better how to differentiate between the essential and the incidental in the dialogues. However, it is good, light reading, and you can skip most of the long drawn out conversations.

IF DAVID KNEW. By Fraces Aymer Mathews. New York: G. W. Dillingham company. $1.50.

Dope-fiends are not pleasant to read about as a rule, and the woman in this story who is addicted to the use of morphine is no exception. The story is one of a woman who, urged on by her socially ambitious parents, trapped a rich young capitalist into marrying her, keeping him in ignorance of her slavery to the drug. He is given to understand that her peculiar actions at times are due to a nervous malady which they believe can be cured, and their fear of what would happen "if David knew." David finds out, of course, being a man of at least average intelligence, and his acquirement of this knowledge is linked with a bit of misplaced romance that leads the author to an exceedingly unfortunate ending of her book. If the last sentence had been omitted it would not be so bad, but she failed to make the omission. Incidentally the story introduces to us a young man who proves to be in every way a fine fellow, though a brother of the dope-fiend; to a young woman who is interesting in spite of her religious bent, and to a bit of tragedy that is as intensely tragic as anybody could wish.

THE LADY OF THE SPUR. By David Potter. Philadelphia: J. B. Lippincott company. $1.50.

In a style which seems to be in imitation of that of Opie Read, Mr. Potter gives us a story of romance and adventure in Western New Jersey at some period between the beginning of the nineteenth century and the Civil war. The plot is modeled largely after Read's, too, except that the hero is introduced to us as a villain instead of a virtuous youth to whom we can look up with respect. In spite of his shortcomings he reaps the reward of virtue, though just how it happens that he escapes punishment for his duplicity is not clear. What with mysterious doings by a young woman, midnight assaults by rough characters, the storming of a "manor" and some other incidents, including the introduction of a crone who has a snake for her pet, there is plenty doing all through the story. As to accuracy, historical or involving local color, if it is no greater in the rest of the story than it is in the author's account of a cock-fight, it is woefully lacking. However, this does not necessarily spoil the development of a fairly interesting plot.

THE SCALES OF JUSTICE. By George L. Knapp. Philadelphia: J. B. Lippincott company. $1.50.

"The third degree" as it is exemplified in some police departments is shown in all its unpleasantness in Mr. Knapp's story, and it does not raise one's opinion of the police methods that involve that system. It seems to be the purpose of the author to show up the third degree, and he does so effectively, but in spite of having written, evidently, for a purpose, he has turned out a corking good detective story. The newspaper man who plays the central part in the plot is portrayed without that element of exaggeration that mars most books in which such characters figure. As for guessing the end from the beginning, the story might have been written for a puzzle contest, so completely is the outcome hidden in the earlier pages.

Besides his numerous adventures in hunting and exploration, he was at one time a baseball player. Apropos of this part of his career he tells this story: "I lost a close and exciting game between Harvard and Pennsylvania in a most unusual manner. Along the left field foul line was a track used by runners and jumpers. The groundkeeper had neglected to fill up the hole dug by the spiked shoes of these track athletes. I was playing left field for Pennsylvania. In the ninth inning with score tied, Harvard at bat, and bases full, Scannel hit a high fly to left field. The Pennsylvania adherents expected a sure out. But just as I looked up to catch the ball I steped into the hole. The ball hit me upon the head, bounced clear into the bleachers, and all the runners scored."

The call was made on a wet afternoon. "She came to tea wearing a rough frieze walking skirt and a rought little coat which opened over some beautiful color—deep blues and greens—and a rough frieze walking skirt and a rough cut stones. But the principal thing that struck me was her glowing color and ald of country vigor. She might have just come in from a tramp over the moors. Her dark eyes shone with the serene sparkle that high winds breed; and her step was springy and alert. She came across the room as if she were tramping over the heather. She had walked across the park in the rain and the glow of exercise still enveloped her."

The published story that Mrs. Mary Roberts Rinehart, author of "When a Man Marries," "The Window at the White Cat," (Bobbs-Merrill), and other popular novels, is losing her sight is erroneous. In June she had some trouble with her eyes—painful, but not serious. The trouble seems to be passing away altogether. She spent the summer at Bemus Point on Lake Chautauqua and is now in New York for the opening of a "summer" and some other incidents, including the introduction of a crone who has a snake for her pet, there is plenty doing all through the story. As to accuracy, historical or involving local color, if it is no greater in the rest of the story than it is in the author's account of a cock-fight, it is woefully lacking. The call was made on a wet afternoon. "She came to tea wearing a rough frieze walking skirt and a rought little coat which opened over some beautiful color—deep blues and greens—and a rough frieze walking skirt and a rough cut stones. But the principal thing that struck me was her glowing color and ald of country vigor. She might have just come in from a tramp over the moors. Her dark eyes shone with the serene sparkle that high winds breed; and her step was springy and alert. She came across the room as if she were tramping over the heather. She had walked across the park in the rain and the glow of exercise still enveloped her."

The published story that Mrs. Mary Roberts Rinehart, author of "When a Man Marries," "The Window at the White Cat," (Bobbs-Merrill), and other popular novels, is losing her sight is erroneous. In June she had some trouble with her eyes—painful, but not serious. The trouble seems to be passing away altogether. She spent the summer at Bemus Point on Lake Chautauqua and is now in New York for the opening of the second season of her successful play, "Seven Days." With Dr. Rinehart and their three sons, she expects soon to go abroad, where the doctor will pursue his medical studies in Vienna.

Doubleday, Page & Co. have just published another volume of poems by Cale Young Rice, entitled "Song Surf." Mr. Rice's reputation is constantly growing, and his peculiar delicacy and subtlety are receiving a wider and a well deserved appreciation. This latest volume is uniform with Mr. Rice's preceding books, which are entitled, "Nirvana Day," "Yolande of Cyprus," "Plays and Lyrics," "A Night in Avignon," "David," "Charles di Tocca," "Many Gods."

J. B. Lippincott company has announced its fall list of fiction, which includes "The Imposter," by John Reed Scott; "The Lady of the Spur," by David Potter; "The Scales of Justice," by George L. Knapp—an intense mystery story, with the third degree as it is actually practiced as its basis; "The End of the Rainbow," by Stella M. During; "The Path of Honor," by Burton E. Stevenson; and "A Dixie Rose," by Augusta Kortrecht.

William L. Comfort has just had the honor of having his last novel "Routledge Rides Alone," (Lippincott), in which he paints the horrors of modern war, made the special subject of a series of studies and lectures at the Twentieth Century club of Detroit, a serious organization of women, who recognize in the work a powerful plea for peace. They have also, it is said, started the machinery for petitioning the Nobel prize judges to consider Mr. Comfort's claims to the next peace prize.

SOCIETY

The date for the annual charity ball, at which the members of the board of directors of the Children's Home are hostesses each year, has been set for Tuesday evening, Nov. 22, the Tuesday before Thanksgiving. The affair will be held at the Spalding hotel as usual and will be the largest and most brilliant affair of the early winter season. The members of the board this year are Mesdames S. R. Holden, J. N. McKindley, H. H. Myers, J. P. Gordon, K. A. Van Loo, A. C. Hubbell, C. E. Lunn, T. J. Davis, J. H. McLean, J. H. Crowley, T. F. Cole, L. S. Loeb, F. H. White, M. L. Fay, C. S. Wilson, W. C. Winton, W. H. Hoyt, G. H. Jones, T. L. Chapman and G. Oliver and Miss Hoatson.

During the next few weeks the plans for the ball will be completed and it is expected to make the affair a brilliant social and financial success.

The autumn ball of the Assembly will be danced Friday evening, Oct. 28, at the Spalding hotel. The affair will be the first large dancing party of the autumn season and the committee is planning to make it a beautiful affair. The invitations were issued today.

An affair of much interest during the week was the reception Wednesday afternoon, at which Mrs. Page Morris was hostess at her home, 2232 East First street, when the engagement of her daughter, Miss Mary Morris, to Robbins Anderson of Honolulu was announced. Mr. Anderson is an attorney at Honolulu and is a son of the late Rev. James C. Anderson, who made his home in Duluth for many years and a brother of Miss Elizabeth Anderson, formerly of this city.

Receiving with Mrs. Morris and her daughter was Miss Statham, who has recently returned with Miss Morris from two years abroad.

In the reception room and library American beauty roses were the decorations and in the hall nasturtiums were used. Killarey roses were the decorations for the dining room. During the receiving hourse from 3 to 5 o'clock a large number of guests called.

Autumn Weddings.

A beautiful home wedding took place Tuesday evening at the residence of Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Stewart, when their daughter, Miss Lyda Mary Stewart became the bride of Roger Schall Kopp. The appointments for the wedding, in the decorations throughout the rooms and in the gowns of the bride's attendants, were in pink. In the reception room, where the ceremony took place, smilax and myrrh were the decorations chosen. In the library pink carnations and smilax were the decorations and the dining room was attractive in Killarney roses.

Before the ceremony Miss Marie Clarke sang "O Promise Me" and at 8 o'clock the wedding music was played by Flaaten's orchestra and the wedding party entered. The maid of honor was Miss Blanche Benton of Belmont, Mass., who wore a gown of white chiffon over pink messaline satin and carried Killarney roses. The bridesmaid was Miss Adelaide Miller, who wore a gown of pink chiffon and carried pink roses. The groomsman was Carl Lonegren and the usher, Gerald Kopp of York, Pa., a brother of the bridegroom. The wedding service was read by the Rev. A. W. Ryan of St. Paul's Episcopal church.

The bride's gown was of white marquisette over satin trimmed with pearls and duchess lace. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley.

At the reception which followed the ceremony Mrs. William Burgess, Mrs. Oscar Wagner, Miss Marie Craig and Miss Imelda Monaghan assisted. The out-of-town guests for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Theodore Kopp of York, Pa., parents of the bridegroom and Miss Vera Case of Elmira, N. Y.

Mr. Kopp and his bride left for a wedding trip. The bride's traveling suit was of blue cloth with hat to match. They will be at home after Dec. 1 at York, Pa.

The following social item from the Minneapolis Journal of Wednesday will be of interest to many Duluthians: "Miss Josephine Morris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Morris, and A. J. Anderson of Duluth were married at high noon today at the home of the bride's parents, 3328 Cedar avenue. The service took place in the living room beneath a bower of oak boughs and silver maples. Rev. Henry Logan performed the ceremony in the presence of about forty guests. Miss Florence Messer played the bridal music.

"The bride's only attendant was her sister, little Sarah Morris, flower girl, in a white lingerie frock, and she carried a basket of white roses and held the ring in the heart of the rose. The bride's gown was of white crepe silk over white satin, with trimmings of silk lace, and her flowers were a bouquet of white rosebuds. Mr. Anderson had no attendants.

"After a reception, at which Mr. and Mrs. Morris received with their son and daughter, a wedding dinner was served. The dining room was decorated with red salvia, and covers were placed for forty. In the afternoon the bride and bridegroom left on their wedding journey, to the Eastern coast and then to Florida. The bride wore a going-away gown of gray broadcloth with a black velvet hat.

"Mr. and Mrs. Anderson will be at home in Duluth after Nov. 1.

"Miss Morris has had much entertaining done for her in the week before her marriage. Misses Florence and Ella Rex were hostesses at dinner Friday evening at their home, 1425 Sixth street southeast. Saturday afternoon Mrs. A. Anderson entertained at a box party at the Orpheum, and after the matinee she gave a dinner at her home, 3250 Grand avenue south. Monday Mrs. W. H. Morris entertained at a quilting bee at her home, 3328 Cedar avenue, for Miss Morris."

The wedding of Miss Hilda Johnson and G. Smedlund took place last Saturday evening at the parsonage of the Swedish Baptist church at 2212 West Third street. The service was read by the Rev. Swaney Nelson. Mr. and Mrs. Smedlund will be at home at Twenty-second avenue west and Eighth street.

Invitations have been issued for the wedding of Miss Anna Kuchenbecker and Henry I. Fedi, to take place Monday evening, Oct. 24, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Kuchenbecker of 107 North Sixty-third avenue west. Mr. Fedi and his bride will be at home after Nov. 15 at West Duluth.

Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock, at St. Albert's church in St. Paul, the wedding of Miss Lottie C. Wisniske to James G. Valentine of Duluth took place. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Meyer. The attendants were James E. Roy and Miss Esther Ingleholm of St. Paul.

The wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Barton Wisniske.

Mr. and Mrs. Valentine will be at home after Nov. 1 at 3800 Minnesota avenue, Park Point.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Gerlack of 5309 Wadena street have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Freda M. Gerlack to Adolph H. Schaefer of Fergus Falls. The wedding will take place in November.

Mr. and Mrs. John Tidball have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Eleanor Elizabeth Tidball to Lawrence E. Ames of this city. The wedding will take place in November.

The wedding of Miss Genevieve Burke and Clifford L. Dennis of Virginia will take place Wednesday morning of next week at the Cathedral. Mr. Dennis and his bride will leave for a wedding trip through the East. They will be at home after their return at Virginia.

CLUBS AND MUSICAL

HOW MUSIC MAY BE APPRECIATED

First of an Interesting Series of Lectures Is Delivered.

Thursday morning of this week the first meeting of the class for the study of musical appreciation with Miss Josephine Carey as lecturer, was held at her studio, 222 West First street. The class is a part of the musical department of the Twentieth Century club, and the first lecture on "The Structure of Music and Folk Music," was heard with interest by the class members. Miss Carey said in part:

"We are to study, in this class, how to listen to music and in order to intelligently hear music it is necessary to understand the structure. Structure in music is like structure in any other thing, the form or shape. Each one's appreciation must of course be individual but before there can be an intelligent individual appreciation, there must be a knowledge of the structure. Every one has a germ of musical appreciation. Of course there is a wide variety in the response, but I do not believe that anyone is quite without the germ.

"There are three sides from which music may be appreciated, through the senses, through the intelligence, and through the feelings. The last, a response through the feelings, I should place first in importance but a combination of the three is the most satisfying.

"People usually appreciate music, I think, through the senses. If it is orchestra music it is a large, perhaps colorful sound that they hear without anyalysis or any real following of the work. It pleases them but it is not really hearing music. You have heard people say that they see pictures while hearing music and if their minds are at liberty to imagine pictures, they are not really following the music. The pleasure is so much more intense when one can really follow that it is well worth the effort of learning how. But it takes concentration and it gives the mind no time to see pictures.

The Three Elements.

"The three elements in music are rhythm, melody and harmony. Rhythm is the beat or accent, the measured flow of the music. It is said that men's sense of rhythm is much better than that possessed by women. We have rhythm in poetry. In counting one, two, three to a composition in that time, you begin to feel it. It is very pleasing, and wonderful effects in dance music are secured.

"Melody is the tune. It may be likened to the line in pictures and harmony to the color. Rhythm is the first essential in music, and savages have a feeling for it. In the middle ages they worked around finding the seven notes that fit together out of the something like 40,000 appreciate to the ear, and our scale is the result. In the melody the unit is a period as the sentence is the unit in language.

"The division of heard music should be as unconscious as the dividing of spoken language into sentences. When we hear a person speak, or a lecturer, we do not consciously say, 'That is the end of a sentence,' but we know it. It should be the same in music, but until one has heard a great deal and has become almost as familiar as with the language we hear spoken constantly, the effort must be a conscious one. There is a difference of opinion about the worth of this close analysis, but I think it is necessary to get the full knowledge of musical appreciation. It is like taking a written composition without capital letters or punctuation and putting them in where they should be. The musical period states or asks a question, or describes as a sentence in language, but of course music cannot describe a cause. It can express emotion, but not the reason. One can be joyous or in sorrow for a hundred seasons. Music can express the emotion but not the reason."

Miss Carey analyzed the structure and talked of the development of folk music from the simplest musical unit, the motive, a few notes which the early people arranged and which satisfied them for a time. Folk music was considered and examples played. For examples of musical balance, Schubert valses and Mozart numbers were played.

The class meets the second and fourth Thursdays of the month.

AFTERMATH OF MELBA CONCERT

Audience a Record Breaker ---The Russian Dancers Come Next.

During the week Duluth enjoyed the most notable concert in its career, and since Thursday evening, when Melba and her company appeared, congratulations have been thick in the air. Such an audience has never before assembled at the Lyceum for such an event and the feeling throughout the evening of people being glad to be there, instead of dragged out protestingly, but loyally to a lost cause, was almost thrilling. The best of it is, that this affair is only one of a series that Duluth may enjoy during the season.

The second number of the course will be presented Nov. 5 at the Lyceum by the famous Russian dancers.

In discussing the wonderful art of Anna Pavlowa, most famous of the noted members of the Russian imperial ballet, C. M. S. McLellan, the English dramatist, said recently in a London interview:

"As a passing imitation that the renaissance of beauty and truth is coming toward us on wings, we have the success of the Russian dancers. To be sure London got them after all the rest of the world; but that's like London—slow, but sure. Years ago a few extraordinary Englishmen, who insisted upon knowing the things that are worth while, even in art, and who had been in St. Petersburg, were made a little tired from being constantly assured by local critics that the art of dancing began and ended with certain charming performances at the Empire and the Alhambra in Leicester Square.

"It's fortunate that the Russian women have come along to help the new order. Among other things, they have brought back to us the smile of artists. They laugh like nuns taking the sunshine—as only grave, spiritual natures know how to laugh. In the general censure of the new playwright it is asserted that he is gloomy. He is. One of his first duties is to instill a strong and superior gravity into people who now assemble in theaters and laugh like negroes.

"I will quote Walter Pater for you on Greek culture. He says that in the dramatic business of Lacedaemon there was little comic acting. The fondness of the slaves for buffoonery and loud laughter was to their mother, who had no taste for the like, a reassuring note of his own superiority. You can't hear the Russian women laugh; but do look at them.

"This is the laughter of life, of art, of beauty. It is one and the same thing with sorrow. It doesn't come at the sound of a joke or a cheap song, but out of the joy of beautiful action. I commend it to the attention of those who would like to join the renaissance, but do not know how. To laugh like that, first become an artist. How shall one become an artist? Ah!"

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

STATE HAS BIG GROWTH

Notable Increase in North Dakota Taxable Property for Ten Years.

Large Gain in Valuations Is Shown in State Auditor's Report.

Bismarck, N. D., Oct. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—A decade of progress is set forth in a report that has been issued by State Auditor D. K. Brightbill in which figures are given with reference to the state's valuation as shown by the assessments. Railroad, real, personal, express, telephone, telegraph and street railway holdings are all included and the gradual forward strides of the state are revealed in a most conclusive manner.

Since 1900 there has been constructed in the state approximately 1,686 miles of railroad, and during that same period the valuation of the lines has been increased from $17,367,525 to $40,276,266. The total mileage at the present time, not including sidetracks, is 4,247, while there are 765 miles of sidetracks laid. The year of 1906 saw the greatest jump, the milage going from 3,218 miles the previous year to 3,745.

Railroads in 1900 were assessed at the rate of $6,500 a mile for main lines; now the assessment is $14,625 a mile; branch lines were assessed at $6,500 a mile in 1900, while now they are assessed at $7,313 a mile. Sidings have been increased from $1,500 a mile to $1,588.

Real Estate Assessment.

The real estate assessment in 1900 was $73,574,494, while at the present time it has been more than doubled, being $184,589,989.

The personal property assessment of the state is $61,909,379, while in 1900 it was $26,262,466.

Telephones had taken the most wonderful stride of all public utilities. In 1901 when the first assessment of telephones was made, there was a valuation of only $108,017, while at the present time the assessment is $1,074,033, or approximately ten times as great as nine years ago.

In 1906 the state's revenue was only $527,420, and at the present time the revenue is $1,225,814, or better than double what it was a decade ago.

On the assessment of land the average assessment per acre is $4.26. The highest assessment is in Cass county, where land is valued at $7.52 for taxation purposes. Traill county comes second, Richland, Grand Forks and Walsh follow in order, thus making the valley counties the highest valued in the state. The total number of acres in the state is 34,394,240, while the total acreage of the state is 44,736,477.

YEGGMEN FAIL BLOWING SAFE

Make Futile Attack Upon Strong Box in Maza, N. D., Postoffice.

Maza, N. D., Oct. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The local postoffice was entered by yeggmen some time between Thursday evening and yesterday morning, the burglars using one charge of dynamite on the safe without success. About $25 was secured in the postoffice cash drawer and in the till of the Ransler & Johnson store, in which the office is located.

Evidence tends to show that the men came into Maza in a buggy, and that they also drove away again. The police found several articles to indicate that the men came from Grand Forks, initials on a drinking cup being "G. F., N. D."

MARRIAGE ENDS EUCLID ROMANCE

Bride Crosses Deep to Marry One Man But Takes Another.

Euclid, Minn., Oct. 15.—The marriage at the German Lutheran church here last Sunday afternoon of Henry Tiedemann, a Tabor township farmer, and Miss Katherine Boche, besides being what the society reporters call the event of the season, was the culmination of a romance in which a third party, of course, a mere man, and $100 also figured.

According to current stories, Miss Roche crossed the briny deep to become the bride of a bachelor, living in this locality who in the search for a helpmate had been induced on the recommendation of a friend to advance the woman $100 to pay her traveling expenses from her home in the Old Country to this section of Minnesota.

Availing herself of woman's prerogative of changing her mind, the woman in the case, after a short acquaintance, informed the would-be husband that she could not marry him. She also told him she would earn the $100 he had expended in bringing her to the land of the free and repay him. About this time she met Mr. Tiedemann and after a brief friendship that turned into courtship she smiled upon his offer of marriage, providing the $100 she had promised to pay the rejected one could be liquidated. A mere $100 cannot stand in the way, declared the new one, and he promptly paid the debt and claimed his bride. On a fine farm in Tabor township, the couple are enjoying a honeymoon, while all the neighbors are enjoying the recitation of the pretty romance that well might figure in a drama.

Crystal Falls Next Year.

Marquette, Mich., Oct. 15.—The annual convention of the Upper Peninsula W. C. T. U. closed here Thursday afternoon, and the meeting was generally said to have been one of the best in the history of the society. Wilson; treasurer, Mrs. M. Taylor. Superintendents of departments—Evangelistic work, Mrs. S. Beacock; lumberman's work, Mrs. L. Peterson; Sunday school work, Mrs. E. Craig; L. T. L. work, Mrs. Lina Bell; medal contest work, Mrs. A. Selden. The next meeting will be held at Crystal Falls.

MAKE UNIONISTS OF THE CHILDREN

Labor Speaker Would Include Idea in Child's Early Training.

Before the Federated Trades assembly at their meeting at the Kalamazoo hall last night Rudolph Modets, general organizer of the American Federation of Labor and the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher's Workmen, told of the fight that is now on between the union butchers and meat workers and the meat trust.

He said that only a small part of the butchers are organized, and that if the public would insist on union cards in the shops many would be drawn into the fold. The speaker stated that if the public would insist on meat that was butchered by union butchers and handled by union men all along the line the rule of the meat trust would be short.

Mr. Modest said that the people had to be educated up to the union idea and the great help it is to those who have to work for a living. He stated that if parents would teach the union idea to the children the same as they do their prayers, their religion and their "A, B C's" the next generation would be able to accomplish what this generation has failed to do.

He urged that Duluth people do all in their power to extend the cause of the unionists and ended by telling something of the union conditions in Chicago.

L. J. Colson of the local cigarmakers' union made a short talk in which he explained how the trust is able to control the tobacco situation.

Miss Jean Poirier reported from the Women's Union Label league and made known the fact that Mrs. Katherine Dempsey, who has been active in the work of that society, will soon remove to Boston.

The Best Plaster.

A piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Liniment and bound on to the affected parts is superior to any plaster. When troubled with lame back or pains in the side or chest give it a trial and you are certain to be more than pleased with the prompt relief which it affords. This liniment also relieves rheumatic pains and is certain to please anyone suffering from that disease. Sold by all druggists.

ONE BUILDING WHICH ESCAPED THE FLAMES

THE CANADIAN NORTHERN DEPOT AT BAUDETTE.

FORAGE NEEDED FOR THE CATTLE

Livestock Belonging to Victims of Fire Now Suffering for Fodder.

McIntosh, Minn., Oct. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The citizens of McIntosh have raised by subscription $262.37 for the relief of the fire sufferers of which the school children raised $27.87. A ton of clothing has also been donated. Mayor H. D. Bolstad went to the scene of the disaster to personally superintend the distribution of the supplies.

Blackduck Not in Danger.

Bemidji, Minn., Oct. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—All danger of the destruction of the village of Blackduck by forest fires which have burned near there for several days is passed, according to word from there. While there are numerous fires in the vicinity, there is practically no danger to the village, as there is very little standing timber in such close proximity as to make a repetition of the Baudette-Spooner fire possible. A fire has raged along the O'Brien creek for some time and one of the J. A. Irvine logging camps, known as the Ratican, was burned. A report that several men had perished in the fire proved to be false.

Sends Hay for Livestock.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Oct. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—This city has shipped a great quantity of clothing, supplies and food to the fire sufferers. About 734 packages, large and small, were collected by the school children alone.

Mayor Hamre was notified by telephone that stock in the western part of the burned district was starving, chiefly in the neighborhood of Warroad, so he ordered a car load of hay loaded at once at Holt, a small station north of this city on the Great Northern. The steady stream of refugees continues to pass through Thief River Falls for points south where they have friends. All tell the same harrowing tale of loss of property and some loss of life. Several persons from this city originally are somewhere up in the Rapid River section on homesteads.

HAMILTON WILSON, WAR VETERAN, DEAD.

Cass Lake, Minn., Oct. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hamilton Wilson, an old and respected citizen of Cass Lake, died at his home of dropsy last Saturday morning and the funeral was conducted by the congregational church on last Sunday afternoon. Mr. Wilson was a member of Company G, Forty-fourth Wisconsin infantry, in which he served during the civil war. The funeral was largely attended, the local G. A. R. attending in a body, together with several members of the Akeley post, of which Mr. Wilson was a member. Deceased was about 75 years old and leaves a large number of relatives.

BIG FALLS WOMAN IS BADLY BURNED.

Big Falls, Minn., Oct. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Julius Anseth of this place is nursing some bad burns she sustained this week. While washing she had poured some gasoline into a washtub and a spark flying from the adjacent stove caused an explosion and fire. Her clothing caught as well as a nearby bed in which a child was sleeping. Attorney McPartlin, who was passing, was attracted by the explosion and the smoke and rescued the child, as well as helped extinguish the fire.

ASHLAND'S GLOVE PLANT OPERATING.

Ashland, Wis., Oct. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The glove factory has started operations, with nine machines working. By the time Mrs. Everst and her assistant succeeds in teaching this number of operators the work others will be taken in. The intention is to keep adding gradually to the number of employes in this manner, so that there will not be a large numbor of green operators at the same time. The west room of the building is not fitted out yet, as workmen are putting in a heating plant. Albert Nicala, one of the employes of the company, is assisting in starting things.

FALLING ROCK KILLS CALUMET TIMBERMAN.

Calumet, Mich., Oct. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Jake Moredich, aged 32 years, a resident of Swedetown, was killed Thursday by falling rock, while following his occupation as a member of a timber gang, in No. 9 shaft, South Hecla branch of the Calumet & Hecla mine.

The decedent was a married man and is survived by a wife and five children. He was a member of the St. Joseph's and St. John Slavonian societies, members of whom will attend the funeral.

OFFICERS DISQUALIFIED.

Both Sheriff and Coroner Halted in Summoning Trial Jurors.

Bemidji, Minn., Oct. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The county attorney and the attorney for John Carlton, who is on trial in the district court on the charge of robbery, did not lose any love for one another while trying to secure a jury to try Carlton.

County Attorney McKusick filed an affidavit of prejudice against Sheriff Hanzen and Attorney Funkley, counsel for Carlton, filed a similar affidavit against the coroner, who has already chosen two special venires during the term, after the county attorney had filed affidavits of prejudice against the sheriff. A special venire of fifteen jurymen was ordered by Judge McClenahan and the warring attorneys finally agreed to allow Deputy Sheriff Cahill to name the special veniremen, who reported at 9 a. m. today. The trial of the case of the State vs. Van Tassel, accused of first degree assault, will again be taken up Monday or Tuesday.

The jury in the case of A. T. Hatcher vs. E. J. Swedback brought in a verdict for the plaintiff, allowing his claim of a little over $100 and interest and costs. This suit was brought by Mr. Hatcher to recover a claim and Mr. Swedback put in a counter claim for about $1,000.

CROW WING COUNTY EDUCATORS MEETING.

Brainerd, Minn., Oct. 15. — (Special to The Herald.) — The thirty-fourth semi-annual meeting of the Crow Wing County Educational association is being held in the courthouse. J. W. Olson of St. Paul, was the principal speaker yesterday morning and was introduced by County Superintendent J. A. Wilson. Prof. Kingsford, of the Moorhead normal school, spoke of the afternoon and evening. Today will be devoted to addresses and will conclude with a business session and the election of officers.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Marinette—James A. Rappe, veteran of three wars and believed to be the oldest cyclist in the world, on Thursday observed his ninety-fifth birthday anniversary. Although he has given up riding his wheel, except at rare intervals during the last year, his health is good and he has the coloring of a strong man of 45 in his cheeks.

Markesan—Edward Carter, a prominent farmer living near Fairwater, died Thursday afternoon. He was for many years chairman of the town of Metomen.

Madison—Emil Stanke and Ralph Harrison pleaded guilty in the Dane County municipal court to the charge of robbing Fred Sherman of $20 while in a box car attached to a train running from Janesville to Madison Tuesday night. Each was sentenced to eighteen months in the Green Bay reformatory.

Stoughton—Supt. Sylvanus Ames of the Eastern district of Dane county has called a meeting of members of school boards to be in the assembly chamber of the state capitol, Madison, on Friday, Oct. 21. It will be a one day session. W. E. Larson and C. L. Harper of the state department of education will assist Supt. Ames.

Madison—In a conference between the Wisconsin state board of immigration and representatives of the Wisconsin Advancement association in the secretary of state's office on Thursday it was agreed to ask the legislature at the joint session to appropriate about $10,000 for carrying on the work of the board of immigration.

Ashland—George M. McCloud qualified as city comptroller Thursday and was immediately broke into harness as a member of the board of public works, the other members being City Attorney Cate and City Engineer Hutchinson. Mr. Hutchinson has not been in the active discharge of his duties, for some time, Jerod Day acting as deputy.

Marinette—Attorney J. H. McGillan of Green Bay has started suit for the recovery of the motor boat Dora which was towed into Ephraim, Door county, last week in a disabled condition by Dr. England, who is now holding the boat for salvage, under the marine law.

Eau Claire—Edward Butler, a former resident of Eau Claire, met an accident at the Omaha freight depot at Ashland in which he sustained injuries which it is thought may prove fatal. He had several ribs broken, a lung pierced and was otherwise badly bruised. Just how the accident happened is not learned.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Brainerd — Work has commenced on the hypo-chloride plant which the water and light board is installing for the treatment of the river water. It is expected to have the plant in operation by next Monday. George W. Jevne and Edward W. Leach have arrived from St. Paul and will have charge of the construction work.

Pine City—On the evening of Saturday, the 12th day of November, the first of a four course series of entertainments will be offered to the people of Pine City and vicinity by the Lyric Glee club.

Crookston — Clarence Stout, the son of R. B. Stout of Beltrami, and brother of Ralph Stout, who accidentally shot his arm off while hunting a week ago last Monday, and whose arm was amputated at the hospital here the same afternoon by Dr. O. L. Bertelson, has improved so rapidly that he has removed to his home.

Princeton—Mrs. A. T. Chisholm died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George H. Deans, at Foreston Thursday at 3:50. Funeral services were held at George Deans' residence and the remains brought to Princeton for interment on Saturday.

Perham — The fires about Dent this week caused such alarm that the Perham fire department was called over. Every effort was put forth to extinguish the flames and the town was saved.

Cambridge—Word has been received that Miss Laura A. Foot of Red Wing became the bride of Dr. Samuel Campbell of Harlowton, Mont. The ceremony was performed at 6 o'clock Wednesday at the home of the bride's parents. Miss Foot was principal of the Cambridge high school for two years and she has a host of friends in this vicinity.

North Branch — The potato market opened in North Branch this week with eight buyers in the field and prices are rather above those of last year, though declining some since Monday. The market opened Monday with Burbanks at 50 cents and Ohios and Triumphs at 60 cents. Tuesday the market dropped back a little.

Rush City—An athletic association was organized in the school Monday evening, with the following officers: President, John Blackhurst; vice president, Barbara Muenzer; secretary, Robert Coste; treasurer, Samuel Albrecht; sergeant at arms, Oscar Dickson.

Fergus Falls—Rev. Caroline Crane visited the schools of this city Wednesday forenoon, and delivered an address on "Civic Pride" before the high school and Eighth grade Thursday morning. She told how students in the schools of different cities had organized squads for general cleaning up purposes, and made a number of valuable suggestion. She was heartily applauded by the students.

Stillwater — The county commissioners will hold a special meeting next Wednesday to contribute funds to aid in the relief of fire sufferers in the Northern part of the state. The city council will make a donation next Tuesday night. Mayor J. W. Foley has designated men and women to collect cash and necessaries to be turned over to the state relief society.

Mankato—Whiteford M. Hall, 70 years old, was held to the grand jury Thursday charged with murder in the first degree after a hearing on a charge of shooting George A. Crook, aged 60, with a rifle at their home on the outskirts of Madison Lake a week ago Saturday night. The defendant put in no evidence, but waived further examination as soon as the state rested.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Fargo, N. D.—For the first time for several months the city jail at the city hall was empty Thursday. All the prisoners who have been committed for the last several weeks have served their respective sentences.

Max, N. D.—Vasil Sucherjeske, the man who made himself famous a short time ago in resisting officers of the law, who took him to task for violating the game law, has sold his section farm northeast of Max for $3,000 to three Illinois buyers. The farm is not located close to any town, being eighteen miles from Max and nearly as far from Sawyer, the other nearest point.

Jamestown, N. D.—President McFarland, a member of the North Dakota board of the National Red Cross association, announced that he will receive all funds contributed by the citizens of North Dakota for the sufferers from the Minnesota fires of this and last week.

Belfield, N. D.—Jacob Bill and Mary and Hugh Stevenson of Ellsworth returned the first of the week from marketing cattle at Chicago. Mr. Bill had two carloads this year and sold his native steers, 1,408 pounds average weight, at $6.75 per hundred weight and cows at $4.60.

Jamestown, N. D.—A wedding of much interest in Jamestown took place Wednesday afternoon, when Miss Lillian Ethel Slonbek became the bride of William James Harvey Montgomery of Niagara. The ceremony was performed by Rev. T. H. Leslie of Fargo, an old acquaintance of the bride and bridegroom, at the home of the bride's parents.

Fargo, N. D.—The case of the State Humane society against C. H. Hill, a Cass county farmer, brought by William Blake, state president of the society, was dismissed by Judge Hanson in the county court. The charges preferred was cruelty to animals and the court held there was not sufficient evidence to convict.

Bottineau, N. D.—The proposition to transfer Wheaton, Hoffman, Cut Bank, Blaine, Lansford, Lima, Mount Rose, Renville and Sherman townships from Bottineau to Renville county will be submitted to the voters of the two counties at the general election Nov. 8.

Grand Forks, N. D.—Carl Moen of Reynolds sustained a compound fracture of the right leg in a runaway accident on Wednesday morning, and was brought to St. Michael's hospital in this city for treatment. Moen was dragged through the main street at Reynolds behind a runaway team, and it was indeed fortunate that he escaped with his life.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Houghton—The Lake Superior Fish Company of White City has abandoned the waters of and tributary to the Copper country as a source of fish supply. Manager W. H. Labb returned Wednesday from Marquette, where on Tuesday night he took the tug Ethel J. and the company's fishing outfit.

Calumet—Arrangements have been completed for the dedication of the Calumet Elk's temple, which will occur Wednesday afternon and evening, Oct. 19. C. E. Lowbe of Saginaw, president of the Michigan Elks' association, will likely be present, as will members of the Duluth, Marquette and Hancock lodges.

Lake Linden—The marriage of Miss Effie Alschbach, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Alschbach of Lake Linden, to Joseph Liddicoat of Kearsarge was solemnized Wednesday evening at the M. E. church in the presence of a large number of the friends and relatives of the young people. Rev. H. Mallinson officiated.

Houghton—At a meeting of the newly organized Houghton Glee club officers were installed as follows: President, Joseph Wimmer; vice president, William Baird; secretary-treasurer, Albert Hanley.

Calumet—The funeral of Mrs. Lanby Gerich was held Tuesday morning from St. John's Croatian church. Interment was made at Lake View cemetery. The deceased was 22 years of age. She is survived by her husband and parents, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Baranowski of Swedetown.

Houghton—Supt. John A. Doelle, principal, Spencer D. Kelley, Misses Anna M. Nye, Aurelia Murphy and Lillian Goodreau went to Negaunee to attend the Michigan State Teachers' Institute under the direction of the Upper Peninsula Education association.

Calumet—Mrs. William Lawrence, aged 62 years, one of the old residents of the Copper county, passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Gervis Watson, in North Tamarack Thursday after a year's illness with paralysis. The decedent came to Tamarack about six years ago from Copper Falls, where she had resided for a number of years.

Escanaba — George Gallup, formerly one of the leading attorneys of Escanaba, has removed to Saginaw, where he will engage in the practice of his profession.

Marquette — Mrs. Eva Johnson, a widow who lived at Chatham, died at St. Luke's hospital Wednesday night from complications following an operation. She was 69 years of age and was well known in Alger county, one of her children being Mrs. Frank Fedherly of Munising. The remains were sent to Chatham.

Negaunee — Both the Oliver and Cleveland-Cliffs iron companies will pay their Negaunee employes next Wednesday, the 19th. The pay days are a little later than usual this month.

CAUSED HIS OWN ARREST

Powder Company's Agent Complained of Proximity of Brush Fires.

The Investigation Which Followed Led to His Arrest.

H. H. Talboys, agent of the Pluto Powder company, which was discovered to have large quantities of explosives stored at the edge of the city limits near Smithville, gave the authorities the first intimation of the fact, according to John H. McCall, secretary of the board of fire commissioners.

Mr. McCall states that Mr. Talboys registered a complaint to the effect that the owners of the land adjacent to the dynamite and giant powder stations, were burning brush too close to them for safety. Not knowing of the presence of the dynamite, Mr. McCall immediately started an investigation as to the location of the plants and the quantity of explosives stored in them. Accompanied by Chief Randall of the fire department he made a trip to the place the dynamite was said to be stored.

He found one place with about five tons of dynamite and several others which were covering enough to blow the Alworth building and several others next to it, into dust. As a result he swore out a warrant for the arrest of Mr. Talboys, charging him with unlawfully storing dynamite. There is some question as to whether or not it is within the city limits, but the ordinance states that before dynamite or other explosives are stored within a mile of the city limits, permission must first be secured from the board of fire commissioners.

Mr. Talboy's was arraigned in police court this morning. He entered a plea of not guilty and will be tried Thursday morning. Mr. Talboys stated that he had only been acting as an agent of the company, and had not supposed that any regulations were being violated. He entered the plea of not guilty in order to have time to consult an attorney to learn what is required of him.

RAILROADS

EXPECT SENSATION

When Officials of Milwaukee Road Are Brought Into Court.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 15.—An order signed by Court Commissioner Adolph Kanneberg, has been filed in the clerk of courts office citing A. J. Earling, president; Roswell Miller, director, and other officials of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad company, to appear in the commissioners' office on Oct. 18, for discovery examination in an action begun by James F. Cochrane, who seeks a basis for the bringing of a suit for $40,000, which he alleges to be due him from the railroad on a contract he avers the railroad officials of the line entered into with him some time ago.

The suit in which Cochran is interested in on the lines of an old one containing elements of a sensational nature including allegations of peculiar dealings by one railroad in its business affairs with other roads.

CHANGES IN THE PERE MARQUETTE.

The Pere Marquette Railway company, through C. M. Booth, general freight agent, announces that E. W. Goiddo has been appointed Northwestern freight agent, with offices at Minneapolis, and that C. D. Moorhead is appointed Pacific coast agent, with an office at Seattle. Mr. Moorhead succeeds Mr. Goiddo on the Pacific coast.

It is further announced that E. F. Blomeyer has resigned from the services of the Pere Marquette, and that the office of assistant general freight agent at Milwaukee has been discontinued. W. L. White has been appointed general agent at Milwaukee, and will have general charge of all traffic crossing Lake Michigan by car ferries or breaking bulk steamers.

Railroad Notes.

F. D. Southall, traveling freight agent of the Northwestern, is in the city today.

John Kane, traveling agent of the North Pacific, is in the city today.

R. J. Dyer, chief clerk of the Duluth & Iron Range railroad at Ely, was in the city today.

SUPERIOR

BODY FOUND ON LAKE SHORE

Police Believe Dead Man May Have Been Murdered.

With the pockets of his clothes turned inside out, the lifeless form of a man, who has been identified as J. M. Aronsen, was found late yesterday, half buried in the sand, on the south shore of Lake Superior, a mile this side of the Amnicon river.

The finding of the body was an accident. Two Billings Park boys, A. J. Samways and Arnold Amundsen, had been hunting in that vicinity and by chance happened to walk along the lake shore. They returned and notified Coroner Geisen, who, with Undertaker Le Sage, went out and brought back the body.

From the condition of the corpse, it is believed that it has been in the water for about six weeks. A ring on his finger with the name of J. M. Aronsen engraved on the inside is all that there was found on his person to establish an identification. No papers of any kind were found. Besides the ring, he had a common Waterbury watch and a comb.

His pockets were turned inside out and there was no money on his person. This leads the authorities to believe that he might have been robbed and thrown overboard from a lake vessel. He is a middle aged man, apparently well dressed, about 5 feet 7 inches and weighed about 140 pounds.

The body is held at the Le Sage undertaking rooms.

JOHN HOUSON SAID TO BE DANGEROUSLY ILL.

John Houson, superintendent of the St. Paul & Western Coal company's dock on Connor's Point, is reported to be dangerously ill at his home in Superior this afternoon. But little hope is held out for his recovery, and it is said by attending physicians that his death is only a matter of hours.

Mr Houson is a prominent Mason and has lived in Superior for the past twenty-five years.

SOLICITOR NOT BACKED BY SWITCHMEN'S UNION.

Secretary John C. O'Connell of the Head of the Lakes local, No. 7, Switchmen's Union of North America, yesterday stated that the party who was pretending to solicit funds for a "souvenir" publication of the local lodge was an imposter and that no one was authorized to collect any subscriptions.

MILWAUKEE EDUCATOR PRAISES NEW SCHOOL.

Supt. C. G. Pearse, who has been at the head of the Milwaukee schools for the past six years, and who is considered as one of the leading educators in the state, was the guest yesterday of Supt. W. E. Maddock of the Superior schools. Mr. Pearse spent the day in looking around the city and had much to say in praise of the new Central high school.

Two Workmen Injured.

J. W. Jackson had the thumb and forefinger of his left hand taken off and Axel Larson was injured internally though not fatally, in an accident last evening at the Great Northern flour sheds.

They were unloading a heavy steel drum on to a car when it slipped, rolled between the car and the platform and caught the two workmen.

Will Be Witness.

H. A. Hamblin, merchant at 602 Tower avenue, has gone to La Crosse to appear against Carl Miller, on trial in the United States court for burglarizing a postoffice at Byron, Minn. One of the orders alleged to have been stolen by Miller was cashed at Hamlin's store.

Elected Echo Editor.

Miss Phyllis Saxby was elected editor-in-chief of the Echo, the Central high school publication, yesterday. Joseph Ryan was named as associate editor and Prof. J. McBride, art adviser. The business manager and other members of the staff will be selected later.

Committee Will Report.

Recommendations for the government improvement of the St. Louis river to the site of the new steel plant will be the subject of a report which will be made to the Commercial club Tuesday evening by the harbor committee. The meting will be an open one. Recently the harbor committee made a trip of inspection in conjunction with the harbor committee from Duluth.

WANTS TO GET OUT OF JAIL

A. A. King Seeks His Freedom on a Writ of Habeas Corpus.

On a writ of habeous corpus, A. A. King hopes to get out of serving the remainder of his twenty days' sentence at the St. Louis county jail.

He claims that his imprisonment is illegal; that he is guilty of no offense and asks the court that the sheriff be instructed to allow him his freedom.

King is the man who was some time ago arrested on a charge of selling goods from a car without first having obtained a license. The sale took place from a box car in which the goods were stored at Chisholm.

He was convicted at the Chisholm municipal court and sentenced to pay a fine of $25 or spend twenty days in jail.

Judge Dibell has ordered the sheriff to produce the prisoner in court on Oct. 17 of the present month and at that time final disposition of the case will be made.

BIRTHS INCREASE FASTER THAN DEATHS.

Statistic prepared by Morris J. Segal of the health department show that Duluth had 170 births last month, as compared with 160 for September a year ago. The deaths for September a year ago were ninety-one, as against eighty-nine for the same month last year. The number of deaths increased but two, while the gain in the births was ten. Last month ninety-four girls were born, while seventy-six boys saw the light of day for the first time.

WILL TELL HIS LIFE'S STORY

U. V. SILLAWAY.

U. V. Sillaway, superintendent of the Rescue Mission, Milwaukee, will speak on "Up From the Slavery of Drink," at the Y. M. C. A., at 3:30 p. m. tomorrow afternoon. He will tell the story of his life. Mr. Sillaway has had an interesting career and from the gutter he has brought himself to a position of responsibility and trust. He is helping unfortunates who are in the same situation which he once occupied.

MISS EVA SAWYER BECOMES BRIDE OF FRANK PARKER

MRS. FRANK E. PARKER.

At noon today Miss Eva Sawyer became the bride of Frank E. Parker.

Miss Sawyer is well known in the city, being a sister of Adelaide Thurston, the actress, and having appeared in several local entertainments, as well as having traveled with her sister's road company for some time.

Mr. Parker is of the Parker brothers, formerly of the Stone-Ordean-Wells company, but more recently of the Rust - Parker - Martin company. Mr. Parker is one of the directors of the new concern.

The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. John Powell of the Endion Methodist church. Only the immediate families of the contracting parties and C. R. Rust, president of the Rust - Parke r- Martin company, were present.

After the ceremony Mr. Parker held a little party at the Spalding. Many of Mr. Parker's friends who had heard of the marriage happened in and an impromptu reception was held.

Mr. and Mrs. Parker are at home at the Spalding for the present.

ADVICE TO YOUNG PEOPLE IN SCHOOL

Too Many Trashy, Sensational Books Being Read—The Habit of Study Should Be Acquired.

By LAFAYETTE BLISS.

Many things are to be learned by a child besides those things that he can learn in school. Many things are to be learned in school besides those things that he can learn in books. Nevertheless it remains true that the chief end of school training is the imparting of power to acquire knowledge. And since the accumulated knowledge of the race has been committed to books, this corollary follows to my main proposition, that the chief end of school training is to develop in the pupil the power to acquire knowledge from books. The ability to read from books with ease, intelligence, and pleasure is the golden key that unlocks the wonderful treasure houses of human knowledge.

It is true that in acquiring many branches of knowledge, even in high school work, as for enstance physics, botany, and chemistry, considerable oral instruction should precede the study of books, in order that the foundation ideas and concepts of these subjects may be clearly apprehended, and there should be a constant study of things, yet it remains true, even in such subjects, in secondary work, that the chief aim of the student should be to acquire the power to interpret the work of those who have gone into these subjects much deeper than he can ever hope to go, unless he becomes a specialist. To do this he must have the power of book mastery. Our public schools should do more than merely teach the children to study and read; they should impart to every pupil a love for good reading, and create a taste for solid, wholesome books.

In the selection of books, beware of the cheap, trashy, weak and worthless novels, that are so plentiful just now. They give false views of life, unnatural representations of character; appealing to passion and vanity, they are sensational and wholly pernicious. Young people are reading too much of this stuff, too much of which is found in the public libraries all over the country.

Bound to Read Something.

There never was a time when teachers should strive harder to place before the children good reading, for boys and girls are bound to read something and if they cannot get good books from the school library, they will read the stilted, sensational nonsense, which appears in so many periodicals, threatening to bury all mental vigor and intellectual virility.

Those who have fairly accurate data in mind will support me in the statement that the average school of today fails to develop the mental independence, the ability to twist the thought out of a given paragraph, the power to master a book, the effective habits of study, and the courage to stick to a task — though unpleasant — that the teachers and schools, of even fifteen years ago, of like grade, succeeded in imparting to their pupils in a marked degree. A people who are to govern themselves must learn to think.

A healthy, normal child who has been in school until the age of 14 years, should have developed that power for self education, that if for any cause he should chance to be spilled out of the school baby carriage, in which he is being trundled along, he would land on his intellectual feet, right side up with care, and walk off into the big world on his own legs. After eight years of school life it ought not to be necessary to amuse him in arithmetic, history, geography, and grammar, but he should find great happiness and pleasure in earnest and persistent study of these and kindred subjects. What are the causes of this lessened or weakened ability on the part of school children to study in an effective manner?

There is not time to discuss these causes and I can scarcely do more than to mention them. The lowering of the high moral plane upon which every good school should rest (an increasing number of young people have no pride in their work and seem to care very little about what their parents or teachers think of them) the gradual downward tendency to purely utilitarian standards, the effemination of class room work in all secondary schools (the man element in teaching has been banished); the weakening of home discipline and the opposition to home study; the demands of society and of the numerous organizations and clubs upon the time of the children; the undue prominence given by yellow journals and politicians to those who attain to position without school education, have all no doubt contributed in part in changing the habits of study of the rising generation.

Making Good or Poor Students.

Then again the methods practiced in the school and the demands of the school, contribute directly to the making of good or poor students. The school in which nothing but oral or written instruction is given from bottom to top may develop loquacious teachers but poor, inaccurate students. The school that demands little from its pupils will get less in return and the pupils must be amused or they will dislike it.

Studying is an art and like every other art must be practiced a great deal by the one who is to become proficient in it, before he can use to advantage that wonderful instrument, the human mind. Reciting is also an art, and skill in either studying or reciting can be acquired only by incessant, determined, courageous practice on the part of the student.

It is easier to name the conditions that are not favorable to making good students than to name those that are. If the customs and public opinion of the community are more favorable to idle, loafing habits than to work and study, then there will be little studying going on in that community. If the young people hear nothing in town but the advocating of having a good time and having it now, then the school faculty which can work in such a community will do little to inspire the children to high ideals of life and good habits of study. If dancing parties, bowling alleys and cheap-john shows are considered of more importance in the education of a child than the regular and conscientious keeping of study hours, then while that community may spend a great deal of money on school houses there will be no adequate standard of scholarship in those schools. The cheap theater is the downfall of many a young lad.

Now it is not expected that the children of the vulgar-rich, or the children of those who want to be up in society, or the children of those who do not believe in work, will keep home study hours. Neither is it to be expected that any of this class will ever become scholars. But for the children of those who are doing the world's work, for the children of those who know that there is no real progress in anything, without an adequate expenditure of time, together with earnest, persistent effort, for these children many, many hours must be spent in home study and no sympathy is asked from any source, for these children are happy in their work. They are enthusiastic, they love their school.

Study Hours at Home.

Teachers tell me that in some parts of the state there are parents who object to home study on the part of their children. If it be true that there are such parents, they ought to be convinced of the wrong they are doing their own children and society in general. It is advisable for teachers to recommend regularity of study hours at home and plan work to be done at home.

The parent who pays no attention to his children's home study has no right to expect the same results at the end of the year as the one who does. No doubt home study implies more self-sacrifice on the part of parents, and at times study hours interfere with the demands of society, but where is the parent who is unwilling to do anything reasonable for the advancement of his children, and this is a reasonable demand of the schools. By means of home study parents become interested in the education of their children, they can supervise their progress at home and inform themselves on the course of study, and teachers can influence parents to accept new methods through their children. The idea of having the school do the whole work of educating the child is a mistaken notion.

Then again the mental habits of the teacher have much to do in developing the children. If the teacher is a thinker her children will be thinkers, provided she has the ability to impart knowledge. Children are imitative. They will not be slow, dull, stupid and plodding if they have a proper environment in which to grow, and if their teachers are mentally and physically quick in speech and action, and know the lesson thoroughly themselves. Teachers, if you wish your children to become workers, you must be a worker yourselves. Children catch mental as well as physical habits very quickly from the teacher.

There is no stimulus for awakening a mind like the contact with another mind superior to it. The awakening of the child's mind is the teacher's most difficult task. Many a boy is lost to himself and to the world intellectually, either because his mind has never been awakened, or if once aroused he has suffered arrested development at the hands of some machine-like instructor. Pardon the introduction of a personal note at this point: Of the thirty-four teachers, twenty men and fourteen women, who heard me recite, or from whom I received instruction during my school and college days, I can now name only seven who stimulated my mind to enthusiastic, effective effort. While I received benefit from the matter I studied under others, the personal equation, which is an important part of every teacher's work, was almost entirely wanting.

A Favorable Environment.

One of the greatest services a teacher can render a pupil is to create a favorable environment in which that pupil can work both at home and at school. At home to see that the pupil has a quiet room, properly heated and lighted, furnished by his parents, and at school to protect him from the drones and the noisy, silly tenth which is found in most schools, and which I am sorry to say in many schools has full swing in setting the standard of work. The teacher who stands firmly for the rights of those who have a desire to learn is rendering a most important service to the community.

A teacher who is really in earnest in desiring to form correct habits of study will attend in a conscientious manner to the general condition of her school room, its cleanliness, homelike air, ventilation, order of the blackboards, use of paper, sharpening of pencils, order of desks and books, condition of pens, attitude while reciting both bodily and mental, and the way they use the time in the study period. It is only by kind, though courageous and persistent attention to such details that good habits of study will be formed by the children.

Teachers and parents can do much toward the formation of correct habits of study in all the grades by teaching the children how to concentrate their minds upon the lesson in hand. Certain drills should be practiced to develop mental concentration and attention. The aim should be to develop concentration of thought, logical, rapid, accurate thinking, and laconic expression.

The superintendent should always note when he visits a school, whether the pupils are interested in their work and happy in its doing, whether their relations to the teacher are of such a nature as to permit of an influence for permanent good in their actions, whether the pupils give themselves to solid work, or whether they want to be amused. If the atmosphere of the room is not conducive to study something should be done to put the teacher and pupils in a proper frame of mind.

Teach them how to study and explain to them what it means to get a lesson. Many children do not know; after they have studied a little on a lesson, whether they have reached the proper standard and mastered it or not.

Rules for Scholars.

Here are some rules that I hope will be helpful to those who really want to become good scholars, but don't know how to begin:

1. Be in dead earnest about acquiring an education.

2. Get your parents to furnish you with a comfortable room, table, and light of your own.

3. Learn to study alone. No serious mental work is accomplished by the mob or in a mob. Two students in a room may be a mob.

4. When the time comes for study do not stand on the shore shivering, but jump in and begin operations at once. The water will soon feel better.

5. Do not kill time over your books. One hour of downright mental wrestling with a lesson is worth two hours of dawdling. Do not watch the clock.

6. Use your will power to help you concentrate your mind on your lesson.

7. Learn to have faith in your mental ability. Your brains are the best brains you will ever have, and you, yourself, are the only one that can do anything in a direct way to improve them.

8. Do not lean on your teachers. Develop independence. A teacher is only a guide.

9. Learn to read books without pictures, and begin at once to form a library of your own. Do not let book agents select the books for your library.

10. Do not dissipate in your reading during term time. Read books along the line of your school subjects and save the novels for vacations.

11. Do not weakly give way to studying only those things you like. It frequently happens that we get our greatest mental discipline in the patient, courageous, persistent pursuit of the subject we do not at first like.

12. Your study should develop your character and give you habits of industry. A good student is more of a man than a poor student.

13. When you take up a school subject remember that this is doubtless the last chance to learn that particular subject. It is a case of now or never.

14. Regard studying as an art in itself; try to become skillful in it. Regard reciting as an art and try to become skillful in both written and oral recitation. Remember that practice tends towards perfection in any art.

It Requires Work.

15. An education is not perpetual motion scheme whereby a person may have a soft snap in the world and get along without work. To get an education requires work. To use an education means that its possessor must work.

16. Aim to become a good reader and speller, to be absolutely accurate in your adding, subtracting, multiplying and dividing, to be able to write a legible hand with moderate speed, and to compose a letter in an intelligent straightforward manner. These old-fashioned, out-of-date arts constitute the foundation of an education.

17. If you wish to help your parents in the most effective way possible, do your school work in such a way that it will be successful. No keener pleasure can come to parents than the knowledge that their children are a success in school.

18. In the selection of your studies rely upon the judgment of some one who has a wider view of the whole field than have you. Do all your work with enthusiasm. Get into the game.

19. Remember that there are many things to be learned outside of books. Cultivate your powers of observation. The reason man has evolved mentally and morally far above the lower animals is because he observes phenomena and things, compares and generalizes and asks himself, "Why?" The lower animals perform these acts but slightly.

20. You education should give you power, wisdom and character, otherwise you are simply trained but not educated.

MARKET ASSOCIATION HOLDS MEETING.

The Co-operative Produce Market association met at the Commercial club today to discuss details of the management of the business it is now carrying on.

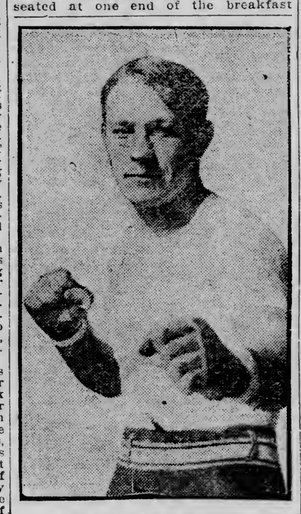

This organization is doing a great deal of good, not only for its members but for agricultural Northeastern Minnesota, say men who are posted on such matters, and its field of activity and service is rapidly spreading. The members are finding that in the management of the enterprise they are constantly encountering puzzling problems, and the meetings are devoted largely to seeking solutions of these problems. Among those present at today's meeting was Prof. A. J. McGuire, superintendent of the experimental farm at Grand Rapids.

FIGHTER MAY NOT SURVIVE

Stanley Ketchel Shot By Man With Whom He Quarreled.

Springfield, Mo., Oct. 15.—The shooting of Stanley Ketchel took place while Ketchel was eating breakfast at 6:30 o'clock this morning. There were no witnesses, and as Ketchel almost immediately lapsed into unconsciousness, the exact events leading up to the shooting could not be learned.

The man who did the shooting was Walter A. Hurtz, a farm hand recently employed by Mr. Dickerson and about whom little is known. Hurtz and Ketchel exchanged words last night. Hurtz returned in an ugly mood, but nothing especially was thought of the matter. This morning Ketchell was seated at one end of the breakfast table when Hurtz entered the ranch-house and, pointing his rifle at the fighter, demanded:

"Throw up your hands!"

Ketchel was taken by surprise, but apparently remained cool. Instead of complying, he arose. His back was half turned toward his assailant, when Hurtz, a few feet away, fired.

Bullet Entered Lung.

The bullet struck Ketchel below the right shoulder blade, it developed later, ranged toward and entered the right lung. Ketchel fell to the floor.

A moment later Charles Bailey, superintendent of the ranch, rushed in from another part of the building. Hurtz was just disappearing through the doorway.

"He shot me," said the prostrated fighter as he feebly pointed in the direction taken by Hurtz.

After relating the brief details of the affair as given, Ketchel became unconscious.

Bailey at first supposed that the shooting had been accidental, and occupied himself in aiding the wounded man. When he realized the situation, Hurtz was out of sight speeding for the heavy timber along the Osage river bottoms.

It was forty-five minutes before medical aid reached Ketchel. Then a physician arrived from Conway, five miles away. But little could be done for Ketchel. The physician expressed grave fears that he would not recover.

Seven Years in Ring.

Chicago, Oct. 15.—Stanley Ketchel, who was wounded today, perhaps fatally, by a Missouri ranch employe, and whose real name was Stanislaus Klecal, was born twenty-three years ago at Grand Rapids, Mich. His first fight occurred at Butte, Mont., on May 2, 1903, when he knocked out Kid Tracey in one round. A few months later he laid Mose La Fontiz low in twenty-four rounds in the same city. The following year he engaged in fourteen ring battles. He lost to Maurice Thompson in two of these battles, the first in six and the second in ten rounds. He fought a twenty-round draw with Rudolph Hinz. In the others he scored knockouts.

Since then and up to the beginning of the present year Ketchel participated in forty fights. In 1908 Jack Sullivan fought him twenty rounds to a draw and two years later Joe Thomas performed similarly. That same year he knocked out Thomas in thirty-two rounds and in a later fight secured the decision in twenty rounds.

Exchanged With Papke.

Billy Papke in 1908 knocked him out at Los Angeles in twenty rounds, but three months later Ketchel returned the compliment in San Francisco in eleven rounds. Last year he fought twelve rounds without a decision at New York with Philadelphia Jack O'Brien and six rounds at Pittsburg with Kid Hubert.

On July 5, 1909, Ketchel won from Billy Papke in twenty rounds at Colma, Cal. In October of last year he went against Jack Johnson as the "white man's hope," but the big colored man knocked him out in twelve rounds. With these exceptions Ketchel was victorious.

At Philadelphia this year he fought a six-round no-decision contest with Sam Langford. This battle caused much unfavorable comment, many declaring Langford could have won.

EASTERN RATE INQUIRY DELAYED

Washington, Oct. 15.—Adjournment of the pending inquiry by the interstate commerce commission into proposed advances of freight rates in Eastern territory was taken today until Nov. 21, when the shippers will be heard in this city. Final argument of the case was set for Dec. 14.

MISS CAMPBELL WINS GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP.

Flossmore, Ill., Oct. 15.—Miss Dorothy Campbell wins the woman's national golf championship today.

NEED OVER $100,000

Governor Eberhart Says That Sum Is Too Low for Relief.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor Eberhart probably will issue an appeal this afternoon or tomorrow for more funds for the relief of the fire victims in Northern Minnesota. The governor estimates that nearly a thousand families are homeless and that the $100,000 originally called for would give an average of only $100 to each family. This, he thinks, would not go far toward relieving the destitution considering that winter is approaching and that extraordinary conditions will have to be met.

The actual cash so far received by Kenneth Clark, treasurer of the Minnesota branch of the National Red Cross society, designated by the governor to handle the funds, amounts to $18,400, of which $200 came this morning in various small sums from all over the state.

From Twin City Men.

More than $10,000 is assured from the Jobbers and Manufacturers' association of St. Paul, and the Minneapolis Merchants probably will duplicate the sum donated by the St. Paul business men. The sum there at hand is:

In possession of Mr. Clark from St. Paul and other cities, $18,400. Assured from St. Paul business men, $10,000. Assured from Minneapolis business men, $10,000. Total, $38,400.

Lodges Will Help.

Added to this, the Elks, Masons and Odd Fellows will raise approximately $1,500, and other lodges, although not pledged, probably will contribute that much more. Duluth has reported to have raised $17,000 and other cities cities about $5,000 more. Aside from the $38,000 available at the twenty-four hours' notice, the men having the matter in charge feel that they can safely count on $21,000 additional, bringing the total sum to $59,400.

REPRIEVE FOR THE SALOONS

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Cass Lake saloons received a reprieve today. Special Agent W. E. Johnson did not go to that city today. Instead Mr. Johnson came to St. Paul, but his stay was short.

"There will be no clash between Mr. Ballinger and me," said the saloon closer tersely.

"But the law will be enforced."

This came as an afterclap.

"Yes, absolutely enforced. The sale of liquor to the Indians must be stopped. That is the prime object of my operations and is back of everything I have done."

"Very well, but does that fit in with the recent order of Mr. Ballinger as given to the mayors of Cass Lake and Moorhead?"

"Certainly. Mr. Ballinger said, as I do, that the sale of liquor to the Indians is prohibited and that the law will be enforced. Being on the ground and in close touch with the situation, it is my opinion that the only way the law can be enforced is to put into operation the old treaty and prevent the sale of any liquor in the restricted territory."

Which in a sense sounds logical to United States District Attorney Haupt, upon whom Mr. Johnson called this morning and spent about ten minutes. Incidentally, Mr. Houpt declared with fervor that there was no talk of the Cass Lake situation between him and Mr. Johnson; that the agent called to talk of other matters—what, he refused to say—and that Cass Lake was barely mentioned.

J. A. FERGUSON RETURNS FROM FOREST FIRE ZONE.

James A. Ferguson, northern sales agent of the Pittsburg Coal company, returned this morning from Northern Minnesota, where he has been for the last two weeks. Mr. Ferguson was just outside the fire belt, but in getting to Warroad he crossed some of the territory devastated by the fire fiend. He states that the destruction was terrible.

Mr. Ferguson stated that the roots of wide pastures must have been so dry that they carried the flames to the forests on the other side. He was in the border country at the time of the lightning and thunderstorm which had such beneficial results. He says that the display of electricity was wonderful and that the rain fell in torrents. Had it not been for the drenching he thinks that the fires would have continued indefinitely.

STRIKERS GET WAGES RAISED

Paris, Oct. 15.—The directors of the railroad companies involved in the strike agree today to grant a minimum wage of $1 a day to the employes of all lines running out of Paris. The new scale will be into effect Jan. 1 and constitutes the chief concession demanded by the men.

TO JOIN DUTCH COLONY.

Two Priests and Two Laymen Cross Deep to Minnesota.

Little Falls, Minn., Oct. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. Fathers Keyners and Von der Hulst and Messrs. Y. Maas and A. Von der Velden arrived in the city Thursday noon from St. Paul, accompanied by Rev. Father Von Dinter of Onamia. The two priests and two lay brothers have just arrived from Holland and were met at St. Paul by Father von Dinter, a Hollander, who has charge of the Catholic parish at Onamia. Father von der Hulst and Mr. von der Velden left Thurdsay for Onamia, where they will reside, while the other two members of the party went to Butler to join the Dutch colony which was organized in Otter Tail county early this spring, when a number of families came direct from the Old Country to this state to settle.

WHEN THESE CELEBRITIES STOOD AT THE CROSS ROADS OF OPPORTUNITY

Suppose Arthur T. Written for The Herald by E. J. EDWARDS ("Holland")

(Copyright, 1910, by E. J. Edwards.)

IN THE career of almost every man worth while, from the work-a-day standpoint, there comes at least one period when he stands at the parting of the ways—at the cross roads of opportunity. Sometimes it is given to a man to stand twice, even thrice, at this cross roads, and make decision which way he shall go.

The man decides, and goes his way. Perhaps he goes on to success, and glory. Perhaps to mediocrity—failure—despair. Had he gone the other way—who can tell what might have been?

Suppose, for example, Arthur Twining Hadley had accepted the offer made to him to become a newspaper editor at his own figure, would he now be president of Yale university, and one of the great educative forces of the world?

In 1888 the editor of one of the leading American newspapers was anxious to work up a strong financial department, one which would attract general attention, partly by recognized authority and ability, and partly through the recognized integrity of the editor of the department.

In turning over in his mind the names of various writers familiar with financial and economic conditions, it suddenly occurred to him that there was no writer in the United States who would be a better guarantee for integrity than Prof. Arthur T. Hadley of Yale.

At that time Prof. Hadley had been graduated from Yale about twelve years, and was his alma mater's professor of political science. He had written upon railroad administration and other economic subjects so well that he had even then gained a fine reputation. Of course, his name was a guarantee of honest writing. So, no sooner thought of than the suggestion that came to the editor in question was acted upon. He summoned a common friend, commissioned him to visit Prof. Hadley, and make the proposition to him that he become the editor of the financial department of this great newspaper.

When this man met Prof. Hadley by appointment he said to him: "I am authorized to offer you the position of financial editor of one of our newspapers"—naming it—"and to say to you that you will have a free hand. You may write what you choose, you are not to be annoyed with statistics or stock market reports, but will be free to reflect great undercurrents and to tell the truth about the great personalities that are characteristic of the financial life of the United States. Furthermore, you can name your own salary."

"That is a very important proposition," Prof. Hadley replied; "it would be a great opportunity. Are you certain that I could have a free hand?"

"That would be mentioned in the contract if you desire it."

"Well, I must take a little time to consider it. To speak through the columns of a great newspaper is to have a wider audience than that of a professor's room."

A few days later Prof. Hadley announced his decision: "I am persuaded that I ought not to accept the offer, tempting as it is," he said. "I am convinced that my life work should be here at Yale University. With full appreciation of the high compliment that is contained in the offer, I am compelled to say to you that my best judgment is that I must decline it."

And Prof. Hadley remained with Yale at a salary much less than he would have received as financial editor, until eleven years later, following the resignation of President Timothy Dwight, he was elected president of Yale, and shortly thereafter gained recognition as one of the world's great educators.

Teacher or Diplomat—Which?

So also Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, in 1897, stood at the parting of the ways, holding opportunity in either hand, and wondering which he should reject and which accept.

President McKinley had said to a friend: "In my opinion the ablest politician in the United States, with a single exception, at least among the younger men, is Nicholas Murray Butler. He also has high qualities for diplomatic service."

At that time Dr. Butler was dean of the Department of Philosophy of Columbia University. He was also much occupied in perfecting the details of the organization which has now become the greatest teachers' college in the world. It seemed to him that his life work would be that of an educator.

Then, of a sudden, he was asked if he would accept appointment as minister representing the United States at an important foreign court. It was a great opportunity and a tempting one. In that official capacity he would be thrown into intimate relations with the leading men of public life of Europe. He would also gain intimate knowledge respecting the great operations of financing.

And so he stood, contemplating his opportunities. At last he said: "If I become an American diplomat, my career is dependent somewhat upon the course of politics. If I remain with Columbia university, I shall have larger and larger opportunities for carrying on the work of an educator which I have come to regard as my life work. I think I shall decline the offer of diplomatic appointment."

Four years later President Roosevelt came from Washington to take part in the ceremonial installation of Dr. Butler as president of Columbia university. And as president Dr. Butler has probably never regretted the choice he made when standing at the parting of the ways.

Twice at the Crossroads of Opportunity.

Railway men have sometimes said of Paul Morton that when he was an executive of one of the great railway systems of the West, he was looked upon as without a superior as a traffic manager. It takes great ability to do good work as traffic manager of a large railway. Most successful railway men gained their first recognition because they knew how to handle the traffic end of the business so as to get the best results. Paul Morton learned the art of satisfying the public and at the same time meeting the expectation of stockholders.

He was in the midst of this work when the president of the United States said to him: "Will you accept the offer of secretary of the navy?"

"What! I, a railroad man, a traffic manager, a hard-working subordinate of a railway system, transferred of a sudden to a political career, when I know little or nothing about politics?" was Paul Morton's first expression of astonishment.

"You are just the man for the post," was the reply. "We are going greatly to enlarge our navy; the supervision of the building of the new navy has nothing to do with politics."

When that train of thought was suggested, Paul Morton decided in what direction he should take his course. He became a cabinet officer, sitting at the same council table in the White House at which several years earlier his father had set with Cleveland at the head of the table.

A few years later Mr. Morton again stood at the parting of the ways. There was needed a man who could quicken into renewed life a life insurance company which represented policy obligations of $1,000,000,000. Those in authority there, representing the association, turned to Paul Morton. To remain in political life might mean continued high authority in governmental affairs; it might mean a senatorship or a governorship. To accept the insurance company's proposition might mean failure, and so the end of a career. But on the other hand, if there were success, it would be regarded as among the most signal of the triumphs of this day of great achievement.

Today Mr. Morton does not regret that he rejected the opportunity of continued political preferment, and accepted the opportunity to restore to high vitality one of the greatest of the world's business organizations.

The Epochal Decision That Depew Had to Make.

When Commodore Vanderbilt was perfecting the various railway consolidations which at last became known as the New York Central system, he was persuaded that it would be to his advantage to secure the professional service of a competent lawyer who was a good speaker, who knew politics, and who had personal friends all over the state of New York. Therefore he summoned before him a young lawyer who had gained wide reputation as a campaign orator both in the Fremont and in the Lincoln campaigns. He also had been elected secretary of the state of New York; and that was looked upon as a step in the direction of high political preferment.

"Depew," said the Commodore, "I am going to offer you the position of counsel to our company. We are going to have a railroad running from New York harbor to the Great Lakes, which I think will carry a good deal of grain raised in the West. Will you consider an offer of counsel for our company?"

Now, just a short while before Lawyer Depew had received an intimation from Washington that he had attracted the attention of the national administration that it was the wish of the administration to identify him with it. And there came with this information an informal proposition, in the words: "Will you accept appointment as United States minister to Japan?"

It was a tempting offer. It meant an opportunity greatly to increase commercial relations between the United States and Japan. It undoubtedly meant that if his mission were successful in Japan, he would be called to more distinguished diplomatic posts, either upon the continent of Europe, or in Great Britain.

On the other hand, a new railway era was beginning. The great West was being opened; railways were under construction across the prairies, and steel rails had connected the Atlantic with the Pacific. To go with Vanderbilt meant identification with what was sure to be the greatest period in the development of American railway transportation, and thus to be close to the great Vanderbilt meant opportunity practically unlimited.

But politics and Japan were very tempting; so that it was some time before a decision was made. And when it was Depew simply said to the commodore, "I will go with you."

Mr. Depew has been president of the Vanderbilt railway system since then, was named by the New York delegation as its candidate for president in 1888, was offered by President Harrison the post of secretary of state, could have been ambassador to France, and has twice been elected to the United States senate. And he often wonders what his career would have been had he accepted the opportunity to represent the United States at Japan and turned down the offer of the man who, more than any other, brought about the new era of railway development that has put its stamp over all the civilized world.

The Record Retainer That Elihu Root Turned Down.

In the career of Elihu Root there have been two or three occasions when he stood at the parting of the ways. But probably the most dramatic and important of them all was one which was created through an offer made to him by the late William C. Whitney.

Mr. Root had never served in a legislative body; the only political offices which he had ever held were those of United States district attorney and delegate to the New York state constitutional convention of 1895. He was looked upon as a man who created political opportunities for others, and it was assumed for years by his professional associates that he would be content to confine his life-work to the profession of the law.

After William C. Whitney, with his associates, had organized the Metropolitan street railway system of New York, Mr. Whitney was persuaded that he had need of the highest legal counsel in the operation of his system. He had great admiration and respect for the professional abilities of Mr. Root. He knew that one of the great qualifications possessed by Mr. Root was his unusual ability for bringing parties who were in friction, or who were at great differences, at last to the condition where their minds met. He was an expert compromiser, quickly finding the common path over which all might pass to a satisfactory conclusion. Furthermore, Mr. Root's knowledge of statute and corporation law and of the history of corporation growth and development was unsurpassed by that of any lawyer of New York.

Mr. Whitney also knew that the chances were very strong that Mr. Root might be summoned either to high political position by President McKinley, or else might be prevailed upon to accept nomination for distinguished political office. He, therefore, went to Mr. Root, prepared to make an offer which he felt would strongly tempt the great lawyer. He said in effect:

"Mr. Root, we have now perfected our Metropolitan Street Railway system. We are in great need of the wisest professional counsel. I have come to offer you a retainer, which I hope you will be persuaded to accept."

Mr. Root asked what the nature of the services he would be expected to give, and what the retainer Mr. Whitney had in mind, were.

"I am prepared to offer you a retainer of $100,000 a year," replied Mr. Whitney. "The service which I shall look for in return for that payment is this: I or the officers of the company shall be free to go to you at any time for counsel. But if there is litigation, and you serve as counsel in the litigation, or if there are opinions to be prepared involving careful investigation, then in addition to the general retainer of $100,000 a year, the company will pay you a special retainer, whatever you may choose to charge, for services as counsel in court proceedings, or in the preparation of important opinions."

So far as lawyers of New York City know, no offer which can be compared with this in the amount of remuneration when the character of the service is considered, has ever been made to any other member of the English speaking bar. It was the high water mark of professional achievement, so far as money returns were concerned.

Straightway Mr. Root was at the parting of the ways. For, at about that time he had intimation that it was the purpose of President McKinley to summon him to some important official relation with the McKinley administration. So he stood, with the glittering and unparalleled offer of $100,000 a year, entailing no laborious service, in the one hand, and the sense of political opportunity and responsibility in the other.

His decision was speedily made. He declined Mr. Whitney's offer, although acknowledging the high compliment that was in it, and accepted the offer of President McKinley.

Had Mr. Root accepted Mr. Whitney's offer, his counsel would doubtless have saved the Metropolitan Railway company from bankruptcy—it is still in the hands of the receivers—and in ten years' time he would have earned $1,000,000 for a single professional service. On the other hand, he would not have been secretary of war or secretary of state, leaving the permanent mark of his influence in those departments. Nor would he now be United States senator from New York.

If Roosevelt Had Become a Lawyer?

The late Frederick W. Holls, who was one of the three American delegates to the first Hague peace conference, his associates being Andrew D. White and Seth Low, was an intimate personal friend of Theodore Roosevelt. About a year after Roosevelt succeeded to the presidency, Mr. Holls, in giving to his friends some of his recollections, especially of Roosevelt in his earlier life, revealed the fact that there was a time when Roosevelt, too, stood pondering at the cross roads of opportunity.

"Roosevelt had made a brilliant career as member of the New York legislature, only two or three years after he was graduated from Harvard," said Mr. Holls. "He was one of the conspicuous delegates to the Republican national convention at Chicago in 1884, where he 'rooted,' as the saying is, for Edmunds. He was afterwards nominated for mayor of New York, before he was 30 years of age. Shortly after his defeat he disappeared, only a few of his friends knowing that he had been persuaded by the venturesome side of his nature to become a ranchman in the Far West. Afterwards I learned that Roosevelt was anxious to become an author and historian. I was also told that he had ventured into the publishing business, and not very successfully. I knew something about his personal income; it was about $8,000 a year.

"Well, it seemed to me that Roosevelt was in danger of frittering away his career. I thought that he was not entirely sure of what he wanted to do, It seemed to me that it would be the better part for him to enter some profession, so that he could obtain a standing, a position, a foothold.

"I thought a good deal about the matter, and I at last determined to advise Roosevelt to take up the study of law with a view of entering the profession. I thought that he had qualities that would make him a good advocate, a very good jury lawyer. Some of the work which he had done in his histories persuaded me that he had a critical capacity, and that is very essential to the successful lawyer.

"So at last I met him, and said to him: 'It seems to me that you would do well if you would attach yourself to some professional vocation. You are flitting about—one day a ranchman, and the next a writer of histories. This does not tend to such concentration of mind as brings the best results from natural abilities.

"'Now, I am ready to offer you a place as law student in my law office. I will make you a clerk. I will see that you are thoroughly trained. And I am satisfied that after your admission to the bar, you will get a good clientage, and will succeed well as an advocate.'

"I thought Roosevelt seemed to be favorably impressed with my proposition. I earnestly hoped that he would accept it. He asked me to let him have a few days to consider it.

"He came back to me at last and said that after due consideration he had decided not to take up the study of law. It seemed to me that Roosevelt realized that if he became a lawyer, while he might succeed, nevertheless the greater his professional success, the more remote his chance for gaining influence and recognition in directions in which his inclinations pointed. I think that at that time he looked forward to a literary career. Nevertheless, it was one of the crises of his life. Now that he is president, and has been governor of New York, I, of course, feel that he judged wisely, although his political career was really founded upon the accident of the war with Spain. And I am certain that had he become a lawyer, he would still have taken such interest in public life as would have made him prominent and might have impaired his professional success."

Politics, or Banking?

Thomas L. James, as postmaster of New York city from 1873 to 1881, was the first man to organize a federal office upon the civil service plan, before the law commanded that this be done. As postmaster-general in Garfield's cabinet, it was he who broke the power of the notorious Star Route ring. Yet the greatest test of his judgment, one affecting his entire future, came when he was a private citizen.

After Gen. James retired from the cabinet in the early winter of 1883, he was chosen president of a little bank, organized chiefly to facilitate banking business in the vicinity of the Grand Central station, in New York. The banking room was the top floor over a grocery store. There was no secondary financial center in that part of the city as there is today. At times it seemed somewhat doubtful that a bank could be successful in that section; and it happened that when this doubt was strongest, there came one evening to Gen. James' apartments an emissary from the president of the United States.

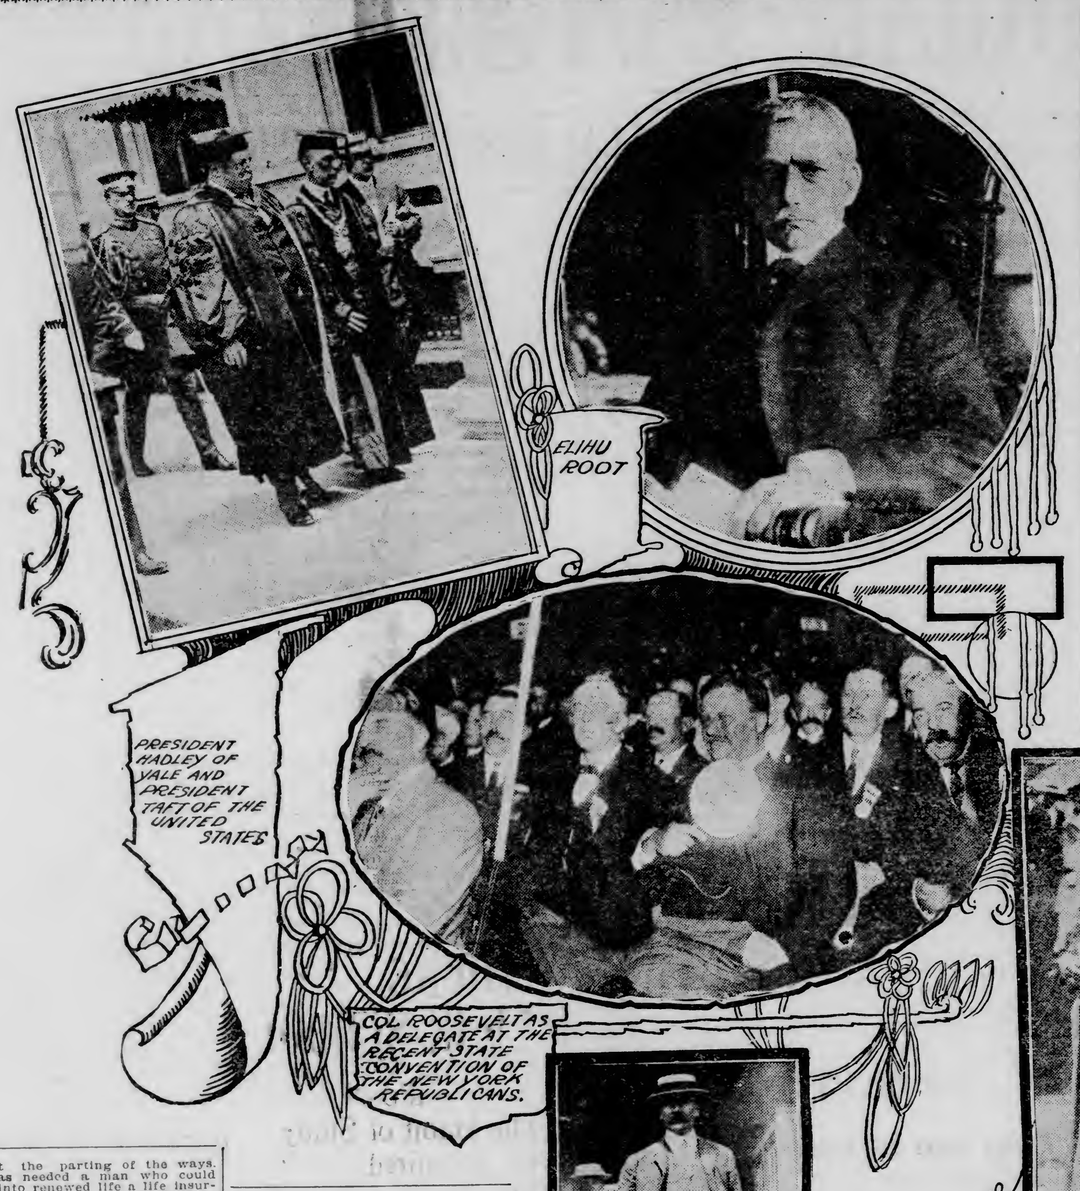

"I have been requested by the president to ask you if you would be willing to return to Washington and become once more the head of the post-office department?" said the emissary.

To return to political life might mean high political distinction beyond the expiration of his service in the cabinet. There were already intimations that his party might be disposed to nominate him for governor of New York, and undoubtedly these intimations would not be lessened by his going again into the cabinet.

But what of the little bank? It might prove an unsuccessful venture. And then what career remained for its president? It might, on the other hand, become one of the great successes in American banking, and that for a man past fifty years of age would undoubtedly be a more substantial achievement than the holding of political office. Yet many were doubtful that the bank could succeed.

"I stood at the parting of the ways," said Gen. James, "and I could not see very far in either direction. But at last I decided not to swerve from the path upon which I had entered two years before, and with that decision I am content."

Well he may be. The bank with which he remained has become one of the greatest of American banking institutions.

A WHITE LOBSTER.

London Globe: Through the courtesy of Mr. R. Blake of Ventnor, Isle of Wight, we are enabled to inform our readers that the white lobster, an account of which appeared in the Globe on the 2nd inst., has not been cooked and eaten, as was feared, but is in safe keeping.

Mr. Blake writes: "As regards the white lobster mentioned by Mr. Aitkin, it was quite right as to it being white, but it was red underneath—a most wonderful thing, for we have not heard of another ever being seen. I might mention that I communicated with the manager of the Brighton aquarium and he wired me to send it on at once. Since then I have heard from him, saying it arrived safely, and so far as I know is being exhibited there now."

FOND DU LAC RESERVATION INDIANS PROGRESSING

HOME OF JOE BEARGREASE BEFORE SURROUNDING TIMBER WAS CUT.

BEARGREASE'S HOME BUILT AFTER TIMBER WAS CUT.

Cloquet, Minn., Oct. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Changes and improvements are gradually taking place in the Indian lands in this locality. The frame house shown in the cut is the new home of Joe Beargrease, one of the best known Indians of the Fond du Lac reservation, and has taken the place of the little log hut. Beargrease has been a character around Brookston for years, and his home is located there. Uncle Sam through his agents is gradually persuading the Indians to build better houses, and all through the Fond du Lac reservation, neat frame houses are taking the place of shanties. Beargrease owned a tract of timber at Brookston, and last winter it was cut, and the new house is built from it.

At the Indian village north of Cloquet a new house is being built for Mrs. Pellerin, a two-story structure. Several other houses have been built this summer and there is a strenuous effort being made to the end that the houses shall be kept clean. Looking over the flock of school children that turn out into the village street at 4 o'clock, they appear as well on the average as the youngsters from any country school.

STRONG INQUIRY FOR WATERFRONT PROPERTY

Outside Capitalists Are Interested in the Future of Duluth.

New Woodland Addition Will Go on the Market Tuesday.

The real estate market has not yet begun to move forward and real estate men are still waiting for the developments that are expected to come. They say the prevailing dullness is a seasonable reaction after the activity of the summer and the next few weeks will see a revival. There has never been a slackening of interest. Inquiry has been strong and of good character, but few big deals have been put through and the revival of activity is expected to come as a result of the interest and inquiry of the summer.

The wide advertisement of the fact that the $10,000,000 permit for the plant of the United States Steel Corporation here had been issued, is having its effect. Much of the inquiry, which is coming from all parts of the United States, is ascribed to the influence of the Steel corporation building permit.

Incidentally, much of the inquiry is for dock property and the importance of docks to the future of Duluth is again emphasized. The man who gets a piece of waterfront property at prevailing prices is making no mistake for anybody can look a few years into the future and see every available foot of dock property utilized and a movement for the building of tunnels under the canals in existence.

Duluth is in a peculiar position. It is on a beautiful land-locked harbor, which apparently has plenty of dock space for a city much larger than Duluth. The dock space was not in very great demand in former years and the railroads were allowed to use their own sweet will in tying it up. When the city begins to assume its true proportions as a shipping point and the demand for dock property grows, it is found that the railroads have been busy while the people have been asleep and the people will have to hustle for their dock sites. There is some dock property available for purchase by manufacturing concerns, coal companies and others who have need of bases on the waterfront, but the supply is not nearly what it might have been if the city had conserved its dock sites and as a result the transformation of Park Point from a residence district into a wholesale and warehouse district will come earlier than it might have come otherwise. It will certainly come.

The sale of lots in the new addition to be put on the market by the Dowling-Kirby-Hopworth company will begin Tuesday morning and the sale is expected to be one of the most successful held in Duluth in this year of great real estate sales. The company has made elaborate preparations for the sale and the addition is one of the finest recently platted. Sewers, water and gas will be put in by the company and the prices placed on the lots are moderate and within easy reach of everybody. The inquiry has been good and a number of homes are expected to be built in the new addition this year.

Interest in Lakeside lots has been unusually keen during the past few weeks and the dealers interested in that section of the city report a number of sales of lots for immediate improvement. While new additions are being placed on the market in all sections of the city and sales are numerous, Lakeside keeps moving forward, gaining in favor and growing rapidly. Scores of new homes have been built in Lakeside this year and the building boom will not let up during the winter, judging from present prospects. Plans are being prepared for a number of residences and construction will be begun soon, so that it will be well under way by the time the snow falls.

Sales of garden tracts and larger farming tracts in the district just over the hill are numerous. Many of the sales are made to people from Iowa, Illinois and other Middle Western states—people with experience in agriculture and a lively appreciation of the opportunities offered by market gardening in the vicinity of Duluth. Sales are being made on easy terms that are attractive and the development of the agricultural resources of the district and the building up of a prosperous market gardening community in the vicinity of Duluth are well under way.

The members of the Duluth real estate exchange are enthusiastic over the plans for a publicity campaign in the interests of Duluth and the fund of $1,500 raised at the meeting of the association this week is only a starter to what the association is ready to do if the other civic bodies get into line to push the project. The real estate men would be benefited by the advertising of Duluth, but the benefits to them would be only incidental to the benefits to the entire city and they are anxious to see the interests of the city, as well as their own, advanced.

The most meager, undersized advertisement you ever print will impress some people, will remain in some minds, as the measure of your store—as representing your store.

SITE IN NEW DIVISION

John Millen Buys Fine Property in New Congdon Park.

Improved Property Figures in Deeds Filed This Week.

A large number of residence lots and market garden tracts and a few pieces of improved residence property figured in the real estate deals recorded in the office of the register of deeds during the past week.

John Millen purchased this week from the Hartman Building company, lots 1 and 2, block 5, Congdon Park division, for $15,000. The property is one of the most beautiful sites in the new residence division and it is understood that Mr. Millen will erect a fine home there within a short time.

* * *

E. A. Ruggles, who arrived here a short time ago from Geneseo, Ill., purchased from the Lakeside Land company a lot at the southwest corner of Forty-eighth avenue east and Pitt street. Mr. Ruggles will make his home in Duluth in the future.

Hugh McKenzie has purchased from the Lakeside Land company a lot on Pitt street between Forty-seventh and Forty-eighth avenues east.

Joseph F. Kearney has sold to Robert J. Gilion a property on the west side of Eighteenth avenue east between Fourth and Fifth streets for $6,500.

Elizabeth A. Matheson has sold to Charles A. Campbell a property on the northwest corner of Superior street and Nineteenth avenue east. The consideration was not given in the deed. The property consists of a lot fronting fifty feet on Superior street and is improved with a two-story brick building, with stores on the first floor and flats above.

The Lakeside Land company has sold to John T. Armstead a property on the lower side of London road at about Fifty-second avenue east. The consideration was $8,725.

ATTRACTIVE BUNGALOW WHICH WOULD COST $2,500 IN DULUTH

The prejudice against the bungalow as a residence in a cold climate has been gradually lived down. Having its origin in the Far East and being transplanted and improved upon in California, where the rigors of Eastern winters are unknown, the impression prevails naturally enough that the sections named form its limitations. But people have been persistent in their demand for the peculiar features and charm that have made the bungalow so attractive.

In transplanting, it has been a simple matter of building to meet the requirements. The special feature of construction, however, like sheathing, building paper, cellars, double floors, etc., are all covered up, so that externally the Northern bungalow built for cold climate requirements presents exactly the appearance of its California namesake.

The above sketch shows a typical design with large living room and ceilings, fireplace and buffet. All bedrooms and bathroom are entered from the hall and not through other rooms, and the kitchen is well placed and commodious.

The living room and dining room are furnished in oak, the kitchen in birch and the bedrooms and bathroom in white enamel. The floors are maple.

The above bungalow would cost in Duluth and vicinity, inclusive of heating and plumbing, the sum of $2,500.

BUILDING TO BE ONE STORY

Work on Structure for L. S. Loeb to Be Begun Immediately.

Few Permits Issued But Duluth Architects Are Optimistic.

Few building permits have been issued during the past week, but architects maintain their optimistic opinion of the prospects for the winter and say that the season will be one of the best Duluth has ever seen. Most of the building will be of residences, but many fine homes will be erected, it is said, and they will give the architects and builders plenty of work.

The most important announcement made this week was that L. S. Loeb will begin work immediately on the building at the southeast corner of Lake avenue and First street. He purchased the site, 100 by 100 feet, recently. Mr. Loeb's first plans called for a two-story building, but the negotiations with the lodges which were to have taken the second floor fell through and Mr. Loeb decided to erect a one-story building for the present, the construction being such that one or two stories may be added later.

The building will be arranged for nine stores, three on First street and six on the avenue. On account of the grade of the avenue the three lower stores will have double floor space and will be especially desirable. The building will be of brick and steel and will be well lighted with plate glass and prism glass. It will be ready for occupancy Jan. 1.

P. M. Olsen is preparing plans for a residence to be built by the Lakeside Land company for A. Devlin. It will cost about $4,500. Mr. Olsen is also preparing plans for a residence to be erected by the Lakeside Land company for J. C. Russell on the upper side of London road, between Fifty-third and Fifty-fourth avenues east, and for a residence to be built for Fred Rawlins on the upper side of Eighth street, between Seventeenth and Eighteenth avenues east. It will cost about $4,000.

Ellerbe, Round & Sullivan have let the contract to Gust Anderson of Virginia for the erection of a six-family flat building at Virginia for John Landrigan. It will cost about $12,000. The same firm has let the contract to Theodore Nauffts of Duluth for the new detention hospital to be built at Hibbing at a cost of about $12,000.

Flies Mile in 53 Seconds.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 15.—Alfred Le Blanc yesterday established what is said to be a world's record for aeroplane speed over a measured course. With his Bleriot monoplane, Le Blanc made a mile in 53 seconds, incidentally setting an American speed record.

SUBURBAN GARDEN TRACTS

LOCATION AND SOIL

These tracts are facing the Morris Thomas road, and also on the new Hutchinson road, along which the proposed street car line is to run. No tract is more than twenty blocks from the present car line, and several are as close as twelve blocks. The soil consists of a sandy loam on a clay bottom, and is comparatively free from stones. About half of these tracts are cleared.

PRICES AND TERMS

Prices range from $75.00 to $300.00 per tract, according to the general lay of the land and amount cleared. $5.00 to $10.00 Cash, balance $5.00 to $10.00 per month. No interest at any time. No taxes until 1912. Torrens Title. In fact the terms are so easy that it is possible for everybody to secure one or more of these BEAUTIFUL GARDEN TRACTS.

BE SURE TO COME TOMORROW

These SUBURBAN GARDEN TRACTS are selling fast. The garden products raised from any one tract will more than take care of the payments and still furnish your table with fresh vegetables the whole season.

WHEAT UP; FLAX FIRM

Shorts Cover and Argentine Crop News Is Less Favorable.

Little Life to Cash Situation ---Flax Receipts Are Heavier.

Duluth Board of Trade, Oct. 15.—Wheat advanced today, December gaining ¼@⅝c and May ⅜c. Cash wheat was on a parity with December, oats lost ⅛c, rye and barley were unchanged, durum lost ¼c.

Flax was steady. Country offerings were smaller but receipts were heavier. There are 63 cars of flax on track compared with 12 yesterday. October lost ½c, November ½c, December 1c and May 1c. Cash flax was on a parity with October.

Wheat values were erratic and stubborn. The undertone was better as some people professed to see hope for export business in low grade winter wheat. Values are close to an export basis but the foreigner is not disposed to take any American wheat despite the somewhat favorable position of the foreign futures compared with the winter wheat markets in this country. There was no export business in the Northwest worth mentioning. Some scattered sales in odd lot Manitobas in an advantageous position are said to have been made. If an export demand for winter wheat develops the result would be an instant firming of values and traders were inclined to go slow today until a more definite situation in this regard materializes.

Argentina news was less favorable. Reports said that in the northern part of that republic the crop holds a less favorable promise. There were few developments today. In the world's news and trading was extremely dull. After and trading was extremely dull. After the decline some shorts covered in the face of the holiday. Most of the buying came from this source.

The cash market was draggy and there was little lift to it. The premium was entirely wiped out. Country flour mills in the Northwest are said to have booked a fair amount of business, but the big mills are not making encouraging reports. If any business was done by the interior mills it was on a scale which did not permit of much profit.

Crushers are not manifesting much interest in the flax market. Most of the seed has been going to Minneapolis. Cash prices were on a par with Minneapolis market yesterday but today the cash market at Minneapolis firmed while the cash market here declined. People in control of the flax market, who appear to be the Northwestern crushers, prefer the seed to go to Minneapolis at the present time. They are taking practically all of the cash stuff that is offered and are not hedging against it. Apparently they are satisfied that prices will not go higher. Small sales of oil are being made but on a hand-to-mouth basis. Eastern crushers are buying a little stuff in this market, but are careful not to disturb to the equilibrium of values.

Arrivals of seed are composed largely of stuff that was purchased at high values. When the lower priced seed begins to arrive the basis on which oil can be sold may be lowered. However, the October and November options are on a parity and cash flax is selling equal to these deliveries. Oil has been sold as low as 85c in the Northwest recently, but few sales were made at that price. The basis was made when prices for seed declined precipitately two or three weeks ago. Since values have firmed oil prices have strengthened. Crushers were not disposed to make a selling basis for oil so long as flax prices were erratic. The market has been remarkably steady lately, and any effect on the oil market should be favorable. Raw oil in the Northwest is worth around 95 cents a gallon on the present basis of flax prices.

The export demand for cake oil is dull. Foreign markets are soft and purchases are mostly for deferred shipment. Very little business has been transacted for delivery in the new year.

Chicago has been getting some Northwestern seed as the Southwestern seed has about run out.

Cash Sales Saturday.

and this led to some further pressure. Just before the close some week-end covering developed and prices reacted slightly. Cargo offerings are limited and expectations are for a liberal decrease in the world's shipments. At the close the market was dull but steadier with prices ⅛@¼d lower than yesterday. Corn was quiet and ⅛@¼d lower. Plata offers were rather easier due to the heaviness and this led to some pressure.

The Northwestern Miller this week says: "The Minneapolis flour output last week increased 12,510 barrels. This made the output for week ending Oct. 8 324,010 bbl against 311,500 in 1909. This week about the same capacity is in operation and the output promises to be about 375,000 bbl. Flour sales by Minneapolis and interior mills were, in the aggregate, increased somewhat last week, and a total quantity in excess of the output was disposed of. There were those who disposed of a smaller quantity than in the preceding week and others who sold considerably more. When certain millers totaled their sales for the week they were surprised at the comparatively good showing. One or two export sales of patent were reported last week, in one case transactions aggregating 20,000 bags. However, this was very exceptional."

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Rising Tendency in Wheat Follows Predictions From Abroad.

Chicago, Oct. 15.—Predictions of a liberal decrease in world shipments of wheat encouraged a rising tendency early today in the market here. Forwardings from Russia and the Danube were more than a 1,000,000 bu less than last week. Possibility of export developments operated also to temper bearish opinion, and there was a limited effect from the uncertainty of the Argentine crop situation. The opening was ¼@⅜c higher to a shade lower, December started at 84⅞ to 85c, 1-16 each way from last night's close and then ascended to 95¼c.

Reiterations that rains in North Argentina came too late holsted prices still further, but early buyers turned sellers, and there was a quick reaction. The close, however, was firm, with December at 95⅝@95½c, a net gain of ½c.

There was a notable absence of pressure to sell corn. December opened unchanged to ⅛c off at 47⅛c to 47¼c, and advanced to 47⅛c.

The market followed wheat to a considerable extent. The close was steady, with December ⅛c down at 47⅛c.

In oats, shorts bought and values improved. December started unchanged to ⅛c lower at 30¾c to 30⅞c and rose to 31c.

Lightness of offerings let provisions look up a little. First sales were a shade to 7½c higher with the January option at $17.65 for pork, $10.67½ for lard and $9.37½ for ribs.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Narrow Trading Characterizes Day in Wheat Pit.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 15.—The wheat market today was a narrow trading affair. There was a difference of only ½@⅝c between the day's high and low price. Scalping profits were quite generally accepted and trading was of only moderate volumne. Both December and May closed c higher than Friday. Local elevator stocks of wheat increased 135,000 bu for one day. Minneapolis today received 367 cars of wheat against 319 a year ago; Duluth 90 against 550 and Winnipeg 800 against 684. December opened $1.05⅝; high, $1.06⅛@1.06¼; low, $1.05⅝; closed, $1.06@1.06⅛. May opened $1.10⅛@1.10¼; high, $1.10¾; low, $1.09⅞; closed, $1.10¼.

Cash wheat today held about steady. Demand continued slow for all grades except choice milling varieties. No. 1 northern sold for 1½@2c above December. Closing cash prices, No. 1 northern, $1.07½@1.08; to arrive, $1.07@1.08; No. 2 northern, $1.04¾@1.06; to arrive, $1.03@1.06; No. 3 wheat, $1.01@1.04; No. 3 yellow corn, 50c; No. 3 white oats, 29@30c; No. 2 rye, 71½@72½c.

Millstuffs—Shipments, 1,896 tons. The market continued dull but steady. Bran in 100-pound sacks, $18.50@19.00.

Flour—Following yesterday's decline in prices the flour demand showed some improvement. Shipments, 58,789 bbl. First patents, in wood, f. o. b. Minneapolis, $5.10@5.30; second patents, $4.90@5.10; first clears, $3.50@3.70; second clears, $2.20@2.50.

Flax—Receipts, 55 cars; year ago, 63; shipments, 10. Demand good for both spot and to arrive, flaxseed at even Duluth October contract. Closing prices, $2.65.

Reiterations that rains in North Argentina came too late holsted prices still further, but early buyers turned sellers, and there was a quick reaction. The close, however, was firm, with December at 95⅝@95½c, a net gain of ½c.

LOSSES ARE RECOVERED

Stocks Open Generally Higher But Have a Sharp Break.

Decline Stopped and the Close Is Strong and Active.

New York, Oct. 15.—Trading in stocks was very active at the opening of the market and prices were generally higher, the effect of profit-taking sales, however, was manifest at some points. Canadian Pacific rose 1¾ and Ontario & Western, Denver & Rio Grande, General Electric and International Harvester, 1; Toledo & Western preferred declined ⅝.

Stocks were supplied freely and there was a sharp break all around. Some of the specialties which had been conspicuously strong of late lost heavily. Among the representative stocks, Union Pacific, Reading and United States Steel were the chief sufferers. Erie first preferred gave way 1⅝; Central Leather, National Biscuit and Allis-Chalmers preferred, 1½; Denver & Rio Grande preferred and International Harvester, 1⅜, and Reading, Kansas & Texas, Distillers' Securities, American Cotton Oil and International Pump preferred, 1. The decline was stopped by the vigorous bidding up of St. Paul, which bounded up ½. Only partial recovery was made by the active stocks, but there were a few strong spots elsewhere. Western Maryland preferred rose 1½ and St. Louis Southwestern preferred, St. Louis & San Francisco second preferred, Louisville & Nashville, Wisconsin Central and American Malting preferred, 1.

The market closed strong and active. United States steel was carried upwards on heavy dealings to a fraction over yesterday's last prices and Union Pacific 1⅜. The general list responded in sympathy. The advance met renewed heavy realizing before which prices were weakened. La. Clede Gas rose 2⅝, National Lead 1½, American Sugar 1⅝, American locomotive 1⅜ and Kansas & Texas preferred, Great Northern ore certificates, American Smelting pf. and American Car 1. Pullman lost 2, North American 2⅝ and American Car preferred 1.

The Cotton Market.

New York, Oct. 15.—Cotton opened steady at a decline of 9@13 points under realizing in sympathy with the disappointing at first selling being restricted by reports that the West Indian storm accompanied by winds was moving in the direction of South Florida and promised to extend up the Atlantic coast, but later reports were received from New Orlans claiming that the direction of the storm had changed and after a rally of 4 or 5 points from the opening prices the markt lost the improvement. There was considerable buying by trade interests on the setback in the local market.

Futures closed barely steady. Closing bids: October, 14.73; November, 14.69; December, 14.72; January, 14.80; February, 14.86; March, 14.90; April, 14.96; May, 14.98; June, 14.96; July, 14.98; August 14.85. Spot closed quiet; middling uplands, 14.90; do, gulf, 15.15; sales, none.

JULIA WARD HOWE IS DEAD AT HER SUMMER HOME IN MIDDLETOWN

Heart Failure, Due to Age and Severe Cold, Cause Death.

Best Known as Author of "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

Has Been Prominent in Public Work Since Marriage in 1843.

Middletown, R. I., Oct. 17.—Mrs. Julia Ward Howe died at her summer home here today.

The three daughters of the aged authoress, Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, Mrs. Laura Richards and Mrs. John Elliott, were gathered about the bedside of their mother when the end came. John Elliott, her son-in-law, also was present.

Death was due to heart failure resulting from advanced age and a severe cold recently contracted. She was 91 years of age last May.

Julia Ward Howe, author and philanthropist, was best known for her poem, "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," which she wrote early during the Civil war while visiting the army camps around Washington. It was set to the music of "John Brown's Body" and immediately became popular with the soldiers.

Born in 1819.

She was born in New York city on May 27, 1819. In 1843 she married S. G. Howe of Boston, and immediately became active in philanthropic work. With her husband she edited the Boston Commonwealth, one of the ablest of anti-slavery papers, to which she contributed leading articles, essays, poems, letters and witty comments. At the same time she wrote for the New York Tribune and the Anti-Slavery Standard.

Since the Civil war Mrs. Howe has been active as a writer and speaker in various social and philanthropical

TERRIFIC CYCLONE IS SWEEPING OVER CUBA; MANY REPORTED DEAD

Believed to Be More Serious Than the Storm of 1906.

Weather Observatory Predicts That It Will Last Twenty Hours.

Havana, Oct. 17.—The cyclone that struck the island yesterday is increasing. Its velocity is appalling. Beyond doubt it is more serious than the hurricane of 1906, which cost many lives and damage to the amount of millions of dollars.

The sea before noon had swept the custom house sheds for a distance of a half mile and was carrying off merchandise valued at hundreds of thousands of dollars.

The gale uncovered the main customs warehouse and the contents of the building were drenched. This building contains the most valuable goods in the harbor.

The coal hoists of the Havana Coal company at Casablanca, across the harbor, and a mile from Morro castle, have been wrecked.

PASTOR'S HOUSE IS SET ON FIRE

North Dakotan Who Fought Blind Pigs Is Burned Out.

Lakota, N. D., Oct 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Following closely upon the receipt of a letter threatening dire calamity should he persist in his prosecution of "blind piggers", Rev. F. M. Stephenson, pastor of the First Methodist church of this city, almost met death in a fire which destroyed a portion of his home and which apparently was of incendiary origin. Awakened by the smell of smoke, Rev. Stephenson found the kitchen a mass of flames, and he just had time to awaken his children, who were sleeping on the second floor, in time to save them from suffocation.

The door to the kitchen was found wide open. There had been no fire in the kitchen stove for two weeks.

Rev. Stephenson has been a leader in the reform movement in Nelson county for several months and has taken a prominent part in several cases which have led to the arrests of alleged violators of the prohibition law. He received a letter a short time ago in which violence was threatened should he persist in endeavoring to stamp out the blind pigs, and the sender of this letter, the officials believe, had something to do with the fire.

DEMOCRATS WILL GAIN

In the Ohio Congressional Fights, Says Willis J. Abbot.

Gen. Keifer Likely to Succumb to the Insurgent Movement.

By Willis J. Abbot.

(Copyright, 1910, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

Columbus, Ohio, Oct. 17.—Ohio has twenty-one representatives in congress, of whom at the present moment thirteen are Republicans. It is admitted at the Republican headquarters that this representation of that party in the house of representatives will be very materially lessened as a result of the present campaign. It is claimed at the Democratic headquarters that in the next congress, instead of thirteen Republicans and eight Democrats, there will be certainly eleven Democrats to ten Republicans, and probably fourteen Democrats.

I have made a careful study of the congressional situation, discussing the matter with probably more Republican leaders than with Democrats. There is no doubt as to the feeling among the Republicans that in the struggle for representation in congress they are losing and losing heavily. Even those men who talk most cheerfully about Republican prospects on the state ticket admitted that the congressional elections would be sure to go against them heavily.

Summary of Congressional Outlook.

This is a list of the districts with what is regarded as the probable outcome of the election in each. This list I may say has been shown to officials

SIX KILLED IN ELECTION RIOTS

Eighteen Others Wounded at the Polls in Guadeloupe.

Pointe-a-Pitre, Guadeloupe, Oct. 17.—Six persons were killed and eighteen others wounded during election riots yesterday in the petit bourg district of Basse Terre, the capital. Three of the wounded are gendarmes. The fighting followed an attempt to prevent alleged frauds in the voting for municipal officers.

Much excitement prevails throughout the island.

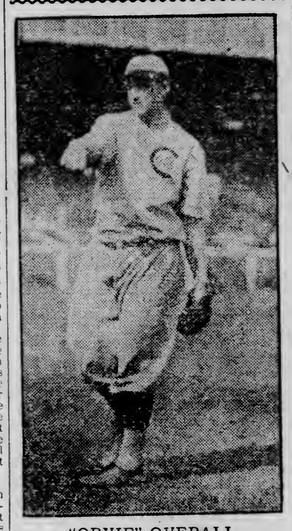

With the approach of yesterday's elections, which included the choice of thirty-six members of the general council, rioting had been anticipated, as the feeling between the government patry and the so-called radical party continued intense.

Following the elections of last April, M. Boisneuf, defeated candidate for the chamber of deputies, went to Paris and brought an action in the French courts against Governor Gautret, charging the executive with holding up the election returns from three villages and finally proclaiming Boisneuf's opponent, M Legitimus, elected.

Charges of fraud were made openly and two attempts upon the governor's life have since been made.

Philadelphia, Oct. 17.—Before the biggest crowd ever seen at a baseball game in Philadelphia, the local American league team and the Chicago Nationals met this afternoon in the first game of the series to determine the world championship for the season of 1910. Early in the day the betting was at 10 to 8, with the Cubs the favorites, but this figure was gradually cut down until, just before the game began, the odds were abolished and the bets were made on even terms.

Overall and Bender were sent to the rubber for their respective teams.

There were no disorder in the immense crowds that packed around the park and into the bleachers and the improvised field space. The throng

NO WORD OF WELLMAN

Airship Is Believed to Be Several Hundred Miles Off Coast.

German Aerial Experts Predict Catastrophe for Americans.

Boston, Oct. 17. — Walter Wellman's airship America has not communicated with ships so far as known since sending his last reassuring message at 12:45 p. m. yesterday. Following the trans-Atlantic steamer line, the great dirigible balloon passed through the night and morning hours about three or four hundred miles from the New England shore, moving toward Sable Island, N. S.

No Word Received.

New York, Oct. 17. — Wireless stations along the coast so far as heard from have had nothing to report as to the progress of Walter Wellman's dirigible balloon America. Shortly after noon yesterday the America passed out of wireless touch with the Marconi station at Siasconset and since then no word has come from the daring air navigator, who, in the absence of other information, was assumed to be continuing his northeast flight along the Atlantic steamer line with the British isles as his destination.

Expect a Catastrophe.

Berlin, Oct. 17. — The cross-Atlantic venture of Walter Wellman and his companions in the dirigible balloon America occupies pages in today's newspapers. Maj. Von Tschudi and Prof. Verson, the aviation board experts, regard it as most probable that the trip will end in a catastrophe.

PHILIPPINES LIKE NEW TARIFF LAW

Governor Speaks of It in Message to the Island Legislature.

Manila, Oct. 17.—The Philippine legislature was convened today. In his message, Governor-General Forbes congratulated the government on the results of the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill and said that the finances of the Philippines are satisfactory. The fiscal year closes with a surplus in excess of $1,000,000.

The governor-general recommends assistance to sugar planters by the erection of central depots for the housing and distribution of the product, the adoption of laws controlling labor, prohibiting involuntary slavery, providing pensions for civil servants and a modification of the penal statutes in accordance with the judgments of the supreme court.

BIG CROWD FOR GAME

Opening of World Series in Philadelphia Attracts Hordes.

Police Spoil Attempt to Form Line at Gates Over Night.

Philadelphia, Oct. 17.—When Old Sol pushed his head above the horizon this morning there was revealed a double line of enthusiastic baseball fans who completely surrounded Shibe park, where this afternoon the first game between the Chicago National league champions and the premier team of the American league was scheduled to be played for the world's championship.

The line began to form at sundown last night. The rooters brought camp stools, chairs and carried their breakfasts and lunches. The line grew so rapidly that the police department decided not to let the crowd congregate through the night, and broke up the assemblage.

The more determined of the rooters went into the public park across the street from the ball grounds and waited. Before dawn newcomers arrived and stood at the bleacher gates and the park campers joined them. Thus the line again formed and rapidly grew.

TEN BALLOONS IN BIG RACE

United States, Germany, France and Switzerland Represented.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 17.—Inflation of the ten balloons entered in the international race for the James Gordon Bennett cup and the collection of cash prizes was begun early this morning.

The big gas bags were spread out on the field yesterday.

The first balloon will go up at 4:30 o'clock and others will follow at five-minute intervals. Germany and the United States are represented by three pilots each and France and Switzerland by two each.

The order of starting balloons, pilots and aides follow:

1—Condor, (France), pilot, Jacques Faure; aide, Ernest G. Schmoick.

2—Million Population, (United States), pilot, S. Louis Von Phul; aide, Joseph M. O'Reilly.

3—Azurea, (Switzerland); pilot, Capt. E. Messner; aide, Leon Grandjean.

4—Hartung III, (Germany); pilot Leopold Vogt; aide, W. F. Assmann.

5—Isle de France, (France); pilot, Alfred Le Blanc; aide, Walther de Munn.

6—St. Louis No. 4, (United States), pilot, Capt. H. E. Honeywell; aide, J. W. Telland.

7—Helvetia, (Switzerland); pilot, Col. Schaeck; aide, A. Armbruster.

8—Duesseldorf, (Germany); pilot, Lieut. Hans Gericke; aide, Samuel F. Perkins.

9—America II, (United States); pilot Alan Hawley; aide, Augustus Post.

10—Germania, (Germany); pilot, Hugo Von Abercron; aide, August Blanckertz.

The official measurements of the balloons were made at 2 o'clock this morning, prior to the letting in of gas. Each of the bags came within the limit of the rules of 78,000 cubic feet. The Germania is the most brilliant. It is covered with a coating of aluminum dust and glistens like silver. The surface is supposed to deflect the sun's rays. The other gasbags are made of silk or rubber.

The weather is ideal for a long flight, according to the pilots.

DUTCHMAN FLIES WITH PASSENGER

Goes From Paris to Brussels and Back in Twenty-Eight Hours.

Paris, Oct. 17.—M. Legagneux, the French aviator, and Henry Wynmalen, the Holland airman, who started yesterday in an attempt to win the prizes totaling $25,000 for a successful flight from Paris to Brussels and return with a passenger, continued on the home trip today.

Wynmalen, who returned as far as Saint Quentin yesterday, ascended at 6:40 o'clock this morning, heading straight for the French capital.

Legagneux, who stopped over night in Brussels, got away at 6:15 o'clock this morning. Legagneux had 150 miles ahead of him while his Holland rival had only 90 miles to make.

Wynmalen arrived at Issy, the aviation field here, at 12:13 o'clock, having completed the round trip in 27 hours, 50 minutes and 27 seconds from the time of his departure.

SAY INQUIRY WAS UNFAIR

Packers Complain of Methods of Senate Committee.

Reference Is Made in Report to the Boycott on Meat.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—The report of the executive committee of the National Meat Packers' association, which met in annual convention here, intimates that the select committee of the United States senate, when it met to investigate the high cost of living, did not act in the best of faith in examining the packers. On this point the report says:

"Another indication of the prejudice which yet exists against the packers was the hearing before the select committee of the United States senate relative to wages and prices of commodities. Your president and secretary and two ex-presidents were subpoenaed to appear before this committee, and though the purpose of the investigation was to find the reasons for the increased cost of all foodstuffs, the committee asked

DIETZ GIRL TO GO TO HAYWARD

Time of Her Removal From Ashland Hospital Being Kept Secret.

Ashland, Wis., Oct. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Almyra Dietz will be taken from the Ashland hospital tomorrow to Hayward to the Sawyer county jail. Her removal is not generally known and will be kept a secret to avoid a demonstration at the depot when the girl is removed.

The time of her removal from Ashland and her arrival at Hayward will be kept from the public if possible.

Mrs. Wallace and daughter, of Waukesha, arrived today for a consultation with the wounded girl. Attorney Rubin of Milwaukee arrived this morning from Hayward and is consulting with Almyra Dietz. He represents the Dietz family. The Socialists of Wisconsin will back the Dietz family and will make a political issue of it. It is said the Socialists will put up a lot of money to help them. Clarence Darrow of Chicago will very probably be retained as counsel.

MAN IS ACCUSED OF CHOKING BOY

Menominee, Mich., Oct. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—A warrant was issued today for the arrest of Steve Devoe, 40 years old, charging him with having choked Floyd Mostad, a mere boy, until the lad was nearly dead. Three doctors worked over Mostad before he was revived. The trouble is said to have been the result of a children's quarrel.

TENTATIVE PLANS FOR PERMANENT RELIEF FORMED

Governor Will Be Asked to Appoint Director of Relief Work.

New Homes Being Erected By Spooner and Baudette People.

The temporary relief work at Baudette and Spooner is now so well organized that plans for permanent relief are being made and they will be carried out immediately, according to W. A. McGonagle, who returned this morning from the border with Maj. H. V. Eva and J. H. Hearding. E. P. Bicknell, national director of the American Red Cross, who went to the scene of the fire horror last week, also returned this morning and proceeded to St. Paul.

Tomorrow a conference with Governor Eberhart will be held at St. Paul and Mr. McGonagle will attend as chairman of the public affairs committee. At the conference, the suggestion will be made that the governor appoint some one man to take absolute charge of the relief work, he to be supplied with a sufficient number of assistants to carry out the work and a small squad of militia to maintain order.

A conference was held at Baudette yesterday, Mr. McGonagle, Adjt. Gen. Wood, Mr. Bicknell, Mayor Egan of Spooner and Mayor Williams of Baudette attending. Permanent relief measures were discussed and, although plans are still hazy, some tentative arrangements were made.

It was suggested that in building at Spooner and Baudette, the relief committee erect small buildings back from the building line. They are to be built on post foundations and are to be of substantial construction, so that when the people are able and ready to rebuild their homes, the buildings may be erected at the front of the relief structures, which may afterwards be used as kitchens. It is proposed to cover the relief buildings with tar paper and build them so that they may afterwards be sided and finished to conform to the main residences.

The plan was accepted at yesterday's conference as the best one suggested and it will probably be carried out.

Relief Work Systematized.

The relief work is now systematized and well under way. A storage warehouse, 120 by 26 feet, has been erected and the stores have been arranged so that they are ready accessible. About ten cars of provisions, clothing, hay and feed are standing on the sidetracks and their contents will also be stored in the warehouse, which will be the headquarters of the relief workers. The main relief station is at Baudette, but branch stations have been established at other points, such as Pitt and Williams, and the local relief committees at those points will be supplied with provisions to care for the destitute people there.

Tents have been erected at Spooner and Baudette for the temporary accommodation of the refugees. Many of the people who fled to International Falls and other towns immediately after the conflagration are returning and they are assisting in the work of cleaning up the debris.

The military is in absolute charge and there are no idlers. Everybody is put to work and there will be work for everybody for some time to come. Adjutant General Wood and the members of the four militia companies will probably remain on the scene the remainder of this week, after which a small body of militia will probably be kept there to maintain order and enforce the regulations which will be laid down by the directors of the relief work who will be appointed by Governor Eberhart.

The sanitary conditions, which were very bad immediately after the fire, are being adjusted. The typhoid fever patients, about forty in all, have been gathered together and are segregated in two houses, where they cannot spread contagion. Steps will be taken to purify the water of the two wells from which the water supply of Baudette is drawn and regulations for safeguarding the health of the people will be rigorously enforced.

About a dozen Spooner people have begun to build their homes and two or three houses are under construction in Baudette. The people are recovering from the first shock of the disaster and the two towns will certainly be rebuilt.

Maj. Eva will return to Baudette tonight to assist in the relief work. Col. Rosecha is still on the ground and is doing grand work in maintaining the system of the relief work and in directing the movements of other workers.

WEATHER—Probably showers tonight or Tuesday; not much change in temperature; moderate to brisk winds, easterly shifting to southwesterly tonight.—U. S. Forecast.

TAKE KETCHEL'S BODY BACK HOME

Man Who Killed Pugilist Claims It Was in Self Defense.

Springfield, Mo., Oct. 17.—Conveying the body of Stanley Ketchel, champion middleweight pugilist, who was shot and killed on Saturday by Walter Dipley, alias Walter A. Hurtz, back to the pugilist's old home in Grand Rapids, Mich., R. P. Dickerson, on whose ranch the fighter was shot, and Gen. Emmet Newton, long a friend of Ketchel, will leave here this afternoon. They expect to reach Grand Rapids at 2:10 p. m. tomorrow. A coroner's jury will hold an inquest into the death of Ketchel at 9:30 tomorrow morning.

Hurtz, or Dipley, in the care of Sheriff Cope Shields, is being guarded carefully in jail at Marshfield. Hurtz was captured Sunday at the home of Thomas Haggard, one mile from Mingo, Mo. Hirtz was taken to the Webster county jail at Marshfield, where he is being closely guarded.

Claims Self-Defense.

After being placed in his cell, the prisoner made a statement, in which he said he shot Ketchel in self-defense. He says he ordered the prize fighter to throw up his hands, and when he did not obey he fired.

Overcome with hunger and fatigue from fleeing through the rough Ozark country, Hurtz reached the home of Haggard, where he applied for a place to sleep and something to eat. He was given food and a bed. At that time Haggard had not heard of the shooting, but a short time later learned of the affair. He also received a description of the slayer, and for several hours, while Hurtz was sleeping, he stood guard with a shotgun.

Arrested by Farmers.

Shortly after 4 o'clock Sunday morning Haggard secured the services of three neighbors and they awakened Hurtz at the point of a gun. They forced the man to roll up his sleeves, and finding a tattoo mark there, accused him of having killed Ketchel. The man then broke down and admitted the shooting. He was then turned over to the officers and taken to Marshfield.

Hurtz, in telling the story of the shooting, asserts Ketchel made insulting remarks to Goldie Smith, a cook employed at the farm. He says words passed between Ketchel and himself and he then demanded that the prize fighter throw up his hands. When the champion refused to do this, he said, he was so frightened, knowing Ketchel carried a revolver, that he fired, and hardly without realizing what he had done, fled. Goldie Smith, the woman in the case, has been taken to the Webster county jail and will be held pending an inquest.

Funeral services over the body of the fighter were held at the Elks club here today and tomorrow the body will be taken to Grand Rapids, Mich., the home of Ketchel's parents. The body will be accompanied by R. P. Dickerson, with whom Ketchel was visiting.

RAISE MONUMENT TO WOMAN NEGRO KILLED.

Cairo, Ill., Oct. 17.—A monument dedicated to the memory of Miss Anna Pelley, who was killed by the negro, James, last November, was unveiled at a local cemetery yesterday afternoon in the presence of several thousand citizens. The monument is of granite and weighs six tons. More than 2,000 people subscribed to the fund for its erection. The inscription on the tablet reads:

"In memory of Anna Pelley, born Jan. 16, 1886; died Nov. 8, 1909. A life sacrificed, but remembered by friends."

The negro James was lynched on the night of Nov. 11.

MARINE

CARGOES ARE TRADED IN

Owners Swapping Coal Contracts for Return Cargoes of Ore.

First Cold Snap Will Bring Heavy Movement of Coal.

Trading in cargoes is going on among some of the shippers, in cases where there are a number of coal cargoes, these being traded for some ore cargoes. In this way some of the boats with a heavy coal contract, are getting a return cargo down the lake.

Indications still point to a large movement of coal next month. There is somewhat of a congestion on the local docks at the present time, though the shipments to the country continue. With the first cold snap the local coal agents predict a very heavy movement of coal from the Head of the Lakes into the territory dependent on Duluth and Superior. With the coming of colder weather it is naturally expected that the present active demand will be heightened.

At the present time there is little doubt but that the present season will witness the heaviest coal movement at this port in the history of lake traffic. This fact is due to the expansion of the market here, the growth of which has found material recognition in the construction of new docks and the increasing of the capacity of some of the other docks.

There is some inquiry here for boats for grain storage. It is early as yet, however, and with practically no inquiry for grain charters, there is little doing in the grain shipping line. Some of the independents are on their November contract ore at the present time, so that it does not look as if they will stay out very much longer after the cleanup, unless the coal movement proves so heavy that a large number of charters are needed.

TWO STEAMERS IN COLLISION

Peter White and Munro Come Together at Superior Entry.

The steamers Peter White and the J. G. Munro collided Sunday afternoon in the Duluth-Superior harbor, the collision being due to the current in the Superior entry canal.

The Poter White arrived light and was coming in as the Munro was going out of the canal. The Munro was also light clearing for Escanaba. The current seemed to interfere with the steering of the Munro, and the boats collided on their port bows. Though the blow was glancing, the anchor of the Munro did considerable execution with the anchor plates of the Peter White.

Both vessels are at the present time at the Superior shipyards, and the exact amount of the damage will be known later today.

NEW FREIGHTER IS LAUNCHED

The William P. Palmer, the last of the three great freighters constructed for the United States Steel company, was launched last Saturday and will be at the Head of the Lakes some time the present season. The Palmer is like the W. J. Olcott, which made her maiden trip to the Head of the Lakes recently.

BOTH VESSELS ARE BADLY DAMAGED.

The steamer Martin Mullen, which was damaged in a collision with the James H. Reed in the St. Clair river, last Wednesday, is on its way up the lakes. A few repairs were made on the boat at Detroit, and then the vessel resumed her trip to Fort William. It is probable that the Mullen will be brought to the Superior shipyards for further repairs.

The Reed is also able to proceed on her trip to Lake Erie, although it will be necessary for the vessel to undergo extensive repairs later.

It looks as if the repairs on the two boats will require several weeks and that neither will make another trip the present season.

No satisfactory explanation of the collision has been received as yet. It is believed further investigations will bring out the blame in the matter.

THE WISSAHICKON REACHES PORT.

The Wissahickon of the Anchor line, the boat which was badly damaged on its last trip down the lakes last year, owing to extensive repairs that have been made on it, reached the Head of the Lakes today on its maiden trip up the lakes the present season.

The hull of the package freighter is almost entirely new, while other repairs have been made on the boat. If the package freight business remains as active as it is at the present time, the Wissahickon will remain in commission until the close of navigation.

AERIAL BRIDGE ALMOST READY

No Definite Promises as to When Passengers Will Be Carried.

Members of the board of public works are hopeful of being able to open the aerial bridge for travel by tomorrow evening. They state that the overhauling and repair work is about finished, but they add that they are not making any definite promises. Something may arise which will delay the opening a day or two more.

Since the bridge was closed a week ago passengers have been taken back and forth across the canal by the steamer Plowboy. The city has been paying for this service at the rate of $60 a day, the boat being operated day and night on a schedule as near as possible to that maintained by the bridge.

MENOMINEE BARBER SHOT.

Youths at Target Practice Hit Him in Foot.

Menominee, Mich., Oct. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—While at work in the barber shop in which he was employed, Jean Montpas was shot in the foot. The bullet was from a rifle discharged by boys shooting at a target in the heart of the city.

BOYS' GRUESOME FIND.

Hunting Near Cass Lake Discover Missing Man's Bones.

Cass Lake, Minn., Oct. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—While two young boys were out hunting Saturday they discovered the remains of an old man lying under a pile of brush. The boys had been out all day and sat down on the pile of brush to eat a lunch when one of them happened to raise a branch and saw the remains. They hurried to town and notified the authorities, who made an investigation. Only the bones were inside the clothes, the flesh having entirely decayed.

The remains were also identified as Frank Bortz, who had been missing since the first part of June. Bortz was about 50 years old and in poor health the past few years. It is presumed he wandered away from home last June and was suddenly attacked by one of his sick spells and law down under the brush when he expired. The coroner has been notified, but it is believed no inquest will be necessary.

CLAIM NEGROES ARE VICTIMS OF LABOR LAW.

Washington, Oct. 17.—Believing that hundreds of Nouthern negroes are being deprived of their liberty by big planters under forms of law, the federal government will try this week to induce the supreme court of the United States to strike a blow at the alleged evil.

This it will do by asking the court to declare unconstitutional the so-called "labor contract" law.

The treatment of negro farmhands under this law is interpreted by the department of justice as reduction of these laborers to a state of peonage.

The case comes to the court on the appeal of a negro, Alonzo Bailey from the decision of the supreme court of Alabama, which held the law unconstitutional and assessed Bailey a fine equivalent to 126 days hard labor for the county.

VIRGINIA HARNED IS GRANTED A DIVORCE.

Reno, Nev., Oct. 17.—Virginia Harned Sothern, actress, was granted a decree of divorce from Edward H. Sothern, the actor, here Saturday, on the grounds of desertion and non-support. The suit was not contested.

AVIATION MEET AT ST. LOUIS IS CLOSED.

St. Louis, Oct. 17.—With sensational spiral glides and dizzy high flights, the aero club of St. Louis yesterday afternoon closed a successful aviation meet at Kintosh field before one of the largest crowds of the nine days since it started. Last night the machines, including Le Blanc's, Blerlot monoplane and the Wright brothers' five biplanes, were shipped east to New York and Dayton, Ohio.

QUESTION OF JURISDICTION IN KILLING OF BALLIDGE.

Fargo, N. D., Oct. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The question of jurisdiction has arisen in the case of the killing of Sam Ballidge by Peter Lou. It is claimed that the shooting occurred just west of the center of the bridge betwetn North Dakota and Minnesota. The victim died in Moorhead, and his assailant is wanted by the authorities there. The officials of Moorhead say the prosecution must be made on this side. Both men were Austrians and employed together on this side. The shooting was the result of an old grudge.

BELIEVE BELOIT COUPLE DROWNED IN MARYLAND.

Pocomo City, Md., Oct. 17.—An empty sailboat found at the mouth of Pitts creek convinces their friends of the drowning of Henry P. Dennis, aged 26 years, and Miss Caroline Eaton, 25, daughter of Rev. Dr. C. D. Eaton, president of Beloit college, Beloit, Wis. Both were visiting relatives of young Dennis here. They started for a sail Saturday and it is supposed Miss Eaton fell or was knocked overboard by the boom and that Dennis lost his life in a futile effort to save her. The bodies have not been recovered.

Knox's Assistant Hurt.

Washington, Oct. 17.—Acting Secretary of State Alva McCrea, who has ridden over much of this country and Europe on a bicycle without mishap, was injured while riding here when he attempted to avoid running over a dog. He was thrown to the pavement and sustained cuts about his face and head and his back was strained. None of his injuries is serious.

All Bodies Recovered From Mine.

Starkville, Col., Oct. 17.—All of the fifty-six bodies entombed in the local mine of the Colorado Fuel & Iron company, by an explosion Oct. 8, have been recovered. Twenty-seven were buried Sunday, seven of the bodies being taken to the cemetery in hearses. The others were transported on a big van. Many of them were not identified. The last of the bodies were buried today. Mine officials hope to have the mine in working order by Nov. 1.

Predict Cold Minnesota Winter.

Winona, Minn., Oct. 17.—Fur-bearing animals in these parts are developing unusually heavy coats for the coming winter, which is said to be a sign of plenty of cold weather. Another sign that the winter is to be a severe one is found in the sudden and early flight of night hawks for the South. For more than a week these birds have been flitting toward a warmer climate.

"Correct Dress for Women"

"Correct Corseting" is a Live Fashion Topic of the day, the importance of which is appreciated by thinking women---more than that Proper Corsetry is a matter of Health and Comfort; for the Corset is a most vital element in proper poise and correct appareling.

Miss Anna Farrisee, a finished student of the New School of Corsetry, and special representative of the Gossard Corset Company, is giving a series of interesting and instructive talks on the Science of Correct Corseting, in our corset department, (third floor), continuing tomorrow and Wednesday. These instructive discourses afford much food for thought, and women interested in correct appearance cannot afford to miss the opportunity. All are cordially invited.

Gowns and Dresses: If you, Milady, belong to the New School of Ready-to-Wear Dress devotees, you will revel, in the superb collection of Gowns which we have gathered for your approval. Name any Use or Occasion that you may, and its proper dress awaits you here. Simple Tailored Styles, for Street, Business or Home wear; of Serge, Worsted, Henrietta, Voile or Panama, at $19.50 to $50.00. Semi-dressy Styles for Elegant street wear, Bridge, Dinner and Reception Wear; in cloth, rich velvets or of velvet combined with cloth, Crepe-de-chine, Satin, Messaline or Chiffon. Prices $35.00 to $75.00. Also Handsome Evening Gowns for Formal wear in Marquisette Voile, Chiffon, Crepe-de-chine and rare creations in "veiled" effects. Styles suitable for maid or matron. Prices $35.00 to $175.00.

Styles are absolute in their "correctness." And the Clever Fashionings are beyond the scope of the average modiste—while Prices are no more than the "local-made" dress would cost.

Above all there is the satisfaction of knowing "what you are getting"—of seeing the Dress, as you are to wear it, before you decide—and of obviating all minor details, and troubles involved in the building of a dress.

Suits and Coats: Strictly Tailored Styles, with little or no trimming, are, after all, the Nobbiest kind of Street Garments—and Gidding Garments are the kind that have "Good Looks," Cut and Tailored into them. Handsome Suits or Coats, in plain or slightly novelty Styles, of Basket Weaves and "Nub" Materials, in plain or two-tone effects; new rough mixtures, Heavy Welt Serges, Boucles, Zibelines, Scotch Tweeds, Zibeline-Broadcloths and many other new materials.

For those who prefer Dainty and Distinctive Trimming Features, there are Nobby Styles trimmed in Wide Hercules Braids, Bands of Velvet, Strap effects, Novelty Buttons, Touches of Persian or Paisley Materials, Pipings, etc.

SPECIAL MENTION should be made of the Handsome Suits of Velvet and Corduroy, and beautiful Demi-Tailored Styles, in original and exact copies of Imported Models. Suit prices $29.50, $35.00, $39.00, $45.00 to $100.00.

SWAGGER TOURING COATS, in soft self-plaid-lined Blanket Materials, and High-class Novelty materials at $22.50 to $75.00. And Rich Coats of Velvet, Velour and Caracul, which are ultra-stylish, very warm and decidedly attractive. Prices $35.00 to $95.00.

CURIOUS BAKE OVEN

GIVES INSTANT AND PERMANENT RELIEF

D. J. SMITH.

I was carried to the Loughney & Loughney Bake Oven. After the first bake, I could walk with crutches; after the third bake, I could walk without crutches or cane. The Bake Oven will cure your aches and pains.

D. J. SMITH, Carlton, Minn.

MR. C. ERICKSON.

Mr. Erickson suffered indescribable Pain and was Bedridden most of the time for two years. He found instant and permanent relief in Dr. Loughney's Bake Oven. His trouble was Sciatic Rheumatism. Mr. Erickson lives at Aurora, Mont., and will vouch for the above.

H. E. HUBBARD.

Mr. Hubbard says the Bake Oven Is a wonder at curing disease. "It relieved me immediately of Rheumatic Pains, when all other methods failed. You do not have to tell Drs. Loughney your ailments; they will tell you." Mr. H. E. HUBBARD lives at 1108 East Fifth street, Duluth, and we gladly substantiate the above.

MRS. D. E. DOUTY.

When a person 96 years old, and one who has been a chronic sufferer from rheumatism and stomach trouble for fifteen years, has been cured of both ailments, there should be no further doubt about the merits of the agency that accomplished the cure. The agency is the Loughney & Loughney Bake Ovens. Call and see them, if you are sick. The treatment is especially good for old people; it limbers them up so nicely, and it gives instant relief in every case. MRS. DOUTY is from Dunlap, Wash.

AMUSEMENTS

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—William Faversham in "The World and His Wife."
ORPHEUM—Vaudeville.
BIJOU—Vaudeville.

William Faversham.

William Faversham will be the attraction at the Lyceum tonight and tomorrow night. He will present Charles Frederic Nirdlinger's great play, "The World and His Wife," an adaptation of Jose Echegaray's Spanish masterpiece, "El Gran Galeoto." Mr. Faversham presented this play at Washington, Cincinnati, Chicago and at Daly's theater, New York. In taking his company to Daly's theater, New York, Mr. Faversham challenged comparison with the splendid organization long maintained at that classic playhouse by Augustin Daly. William Winter of the Tribune, and the dean of the New York critics, was one of the firs to acknowledge Mr. Faversham's high aim and purpose, and to chronicle his success.

It is generally supposed that the actor-manager subordinates all the roles in a play to his own; but in this particular, Mr. Faversham proved the exception to the rule. When the play was seen in New York it was very evidently the purpose of Mr. Faversham to provide a high class entertainment, rather than the exploitation of himself as a star.

Another curious feature of Nirdlinger's adaptation is this: The play was made for Mr. Faversham at his order, and with the explicit instructions to the dramatist that no role in the piece should be built up at the expense of the other, and that while "The World and His Wife" was to be used by a "star"—the leading role should not be given any undue advantage over the others. This wise and admirable scheme brought forth a happy result, and one specially recognized in New York. Mr. Faversham is supported by a fine company which includes Julie Opp, H. Cooper Cliffe, Lionel Belmore and Harry Redding.

THE HUMAN ADDING MACHINE

Griffith On Orpheum Bill, a Mental Freak--- Other Attractive Numbers.

There is a chap down at the Orpheum this week who is as much of a freak as if he were ten feet tall and behind the bars of a cage in a circus sideshow, only he is a mental freak instead of being a physical monstrosity.

One cannot help but wonder what kind of a mind a man must have who can almost instantaneously multiply a row of nine figures by a row of nine figures, without the aid of a pencil or paper.

A little thing like multiplying 397 by 286, or 8,419 by 2,873 and setting the answer down within two or three seconds is child's play for "The Marvelous Griffith," as he bills himself, and the audience was willing to admit the marvelous part of it before he got through.

Griffith looks like William Jennings Bryan, only he is considerably younger, but unlike Bryan, he leaves all the talking to his assistant, an immaculate young man who succeeds in getting quite a bit of comedy out of Griffith's performances. Griffith has also evolved a method of calculating instantly the number of people in any person's family. The members of the audience perform certain prescribed multiplications and additions and announce to him the result. The wonderful part of it is not that he can tell the figure from which they started, but the speed with which he does it, and the manner in which he can tell instantly where they have made their mistake. "You made a mistake in your last multiplication," he would say, or "your addition is wrong," and it always was. When everything was correct the result was announced almost instantly. The act is a most interesting one.

Another act which proved far more popular with yesterday's audiences than the feature act, "The Ballet of Light," was that presented by Mr. and Mrs. Jack McGreevy and called "The Eccentric Fiddler and the Country Maid." The Orpheum audiences have not had such a good laugh since Willard Simms tried to paper his furnished flat several weeks ago. McGreevy is a natural comedian, with a wonderfully good makeup, and his wife is equally clever. His witticisms are new, and his fiddling and the dance by his wife are a "riot." The act was by long odds the biggest hit of the bill, and the audience could have stood twice as much of the clever fooling without growing weary.

Sixteen bare feet trained by Loie Fuller, patter around the stage, while eight pairs of graceful arms swirl innumerable yards of light gauzy material around sixteen shen—bare legs, and three or four electricians throw varied colored lights on the said sixteen bare feet from a half a dozen different directions at once. That is "The Ballet of Light." It is the old "fire dance," which used to be so popular a few years ago, and was invented by the said Loie Fuller, brought up-to-date and made considerably more expensive. The effects are beautiful in the extreme, and the young women are graceful and good to look at. If the young women had pulled on eight pairs of black stockings, however, and eight pairs of dancing shoes, and come out to the footlights to sing a little rag and do a breakdown, they would make a bigger hit with vaudeville audiences, and would also avoid the danger of some careless or malicious stage hand scattering tacks on the floor.

"Winning on Wind," is the title of a most amusing sketch by Lewis McCord & Co. The "company" does not consist of one or two mediocre actors, as is too often the case, but of five capable assistants, and the six people make this merry little sketch move rapidly. Mr. McCord himself is a clever comedian, and the sketch is a well written little farce. It tells the story of an impecunious young lawyer who borrows a friend's house for the purpose of marrying an heiress. The complications come when the friend telegraphs that he is compelled to return on account of the illness of his wife.

The Duffin-Redcay troupe has evidently been taken from some circus for the winter months. They do an aerial acrobatic act that is remarkable, and as good of its kind as any circus can boast of. A triple somersault in the air is accomplished by one of the members of the company, and there are other tricks equally difficult.

No vaudeville act is complete without a singing and dancing act, and Johnny Small and his Small sisters supply it this week. Their singing is not anything to boast about, but Johnny is a dancer of the George Cohan type, and one of his sisters is just about as strenuous. They reach the upper part of the house without any difficulty, and even the parquet is not above giving them quite an enthusiastic "hand." The highland fling by one of the sisters, who is about as big as a minute, is one of the best features of the act.

The Balzars open the bill with a first class comedy juggling act. Their tricks are well done and there is some amusing comedy in the act.

The moving pictures, which are better than ordinary this week, and the overture complete a first class bill, containing much more comedy than last week's bill.

PLEASING BILL AT THE BIJOU

New Vaudeville Program Provides Ninety Minutes of Real Entertainment.

The George Bonhair troupe of acrobats, feature the new vaudeville bill at the Bijou theater this week with one of the best acts of the kind that has ever been presented at the local house.

There are six members in the troupe and four of them are boys. The little fellows as well as the two grown men are well trained and their difficult stunts are pulled off in a manner which shows how exact that training has been.

The stunts are many and varied. The smaller members or the company are thrown about as though they were bean bags and juggled like Indian clubs. The act is of the hair-raising variety.

The members of the troupe go through their performance as though it were the easiest things in the world, and the men from time to time apparantly throw the boys in any direction that happens to catch their fancy. The act was easily the hit of of the bill.

Miss Kitty Edwards is pretty and gets herself in favor as soon as she appears. She sings a little, talks a little and dances a little. She did not do enough of any to suit the three big audiences that yesterday enjoyed the opening bill. Miss Edwards wears a variety of clothing. She has the quick change act down to a science and doesn't keep her audience waiting. She and her performance were well liked yesterday as was proven by the large sized "hand" she received after each turn.

Robert Carter and Catherine Waters have a farce entitled "The Wise Mr. Conn." The farce is funny. There are a great many funny things about it and they get across and extract laughs without help.

Eddie Dolan is a character comedian. He has a talking stunt that is different, and his local sallies were well received.

"Wanted—A Donkey," is the stunt put on by Lee and Chipman. It is the opening number on the bill and is a good curtain raiser.

Varden, Perry and Wilber, "Just Three Boys," sing, dance and make cracks that amuse. They have some new steps, their singing is above the ordinary and their jokes are on the minstrel order.

The pictures this week are more interesting than ever and close one of the best vaudeville bills seen at the Bijou in some time.

"A NIGHT OFF" WELL GIVEN

Amateur Production at the Lyceum Pleases Two Large Audiences.

"A Night Off" was presented in the afternoon and evening Saturday by an unusually capable company of amateurs in the Lyceum theater. The receipts were turned over to the Daughters of the American Revolution. The money will be used to restore and maintain the historic Sibley house at Mendota, the home of the first governor of Minnesota and the capitol of the state until Governor Sibley removed to St. Paul. The building is owned by the D. A. R. and is in charge of a caretaker.

The play was presented with adequate stage settings. The makeups for the various character parts were excellent. The production passed off smoothly and without a hitch as though a veteran stage manager were pulling the strings behind the scenes. The audiences were delighted and expressed their approbation frequently during the performances.

Justinian Babbitt, a college professor of a type that is said to be rapidly disappearing, is elderly and eccentric. In his youth he wrote a Roman tragedy, unproduced. Marcus Brutus Snap happens along. M. B. Snap is a fine figure of a man when he has had three square meals in succession. Such luck is not always for M. B., however. Brother Snap has Booth and all the rest of the theatrical galaxy of stars in eclipse. He said so, himself. Snap produces the play. The first two acts are such a dismal failure that Snap and the professor leave the theater only to learn later that the show ended in a triumph.

Professor Babbitt has a strenuous time keeping the news of the production from his wife and daughters. He does not entirely succeed which adds to the involved plot. His wife is general manager of the household and she has a prejudice against theaters which piles a further burden of discomfiture on the learned man. Dr. Henry Damask, a good man and true, has been invested with a past and he has a difficult time in convincing Angelica Rabbitt that he has not left broken hearts scattered about two continents. Jack Mulberry falls in love with Niobe Babbitt. Jack has a rich father who has a penchant for the cruel and unusual. The father is slow about sending remittances and Jack is forced to extract a precarious living from the thespic art. He successfully wooes the young woman and he doesn't lose any time about it, either. Fortunately father comes to bat at a propitious moment with a full pay envelope for Jack and a London theater for M. Brutus Snap.

Leslie Hubbell was the strutting, posing, underfed, but optimistic Marcus Brutus Snap. Mr. Hubbell's makeup was a work of art and made every barber in the audience want to get at him. Mr. Hubbell's acting was excellent and his enunciation of the subtleties emphasized the humor of his part.

Probably the most finished work was by Stanley Lamb. Mr. Lamb has had professional experience and he was fully up to expectations. He had what probably was the most difficult role on account of the varied and complex situations in which he was the pivotal character, As Dr. Henry Damask he gave a splendid performance.

Frank E. Randall as Prof. Justinian Babbitt had an exceedingly large number of "sides" to learn, the professor doing considerable talking before "A Night Off" is successfully unraveled. Mr. Randall successfully interpreted the mild, harmless old college professor with an ideal or two which he worshipped but who bowed to his wife in more material things.

Jack Mulberry, an unaffected wholehearted youth, was naturally played by William Harold Guernes. His mannerisms were quite distinctive and he made a hit with the feminine part of the audience. Percy J. Chinnick was entirely satisfactory as Mulberry, senior. Mr. Chinnick's part was briefer than any of the others but he made the most of it successfully.

Mrs. Jay Cooke Howard was Susan, a bubbling effervescence of a maid of all work who, when her nose was not into everything, had a strained ear where she could hear the bubbling of the plot. Generally, however, she had a finger thrust deep into it. Mrs. Howard brought to her natural art the benefit of applied art. Her make-up was ludicrous. She made one of the hits of the evening.

Mrs. Fred Rollins as Mrs. Zantippe Babbitt, wife of the professor, was an austere, plain spoken, firm-minded woman. When she put her foot on anything including the professor, all the king's horses and all the king's men could not compel her to change her decision. There was nothing lacking in Mrs. Rollins' performance, which was as finished as though she were a professional.

Miss Edna Cargill was Angelica, the elder daughter of the professor. She had a fine time trying to find a part in the life of Doc Damask and it is suspected that she was a bit peeved when she found the Doc was pastless. Miss Cargill was an airy, fairy miss who put the doc on a pinnacle one moment and had him in hot water the next.

Miss Frank Paine was a wholehearted, natural girl who looked upon life through the eyes of a girl and to whom obstacles only existed to be instantly eradicated. She made the wooing task of Jack Mulberry easy for him and through her cleverness she got her father and Doc Damask off to the professor's show despite the opposition of her mother and her sister. Also, she herself went. Miss Paine was the central figure in a difficult situation or two and she was equal to the demands upon her.

WEST END SEWER WORK BEING RUSHED

Five Jobs Now Under Way in the West End.

Five different sewer jobs, aggregating in cost $13,000 are under way in the Seventh ward and the contractors expect the work to be completed the next two weeks. The sewers which are under construction are on Wellington, Wicklow, Restormel and Gilbert streets and on Restormel alley.

Water mains are also being extended in this district. One is now being laid on Wellington street between Grand Forks and Pacific avenues, and on Restormel street from Third street to Pacific avenue. The water main extensions represent an outlay of about $5,000.

Several other extensions of the water system and the sewers are also planned for this vicinity.

BOY BREAKS HIS LEG WHILE STEALING RIDE.

While trying to catch a ride on a lumber wagon yesterday Frankie, 5-year-old son of Mrs. M. Johnson of 1536 West Michigan street caught his foot in the spoke of the hind wheel and fractured his leg near the thigh.

The wagon was moving slowly and the driver did not notice any thing wrong until he heard the child's cries. Dr. L. Q. Greeley set the limb and the child was sent to St. Luke's hospital.

Mrs. Johnson, mother of the boy, is a widow with two other children and is having a hard time to make a living. The poor commissioner has ordered that the boy be cared for at the hospital at the county's expense.

WILL DISCUSS THE WATER RATES.

Alleged unfair water rates, by which the small consumer is said to be discriminated against in favor of the large consumer, will be the subject of a discussion this evening at a meeting of the joint committee from the West End, Central and East End Hillside Improvement clubs.

Each club will have two or three representatives on the committee. The question of extending the water system up the hillside at the West end will also be taken up.

MISSIONARY TELLS OF WORK IN CHINA.

Rev. W. Hagquist, one of the party of missionaries who were the first to enter the province of Shen Si, China, nineteen years ago, and who has since that time made his headquarters at Fian, capital of the province, spoke yesterday at the Swedish Mission church, Twenty-first avenue west and Second street. Rev. Mr. Hagquist recently returned from the Orient.

In his talk he stated that a great work was being accomplished by missionaries in China and spoke of the great need for more missionaries and money to advance the work.

At the present time, Rev. Mr. Hagquist is acting as traveling secretary for the Scandinavian Alliance with headquarters at Chicago. He expects to ultimately return to China to resume the mission work.

BLANKETS AND STOVES NEEDED

Fire Sufferers Have Plenty of Food and Clothing.

Blankets and stoves are now the chief need of the fire sufferers at Baudette, according to M. E. Pierce, who was sent to the scene by the local committee in charge of the last car of clothing. He stated in a letter to Chairman Phil Bevis that the goods are being distributed from the cars, but that a frame shed is now being erected, which will be ready for use in a short time. The letter follows:

Baudette, Minn., Oct. 14, 1910.

Mr. Bevis, Dear Sir: I got here with that car O. K., and turned it over to the mayor and Col. Resche, who are in charge of the distribution of the goods.

"There are several cars of provisions and clothing here just now; in fact, more than they can take care of. They have no house in which to stow or sort out the goods. We are distributing the stuff right from the cars.

"They started putting up a large frame building this morning and expect to have it ready tomorrow, so when they get that building ready we can deliver the goods to better advantage.

"There seems to be lots of clothing and provisions here for the present. Blankets and stoves are the things most needed. We have had several people asking for stoves and blankets. As far as I know the people are well taken care of. I am, yours truly,

"M. E. PIERCE."

TAFT TO HELP TEDDY IN NEW YORK CAMPAIGN.

Beverly, Mass., Oct. 17. — President Taft is going to do all he can to help Col. Roosevelt win victory for the Republican state ticket in New York. This fact was evidenced when it became known that the president will ask two or three members of his cabinet to assist in the New York campaign.

Mr. Taft, it is said, takes no stock in the stories that have been widely circulated that Col. Roosevelt will oppose him as a candidate in 1912. The matter has been brought to his attention by a number of callers during the summer, but the president has laughed away the suggestion. Others close to the administration do not share the president's view. The president declines to discuss the possibilities of the situation from any angle.

MISTAKES IN SUIT BUILDING

Result from poor materials, machine cut, by the hundreds and made by indifferent workers in a limited time. Any hand-work, of course, (except bastings) is out of the question. Never expect lasting wear or continued good looks from such suits.

If you do, it will be only a matter of a short time till you change your mind—in a hurry.

There are more of this kind floating around this year (owing to recent wage troubles in New York) than ever.

The average medium-priced Suits featured by less careful stores, will not stand comparison from the standpoint of the particular and exclusive shop.

In their way, they stand up well enough till they get damp and then they wilt—the new lines prest into them with a hot iron disappear: leaving them limp and shapeless.

S. & B. Suits Excel—

in the inexpensive, medium and exclusive lines.

They are hand-tailored—where hand tailoring helps. Their lines depend on the cut and shaping as opposed to the hot-iron process.

Every imaginable type of woman can be fitted here to the suit that becomes her best.

YOUNG MAN IS SUICIDE

Duncan N. Thompson, Former Duluthian, Takes His Own Life.

Body Is Brought From Hines, Wis., for Burial Here.

Duncan N. Thompson, 30 years of age, a former resident of Duluth, committed suicide near his home near Hines, Wis., Saturday morning by shooting himself. The body was found yesterday by the young man's father, H. M. Thompson, and some neighbors, and was brought to Duluth for burial.

The young man had been ill Friday, but was thought to be better Saturday. Saturday morning the elder Mr. Thompson went out on the farm to work. When he returned, his son was not at home, but it was thought he had gone to Hayward as he intended. When he did not return Saturday night, the family became alarmed and a search was started yesterday morning.

In the woods a short distance from his home, the body of the young man was found. From the position, it was evident that he had sat down on a log, with the muzzle of the gun pointing at his head. He had pushed the trigger with his foot, the charge entering his head.

The young man was unmarried, was well educated and bore a good reputation. No explanation can be found for his deed except that he was temporarily deranged.

The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from Crawford's undertaking rooms. Burial will be in Forest Hill cemetery.

The Thompson family lived in Duluth for a number of years, the elder Mr. Thompson having been in the employ of The Herald. Besides his father, the dead man is survived by one sister, Mrs. Thomas Thompson, and two brothers, Howard and Henry Thompson.

ST. PAUL ROAD WINS BIG SUIT

Government Cannot Recover on Land Patented to That Company.

Washington, Oct. 17.—The suit by the government to recover $2.50 an acre for about 4,000 acres of land in Kossuth, Palto Alto and Dickinson counties, Iowa, claimed to have been patented erroneously to the Chicago, Minneapolis & St. Paul road, was decided today by the supreme court of the United States in favor of the road.

"DON'T SCRAMBLE IT."

William Faversham Says "Duluth" Is Too Often Mispronounced.

William Faversham, who appears tonight and tomorrow night at the Lyceum theater in "The World and His Wife," says "Duluth" and it sounds well. Every sylable is sounded and he says it as though he likes to say it. "It is a pretty name," says Mr. Faversham "and should not be scrambled. So many times I hear people say "Dah-lu'th" and "Dah-luth" as though they were in a hurry to get it out and didn't care how it sounded."

Mr. Faversham was up early this morning hunting for the aerial bridge. He got mixed up on directions and took a ride on the Seventh avenue incline instead.

When here some years ago as leading man with "The Squaw Man" company he bought the outfit he used on the stage at local hardware stores. He was forced to join the company quickly. His trunks had gone astray and he did not know what to do. Few people knew at the time that he had been engaged all day in getting his stage clothes ready and then had to go on in one of his street suits.

"But I got away with it," said Mr. Faversham this morning, which would indicate that he is not as English as he looks. He told a bell boy who he was sending on an errand to "beat it" and this is further proof.

SUPERIOR IS PROMPTLY SENTENCED

Burglar on Way to Prison Twenty-Four Hours After Crime.

The mills of justice did not grind slowly for Fred Perenia, who, after a sensational flight from a Third street rooming house this morning and a bloody fight with Patrolman Pounder, who finally captured him, pleaded guilty this forenoon in the municipal court to a charge of burglary and was sentenced to four years in the penitentiary.

The events leading up to the capture of Perenia were exciting. Perenia is a barber and according to the story of Al Webster and Gust Johnson, in whose room he was found early this morning, Perenia held them at bay with a revolver while he escaped with about $82 of their money.

The door of their room was bolted and the burglar got in through the transom. One of the men in the bed awoke to find a stranger at the bedside, picking their pockets. Webster jumped out and was told to throw up his hands.

The intruder took advantage of the situation and unbolted the door, walked out and fled. Both Webster and Johnson followed him in hot pursuit, clad in their night clothes. Patrolman Pounder, who was on Third street near Tower avenue, saw the trio and without asking questions started in pursuit of the burglar.

A personal encounter between the officer and Perenia resulted in the near-shooting of the policeman. Perenia fired a shot at the officer, but his aim was wild, the bullet grazing the latter's clothing.

When arraigned in police court, Perenia did not hesitate as to whether he would plead guilty or not guilty. He admitted the charge of burglary and was sentenced by Judge Parker. He will be taken to Waupun at once.

FLOATS FORTY MILES.

Body Found on South Shore Identified as Two Harbors Man.

That the body, found on the south shore of Lake Superior by two Billings Park boys Friday afternoon is that of Ingvald Aronsen, one of three men drowned at Two Harbors on a fishing trip about six week ago, is the belief of the authorities.

Mrs. Louise Strand, a sister of Aronsen, identified the body yesterday. The dead was was 44 years old, a carpenter by trade and is survived by a wife and family of six children in Norway and three sisters living in this country.

The man was drowned on the north shore and his body was found, forty miles across the lake, on the south shore, about a mile this side of the Amnicon river.

The funeral was held today at Two Harbors.

LOOMIS' VICTIM WILL BE BURIED HERE.

The remains of Lillian Elodie Dodge Chute, who was killed at Cortlandt, N. Y., Tuesday by Dr. L. R. Loomis and cremated at New York City, will be brought to Superior for burial. The dead woman's name was Dodge, but she had taken the name of her stepfather, Chute. The Chutes formerly made their home in Superior and Miss Nita Chute, a sister of the victim is bringing the remains back to this city. Mrs. Loomis was formerly Miss Belle Baker of Superior. Until a short time ago, Mrs. Loomis resided at the Broadway flats.

ATTEMPT AT SUICIDE NOT SUCCESSFUL.

Despondent over a love affair, Mrs. May Towsley, living at 1823 North Third street, attempted to end her life by drinking carbolic acid, last evening.

She was thwarted in her attempt at suicide by other occupants of the house and Dr. Sarazin, who was called succeeded in reviving her.

She will recover.

HOWSON FUNERAL WILL BE HELD ON TUESDAY.

John Howson, general agent for the St. Paul & Western Coal company and one of the most prominent Masons in this section died late Saturday at his home, 737 West Seventh street. He had lived in Superior for nearly thirty years.

The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock from the family residence and at 2 o'clock from the Cumming Avenue M. E. church. Interment will be at Greenwood cemetery. The ceremony will be under the auspices of the local Masons.

SAYS SUPERIOR WILL BE GIVEN FAIR SHAKE.

"Superior will get a fair deal, from the way it looks now," says Senator George B. Hudnall, speaking in reference to the grain rate complaint, in which it is said that railroads are discriminating against the Head of the Lakes in favor of the Twin Cities.

Mr. Hudnall represented the Wisconsin grain commission at the hearing of the interstate commerce commission at Aberdeen, S. D., last week. He says that Minneapolis interests are fighting hard to maintain the advantage, but expresses the firm belief that as a result of the complaint and its subsequent hearing, Superior will be benefitted.

12-YEAR-OLD GIRL SHOT BY HER OLDER BROTHER.

Bessie, 12-year-old daughter of Orrin Hammond was shot by her 14-year-old brother at the family home, Frogner, Minn., a small station about twenty miles out on the new Brooten branch of the Soo. The affair was an accident and happened Saturday night about 11 o'clock. The injured girl was brought to Superior yesterday, where the wound was dressed. It is not thought that her injuries will prove fatal.

Nelson Dewey Defeated.

Central high school football team defeated the Nelson Dewey aggregation, 21 to 5, in a fast game Saturday. The Centrals had a shade the better of it in every department of the game and had no difficulty in winning.

The Eleventh street football team defeated the Callahan Colts, 10 to 5, Saturday afternoon.

Angell Will Lecture.

Emmett Dunn Angell, supervisor of playgrounds at Worcester, Mass., formerly connected with the University of Wisconsin in the department of physical culture will deliver an illustrated lecture on "The Making of An American," Thursday evening at the Blaine school auditorium. The speaker is well known to many Superior people.

Drug Store Burglary.

By forcing a rear window, burglars entered the Red Cross drug store, 528 Tower avenue, and stole $4 in money from the till and about $12 worth of perfume and several expensive fountain pens. The burglary was discovered after Proprietor Rydell had opened the store yesterday morning.

DIETZ FAMILY DID NOT SHOOT

Attorney for Accused Claims Besieged Never Fired a Shot.

Ashland, Wis., Oct. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Attorney Rubin says in discussing the Dietz case: "The ten cases against the Dietz family come up before Judge Riordan at Hayward tomorrow. Dietz's examination will be first. He will be discharged if there is no perjury. The facts are not a single shot was fired by any of the Dietz family during the siege.

"An examination of the guns shows that they were loaded and had not been fired. The inside of the barrels was perfectly clean. Harp was not killed by any of the Dietz family. Dietz would have surrendered if Attorney General Gilbert had done properly. Dietz asked him to return his son from jail and place two deputies in charge to protect his wife. Myra never shot a gun and the charge against her is absurd. The Milwaukee Socialists will not defend Dietz as an organization. Victor Berger sympathizes with Dietz but believes he should have appealed to the ballots and not a gun."

FALL FROM SWING MAY BE FATAL

Chester Pettibone Brought From Wrenshall to St. Luke's Hospital.

Chester Pettibone, 20 years old, fell from a swing near his home at Wrenshall yesterday afternoon and sustained a fractured skull and a broken leg. He was brought to St. Luke's hospital this morning and no hope is entertained for his recovery.

JOINT SESSION OF EPISCOPAL HOUSES.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 17.—The fourth joint session of the house of bishops and the house of deputies of the Protestant Episcopal church, during the present general convention, was on the program for today. The subject to be discussed was "Church Outposts in the Island World." Prior to the joint meeting the two houses were scheduled to meet separately.

Fond du Lac Banker Dead.

Fond du Lac, Wis., Oct. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Edwin A. Carey, vice president of the First National bank of Fond du Lac, and owner of the Palmer house, is dead, aged 80.

EFFECTS OF COCAINE.

"There is no drug so fascinating in its perfect relief of discomfort, fatigue mental worriment and sense of exhaustion as cocaine," says the Medical Record. "The impression which follows from its use is that of renewed vigor and unusual capacity, as if some new force has been added.

"The first after effects following the withdrawal are of short duration and not especially painful. Later this condition increases. The pain takes on a mental activity, a species of irritative melancholia and profound exhaustion which seeks relief at all times and under any circumstances.

"Nature seems to protest against the physical and psychic injury done in the most alarming way. This is seen in the facial agony of the cocaine taker when deprived of the drug. His sufferings are internal and not seen in muscular excitement. The profound change that follows its use in the quiet face, serene satisfaction and perfect relief is evidence of its effects.

"There appears to be a more pronounced susceptibility to this drug than to alcohol or opium. Very few cases are found in which the effects are unpleasant. Many persons become alarmed when they discover its tremendous fascinating effects, and make great efforts to escape. In their efforts to accomplish this they turn to morphine spirits and other drugs.

"A great many cocaine takers in this country are poisoned by spirits and drugs and are exhausted before cocaine is taken, and the relief which this brings them is a new experience, increasing the degeneration. Cocaine addiction can be concealed for some time, hence its peulliar danger.

"Druggists, physicians and patent medicines are responsible for this new scourge of humanity. The remedy is to stop its sale, except for some specific purpose, to be noted on a public book, and where a doctor uses it freely there must be some accounting, so as to prevent its danger.

"Drinks served from the soda fountain containing cocaine are attracting increased attention by the sudden popularity and enormous sale in certain sections. When the fact is ascertained that their chief value consists in cocaine in small quantities efforts to suppress them are both difficult and doubtful. The proprietors by merely changing the name can continue the use, and if the soda fountain dealers refuse to dispense them they are frequently sold direct to the customers.

ALL KINDS.

Los Angeles Times: Mrs. Pankhurst, the militant Suffragette, praised, at a dinner at the Colony club in New York, the American department store.

"At the same time," she said, "you are not, in your department stores, such really 'universal providers' as our London stores—our Whiteley's, Harrod's and Army and Navy. There you get everything—positively everything.

"I know a lady who said to a Whiteley assistant once:

"'Where is the Brussels counter?'

"'Carpets, sprouts, or point?' the assistant asked."

Cures Coughs

After Ordinary Preparations Fail —Wonderful New Mixture Made at Home.

An investigating chemist of national reputation just recently discovered in a compound known to the medical world as essence mentho-laxene, a most wonderful virtue as a curative, laxative cough syrup, and the best part of it is, it can be made at home about 8 times cheaper than one can buy labeled cough syrups. It immediately relieves the severest cases of asthma, bronchitis, coughs and chronic colds on the lungs, and it effects a cure, too, because it has a laxative action when 8 to 10 doses are taken daily. In very short order it will loosen the tightest cough and one can feel it "taking hold" in its curative action. Obtain of the druggist, or have him order from wholesale firm 2½ ounces essence mentho-laxene. Empty it into a pint bottle. Make a syrup with a pint of sugar and a half pint of boiling water, stir and let cool. Then fill up the bottle with syrup, shake well and take a teaspoonful 8 to 10 times daily or as needed. Give children less according to age. It is very pleasant to take.

ATTENTION, SIR KNIGHTS.

All Knights of Duluth Commandery No. 18 are requested to meet at the Asylum Tuesday, Oct. 18th, at 12:45 o'clock p. m. sharp to join Superior Commandery, No. 25, as escort at funeral of Eminent Sir Knight John Howson. Special car leaves Masonic temple for Superior at 1 o'clock sharp. NEWTON H. WILSON, Commander.

At 7 a. m. the double formation stretched from the corner of Twenty-second and Lehigh avenue east on Lehigh to Twenty-first north on that thoroughfare, then west to Twenty-second and down to the place where it formed.

Third Line Formed.

This double human cordon quickly grew until a third line was formed, and at 8 a. m. the crowd started to jam about the gates and the police stepped in and brought about order.

It seemed indisputable that when the two teams met the largest crowd that ever saw a baseball game in Philadelphia would be on hand. Every reserved seat in the grandstand was sold a week ago and the comparatively few tickets that fell into the hands of speculators brought fancy prices. The two pavilions of the grandstand in Shibe park seat approximately 9,500 people. Standing room in the grandstand at $1.50 a ticket was sold to 2,500 persons just before the game started. The only other tickets on sale were those for the bleachers and for standing room behind the ropes in the field.

It had been arranged to put temporary circus seats in centerfield, but something went wrong and at the last minute today it was decided to use ropes.

The bleacher gates were opened at 11 a. m. and the entrances to the grandstands were thrown open an hour later.

Almost perfect weather prevailed, with little wind and the atmosphere much warmer than usual for this time of year.

"Feeling Fine."

As to the teams, both are ready. Manager Chance's men appeared about the corridors of the Aldine hotel and reported they were "feeling fine."

Out at Shibe park all was hurry and bustle about the grounds except in the dressing rooms. There Cornelius McGillicuddy, whose baseball name is "Connie Mack," met Capt. Davis and the other players. "Ready for anything," said Right Fielder Murphy, when Manager Mack asked them how they felt.

The opposing teams and their followers each profess utmost confidence in the result of both the opening game and of the series.

Cubs the Favorites.

While the National league club has the prestige of former victories in world's championship games and are favorites at 10 to 8 in the little betting that prevails, most of the smaller bets are at even money.

It is declared the teams are about the finest ever developed in their respective leagues. The Nationals are made up of practically the same players that won the two world's championships for Chicago from Detroit in 1907 and 1908. The Americans, on the other hand, have only six players, Pitchers Bender and Plank, First Baseman Davis and Outfielders Murphy, Hartsel and Lord, of the team which was defeated by the New York Nationals in the world's series of 1905. The other players are young men who joined the team since that time.

There was disappointment because each team will go into the games minus one of its stars. Evers will be replaced by Zimmerman, a batsman of no mean ability. Who was to take Center Fielder Oldring's place on the Philadelphia team was kept a secret. Oldring, who is a .300 batsman, a fleet fielder and a star "inside" man on the base paths, twisted an ankle last week.

Baseball at Its Best.

Each team represents the last word to be said when it comes to baseball strategy and all-round knowledge of the finest points of the game. The two leaders are recognized as past masters in the art of winning games and the great crowd expected to see baseball at its best.

Manager-Captain Chance, of course, was to play and direct his team on the field. Manager Mack, as usual, planned to occupy a secluded spot on the players' bench and direct his men from that position.

Probably never in the history of world's series games is the batting order of a team so much of a mystery as is that of the Philadelphia team. Only one man knows, and that is Connie Mack. He declared today that he would not announce who will pitch, catch or who will play left and center field. The best guess was that Bender and Thomas would be the battery. Strunk and Hartsel, Lord and McInnes are the candidates for the outfield positions.

Police Prevent Disorder.

At 10 a. m. when the gates of Shibe park were thrown open there were nearly 10,000 people assembled around the grounds. Excellent police arrangements prevented any disorder when the bleacher and field gates were opened at 11 a. m. The 10,000 people who had waited hours to get in the grounds were soon within the great enclosure.

At 12 o'clock every seat in the bleachers had been taken and the crowd overflowed into the field. Ropes had been stretched completely around the outfield except in centerfield, where a space of about 75 feet was kept clear so as not to interfere with the fielders' positions.

The space behind the ropes quickly filled. In the crowd of rooters who stood in the hot sun were many women.

Ground Rules Made.

The crowd was so dense that ground rules were made, allowing a two-base hit into the crowd.

The grandstand did not begin to fill until after 12:30 o'clock, when the holders of reserved seats came faster than the ushers could handle them.

Outside the grounds on Twenty-first and Somerset streets, are two long rows of houses, on the roofs of most of which had been erected bleachers five to ten rows high. Despite the fact that police had warned owners of the danger of crowding the roofs, all seats were sold at high prices and taken before the game started. Several of the thrifty tenants removed the sashes from the windows and erected bleacher seats in the rooms overlooking the grounds.

Some of the Philadelphia players were on the field practicing before 12 o'clock. Their work was snappy and evoked applause from the lively crowd, that was ready to cheer at anything.

Cheered Chicago Team.

At 12:33 there was a commotion on the right field side of the grounds, and a moment later the National league champions came through the passageway between the grand stand and bleachers. As the players came on the field they received a hearty welcome from the crowd. Then came a swarm of photographers and moving picture men, who immediately got busy.

The Chicago players closely watched from the bench the work of the home players as they put "ginger" into their practice, and at 1:10 p. m., when the gong sounded for the National leaguers to take the field for a half hour's practice, the Western men were given another rousing cheer.

LOVE ONLY LAW; CREED, CHRIST

U. V. Sillaway Tells of Bethel Work at First Baptist Church.

U. V. Sillaway, the famous mission worker of Milwaukee, Wis., who has been brought here by the Bethel society to help gather the needed funds for a new building, addressed the congregation of the First Baptist church yesterday morning.

Mr. Sillaway in a very simple but forceful talk told of the needs of the Duluth society and of the worthiness of the cause. At the conclusion of his talk he called upon Jack McCall, the sky pilot, and Mrs. Rogers, both of whom had been converted at the local Bethel. They told something of the work that has been done.

The speaker said that contrary to the general opinion, the men who are saved at the society meetings are well worth the effort. He said that no more enthusiastic worker is enlisted for the cause for which the society is now working, than the man or woman who has been converted there.

"It is better that he be kept at the Bethel under Christian influences than at the barrel houses," he said. "All these men need is a little love, a helping hand, and a help to better things. This old world is hungry for pure unadulterated love. I know for I have been down. No one ever invited me to go to church—they were afraid I'd come."

Mr. Sillaway told of the twenty-two women at the Bethel home. He said that eighteen of the twenty-two were mothers. "I claim that the Bethel mission is the Church of Christ, undenominational, working 365 days in the year with no law but love and no creed but Christ."

At the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon, Mr. Sillaway told of his own conversion at Grand Rapids some years ago. He said his wife had no faith in him and his own father had made the remark that there was not an honest hair in his son's head.

Mr. Sillaway wants to get together 200 business men to help in the campaign for the funds needed for the new building. He says that the campaign for the new building can yet be made a brilliant success.

NEBRASKA FRAUD APPEALS LOST

Supreme Court Refuses to Review Cases of Four Men.

Washington, Oct. 17.—The supreme court of the United States today refused to review the conviction on charges of land frauds in Nebraska of Bartlett Richards, Will G. Comstock, Charles C. Jameson and A. Triplett.

Richards and Comstock were sentenced to imprisonment for one year, and Jameson and Triplett for eight months, besides being fined.

CIGAR FACTORIES IN TAMPA OPEN

Refusal to Recognize Union Held To By Employers.

Tampa, Fla., Oct. 17.—The thirty-five cigar factories, which have been closed since the inauguration of the tobacco workers' strike on July 25, were thrown open this morning. Probably 100 men returned to work and this entering wedge will, it is believed, end the strike. Fifty automobiles, with more than 200 business men, sworn in as special officers, patroled the streets of West Tampa and Ybor City, dispersing gatherings of strikers and preventing meetings. Several arrests were made, but there has been no rioting.

The factories are opening under "open shop" rules.

The citizens' committee has guaranteed protection to employes and employers alike, and for property interests.

DEPUTIES KEEP THE OLD NAME BY ONE MAJORITY.

Cincinnati, Oct. 17.—By a majority of one vote of sixty-three dioceses voting, the laymen's division of the house of deputies defeated the resolution to change the name of the Protestant-Episcopal church by dropping the word "protestant" and adding the words "of the Holy Catholic church."

INDIAN TIMBER BRINGS MORE THAN AT LAST SALE.

Washington, Oct. 17.—A sale of 314,785,000 feet of timber for $2,709,330, an average price of $8.59 per thousand feet, has been effected by awards which the secretary of the interior made on the bids for ceded Chippewa timber in Minnesota.

The bids were submitted at Cass Lake, Minn., Sept. 15 last, and the average price this year is about $2 higher than in 1903 and 1904, when timber of a better quality was sold.

The largest awards were to J. Neils company, Cass Lake, $591,904; Thief River Falls, Minn., $604,314; Shevlin-Mathieu Lumber company, Minneapolis, $522,947; Leech Lake Lumber company, Walker, Minn., $414,807; Northland Pine company, Minneapolis, $271,433; Bemidji Lumber company, $118,000.

RIOTING MARKS CHICAGO STRIKE

Five Men Arrested and Police Use Their Clubs Freely.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—A repetition of the rioting of striking garment workers and their sympathizers Saturday, occurred today. Police used their clubs right and left. Five men were arrested. Injuries were slight.

CLOQUET STUDENTS LIKE ENGLISH TEACHER'S WORK.

Cloquet, Minn., Oct. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The senior class of the high school formally adopted the following resolution on behalf of their Shakespeare studies, the mode of studying the latter having occasioned some comment:

"We, the seniors of Cloquet high school, members of the Shakespeare class, having completed the study of 'Hamlet,' desire to express our appreciation of F. T. Persinger, our teacher of English. We feel that from the lectures on the different characters, 'Hamlet' and 'Ophelia,' in particular, we have not merely obtained insight into the ideals of life, but we also realize that the lectures have been of definite value to each of us for whatever our life work may be. We further hope that the English classics which we shall study this year may prove of the same benefit to us that our study in English thus far has been.

"Adopted in formal class meeting by unanimous vote of the senior class, consisting of twenty-eight members, this 12th day of October, 1910.

CINCINNATI BROKERS FORCED TO SUSPEND.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 17.—W. G. Fagin & Co., stock and bond brokers, today announced that they had suspended business. Dull business and the failure of customers to respond to the call for margins is given as the cause. No statement of the financial condition of the company was given out, but it is said satisfactory settlements with all customers will be made. The concern has been in business about three years.

BOY LOSES ONE EYE.

As Result of Exploding Dynamite Cap at Menominee.

Menominee, Mich., Oct. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—As the result of playing with a dynamite cap, which he tried to explode with a stone, Hans Anderson, 5 years old, will lose one eye.

WANTS POSTAL BANK AT HARMONY, MINN.

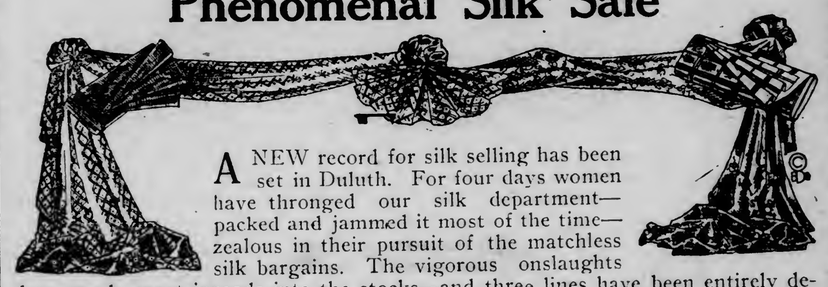

Washington, Oct. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Samuel A. Aberg, postmaster at Harmony, Minn., today filed an application with the postmaster general requesting authority to open a postal savings bank in his office.

TWELVE PERISH IN BRITISH BOAT'S WRECK.

Rio Janeiro, Oct. 17.—The British freight steamer Port Marnock is reported ashore off Cape Frio. Twelve of the crew were drowned.

The Port Marnock sailed from San Lorenzo, Argentina, on Oct. 5 for Leith, Scotland.

Now for the Wind-Up of This Phenomenal Silk Sale

A NEW record for silk selling has been set in Duluth. For four days women have thronged our silk department—packed and jammed it most of the time—zealous in their pursuit of the matchless silk bargains. The vigorous onslaughts have made great inroads into the stocks—and three lines have been entirely depleted. But the purchase was too enormous to be entirely exhausted in four days of such sensational selling.

For Tuesday there are hundreds of yards— especially good assortments of the better goods at 75c and 98c—for thrifty women to choose. We have augmented the offerings from our regular stocks—thus making Tuesday's choosing most as desirable as the first day of this wonderful sale. With such splendid silks and prices in her favor, no woman can afford not to be here when the store opens at 8 o'clock. Will you?

The Beauty Parlors and Hair Goods Department Have Won Instant Favor

TO spring into such popularity as our Beauty Parlors and Hair Goods Department did last week is a very unusual thing, even in modern retail stores like ours. Generally it requires weeks, and even months, for a new department to become so thoroughly established as these new ones now are.

But filling a long felt want in a most proficient manner—giving the people what they need and wish for, at a price that is right, will win every time. This is the condition so ably met by these new additions to this great, growing store.

In our Beauty Parlors every convenience is arranged. Each article is thoroughly sterilized after using. Rooms are arranged to give the utmost privacy. Individual cabinets are arranged for the private brushes, combs, etc., of patrons. Efficient and courteous demonstrators give careful and satisfactory service.

Our hair goods are thoroughly sanitary. Every article is genuine human hair, and selected from only the most reputable houses in the country. These goods are in their natural state and color and every new idea for the coiffure has splendid showing.

If you have not visited these new departments, come in Tuesday. No need to buy—we're so proud of them that we're delighted to have visitors. Should you need hair goods some of the following introductory offerings for Tuesday should interest you. We offer selected goods, with natural wave—

Reg. $2 Switches, 18 inches long, at 98c
Reg. $3 Switches, 20 inches long, at $1.98
Reg. $4 Switches, 22 inches long, at $2.98
Reg. $3 Chignon Puffs, only..... 98c

Regarding the Exchange of Hair Goods

FOR REASONS that will be obvious to every fastidious woman, we make it a rule never to receive back for exchange, or credit, hair goods that have once left our stock and care. We believe that our customers will appreciate the sanitary safety secured by this rule, and will support us in it. It is one of the rules to which there can be no exception. In no other way can we be assured of the cleanliness and safety of hair goods offered by us for sale.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF POLITICS AND POLITICIANS

Judge Jaques' Success Tour of Ranges Followed By Start for Southern Part of District—S. P. Snider of Minneapolis, Praises James Gray—Richard Jones Hands Standpatters a Nice Warm Roast—Clapp Not to Attend Thursday's Banquet—Politics in North Dakota.

North Dakota is pretty well stirred up over the gubernatorial issue, and among the results will be the re-election of Governor John Burke and the election in several counties of full Democratic tickets. That is the news brought to Duluth by men who have covered the western, eastern and southern sections of the state and is borne out by advices from different sources. That Burke's re-election is a certainty had long been known, so far as anything can be said to be known in advance of its happenig in politics.

The Stalwarts are carrying on a gumshoe campaign, Alex McKenzie managing the maneuvers from Bismarck. The wily old boss seems to be up against a hopeless proposition, as he has been since John Burke appeared on the scene, but he is fighting gamely and will go down with colors flying, if a bit soiled.

Burke will be elected with a majority of at least 5,000, say men who have followed the campaign closely. He is stronger than ever before with the masses of the people, and he has been getting closer to them this time than any gubernatorial candidate ever did before. Auto trips are being made to every community, and Burke is talking to the voters as a neighbor would, explaining his vetoes and other official acts that have been attacked and coming away with the public confidence in him reinforced. With Senator Purcell, Governor Burke is drawing big crowds wherever he goes.

Senator Clapp's coming speeches in Grand Forks and Fargo, on the 25th, are the subject of considerable speculation, for the reason that he, avowedly an insurgent, is going to join hands with the stalwarts of North Dakota and try to help elect reactionaries to places of power.

W. J. Bryan is to take part in the Democratic campaign in the state, briefly, but his dates have not been set, and John Lind will devote four days to the Burke cause.

Richard Jones, who was secretary of the McKnight congressional committee, was the feature of the Saturday night meeting of the West Duluth Republican club, and his speech was of a nature calculated to send a thrill of startled horror through the ranks of standpattism, for not only is Jones an insurgent, but he's right on the job, avowedly proclaiming his right, as a Republican, to refuse to support any Republican candidate of whom he cannot conscientiously approve. Roosevelt supplied the text for this talk, which was a direct slap at Congressman Miller, and when the speaker sat down it was amid loud applause.

West Duluth G. O. P. Gets a Shock.

John H. Norton, candidate for re-election as county attorney, was really the speaker of the evening, but he didn't insurge. He told about the Republican party, tipping each candidate with a word of golden praise, and made an interesting speech, designed to inspire his hearers with enthusiasm for the party's cause.

R. D. Haven, former mayor, was another speaker who appealed to the partisan speaker and L. A. Sulcove warned the club members that they were in danger of getting over-confident. There were other speakers.

Next Saturday night the chief speakers will be James P. Boyle of Eveleth, nominee for state senator, and S. W. Gilpin, candidate for judge of probate, according to present plans.

President Mallory urged those who had not secured tickets for the Young Men's Republican club banquet at the Spalding Thursday evening to get them, and a number supplied themselves with the pasteboards on this suggestion.

The editor of the Open Court is an insurgent. It seems, and he dislikes to lend aid (?) and comfort (?) to the standpatters by giving publicity in his column to the writings of a self-confessed reactionary. So, and naturally, this column is obliged to give space to the following contribution—willing, for Jack's letter to his father back home on the farm is interesting and shows that insurgency is rampant here. The letter follows:

Dear old Dad—I told you in my last letter I would look around and see if there was anything more to report. Well, there is. In the first place, Congressman Miller has not seen fit to get out and tell the people around here whether he is a progressive or a standpatter. You know what we always figure a fellow of that kind to be. He is our man, all right. A progressive is always willing to come right out flat-footed and say "I am a progressive." He seems to glory in it, and a true progressive something like that man Lenroot of Wisconsin, always tells just why he is, and he always votes just as he states he will.

In the second place, ex-Governor Lind, who was nominated by the Democrats and then had to refuse the nomination, has taken the stump for the Democratic ticket, and he sure did give us fellows a poke. You know we have no more use for Clapp than we have for a lot of other fellows of his kind, but we simply had to take him, hoping against hope that we would not have to elect him. Well, this man Lind has now made it impossible for us to do anything but support Mr. Clapp. We must do it now, whether we want to or not. And we don't want to, you know.

Mr. Lind has stated that the Democrats that would be elected in the legislature here will vote for Mr. Clapp, but that he could not say so much for the stand-pat Republicans that would be elected. He also said that Mr. Clapp was doing a good work, and doing it in a better way than he could, which is all very nice for Mr. Clapp, but how about us fellows? Where do we get off at? You know Senator Clapp has gone way back on us fellows, and went over into Wisconsin and stumped for Senator La Follette, this summer. We were doing all we could to beat La Follette, and it follows naturally that we will do all we can to beat the fellow that dares to go out and campaign for La Follette. One is about as bad as the other in a case of that kind.

There are some other thoughts I have on the subject, but will leave those until another time. Sincerely,

JACK.

Duluth, Oct. 14, 1910.

Because of the sudden death of United States Senator J. P. Dolliver, it probably will be impossible for Senator Moses E. Clapp to attend and address the banquet to be given Thursday evening by the Young Men's Republican club.

Clapp To Attend Dolliver Funeral.

Word has been received from the senator to this effect. In all probability, he will be one of the senate committee representing that body at the funeral of the distinguished Iowan. The club will endeavor to secure the presence of some other famous speaker to take Senator Clapp's place on the program. In any event, the good speakers are scheduled to talk, including C. B. Miller, J. P. Boyle and Hans B. Haroldson.

Senator Dolliver's death was the subject of conversation wherever politicians met yesterday and today. The tragic suddenness of his taking off had a bewildering effect, for he was one of the chef hopes of those who look to the federal senate for correction of existing evils in governmental affairs. Indeed, it is being said that Dolliver was the ablest and most influential of that fighting group of insurgents who made the last session of congress historic.

Governor Carroll of Iowa is a standpatter and the question as to whom he will appoint to the senate is an interesting one, but nothing has developed so far as the news dispatches show, that indicates his probable course.

Judge Jaques, after a brief rest of a day upon the conclusion of his tour of the ranges, set out this morning for Anoka, where he will make a speech at a Jaques meeting tonight. Wednesday night his opponent will speak there at a Republican meeting, for which elaborate arrangements have been made, as Sam Y. Gordon is to be the principal speaker. Tomorrow Judge Jaques will be at Bethel and St. Francis and Wednesday at Cambridge and other places in Isanti county on the following two days.

Jaques Pleased With Results of Tour.

"Conditions that came to my attention during my trip over the ranges are perfectly satisfactory to me," said Judge Jaques yesterday. "It was an enjoyable trip, despite the tiring travel. For I met a large number of people I want to know, not merely as a candidate for office, but as a resident of St. Louis county. Politically, the state of the public mind is such that my supporters in this flight undoubtedly have justification for all their confidence in my ability to defeat Mr. Miller—or, rather, in the determination of the voters to defeat him.

"The sentiment in favor of displacing the present congressman, so far as I could learn what it may be, is very strong, and the campaign, so far as it has gone, cannot but encourage me. Our audiences have been large, attentive, and composed of representative men of the different communities visited. Assurances of support were volunteered at many places where least expected.

"There will be no let-up in this fight. I went into it because of my conviction that a change was desired by the people and only after I had been earnestly urged by friends and acquaintances all through the district to do so. I have been told many times that I am right in believing that a change is desired and that I am an acceptable medium for the making of that change in the representation of this district in congress."

Judge Jaques, accompanied by W. E. McEwen, Walter F. Dacey and Thomas J. McKeon, returned yesterday from Chisholm, where the last meeting of the trip was held Saturday evening, and left the city again this morning at 6:30 o'clock to keep his engagement at Anoka.

The meeting at Chisholm Saturday night was one of the best ever held by any candidate in that town, and Judge Jaques, Mr. McEwen, Candidates McKeon (for judge of probate) and Dacey (for county attorney) addressed the audience. On this occasion Judge Jaques' speech was so forceful and convincing that he had the audienc with him from the start, and when the meeting ended he was given the heartiest of assurances of support from many of those who heard it.

Samuel P. Snider of Minneapolis, former congressman and two years ago a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, is in the city on a business visit. Mr. Snider has for many years been a commanding figure in the politics of Hennepin county, and is very well acquainted with James Gray, the Democratic nominee for governor. He says of Mr. Gray that he is a man who is loved by every one who knows him, and that he is as brilliant and able a man as ever ran for the office of governor.

Gray Praised by A Republican.

"Mr. Gray possesses many of the traits of character that made the late John A. Johnson the favorite of the people," said Mr. Snider at the Spalding this morning. "He is a lovable man and has a personality that endears him to every one with whom he comes in contact.

"Of course, Governor Eberhart is in a position of advantage, but there are counties in the west and east the action of which at the polls in November cannot be foretold. The option sentiment there is strong, and it may be that Gray's vote in the southern triple tier of counties will be so large that he will defeat Eberhart. However, that is all speculative, with no definite thing to base it on."

FLICKERTAIL POLITICS

Grand Forks, N. D., Oct. 17.—That Governor Burke has not only retained his strong hold on the people at Grand Forks and vicinity, but is stronger than ever, was well evidenced by the ovation accorded him at the big Democratic rally here Saturday evening. Two thousand people thronged the Metropolitan theater to listen to the governor, "Jones of Rock," and Tracy R. Bangs of this city. The governor was accorded a tremendous ovation and the cheering and hand-clapping lasted for fifteen minutes. The university boys, 100 strong, gathered in the gallery and made the building rock with U. N. D. and "Odz, odz, dzl." They asked the regulation "What's the matter with Governor Burke?" and decided in accord with the sentiment of all loyal North Dakotans that he is absolutely all right.

In his speech Governor Burke made a splendid impression, and in his logical and forceful way tore to tatters the flimsy arguments advanced against his administration. He pointed out the fallacy after fallacy in the attacks of his opponents, but indulged in no personalities. One by one he went through the charges regarding the appropriations for the agricultural college, for the Grafton school for the feeble-minded, for the Devils Lake school for the deaf, the appropriation for militia grounds, the so-called "salary grab," the charge that he has appointed to office nobody but Irish and only Democrats, and explained to his audience the circumstances under which he took action in the several cases, and just why he acted as he did.

The governor explained that he had first intended to retire at the end of this term, but finally decided that if he did not run, the old gang would probably be restored to power, and he became a candidate because he did not wish to see all that had been gained in his three terms go over to the old machine for their aggrandisement.

In closing, the governor called attention to what had been done by the equalization board, of which he is a member, in lowering the taxes of the people of the state. Following the close of the meeting several hundred shook hands with the governor and assured him of their hearty support.

"Jones of Rock" delivered a splendid speech on the national issues and called attention to the fact that with Hanna voting one way and Gronna the other, North Dakota really has no representation in congress. The speaker declared the proper way to solve this difficulty was to send down the two Democrats. Mr. Jones dwelt at length on the tariff and showed how the Republican party failed to keep faith with the people.

Enormous Yield of Wealth.

The 290 acres of land that are embraced in the Spindle Top, Tex., oil field have a record of producing 45,000,000 barrels of oil during the last nine years. This output had a value of more than $20,000,000 as it came from the wells. More interesting still is the fact that a malt beverage such as Golden Grain Belt beer served regularly with your meals builds up the entire system. Try a case and be convinced of the fact. SUING FOR BIG DAMAGES

John J. Gram Asks $20,000 From Northwestern Steam Boiler Works.

John J. Gram is suing the Northwestern Steam Boiler works and M. A. Ryan for $20,000 for injuries alleged to have been received by Henry Gram, his minor son, who, it is claimed, was at the time of the accident in the employ of the concern.

The complaint states that the accident happened some time during November of 1909. The boy was engaged as a helper and to do odd jobs about the place.

A hole was being dug in one of the buildings and it is claimed that young Gram was ordered to help with the digging. The earth caved in, it is alleged, and as the result, young Gram sustained injuries to his hips, chest, and collar bone.

The trial of the case began this morning before Judge J. D. Ensign of the district court.

Howard Abbott appears for the defendant and John Jenswold, Jr., for the plaintiff.

ARREST ANOTHER ONE.

Five Devils Lake Pill-Mixers Accused of Violating Law.

Devils Lake, N. D., Oct. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Matters connected with the movement against the blind-pig-element will be at a standstill until Nov. 10, when the several druggists arrested will be brought into court to show cause why their permits should not be revoked. Attorney General Miller has left and will not return until the time for the hearing.

E. Engebretzen was placed under arrest Saturday, being the fifth druggist of the city to face a criminal complaint.

ELOPES WITH LANDLADY; BOARDER IS SENTENCED.

Fergus Falls, Minn., Oct. 17.—Ole Ronning, who eloped with Mrs. Martin Johnson of Henning and was brought back from Thief River Falls, pleaded guilty before Judge Baxter in the district court and was sentenced to one year in state's prison. Mr. Ronning boarded at the Johnson home and he and Mrs. Johnson eloped and went to Dakota in August. Mrs. Johnson was also charged with a statutory offense, but she and her husband have become reconciled and she was released.

"UNEARNED INCREMENT"

Permanent Improvement Revolving Fund Has Been Steadily Growing.

Report of the Comptroller Shows an Increase of $59,000.

The permanent improvement revolving fund has increased approximately $59,000 since its inception in 1900 to Sept. 1 of the present year, according to a detailed statement which has been prepared by City Comptroller William S. McCormick.

The body of the report goes into detail with every contract which has been let in the past ten years, showing the contract price, the amount assessed and the amount now due. It is the most complete statement of the contract improvements paid for from that fund which has ever been issued. The report was asked for by the council some months ago, and the comptroller's office has been busy with it ever since.

A summary of the statement shows that 373 contracts for local improvements have been charged against the fund, representing an expenditure of $1,627,709.93, including various refunds, to which is added $19,456.64, the cost of publication of assessment notices, making a total expenditure of $1,640,765.53 to Sept. 1, 1910.

The receipts on account of payment of assessments to that date amounts to $1,872,701.14. This includes $99,504.90, proceeds from the sale of bonds issued to create the permanent improvement revolving fund. Deducting the payments as given above, the records show a balance in the fund of $231,935.61. The amount of assessments not yet levied is $74,490.09; the amount remaining unpaid on the assessment rolls is $54,281.30 and the amount of the unpaid assessments certified to the county auditor is $29,161.80, which bring the total up to $389,868.80. The amount unpaid on contracts is $231,172.16, leaving the net balance in the fund $158,696.64. Subtracting the amount raised by the sale of bonds to create the fund gives the sum which the fund has gained, or made, since it was started. Most of this comes from the 10 per cent which is added to the contract price to cover supervision, etc., and from the penalties which are attached for delinquent payments.

LIGHTNING STRIKES HOME; GLASS BROKEN—DOG KILLED.

Crookston, Minn., Oct. 17. — During the thunder storm of Wednesday evening the fine farm house of Nick Weiland, living east of Euclid, was struck by lightning, breaking every pane of glass in the house and severely scorching the window casings. The dog, which was in the house for the night, was killed, but the family fortunately all escaped injury, although they were rather seriously frightened.

TELEPHONE HELPS IN CHECK ARTIST'S CAPTURE.

Anamoose, N. D., Oct. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charged with attempting to obtain money under false pretenses by presenting a check for $2,000 drawn on the First National bank of this city under the name of "Arthur Hopkins," John Schroth of this city is under arrest.

He was taken into custody at Sawyer, where he attempted to turn the trick, the use of the telephone by the bank officials bringing about his arrest. At Velva a similar attempt at securing money had been made, a $3,000 check being used in that instance. It was not successful.

FESSENDEN, N. D., STORE CLEANED BY BURGLARS.

Fessenden, N. D., Oct. 17.—(Special to The Herald.) — Approximately $600 worth of merchandise was stolen from the Bohnet Bros. & Co. general store in this city by burglars who gained admission through the removal of a panel in the door. Pocket knives, razors, furlined coats, suits of clothes, gloves, caps, small jewelry and other articles comprise the loot. The manner in which the work was done and the selection of booty made by the burglars is such as to lead the police to believe that the job was done by amateurs.

BRUNDIGE EXONERATED.

Wisconsin Man Who Killed Another Is Set Free.

Rhinelander, Wis., Oct. 17.—The coroner's jury decided that Alex Garvey, a "shacker" near Wolf lake, was shot and killed by Bill Brundige in self-defense. Brundige was freed. The shooting, it is said, was the outcome of a long quarrel. Garvey shot at Brundige, it is said, who returned the fire, killing Garvey, although he himself was wounded and may die.

SEEK YOUNG AGENT.

Alleged to Have Skipped From Sartell With Railroad's Coin.

St. Cloud, Minn., Oct. 17.—Detective Callahan of the Northern Pacific detective force has been in the city conferring with the local police as to the whereabouts of Ervin Gilman, late station agent for the Northern Pacific at Sartell, who is alleged to have skipped out last Wednesday with between $150 and $175 of the company's money. Gilman has been missed since Wednesday, but it was not discovered until Thursday that he was short in his accounts.

Gilman is about 24 years of age. He is a graduate of the St. Cloud high school and has been working as station agent at Sartell for over a year. Drink has evidently been the cause of his downfall. He was a young man of good habits before he took the position, but fell in with evil companions who influenced him for the worse. He took to drinking and it is thought that he stole the money while under the influence of liquor.

TRAIN EXCEEDED LIMIT

When It Struck and Killed Woman at Melrose, Minn.

St. Cloud, Minn., Oct. 17.—The coroner's jury in the inquest into the death of Mr. Catherine Hinnenkamp, who was killed Thursday morning, at Melrose, by a Great Northern train, returned a verdict to the effect that the deceased came to her death by the aforesaid cause and that she train exceeded the speed limit. She was struck in the forehead, a fracture of her skull resulting, causing instant death.

The deceased was 61 years of age and was the mother of eight children, the youngest of whom is 18 years of age. The family formerly lived on a farm but moved to the city a few months ago to make their home there for the rest of their days.

ST. PAUL SHERIFF FACING BIG SUIT.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 17.—The suit brought by Edward H. Hill against Sheriff William A. Gerber to recover $40,000 alleged damages for false arrest, will be called in Madison, Wis., on Dec. 4, according to Chief Deputy Payte. The suit originated three years ago as a result of proceedings in which the sheriff attached several racehorses at that time being exhibited at the state fair.

THREE KILLED IN WRECK IN ONTARIO.

North Bay, Ont., Oct. 17.—In a head-on collision between the Imperial Limited westbound and a stock train at Geneva, six miles west of Cartier on the Canadian Pacific railway, three men of the engine crew were killed. The dead:

AN ABSOLUTE NECESSITY

So Thinks at Least One Traveling Man.

I would as soon think of starting out without my mileage books and grip as to start out on a trip without a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in my valise, said a traveling man who represents a St. Louis hardware house. Why? Because I have to put up at all kinds of hotels and boarding houses. I have to eat good, bad and indifferent food at all hours of the day and night and I don't believe any man's stomach will stand that sort of thing without protest, anyway I know mine won't. It has to have something to break the fall and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the crutch I fall back on.

My friends often "josh" me about it, tell me I'm an easy mark for patent medicine fakers, that advertised medicines are humbugs, etc., but I notice that they are nearly always complaining of their aches and pains and poor digestion, while I can stand most any old kind of fare and feel good and ready for my work when it needs me, and I believe I owe my good digestion and sound health to the daily, regular use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, year in and year out, and all the "joshing" in the world will never convince me to the contrary.

I used to have heartburn about three times a day and a headache about three or four times a week and after standing for this for four or five years I began to look around for a crutch and found it when my doctor told me the best investment I could make would be a fifty-cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and I have invested about fifty cents a month for them ever since and when I stop to think that that is what I spend every day for cigars, I feel like shaking hands with myself for I can keep my stomach and digestion in first-class order for fifty cents a month. I don't care for any better life insurance.

My druggist tells me they are the most popular of all stomach medicines and that they have maintained their popularity and success because they do as advertised. They bring results, and results are what count in a patent medicine as much as in selling hardware.

SEPTIC TANK MAY SOLVE PROBLEM

Water at Ensign School Will Be Boiled and Cooled.

Experts who have been examining the water supply problem at the Ensign school, Twenty-third avenue west and Tenth street, believe that they have found a solution, which will likely be put into operation during the week.

Under the proposed plan a small septic tank will be installed in the school, with pipes connecting with the boilers. During the night all water used for drinking purposes will be boiled and cooled, and ready for consumption the next day. It was at first thought that it would be necessary to connect with the city mains, at an expense of $30,000. It is estimated that the proposed plan will cost but $200 to $300.

Usually sufferers from backache, bladder trouble or out-of-order kidneys are relieved after several doses of Pape's Diuretic.

The time to cure kidney trouble is while it is only trouble—before it settles into Dropsy, Gravel, Diabetes or Bright's Disease.

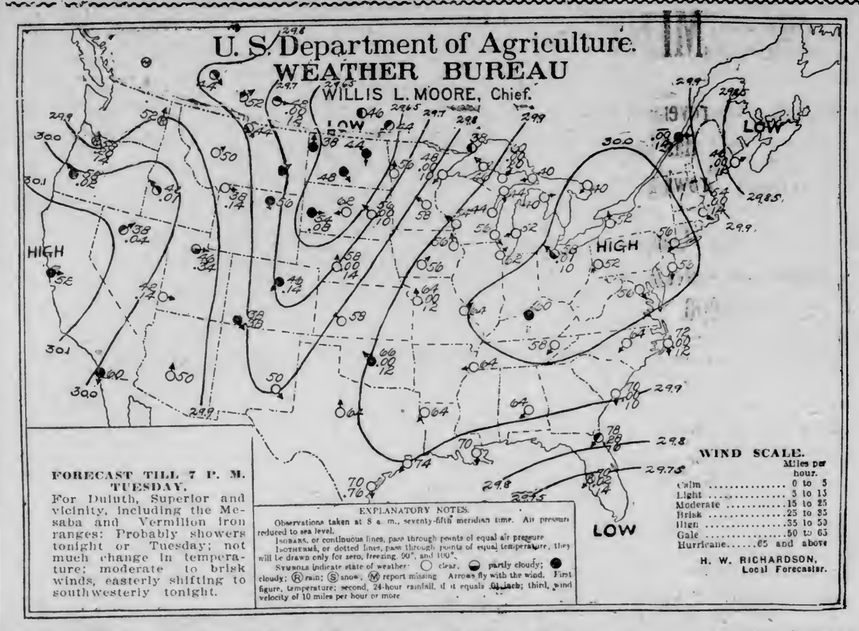

The moment you suspect any kidney or urinary derangement, or feel a constant, dull backache, or notice that the urine is thick, cloudy, offensive or full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, you should begin taking Pape's Diuretic as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other remedy at any price, made anywhere else in the world, which will effect so thorough and prompt a cure.

Pape's Diuretic acts directly upon the kidneys, bladder and urinary system; cleanses, heals, vitalizes and regulates these organs, ducts and glands and completes the cure within a few days.

Misery in the back, sides or loins, sick headache, inflamed or puffy eyelids, nervousness, rheumatism and darting pains, heart palpitations, prostatic trouble, bilious stomach, dizziness sleeplessness, listless, worn-out feeling and other symptoms caused by inactive, sluggish kidneys, simply vanish. Uncontrollable urination (especially at night), smarting, discolored water and all bladder misery ends.

Your physician, pharmacist, banker or any mercantile agency will vouch for the responsibility of Pape, Thompson & Pape of Cincinnati, Ohio, who prepare Pape's Diuretic — 50 cent treatment—sold by every druggist in the world.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

RAIN

The weather man held a remnant shower Saturday and yesterday Duluth being the recipient of left-over portions of June, July and August weather. June days in June may be rare, but June days in October are rarer and yesterday was one. The parks were thronged, the woods swarmed with lovers of the open air and Duluthians enjoyed themselves as it is given to few people to gain pleasure in October. Truly, the weather man says showers will probably fall tonight or tomorrow.

Gray autumnal weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 6:29 and it will set at 5:18 this evening, giving ten hours and forty-nine minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Barometric depressions are central over the West Indies, off the North Atlantic coast and over the Red river valley. During the last twenty-four hours rains resulted over the Gulf of Mexico, the Rocky mountains, Platian region, Washington and Oregon, while throughout the Northwest there has been a general rise in temperature, an increase in pressure over the Eastern lake region and North Atlantic states is attended by cooler weather. The barometer is high over the Ohio valley and off the California coast. The easterly movement of the depression overlying the Red river valley will probably be attended by showers at the Head of the Lakes during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Tuesday.

Upper Michigan—Increasing cloudiness with probably showers tonight or Tuesday; warmer in east and south portions tonight; cooler Tuesday afternoon or night.

Wisconsin—Fair tonight; Tuesday unsettled with probably showers in latter part of day or night; cooler.

Minnesota—Unsettled with probably showers tonight or Tuesday; cooler Tuesday.

Iowa—Partly cloudy with probably showers late tonight or Tuesday.

North Dakota—Local showers tonight or Tuesday.

South Dakota—Unsettled with probably showers tonight or Tuesday; cooler tonight.

Montana—Showers tonight or Tuesday; cooler in south portion tonight.

Upper lakes—Moderate winds, mostly south; fair tonight; Tuesday increasing cloudiness with showers on Superior.

STANLEY KETCHEL DIES OF WOUND

Pugilist Succumbs After a Brief Rally at Hospital.

Springfield, Mo., Oct. 17. — Stanley Ketchel, champion middleweight pugilist of the world, died here Saturday night at 7:05 o'clock as a result of being shot by Walter A. Hurtz, a ranch hand.

An hour before he died, Ketchel regained consciousness. There was then thought to be a slight chance for his recovery. His condition soon took a decided change for the worse, however, and he died quickly.

In the Springfield hospital, where he had been rushed on a special train chartered by Mr. Dickerson. Three physicians were on the train. An operation was performed on Ketchel at the ranch house in an attempt to locate the bullet. It was not found.

A report from Conway is that a 22-caliber bullet, the same pattern as that which inflicted Ketchel's wound, was found on the floor of the room in which the shooting took place. It is thought there is a possibility of this being the bullet that killed Ketchel.

BANCROFT'S NAME GOES ON BALLOT

Wisconsin Supreme Court Also Upholds 20 Per Cent Law.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 17.—The Wisconsin supreme court late Saturday handed down two decisions of political importance, when it ordered the name of Levi H. Bancroft placed upon the official ballot as the Republican nominee for attorney general and sustained the "20 per cent' provision of the primary law. However, Judge Bancroft won his nomination by the narrow majority of one, three out of the seven justices — Chief Justice Kerwin, Justices Siebecker and Timlin dissenting. In the 20 per cent case, Chief Justice Winslow and Justice Timlin dissented.

The court's action in the Bancroft case displaced Charles H. Crownhart of Superior, who was La Follette's campaign manager during the primary campaign, and who was chosen as Republican nominee by the new state central committee in the place of Frank T. Tucker, deceased.

The majority of the court, in ordering Bancroft's name placed upon the ticket, holds that the provisions of the general election law relating to the filling of vacancies on a ticket were "not imported" into the primary election law and hence do not apply to primary elections. It also holds that the mass of the voters knew Tucker was dead before they cast their ballots and that "votes which are in form cast for a deceased person by voters who knew the fact of his decease cannot be considered as votes for or against any person, but must be regarded as so much blank paper."

MRS. POTTER SPEAKS ON FIRST KING OF ISRAEL.

Mrs. Frances Squire Potter occupied the pulpit at Pilgrim Congregational church yesterday morning, her subject being "Saul." Mrs. Potter again demonstrated her familiarity with the history of Israel and she presented a vivid characted study of its first king.

Mrs. Potter took up the rise of the kingdom and followed its short-comings. Her descriptions were delightful and she drew an especially beautiful word picture of the Israel of Biblical times and the Israel of today.

Mrs. Potter has been in Duluth for some time giving a series of lectures under the auspices of the Twentieth Century club. Her address yesterday was enlightening as was that on "The Prophets of Israel," which made an excellent impression when given before the club.

IS ARRESTED IN TOLEDO

Max Gottschalk Is Held for the Local Authorities.

Max Gottschalk, arrested last month with Julius Weinberg on the charge of attempted grand larceny and who jumped his $300 bail, was arrested at Toledo, Ohio, Saturday afternoon for the Duluth authorities, according to a wire received by Chief Troyer.

It is alleged that Gottschalk and Weinberg, both of whom have been indicted by the grand jury, tried to induce D. W. Cusick to deposit $150 to their account in one of the local banks in return for which they were to give him a position as collector in Duluth and Superior. They represented that they had placed many orders with barber shops for a corn cure and barber supplies and it was to be his duty to get the money for them.

When they refused to accept a bond, Cusick sensed a "nigger in the woodpile." He reported the affair to the police and the arrest of the two followed. Each of them deposited $300 bail for his appearance. Gottschalk left the city. The Chicago police learned the numbers of his baggage checks, by means of which he was traced to Toledo. He went to the Windy City from here. It is stated he will fight extradition.

FRENCH AIRSHIP LANDS IN LONDON

Takes Six Hours for Trip Trains and Boats Make in Seven.

London, Oct. 17.—Another chapter was added to the history of aerial navigation Sunday, when the French dirigible balloon Clement-Bayard made the voyage from Compiegene to London in the remarkable time of six hours, a journey requiring seven hours by the fastest express trains and boats. Compiegene is forty-five miles northeast of Paris and about 195 miles by air route to London.

This is also the first occasion on which a dirigible balloon has crossed the English channel. The over-water route occupied forty-five minutes.

The Clement-Bayard, with a crew of six aboard, left Compiegene at 7:15 o'clock Sunday morning and reached London without a stop at 1:15 o'clock in the afternoon. The atmospheric conditions were perfect and the big airship traveled with a slight breeze behind. The behavior of the dirigible was splendid, and the 440-horse power engine worked to perfection. The crew experienced no discomfort and were only troubled by the haze and mist in crossing the channel.

Cheered by Thousands.

A most uneventful voyage it was, with nothing to interrupt the smooth swinging motion of the balloon which each hour averaged close to 33½ miles. An altitude varying from 300 to 700 feet was maintained and all along the flight over the land the aeronauts were cheered by thousands of spectators who had gathered at various points. The railway from Folkestone was followed and the Clement-Bayard flew right through the heart of London, circling St. Paul's beautifully on the way. The balloon made a safe and easy landing at Wormwood Scrubs.

The dirigible carried M. Clement of the Clement-Bayard firm, in command; Baudrey and Le Prince, steersmen, Leballer, engineer and designer, two mechanics, and Arthur Philip Du Cros, member of the British parliament, representing the British parliamentary aerial defense committee. Only these seven were aboard, although the airship can accommodate thirty-nine passengers in addition to the crew. The balloon was steered readily by aid of the compass.

Occasional wind gusts caused some slight rocking of the balloon, but otherwise she proved steady. The French government provided three torpedo boat destroyers, which proved of great assistance in crossing the channel.

Surprised London Crowds.

The balloon arrived over London just as the streets were filled with the great Sunday crowds leaving the churches. The appearance of the monster over the housetops caused the people to wonder and hundreds gathered to watch the aeronauts, who now experienced some trouble with the varying air currents. On this account they circled St. Paul's and the Tower bridge twice, dipped several times and flew close to the tops of buildings.

They passed over the houses of parliament and along to Hyde park, where there was a wild scramble of spectators.

The dirigible landed safely after describing large descending circles, aided by a detachment of soldiers.

WINS TITLE FROM NOODLES FAGIN

New York Newsboy Makes 2,000 Mile Trip and Now Is "King."

New York, Oct. 17.—"New York looks good to me," declared Harry Blanche, a 19-year-old newsboy, as he arrived in the city after a 2,000-mile trip through the United States and Canada, in the making of which he wrested the title of "King of Newsboys" from "Noodles" Fagin of Pittsburg. It was with the intention of winning the title that Blanche started out June 1, comfortably seated on the softest portion of the platform of a "blind baggage."

His first objective point was Reno, where he sold newspapers and lemonade at the ringside during the Jeffries-Johnson fight. Afterwards he visited the Pacific coast, then journeyed back to Denver, and turning south he went through Texas and on to New Orleans, from Louisiana he went to Winnipeg and then again southward to Jacksonville, Fla. Leaving Florida Blanche visited St. Louis and finally took a zig-zag course back to New York.

In every place he visited Blanche obtained a newsboy's badge, and when he alighted from the train yesterday, he wore more decorations than a bandmaster. The boy says he traveled always on passenger trains, as the freights were too slow to suit his taste.

EIGHTEEN DEPUTIES CONVICTED OF KILLING.

Greensburg, Pa., Oct. 17.—After more than thirty-six hours' deliberation, a jury has returned a verdict finding eighteen deputy sheriffs guilty of voluntary manslaughter. They are accused of killing Paul Reno, miner, in a strike riot last May. These are the first convictions resulting from several trials in connection with mine troubles. Only two of the deputy sheriffs found guilty were able to furnish bail. The others were sent to jail pending sentence and efforts to get a new trial.

Murder Over Dog's Death.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 17.—Because John Land, a farmer, killed his dog and refused to pay for the animal, James Hunt, also a farmer, shot and killed Land Sunday. Hunt was captured and is held in the county jail.

RUSSELL ESTATE CASE TO BE TAKEN UP SOON.

Boston, Oct. 17.—The second trial to establish the identity of Daniel Blake Russell of Dickinson, N. D., will be reached in the supreme court by Wednesday of this week. Both sides in the identity fight, which involves a $500,000 fortune left by Daniel Russell of Melrose, are confident.

Senator Leslie Simpson of North Dakota, attorney for the claimant, declares he is fully prepared to establish Dakota Dan's identity. Frederick Almy, cousin of Daniel Blake Russell, who disappeared from his Melrose home a quarter of a century ago, claims to have strengthened his testimony that the Dakota man is an imposter.

It is said that the California claimant, known as Fresno Dan, will be put upon the stand.

PUNISHES FOUR CADETS FOR HAZING.

Annapolis, Oct. 17.—Supt. Bowyer of the naval academy has announced the punishment imposed upon Midshipmen J. W. Anderson, Howard Bede, Kenifer Garnett and William O'Brien for indulging in hazing. All were members of the senior class, and each is given 100 demerits and Anderson and Garnett, who were officers of the rigade, are given twenty-five extra marks and reduced in rank for neglect of duty in not suppressing the hazing, in which they participated. O'Brien, who was manager of the football team, is removed from that position.

In addition to the above punishment, all four of the midshipmen are denied the right to go to the Army-Navy football game and will be confined to the academy limits until further orders.

OPERATOR FORGETS; FIVE MEN KILLED.

Augusta, Ga., Oct. 17.—Five were killed and seventeen injured when two trains on the Charleston & Western Carolina crashed together at full speed last evening two miles south of McCormick, S. C. It is said that the operator at McCormick failed to deliver "meet orders" for the south-bound train. The dead:

ENGINEER ARIZONA RIVERS, Augusta.

FIREMAN JIM SPROWLES, colored, Augusta.

FIREMAN JAMES WARE, colored, Augusta.

MAIL CLERK W. F. ACKER, Anderson, S. C.

HOWARD SEARLES, colored, porter, Augusta.

Shortly after the wreck, Operator Browden at McCormick, it is said, telegraphed the Augusta office of the road and stated that he was so busy selling tickets that he forgot to show the signal to stop the southbound train for Augusta for orders.

Alabaster Mills Burn.

Alabaster, Mich., Oct. 17.—The Mammoth mills, dock and warehouses of the United States Gypsum company burned to the ground Saturday with an estimated loss of more than $400,000. The origin of the blaze is not known. This village contains about 1,000 inhabitants and is practically dependent on the mills for existence.

Life is too short to miss a kindness, too long to cherish hate. —Henry F. Cope.

SHALL THE PEOPLE OR THE CORPORATIONS RULE IN MINNESOTA?

That, in a nutshell, is the issue in the state campaign in Minnesota.

It is the same issue that stalks broad through the nation, demanding that it be solved before there can be rest and peace.

It is the same issue that threw the Republicans out of office in Maine, where they had ruled ever since there was a Republican party.

It is the same issue that has carried the primary elections in Michigan, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa and Wisconsin, and that has swept the agents of corporate greed out of power in practically all the Middle Western states except Minnesota.

The Democratic candidate for governor of Minnesota, James Gray, stands squarely upon the broad, fundamental principle of popular government.

He demands that the people shall be given the power to pass laws when the legislature, shackled by corporation rule, refuses to act.

He demands that the people shall be given the power of veto when the legislature, directed by corporate gluttony, passes laws which infringe on the people's rights.

He demands that the people shall be given the power to discharge unfaithful public servants by the use of the ballot.

He demands that the system of direct nomination shall be extended to state offices and the United States senatorship, taking these offices out of the control of boss-ruled conventions.

He demands that the principle of the income tax be adopted, so that taxation may be adjusted according to each man's ability to pay and not, as at present, according to each man's needs. He demands that taxation shall be on incomes, and not on consumption.

The Republican candidate for governor, Mr. Eberhart, is silent on these issues. The plattorm on which he stands also is silent on these issues. Candidate and platform were drafted by the subtle hand that has directed the cause of the corporations in the Minnesota senate, and that seeks to extend its control to the governorship and all the offices filled by the governor.

Adolph Eberhart, in this campaign, is nothing but the stalking horse of corporation rule. The strong hand is not his, but that of the smiling, genial, suave and likable Ed Smith who made Eberhart lieutenant-governor, who controlled his acts as lieutenant-governor, who smoothed away opposition and insured his nomination for governor, who brazenly assumed the reins of government as party chairman, and who will absolutely rule his puppet if that puppet is elected to the governorship.

Ed Smith was the agency which conducted the cause of the corporations in the legislature. Ed Smith is the agency which rules the Republican state campaign. Ed Smith will be the agency which rules the administration if Eberhart is elected. That means that there will be no concessions to popular government, no concessions to the people's need of corporation control, no concessions to the people's demand for justice and self-government.

Nowhere in the country, in this year of grace nineteen hundred and ten, is the issue more clear between people's rule and corporation rule than it is in Minnesota. There is no attempt to disguise it. There is no hint even of compromise. Standpatism and reaction of the most flagrant type are offering themselves boldly and undisguised to the voters of Minnesota, and hoping to receive their suffrages.

The victory of Eberhart and Smith would place Minnesota alongside Rhode Island as a state absolutely controlled by the forces of reaction.

Is Minnesota to become the Rhode Island of the West?

TAXING THE WASHWOMAN.

The hand of tariff greed reaches far, and the insatiable appetite that guides it knows none too poor and needy to be exempted from its remorseless toll-taking.

Charles Johnson Post thus introduces an article in the New York World which shows how even the humble washwoman who does your laundry is put into the tariff press and made to yield profits to the powers that govern tariff-making in their own interests:

"When the wrinkled, chapped laundress finishes the week's wash and delivers it Saturday night she has received during her week's labor the following blessings from the Payne-Aldrich tariff." And then he goes on to show what the washwoman contributes out of her hard-earned pay to the support of the system of tariff brigandry.

On her soap she is tariff-taxed 20 per cent. On the wrapper in which the soap comes she is taxed 25 per cent. On the ammonia that helps to keep the flannels soft she is taxed another 25 per cent. The washing soda is taxed a quarter of a cent a pound. The starch is taxed by the tariff 1½ cents a pound, and the borax 2 cents a pound. The bluing is protected by a 30 per cent tariff.

The wringer through which she puts the clothes is taxed a cent a pound on the metal castings, 35 per cent on the wooden frame, and 35 per cent on the rubber rollers.

The washboard is taxed by the tariff 35 per cent, and the ribbed zinc that covers it is taxed 1⅝ cents a pound. She dumps the damp clothes into a wicker clothes basket that has been tariff-taxed 35 per cent.

The clothes line on which she hangs the clothes to dry is tariff-taxed 45 per cent, and she fastens them with clothes pins taxed at 35 per cent. If there is a pulley on her clothes dryer that is taxed 45 per cent. A wooden-frame dryer is taxed 35 per cent.

When the clothes are dry she gathers them into that tariff taxed basket again, and irons them with irons tariff-taxed eight-tenths of a cent a pound. She heats the irons on a tariff-taxed stove, fed with tariff-taxed coal out of a tariff-taxed coal scuttle. She lights the fire with matches tariff-taxed half a cent a box. On the tub over which she bends during her day's labor there is a tariff tax of 35 per cent. The bench or chair it rests upon is taxed 35 per cent. The paper pail in which she carries water is tariff-taxed 35 per cent.

The boiler in which the clothes are boiled are tariff-taxed not less than 45 per cent. If she has been able to save up and buy a mangle, out of the hard-wrung price she paid for it went tariff taxes at the rate of a cent a pound on the metal castings, 35 per cent on the wooden rollers and 35 per cent on the framework.

Has tariff greed overlooked anything here? If it has, don't speak of it. Let the washwoman stay free of taxes on that article, for if you mention it, surely it will get taxed by the next "downward revision" of the tariff that takes place under Republican auspices.

JUST PLAIN FALSEHOOD.

Says the News Tribune: "When The Herald says the Democrats in the present congress helped pass any of the progressive legislative measures which became laws at the last session, it asserts outside the record. The Democrats did not help pass the railroad rate law; they opposed it. In committee of the whole in the house, where the measure was reframed, the Democrats voted consistently and solidly against every amendment and every move to strengthen it, or to aid the committee that had it in charge. The vote of Democrats had nothing to do with its final passage. The few votes they gave were not needed. There was practically the same condition in the senate, where Cummins, Clapp, Nelson, Dolliver, Bristow, all Republicans, did the fighting, with no aid or comfort from the Democrats."

That, with all due respect to the News Tribune, and with all due consideration for the heavy burden under which it labors and the slender strength for burden-carrying it possesses, isn't even sophistry. It is plain falsehood, and very silly falsehood at that, because everybody knows better.

The administration presented to congress an infamous railroad bill that would have set back railroad regulation ten years. It was amended into fairly decent shape, and passed. According to the News Tribune, the Democrats opposed all amendments. Certainly the standpat Republicans also opposed all amendments. According to the News Tribune's reasoning, therefore, the insurgents carried their amendments against the combined opposition of the Democrats and the standpat Republicans.

There are about nine insurgents out of ninety-two in the senate, and about twenty-three insurgents out of the 398 in the house. Yet the nine votes prevailed in the senate, and the twenty-three in the house, according to the morning paper's reasoning. It was a herculean feat, indeed—only it couldn't and didn't happen.

The amendments that changed President Taft's "railroad" law into a people's law were the fruits of a wise coalition between the Democrats in both houses and the insurgents in both houses, thus forming a majority over the residue of standpat Republicans.

When senators and representatives can forget party lines and join hands in the interest of the common good, surely the voters can and should do the same thing. And nothing is more certain than that that is the only way, in the present circumstances, by which they can accomplish anything for themselves.

JONATHAN PRENTISS DOLLIVER.

The sudden and unexpected death of Senator Dolliver of Iowa is a loss to progress and the people's cause that cannot soon be made good. In many respects he was the ablest of the gallant little band of insurgent Republicans that has gathered around the indomitable figure of La Follette of Wisconsin in the last few years. Brilliant in oratory, fiery and effective in debate, sound and wise in council, courageous and aggressive in the winning fight for government by and for the people, his was a shining figure in the public life of the United States, and his loss will be felt keenly by the cause to which he had dedicated his splendid resources and his boundless energies.

There few members of the United States senate whose death will cause more universal sorrow, for there are few so really serviceable to the nation and its people. Senator Dolliver served six terms in the house and was in his third term in the senate. Though a comparatively recent convert to the aggressive cause of the people, he was one of its most valued captains, and his untimely taking away leaves a void that it will be hard to fill. The pity of it is that, as statesmen go, he was a young man, and he should have had a score of years of active usefulness ahead of him. On the day of his funeral the nation will pause to lay a tribute on the bier of one who served the people well.

SOMETHING DULUTH OVERLOOKED.

The census bureau became suspicious about some of the census returns from ambitions cities, and ordered a recount that, in the case of Tacoma, shows padding of the most flagrant kind. Minneapolis, too, is among the cities whose returns are being held up for verification. In an interview in the Minneapolis Journal explaining that the charges against the Minneapolis census don't amount to much, the local director says, among other things: "We found that the transients leaving hotels in the middle of the day would be registered for that day. The new-comers would also be registered. In this way the capacity of the hotel would appear to be doubled."

Are we to assume from this that Minneapolis counted as a part of her population everybody it found on the hotel registers?

If that's the way to take a census, Duluth has overlooked a bet. It was innocent enough to count only actual residents. By adding guests at the hotels, and the several thousands workers in the woods and elsewhere, most of whom call Duluth their headquarters even though they may be here only a part of the time, Duluth might have added 5,000 to her total very easily.

However, Duluth's census is honest, anyway, and there has been no attempt at padding. Duluth wants to get ahead and to appear at its best, but it doesn't care to dilute its census reports to make a false showing.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

COAL DRIVERS ARE CARELESS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

It really is too bad that Mrs. Caroline Bartlett Crane did not enjoy the inexpressibly delicious experience that lies in the path of many Duluth women every day—I refer to the joy of blindly groping through a black fog that swirls about her as she makes her way up the incline from Superior street to First on almost any of the down town avenues. She might have had some comment to make, after she had succeeded in dislodging all the fine particles of coal.

There should be some way to force the coal companies to wet down the fine dust coal that is spouting from the wagons into basements with utter disregard for the comfort of citizens. The coal dust, caught by the wind, hangs poised, apparently, with malicious intent to await a passing pedestrian, and then it comes straight at one like some hateful living monster.

It really is a serious fault, one that costs the people money, too. They pay the laundry bills. And it is such an unnecessary evil. KICKETTE.

Duluth, Oct. 17.

The Rise of a Reporter.

Louisville Courier-Journal: Chase S. Osborn, the Republican nominee for governor of Michigan, began life as a police reporter on a Milwaukee newspaper. It is needless to say he was a good reporter. He has not resided in Milwaukee for many years, but it is recalled that he "had nerve and initiative and was a good mixer"—good and sufficient reasons for his success in politics.

In an article in the Chicago Record-Herald, Lieut.-Col. J. A. Watrous gives a brief but interesting sketch of Mr. Osborn's career. It was in 1882, Col. Watrous says, that H. D. Fisher of Florence, Wis., owned several mines and one newspaper. Of course, the newspaper gave him more trouble than all the rest of his property. He did not know how to run it himself, and he found great difficulty in getting a reliable man to run it for him. In this dilemma he appealed to Col. Watrous to suggest a good man for the place. Col. Watrous recommended Chase Osborn, at that time a reporter on the Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin. Osborn took the job and soon acquired the ownership of the paper, and, to quote Col. Watrous, "he was the most popular man in Florence." He was not afraid of work, and he labored hard to make his paper a success. He developed great executive ability, and after a few years got so well ahead of the game that he bought a paper at Sault Ste. Marie, invested in some city lots and acquired an interest in an iron mine.

Things have been coming nicely for Mr. Osborn ever since. He has served the state as game warden and as railroad commissioner. He made a good race for the Republican gubernatorial nomination in 1900, and once narrowly escaped nomination for congress. He still owns two or three newspapers and has been president of the Michigan Press association. He has persisted in the habit of making good investments, and is reported to be a millionaire. Some years ago, Col. Watrous says, he bought a piece of mining property against the advice of his friends. He has since sold an interest in it for $250,000. He is a campaign orator of recognized ability, and, what is more important, he is a manly man, whose example and good work have been of value to all about him."

There is, of course, a moral to this true story of the rise of a police reporter, and Col. Watrous supplies it when he says in the closing paragraph of his article: "As boy and young man Mr. Osborn did not have half as good a chance to succeed in life as have thousands of boys and young men who will read this brief sketch of a man who has succeeded because he earned success on his merits." It would be a labor of superfluity to make further comment.

A New Political Party.

Ellis O. Jones in Life: Although there is much talk of a new political party, there is no settled conviction that one is necessary. Indeed, we cannot be absolutely certain that we need any political party at all.

We have, to be sure, long acquiesced in the unwritten tradition that we needed two parties in our republic, one to struggle for the offices which are held by the other. The result of this struggle is to place parties before politics, partisanship before patriotism, platitudes before particular purposes, plums before performance and politicians before people.

In the meantime the officeholders, who are always as wise and as progressive as necessary, continue to regulate the governmental running gear according as conditions develop and public sentiment arises. If, then, the people should gradually decide that they did not want their officeholders to be identified with any particular party, the politicians would quickly tear off their tags and throw them away and thereafter they would take into account only two interests that of themselves and that of the people, eliminating the third interest, that of the party, in the ratio of 33 1-3 per cent condensation of interest is well worth striving for and it is respectfully called to the attention of our publicists.

"Strong Men."

G. K. Chesterton in Illustrated London News: It is often said nowadays that in great crises and moral revolutions we need one strong man to decide; but it seems to me that is exactly when we do not need him. We do not need a great man for a revolution, for a true revolution is a time when all men are great. Where despotism really is successful is in very small matters. Every one must have noticed how essential a despot is to arranging the things in which every one is indifferent—the boats in a water picnic or the seats at a dinner party. Here the man who knows his own mind is really wanted, for no one else ever thinks his own mind worth knowing. No one knows where to go to precisely, because no one cares where he goes. It is for trivialities that the great tyrant is meant.

But when the depths are stirred in a society and all men's souls grow taller in a transfiguring anger or desire, then I am by no means so certain that the great man has been a benefit even when he has appeared. I am sure that Cromwell and Napoleon managed the mere pikes and bayonets, boots and knapsacks, better than most other people could have managed them. But I am by no means sure that Napoleon gave a better turn to the whole Revolution. I am by no means so sure that Cromwell has really improved the religion of England.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: After going to the buyer, coal goes to the cellar.

It is better to make an excuse than to blame the innocent.

A lucky man is always harping on his superior judgment.

Even the lowly dealer in old junk is apt to be a man of metal.

A woman's idea of a brute is any man who declines to flatter her.

It sometimes happens that a gray-haired man is willing to dye for a woman.

No matter how fat a woman is, she thinks she'll be all right the next time the fashions change.

There are two anniversaries that a woman never forgets—the day she was married and the day she gave the baby its first bath.

FOR NORTHERN MINNESOTA.

Co-Operation the Word.

Warroad Plaindealer: We would respectfully suggest that the farmers organize an association to market their potatoes in order that they may get the best prices and to prevent a large share of them from going to waste, as they did last year.

Entitled to a Square Deal.

Willmar Journal: If the census shows the expected growth for Northern Minnesota, that section should be given a larger representation in the legislature by having the state reapportioned. All sections of the state are entitled to square deals.

Worth Crowing Over.

Cass Lake Times: St. Louis county came home from the fair prouder than Rostand's chanticler, and Duluth is crowing over its achievements, so richly deserved.

Should Have Earnest Support.

La Porte News: The Brainerd development meeting to be held in December should have your earnest support.

An Effort That Will Fail.

Brainerd Dispatch: Judging from the present indications the December meeting of the Northern Minnesota Development association which will be held in this city will be a lively one. An effort is already being made to undo the good work started and the defeat of the reapportionment movement is now the prime object. An endeavor is being made to array the county option forces against the movement and the occasion for it seems to have been because the county option candidate for the senate from Todd county fell behind the breastworks during the recent battle of ballots.

Convincing the Skeptics.

Pine River Sentinel: If the agricultural display at the Pine River fair had been exhibited at the state fair this year it would have gone a long ways towards convincing some of the skeptics as to the agricultural resources of this part of the state. The experiences here the past two seasons have fully demonstrated beyond any question of a doubt that our jack pine soil will withstand drouth much better than heavier soils, and the fact that we have had better than average crops both last season and this shows also that this country can reap a bountiful harvest under the most adverse circumstances. We question whether there is another country that can produce the results we have shown.

St. Louis County Worth Something.

Princeton Union: St. Louis county receives $78,846 out of the October school apportionment, while under the general one-mill state school tax that county paid about $240,000 into the state treasury. St. Louis county pays $3 under the one-mill tax for every dollar it receives in the apportionments. Under a one-mill road tax St. Louis would pay $10 for every dollar it could possibly receive. St. Louis county is worth something to the balance of the state.

TWICE TOLD TALES.

Chicago Evening Post: Prof. William P. Blake, whose encouraging mineralogical reports induced the United States to buy Alaska, believed firmly in his country's future.

Prof. Blake, in a Fourth of July address that Tucson still remembers, pointed out the forward strides that Arizona had made.

"Think of the ignorance and illiteracy of the past, all vanished now," he said. "Once, while out on a mineralogical trip, I wandered into a courthouse in an Arizona village.

"The case afoot concerned a letter. The prosecution wanted the letter admitted in evidence, but the defense wanted it barred out. Finally the judge said, reluctantly:

"'Hand the pesky thing up here and I'll decide on it.'

"So the letter was handed up to the judge, and he put on his spectacles and looked at it sideways and crosswise, and a loud laugh went up from the spectators.

"'What are they laughing at?' I asked the man next to me.

"'Why, at the judge's bluff, of course,' was the reply. 'The old fool can't read readin-writin' let alone writin'-writin'.'"

An American and a Highlander were walking one day on the top of one of the Scotch mountains, when the Scotchman, wishing to impress the boastful "cousin," produced a famous echo returned clearly after nearly four minutes, the proud Scotchman, turning to the Yankee, exclaimed:

"There, mon, ye canna' show anything like that in your country."

To which the other replied:

"I guess we can better that some, stranger. Why in my shooting lodge in the Rockies, when I go to bed I just lean out of my window and call out, 'Time to get up; wake up!' and eight hours afterward the echo comes back and wakes me."

Senator Crane of Massachusetts at a luncheon in Dalton praised compromise.

"Compromise is a good thing," he said. "Take the case of a young Dalton builder. He got married about a year ago, and after the marriage he and his wife had an interminable dispute as to whether they should buy two motocycles or a five-horse power runabout suitable to their means. He said the other day:

"'My wife and I wrangled for months and months, but, thank goodness, we've compromised at last.'

"'What have you compromised on,' I asked.

"'A baby carriage,' he answered, with a proud, glad smile."

Representative Nye of Minnesota has much of the wit of his lamented brother, Bill Nye. Himself a lawyer, Representative Nye said at a lawyer's banquet in Minneapolis:

"'Father, do lawyers tell the truth?'

"'Yes, my boy,' the father answered. 'Lawyers will do anything to win a case.'"

Attorney General Wickersham was describing at a dinner in Washington an unfair law.

"The people, under this law," he said, "are very much in the position of a young Washington attache.

"As the attache was breakfasting the other morning his servant said to him:

"'You are out of whisky, sir. Shall I get a bottle?'

"'Yes, I think you might, James,' the other replied. 'It's your turn.'"

Printed Matter as Food.

Boston Globe: According to Prof. Starr of the University of Chicago three things are shown to visitors to the Philippines as proofs of the advantages of American rule:

1. A beautiful new prison, in which the inmates are treated far better than the ordinary good citizen outside.

2. A magnificent government printing office that turns out an enormous quantity of matter of practically no use to those who pay for it.

3. A splendid scientific bureau carrying on costly experiments of great interest to the experimenters and costing so much for its maintenance that not even the richest of the United States would ever think of supporting such an institution.

Those three things are a disgrace, says Prof. Starr, because they have no reason to exist at the expense of a people already on the brink of starvation.

We have benevolently swallowed the Philippines, but the assimilation is proceeding slowly. So slowly, in fact, that the demand for self-government is growing steadily. Possibly those three fine institutions to which American officials point with pride, and for which the poverty-stricken Filipinos are paying, will accelerate the movement for independence, while not preparing them for it.

One glaring fact obtrudes itself into every discussion of the case. We don't want the Philippines and they don't want us; and we can't make them want us by feeding them with printed matter and with scientific experiments at their own expense.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1890.

H. N. Nichols, a Denver capitalist; President Marks, the moving spirit in the Duluth, Port Arthur & Southern railway; Mr. Wylie, the well known steamboat agent, all interested in the prosperity of Port Arthur, are in the city. Mr. Nichols was a heavy holder of silver land at the west end of Silver mountain and has just sold this property to a syndicate headed by E. F. Drake, the St. Paul capitalist, for $150,000. President Marks and Mr. Wylie left this afternoon for Ely to look over the country in the interests of their road, which is to run from the border to connect with the Duluth & Iron Range at Ely.

John C. Eden, who has held the St. Paul city ticket agency of the Soo road for some time past, has received the appointment of freight agent of the Great Northern at Duluth.

When F. G. Hillhouse, attorney of the Metropolitan Loan & Trust company, New York, was here last month, the ostensible object of his visit was to look after his properties at the Head of the Lakes. Mr. Hillhouse and a party of Duluthians visited Encampment island, where he and his friends have several thousand acres of land. It is now learned that it is intended to make of Encampment bay a harbor and entrepot for the country north and east of Agate bay. A breakwater is to be constructed and docks built, and it is hoped to secure a branch of the Port Arthur road and handle the ore output of the Gunflint lake properties.

The Democratic committee for St. Louis county has been appointed as follows: Duluth—First ward, F. L. Ryan; Second ward, Charles B. King; Third ward, Simon Clark; Fourth ward, John G. Brown; Fifth ward, B. G. Segog; Sixth ward, P. L. Johnson; West Duluth, T. E. Halford; Tower, C. E. McNamara; Ely, Patrick R. Vail; Pond du Lac, M. E. Chambers; town of Duluth, George Chester; at large, John K. Shaw. The following officers have been elected: J. K. Shaw, president; F. L. Ryan, secretary; Simon Clark, treasurer.

Dr. Samuel Slaughter of Superior has gone to Monroe, La., to be married.

JAMES GRAY'S SPECIAL EQUIPMENT

An Old Newspaper Man's Appreciation of the Progressive Democratic Nominee for Governor.

It would be hard to overestimate the value and importance of newspaper training as an asset in public service.

To begin with, the judicial faculty is as necessary at the editorial desk as upon the bench of the supreme court of the United States. The matured habit of weighing carefully men, measures and events enables the newspaper writer to grapple sanely and successfully with the vexatious problems of life.

The spirit of the representative journalist is above all pettiness, his mind as unwarped by bias as is posible to the frality of human clay, and his heart and soul are eternally at war with sham, injustice, wrong and uncharity.

He can say, too, with Bismarck: "I fear nobody but God!"

No calling like the newspaper business, it seems to me, breeds quite such width of view, such penetration into the motives of men, such sympathetic discernment, such accuracy of appraisal, such deftness in winnowing the grain of merit from the chaff of profession.

All this fits the country editor as well as the editorial director of the big metropolitan daily. The difference is in degree, not in kind.

Observe how material for exalted political and business station is recruited from the ranks of journalism. John Hay, the slave of newspaper office routine, becomes secretary of state and one of the strongest diplomats of the age. Whitelaw Reid, war correspondent, is ambassador to the court of St. James. From the post of reporter for a Chicago daily Frank Vanderlip rises to assistant secretary of the treasury and president of the most powerful national bank in the United States. Such instances might be multiplied.

Minnesota has had a taste of the newspaper man in office, likes the idea because it really pays, and is determined to have more and more of it. In the gubernatorial campaign of 1904 we had a situation here never paralleled by another state. The candidates of both the great parties for governor and the chairmen of both state committees were newspaper men. That condition evolved the epochal regime of the late Governor John Albert Johnson, whose amazing cleverness as administrator was derived no less from newspaper training than from inherent excellencies of mind and heart.

It is only fair to say that much, very much, of the credit accorded to the administration of Johnson was due to his brother newspaper worker and secretary, Frank A. Day.

Stick a pin right here before you forget it: Governor Eberhart, worthy man as he is, owes more than the general public is aware of to his secretary, that capable journalist and high-minded gentleman, Ralph W. Wheelock.

My reflections are darkened by not the faintest shadow or doubt that James Gray, the versatile, large-souled, keen-visioned editorial writer and universally respected man, is in every way worthy of the mantle of Johnson. It is my deliberate conclusion, my thus far unshaken conviction, that this elect-up as governor would best conserve the welfare of the people of Minnesota.

For myself alone do I speak. A somewhat strenuous newspaper career of over thirty-five years, with the incidental educative advantages of participation in dozens of furious political campaigns, landed me upon the serene heights of perhaps as thoroughgoing a brand of non-partisanship as the average citizen can attain. To me party labels are nothing, but good government is everything.

James Gray, if elected, will not be found wanting. Of this we may be sure. He could not be cajoled or clubbed into a wrongful act. In secondary matters he might at times find it advisable (and who has not?) to yield to demands of expediency; but to swerve a hair's breadth from the narrow path of official rectitude, to be guilty of aught that smacks of disloyalty to principle, to raise the tenuous shield of cowardice between his face and the menacing front of Duty's dangers—this is not in him, nor can be.

And not for him slothful ease in the shade of that banyan tree of deified selfishness and criminal privilege whose roots are feeling the ax and grub hoe of a Roosevelt!

And often will James Gray, if elected, do more rather than less than is expected of him as a shrewd and courageous public servant.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Pittsburg Post: "Well, I think the doctor is about through with me. Told me my ailment is practicaly cured."

"What did you have?"

"Two hundred dollars, originally."

Scraps: A mother of four daughters, one of whom had recently married, cornered an eligible young man in the drawing room.

"And which of my girls do you most admire, might I ask?"

"The married one," was the prompt reply.

Detroit Free Press: "That man doesn't own an auto and has no chance of ever buying one."

"What makes you say that?"

"It's easy to tell. Didn't you see how heartily he laughed when he saw his friend's auto stalled in the mud?"

Simplicissimus: Herr Pastor—I've made seven people happy today; I've just married three couples.

Friend—But that's only six people.

Herr Pastor—Well, how about myself?

M. A. P.: Excited Son—Ye've hooked a graund big one this time, father.

The Angler—O, aye! I expect the fish is a' richt, but I'll feel michty relieved when I get that half-a-croon fly safely out o' his mouth.

Journal Amusant: Picture Dealer—Sorry, but I buy pictures of no one except those whose names are well known.

Artist—Well, my name's quite well known. It's Smith.

Birmingham Age-Herald: "Johnny, what are you going to do when you grow up?"

"I'm goin' ter run away an' be a pirate."

"Like Capt. Kidd?"

"Shucks, naw! I'm goin' ter play wit' Pittsburg."

Cleveland Leader: "Say, I'm a stranger in this town. Can you tell me a good place to stop at?"

"Yes, sir. Stop just before the 'at.'"

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: When a girl likes onions, it's a sign nobody ever heard her admit it.

A man's turn to do good seems to him to belong to some other fellow.

"Familiarity breeds contempt" is one of the rules that work both ways.

The man who takes to his heels is a coward, but it is different with a mule.

It takes a long time to make a real friend, and a longer time to prove he is.

Selfishness is always fighting self-preservation for the lead as the first law of nature.

A very loud voice in an argument will always convince its owner when it won't anybody else.

A Discerning Boy.

New York Tribune: "Big Bill" Edwards, New York's herculean street cleaning commissioner, was being congratulated on the prompt bravery wherewith he captured the man who shot Mayor Gaynor.

"You are so mild and jocular," the reporter said, "one would hardly suspect your fire-eating qualities."

"Oh, yes, I'm very mild," said Mr. Edwards, and he added, modestly anxious to change the subject:

"I believe in mildness. I'm not like the Exeter boy.

"A teacher in Exeter said to one of his pupils in the course of a lecture on popularity:

"'Now, Schermerhorn, if you are kind and polite and forgiving to all your playmates, what will happen?'

"'They'll all think they can lick me,' Schermerhorn answered."

SKIN DISEASES
HUMORS IN THE BLOOD

Nature has made ample provision in the moisture and sunshine of the air for the outward protection and healthy condition of the skin. But the more important work of nourishing the cuticle has been left to an inward source—the blood. It is from the circulation that the pores and glands receive their stimulus, and the fibrous tissues are all preserved in a healthful state because of constant nutriment supplied by the blood. It is only when the circulation becomes infected with humors or acids that we are troubled with skin affections. The humors producing these troubles are carried through the circulation direct to the skin, and their irritating or inflammatory effect remains until the blood is cleansed. S. S. S. cures Skin Diseases, because it is the greatest of all blood purifiers. It goes into the circulation and REMOVES the acids and humors which are causing the trouble, builds up the weak, acrid blood, and completely cures Eczema, Acne, Tetter, Salt Rheum, pimples, rashes, and all eruptions of the skin. When S. S. S. has driven out the humors every symptom passes away, the skin is again nourished with cooling, healthful blood, natural evaporation is renewed, and the skin becomes soft and smooth. NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

FOUR LIVES ARE CLAIMED

Mine Cavein Victim; Two Hunting Fatalities; Child Burned to Death.

Chapter of Fatal Accidents Strikes Several North Dakota Places.

New Salem, N. D., Oct. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—By the caving in of a poorly protected lignite coal mine shaft on the McCormick property near Blue Grass, Fritz Grittel was instantly killed, while five other men had a narrow escape from a similar fate.

The men were all mining and all but Grittel had left the shaft just before the cavein took place. The faulty construction of the roof of the shaft is held responsible for the accident. Grittel was 22 years old and unmarried.

Careless Hunter Kills Himself.

Hettinger, N. D., Oct. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Axel Larson was shot and killed when he attempted to gain possession of a shotgun lying in a boat by pulling it toward him, muzzle first. Larson had been out hunting on Mirror lake near here when he was shot. In company with A. Severson a landing had been made, but he failed to take his gun out of the boat with him, but instead tried to pull it out afterwards. The charge entered the abdomen and he lived but two hours, his mother and sister being at his side when the end came.

Wounded Boy Game to End.

Drake, N. D., Oct. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Howard Metcalf, aged 13, revealed Spartan courage when, with one arm shattered from the elbow to the hand, he stepped unassisted from a buggy walked into his home and told his mother that she had better send for a doctor, as he was "slightly" hurt, but that there was no need for worry. Four hours later, after his arm had been amputated, the lad was dead, the shock occasioned by the great loss of blood being too much.

Young Metcalf, with several boy companons, had been hunting, and just as they were about to return home he placed his shotgun in the box of the buggy, pushing it in stock first and with the muzzle pointing toward him. The trigger caught and the charge entered his right arm, tearing it from the elbow to the wrist n a frightful manner. A furious drive was made for the city, and it was on the arrival here that the lad showed his remarkable nerve. He was the son of Mr and Mrs. L. L. Metcalf, formerly of Troy Mills, Iowa.

Child Burned to Death.

Cando, N. D., Oct. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—By tipping a lighted oil stove over and spraying the burning fluid over her clothing, Jessie Sands, the 5-month-old daughter of Frank Sands of Crocus, was burned to death, while her 14-year-old sister, was quite seriously injured trying to save the younger child.

When the little one began screaming, her elder sister broke a window and climbed into the kitchen, trying to carry the baby out. In breaking the window that she cut her hand severely, striking an artery, and before physicians arrived she lost a great deal of blood. Mrs. Sands was present, but because of illness was unable to do anything. Her husband was away from home, only the prompt action of an employe saving the house from destruction.

DISASTER IS BIG WARNING

State of Minnesota Should Learn By Recent Fire Experience.

International Falls, Minn., Oct. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—"The entire forestry service of the state of Minnesota will be thoroughly overhauled, proper officials will be placed at the head of the work and only experienced and trustworthy men will get positions as fire rangers. Furthermore the governor has declared to me that he will exert every effort to force the legislature to provide adequate funds to carry on the work successfully."

The foregoing statement was made here recently by Attorney General Simpson. He had been told that the state administration was being blamed everywhere through the north for the lax forest fire protection and for the recalling of the fire rangers a month ago when the danger was greatest.

State's Dear Lesson.

"The state has been taught a dear lesson, one that it should have learned a long while ago, to be sure, but the whole matter of forest fire protection will be taken up immediately when the legislature goes into session, which will be within less than ninety days now," the attorney general continued.

"The state administration should not be blamed for the withdrawal of the fire rangers, as the fund was exhausted and at that time it was not apparent at the capital from any word we had received that there was any particular danger or that conditions were worse than they had been for many autumns previous."

DIETZ' FARM IS REGULAR ARSENAL

Outlaw of Cameron Dam Well Prepared to Stand Off Officers.

Couderay, Wis., Oct. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The deputies in charge of the Dietz farm have found the following: Seven rifles, three revolvers, several thousand rounds of ammunition, one double-barrel shotgun loaded with buck shot, set in lumber yard with both hammers cocked with a copper wire fastened to each trigger and tied to a post 100 feet away, two other guns set in turnip field ready for action, three large bear traps set near the Thornapple river about 200 feet from the cabin ready to catch any deputy, thirty-two deer hides in the red, deer that had been shot out of season.

They also found a letter from a correspondent for a Minneapolis paper for John Dietz telling him not to come to Winter but send his children for the mail which Dietz did, with the results well known. There was also a letter thanking Dietz for the venison he had sent which was killed and shipped out of season.

There was thirteen head of nice cattle on the Dietz farm, forty chickens good stock, team of fine horses, barn full of hay, several acres of corn not cut, about 500 bushels potatoes not dug, a nice garden full of vegetables. Mrs. Dietz also had $1,480 in cash that was found on her when she arrived in Hayward.

EXPLOSION AT CRYSTAL FALLS

Six Are Burned By Hot Tar at the Donnelite Plant.

Crystal Falls, Mich., Oct. 17—(Special to The Herald.)—An explosion occurred at the Donnelite plant in which three men and three boys were badly burned by hot tar. The men burned were George Rockey, fireman; Dunk Rafter, engineer and M. Maloney, foreman.

Rafter and Rockey were badly burned about the face and hands, while Maloney escaped with but slight burns about the face and wrist.

The names of the boys were Ole Oleson, Emler Carlson and Willie Minnepassie The Olson boy and Minnepassie boy were badly burned about the face and body and are in the hospital, the Carlson boy receiving but slight burns about the body. The boys were standing about fifteen feet from the plant looking on when the explosion occurred.

The explosion was plainly heard all over the city and excitement ran high for a time until the exact nature of the affair was learned.

DRIVES HIS AUTO THROUGH FLAMES

North Dakotan Qualifies for a Thriller in a Melodrama.

Dickinson, N. D., Oct. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hemmed in by fire on all sides when he attempted to run his automobile down a lane to the Fred Hewson residence, where help was needed when a prairie fire swept over a large section south of here, E. A. Lillibridge took the only course open and drove his car through the line of fire to safety, only receiving severe burns about the face and hands.

When he started his car down the lane there was no fire in sight, but the wind suddenly changed and drove the flames rapidly into the high grass and hedge at the side of the road, and in a moment the machine was surrounded by flames. To abandon the machine meant its destruction, so Lillibridge drove directly through the flames at top speed and was enabled to save both his life and the machine. V. A. Hill was in the machine and also received numerous burns.

MOTHER'S LETTER PROVES A GODSEND

Saves Youth From Term in Ward County, N. D., Jail.

Minot, N. D., Oct. 17.—A mother's letter saved Paul Smith from a sentence in the Ward county jail for stealing a ride on a Soo railroad freight train. It was a letter thanking the young man for a letter containing money that he had sent. It follows: "My Dear Son: Your letter with the $50 came like a godsend to us. I have paid the rent and now will not have to move. With the balance I bought a new dress for Jennie and am sending her to school. God bless you, my son, for your kindness to your mother."

Paul Smith had been arrested upon the complaint of a special agent of the Soo railroad, having been caught in the act of stealing a ride from Velva to this city. A local humane officer chanced to hear of the case and was talking with Smith when the young man told his story, stating that he had sent all his money to his mother that she might be spared a home, and that was the reason he had stolen the ride. The mother's letter proved the story and when arraigned in court the judge immediately dismissed the defendant.

SYNOD AIDS COLLEGE.

Per Capita Assessment of $10 for Jamestown Institution.

Jamestown, N. D., Oct. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Material aid to Jamestown college will come as a result of the action of the Presbyterian Synod of the state, which came to a close last evening at Minot. An assessment of $10 for each member of the synod was made, and during the coming year the work of collecting this assessment will be made, which, if secured in its entirity, means $70,000 for the college. This is the most important step the state synod has taken in the support of the college in recent years.

The next place of meeting was not selected by the synod, being left open for the executive committee's decision.

QUARREL OVER WORK.

One Austrian Probably Fatally Wounds Another at Moorhead.

Moorhead, Minn., Oct. 17.—Sam Ballidge, an Austrian metal worker, employed in Fargo, was shot and fatally wounded late Saturday night by Peter Lou, a fellow-Austrian laborer, following a quarrel over the division of work in the ironworks in which the two were employed.

"I'll get even with you," Lou was heard to say Saturday after his quarrel. The men were separated, but clashed at night on the south bridge in this city. Lou fired three shots, one of them taking effect in Ballidge's intestines. The injured man was removed to the Northwestern hospital in this city, while Lou was disarmed and arrested by the Moorhead police. Ballidge's death is expected at any moment.

BETTER BEET PRICES.

Welcome News for the Raisers of Sugar Producers.

Menominee, Mich., Oct. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Menominee River Sugar company announces that the price of beets has been advanced from $5 to $6 per ton which will be welcome news to the farmers of Michigan and Wisconsin, making the sugar beat crop the most profitable planted by the farmers of this vicinity this year.

The Menominee sugar factory will start up one week from today and will be operated night and day until the crop of 1910 is manufactured into sugar.

IS CRUSHED TO DEATH IN CRYSTAL FALLS MINE.

Crystal Falls, Minn., Oct. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Peter Sausiba, an Italian workman, was crushed to death between a railroad car and the pocket at the Duna mine. The dead man and a partner were loading cars out of the pocket. A car had been loaded and they were to drop it down with the other loads to the track below the pocket.

Sausiba jumped onto the ladder on the front of the car and told his partner, who was at the rear to bar the car ahead. His partner did so but the car started too soon for Sausiba and before he got off the ladder he was caught between the car and the side of the pocket and crushed.

Death was instantaneous. He was a single man.

MILWAUKEEANS SHOW SYMPATHY FOR DIETZ.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 7.—A big mass meeting with an overflow gathering was held in the auditorium Sunday, at which Mayor Seidel was the chief speaker and at which resolutions denouncing the arrest of John F. Dietz as an outrage were passed. The meeting took the position that Dietz was being persecuted by the lumber corporations and raised over $200 to help pay his lawyer bill.

DEPUTY THORBAHN TO OPPOSE SHERIFF MADDEN.

Couderay, Wis., Oct. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fred W. Thorbahn of Radisson, Wis., will announce himself as candidate for sheriff of Sawyer county in a few days. He will run as an independent candidate. Mr. Thorbahn was chief deputy under Sheriff Madden during the Dietz siege and capture.

BOY SHOT BY COMPANION

Former West Duluth Lad May Die From Rifle Wound.

Victim of Accidental Shooting While Hunting at Independence.

Arthur Mahlum, a 13-year-old boy formerly of West Duluth and now residing in the Independence township, lies in St. Luke's hospital at the point of death as a result of a rifle wound. It is not thought that he will recover.

The shooting of young Mahlum was an accident, it is said. He was in company with Clifford Bujold and Wesley Knapp, both of West Duluth, who were hunting in the woods near the Mahlum homestead Sunday.

Bujold, who says that he "didn't know that the gun was loaded," swung around a 22-calibre rifle to a more comfortable position and in doing so discharged the rifle. The bullet entered the boy's left side, penetrating the left lung below the heart and coming out near the armpit on the right side.

The accident happened shortly after 10 o'clock yesterday morning. The boy was taken to the city in a passing automobile and met at St. Luke's hospital by Dr. Seashore, who dressed the wound.

The boy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Mahlum, formerly of 128 North Sixty-fourth avenue west, who moved some time ago to their farm.

LARGEST ENGINES FOR THE MISSABE

Two Monster Locomotives Will Be Put in Service on Hill Run.

Two monster engines, said to be the largest locomotives in the world will be "broken in" this week on the hill run of the Missabe road.

They are designed to have a larger hauling capacity than any other of the large type of locomotives now used on the run between West Duluth and Proctor.

It is said that the engines will pull seventy empties up the steep grade, when an ordinary engine has difficulty in hauling twenty-eight empty cars.

Each of the new locomotives weigh 660,000 pounds and operates sixteen monster drive wheels. The boiler, a large cylindrical tank, is furnished with two sets of flues making in reality two boilers. These will furnish a 200-pound steam pressure.

Each engine is ninety-two feet long and they will be numbered 200 and 201. The Baldwin Locomotive Works of Philadelphia built them and if they are found practical, the road will probably install more.

WORKMEN SCARE AWAY THE GAME

Hunters Say Railroad Activities at Smithville Spoil Partridge Hunting.

Partridge hunting in the vicinity of Smithville and New Duluth is not a success this year as compared to former seasons.

West Duluth and Duluth hunters, who have spent the past few days in this vicinity say that they are not meeting with the usual success and are going further up the river in search of the birds.

The heavy blasting for the new line of the Canadian Northern road has driven the birds from their old haunts, it is said.

MISTAKEN FOR KIDNAPER AND IS NEARLY MOBBED.

G. W. Houtlu, residing at the West hotel, 1915 West Superior street, was mistaken for a kidnaper yesterday and nearly escaped being mobbed by a crowd of 100 men.

Just how the affair started, no one seems to know, but in a little while a crowd of men gathered on Fifty-third avenue west and Ramsey street, a man and a child being the central figures of the group.

Before an officer arrived, the rumor was passed around that a man was attempting to steal a 3-year-old child from the neighborhood and threats of lynching were heard.

Lieut. Wilcox and Officer Root of the police station quelled the disturbance. The child, it afterwards developed was his own son and the police ordered the crowd to disperse.

ELECTRIC POWER FOR THE PROCTOR SHOPS.

The Great Northern Power company will in a few days supply power for the Duluth, Missabe & Northern power shops at Proctor. During the past week, power wires have been strung from West Duluth to Proctor and it is thought that within another week, they will be carrying the current. It is also stated that the power company may erect a distributing plant in Proctor and furnish the entire village with its light.

WIDOW OWNS PATENT RIGHTS

Mrs. Anna M. Connelly, administrator of the estate of Joseph M. Connelly, late of West Duluth, is the joint owner of a patent just granted on an improvement in molding machines for use in constructing elevators and other structures in cement.

The patent was obtained through Attorney Phil H. Perkins of Superior for Mrs. Connelly of West Duluth and Carl D. Bohland of Superior. Application for the patent was only made seven months ago.

Joseph J. Connelly and Bohland invented the device, but before an application was made for the patent, Connelly, was killed at the ore docks in an accident. His widow has since secured the rights.

Bohland and Connelly invented the machine while they were engaged with the Bennett & Record company, which constructed the addition to Great Northern elevator "S" at Superior.

While quite simple, their invention supplies a need, which, it is said, no one up to this time has been able to fill.

APPEALS TO POLICE FOR PROTECTION.

Alleging that her husband had come home intoxicated and had threatened to break down the door if he was not admitted at once, Mrs. Samuel Olson of West Duluth yesterday appealed to the police for protection.

Olson recently served a 90-day sentence in the county jail for non-support and since that time, according to his wife, he has been home, but little and then only to raise a disturbance.

He was not arrested on account of the fact that when an officer appeared he had left the place and could not be found. Mrs. Olson told the officer that he had only contributed $3 toward the support of the family since the first of the year.

West Duluth Briefs.

Wool sox, gloves, sweater coats. Things you want at Keefe's toggery.

The funeral of Myrtle Risen, 11-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Risen of 5801 West Eighth street, who died Saturday, was held this afternoon from the family residence with burial at Oneota cemetery.

Mrs. C. C. Salter will entertain the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of Plymouth Congregational church at her home, 33 Central avenue Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Angelina Pauline, who was shot a week ago by her son-in-law, Vincenzo Parella, in a family quarrel, has left the Duluth hospital. It was thought at the time that the bullet wound, which she sustained, would prove fatal.

The Boy Scouts of Merritt Memorial church took their first "hike" Saturday afternoon, walking twelve miles out on the Hermantown road. There were twenty-eight boys in the party, under the supervision of the pastor, Rev. F. E. Stidd. It is proposed to take these walks every Saturday this fall.

Myrtle, the 3-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Brown of 128 North Fifty-seventh avenue west died yesterday after a short illness. The funeral was held this morning at 9 o'clock from St. James Catholic church to Calvary cemetery.

Rev. M. O. Stockland, pastor of Grace M. E. church occupied the pulpit last evening at Asbury M. E. church, Sixtieth avenue west and Raleigh street.

John Bersau has returned from Canada, where he has spent the past few months.

MARKET STRONG; TRADING ACTIVE

Coppers Develop Strength, Weakening at the Session's Close.

The copper market developed considerable strength today, but weakened toward the close. There was little news to influence the market outside of the favorable bank statement of Saturday. The decrease of 1,800 tons in the foreign visible last week had a good effect as it indicated greater probable exports of the red metal from this country. Boston wired Paine, Webber & Co., that a copper selling agency is reported to have made the largest sales last week than in any similar period in its history. Sales of copper in the last two weeks are said to have aggregated 110,000,000 pounds. Of this amount the United Metals Selling company is credited with having sold 40,000,000. Whether all of this represents actual sales is problematical as there has been considerable speculation in the metal.

The local market was moderately strong but specialized. Trading was fair. Red Warrior was the most active stock and was buoyant. Offerings were quickly taken. Giroux sold at $8, Greene at $8 and $7.87½, Keweenaw at $3.56¼, North Butte at $33.75, Red Warrior at $2.06¼, $2.12½ and $2.06¼, Warrior at $6.87½, Amazon at $2.31¼ to $2.18¾, Calumet & Montana at 96c and 95c, Calumet & Corbin at 40c, Lake Superior & Sonora at 15c, Summit at 50c, Tuolumne at $4.12½ and $4.

Amalgamated sold at $70.12½, $71.50 and off to $71.12½, Butte-Ballaklava in the east at $5.25 to $5.50, Butte Coalition at $20, $20.25 and $26, Calumet & Arizona at $61, $61.75, $60 and $61, Giroux at $8, $8.25, $8.12½ and $8.25, Greene at $7.87½, $8 and $7.87½, North Butte at $33.50, $34 and $33.25, Superior & Pittsburg at $13.50 to $13.25, and Shattuck at $23.50 to $23. Cactus was active selling from 65c to 72c and easing off on liquidation to 68c.

A Boston wire says it is quite probable that before the end of the current year stockholders of the Granby Consolidated Mining, Smelting & Power company will receive a dividend. The company has today a surplus of more than $1,000,000 as compared with $900,000 at the end of the last fiscal year, June 30. A year ago in December the company made its last disbursement, $2 per share.

The net profits of the Tonopah Mining company in September were $154,000, as compared with $165,000 in August.

The Tonopah-Belmont company reports for six months ended Aug. 31: Net earnings, $677,676; miscellaneous income, $3,766; total net, $681,442.

The directors of the Amalgamated Copper company and Boston & Montana Copper & Silver Mining company will meet Thursday of this week to take action on the dividends. No change in the rate of either company is expected.

A Butte Dispatch says that the shaft of the North Butte has now attained a depth of 2,500 feet, and a station is being cut at this level. A winze from the 2,300-foot level has opened a large body of ore at a point where none was found on the 2,200-foot level.

Shattuck-Arizona is producing in the neighborhood of 600,000 lb of copper a month, a decided reduction from some of the recent high months which were more than double this amount. The property is now sending to the Copper Queen smelter at Douglas about 100 tons of ore daily, assaying approximately 14 per cent copper. The company is doing a large amount of development work and three-quarters of the total output is being obtained in that way. This work is in progress from the fourth to the seventh levels, and it is stated that as much, or more, ore is being developed than is being extracted. The ore in reserve at the Shattuck-Arizona, according to the last estimate, is between 700,000 and 800,000 tons, averaging 6½ per cent copper.

SEEKING SETTLERS TO GO TO AUSTRALIA

DR. ELWOOD MEAD.

New York, Oct. 15. — Dr. Elwood Mead, formerly of the United States department of agriculture but now chairman of the water supply commission of Victoria, Australia, is in this country with the object of inducing desirable settlers to go to Australia and take up land. He was successful in Great Britain in sending a large number of farmers to try life in Australia. Dr. Mead opened up a great future for that country.

A KENTUCKY TEMPERANCE YARN

National Magazine: A Kentucky senator told about an old pilot on the Mississippi, aged 82, who was recounting an incident connected with the temperance question:

"Intemperance is ruining this nation," he insisted. "The sad victims are on every side of us; I have seen many of them in my long career. Once we had a passenger on a steamboat where I was pilot; he was intoxicated and fell overboard. After he had been soaking at the bottom of the river for quite a while, we fished him out, and laid him, limp and sopping, on the deck; our efforts to revive him were unavailing, until at last somebody thought that whisky would be just the thing to restore animation. We opened the man's mouth and poured some down, and it seemed to stay there all right, for a gurgling sound came from his lips. I put my ear close to hear what he might wish to say—doubtless a last message for his loved ones at home.

"Roll me — on — a — barrel," he wheezed hoarsely, "roll me on a barrel quick and get out some of this water—it wil spoil the good Kentucky whisky."

JEALOUSY ON THE STAGE.

Tit-Bits: "It's curious," said a theatrical manager who had experienced many ups and downs, "how the stage develops jealousies. I once had a show on the road in which it was necessary to make use of a horse and a donkey. We got the animals well trained for their parts, and on the opening night they gave a first-class performance. On the following night, however, we were unable to get the donkey to move out of the wings. Prince, the horse, went on without any trouble whatever, but Jack—that was the name of the donkey—could neither be coaxed nor driven out before the footlights.

"We finally had to go on with the performance with the donkey left out. After the show was over we got together and tried to find out what had been the matter. Nobody could offer an explanation, until one of the stage hands happened to pick up a program, which showed that Prince's name was printed in the same kind of type we used for Jack.

"We got a new lot of programs the next day, with the donkey's name printed in type which was nearly twice as big as that which we used for the horse. After that, we never had the slightest trouble."

OFFERS TO FINANCE MONSTER AEROPLANE

CHARLES M. SCHWAB.

New York, Oct. 15. — Charles M. Schwab, the steel magnate, offers to finance a company to perfect an American aeroplane that will carry a 200 or 300 horse power engine. He is willing to do this to advance the science of aeronautics in this country. It is proposed to ask Wilbur Wright, Glenn Curtiss and other American aviators to co-operate in the plans for the proposed machine. Mr. Schwab has been prominent in the steel world for many years and is a millionaire.

Sale of School and Other State Lands

STATE OF MINNESOTA, State Auditor's Office.

St. Paul, October 10, 1910.

Notice is hereby given that on the day and date and at the time and place herein stated below in this notice, in the office of the county auditor of the respective county named, in the State of Minnesota, I will offer for sale the following described unsold state lands, and the following described state lands, which have reverted to the state, by reason of the non-payment of interest, will also be then and there offered for resale. Fifteen per cent of the purchase price and interest on the unpaid balance from the date of sale to June 1st, 1911, must be paid at the time of the sale. The balance of the purchase money can be paid at any time, in whole or in part, within forty years of the time of the sale; the rate of interest on the unpaid balance of the purchase money will be four per cent per annum, payable in advance on June 1st of each year, provided the principal remains unpaid for ten years; but if the principal is paid before the expiration of ten years from the date of the sale, the rate of interest on the unpaid balance of the purchase money will be five per cent per annum; interest is payable in advance on June 1st of each year.

Holders of certificates on which the interest payments are in default can have their certificates reinstated on payment, before the sale, of the interest in full to date and the penalties thereon, when the lands covered thereby will be withdrawn from sale.

All mineral rights are reserved by the state. All sales made will be subject to the provisions of Chapter No. 299 of the General Laws of 1905, as amended by Chapter No. 106 of the General Laws of 1909.

SAMUEL G. IVERSON,
State Auditor.

ST. LOUIS COUNTY.

SENATOR J. P. DOLLIVER DIES SUDDENLY AT HOME

Heart Disease Caused By Acute Indigestion Ends Life.

He Leaves Notable Record at Capital---Funeral on Thursday.

JONATHAN P. DOLLIVER.

Fort Dodge, Iowa, Oct. 17.— United States Senator Jonathan Prentiss Dolliver died of dilation of the heart caused by an attack of acute indigestion at his residence at 7:30 o'clock Saturday night.

The senator's death was wholly unexpected by his friends and relatives, who thought that he must have entirely recovered from the attack of indigestion, with which he had been suffering for a week.

Senator Dolliver had been up all day and made a trip from his residence down town. He told several of the men whom he met that he believed that he had completely recovered from the indisposition which followed his trip through Wisconsin on a speech-making tour for Senator La Follette.

Senator Dolliver's illness dates back over a year and a half. Before going to Washington for the last session of congress, he became slightly ill, but the illness was not regarded as especially serious.

Operation Last Spring.

Last spring he had trouble with one of his eyes and submitted to an operation. A few weeks later word was received in Fort Dodge that he was confined to his bed on account of illness, the exact nature of which was not made known. It was given out here by his intimate friends that he was threatened with a general physical collapse.

At the close of congress the senator announced that he would take a long rest, and would go to New Mexico to recuperate. He spent a few weeks there and returned to Iowa, declaring that the Iowa climate was good enough for him, and that he would remain in this state until congress convened again.

Senator Dolliver announced before the Republican convention in Iowa that he was in the best of health and that the rest had restored him. He was chosen permanent chairman of the convention.

Spoke in Wisconsin.

At the beginning of Mr. La Follette's campaign in Wisconsin, Senator Dolliver announced his intention of entering that state to help Mr. La Follette. In the meantime, however, he had gone to Ohio and Indiana to investigate some records relative to the international Rubber company. He worked hard gathering his data, and this added work seemed to affect his health.

The senator made several speeches in Wisconsin in the interest of La Follette's candidacy. At Milwaukee, he was taken ill and returned to his home at Fort Dodge.

Two weeks ago he went to Jewell Junction, Iowa, on business, and while there he contracted a heavy cold. It was feared for a time that he had contracted pneumonia. He was unable to shake off his illness and a week ago, on the advice of physicians, he took to his bed. Physicians diagnosed his case as stomach trouble, which affected his heart action.

Funeral on Thursday.

Funeral services for Senator Dolliver will be held Thursday at 2 o'clock p. m. The suddenness of Mr. Dolliver's death, which occurred while a physician was listening to the irregular beats of his heart with a stethoscope, took everyone so much by surprise, that some of the funeral arrangements are only tentative. According to present plans the obsequies will be in charge of Rev. W. M. Spence, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church of Fort Dodge. Bishop Luther B. Wilson of Pennsylvania, Dr. Frank Gunsaulus of New York city and Governor B. F. Carroll of Iowa have been invited to make funeral orations.

If the weather is good, the services will be held on the lawn of the Dolliver home. If this is not feasible, the orations will be delivered in the First Methodist church. Burial will be in Oakland cemetery, Fort Dodge, by the side of Senator Dolliver's parents.

Whole City Mourned.

Senator A. B. Cummins has come to assist the family in its bereavement and to aid in carrying out the arrangements for the funeral. Everybody in Fort Dodge is in mourning for the loss of the town's noted citizen.

Hundreds of telegrams of sympathy poured in on Mrs. Dolliver Sunday, from all parts of the country. Nearly every member of both houses of congress sent condolences. Messages also came from most of the governors and from the president, cabinet officers and other public men. President Taft sent the following telegram from Beverley:

"Mrs. J. P. Dolliver, Fort Dodge, Iowa—Mrs. Taft and I extend to you our heartfelt sympathy in your great sorrow. The senate has lost one of its ablest debators and most brilliant statesmen. The country has lost a faithful public servant.

"WILLIAM H. TAFT."

LATE SENATOR HAS RECORD IN WASHINGTON.

Washington, Oct. 17.—Twice in the limelight as a strong vice presidential possibility, and in the front rank throughout his entire career in congress as an authority on tariff and railroad rates, Senator Dolliver was one of the strong figures in public life. As an orator both in the halls of congress and on the lecture platform, he never failed to charm his audiences with his eloquence, his incomparable stories, of which he had an inexhaustible fund, and with his homely similes. He was famed principally for the biting ridicule which he was ever ready to hurl at a political opponent, and which usually went unanswered.

Born Feb. 6, 1858.

Senator Dolliver was born near Kingwood, Preston county, Virginia (now West Virginia), Feb. 6, 1858. He was graduated in 1875 from the West Virginia university and at 20 was admitted to the bar. He soon moved to Iowa and became prominent as a lawyer at Fort Dodge.

He was elected as a Republican in 1888 to the fifty-first congress, representing the Tenth district. That was his first political office and he was continued there for twelve years. On Aug. 23, 1900, he was appointed by Governor Leslie M. Shaw to fill a vacancy in the United States senate caused by the death of Senator Gear. He was elected in 1902 to succeed himself and re-elected in 1907 for a term which would have expired March 3, 1913.

Helped Frame Dingley Bill.

When the Dingley tariff law was enacted Mr. Dolliver was a member of the committee on ways and means of the house. He distinguished himself then for the active part he took in making that law.

Iowa being an agricultural state, he successfully advocated protection for farm products of the soil. During the administration of President Roosevelt, in the height of the agitation for the regulation of freight rates, Mr. Dolliver, who had gone to the senate, filled a conspicuous role. The Hepburn-Dolliver law, amendatory of the original act creating the interstate commerce commission, was, to a large extent, the product of his labors, although after that measure was reported to the senate, it underwent many changes of which he did not approve.

It was in connection with the enactment of the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill during the present congress that Senator Dolliver attracted the greatest attention throughout the country. During the life of Senator Allison, one of the standpat leaders of the senate, Dolliver, then the junior Iowa senator, was constantly within the shelter of his venerable colleague's guidance. After Allison died and was succeeded by Senator Cummins, who had long been known as a progressive, Senator Dolliver joined hands with his new colleague and incurred the enmity of the Republican political faction with which he had so long been affiliated.

Against Payne Bill.

In debates with nearly every Republican standpat orator, Senator Dolliver contributed many of the brightest pages of the Congressional Record of the session of last year. He was one of the ten senators who voted against the Payne-Aldrich bill.

In the Republican national convention at Philadelphia in 1900, which renominated McKinley for the presidency, Dolliver probably would have been the nominee for vice president, if Senator Platt and other Republican leaders then in power had not determined upon the nomination of Roosevelt. Again in Chicago at the last Republican national convention, the Taft leaders wanted a man from Iowa for second place on the ticket, but the delegation was so divided between Cummins and anti-Cummins forces that the selection of Dolliver, the real choice, became possible.

When Senator Dolliver left Washington at the close of the last session, apparently strong and vigorous, he told many of the friends that he felt he had "just come into his own." By that he meant that, though associated for many years with the "old guard" in congress, he had frequently felt with a lack of sympathy with many of the measures they advocated; that he was at heart a progressive.

STUBBORN FIRE IN SYRACUSE BUILDING.

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 17.—A stubborn fire, which wrecked the Cook block at 10 o'clock last night, threatened the Yates hotel and the guests were notified to be ready to leave the building at a minute's notice. Thirty maids in the hotel were thrown into a panic and rushed out of the building, screaming in fright. After a hard fight the firemen conquered the flames. The loss is estimated at $50,000.

COAL MAN KILLED IN AUTOMOBILE WRECK.

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 17.—Charles W. Baine, a wealthy coal operator, was killed and two other occupants of his automobile were hurt when his machine dropped into a ditch on a country road near Willoughby. Baine was trying to avoid a wagon and the machine turned upside down in a brush-covered ditch.

FIND CENSUS WAS PADDED

President Taft Orders Prosecutions in Some Western Cities.

Minneapolis, Tacoma, Seattle and Aberdeen Among Them.

Washington, Oct. 17.—Staggered by the enormous growth shown by the returns of the new census for a number of Western cities, Director Durand of the census bureau ordered an investigation, the result of which appears in an announcement that gross frauds have been perpetrated. Mr. Durand gave out also a letter from President Taft, directing that persons implicated in the alleged frauds should be prosecuted.

Cities specifically mentioned as being affected by the frauds were: Tacoma, Seattle and Aberdeen, Wash.; Portland, Or.; Minneapolis, Minn.; Boise, Idaho, and Fort Smith, Ark., but it is said that there are many others.

Tacoma Badly Padded.

A second enumeration of Tacoma shows a population of 82,972, an increase of 45,258, or 120 per cent, over the population of 1900. The first figures turned in were 116,248. In other words, the actual population was padded to the extent of 33,296, which would have meant a further addition of 40 per cent.

The additions were made in 34 out of the 73 enumeration districts in Tacoma. In some of these districts the number reported proved to be several times greater than the actual population. In ten districts the first enumeration showed 29,753 names, whereas the correct number was found to be 11,646. The statement issued by Director Durand consists in the main of letters written by himself to Secretary Nagel of the commerce and labor department, in which the whole case is presented, and of a brief letter from President Taft to Mr. Nagel, dated Oct. 11.

Padded by Slips.

The letter of Director Durand also addressed to Secretary Nagel sets forth that attempted "padding" of the census was brought about mainly through the use of slips printed by private individuals and containing the census questions. These were distributed very generally on street corners and elsewhere and were filled out by thousands of people who either had already been enumerated, or who were not permanent residents of the city and not entitled to enumeration there. It is possible in some cases the names were wholly fictitious. The slips were turned over by the private individuals who collected them through a special agent of the census bureau named Corwin, to thirty-four of the enumerators, and they, under the instructions of Corwin, added the names to the enumeration by assigning them as "boarders" or "lodgers" to various houses in their districts.

In other words, the director states, the enumerators made the false statement that the people were residents at this or that particular street number, although the enumerators knew nothing in regard to the names so fraudulently added.

Mr. Durand says that investigations are in progress with reference to a few cities besides those named. "In some of these cases," he says, the padding was apparently not due to any concerted action, but was done by a few individual enumerators, apparently rather in order to increase their own pay than in order to exaggerate the total population of the city."

IRON AND STEEL REVIEW

New York, Oct. 17.—Contracts for pig iron were placed last night aggregating 100,000 tons, of which 40,000 tons were bought in the East and 60,000 tons in the West and Central West. The increased activity was due to the willingness of furnaces to accept the prices current for the last quarter of this year for the first quarter of next. Basic iron in the Central West made a new low record, $13 at the furnace; otherwise there was no essential change in prices.

The United States Steel corporation has blown out another furnace and its output of pig iron is now 66½ per cent of capacity and the production of the finishing mills has dropped below 70 per cent on the general average.

Wire products continued quite active and agricultural implement-makers placed some contracts for steel bars last week for delivery up to April, 1911. Railroads did not increase purchases of equipment and most orders for bridges and terminals are still mainly held in abeyance. Contracts for fabricated structural steel aggregated 15,000 tons, of which only 4,000 tons were taken by the American Bridge company. The United States government has finally asked for tenders on the postoffice building to be erected at the Pennsylvania terminal, New York City, about 14,000 tons of steel shapes are required and bids are to be in Oct. 31. First bids on the New York subway are to go in next Thursday. The New York Edison company has placed an order for a new building in New York City requiring 300 tons and the Western Electric an order for an addition to its Hawthorne plant in Chicago. The Adams Express company building will probably require 8,000 tons of steel.

AFTER DOCTORS FAILED

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Cured Her

Knoxville, Iowa. — "I suffered with pains low down in my right side for a year or more and was so weak and nervous that I could not do my work. I wrote to Mrs. Pinkham and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills, and am glad to say that your medicines and kind letters of directions have done more for me than anything else and I had the best physicians here. I can do my work and rest well at night. I believe there is nothing like the Pinkham remedies." — Mrs. CLARA FRANKS, R. F. D., No. 3, Knoxville, Iowa.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills, and suffering women owe it to themselves to at least give this medicine a trial. Proof is abundant that it has cured thousands of others, and why should it not cure you?

If you want special advice write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for it. It is free and always helpful.

NEW ALDERMAN TO BE CHOSEN

Eveleth Council to Select Three for the New Wards.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Tomorrow evening three new aldermen are to be elected by the council to fill the positions in the new wards that have been added to the city. H. S. Sherman, chief chemist of the Fayal mine, and a member of the school board, it is thought will be chosen in the Fourth ward, Fayal district, while George A. Perham is regarded as the most likely selection in the Fifth ward, Central division No. 2. In the Sixth ward the fight promises to be warm, two mining men, Capt. Davey and ex-Alderman Edward H. Hatch, being in the race.

Five Aldermen Now.

At present council consists of five aldermen; president of the council, Joseph Wilson, First ward; W. G. Sutherland, Second ward; G. W. Mulligan, Third ward; C. H. Jesmore and M. J. Doyle, aldermen-at-large. Desks for the new aldermen have been ordered and the new officials will be sworn in tomorrow, giving Eveleth eight city fathers.

The question of the selection of a chief of police is also expected to be considered. There are several applicants.

CHISHOLM PLANS PEOPLE'S BATHS

Agitation for Cleanliness May Bring Benefit to the People.

Chisholm, Minn., Oct. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Public baths are being agitated here as a result of the lectures of Rev. Father Tscholl of this village who is lecturing on "Tuberculosis and Its Treatment," emphasizing the importance of cleanliness in the battle being waged on the white plague.

The council is giving the matter serious consideration.

The plans already discussed contemplate a pool of cement construction, 11 by 50 feet, shower baths and all the equipment of the most modern public baths. It is proposed to erect the bath house near Lake Longyear and use the exhaust steam of the big Corliss engine of the Mesaba Range Power company to provide heat during the winter. It is estimated that the cost of establishing the baths will be about $3,000.

AURORA OWLS IN A SUNDAY PICNIC

Have Outing in Grove West of Town, 300 People Attending.

Aurora, Minn., Oct. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Owls' picnic, which was held in the grove west of town yesterday, was a very successful affair. There were over 300 people in attendance and a substantial sum of money was realized by the order.

The Owls' nest at Aurora was organized only two weeks ago, but already has a membership of over fifty, with many more applicants to come before the next meeting. The members are all enthusiastic, and have many social events planned for the winter.

STARTS VIRGINIA FLAT.

John Landrigan Begins Work on His New Building.

Virginia, Minn., Oct. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Landrigan has let the contract for the erection of a six-flat building at the corner of Wyoming and Hickory to Gust Anderson of Chisholm. Work on the structure has commenced.

The Busy Bee Little Girls' society will meet next Saturday afternoon, Oct. 22, with Mrs Martin Nelson, Beech street.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Kelly have returned from Houston, Minn., where they had been in attendance upon the funeral obsequies of a brother of Mrs. Kelley.

CONSIDERING SITE FOR NEW SCHOOL

Eveleth School Board About Decided Upon Tract in Adams District.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The subject of the selection of a site for a new $60,000 eight-room primary building, in the Adams district, is being discussed by the school board and two plots of land lying near the Adams kindergarten are now being considered.

The school board has received a comprehensive communication from Dr. P. M. Brown, former school inspector, for the last school year. The Helps-Shea company of this city was granted the contract to install an automatic flusher at the Adams school building.

The claim of Henry Hendrickson of Duluth, who erected the present high school building, was thoroughly discussed. The bill amounts to $500, but Hendrickson is now bankrupt, so action in the matter was deferred until more information could be secured.

The board also agreed to the opening of the night school in the Fayal building, tomorrow evening, and the school will be conducted continuously until Dec. 10, with eight teachers, under Principal Miss Lila Stanaway. Primary subjects will be taught, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of each week, 7:30 to 9:30 p. m. free.

The domestic science department will also be allowed to conduct boy classes in camp cooking under the direction of the regular teacher, Miss Emmalissa Mandeville, and a large class will be started this week.

SPRUCE 4 MINER LOSES HIS LIFE

Tallow From Candle Dripping Onto Dynamite Causes Explosion.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of Emil Bohija, a Finnish miner employed in the No. 4 Spruce, who was killed Saturday as a result of an explosion caused by tallow from his candle falling into a can of dynamite he was carrying, was held today from the Finnish Lutheran Concordia church, Rev. P. C. Keranen officiating, with interment following at Virginia.

The deceased's eyes were blown out and one of his hands knocked off by the discharge of the dynamite, and death resulted almost instantly.

The deceased was 25 years old, married and very popular, having been employed in this vicinity for some time. He is survived by his wife, who resides here.

EVELETH HIGH BEATS ALUMNI AT FOOTBALL.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The high school eleven won its fourth straight game of the season when it defeated the alumni team Saturday in a very interesting exhibition of new football, 10 to 0. The alumni were clearly outplayed, in every department of the game, though they put up a strong game at times. The students' defense was perfect and the alumni failed to make consistent gains, and the school goal was never in danger.

CALUMET, MINN., HAS STARTED BIG IMPROVEMENT.

Virginia, Minn., Oct. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The H. L. Bartlett company have commenced work on a big waterworks and street improvement contract at Calumet, the total of which will amount upwards of $50,000.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of John, the 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Lakel, who died Saturday after an illness of a week with typhoid fever, was held today from the Finnish Lutheran Concordia church, Rev. P. C. Keranen officiating, with interment following at Virginia.

The funeral of the 3-month-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Belochi, who died after a short illness with infantile troubles, was held Saturday, with interment at Virginia.

CITY WILL ASK FOR SOMETHING

Virginia Council to Protect City's Rights in Telephone Franchise.

Virginia, Minn., Oct. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—When the Mesaba Telephone company's franchise comes before the city council tomorrow night it is expected the city will demand certain amendments to better protect its interests The city will ask the company to pay one-half of 1 per cent of its gross earnings into the city treasury annually, a night rate will be asked for and an effort will be made to have the company consent to making a general reduction in its rates between the several range towns and Duluth and the ranges.

"Billy" McGraw, a well-known race horse driver, has decided to locate here permanently. He will move his family from Duluth and take a position with one of the local carriage works.

FOR PATROL SYSTEM.

Hibbing Mass Meeting Demands Action By Lawmakers.

Hibbing, Minn., Oct. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Better protection for settlers living in the cutover land districts of Minnesota is demanded by resolutions adopted by a mass meeting held here.

The resolutions recite the calamities that have visited the Northern part of the state—the Hinckley, Chisholm and Spooner and Baudette disasters—in all of which inadequate fire protection in cutover land districts is blamed, and then declare:

"We urgently request the legislative and executive departments of the state to take such steps at their earliest convenience as will, so far as possible, prevent the further needless loss of life and property from that source in the timbered portions of our state, and to that end we humbly suggest that a sufficient and effective patrol system be inaugurated by the state, say of one patrolman to every six square miles of territory, whose duty it shall be to, as far as possible, prevent forest fires and to discover and extinguish them at their outset, without waiting until they have developed into a raging conflagration."

TUBERS AS TICKETS.

Eveleth Playhouse Admits Persons Who Bring Potatoes.

METHODISTS PLANNING READING ROOM AND GYM.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—A movement is now on foot to install a reading room and gymnasium in the Methodist Episcopal church basement. A petition will soon be circulated and the support of the city council solicited.

SAY INQUIRY WAS UNFAIR

our witnesses but few questions along this line.

Sought Illegal Methods.

"They seemed bent upon endeavoring to find that this association, or some other form of organization, somewhere in the country, was in an unlawful combination to control prices and competition. Their questions were intended more to discredit the packing house business than to ascertain the reasons for high prices, and the whole inquiry, extending over several days, indicated very clearly the deep prejudice which exists against packers, even in so dignified a body as the United States senate."

The report says that while there have been some repetitions of the usual slurs and unfounded charges against the packers, they have lacked the venom of previous years, and the opinion is expressed that a belief is growing with the public that the packers as a class are doing a legitimate business.

Refers to Meat Boycott.

"The only particular exception noted," says the executive committee, "was the so-called meat boycott of last winter, which sprung up over night and spread over the country with wonderful rapidity as a protest against the high price of meats at that time."

of both the Democratic and Republican state committees and to the large body of political writers who are here in Columbus and has been approved by all the observers as being practically correct.

Certain Democratic districts: Second, Third, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, Ninth, Thirteen, Fourteenth, Fifteenth, Seventeenth.

Certain Republican districts: First, Eighth, Tenth, Twelfth, Sixteenth, Nineteenth, Twenty-first.

Doubtful districts: Seventh, Eleventh, Eighteenth and Twentieth.

"Nick" Longworth's District Safe.

This is the forecast as approved by politicians of both parties, but sometimes a man from outside the state, occupying a wholly detached position, is able to get a view in better political perspective than the worker on the ground.

The First district, which is that of "Nick" Longworth, is, of course, safe for the Republicans, not because Nicholas is a tower of statecraft, but because he is personally popular and because his relationship to the Roosevelt family insures him Republican support and a certain amount of Democratic support.

The Second district is also a Cincinnati district. The sitting member Herman P. Goebel, has the advantage of a German name and a German community and has been returned to four congresses. But he has been emphatically a "standpatter" and there is revolt in his own party. I am told that the god in the Cincinnati machine, George B. Cox, looks on him with scant favor and I discover that here at least the Republicans think he will be beaten by the Democratic candidate, Alfred G. Allen.

Some Sure Democratic Districts.

The Third, Fourth, Fifth and Sixth districts have been represented by Democrats and will be in the Sixty-second congress. The sitting members in the order named are James M. Cox, William E. Tou Velle, Timothy T. Ansberry and Matthew R. Denver. Of these only Tou Velle failed of renomination. J. H. Goecke, nominated in his place, is making a strenuous campaign and I am unable to find any belief even on the Republican side that he can be defeated. Denver in the Sixth represents a district which was always Republican until he entered upon the field. He is a son of Gen. Denver, for whom the Colorado capital was named, is a man of substance, a manufacturer and a banker, and withal a representative who has compelled respect at Washington. His last majority was barely 2,000, but there is no apprehension of his failure this year. In the other three districts just mentioned the normal Democratic majorities are so high that the Republicans have no hope of success.

Gen. Keifer May Be Retired.

The Seventh district this year is decidedly doubtful. That picturesque and possibly eccentric veteran of politics, Gen Joseph W. Keifer, who used to be famous for being the worst speaker the house of representatives ever suffred, but who in later days is more noted for his habit of wearing evening clothes all day, is renominated on the Republican ticket. One J. B. Post, a prosperous young business man, is making a vigorous fight on Keifer, his tariff record and his indomitable "standpatism." There is plenty of insurgency in this district and I find that the Republican committee is much worried as to the outcome, notwithstanding the fact that the district is normally Republican by more than 3,000 votes.

In the Eighth district the Democrats profess hope of electing their nominee because of the defeat of the Republican sitting member, Ralph D. Cole, for renomination. Personally, I rather doubt the value of their claims. This district is the largest wool growing district in Ohio and for years past the farmer who raises sheep and the merchant who handles the wool have been very shy of Democratic tariff policies.

The Ninth district includes Toledo and is represented by Gen. Isaac R. Sherwood, a Democratic wheel horse from time almost immemorial The Republicans do not claim this district, and what Sherwood thinks about it may be indicated by the fact that he is traveling about the state speaking for other congressional candidates without bothering as to his own future.

An interesting district is the Eleventh, which is classed as doubtful. It is now represented by a Republican who had about 1,200 majority. It is a mining district and the Democratic candidate, H. C. Claypool, was a mine boy and a miner. His life has been largely spent under ground and for that reason he will appeal very strongly to a mining constituency. The Republicans do not claim the district and are plainly worried about it.

Frank S. Monnett Now Democrat.

The Twelfth district has a certain national interest in the fact that Frank S. Monnett, once a Republican attorney general of Ohio, and who only recently has become an avowed Democrat, is the nominee on the Democratic ticket. The district is normally Republican by from 7,000 to 9,000. The sitting member, Mr. Taylor, is popular at home and in Washington, but Monnett has a long time reputation as an anti-trust agitator, his fight on the Standard Oil company when attorney general having been the one thing that forced him out of the Republican party. He has also been attorney for the American Federation of Labor in many cases of national importance and was attorney for the street car strikers in the recent street car troubles in Columbus. He achieved the dignity of having Mr. Roosevelt attack him, not by name, but by unmistakable address on the platform. How much these things will help or hurt no one can tell until the ballots are counted. Monnett will get a great labor vote, but to what extent the business and capitalistic vote may be cast against him cannot be foreseen.

Railroad's Foe Probable Winner.

Another interesting district is the Eighteenth. The Democrats think it is doubtful. I am inclined to doubt their judgment. It is held now by James Kennedy, who was elected to the last congress by a majority of 3,000. His opponent then, John J. Whitacre, is his opponent now. The district is a heavy manufacturing one, Mr. Kennedy being a member of a family largely interested in iron mills. He has been a strong "standpatter" and active worker for the tariff and a very capable debater on the railroad question. His particular fad in politics is the attack on the railroads, he claiming that all the protection to American workingmen and manufacturers is absorbed by extortionate railroad rates. It was he who first put forth that picturesque illustration of railroad discriminations by showing that you could ship pottery from Liverpool, England, to Chicago at less cost than you can ship it from East Liverpool, Ohio, to the same market. I am inclined to think that in a district of this sort this tariff record will pull the Republican candidate through.

Burton as Democrats' Help.

There is a chance, but a bare one, in the Twenty-first district, which comprehends a number of wards in the city of Cleveland. The sitting member, Mr. Cassidy, who was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the election of Theodore Burton to the senate, has this time a vigorous oppponent in the person of R. J. Buckley. The Burton standing in Cleveland and in Ohio is not good. I doubt whether on this long trip of mine through many states I have discovered so unpopular and discredited a public man as he. The Democrats are figuring that this unpopularity will to some extent affect his heir to the congressional seat. It seems rather a far-fetched theory on which to base hope for another Democrat in congress, but it may work out.

the town. A number of sailing craft are dragging their anchors and are in imminent danger of being blown out to sea.

The dredge which has been working alongside the wreck of the battleship Maine broke from her moorings and has been carried out to sea. The dredge has on board the foremost chains and other relics from the American warship.

All communication with outside points has been severed.

The National observatory reports that the disturbance is only beginning and will last probably for twenty hours.

Wire communication with the interior is cut off and the situation outside this city is in doubt.

Many Reported Dead.

The town of Batabano is said to be under water to a depth of many feet. A large number of lives have been lost there, according to reports.

A report from Regla, across the harbor, says that many persons have been killed there.

It is rumored that a great number of sailors and longshoremen have been drowned in the harbor.

It is probable the most fatalities and the greatest monetary damage was done in Pinar del Rio, where the destruction of Thursday and Friday has been added to greatly since last night, it is believed. The sugar cane crop is thought to have suffered severely.

All Traffic Suspended.

The gale came today from the south-southwest with terrible violence. Rains fell in torrents throughout the night, but let up somewhat at daybreak, though the wind held as strong as ever.

All traffic in this city and in the harbor was suspended today. Scores of lighters and other small craft have been wrecked.

All vessels in the port are doubly anchored. The steamers are under steam. The Warg line steamer Saratoga, which was due to sail on Saturday, remained storm bound.

East Coast Road Tied Up.

Miama, Fla., Oct. 17.—Weather bulletins were posted here this morning announcing the approach of a hurricane and all vessels along the Atlantic coast have been warned to prepare for severe weather. No trains have arrived here since Saturday over the Florida East Coast railroad, being held up at West Jupiter on account of a serious washout. Relief trains have been sent from Miama and Jacksonville. Continuous rains have fallen for the past three days and the entire country is flooded.

May Be "Twin" Hurricane.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 17.—Advices received by the Louisville weather bureau this morning from gulf observatories indicate that the hurricane which has been blowing in the Gulf of Mexico has either attained record-breaking proportions or is a "twin" hurricane with two centers—a rarity in meteorological annals. The weather observers report high tides at Galveston and Key West.

At Key West at 7 o'clock this morning the velocity of the wind was forty-five miles an hour from the east with wind, rain and tide increasing. The barometer was at the low mark of 29.3 and still falling.

Tide Above Normal.

The tide at Galveston was one foot above normal and the wind rising. The direction of the wind prevailing at Key West indicates that the center of the hurricane is southwest of the Florida peninsula. The weather observers expected the center of the hurricane to reach the Florida peninsula tonight. Unusually severe weather is looked for along the entire Gulf coast.

Storm Warning Issued.

New Orleans, La., Oct. 17.—The following storm warning was given out by the district weather bureau shortly after 10 o'clock:

"A tropical disturbance of great intensity close to and west of Havana. This storm is probably a different one from the storm which reached the east gulf last Friday, the earlier one having apparently moved westward into the Gulf of Mexico. Dangerous gales, reaching hurricane force, are indicated for the East Gulf region and southwestern portion of the South Atlantic during the next twenty-four hours."

TURKEY IS FACING FINANCIAL CRISIS.

Constantinople, Oct. 17.—The Turkish government is facing a financial crisis. Three members of the cabinet resigned today because of complications over the army budget.

The retiring ministers are Djavid Bey, finance; Mahmoud Scheft Pasha, war; Talaat Bey, interior.

Gas Well on Farm.

Bowbells, N. D., Oct. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Another gas well has been struck on the Kroack farm, four miles from this city, having a pressure that is even greater than that had by the first discovered well. It is located just a few rods from the first one, and, unlike the original well, spouts forth a stream of mud and water.

"When very young I began using coffee and continued up to the past six months," writes a Texas girl.

"I had been exceedingly nervous, thin and very sallow. After quitting coffee and drinking Postum about a month my nervousness disappeared and has never returned. This is the more remarkable as I am a primary teacher and have kept right on with my work.

"My complexion now is clear and rosy, my skin soft and smooth. As a good complexion was something I had greatly desired, I feel amply repaid even though this were the only benefit derived from drinking Postum.

"Before beginning its use I had suffered greatly from indigestion and headache; these troubles are now unknown.

"The change from coffee to Postum was made without the slightest inconvenience, did not even have a headache. Have known coffee drinkers who were visiting me to use Postum a week without being aware that they were not drinking coffee.

"I have known several to begin the use of Postum and drop it because they did not boil it properly. After knowing how it should be prepared they have tried it again and pronounced it delicious."

NEBRASKA IS CRUSHED

Gophers Show Unexpected Strength and Defeat Cornhuskers, 27 to 0.

Attack of Minnesota Team Is Bewildering in Speed and Strategy.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Minnesota beat Nebraska to the tune of 27 to 0 Saturday. It was a great game and 15,000 spectators saw the Cornhuskers go down to the worst defeat they ever suffered. They came boasting of their prowess. Their great left tackle, Shonka, was to tear great holes in the Gopher line. Their star quarterback, Warner, was to make McGovern, his opponent, look like 30 cents. The much heralded Rothbone at fullback was to capture Lisle Johnson alive. When the team left Lincoln they were accorded a monster demonstration. All Nebraska applauded and for once the Lincoln aggregation was certain of whipping the Gopher team to a standstill.

But, according to Bobby Burns, "the best laid plans of mice and men oft gang astey." So it happened Saturday. When the final shrill note of the whistle came across the field the Nebraska men realized they were off. The football map. Coach Cole was furious. Capt. Temple was in tears. The other members of the team were silent.

It was a glorious day for the rooters but a fierce one for the players. The thermometer was at summer heat and there was hardly a breath of air stirring. All the players on both teams were thoroughly exhausted by the warm weather and the playing showed it. The time taken out for players to recover their wind was all the rules would allow.

Much Expected of Nebraska.

The newspapers had been so unfriendly filled with reports of the great strength of the Cornhuskers that interest was at fever heat. At 10 o'clock Saturday morning crowds began to gather in front of the big gates and when they swung open promptly at 12 o'clock, the bleachers rapidly filled up with spectators who already held tickets. A long line formed in front of the ticket windows and long before the game opened all the available seats were taken. Society was out in force. Every car was taken and the long line of automobiles reminded one of opening night of a popular Broadway theater. Freshmen and gray-haired alumni, handsome co-eds and grizzled pates-about—all were there to witness what many believed was to be the crucial game in Western football. Among the spectators were many ball. Among the spectators were many distinguished business and professional men from all over the Northwest.

Walter Camp, the dean of American football, journey from Seattle to Minneapolis only to find his team eight hours late and himself too late to see the game. Last year he became attracted by the reports that Minnesota had a wonderful team. This year he had a wonderful team. This year he wanted to see the game because he knew they were a wonderful team. Last year, without hesitation, he picked McGovern as the All American quarterback and will probably do the same again this year. Those in a position to guess say that other Minnesota players are to be slanted for this enviable distinction. Loyal Minnesotans say the whole team should be so treated. Certain it is that the whole state of Minnesota regrets that Mr. Camp didn't see the game, for it would have been a revelation to him.

Promptly at 2:15 the doors of the Armory opened and the Cornhuskers led by Capt. Temple trotted on to the gridiron. A small but enthusiastic lot of Nebraska rooters welcomed them loudly. A glance at the Nebraska team gave the Minnesota rooters the team gave the Minnesota rooters the chills. They looked fit as a fiddle. They are the heaviest team in the West by a good many pounds. The newspapers had not exaggerated. Coach Cole has a lot of giants. They quickly lined up for practice and went through their signals with the speed of the wind. Minnesota stock went down several points. It looked like a Waterloo for Dr. Williams.

Gophers Given Ovation.

The Minnesota boys were late and did not come on to the field until 2:25. It was a bedlam when they did come led by Capt. Lisle Johnson. Hats, canes, handkerchiefs, gloves, ribbons, everything went into the air and the roar was deafening. The snappy "Ski-U-Mah" made the welkin ring. The band tooted its full capacity. The female contingent among the rooters sang their football songs. The bleachers sent up yell after yell that could be heard for blocks. Every player on the Minnesota team came in for his share of an individual college yell. Right here every Minnesota player made up his mind to do the best in him for the honor of the Maroon and Gold. The men limbered up by going through a few signals.

Exactly on schedule time of 2:30 the shrill call of the referee's whistle sounded, and another great athletic contest was on. Minnesota defending and Nebraska had the kickoff. Collins for the visitors booted the ball to the Gopher twenty-yard line and the scrimmage was to begin. Fifteen thousand spectators were breathless. Would the Gopher offense smash down the great forwards? Would the heavy Cornhuskers prove too much for the Minnesota boys? The result was in doubt but a very few minutes. Like demons and with the speed of an angry tornado the Gophers put the ball into motion. The rapidity of the plays used by Minnesota was a revelation. Nothing like it has ever been seen on a local gridiron. The versatility of the plays was amazing. New combinations never used before were pulled off with absolute accuracy. The very audacity of many of the plays took the visitors off their feet.

Cornhuskers Outclassed.

The Cornhuskers were beaten in the first ten minutes of the game. By a series of lightning-like plays, by line smashing that was a caution, by end runs that were superb and by all around brilliant playing, the Minnesota boys crossed the Nebraska line twice in six minutes.

Both goals were missed but the great audience was satisfied. The boasted Nebraska team had been more than matched. It is a great team and played a greater game, but it met a greater team that played a better game. The great Shaska went down like a plummet before the fierce charges of Walker. Warner is not to be mentioned in the same breath as McGovern when it comes to quarterbacks. Rathbone can't play fullback alongside of Lisle Johnson for a minute. Pickering at left end got around Chauner before the Nebraska boy knew what was happening. Bromley at left guard spilled his opponent Elliott all over the field. Morrell at center nailed Collins every time. Robinson at right guard put Hornberger out of the running. Young at right tackle made the redoubtable Captain Temple look like a postage stamp. Frank at right end cut circles around Lofgren. Rosenwald at left half and Stevens at right half are superior to any opponents they met and they met quite a number before the game was over. Nebraska used about all the substitutes they had trying to stop the fierce charges of the Gopher backfield. Player for player, man for man, the Cornhuskers were outclassed, outplayed and outgeneraled.

McGovern Is Star.

When it comes to field generalship and field strategy no equal can be found to Johnny McGovern. He plays football by instinct. He seems to smell the weak spots in the opposing eleven. He is the greatest field general the West has ever produced. Captain Johnson does wisely to place McGovern in charge of the team on the field. Every player on every team that has ever played against McGovern concedes that he is the greatest quarter back in the business.

The game was a complete tryout for the new rules. Every variation was played. Both teams were coached in all the possible new combinations. All the players were in excellent training and no serious injuries occurred. Elliott for the visitors injured his collar bone, but it will not put him out of any of the remaining games. The hot weather took the tuck out of the players, but a day or two will set all that right.

The fact of the matter is that in the game yesterday the Nebraska boys were bewildered by the tremendous onslaughts of the Minnesota team. Every man on the Gopher eleven played the game of his life. The Cornhuskers came expecting to find the Gophers playing the old close formation and depending on powerful close moving plays. They found an attack that was the opposite. The Minnesota team played a wide open game from whistle to whistle.

Gopher Attack Surprising.

Coach Cole had not trained his men to meet the open whirling, lightning-like tactics of the Minnesota boys. The Cornhuskers have a splendid line and no one even among Gopher adherents dreamed the gains would be made through the Nebraska forwards. Everyone was amazed, therefore, when Minnesota started in at the very beginning to rip great holes in the line and send the back field men in with their whirling, squirming, onward rushes. It brought the rooters to their feet and cheer upon cheer showed the Gophers that the great audience knew what was being done. After the first ten minutes of play the Minnesota boys let down the pace somewhat for human beings could not stand the tremendous pace they were going. No team East or West could have done better.

Those who have watched the Gopher eleven from the beginning could hardly believe what they saw. The progress of the team during the past week has been a marvel. The line has braced in a manner that is hardly believable. It is a stone wall. The back field men have mastered the new plays in a manner that leaves nothing to be desired. The precision and machine-like certainty with which plays were executed amazed even the experts. No plays went wild. Only once was a forward pass intercepted. It was the new football at its best.

The Nebraska men never really had any chance. The plays they tried were nipped in the start. Only twice did they get under way and show what they had been taught. Twice they had the ball and gave their stellar attraction, Shanka, a chance to see what he could do. He found out. Walker downed him in his tracks. These two times were really the only times that Nebraska got the ball by holding on downs. On account of the weather, which was merciless on the players, after the game was safely won the Minnesota boys played a kicking game. They kicked when it was apparently the only necessity for it was the chance to get a little rest.

The work of the officials was not pleasing to the rooters. Time after time it became apparent that the Gopher team to a man knew the rules better than the officials. It was the first time in years that the rooters manifested such an angry demonstration as they did Saturday.

Will Gophers Go Stale?

The question now comes as to the Gophers' ability to stay at the present condition. They form the greatest team in the West today. Everyone admits it. They have one of the three best teams in the United States. Can they hold up? This is the question. Chicago, Wisconsin and Michigan are developing. A few weeks make many changes. If Minnesota can keep from going stale it will stay at the place it has occupied for so long—at the top. If the game of Saturday proves to be, as many are afraid, the top-notch of Gopher development, then Minnesota will not have a championship eleven.

The management is already being flooded with letters asking for tickets for all the remaining games. Big crowds are going to Chicago and Ann Arbor and the Minnesota boys will have plenty of supporters to cheer them on.

The line-up Saturday was as follows:

PENN EASILY DEFEATS BROWN.

Providence, R. I., Oct. 17.—The University of Pennsylvania defeated Brown university here Saturday by a score of 20 to 0. Pennsylvania was added in the last part of the contest by Brown misplays. In the last quarter Ramsdell fell on the ball, which had been fumbled by Brown players, and rolled behind the goal line. A poor punt by Brown had given Pennsylvania the ball on Brown's 12-yard line, when a forward pass carried it across.

An exchange of punts during the closing minutes of the game put Pennsylvania in a position again to use the forward pass to good effect, and with several line plunges largely by Ramsdell, Harrington scored the third touchdown. Hough kicked the goal.

Pennsylvania made its first score on a field goal by Thayer, who had been placed in the game especially for the purpose during the first quarter.

CHICAGO OUTPLAYED BY THE ILLINI.

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 17.—Illinois defeated Chicago by a score of 3 to 0 in a sensational, bitterly-fought battle on Illinois field. Illinois' victory was the result of a drop-kick by Otto Seiler, Illinois' quarterback, who booted the oval over the goal posts in the first quarter. The advantage of the game was all to the Illini, except for one brief quarter, when the Maroons became dangerous. Otherwise, the Chicago team was outplayed by Illinois. The Illini gained ten times as much ground as their visitors. Twice the Illini on Chicago's one-yard line, were penalized for holding when a touchdown was certain. Once again they were on the Maroon 5-yard line when the invaders' stout Marshall field held like a stone wall. Illinois pulled off numerous forward passes, while the Maroons were unable to make ground with this play.

MICHIGAN HAS ANOTHER HARD FIGHT.

Ferry Field, Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 17.—The University of Michigan football players had to play all the football they knew to win from the powerful eleven which Michigan Agricultural college sent to Ann Arbor Saturday, but they accomplished the feat with a 6 to 3 score.

The university won by gaining through the M. A. C. forwards on split formations. The forward pass paved the way to the touchdown, but on two occasions used by the visiting team. The university played the stronger football, but failed in consistency. Hill's toe was the important factor on the M. A. C. side.

YALE FALLS BEFORE WEST POINT CADETS.

West Point Oct. 17.—The Army defeated Yale here 9 to 3 in their annual football game Saturday. The cadets outplayed the New Haven boys through the game and Yale's only score was made near the finish of the last period, when Captain Daly kicked a field goal.

The Army scored in the first period of the game after Yale, failing to gain through the Army line, essayed a forward pass, which Brown, of the Army, intercepted on his 40-yard line and ran through the whole team to Yale's 2-yard line. On the next play Searles and Dean executed a forward pass and the later went over the Yale line for a touchdown. Dean kicked an easy goal.

Until the third period the cadets played a defensive game, Dean outkicking Daly, and winning on almost every exchange. Yale lost the ball once in this period on downs, the only time during the game when it thus changed. Soon after that hard period opened, Dean made a place-kick from the 40-yard line, scoring three more points for the cadets.

Yale's only field goal came after Hyatt had muffed a punt on his 20-yard line.

Daly booted the pigskin over the goal from the 25-yard line and the game ended with the ball in midfield.

CRIMSON SHOWS UP STRONG AGAINST AMHERST.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 17.—The Harvard defense was tried to its utmost against Amherst and not found wanting Saturday and as the offense was of a dashing quality, the Crimson team won by a score of 17 to 0. Most of the game was played in the rain.

The critical point in the game was four minutes after the start when by blocking a kick, Amherst stood on Harvard's 2-yard line with a first down. Three times the purple and white players hurled themselves against the Crimson line, losing a yard each time, and finally giving up the ball on downs. So strong was the Harvard defense that Amherst did not score a single first down from a scrimmage, while the visitors' longest run was seven yards around Harvard's rich end.

NEW YORKERS READY FOR FOURTH GAME.

New York, Oct. 17.—The New York National and American league teams went out for a stiff morning practice today for the fourth game of the series of post-season games. The local series now stands: Nationals, 2; Americans, 1. Manager Chase indicated today that he would use his star boxman, Russell Ford, to even up the series. Either Crandall or Mathewson will pitch for the Nationals.

GOSSIP PICKED UP ALONG THE SPORTING HIGHWAY

Ketchel Died as He Had Lived, Violentiy—Minnesota and the Western Championship—Sandy's Last Trip to the Scrap Pile.

(BY BRUCE.)

As he lived, so he died—game, reckless and not knowing fear to the very end of things earthly.

We know how great a fighter Stanley Ketchel was, but we do not know how great a fighter he might have been, had the gun of the assassin spared him. Nor do we know, or ever will know, how great a fighter this very remarkable young athlete might have been, had he chosen to cut loose from dissipations that even at the age of barely 23, were making a wreck out of the splendid specimen of physical manhood.

Ring historians will place him high in the list of truly great fighters. He will be ranked next to Bob Fitzsimmons, as perhaps the greatest middleweight that has been produced since the wonderful and unconquerable active fighting days of Fitzsimmons.

There is no way of comparing Ketchel with Jack Dempsey, and neither are some of us so sure that he would have been able to have beaten Kid McCoy or Tommy Ryan, in the best days of those two sterling ringsters.

Yet, when all has been said and done, this Ketchel was a great fighter; great in the fact that he possessed a heart that knew absolutely nothing of the conquering cowardice of fear.

He ran away from home when a mere kid. He began his fighting career when barely 15 years of age. Conversing on a par at the age when most youngsters are safely sheltered at home, and to whom high school football games are the last degree of strenuosity, being a bouncer in one of the toughest of the Butte saloons. And they were some tough in those days.

And it is said of Ketchel that never was he obliged to use physical violence in getting a man out of the place. There is a quality in fighting men that makes itself manifest, even to the stupid, drunken observation of the man with three sheets in the wind. There was something of the absolute recklessness and farlessness about this mere kid that took the nerve out of the tough men who would have resisted under ordinary circumstances, and they left without seeking a fight with the bouncer.

That quality, perhaps more than any other made of Ketchel one of the most wonderful fighting men the ring has produced. When Billy Papke was beating poor Ketchel most dreadfully in the bull of Los Angeles battle, the seconds of the Michigan fighter begged him to permit them to throw up the sponge, in token of hopeless defeat.

Ketchel scorned the pleadings of the men in his corner, and like the lionhearted fighter he was, replied:

"I will die in the ring before I will quit."

And he would have, too.

Papke knocked him out, and later this Ketchel person came right back and gave Papke the supreme licking of his life. And always in the best condition for all of his fights, because of this wild and reckless dissipation, even when training, this young pugilist absolutely possessed in their fullest degree those qualities that compel the admiration of man, in no matter what direction they are exercised, namely, courage, tenacity of purpose, and the absolute absence of physical fear.

In the old days of pugilism they made matches with some thought of the equality of the contestants. The modern method has its eye solely to the little box office. That is one of the reasons why Ketchel was matched with Jack Johnson.

The public was buncoed in this match, as they were in the Jeffries-Johnson fight. They were led to in regard to the weight of Ketchel, and Johnson even agreed to let the youth remain a certain number of rounds, for those better informed were confident that Ketchel would prove no match for the giant black.

That fight was the beginning of the end. In its disastrous outcome lies the rather pathetic tragedy of two lives. Willus Britt, heartbroken over the defeat of his protege, entered on a carousal that resulted in his death. Ketchel, too, sought that very doubtful solace in the cup that cheers and the company of gay acquaintances. He was a wreck when he reached the ranch of Dickerson, where the closing chapter in this sensational life was played out.

Imagine a youth of 23 who has gone through the highly sensational events that have crossed the path of the late middleweight. He was a notorious character in Butte when he was only a kid, and they do say that his activities extended to the holdup business. His fighting career was one big sensational march of rapid progress. His entry into San Francisco, when he went to the Golden Gate city to start training for the Johnson fight, was quite Ketchel-like.

He drove a tally-ho up Market street, throwing money right and left to the eager crowd of men and boys who followed the coach. It was the beginning of the end, the funny anti-climax that fate sometimes plays in the lives of men.

Ketchel was a fighting freak, a physical wonder, and had he lived and had he taken care of himself, one can only conjure how great he would have become.

What do you think of Minnesota? From the showing of the Gophers to date, the team is ahead of any team in the West—and that is saying today, and not making any predictions for a certain Ann Abor date.

The Race Is Narrowing.

Either Case and the Michigan Agricultural school are strong teams, Michigan is a weak team—or another or—is coming along at a very slow pace.

Chicago must be counted out of the running, even at this early date. There is nothing to fear, much less respect, at the Midway school the present season.

Wisconsin—well, the team doesn't look very formidable at the present time, and it isn't at all likely that it will dispute the championship with Minnesota and Michigan. For the reason that Chicago is lamentably weak the present season, and Wisconsin can no longer be relied upon to turn out a championship team, the race had already narrowed to two team, unless Notre Dame and Marquette are to be calculated in the running, and given true place, in case of victory, something, by the way, which Notre Dame was not accorded last season.

Illinois, Iowa and Northwestern have fallen into the also ran class. In former years it was Minnesota, Chicago, Michigan and Wisconsin. You can readily see what interest will be taken from the general Western situation, if two of the four big Western teams are going to prove clear below championship calibre.

In the last few years Nebraska has been a serious contender, but lacked the class this year, as the decisive defeat of Saturday will show. Notre Dame, a team consistently strong in the past few seasons, should either be ranked with the other teams in eligibility rules and restrictions, as well as fair rating, or should not be counted in figuring on the possibilities of the Western results.

It looks like Minnesota today, but today is not the end of the season. Yost should have a great machine at Michigan. To date his team has evidently shown very little. It is too early to judge of Michigan yet, and for the time being we much accord the progress palm to Minnesota, which evidently has one of the best teams in the history of the Gopher institution.

Sandy Ferguson, who has played the dual role of athlete and first aid to the liquor interests, these fleeting years, and who has also bobbed serenely up as a championship contender on many sad occasions, is about through with this first flight stuff.

Eliminating Impossibilities.

With that showing against Jimmy Barry at New Orleans, someone should kindly ring the bell on any future aspirations that may linger in the sonemy what thick noodle of the Boston peace disturber.

Sandy has been eliminated to the complete satisfaction of even the most progressive believer in elimination. He is through and if he has any sense of the fitness of things, he should humbly, and with thankful spirit, seek the classic company of the scrap heap.

George Little, former manager of Johnson, the guy driven from the Johnson camp by about 195 pounds of dark meat, took up the Ferguson chap in the somewhat piqued hope that he would prove the downfall of Li'l Artha, thereby providing Mr. Little with much mirthful money and a long, raucus laugh of revenge.

Li'l Artha is about the only one that will do any laughing, and his laugh should be such a hearty one that it will convince those deep students of things that sound impressive in print, that John Artha descended from the jungle, from a savage and humor appreciating race.

ADAMS TEAM IN GREAT FORM

Broadways of Superior Defeated 26 to 0 By Fast Duluth Team.

Yesterday at Athletic park the strong Adams Athletic association football team of this city, completely outclassed and out-played the Broadways of Superior, winning by the score of 26 to 0.

By the showing of yesterday the Adams team has raised the hopes of its friends in regard to the winning of the championship of the Head of the Lakes. The Broadways were considered one of the best teams in the Head of the Lakes territory, and the easy defeat by the Duluth team has led the Adams adherents to look forward with eager interest to the game with the Blaine alumni, a team considered for many years invincible.

A large number of fans came over from Superior, confident that the Broadways would win. However, these kindly disposed rooters had little opportunity during the game to yell for the dear old home squad. The Adams got the jump, and there was never any doubt of the outcome.

Yesterday's exhibition showed the Adams boys to be stronger and better drilled than the team which represented the association last year. The line played fast and low yesterday, while the work of the backs was the best seen the present season.

Rosencrantz, Kriz, A. Genner and little Caulkins played some of the best football seen here this season. While "fat" Anderson, a husky and fast forward, opened up great holes in the Broadway defense. Arnold Olson and Krozier starred, as did Foster.

However, the work of the team as a unit stood out in brighter light than the work of any of the individual members of it, as it was the team work that enabled the Adams to roll up the high score.

The Adams scored first on a safety, Anderson smearing Quarterback Sherman behind the enemy's goal line. After the Adams had worked the ball up to the Broadway's goal by end runs and line plunges, Rosencrantz plunged over for the first touchdown, traveling from the 7-yard line.

Alder made a brilliant run from the 45-yard line, scoring the second touchdown. On the next kick off Foster got the ball and ran eighty-five yards for the third touchdown. Rosencrantz scored the fourth touchdown, going over the line from the 15-yard line.

The line plunging and end running of the Adams team was good, the interference being compact and fast, while the forward passing was the best seen in any of the Sunday games of the present season.

LUCKY WIN FOR CENTRAL

High School Very Fortunate to Defeat Kodahpa Club 12 to 0.

Saturday afternoon the Central high school football team came perilously near to defeat at the husky and willing hands of the merry Kodahpa club of this city. But for the leaning of luck to the side of the high school, there might have been a defeat instead of victory for Central. The high school won the game by the score of 12 to 0.

With the exception of the two Central ends, the high line was completely outplayed by the Kodahpa forwards. "Fat" Anderson and Vince O'Donnell went through Nolte and Captain Johnson almost at will, and it might be said here, in all kindness, at that, that the line play of the two tackles will have to spruce up considerably before Central can hope for victory over any high school team with class.

The same goes for O'Brien and Kelly. O'Brien Saturday repeatedly tried to get through the line by doing a high-hurdle leap for liberty. Upon each occasion he was invariably tossed back, as a player will be when he goes into the air.

Solheim more than held Trux safe, but from tackle to tackle, he was the only Central lineman who deserves any mention for the afternoon's work. Central has the making of a fast and hard-to-beat team; yet at the same time the game on Saturday tended to show up some glaringly weak features of the Central's play.

Joe Boyle contributed twice to the errors of play. He failed to kick twice when a kick was about the safe play. His second failure to kick under the shadow of his own goal, narrowly missed resulting in a score for the Kodahpa club. Time was called when the husky Waterworth person was about to hurl about 180 pounds of dynamic force over the line.

The work of young Boden as right end deserves praise, as does the clean and accurate passing of Joe Boyle, who aside from his two errors of judgment, played a fast game. Boden received the forward passes from the quarter cleanly and made several good gains. His playing did much to offset the superior line playing of the Kodahpas.

This Watterworth boy is some player, being a vest pocket edition of old man Zbyszko. He tears through human efforts as the conscience of a trust magnate casts aside the people's protest. If stubby Mister Watterworth had been in better shape yesterday, there is no telling what he might have accomplished.

Solheim made the only touchdown for central, getting the ball on the Kodahpas' 20-yard line and sprinting unhindered over the goal. Joe Boyle converted the play into a goal. The other scores came as the result of the higher training of the toe of Josephus Doyle, who booted one that struck the goal post and bouncer between, performing from the 20-yard line, and again booted over from the 25-yard line.

Central could not gain through the line, only a few end runs resulting in gains. The forward pass was the most successful ground gained of the day, and at this style of game the centrals had their opponents somewhat fozzled.

No lounge runs marked the game, the ball remaining for the most part out of the danger zone. For their limited practice and general lack of playing condition, the Kodahpas put up a slashing exhibition.

The lineup:

Central.	Position	Kodapha.
Higgins, Boden	re	Taylor
Johnson, Capt.	rt	Anderson
O'Brien	rg	Kent
Solheim	c	Trux
Kelly	lg	McGhie
Nolte	lt	O'Donnell

Brown, Higgins	rh	McKenzie, Rob'ts
Glass	lh	McCrae
Le Duc	fb	Watterworth, C.

CRAWFORD ON FRESHMAN TEAM

Students of the Duluth Central high school will be interested in hearing that "Bill" Crawford, captain of the high school team of 1909, is playing right tackle on the freshman team at the University of Pennsylvania. In the recent contest between the Penn. first year men and Exeter academy at Exeter, Crawford planted the ball between the goal posts twice for field goals, bringing victory to the freshmen by a 6 to 0 score.

The freshman team is an unusually strong combination this season, and the coaches have been using them against the varsity with good effect. On several practice scrimmages they have forced the ball across the varsity goal line, and they always make the older men put up a hard fight. Crawford has had considerable experience at football, both in high school and at the University of Minnesota, where he played on the second team last year.

The Minnesota State club at Pennsylvania has organized again for the year and will hold regular monthly meetings until the close of the term. This is a social club, formed for the purpose of getting the men from the Gopher state better acquainted and for propagating "Pennsy" spirit in home localities. The Zenith City is represented by five Central high graduates, Howard Manley, Siebel Harris, William Crawford, Frank Le Tourneau and William Le Tourneau. This is the largest delegation in any Eastern university from Duluth. All are taking the course in the Wharton School of Commerce and Finance, which is generally acquowledged to be the best business course in any of the American colleges.

Taylor Reaches City.

Al. Taylor of Milwaukee, one of the best shortstop billiard players in this country, and formerly instructor of the Chicago Athletic association, arrived here this morning, ready for his games this afternoon and evening with William Hatley of this city.

Taylor ranks just below such players as Hoppe, Sutton, Morningstar, and the late lamented Jake Schaefer. If local citizen Hatley is in good form, the games promise to be a great exhibition of billiards.

BRYANTS DEFEAT PROCTOR BY 10 TO 0 SCORE.

At Proctor yesterday the Bryants of this city defeated the Proctor team by the score of 10 to 0. The game was well played and was witnessed by a large crowd. The Proctor team was unable to get through the defense of the Bryants, whose forwards played a strong game.

Olund's long run, which resulted in the first touchdown for the Bryant's, was the feature of the game. Johnny Young made the second touchdown, securing the ball on a forward pass and sprinting over the goal line.

FERGUSON IS BEATEN

New Orleans, La., Oct. 17.—At the end of the fourteenth round of what was scheduled to be a twenty-round bout between Sandy Ferguson of Chelsea, Mass., and Jim Barry of Chicago at the West Side Athletic club in McDonoughville, just across the river from New Orleans, yesterday afternoon, Ferguson's seconds threw up the sponge. The contest was the first of a series of elimination bouts with a view to the possible selection of a man to meet Jack Johnson, the negro heavyweight champion.

Neither Barry nor Ferguson showed championship form.

Just after the men had advanced to the center of the stage to receive instruction from the referee, Barry extended his hand toward Ferguson, who responded with what appeared to be a left jab to the face and for a time the ring was in an uproar. Spectators rushed to the aid of their respective principals and it took the combined efforts of several policemen to quell the disturbance. Referee Tommy Walsh instructed the men while their seconds held them in opposite corners "to fight from the ring of the gong."

The first three rounds were about even, Barry showing greater science and better footwork than his huskier opponent and doing most of the leading. In the fourth a straight to Ferguson's nose drew blood.

Ferguson had a shade the better in the sixth and seventh rounds and in the tenth he looked a winner, landing several blows, right and left to the wind and face, bringing blood from Barry's nose. After this the fight was all Barry's, who came up strong in the eleventh. Landing almost at will he had Ferguson apparently dazed up to the finish. In the thirteenth Barry floored Ferguson with a straight jab to the side of his head. In the fourteenth Barry rushed his man and at the bell Ferguson was a beaten man. His seconds then gave up the contest.

MAROONS WIN ANOTHER GAME

The Maroons defeated the Beavers Sunday afternoon at Thirty-second avenue west by the score of 8 to 7. The game was close and exciting from start to finish. In the first period Skomars of the Maroons made a beautiful drop-kick from the thirty-yard line. Shortly after the Maroons scored a touchdown, Dumoe getting the ball on a fumble ran fifty yards for a touchdown. Dumoe failed at goal. In the second period Pietta of the Beavers punted behind the opponents goal line, Skomars falling on the ball giving the visitors two points. Pietta scored a disputed touchdown in the same period, Referee Gilleland finally deciding in favor of the Beavers. In the third and fourth periods neither team scored.

Next Sunday afternoon the Maroons will line up against the strong Park Point team at Thirty-second avenue west to decide a tie game played Oct. 2. The line-up yesterday follows:

FAIRMONTS ARE DEFEATED BY BLAINE ALUMNI.

The Fairmonts of West Duluth, contenders in the championship football race for the Head of the Lakes honors, yesterday met defeat after playing a great game against the strong Blaine Alumni team of Superior, the score being 10 to 0 in favor of the Superior team.

A. A. Buchanan made the first touchdown for the Blaine team, after the ball had been carried 70 yards down the field. The second touchdown was scored by Nord failing on a ball fumbled behind the Fairmont's goal.

The game was the best and scrappiest played in Superior the present season, and reflected credit on the lighter Duluth team, which has improved wonderfully since the game alst Sunday with the Broadways.

The lineups:

Fairmonts.	Position	Alumni.
Erickson	fb	Nord
Johnson	rh	Buchanan

Lester Park Wins.

The Lester Park football team defeated the Cathedral high school team by a score of 16 to 5 Saturday. The game was fast and clever and the work of Baker and Gunderson, ends for the Lester Parks, featured the contest. Good team work on the part of the Lesters resulted in the victory. Games may be arranged with the Lester Parks by calling up 6029, new phone.

THE KITCHEN

Macaroon Tartlets.

Line some patty tins with pastry, put a little jam in each, then make a light sponge mixture, flavored with rutafia. Put two spoonfuls on each tart and bake till brown. Serve hot or cold.

Mayonnaise and Tomato Sandwiches.

Have ready two slices of thin bread and butter; on one piece lay chopped tomatoes which have been carefully skinned, on the other spread very thinly a good mayonnaise sauce. Press the two lightly together, stamp into dainty shapes and serve.

Fowl in Batter.

Take the remains of a cold fowl, divide into neat joints, remove all skin, dip each piece into seasoned flour, rub over with a little salad oil and set aside. Prepare a good frying batter, dip each piece of fowl into it and fry in deep fat. Serve round a pile of peas or French beans.

Cauliflower Italian Style.

Boil a nice cauliflower until almost tender, place it in a fireproof dish, season with pepper and salt, scatter the chopped yolk of a hard-boiled egg with a little grated cheese over all. Dissolve one ounce of butter and pour over the vegetable. Make very hot in the oven and serve at once. This is a very good course by itself with a garnish of crescent of fried bread.

Swiss Pudding.

Butter a fancy pudding basin, break up any pieces of stale cake, fancy bread or macaroons, taking care that the pieces are not very small. Half fill the basin with these. Beat two eggs in one pint of milk, sweeten to taste and flavor nicely, pour slowly into the pudding basin. Let all soak for one hour and a half. Steam three-quarters of an hour and serve turned out with sweet sauce poured over it.

Ginger Cordial.

This makes a refreshing hot or cold drink and is especially useful for people who are troubled with flatulency. Put one pound of loaf sugar and half an ounce of citric acid into a jug; pour on one pint and a half of boiling water and let it stand until dissolved. Strain through muslin into glass bottles and tightly cork. Use two tablespoonfuls to a small tumbler of water

Hot Ham Sandwiches.

These form a tasty supper dish. Mix a cupful of minced ham, a tablespoonful of chopped parsley and work all together. Beat an egg with a teacupful of milk, dip the sandwich in this, stand for a while and fry on both sides in dripping.

Helps for the Cook.

Save gravies, sauces and soups; all are valuable to a good cook in re-cooking fish and meats.

When loaves are baked too brown do not cut off the burnt crust, but, when cold, rub the loaf with a coarse grater.

If the upper inside edge of a pan is well greased with butter, chocolate, milk, cocoa or anything of the kind it will never boil over.

Before baking pastry always test your oven with a piece of bread anything and do not attempt to bake anything till you have a good, steady heat, so that the pastry will rise and cook properly.

When cleaning the range, add half a dozen drops of turpentine to the blacklead; stir well and use and a brilliant polish will reward the worker. This method also serves to prevent the stove from rusting when not in use.

THE EVENING STORY

ON THE RINK

By Peter Parsons.

On a certain Saturday afternoon, as the clock hands pointed to the hour of 2, Alfred Bunsby emerged from the forbidding portals of the office. There was a brightness in his eye and almost a flush on his sallow cheek. For five and a half days Alfred had been existing. Now for the space of a few joyous intoxicating hours he was to live. In a word, Alfred had flung aside the servile garb of clerkdom. At the depot, a mile removed from the office, Alfred "lunched" as magnificently as a quarter would permit.

Lunch over, Alfred made his way afoot to a building which announced "roller skating" in large flamboyant letters. People were pouring eagerly through the entrance, and on Alfred's ears fell in diminuendo the roar of the speeding skates. A few moments' irresolution and the emancipated quill-driver planked down his shilling and entered.

The festive scene that met his gaze was one which quickened his pulses with a sensation half of delight and half of timidity.

How it happened Alfred scarcely knew, but in an amazing short period (as it seemed) he found himself being equipped by an alert youngster with a pair of skates. Another moment and he was placed on his feet—or, rather, their substitute. With a look of frenzied determination he slid toward the opening making for the rink, and with a sign of relief gripped with desperate clutch at the protecting barrier—only just in time.

Dare he try to join that giddy throng? Whilst torn twixt desire and doubt a voice broke on his thoughts:

"Would you care for a round or two?"

Alfred turned and saw to his astonishment an attractive-looking girl smiling into his eyes. She was clad in a most becoming suit of white, the abbreviated skirt of which left the eye free to rest upon a pair of fetching long boots encasing faultless ankles.

Alfred gasped, then, remembering the unconventionality of rinking methods, recovered himself with an effort.

"I would be—er—delighted—er—more than delighted, miss," he stammered. "Unfortunately, I am—er—not what you might call expert at skating."

The girl smiled merrily.

"Then it's time you became one,' she laughed. "Shall we make a start?"

With many inward misgivings, alternating with his natural rapture, Alfred seized the charmer's proffered hands in a tense grip and was drawn into the vortex of whirling wheels.

In a very few moments Alfred realized that his fair companion was a mistress of the roller-skating art. Somehow or other he managed to guide his floundering feet. Time after time when he felt the irresistible force of gravity drawing him to the hard, unsympathetic floor he was saved by her adroitness and skill. And at last our young tyro actually began to feel the thrill that comes from the first shoot of progress and confidence.

"I say, this is a bit of all right," he murmured exultingly. "Wonder what what made her ask me? I suppose she saw I was a gent. Wonder who she is? Real lady, I can see that. Well, if this doesn't take the bun."

Then ensued for Alfred two hours of undiluted joy. He progressed amazingly, and when during the interval for the discussion of tea (Alf's suggestion) his partner congratulated him on his improvement, he felt emboldened to squeeze her hand amorously and plead for yet another spell of bliss.

The girl in white demurely assented, and Alf struck out with positive fearlessness. A minute or two later his cup of happiness was filled to the brim by the spectacle of a fellow clerk standing at the rails watching him with a look which revealed to Alf unutterable envy and admiration.

"Don't he wish he was in my place?" gurgled Alf. "My word, won't I have something to tell the boys on Monday?"

As he came round again he could not forebear a triumphant wave of the hand. This was the point where Alf's confidence merged into recklessness, for the unwary salute swept him off his balance, and, clutching wildly at his escort, he caressed the floor with enthusiastic vigor, compelling the unfortunate girl in white to join him.

Friendly attendants helped Alf to his feet. His dazed eyes first encountered the grinning face of Tomkins, his colleague, and then fell ruefully on the countenance of his companion, who was removing the dust from her skirt, and on whose attractive features rested an expression anything but amiable.

"I say, miss, I am awfully sorry—" he began.

"It doesn't matter," retorted the young woman, in a tone which hardly connoted the words. "All the same you're the first fellow who has brought me down ever since I've been the instructress here, and I've been with a few clumsy idiots, too."

A perspiration broke out on Alfred's forehead. A sudden light broke on his understanding. That costume! That invitation! Those abbreviated skirts! Oh!

"You're the instructress, then?' he gasped.

"Of course I am!' replied the girl in white, crossly. "You owe me $2 for two hours' lesson. It's $1 an hour, but I would recommend you in future to practice in the nursery before trying another lesson.

Alfred paid, and as he rolled gingerly toward the exit by the aid of the rail, the jeering voice of Tompkins flouted to him:

"Say, Alf, old man, you are throwing your coin about today."

Alf deigned no reply. He was engaged in swearing a solemn vow that he would never put on a pair of roller skates again.

Fourteen More Boston Folk Added to the "Ultra Fashionables"

MRS. W. ASHLEY.

MRS. BAYARD THAYER
Of Boston.

MRS. G. VON L. MEYER.

Rev. C. W. de Lyon Nichols, governor general of the national society of Sclenis of Colonial Cavaliers of America, etc., has just added the names of fourteen Boston society folk as eligible to appear in the forthcoming edition of his ultra fashionable peerage of America. The names are the following: Mr. and Mrs. Lothrop Ames, Mr. and Mrs. Amor Hollingsworth, Dr. and Mrs. William Appleton and Miss Susan H. Appleton, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Prince, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer and Mr. and Mrs. Bayard Thayer.

This together with the previous list, which included Miss Eleanor Sears, Mr. and Mrs. Prescott Lawrence, Miss Prescott Lawrence, Mrs. J. De Forest Danielson, Mr. and Mrs. Hollis H. Hunnewell, Mr. and Mrs. William Phillips nee Drayton, granddaughter of Mrs Astor, Mr. and Mrs. Larz Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Van Rensclaer Thayer makes a total of twenty-seven —an excellent showing for Boston, and it is final.

Secretary of the Navy George Von L. Meyer, Mrs. Meyer and the Misses Meyer are also listed as ultra fashionable. Mr. Nichols adds Mrs. Amor Hollingsworth, whose name with that of her husband heads the revised list, was Miss Edith C. Cryden, one of the somewhat famous Cryden triplets, daughters of Duncan Cryden of New York and prime favorites with the late Mrs. Astor and her coterie, Miss Susan H. Appleton, the most important debutante of Boston's coming season, is a niece of Mrs. George B. de Forest and of Mrs. Woodbury Kane, nee Rargousa, national belle of New York and Newport.

There are few American pedigrees better than that of the Boston Appletons. The father's family was connected with a Boston man, Joshua Bates, a banker, who went to England and became one of the firm of Baring Bros. Joshua Bates' grandson whose family seat is New Lodge, Windsor Forest married Lady Emily Georgianna, a sister of Lady Coventry and of the present Earl of Craven, who married Miss Bradley-Martin.

Of Mrs. Jack Gardner, Mr. Nichols says: "I was very glad to hear that Mrs. Gardner was a guest of the Richard T. Wilson, Jr.'s at the Saratoga races, for they belong to the national society and it looks as if possibly Mrs. Gardner might ultimately decide to range herself fully in line with the ultra-fashionables. Further anent of Mrs. Gardner, Albert Bierstadt, the landscape painter married Mrs. Fitz Hugh Ludlow, who was beautiful Rosalie Osborne, a cousin of my mother's. After her death, Mr. Bierstadt married Mrs. Jack Gardner's multi-millionaire stepmother, Mrs. David Stewart of New York and I remember they were entertained by Queen Victoria at lunch on the Isle of Wight on their wedding journey. The reason why Mrs. Jack Gardner and her stepmother, Mrs. David Stewart parted company before the marriage of the former was owing to differences of opinion as to the ownership of certain pieces of bric-a-brac and lace in the Fifth avenue mansion not specified in Mrs. Stewart's will and furthermore because Miss Isabelle Stewart insisted upon receiving young gentlemen callers rather later than her very conventional step-mother approved."

Of Boston women in general, Mr. de Lyon Nichols says, "I am rejoiced to know that each year it can be said less truthfully that Boston women pay more attention to the cosmos than to the cosmetics. I like to see a woman painted when she needs it, provided it is done decorously and not with coarse rouge powder, but with a liquid rosee ate beautifier, which is one of the secrets of the toilette of certain ultra-smart women of the Newport set. Really if we take life seriously and at its true worth, any accomplished coquette employs as many ideas and combination of ideas as were needful for the mental outfit of an Aristotle or a Solon."

The Nursery

Eggs for Small Children.

When an egg is boiled for a small child to eat it should be put into boiling water and not allowed to remain there for more than two minutes, which just sets the white of the egg.

Opportunities for Muscle Building.

An infant two or three months old always begins to sleep less during the day and will greatly enjoy being placed occasionally upon a soft mattress or soft sofa and allowed to roll and kick as he pleases. Such exercise will greatly tend to develop the muscles, and the child will also learn to use his limbs and walk earlier than if deprived of this freedom of action.

The Teething Time.

Baby often catches cold during teething time, through dribbling. Dribbling and teething come together, and the bib often gets very wet, so care should be taken to change it very often to prevent the baby from catching cold. It is a wise precaution to let baby wear a flannel bib under his white one and both must be changed and dried as soon as damp. Baby's mouth needs special attention during teething and must be kept scrupulously clean.

Nail Biting.

Bitten nails are such a disfigurement, not only at the time, but they spoil the shape of the fingers. If your child bites his nails do not rest till you have cured him of the habit. Paint the tips with bitter aloes, and help him in every way possible. Gloves should be worn at night.

How to Talk

By CONSTANCE CARRUTHERS.

I see that some enterprising person has just published a book designed to show the ordinary person how an easy flow of conversation may be kept up with practically no effort at all. I do not see any author's name to this illuminating work, but I am prepared to bet that the author is a lady. What the average lady doesn't know about any sustained flow of conversation can't be worth knowing.

The golden rule in all conversation is, it appears, that you should keep your temper. I see that I am on the track of a great truth here because when you come to think of it, conversation cannot very well flourish if one of the parties to the arrangement loses his temper on the first lap as it were.

Another rule, not quite so golden perhaps, but distinctly gold-plated, is that in talking you should not talk about yourself. It is all very well to lay down a rule of this sort, but personally I can never see anything else worth talking about.

Still I recognize that there is something in the rule, because I know how it bores me when the other girl begins to talk about herself. As if it could interest me to know that she is having a tennis lawn put down, or is buying a motor car second hand, when all the time I want to tell her just how I am building the little summer house that we are putting up at the bottom of the garden. I shall leave this book about on the table when my talkative neighbors call, so that they will know that it is not all good form for them to talk about themselves. They will then be in a proper frame of mind to listen while I detail my own private grievances. It is no good going to the expense of getting a book of good advice if you can't get a snip out of it.

I have a neighbor who talks too much about herself, and I am glad now to be in a position to tell her so with the voice of authority.

I learn from my book that remarks about bad health and sudden deaths are best avoided. Indeed, after running through this book it seems to me that all the subjects of general interest ought to be avoided in polite conversation and I am beginning to think after I have acquired the art of talking nicely I shall find there is nothing to talk about. Still, I can see that you want to be careful how you lead off the conversation in mixed company. If one of the guests observes that she has sprained his foot a little, it is not at all kind of you to say that you once knew a man who did the same thing and mortification set in and he was dead in a week.

A great point to note in the art of successful conversation is that any topic that you start should be one that everybody present is interested in. This seems to me to be a rather large order. In my time I have been at many gatherings and I do not think it would be possible to fix upon any subject of universal interest unless you selected your company beforehand. Outside of the weather and the present cost of ladies' frocks I doubt if there are many subjects that all have in common.

What the writer of the book probably means is that you should try as far as possible to adapt your conversation to your audience. If you have invited a couple of missionaries to tea do not start the conversation on the subject of the chances of the favorite in the next horse race.

And, on the other hand, you cannot be too strongly warned against discussing the probable date of fossiliferous deposits of the tertiary era during the interval in a suburban whist drive.

Rhyme and Reason

By FRANK L. STANTON.

Dance My Troubles Down.

World looks like it's feelin' fine, but sad seems field and town;
Wish that I could rise an' shine an'
dance my troubles down.
Dance my troubles down—
Run 'em out o' town.
Oh, I wish that I could rise and
shine,
An' dance my troubles down.

Don't like the shadows o' the night—
the sky that wears a frown:
I need the music an' the light to dance
my troubles down.
Dance my troubles down,
Far from field and town.
Oh, I wish that I could rise an'
shine,
An' dance my troubles down.

A Primer of Life.

Some men want to be millionaires all their lives, but six days would satisfy the majority of us.

If there was an elevator going to heaven some folks would complain that riding in elevators always made them dizzy.

The Memory of the Fiddles.

I like to hear the fiddles play upon every hand;
For when I go to dancing, no trouble in the land.
In a cozy cabin from which the blue smoke curls,
How can I have trouble when I'm swingin' of the girls?
Oh, I like to hear the fiddles, but now
I'm old and grey,
And when I think I hear 'em, they're far and far away.

"I tell you," said the author, "I'm going to rise in the world."

The editor eyed him closely for five minutes, and then asked: "Balloon or elevator?"

WALKER HAS FIRE SCARE

Menace From Forest Fires so Bad Whole Village Aroused.

Flames Less Than Mile From Town But Condition Some Better.

Walker, Minn., Oct. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Walker has been fighting forest fires continually since Saturday night and today the situation became so tense that bells were rung and whistles blown to get out the people to fight the flames.

The first is less than one mile from town; is three-quarters of a mile in width; and is being fanned by the wind in the direction of the milling district.

Last evening the entire village was lighted up by the flames, but the situation today is more favorable and no disastrous results are looked for.

Over 100 men fought the fires all of last night.

ATHLETICS WIN FIRST GAME

was good natured, and gave hearty cheers to the Chicago men when they came onto the field. They were packed in so tightly, however, that ground rules making a hit into the crowd good for two bases were declared.

The Game in Detail.

First inning—Sheckard was the first man up for Chicago, with two strikes and one ball, O'Day called a policeman to put one of the moving picture men behind the home plate. Sheckard struck out. Schulte placed a beautiful single to left and was out stilling into second, Thomas to Collins. Hofman was out on a grounder, Collins to Davis, and the crowd yelled. No runs.

Strunk, the Athletic center fielder, was thrown out, Steinfeldt to Chance. Lord lifted a high one to Hofman and retired. Collins was given a great reception when he came to the plate. Collins drove a single to left, and was out on an attempted steal, Kling to Zimmerman. No runs.

Second inning—For Chicago, Chance was given a warm hand when he stepped to the plate. He drove a hot grounder to Barry and was out at first. Zimmerman took Johnny Evers' place at second base and lifted a high foul to Baker and sat down. Steinfeldt gave Baker a chance and was an easy out to Davis. No runs.

For Philadelphia, Baker drove a two-base hit into the left field crowd and was sacrificed to third by Davis, the latter going out Chance to Zimmerman. Baker scored a moment later on Murphy's beautiful single to left and the crowd almost went wild. Murphy stole second. Barry was thrown out, Steinfeldt to Chance, Murphy going to third. Thomas was given his base on balls and Bender came to the plate. Bender drove a hit between first and second, Murphy scoring. Strunk was the third out on a fly to Sheckard. Two runs.

Third Inning: For Chicago, Tinker was retired on a beautiful stop and throw Collins to Davis. The Cub star catcher, Kling, was the next man to face Bender. With three balls and two strikes on him, he lifted a high fly which was taken by Bender. Overall, with two strikes called on him, drove a hot grounder to Barry and was retired at first. No runs.

For Philadelphia, Lord drove a two-base hit into right center crowd and Chance and Overall held a conference. Collins sacrificed Chance to Zimmerman, placing Lord on third, and he scored a moment later on Baker's second hit of the game. Davis struck out, with four pitched balls. Baker was an easy out on an attempted steal, Kling to Tinker. One run.

Fourth inning — For Philadelphia Sheckard was an easy out, Barry to Davis. Schulte was sent to first on four pitched balls, Bender not being able to locate the plate. Hofman, one of the Cubs' reliable hitters, struck out and Chance came to the plate. He did not have an opportunity to hit the ball, as Schulte was out stealing, Thomas to Collins. No runs.

At this juncture Manager Chance brought McIntyre to the slab and sent Overall to the bench.

For Philadelphia—Murphy, the first man up was thrown out, Tinker to Chance. Barry drove a grounder to Steinfeldt and went out, first, Thomas fanned. No runs.

Fifth inning: For Chicago, Chance was an easy out to Davis, Collins assisting. Zimmerman who did such phenomenal hitting in a recent game at Cincinnati, was struck out on four balls. Steinfeldt also fanned. No runs.

For Philadelphia, Bender was given a warm reception when he came to the plate. Bender was unable to connect with McIntyre's curves and he went to the bench. Strunk was sent to first on four pitched balls, and was an easy out on an attempted steal. Kling to Tinker. Lord was third out, retiring on three pitched balls. No runs.

Sixth Inning—For Chicago, Tinker lifted a high fly to center and was an easy out by Strunk. Kling sent a high fly to Murphy was an easy out. McIntyre struck out, making the fifth for Bender thus far. No runs.

For Philadelphia, Collins was tossed out by Zimmerman to Chance. Tinker made a pretty stop and throw of Baker's grounder, retiring him at first. Davis went out the same route. No runs.

Seventh Inning—For Chicago, Barry jumped in the air and pulled down Sheckard's high bounder, getting the latter at first. Schulte was retired on strikes. Baker made a remarkable stop of Hofman's grounder and got the runner at first. No runs.

For Philadelphia, Sheckard took Murphy's long drive off the ropes in left center, Barry was retired at first by Chance, unassisted. Thomas was given his base on balls. Bender was out at first, by Chance, unassisted. No runs.

Eighth Inning—For Chicago, Collins made a pretty stop of Chance's grounder and got the latter at first. Zimmerman again struck out. Steinfeldt popped a weak fly to Baker. No runs.

For Philadelphia, Strunk was tossed out, Zimmerman to Chance. Lord sent a fly to Hofman. Collins was given his base on balls and went to third on McIntyre's wild throw in an attempt to catch the Athletics' second baseman off the bag. Baker drove the ball against right field wall for two bases, scoring Collins. It was Baker's third hit of the game. Davis was tossed out at first by McIntyre. One run.

Ninth Inning—For Chicago, Tinker reached second on his single and Strunk's fumble. Tinker scored on Kling's single to center. Kane took his position on first to run for Kling. Beaumont, batting for McIntyre, was out Collins to Davis, Kane reaching second on the play. Scheckard struck out. Schulte was given his base on balls. With two on bases, Hofman came to bat, but his hit to Baker forced Kane at third, Baker getting the out. One run.

go into effect today. Take a room this winter down town. The St. Louis hotel will rent you one just as cheap as on the hill and save you many an unpleasant walk.

Moves to Duluth.
Harold A. Frimodig, formerly with the Portage Lake Hardware company in Houghton, and later head bookkeeper with Stuart, Kraker & Campbell of Gilbert, Minn., has resigned his position there to take one as receiving teller in the Northern National Bank of Duluth.

Recovers From Operation.
Harris Bennett, surveyor general of logs and lumber, left St. Luke's hospital this morning after undergoing an operation there.

Repair Their Broken Auto.
The automobile in which G. Honstein, Frank Mellen and E. C. Berry of Minneapolis were riding to Duluth Saturday, struck a rock, breaking the spring on the right side of the machine and stripping the forward wheel on the left side. The three men took charge of a blacksmith shop at Carlton, repaired the damage and proceeded to Duluth. The machine went in the ditch when the accident happened, but the occupants were uninjured.

Injured by Fall.
Falling and striking his head on the curb stone a man, whose name was not learned by the police, sustained a bad cut on the back of his head late this afternoon on the corner of Fifth avenue west and First street. An automobile was called and the man was taken to the hospital. It is thought that he was intoxicated.

Fined for Having Venison.
George M. Beck, a meat dealer at Second street and Third avenue west, was arrested this morning by Game Warden John Green on a charge of having venison in his possession unlawfully. He pleaded guilty in municipal court and paid a fine of $50 and costs.

Laborer is Injured.
Charles Gustafson, a laborer on the Canadian Northern railroad, was brought to St. Mary's hospital this morning with a broken leg. A car struck him and caused the injury.

Will Clean Fountains.
A force of men will be sent out tomorrow to clean the drinking fountains of the city. Those from which drinks drink are said to be in an insanitary condition, and Dr. H. E. Webster, the health commissioner, has received a number of complaints on their condition.

Buys Pine on Reservation.
The Mullary-McDonald Lumber company of Duluth was the successful bidder for pine on the Fond du Lac reservation Sept. 15, the bid of $7.50 to $8 per thousand being accepted. The company has enough timber to keep its mill at Twenty-fourth avenue west busy for many years. The mill is shut down for overhauling at present, but will be reopened about Nov. 1.

Enlist in Boy Scouts.
Fifteen boys were enlisted in the Duluth Boy Scouts of America yesterday afternoon at the Boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. There are now thirty full fledged "tenderfeet" in the organization.

Osteopathic Physician.
Dr. Lillian Moffat, osteopathic physician, 405 Providence building.

Feast of Tabernacles.
Rabbi Lefkovits will speak tonight in Temple Emanuel on "The Extra Pouch." The service will be the first of the Jewish thanksgiving services. Today is the feast of the Tabernacles and is regarded by the Jewish people as a holiday. The intervening days between the first and the last of the thanksgiving holidays, six in number, are most important from a religious viewpoint and are celebrated with fitting solemnity and appropriate services. The last of the eight days is also a holiday.

Jailed for Stealing Dog.
John R. Porterfield, who has been confined in the county jail awaiting trial on a charge of grand larceny, this afternoon pleaded guilty to petty larceny and was sentenced to forty-five days in the county jail by Judge Cant. He is claimed to have stolen a valuable bull dog owned by Dr. McNulty.

Sent to Prison.
Milo Milovich was this afternoon given an indeterminate sentence in the state prison by Judge Cant on a statutory charge.

Grand Opening Dance.
Given by C. M. B. Dancing club, Tuesday evening, Oct. 18, in their new quarters in I. O. G. T. hall at 224 West First street. Carl Mainella, the manager of the club says that this is the first of the series of dances to be given every Tuesday evening during the winter. The committee have worked hard and have spared no pains in order to make every one who attend these dances well repaid for their time and money spent. Don't forget the days, every Tuesday evening.

NOTABLE HOUGHTON EVENT.

Corner Stone of Fine Odd Fellows' Hall Laid on Sunday.

Houghton, Mich., Oct. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—One of the most notable events in the history of the Odd Fellows of Upper Michigan, was the laying of the corner stone of the new Odd Fellows' hall here Sunday.

The corner stone was laid by F. A. Jeffers of Painesdale, a prominent member of the Pilgrim lodge, and he was assisted by Judge George C. Bentley of Hancock and members of the Pilgrim lodge, Foster encampment of Hancock, Mystic lodge of Hancock, Canton Copper City, Patriarchs Militant of Calumet, and Canton Superior of Houghton.

The temple when completed will represent a cost of $35,000 and will be the home of the Pilgrim lodge, Canton Superior and a Rebekah lodge to be organized at some time in the future.

LIFE OF TURKISH WOMEN.

"Turkish women do not wear veils because of their religion," writes Mrs. Kenneth Brown in the Metropolitan. "It is merely the survival of an old custom. When the Turks still lived in Tartary, before the time of Mohammed, it was the habit of the men to steal such women for wives as attracted them.

"This led to so much fighting that about the second century after Christ the Turks came together and decided that henceforth the women should go veiled and should not meet men, but dwell in harems as soon as they arrived at womanhood.

"The first twelve or thirteen years of a Turkish girl's life is not different from that of any other girl. She plays with children of both sexes, Turks and Europeans. The instant, however, that she becomes a woman and takes tchirchaf—the loose outer garment which conceals the figure—her companionship with boys ends.

"She no longer accompanies her father or visits that part of the house, called the selamlik, where the men are. She lives in the part of the house called haremlik, and begins her education as a woman. She learns what is expected of her as sister, daughter, wife and mother. She is not deprived of her European friends, nor of the chance of making new ones. She is permitted to study and to go about freely although veiled and attended.

"Turkish women, even the most enlightened of them, are very superstitious. To praise a baby to its mother is all your life is worth should the baby happen to fall ill afterward. The evil eye is the most common belief, and little children, who may be dressed in the height of European fashion otherwise, will wear under the brim of their hats a piece of garlic or other potent charm against the evil eye. Nihsay Hanoum, a woman not only well educated but possessed of an unusual mind, had four children. They were faultlessly dressed in imported English clothes, but each of them wore some trinket against the evil eye. I teased her about it, and she protested that it was not her doing.

"The slaves put them on, and I do not wish to hurt their feelings by taking them off," she said.

"I resolved to test her enlightenment, and the next time I saw the baby with her I exclaimed: "What a lovely little creature."

"'You wretch!' she cried. 'Spit on that child at once.'

"I laughed at her manifest terror, but hastened to add: 'I do not think her lovely in the least, for she has red hair and freckles and a pug nose—but I wanted to find out whether it was you or the slaves who put that garlic on your babies.'

"She shrugged her shoulders. 'The slaves did it, but I suppose I do in the bottom of my heart believe in the evil eye. It is in the blood.'

"In Turkey there is no shame attached to slavery. Can the same be said of our domestic service? Should a servant marry a rich man here and be raised into the ornamental class, would she not find it hard to live down her former state? In Turkey the mother of Sultan Khedive of Egypt, was a slave as is the wife of the Khedive of Egypt, and no disgrace attaches to the fact.

"It is this which primarily differentiates Turkish slavery from what we are accustomed to associate with the word—this and the fact that the slaves do not come from an inferior and servile race, but from among themselves. There is no caste in Turkey. All persons below the Sultan are equals before Allah. Every man and woman has a chance to rise, according to personality, intelligence, charm or beauty."

THE SAILORS' OWN PORT.

There are now about 1,000 inmates of the Sailors' Snug Harbor. Almost all nations are represented, but every foreigner must have sailed at least ten years under the American flag (native born, five years).

Besides proving the extent of his sea service the applicant must show that he is disabled and is without means of self-support. About 100 inmates die each year, and as the number of admissions usually equals the loss by death, the population of the Harbor remains at about the same figure.

The average age of men admitted is 61 years, and the average at death is 71. Of the men admitted last year, says the Metropolitan, one had been at sea for sixty years; the shortest period of sea service was six years.

To settle the question whether engineers, firemen, waiters, stewards and all the varied employes of steam vessels can be regarded as prospective heirs under Randall's will, the trustees summoned legal aid, and finally evolved the following rule of guidance: A sailor is one who is concerned with the working of the ship. According to this rather arbitrary definition many who spend their lives on shipboard are held ineligible and for many years the applications of engineers and firemen were steadily denied, but they are now admitted, although the fact is not generally known among them.

MAN'S POLITENESS.

New York Sun: "Man," said a woman traveller, "appears to have a limit to his politeness. If you go into a street car with a friend and find the vacant seats all scattered in singles a man will get up and change his seat so that you and your friends may sit together; but in the street car the seats are all alike and he loses nothing by the change, while in a railroad car the situation is different and one seat may be more desirable than another, and there politeness may be less pronounced.

"Let two women go together into a parlor car in which their seats, the best they could do, are apart, and no man will think politely offer to exchange his seat for one of their two; but there again the man loses nothing. The real test comes when a lone woman walks into a situp car where all the seats by the window are taken.

"She walks down the aisle to where she thinks she'd like to sit and there she takes a seat, by the aisle. There's a man by the window and he moves over another to it politely to make room for her, but does he offer her the seat by the window? Not often. His politeness in changing or exchanging seats seems to be limited to such changes as will leave him as well off as he was before.

"But really, do you know, I don't think I blame him? He came early so that he could get a desirable seat and if I wanted one should not I have done the same? Perhaps he was going a long distance and the seat may have been important to him. Would it be reasonable for me to expect him to give up his better seat to me anyway? I think not, really, and yet in some ways at least man does appear sometimes to have a limit to his politeness."

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

WARNER—Wilks Warner, 82 years of age, died late Saturday night at the home of his daughter, Mrs. James A. Kirkwood of 4322 McCullough street, of complications resulting from old age. Following short services at the residence late yesterday afternoon the body was shipped to his former home at Iron Mountain, Mich., for interment. He had been residing at the home of his daughter the last year.

OLD BRASS AND COPPER.

Genuine old Colonial brass and copper utensils were rarely of Russian or Oriental make. Most of them were of English or American manufacture, with occasional Dutch and French pieces.

These are now very rare, and according to Country Life in America, are seldom to be found in the shops. The brass and copper utensils offered as Colonial are mostly Russian, and half of those are modern reproductions.

The best of these old utensils came from England, much of them from Birmingham. But few of these English pieces bear any stamp. From Holland and Brittany came brass and copper milk cans and a few other pieces.

Undoubtedly a great deal of the old brass and copper was of American make. Among the early settlers there were a number of braziers, and some of the oldest brass utensils that have come down to us were doubtless their work. They worked locally and suited their styles to the needs of their customers, so that nothing like a classification or analysis is possible.

During the early part of the eighteenth century English braziers came in considerable numbers to New England and plied their trade there, introducing many of the English forms, so that it is often impossible to tell whether a piece is of English or American make, except that the American pieces are a little heavier.

At the same time there were English and Dutch braziers working in New York and Pennsylvania. A famous New England brazier was Jonathan Jackson, who died in 1736. He made brass hand basins, pots, skillets, plates, saucers, spoons and warming pans, as well as knockers, candlesticks and andirons.

Copper was perhaps less commonly used than brass, but some of the most interesting pieces were of that metal. There were measures, jugs, tankards, mugs, small pitchers and sugar bowls and kettles. Sheet brass was imported from Wales and elsewhere and hammered into pots and open kettles. Copper chafing dishes were popular about 1750, and kettles standing on tripods over charcoal furnaces. Sometimes the furnaces were brass or iron.

Brass was even more expensive than copper, and good pieces are rare. There were ladles, tea kettles, jugs, sugar bowls and small pitchers of brass. Brass skillets were made sometimes with iron tripods for standing in the coals. Plain pail-shaped kettles were common, chiefly without feet.

The chief charm in collecting old brass and copper lies in the beauty of the metal itself and the fact that many of the pieces lend themselves readily to decorative purposes in the home. Almost any shapely piece of old brass, and particularly old copper with its rich color, makes a beautiful ornament.

Open kettles and pots serve admirably as jardinieres and the smaller jugs as vases for cut flowers, while ladles, skimmers, warming pans, platters and other flat pieces need only to be hung on the wall to serve as their own justification. If the copper is highly burnished it looks its best in a subdued light.

Many collectors prefer not to polish their old brass and copper, but to allow it to retain the softened tints that age has given, with here and there a suggestion of green, red and gold—the result of oxidization. Sometimes, of course, an old piece is so black and dirty as to need some treatment to bring out its beauty.

Soap and water should be used first and then an application of oil and rotten stone to take off any incrusted dirt. Then putz pomade may be used to give as high a polish and as new a look as is desired. Most amateurs need to be cautioned against too vigorous cleaning, however. Finally the palm of the hand and much patience will serve best to bring out the luster without wearing away the colors.

Genuine old brass and copper utensils command a fair price, but no more than they are worth as decorative ornaments in the home. The Russian pieces in the shops are cheap in comparison. A Russian copper pot may be worth $5, while an old English or American piece of similar shape and size would be worth $12. Copper jugs and measures are worth $6 to $8, teakettles from $10 to $15, pots and skillets $10 or $12, warming pans from $12 to $20. Brass is worth less than copper; a small brass jug may sometimes be picked up for $3 or $4, and a kettle for $5.

THE ELEVATOR BOY.

Ten years ago elevator boys were comparatively few. Today, thanks to the multiplication of electric elevators in modern apartment houses, they are numbered in thousands and they follow their work as regularly as they might any other occupation, says the New York Sun.

That is, some boys do, while some follow it only as a makeshift while they are looking for something better. Many a boy has found in running an apartment house elevator very helpful aid in tiding him comfortably over from one job to another. Sometimes boys stay so short a time that they have gone before the tenants have learned their names; and then boys less ambitious or less fortunate or more steady and contented may stay for months or years and come to be a fixture of the house.

It is no idle joke to run an apartment house elevator and do it right. There may be plenty of idle hours or minutes, times when the boy has nothing to do but sit around; but he can improve that time if he will, and as many boys do, by reading or study. Then if he is minded to do his work well the elevator boy may contribute greatly to the comfort as well as the convenience of the tenants of the house.

He has the telephone switchboard to tend, and much depends on how he does that. He has the hall to look after and the rugs. The superintendent is the boss of course, and everything is finally up to him; but the boys can make or mar the hall, and so make tenants ashamed of the house or proud of it as the case may be.

The elevator boy takes in the newspapers, and if he is orderly and businesslike he delivers them around at the various apartment doors promptly and in perfect condition. He takes the mail from the postman and sorts and delivers it. Bundles and parcels are coming all day long. He knows which delivery messengers to let in at the front door and which to send to the basement, and he has subtle distinctions as to who may and who may not ride in the elevator, and if he really knows what to do nobody questions his decisions.

And the visitors to the tenants? Much may depend on the grace and discretion with which he handles them. There is an ample field for the use of brains and shrewdness in this modern occupation of the elevator boy.

Some boys are slovenly, some neat, some good humored, some grouchy, some garrulous, some discreet, some start well and soon fall off, some improve as they go along, some get through their work any way they can and want to go on the minute, some are always ready for work and take pride in it, a real interest in the house; they are, in short, quite like boys engaged in other callings.

Obviously a level-headed, intelligent, sensible and efficient elevator boy who is even tempered and good humored is little less than a blessing, and there are more of them than might be imagined; and for such a boy there is a chance to get ahead. If he sticks and attends to business, keeps steadily on, he may come to be superintendent of the house he's in, and nobody knows how far he may get beyond.

Mostly they move in, stay a while and then go. Some may take bigger elevator jobs in stores or office buildings, and others drift into occupations of one sort and another in which they can get more pay.

MOISTURE IN ARGENTINA

Rains General Over Wheat Belt---Statistics Are Bearish.

Liquidation and Stop-Loss Orders Add to Weakness.

Duluth Board of Trade, Oct. 17.—Wheat declined sharply today under heavy liquidation, stop-loss orders and favorable Argentina news. A cable to the Ames-Brooks company said that rains are general in Argentina. A Clement-Curtis cabel added that the rainfall is especially abundant in the provinces of Buenos Aires and Entre Rios and that prospects are favorable for a continuation of the wet weather. The export business today was confined to low grade Manitobas to the continent.

December and May wheat lost 1⅝c. Oats declined ¾c, rye and barley were unchanged, durum lost 1c and cash wheat was on a parity with December.

Flax was steady to weak. Country offerings were fairly liberal and the near futures weakened in comparison with the strength of the cash situation.

October lost 1c, November 1½c, December closed unchanged and May gained 1c. The distant futures showed some strength. Cash flax was on a parity with October.

The wheat market today was sick and draggy. There was heavy liquidation by tired holders and the market uncovered stop-loss orders on the decline. The short covering was moderate and was most pronounced around the low levels. Values were top-heavy and needed good support to sustain them. This support was lacking.

Statistics were bearish although not as favorable as last week. The general news was without significance. The visible supply of wheat increased 3,264,000 bu and world's shipments for last week are estimated at 15,792,000 bu as compared with 16,952,000 bu in the previous week and 15,104,000 bu a year ago. Wheat on passage amounted to 40,672,000 bu compared with 31,224,000 bu in the corresponding week last year.

Cables were higher. Only a small percentage of the world's shipments was directed toward the United Kingdom which has been the cause for the stronger Liverpool market.

Argentine news was favorable. A cable from Rosario said scattered rains had fallen in the Argentine provinces of Santa Fe and the weather was breaking. Rains have fallen in the La Plata district. An Indian cable said wheat seeding is practically completed under favorable conditions. The early sown wheat is above the average and is looking in first class shape. The acreage is believed to be slightly larger than last year. A Russian cable indicated that beneficial rains have fallen in the southwest, which is favorable for the seeding of winter crops. Arrivals of wheat at Russian ports are becoming smaller and a further decline in the movement is expected. Owing to the good demand from France the Russian wheat markets are firm.

There was a moderate export business today in Manitoba wheat. A little export business in flour was reported by northwestern mills at the close of last week. The flour trade is exceedingly poor and it is expected that several Minneapolis mills may shut down soon. Jobbers have moderate stocks and they are feeling no anxiety over supplies. Even with some damage to the Argentine crop many people believe that there will be no dearth in the supply of breadstuffs in the world and a lower readjustment of values is inevitable. Prices for nearly all commodities are in a process of liquidation and are being established on a new basis. Many people are inclined to the opinion that the wheat market will approach a still lower plane in common with prices of other foods and primary staples. Secondary products are declining also and the bulls are in a hopeless minority in relation to nearly all foods, staples and grains.

Wheat is coming direct to primary distributing points and stocks in the northwest are piling up rapidly despite the small receipts compared with last year. Very little stuff is being shipped out and the increasing supplies at Duluth and Minneapolis form a potent factor in the market situation. The northwestern mills are said to have withdrawn from the winter wheat market and the southwestern cash prices reflect this absence of support.

Offerings from the country are moderately liberal and if the decline continues it is expected that the country will sell more freely. Not only does this have a direct bearing on actual receipts but the downturn is shaking the country out of its long wheat.

The flax market was quiet after the opening hour in which several thousand bushels were sold to arrive by the country. This weakened values but when the pressure was removed the maket firmed. The market was dull and featureless. Flax receipts show a slight increase but are still small compared with last year. The indication is for slightly heavier receipts.

Broomhall cabled Liverpool: "World's shipments for the week, 15,792,000 bu; previous week, 16,952,00 bu; last year, 15,104,000 bu. Corn: Last week, 3,335,000 bu; previous week, 5,902,000 bu; last year, 2,411,000 bu. The wheat market showed a very firm undertone at the start and values were ½d to ¾d higher with the principal support in near months. There was less disposition shown to support the March option owing to favorable advices from Argentine. There was generally good outside buying and following the opening, prices further advanced ½d to ⅝c. Nothwithstanding the liberal world's shipments, small proportion of the same were destined for the United Kingdom, 3,808,000 bu. From a total of 13,792,000 bu and the shipments other than America showed a falling off of nearly four million bu from last week. There were fewer Plate offers, which were firmly held and cargoes were in fairly good demand. Towards mid-day, there was some little realizing and prices reacted slightly from the extreme high. At this time the undertone was still firm and ½d to ¾d higher than Saturday. Corn—Market was dull and unchanged with a steady undertone in sympathy with wheat.

Minneapolis stocks increased 250,000 bu for two days.

Wheat on passage: This week 40,672,000 against 31,224,000 last year; corn, 22,857,000 against 12,659,000 last year.

Liverpool stocks of wheat: This week 5,800,000; last week, 6,000,000; last year, 2,808,000. Corn—This week, 1,275,000; last week, 1,159,000; last year, 1,779,000.

Closing wheat markets abroad: Liverpool, ⅜d to ¾d higher; corn, unchanged; Paris, 1c higher to ½c lower; flour, 1½c lower to ½c higher. Antwerp, wheat unchanged. Budapest, wheat, 1⅜c lower. Berlin, ⅜c up.

Total clearances: Wheat, 174,000 bu; flour, 45,000 bbl; corn, 109,000 bu; oats, 500 bu. Wheat and flour equals 377,000 bu.

Cars inspected: Wheat—No. 1 hard, 3; No. 1 northern, 79; No. 2 northern, 29; No. 3 northern, 8; durum, No. 1, 26; No. 2, 4; no grade, 3; total durum, 27; Western mixed, 4; red, 3; winter, 10; no grade, 2. Minneapolis and Minneapolis form a potent factor in the market situation. The northwestern mills are said to have withdrawn from the winter wheat market and the southwestern cash prices reflect this absence of support.

Offerings from the country are moderately liberal and if the decline continues it is expected that the country will sell more freely. Not only does this have a direct bearing on actual receipts but the downturn is shaking the country out of its long wheat.

Shipments not reported: Wheat, 327,500 bu; flax 28,000 bu; durum wheat, 29,000 bu. Local dealings: Spot wheat 55,000 bu; durum wheat, 97,000 bu; bonded wheat 120,000 bu.

The state census department of South Dakota estimates the wheat crop of that state at 35,000,000 bu. The Herald's final estimate was 33,000,000 bu made some time before harvest. The government made the crop 46,000,000 bu. Traders think the government's wheat report on the Northwestern states was far out of line, being much too high.

Thorough investigation by the Wisconsin grain and warehouse commission of the milling value of velvet chaff wheat has resulted in the finding that there is no basis for discrimination against this variety. The Wisconsin authorities were assisted in their examination by Prof. Ladd of the North Dakota Agricultural college. A great deal of evidence regarding the discrimination against velvet chaff wheat by Northwestern millers was presented. Among this evidence was the statement that vast quantities of the velvet chaff wheat were being constantly shipped to Minneapolis mills but that there was no record that any of it had ever been shipped out of the city.

Chicago Tribune: It is estimated that Kansas so far has used 44,000,000 bu wheat for seed, flour and shipments. It is estimated also that the mills will grind 26,000,000 bu more on a one-half time basis. This would leave only 9,000,000 bu of this year's crop for reserves and shipments from this time on.

"Estimating the wheat crop of the United States at 691,000,000 bu, and allowing 88,000,000 bu for supplies in all positions on July 1, 1909, aggregate supplies for the twelve months would be approximately 779,000,000 bu," says B. Frank Howard, the Chicago statistician. "Allowing 525,000,000 bu for consumption, about 80,000,000 bu for seeding during the harvest year, and 15,000,000 bu exported to date — accounts for 620,000,000 bu — and there would remain for export during the current nine months and for supplies on hand July 1, 1911, about 159,000,000 bu. The exports from Oct. 1, 1909, to July 1, 1910, were about 62,000,000 bu."

Chicago Tribune: Prices for oats are getting down close to a basis where there would be some export business, but several exporters said they knew of no business being done. It is thought likely that competition with Canadian oats will be too great to permit much of any business. December oats prices and values for cash oats are now on an old time basis, and there is nothing that looks like inflation in prices at the present time.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Advances and Is Beaten Back By Heavy Selling.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—Heavy selling early today beat back wheat after an opening advance. A fresh rainfall in the Argentine furnished a pretext for the bears. Furthermore, the United States department of agriculture reported the crop of continental Europe as promising to be the second largest on record, and stated the outlook in the Southern Hemisphere to be good. Bullishness in the market was due to a decrease in world shipments and in the total on passage. Opening prices unchanged to ⅛c higher, with December at 95½@95⅝c, a rise of a shade to ⅛@¼c. Then there was a fall to 95¼c.

A big increase in the visible supply produced a further decline. Free offerings from Nebraska influenced the market downward still more. At one close, however, was steady with December at 94c, a net loss of 1⅞@1¼c. With the country still selling freely, corn was easy. December opened a shade to ⅛@¼c down, at 46¾@47c, and declined to 46⅝c.

Pit traders and commission houses took the bear side because of the fine weather and caused additional weakness. The close was at 46¼c for December, a net decline of ⅞@1c.

Local speculators pounded oats. December started a shade to ⅛@¼c off at 30⅝@30¾c, and dropped to 30½@30⅝c.

A larger run of hogs took away support in provisions. First sales were 2½c to 12½@15c lower, with the January option at $17.05, or 7½c weaker. $10.62½@10.65 for lard and $9.35 for ribs.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Prices Turn Still Easier on Liquidation.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 17.—Liquidation made wheat still easier and new low prices on this turn were touched late today. Liberal receipts and no support added to the bearish sentiment and added to the weakness. December closed 1½@1⅝c lower than Saturday and May 1½c lower. Local elevator stocks of wheat increased 250,000 bushels for the two days. Minneapolis today received 735 cars of wheat against 664 a year ago; Duluth 167 against 822, and Winnipeg 1,396 against 1,455. December opened $1.06, high $1.06¼, low $1.04¾, closed $1.04½. May opened $1.10¾, high $1.10⅝, low $1.08¾, closed $1.08¾.

Cash wheat offerings were in excess of demand and premiums were lowered again. Elevators were in the market and active buyers. Mills bought only choice spring grades. No. 1 northern sold for 1@2c above December. Closing cash prices: No. 1 hard, $1.07¼; No. 1 northern, $1.05¾@1.06⅜; to arrive, $1.05¾@1.06¼; No. 2 northern, $1.01¾@1.04½; to arrive, $1.01½@1.04¼; No. 3 wheat, $1.00@1.02½; No. 3 yellow corn, 48½@49c; No. 3 white oats, 28¾@29¾c; No. 2 rye, 71½@72½c.

Millstuffs—Shipments, 2,289 tons. Bran prices lowered. Big mills sold ahead about two months. New orders slow. Shipments heavy. Bran in 100-lb sacks, $18.00@18.50.

Flour—Market held about slow. Mills reported slow demand and shipments heavy. Shipments, 66,157 bbls: First patents, in wood, f. o. b. Minneapolis, $5.10@5.30; second patents, $4.90@5.10; first clears, $3.50@3.70; second clears, $2.20@2.50.

Flax—Receipts, 94 cars; year ago, 124; shipments, 3. Demand good for both spot and to arrive at the Duluth October contract. Closing price, $2.64.

Barley—Receipts, 185 cars, year ago, 163; shipments, 58. Slightly easier on account of the liberal offerings. Demand fairly good for all grades. Closing prices unchanged to 1c lower. Closing range, 60@72c.

Liverpool Grain.

Liverpool, Oct. 17.—Closing: Wheat—Spot dull; No. 2 red western winter no stock; futures dull; October, 7s 2¾d; December, 7s 3⅝d; March, 7s 3½d.

Corn—Spot easy; American mixed, 4s 10d; futures quiet; January, 4s 4¾d; February, 4s 4⅝d.

The Cotton Market.

New York, Oct. 17.—The cotton market opened easy at a decline of 7@17 points under liquidation and aggressive bear pressure inspired by the easy cables talk of less urgent trade demand and good weather in the South. Reports that the West Indian storm was again heading for the cotton belt and support by some of the big interests caused slight rallies, but there was a lot of cotton for sale and the market ruled very nervous with prices during the middle of the morning some 22 to 24 points net lower. Liverpool and the Southern sellers here and a good many private reports were received claiming a less active demand and free offerings of spot in the interior.

Futures closed easy; closing bids: October, $14.48; November, $14.40; December, $14.44; January, $14.50; February, $14.57; March, $14.61; April, $14.67; May, $14.70; June, $14.68; uly, $14.70. Spot closed quiet, 10 points decline; middling uplands, $14.80; do gulf, $15.05. Sales, 3,592 bales.

New York Money.

New York, Oct. 17.—Money on call steady, 2¾@3½ per cent; ruling rate, 3½; closing bid 2¾, offered at 3. Time loans firm; 60 days 4¼@4¾ per cent and 90 days 4¾@5; six months, 4⅝@4¾. Close: Prime mercantile paper, 5½ to 6 per cent; sterling exchange steady with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.82.70@4.82.80 for 60-days bills and at $4.86.05 for demand. Commercial bills, $4.82¼@4.82⅝. Bar silver 56¾. Mexican dollars, 45c. Government and railroad bonds steady.

South St. Paul Live Stock.

South St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 17.—Cattle—Receipts, 11,000; market generally 10@15c lower; steers, $4.50@6.00; cows and heifers, $2.25@4.75; calves, $2.75@7.75; stockers and feeders, $2.50@5.00. Hogs—Receipts, 5,000; market 10@15c lower; range, $8.20@8.80; bulk of sales, $8.45@8.75. Sheep—Receipts, 25,000; sheep, $1.50@4.25; lambs, $3.25@6.00.

Chicago Livestock.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—Cattle—Receipts estimated at 42,000; market 10@15c lower; beeves, $4.65@7.80; Texas steers, $3.40@5.70; western steers, $4.15@6.15; stockers and feeders, $3.25@5.60; cows and heifers, $2.25@6.40; calves, $7.50@10.00. Hogs—Receipts estimated at 30,000; market steady for light; others 5@10c lower; light, $8.65@8.80; mixed, $8.20@8.25; heavy, $8.05@8.25; rough, $8.05@8.25; good to choice, heavy, $8.25@8.55; pigs, $8.25@8.60; bulk of sales, $8.45@8.60. Sheep—Receipts estimated at 15,000; market 10c lower; native, $2.50@4.30; western, $2.75@4.25; yearlings, $4.30@5.40; lambs, native, $4.25@7.00; western, $4.75@6.85.

WHY COLORS ARE BECOMING.

The hair of the blonde is a mixture of red, yellow and brown. As a rule the skin is lighter, that is, it contains not so much orange and the tinges of red are lighter.

Nature therefore very properly made the blonde's eyes blue, says a writer in Shop Notes Quarterly, since the blue is complementary to the orange of her hair. The brunette's skin on the other hand has more orange in it, and hence a color favorable to one would not be becoming to the other.

What would be the effect of green upon a complexion deficient in red? It would certainly heighten the rose tints in the cheeks, but the greatest care should be exercised in the selection of the proper shade of green, because the brunette's complexion contains a great deal of orange, and the green, acting upon the red of the orange, could readily produce a brick dust appearance.

Green therefore is a risky color for the brunette, and so is violet, which would neutralize the yellow of the orange and brighten the red. But if the orange complexion had more yellow than red, then the association of violet would produce pallor. Yellow, of course, is her color, since its complementary violet neutralizes the yellow of the orange complexion and leaves the red.

STOCKS ARE IRREGULAR

Market Opens With Slight Gains But Relapses Into Dullness.

Reaction in Prices and the Close Is Heavy and Unsettled.

New York, Oct. 17.—The opening dealings in stocks today were active and broadly distributed. Gains were the rule, but they were restricted to small fractions except in a few instances and there was a sprinkling of declines where realizing sales made their effect shown. Rock Island was advanced 1⅝, the preferred, Reading and Sloss-Sheffield Steel 1, and American Smelting, National Lead and Distillers' Securities large fractions.

Prices were supported against profit-taking sales by the active demand for Reading and the Rock Island issues. Fluctuations in the industrials were largely confined to moderate fractions. Reading and Rock Island preferred preferred rose 2 points, St. Paul and Corn Products preferred 1⅝, and Union Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohio, Atlantic Coast Line, Chicago Great Western preferred, Wabash preferred, American Steel Foundries and American Can preferred 1. Business for the first hour was on a large scale.

The opening of the week found some response to last week's rise in stocks in a growth of outside demand.

Advantage was taken of this to distribute holdings acquired at last week's lower prices.

The effect was seen in the irregular movement of forenoon prices. The September foreign trade return was a strengthening influence by reason of the large balance of export value over imports. Dealings were largest in United States Steel and were at the rate of one quarter of the total. That stock was held within a fractional range by realizing sales. Bonds were irregular.

The leaders dropped back slightly, causing the whole market to fall into dullness. Some of the less active stocks were bid up materially. American express sold at an advance of 18 points, American Steel Foundries 3, and Louisville & Nashville and Pennsylvania 1.

The market closed heavy and unsettled. The pressure to take profits became more pronounced and there was a general reaction. This was after United States Steel and Anaconda had risen 1⅝ and Amalgamated Copper and American Smelting 1½. The reaction ran to about a point in the market leaders.

Broomhall cabled Liverpool: "World's shipments for the week, 15,792,000 bu; previous week, 16,952,00 bu; last year, 15,104,000 bu. Corn: Last week, 3,335,000 bu; previous week, 5,902,000 bu; last year, 2,411,000 bu. The wheat market showed a very firm undertone at the start and values were ½d to ¾d higher with the principal support in near months. There was less disposition shown to support the March option owing to favorable advices from Argentine. There was generally good outside buying and following the opening, prices further advanced ½d to ⅝c. Nothwithstanding the liberal world's shipments, small proportion of the same were destined for the United Kingdom, 3,808,000 bu. From a total of 13,792,000 bu and the shipments other than America showed a falling off of nearly four million bu from last week. There were fewer Plate offers, which were firmly held and cargoes were in fairly good demand. Towards mid-day, there was some little realizing and prices reacted slightly from the extreme high. At this time the undertone was still firm and ½d to ¾d higher than Saturday. Corn—Market was dull and unchanged with a steady undertone in sympathy with wheat.

Minneapolis stocks increased 250,000 bu for two days.

Wheat on passage: This week 40,672,000 against 31,224,000 last year; corn, 22,857,000 against 12,659,000 last year.

Liverpool stocks of wheat: This week 5,800,000; last week, 6,000,000; last year, 2,808,000. Corn—This week, 1,275,000; last week, 1,159,000; last year, 1,779,000.

Closing wheat markets abroad: Liverpool, ⅜d to ¾d higher; corn, unchanged; Paris, 1c higher to ½c lower; flour, 1½c lower to ½c higher. Antwerp, wheat unchanged. Budapest, wheat, 1⅜c lower. Berlin, ⅜c up.

Total clearances: Wheat, 174,000 bu; flour, 45,000 bbl; corn, 109,000 bu; oats, 500 bu. Wheat and flour equals 377,000 bu.

Cars inspected: Wheat—No. 1 hard, 3; No. 1 northern, 79; No. 2 northern, 29; No. 3 northern, 8; durum, No. 1, 26; No. 2, 4; no grade, 3; total durum, 27; Western mixed, 4; red, 3; winter, 10; no grade, 2. Minneapolis and Minneapolis form a potent factor in the market situation. The northwestern mills are said to have withdrawn from the winter wheat market and the southwestern cash prices reflect this absence of support.

Offerings from the country are moderately liberal and if the decline continues it is expected that the country will sell more freely. Not only does this have a direct bearing on actual receipts but the downturn is shaking the country out of its long wheat.

The flax market was quiet after the opening hour in which several thousand bushels were sold to arrive by the country. This weakened values but when the pressure was removed the maket firmed. The market was dull and featureless. Flax receipts show a slight increase but are still small compared with last year. The indication is for slightly heavier receipts.

WELLMAN GIVES UP AND LEAVES AIRSHIP 150 MILES OFF SHORE

Abandons the America and Is Taken Aboard Steamer.

Wireless Message Is Received at Vessel Office in New York.

Aeronauts Give Distress Signals---Found Off Cape Hatteras.

New York, Oct. 18.—A wireless message to the New York Times from Capt. Down of the Royal Mail steamer Trent, says that the Trent picked up Wellman and the crew of the America at 6 o'clock this morning. The airship had been abandoned. The rescue was made in latitude 35.43, longitude 68.15, which is about 150 miles due east of Cape Hatteras on the North Carolina coast.

The wireless message, received by Sandison & Son, local agents of the Royal Mail Steamship Packet line, plying between New York and Cuba and Bermuda, was signed by Commander Down of the steamer Trent and read as follows:

"At 5 a. m. today sighted Wellman's airship America in distress. Signals by Morse code that she required assistance and help. After three hours maneuvering and fresh winds blowing, got Wellman with entire crew and cat. They were hauled safely on board. All are well. America was abandoned in latitude 35.43 north, longitude 68.15 west."

Mrs. Wellman Notified.

Philadelphia, Oct. 18.—When informed by long distance telephone of the news of the rescue of Wellman and his crew, Mrs. Wellman, who was in her room in an Atlantic City hotel, exclaimed:

"Thank God for the good news. I am overjoyed to learn that my husband and the brave men with him are safe."

Mrs. Wellman was eager for particulars, and expressed deep regret when informed that the America had been abandoned.

Shipping men here say the Trent left Bermuda yesterday and must have been 400 or 500 miles south of Sandy Hook when the Wellman party was encountered.

WALKER SAVED BY BACK-FIRING

Citizens of Cass County Village on Alert Against Forest Fires.

Walker, Minn., Oct. 18.—Walker is still enveloped in a dense smoke, due to surrounding forest fires. Homesteaders are coming in to town telling of fires in all directions which the people here are unable to see, owing to the smoke.

One fire less than a quarter of a mile from town was successfully extinguished by backfires after thirty-six hours' work by half the male population of the village. It was burning toward the milling district and would surely have destroyed that section of the town. Two fires, one a mile and one less than two miles from Walker, are burning and if a south wind arises the situation will again become critical.

During a strong wind last evening cinders from a fire two miles distant were blown into the west end of town. An army of men is still being maintained in the woods.

LOOKING UP LIQUOR ROW

Maj. McLaughlin, Sent Out By Ballinger, Working at Cass Lake.

Libel Suit Grows Out of Ives Article About Johnson.

Cass Lake, Minn., Oct. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Maj. James McLaughlin of Washington, D. C., has been here for several days looking up evidence and inquiring into the character and mode of procedure of federal officials relative to the introduction of liquor within the boundaries declared "dry" under the Indian treaties. Maj. McLaughlin was sent here by Secretary Ballinger, and is looking up the events from the beginning of the trouble, over a year ago, and taking statements from parties interested regarding occurrences at Cass Lake, Bena, Farris and other towns.

Papers have been served on Editor Frank Ives of the Cass Lake Times for an alleged libelous article appearing Oct. 8, detrimental to Special Agent Johnson. The papers were served Monday by Deputy Special Officer Norberg Sero. Editor Ives has been ill since Sunday, with a bad cold and was not at his office today.

JAQUES HAS BIG CROWD

Anoka Voters Enthusiastic at Democratic Candidate's Meeting.

Duluthian Tears Miller's Record to Tatters and Is Cheered.

Anoka, Minn., Oct. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge Alfred Jaques last evening spoke here before a large and enthusiastic gathering, made up largely of Republicans, who frequently interrupted the Democratic candidate for congress with applause as he made telling points against C. B. Miller, the present congressman.

Judge Jaques' speech was declared to be a masterly effort and one that made many votes for him here. Anoka is a hotbed of insurgency, and the audience became extremely enthusiastic when the judge, dispassionately but with unmerciful forcefulness and logic, laid bare the record of his opponent.

Undoubtedly, Judge Jaques' speech has imparted to the anti-Miller sentiment here an impetus that will result in the changing of many votes that were figured on as going to Miller and which will go to Jaques, say poli-

MASSACHUSETTS NOW 3,366,416

State Has Grown 20 Per Cent in the Last Ten Years.

Washington, Oct. 18.—The state of Massachusetts has a population of 3,366,416, according to the enumeration made in the sixteenth census, as announced by the directors of the census today. This is an increase of 561,070, or 20 per cent, over the population of 1900, when the total was 2,805,346. The increase of 1890 to 1900 was 566,403 or 25.3 per cent.

THREATEN STRIKE ON WINNIPEG CARS

Dismissal of Members of Union Is Basis of Complaint.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 18.—The employes of the Winnipeg Electric Railway company today presented an ultimatum to the officers of the company that unless certain dismissed employes, who are members of the union, are reinstated by 4 o'clock this afternoon there will be a strike. There are about 1,200 men involved.

GAME WARDEN SEIZES SOME BARREL FISH.

Brainerd, Minn., Oct. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Game Warden James M. Quinn yesterday seized seven barrels of fish which were improperly labeled. One barrel was from Peter E. Walline of Pequot to the Sprague Commission company of Minneapolis. One from William McDonald of Pequot to Edwards Bros. of Minneapolis; two were from John Gorst of Jenkins to Edwards Bros. of Minneapolis; three were from C. L. James of Walker, to the Western Fish Company of Minneapolis.

DR. CRIPPEN'S TRIAL BEGUN

Miss Leneve Will Face Court After His Case Is Ended.

American Witnesses Will Testify in London Proceedings.

London, Oct. 18.—Dr. Hawley H. Crippen today was put on trial for his life, charged with the murder of his wife, Cora Belle Crippen, known on the stage as Belle Elmore.

The jury, a typical body of middle-class tradesmen and clerks, was secured with little trouble. Crippen pleaded not guilty and then listened intently and with an anxious expression as Richard D. Muir made the opening statement for the prosecution.

The trial, which is being held in the New Bailey, promises to be one of the most notable in the annals of that famous court. No less a personage than Lord Chief Justice Alverstone is presiding.

Richard D. Muir, K. C., conducts the prosecution, with the assistance of Solicitor Travers Humphreys, who represented the crown at the preliminary hearing. Crippen is represented by

GO TO TESTIFY IN DIETZ HEARING

Twenty Deputies to Be Witnesses---Prisoners Not Worrying.

Hayward, Wis., Oct. 18.—Twenty of the deputies who took part in the capture of John Dietz at Cameron dam reached here today to testify at the preliminary hearing of John Dietz, his wife and their son, Leslie, arrested on the charge of killing Oscar Harp, one of the deputies.

Before the session of court opened a crowd had gathered and sentiment expressed was decidedly inimical to the Dietz family.

The members of the family are not worrying over the final result of the trial.

Almyra Goes to Hayward.

Ashland, Wis., Oct. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Almyra Dietz in custody of Deputy Sheriff Arentson of Sawyer county will leave Ashland for Hayward at 3:40 this afternoon to answer to the charge of shooting a deputy sheriff in 1906. Her attorneys promise that she will not sleep in the Sawyer county jail tonight.

When asked where she will stay if she gets bail, Miss Dietz said: "I will have to consult my parents about that. I have never tried being hoss yet. I will do as they say. You may tell the people that I was not at all surprised when our attorney told me no shots were fired from the Dietz cabin. My heart told me that all of the time. I am not strong yet, but am feeling fairly well. I have been treated kindly since I arrived at Ashland. The treatment I received for two days at Winter after being shot was vile."

Miss Dietz has been in the Ashland hospital since Oct. 3.

IRONWOOD YOUNG MAN IS KILLED

Accidentally Shot Through Head By School Teacher, Near Ironwood.

Ironwood, Mich., Oct. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—William Oman, a well known and prominent young man of this city residing in the vicinity of Lake Superior for the last couple of months, while out hunting in the woods in company with a school teacher, Miss Clements of this city, was fatally shot by her through the head. The shooting was accidental. He was brought to Runstrom hospital, where he died a few hours later. It is rumored that he was holding a can in his hand for a target for Miss Clements to aim at. For some unaccountable reason the gun accidentally discharged, the bullets entering the young man's head.

The body of an unknown man was found lying on the Northwestern tracks between Ironwood and Hurley last Thursday afternoon.

NOBODY PICKED TO OPPOSE BANCROFT

Wisconsin Republicans Fail to Agree on Nominee.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 18.—The Republican state central committee, after an all-night session, failed to reach a conclusion regarding the placing of an independent candidate on the ballot at the coming election in opposition to Levi H. Bancroft, the anti-La Follette nominee for attorney general.

NORTH DAKOTA RATES WILL BE CONSIDERED.

Fargo, N. D., Oct. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The interstate commerce commission will hold a special session Nov. 1. It is said to be for the purpose of considering both sleeping car and express rates into this territory.

DICK IS TO BE DITCHED

By Ohio Republicans If They Win the Legislature.

Herrick, Who Covets Toga, Very Rich, While Dick Is Poor.

By Willis J. Abbot.
(Copyright, 1910, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

Columbus, Ohio, Oct. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Aside from the very active campaign being fought in Ohio for the governorship, and, of course, for the presidential nomination following a possible victory on the Democratic side, the senatorial situation is of chief interest to people outside the state. Nobody knows what may be the outcome, whether the legislature shall happen to be Republican or Democratic. Theoretically Senator Dick, who secured a majority in the primaries, ought to be the nominee of the Republican caucus. But as a matter of fact, the entire Cuyahoga (Cleveland) delegation has bolted his nomination, and every day in the papers here at Columbus I read the name of some candidate on the Republican ticket for the legislature who declares that if elected he will not vote for Dick.

Primary Vote for Senator Dick.

The situation was explained to me by a member of the Republican state committee in this way: "The law per-

TELEPHONES TO PROTECT FORESTS

System Will Be Installed By the Service Next Year.

Fresno, Cal., Oct. 18.—"The forest service in the coming year will undertake to prevent forest fires by installing telephones and maintaining good roads and trails in the national forests," said Associate Forester A. W. Potter of Washington, who was here yesterday.

"Taught by the big fires of the summer," continued Potter, "the forest service will install quick means of communication and travel that the fires may be stopped in their incipiency."

MISSOURI PACIFIC STRIKE PUT OFF

Settlement of the Trouble Is Expected Before Thursday.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 18.—The proposed general strike of the mechanical trades employed by the Missouri Pacific and Iron Mountain system, which was scheduled for tomorrow, was postponed until Thursday by James O'Connell, president of the Machinists' union, at noon today. General Manager Sullivan by telegraph assured O'Connell that a definite settlement would be reached Thursday.

New Game Warden Appointed.

Ironwood, Mich., Oct. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Claude Larson of this city has been appointed deputy state game warden for the districts of Ontonagon, Iron and Gogebic counties, filling the vacancy caused by the resignation of John Rowett. The latter has been nominated by the Republicans for sheriff of Gogebic county.

PRUSSIAN SOCIALIST IS VISITING AMERICA

—Copyright, 1910, by George Grantham Bain.
DR. KARL LIEBKNECHT.

New York, Oct. 18.—Dr. Karl Liebknecht, the famous Prussian socialist, has arrived in New York for the purpose of investigating political conditions here. He will remain for some time and will hold meetings with the leading Socialists of New York and other cities.

STORM AREA IS ISOLATED

Wire Communication Fails and Wireless Will Not Work.

Gulf Coast Is Believed to Have Suffered Severe Damage.

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 18.—At 4:20 this morning the Associated Press wire from Jacksonville to Tampa, the last thread of communication with any point in the storm-swept territory south of this place, was severed.

With the entire Florida peninsula south of a line from Tampa, on the gulf coast, to St. Augustine, on the Atlantic, cut off from communication since 6 o'clock last night, the effect of the West Indian hurricane is a matter of conjecture today. That the property damage has been heavy is indicated by the few brief bulletins which came from the east coast and the extreme southern keys. Conservative estimates place the loss to the orange growers alone at $1,000,000.

Trucking has suffered heavily, the Florida East railroad is believed to

USE MILLIONS OF CORDS IN PAPER

Census Bureau Reports on Pulpwood and Its Prices.

Washington, Oct. 18.—Over 4,000,000 cords of wood were used in the manufacture of wood pulp for paper-making in the United States in 1909, as shown by the annual report on the industry, issued today by the census bureau.

The cost of the transformation of the wood, of which there were 4,002,000 cords, was $34,478,000. This was an increase of about 650,000 cords over the consumption of 1909, but of only about 39,000 over 1907. The advancing cost of pulp wood of all species is clearly brought out in the report. The total consumption in 1909, though exceeding that of 1907 by less than 40,000 cords, cost over $2,000,000 more. The cost for 1909 exceeded that for 1908 over $6,000,000.

Less Spruce Used.

Probably the most noteworthy detail in connection with the report is the decrease in the consumption of spruce in the manufacture of pulp. While that timber remains by far the most popular pulp making wood, there has been a gradual falling off, the percentage being 66.5 in 1909; 64.5 in 1908 and 68.1 in 1907. The dimunition in the demand for spruce is attributed to the increase in price, which amounted to more than $1 a cord from 1907 to 1909.

A slight decrease in hemlock is also noted, whereas corresponding increases have occurred in the consumption of woods heretofore little used as pulp materials, such as balsam, white fir and several hard woods.

Of the 2,421,000 cords of spruce consumed in 1909, almost 770,000 was imported.

AERONAUTS CROSS LAKE

Balloons From St. Louis Travel Northeast Over Michigan.

Two Sighted at Shelby and Muskegon---One Lands in Wisconsin.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 18.—The ten balloons which left here late yesterday afternoon competing for the James Gordon Bennett cup and cash prizes in the International race, are believed to be over Lake Michigan this morning. Reports received show that seven of them passed over Northern Illonois and Southeastern Wisconsin between 6 and 8 o'clock.

The first direct word from the balloonists was received from Capt. Hugo von Abercron, pilot of the Germania, which left here at 5:54 o'clock yesterday. He reported to the Associated Press that he was passing over Milwaukee in the 1,400-foot level with thirty bags of ballast. He expected to cross Lake Michigan, which he referred to as the "sea."

Other balloons which were sighted this morning are the Harburg III at

ATHLETICS, 9; NATIONALS, 3

Shibe Field, Philadelphia, Oct. 18.—The Philadelphia American league team today won another game from the Chicago champions of the National league, by the score of 9 to 3. This makes the standing in the world championship series: Philadelphia Americans, 2; Chicago Nationals, 0.

Crowd Is Bigger.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 18.—There was a larger crowd about the gates of Shibe park before they were opened today than there was on yesterday, to see the second game of the series between the Philadelphia Americans and the Chicago Nationals for the world's championship. In fact the crowd became so large that the gates were opened at 10 o'clock, an hour earlier than yesterday, and at 11a.m. m. more than 12,000 rooters were on the bleachers.

The Chicago team took things easy about the Aldine hotel this morning. Despite yesterday's defeat the members of the team are confident they will win the series.

"We will take the next three," said Chance.

Some of the members of the Philadelphia team appeared in uniform on the grounds early in the morning for practice. The team was eager to get into the game again and showed the same confidence displayed by the Nationals.

The weather is like a day in June.

There was not that glamour and excitement before the opening of today's game that characterized the preliminaries to yesterday's contest. While the bleachers were filled early, the space behind the ropes in left and right field did not crowd up as quickly.

Both teams were on the ground before 1 o'clock and went through practice with their customary "ginger."

First Inning—Chicago: Sheckard, the first man up was given his base on balls and was forced at second, Collins to Barry on Schulte's grounder. Hofman was sent to first on balls and Capt. Chance came to the place. Both Schulte and Hofman advanced a base on Chance's grounder which was too hot for Baker to handle. With the bases full Zimmerman came to the plate. On the latter's sacrifice fly to Strunk, Schulte scored. Steinfeldt struck out. One run.

Strunk, the head of the Athletics' batting list, struck out, Kling missed the third strike, but got the runner at first. Lord was tossed out, Steinfeldt to Chance. Collins placed a single to right center and Baker, who did such batting for 5 in 1909, came up. Colgood hitting yesterday came up. Collins stole second. Baker was thrown out, Brown to Chance. No runs.

Second Inning—Chicago: Tinker was safe at first on Davis' error, Baker making a perfect throw. Tinker was doubled up with Kling on the latter's line drive to Collins. Brown was tossed out Collins to Davis. No runs.

Philadelphia: Capt. Davis lifted a low fly to Hofman. Murphy took first on four pitched balls. Barry forced Murphy at second, Tinker and Chance completing a double play. No runs.

Third Inning—Chicago: Sheckard was given a base on balls for the second time. Schulte was safe at first, Davis dropping Coombs' pretty throw. Hofman was out on a pop fly to Davis on an attempted sacrifice. Schulte was given a sacrifice hit on Davis' error. Chance struck out. Zimmerman ended the inning on a line drive to Lord. No runs.

Philadelphia—Thomas reached first on Steinfeldt's error. Coombs struck out. Strunk made an infield hit and was safe. On Lord's hit to Zimmerman, Strunk was forced at second. Thomas and Lord both scored on Collins beautiful double to left. Baker was out at first on Zimmerman's assist. Two runs.

Lord, who was on first, kept on home, as Steinfeldt fumbled Sheckard's pretty throw to third. Steinfeldt was given an error and Sheckard an assist.

Fourth Inning—Chicago: Steinfeldt lifted a fly to Strunk. Tinker singled to center. Tinker was an easy out, Thomas to Collins on an attempted steal. Kling struck out. No runs.

Philadelphia: Davis was thrown out at first by Tinker. Murphy lifted a high foul to Chance. Barry singled over second. On Thomas' single to right, Barry took third. Coombs struck out for the second time. No runs.

Fifth Inning — Chicago: Brown reached first on Coombs' fumble. Coombs made a second fumble and Sheckard was safe at first. Sheckard was credited with a sacrifice. Both runners advanced a base on Schulte's sacrifice to Davis, unassisted. Hofman was given his base on balls and Capt. Chance came to bat with the bases full. Chance flew out to Murphy, and on a beautiful throw to home plate, Brown was doubled up, Thomas getting the putout. No runs.

Philadelphia: Strunk struck out on three pitched balls; Lord singled to right and Collins was given a glad hand when he came to the plate. Lord was forced at second, Tinker to Zimmerman, on Collins' grounder. Collins stole second, his second steal of the game. Baker was walked. Collins scored on Davis' single to left, the latter going to second on the throw in. Murphy was thrown out at first by Tinker. One run.

Sixth Inning—Chicago: Zimmerman was given his base on four straight balls; Coombs being unable to locate the plate. On Steinfeldt's fly to Collins, Zimmerman was doubled up at first. Tinker sent the ball into the left field crowd for two bases. Kling flew out to Strunk. No runs.

Philadelphia: Barry fanned. Thomas went to first on balls and went to third on Coombs' single to center. Strunk struck out for the third time during the game. Lord's high foul was taken by Chance. No runs.

Seventh Inning—Chicago: Brown struck out. Sheckard doubled into the right field crowd. Schulte lifted a high fly to Strunk. Hofman was given his base on balls for the third time, and Capt. Chance faced Coombs. Sheckard scored on Chance's single to center, Hofman being held on second. Zimmerman's grounder forced Chance, Collins to Barry. One run.

Philadelphia—Collins was given his base on balls. Baker singled to right, placing Collins on third. Davis drove the ball into the left field crowd for two bases, scoring Collins and putting Baker on third. Murphy doubled in the same direction, scoring Baker and Davis. Barry sacrificed, Brown to Chance, placing Murphy on third. Thomas drove a single to left, scoring Murphy. Coombs was out at first by Chance, unassisted. Strunk doubled to right, scoring Thomas. Sheckard muffed Lord's fly and Strunk scored. Lord was out stealing, Kling to Tinker. Six runs.

Eighth Inning—Chicago: Steinfeldt doubled to left. Linke lifted to Baker. Kling took first on balls. Beaumont was brought in to bat for Brown and struck out on four pitched balls. Coombs passed Sheckard. Three men were left on bases when Schulte popped a fly to Collins. No runs.

Philadelphia: Richie went in to pitch for Chicago. Collins drove the ball into right field crowd for two bases. Collins took third on Baker's out at first, Chance unassisted. Davis was out at first, Chance unassited. Murphy was thrown out, Steinfeldt to Chance. No runs.

Ninth Inning—Hofman singled to left. Chance was thrown out at first, Collins to Davis. Zimmerman doubled to left, scoring Hofman. Steinfeldt was an easy out, Barry to Davis. Tinker was given his base on balls. Kling hit to Barry and the latter stepped to second, forcing Tinker. One run.

HAMLIN PULLS OUT OF RACE

Mansfield and Foss Left to Fight It Out for Nomination.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 18.—Charles S. Hamlin, one of the aspirants for the Democratic nomination for governor, withdrew from the contest at noon today. This leaves Frederick W. Mansfield of Boston as the regular nominee with the understanding that he will withdraw before 5 p. m. Thursday. Congressman Eugene N. Foss has already taken out nomination papers as a "progressive Democrat," but Mansfield has stated that he will not withdraw in favor of Foss.

THE SIGN OF THE CROSS.

Chicago Tribune: The sign of the cross, in common with other universal emblems, presents four clearly marked stages in its development—a simple idea, elaboration, sanctity and decadence.

The cruz ansata of Egypt, which was originally a water gauge beginning with a simple stick set upright on the bank of the Nile to indicate the height of the annual overflow, was elaborated first by the addition of a short horizontal bar, thus forming a tau cross, the symbol sacred in Phoenicia to Tammuz, and later by the sun circle, finally changed to a loop, making the object a handled cross.

Thus juxtaposed the fertility of sun and water suggests the generative powers of nature. This symbol appears in the catacombs with the sun circle transformed into a laurel wreath expressive of the triumphant faith and hope of Christians.

The first historical appearance of the swastika, or armed cross, fourteenth century B. C. is apparently on a small leaden figure three and a half inches long found by Dr. Schliemann in the second city of the ruins of Troy, together with many crosses of gold, silver, etc., the location of the symbol on the figure having generative significance. The swastika indicated the sun, the feet referring to the rays, then fire and finally life.

WORKERS ARE BETHEL NEED

More Men Required for Wind Up of Building Fund Campaign.

Another Gain Sends Total of Amount Raised to $33,004.50.

The Bethel fund today at noon stood at $33,004.50. This was another big gain. A very large jump is expected by tomorrow, because of the extraordinary efforts that are being made in the closing hours of the campaign.

More volunteers joined the force of field workers today, although far from a sufficient number. The directors are making an urgent appeal for many more, and every man who can possibly join in the work for the next two days is needed.

Yesterday there was a jump of nearly $5,000, the greatest gain in a single day since the campaign began. It showed that as the end draws near, interest in the campaign is increasing hourly. It was hailed as a fine start toward a whirlwind finish, which there must be in order to have the efforts of the directors, the executive committeemen and the teams and their leaders gain the goal for which they started two weeks ago.

More and more remarkable are the results thus far considered to be when it is realized how few men there have been in the campaign. In the great Y. M. C. A. campaign there were 200 workers in the field. The Bethel has hardly a fifth of that number. Judging from the results attained by the Bethel volunteers more than twice as much money as is needed would have been obtained had there been as many workers in this campaign as were in the Y. M. C. A. campaign.

Say Tide Is Turning.

Gratified indeed are the friends of the Bethel at what has been done thus far, but there is yet much more to be done. The tide has already turned, they claim. The conviction has been borne in upon the executive committeemen and the directors that the goal is still in sight if enough more men can be gotten into the service for the next two days. Duluth is ready to give, but those who are ready must be seen. It is to complete the task of seeing its friends that the Bethel seeks more men. A two-day army of 200 men would bring the Bethel project under the wire a winner, the committeemen believe.

The problem is, as it was yesterday, and as it has been all along—the need of men to help carry on the work. This is the problem the Bethel is trying to solve in order to gain an equipment wherewith to solve Duluth's problem of housing its floating population of workmen, lumberjacks, miners, farm hands and sailors.

"Give us the 200 men we have asked for—the 200 men we so much need—and a new Bethel and rescue home will be assured before the end of the week. There is no question about it," said U. V. Sillaway, the Milwaukee mission worker who is here aiding in the campaign, today.

FLOUR DEMAND IS MODERATE

Minneapolis Millers Say Export Flour Business Will Be Light.

James S. Bell, president, and John Washburn, vice president, of the Washburn-Crosby company, the biggest millers in the world, were in Duluth today on business, having come from Minneapolis this morning.

Mr. Bell said the chances for export business are slim although small driblets are being worked intermittently.

The flour demand, said Mr. Washburn, is moderate. Jobbers have only medium stocks and while they are buying on a hand-to-mouth basis the aggregate demand amounts to a steady business. Mr. Washburn says that very little flour has been sold for delivery in the distant future and he expects business to become less in volume in the winter months.

The Washburn-Crosby company enjoys such a wide sale of its flour that its aggregate business holds up well while other companies with a more restricted business, so far as territory is concerned, find their output seriously curtailed. Practically all Northwestern mills are operating on a narrow margin of profit.

HANDS CRACKED AND PEELED

Tried Many Remedies but Grew Worse —Impossible to Do Housework —Cured by Cuticura Soap and Ointment.

"About six years ago my hands began to crack and peel. I tried many remedies, but they grew worse all the time. At last they became so sore that it was impossible for me to do my housework. If I put my hands in water I was in agony; if I tried to cook, the heat caused intense pain. I consulted a doctor, but without the least satisfaction. After about a year of this suffering, I got my first relief when I tried Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. After using them for a week I found to my great delight that my hands were beginning to feel much better, the deep cracks began to heal up and stop running, and in a little while my hands were cured by using only one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment. I am very thankful to say that I have had no return of the skin disease since. I shall be glad if you will publish this so that others may know of Cuticura. Mrs. Minnie Drew, 23 Danforth St., Jamaica Plain, Mass., April 20, 1910."

For thirty years Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment have afforded speedy relief to tens of thousands of skin-tortured and disfigured sufferers from eczemas, rashes, itchings, irritations and chafings, from infancy to age, bringing comfort and peace to distracted households when all else failed.

Cuticura Remedies are sold throughout the civilized world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., Boston. Mailed free, 32-page Cuticura Book, "How to Care for and Treat the Skin and Scalp."

DULUTH ENJOYS A SUMMER DAY

Weather Bureau Thermometer Shows 78 Degs. Shortly After Noon Hour.

Shortly after the noon hour today, the thermometer at the United States weather bureau showed a temperature of 78 deg.

This is considered very warm for this season of the year in Duluth. It was warm yesterday and the day before, but today is the warmest October day in several years.

H. W. Richardson, the local forecaster expects cooler weather tonight and tomorrow. He states that while the weather today is unusually warm, there is nothing phenomenal about present conditions, and Duluthians are enjoying their usual fine fall weather.

RAILROADS WILL RUN TRAINS NEXT SEPTEMBER

Officials Say Canadian Northern Terminals Are Not Decided Upon.

President William Mackenzie of the Canadian Northern, D. B. Hanna, third vice president, and Hugh Sutherland, executive agent, were in Duluth yesterday. President Mackenzie was accompanied by Mrs. Mackenzie. The party left last night for Winnipeg.

In response to the question as to whether the Canadian Northern would construct an ore dock in this city, President Mackenzie replied that no definite decision had been arrived at in regard to this terminal question. He stated that September, 1911, had been set as the time the Canadian Northern would operate trains into this city over its own rails.

Mr. Hanna spoke warmly of the prompt relief measures that were taken by the people of this city in behalf of the fire sufferers.

SOO TRAINS NOW RUN TO PLUMMER

Are Accommodation Trains and Carry Freight and Passengers.

Bemidji, Minn., Oct. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Accommodation trains are being run through Bemidji to Plummer, the western end of the Moose Lake-Plummer line of the Soo, the construction of which has just been completed.

They carry passengers and freight, but only as an accommodation. Last week a train came through from Plummer, and it carried all the freight it could possibly handle. Another train pulled forty-four cars filled with freight.

Track gangs are at work, and it is expected that within the next two weeks the roadbed will be in such shape as to permit the running of a mixed train every other day.

A revision of the new Bemidji depot plans is being made, and it is not likely that the structure can be started before next spring. In the meantime, the telegraph operator will be installed in the brick building used for Soo headquarters, adjoining the tracks on Minnesota avenue.

ARGUMENTS IN LEMON RATE CASE ARE ENDED.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 18.—Arguments in the lemon rate case of the Atchison Topeka & Santa Fe and other railroads against the interstate commerce commission were heard by Judges Sanborn, Vandeventer and Adams of the United States circuit court yesterday and the case was referred to the court for its decision. The hearing was on an application for a temporary injunction restraining the order fixing the rate made last spring. The commission ordered a blanket reduction from $1.15 to $1 per 100 pounds between the seaboards.

MONTANA PASSES ARE CALLED IN Only Northern Pacific Employes Can Use Them in That State.

Helena, Mont., Oct. 18.—Holders of Northern Pacific railway passes, good in this state, and there have been quite a number of people in that class outside of railroad men, are grinding their teeth today because of the recent decision of the state supreme court relative to the legality of the issuance of such favors.

State officers, including the members of the supreme court and members of the legislature, as well as many county officers have been riding on Northern Pacific passes but hereafter they must pay their fare over that road. It is expected that the Great Northern, the Burlington, the Milwaukee and the Oregon Short Line will also cut off the pass-holders.

Slade Issues Order.

Third Vice-President George T. Slade of the Northern Pacific has issued the following general order anent the pass question:

"In view of the recent decision of the supreme court in Montana, this company must refuse to honor between local points in Montana all passes except the passes held by members of the railway commission and its official employes, and passes held by employes of this company and railroad contractors and their employes under contract with this company. Passes held by officers or employes of other companies, or by the members of the families of our own employes must not be honored or passes issued to such persons for local movement in Montana. Agents and trainmen should use every effort to notify passengers boarding trains in Montana that free transportation can no longer be honored locally between points within the state."

COURT ENJOINS QUIZ OF RAILWAY OFFICIALS.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 18.—C. H. Vanalstine, counsel for the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad, appeared in Judge O. T. Williams' court yesterday and made affidavit that the questions which James P. Cochrane desires to have answered through examination of the officials of the road are not necessary to the forming of a complaint, and secured an order from the court temporarily restraining their examination.

Cochrane's pending suit against the railroad company is for $49,000. Several officials were to apear before a court commissioner today.

WISCONSIN CENTRAL DIRECTORS MEET.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 18.—The annual meeting of the Wisconsin Central directors was held yesterday in the general office of the Soo line here. M. H. Ballou of Menasha, Wis.; William Irvine, Chipewa Falls, and C. F. Wales, Superior, Wis., were in attendance. Local directors at the meeting were: J. S. Pillsbury, C. T. Jeffery, A. H. Bright and Edmund Pennington. Officers were re-elected as follows: Edmund Pennington, president; A. H. Bright, vice president; C. F. Clement, treasurer; H. N. Paint, assistant treasurer; George W. Webster, secretary; J. A. Millington, Milwaukee, assistant secretary.

The annual report of the road has already appeared.

COLORADO, KANSAS AND NEBRASKA LAND AT STAKE.

Washington, Oct. 18.—Lands in Colorado, Kansas and Nebraska valued at millions of dollars will be the stake for which the railroads and individuals in the first named states will contest before the supreme court. That tribunal has decided to review the finding of the court of appeals for the Eighth circuit, which supported the contention of the Union Pacific Railroad company that its right-of-way through the lands of Thomas Stuart and Charles H. Murray should be 400 instead of 100 feet. The decision of the supreme court is expected to establish a precedent that will have far-reaching effect in the three states named.

STEPS TAKEN TO APPEAL LUMBER RATE DECISION.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 18.—Formal steps in taking to the United States supreme court the suit brought by the Great Northern, Northern Pacific, Burlington and Union Pacific railroads against the interstate commerce commission in regard to the lumber rates from the Pacific coast, were taken yesterday afternoon before Judge W. H. Sanborn of the United States circuit court by Luther Walter of Chicago, attorney for the interstate commerce commission, and by Hale Holden of Chicago, who represented the railroads.

WANTS A BIG SUM FOR INJURIES

Victor Thompson Claims to Have Been Clubbed By Watchman.

Alleging that he was beaten when he attempted to go on property owned by the Oliver Iron Mining company, Victor Thompson is suing the company for $5,000.

The incident happened on the company's property at Virginia, so the complaint states.

Thompson was going on the land in search of information when he claims the watchman attacked him with a club. He claims that as a result of the beating he sustained injuries to his back, ribs, spine, knees and hips.

The complaint states that the watchman attacked him without words and that the plaintiff in the action was beaten until he lay unconscious on the ground.

Y. M. I. COUNCIL ELECTS OFFICERS.

The Crusaders' council of the Y. M. I. held its initial meeting of the year at the clubrooms at Second avenue west and Fourth street last evening. The most important business of the evening was the election of the following officials for the ensuing year: Prsident, James W. Lyden, Jr.; first vice president, P. W. Casey; second vice president, J. D. Mackey; recording secretary, W. F. Fitzgerald; financial secretary, J. T. Scanlon; treasurer, William T. McAuley; inside sentinel, F. Hayes; outside sentinel, James Patt; marshal, J. M. Hock.

The next regular meeting will be held Monday evening, Oct. 24, when the initiation of new members, and the installation of the above-named officials will take place.

The Crusaders will open their new gymnasium within a few months. It is located in the new Cathedral high school, and which will be one of the largest and most up-to-date gymnasiums in the Northwest.

Negaunee, Mich., Oct. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. L. E. Dousseron, who spent several weeks with her brother, Joseph Brand, and family, at Proctor, Minn., has returned to her home in Negaunee. She was accompanied home by her husband, who went up after her.

BLEACHED FLOUR TO BE DESTROYED

Seized Goods Declared Impure By the Government Authorities.

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 18.—Bleached flour to the amount of 1,200 bags which was seized by the federal authorities as it was in transit from Kansas City to Atanta, has been condemned and confiscated by the government authorities as an adulterated article of food and has been ordered destroyed by the United States marshal.

Little Opposition to Paige.

Montpelier, Vt., Oct. 18. — United States Senator Carroll S. Paige, Vermont's junior senator, was practically unopposed for re-election when the state senate and house met today to vote on the selection of his successor. Tomorrow the two houses will meet in joint convention to submit their respective votes and declare their official selection.

PAYS ALL HIS DEBTS BEFORE HANGING HIMSELF.

Ortonville, Minn., Oct. 18.—Willis Dale, working as a carpenter here for twenty years, committed suicide by hanging himself at the ball park. The cause of the suicide was probably ill health. He paid all his debts about town last night before taking his life. He was 44 years of age.

Crow Wing Teachers Elect.

Brainerd, Minn., Oct. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the Crow Wing County Educational association meeting officers were elected as follows: President, R. R. Graham of Deerwood; vice president, Miss Margaret Cosgrove; secretary, Miss Vivian Anderson; treasurer, Miss Maude Phelps. The school board section elected H. C. Hughey as president and Charles Barrett as secretary and they were also elected as delegates to attend the state meeting.

"Correct Dress for Women"

IF there is such a thing as a "Specialty within a Specialty" then Suits hold that position with us.

Give a woman one well-cut, "Snappy-looking" Suit, and she is practically well-dressed, for it is the "Hub" of her wardrobe, and other garments are as accessories to it.

The services of the correctly tailored suit have been greatly broadened within the past few years, until now the tailored suit is permissable for ANY OCCASION (save the one that calls for formal evening dress)—On Nine Women Out of Ten—and at Nine Places Out of Ten, the tailormade is the garment par excellence.

Is it any wonder then that we, specialists in women's attire, vent special efforts upon the tailored suit? We aim to imbue the Gidding Tailormade with the best of Skill, Quality, Style and Conscience and stake our reputation upon it!

Especially wide assortments of splendid looking Suits, in stylish materials and models at $35.00.

Also extensive selections in other Suits at $29.50 to $100, (including rich velvets, corduroys and copies of imported models).

A Women's Corset Determines Her Appearance

Time was, when women called for a corset of a given size, the corset was handed them, they took it home and wore it, fit or mis-fit, (usually the latter), irrespective of their build or figure.

But now, the "Proper Corseting of Women" is considered a Science, and a Profession. Every figure is treated differently—for "Figure" is the foundation of "Fashionable Appearance."

Miss Anna Farrisee, a corset expert, and Special Representative of the Gossard Corset Company, is conducting a series of Instructive Talks on "Corsetry"—in our Corset Department (Third Floor)—All women are cordially invited.—(Tomorrow is the last day.)

Inspecting Scales.
Scales in the territory of which Duluth is the center are being examined by R. D. Mumby, agent of the Western Railway Weighing association; D. J. Galvin, scale expert for the Northern Pacific; Charles Neale, scale expert for the Minnesota state railway and warehouse commission; and F. L. Berry, expert for Fairbanks, Morse & Co. They are investigating fifty scales in this neighborhood, thirty-nine of which are at the Head of the Lakes.

Annual Bazar Opened.
The annual bazar of the Independent Polish Catholic church is now open at the corner of Third avenue east and Fifth street, with a splendid array of fancy work and articles suitable for Christmas presents to be given later on in the season; also lots of geese, ducks and chickens to win for your Thanksgiving dinner. There is also a plentiful supply of games and other forms of amusement for the entertainment of everybody. The committee in charge has worked hard to make the affair the largest and best ever held by the church and their efforts seem to be certain of success.

Prisoners Sentenced.
Judge W. A. Cant of the district court sentenced Axel Erickson to four years at hard labor at the Minnesota state's prison yesterday afternoon. Erickson was convicted of stealing $50. George Hulert got a reformatory sentence for forgery.

Will Admitted to Probate.
The will of Mrs. Anna H. Wieland was admitted to probate yesterday. She left property valued at $30,000.

Big Turnip Is Shown.
One of the largest turnips ever grown in Duluth or vicinity is on exhibition in the window of a store on Superior street near Lake avenue. It was grown in the garden of J. F. Lyness at 1413 East Third street. It weighs twenty-one pounds, stands about a foot high and is fourteen inches across.

Wrong Kind of "Work."
When Chris Gilberts was allowed his freedom in police court yesterday he promised to get right out of town and go to work. He evidently went to work—but not the way the court intended. It appears that he "worked" somebody for a little cash or a quantity of alcoholic drinks, for he was brought in early last evening sadly under the influence. He entered a plea of guilty and was sent to the county jail for fifteen days.

Reckless With Firearms.
William Hankey of New Duluth was arrested this morning by Patrolman H. Brouillette on a warrant charging him with discharging firearms in the city limits. It was alleged that he had frightened a number of his neighbors by reckless shooting about his home. He pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $7.50.

Pleads Not Guilty.
Stella Thomas, colored, pleaded not guilty to a statutory charge in police court this morning. She was also accused of robbing Alvon Hanson of $11 after enticing him into a room last night. She asked for an examination, which was set for tomorrow afternoon. She will be tried on the other charge at the same time.

Stole Two Boards.
Mike Ward got thirty days in the county jail when he admitted in police court this morning that he had stolen two boards from the Helmback Lumber company's yards. It appears that he intended to split them into kindling and sell the latter to several customers whom he has been supplying with kindling for a while past. Mike has been in several times before. The police say that he makes his living along the straight and narrow path most of the time, but that occasionally he is liable to appropriate what comes handiest.

Reception to F. L. Ryan.
The Ancient Order of Hibernians of the county will hold a reception Thursday evening at the cathedral auditorium, Second avenue west and Fourth street, in honor of Fred L. Ryan, who was elected state president of the order at the convention in Red Wing recently. Mr. Ryan has been county president for a number of years. National President James J. Regan of St. Paul, President Timothy Doyle of the insurance department and other officers high in the order will be among the guests at the reception Thursday evening.

House Prowlers Busy.
Reports were made to the police this morning that attempts had been made before daylight today to enter several residences in the West end. It is claimed that the would-be prowlers tried to gain admittance by using keys, badly frightening the families within. The police were not informed until it was too late to attempt to make any arrests.

When Charles Nonnemacher was arraigned in police court this morning on a warrant sworn out by his wife charging him with non-support, she asked the court not to prosecute him. She repented of her action in causing his arrest and wanted his released. The case was dismissed.

Bridge Not Ready.
The aerial bridge will not be started this evening at 6 o'clock, but the board of public works is hopeful that the first try will be made tomorrow at that hour. R. E. Patterson of the board visited the bridge this morning and learned that the overhead trucks need to be adjusted, causing a delay. It is possible that it may be two or three days before the bridge will be in operation. In the meantime the steamer Plowboy will continue to ferry passengers across the canal.

Chauffeur Found Guilty.
Edward C. Boushey, better known as "Eddie Bush," was found guilty of reckless driving in police court yesterday afternoon. He paid a fine of $100 rather than take the alternative of sixty days in the county jail. Bouchey smashed into the mail wagon driven by John Kusniorek on First street, between Fifth and Sixth avenues west last week, when driving his automibile at an alleged high rate of speed.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

CARELESS HANDLING OF GASOLINE ENDANGERS HOTEL.

Williston, N. D., Oct. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—An attempt at filling the receiver with gasoline without turning out the burner, came near proving disastrous to the Great Northern hotel in this city. The gasoline exploded and in a moment the dining room was ablaze. Leslie Disney, who was engaged in the feat, throwing the can of gasoline onto the floor and scattering the burning fluid in every direction. The loss was not very heavy.

HOW TO FIND OUT

Fill a bottle or common glass with urine and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling usually indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys. Too frequent desire to urinate, scanty supply, pain or dull ache in the back, should also convince you that the kidneys or bladder are out of order.

What To Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy,, fulfills almost every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold urine, and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate.

The mild, pleasant and extraordinary effect of Swmp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful results in the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine, you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle of Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, and a book that tells all about it, both sent absolutely free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing be sure to mention that you read this generous offer in The Duluth Daily Herald. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

THE MAN OF MYSTERY

Prof. Carle is probably the most besought man in Duluth. Men and women come from Duluth, Superior and from cities hundreds of miles away to ask his aid—to learn the things that are hidden to them, but which are to this mysterious and wonderful "SEER" as mere events recorded in an open book. Without asking you a question he tells your name, tells of friends and enemies, locates absent ones, reunites the separated and causes quick and speedy marriage with the one you love. Overcomes your rivals and all obstacles that bar your path to success and happiness—in fact, tells everything you desire to know. Unlike the pretender, he makes no charge in advance. Positively no fee accepted unless you get the truth, relief and help your desire. Hours: 10 a. m. to 8 p. m. No earlier, no later. Special low fee; limited time only, 50c and $1.

INSIDE FACTS ABOUT "S. & B. GARMENTS"

Give a few reasons why this store leads in the Outfitting of Well-Drest Women.

Most firms content themselves with a trip between seasons to the heart of garment activities—to pick up what this and that manufacturer calls new—re-ordering at intervals thru the season.

We do things a little different.

In addition to early and mid-season trips there is a certain Maker in Gotham who specializes the "over-night ideas" in the field of Women's Wear.

This expert supplies only the leading store in any Western city.

We understand one another.

These is hardly a day that the Express doesn't bring one or more of his latest creations.

Another, by the way, enjoys a trans-continental Custom—Suit reputation—he, too, supplies us to the exclusion of all other Duluth Stores.

Almost as regularly as you get the morning paper at your door, we receive NEW

Tailored Suits,	Debutante Gowns,
Street Costumes,	Ball Gowns,
Top Coats,	Fur Coats,
Reception Gowns,	Fur Sets,
Dancing Dresses,	Individual Fur Pieces,
Motor Wraps,	Restaurant Wraps,
Opera Coats and Capes,	Dinner Gowns.

That is one reason why the Garment business of this store has reacht a higher state of organization than most specialty houses.

Of course, our long standing business dealings with the big men who have brought Women's Tailored Wear to its present high standard, helpt a lot to this end.

We go to all this trouble in the interests of women who are, if any, over-particular—by so doing we are in a position to supply their needs with circumspection and dispatch.

We take care of the style kinks of your wardrobe as effectively as tho you shopt on Broadway.

Garment are so new oftentimes that you can almost feel the warmth of the tailor's pressing iron upon them.

It won't do you any harm to remember these things when the dilemma of getting your new Fall and Winter Clothes presents itself.

Read the meaning "between the lines," and take it at its face value—because plain facts are all-important—ONLY when unvarnisht.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

An announcement from New York that Victor Maurel, the famous baritone, will produce grand opera at the New Amsterdam theater in New York is of much interest in many Duluthians. Many Duluth singers have studied with Maurel in New York and abroad. Miss Rena Vivienne, who is now in New York, studied with the famous baritone at Paris, in Italy and later in London. Miss Gladys Reynolds of this city was a pupil of his last winter in New York. John Koneczny and George Suffell also studied with him.

Mr. Maurel promises three performances a week, two of them open to subscription, and Sunday concerts. His company, he says, will include famous stars of world-wide reputation and young American singers of unusual promise.

SHAKESPEARE CLASS.

First Evening Meeting of Year Is Held.

The first meeting of the year of the Evening Shakespeare class of the Twentieth Century club was held last evening at the clubroom of the library. Robert E. Denfeld presented a detailed study of Shakespeare's great tragedy, "King Lear," that was heard with much interest. Mrs. Charles d'Autremont gave a delightful reading from "Much Ado About Nothing."

There were about thirty members in attendance and the class promises to be a popular one during the year.

SOME NAMES.

The Russian Dancers Bring With Them.

Popular though the Russian dancers have been during last season in New York, and enthusiastic though their welcome has been this season, no hostess has yet been found who has the temerity to receive in their honor. Here is a list of names of the people who would be presented to Smiths and Browns and Jones, of American homeculture:

Mlle. Anna Pavlowa—Danseuse etoile.
M. Mikail Mordkin—Premier danseur classique.
Mlle. Pronislawa Pajitzkala—First solo funseuse.
Mlle. Hilda Bewickowa—Solo danseuse.
Mlle. Stanislawa Kun—Solo danseuse.
Mlle. Stepania Paskovieskala—Solo danseuse.
Mlle. Alina Schmolz—Solo danseuse.
M. Klorian Barboo—Solo danseur.
M. Mikail Moissejeff—Solo danseur.
M. Sergei Morosseff—Solo danseur.
M. Alexis Trojanowski—Solo danseur.
M. Versine West—Solo danseur.
Corps de ballet from Imperial Opera houses, St. Petersburg and Moscow.

The ballets in the repertory of the company are Adolph Adam's "Giselle" and "The Arabian Nights" arranged by Mikail Mordkin, with music selected from works by Aubers, Bleichman, Bourgault-Ducoudray, Rubinstein, Chaminade, Glazounow and Rimski-Korsakow.

The Russian dancers will appear in Duluth, Nov. 3.

MATINEE MUSICALE.

Miss Morris Sings for Club Members.

The regular meeting of the Matinee Musicale was held yesterday afternoon at the assembly hall of the Young Women's Christian association and the study of symphonies which will be the feature of the club year was begun and the first symphony of Beethoven was played in a two piano arrangement by Mrs. John Millen, Mrs. J. A. Stephenson, Miss Simonds and Mrs. Ernest Lachmund.

In addition to the pleasure of hearing the regular members in the program as arranged, Miss Mary Morris, a former member, appeared before the club in the singing of an Italian folk song. Miss Morris has been studying in Italy for two years and she was cordially received yesterday afternoon by the members, and heard with much pleasure.

Card Party.

Mrs. George Robinson of 517 East Fifth street entertained at cards yesterday afternoon in honor of her sisters, Mrs. Willia Houlihan and Miss Louise Baker, both of Butte, Mont. The rooms were prettily decorated in flowers. The card prizes were won by Miss Baker, Mrs. Houlihan, Mrs. Staples and Mrs. Wilton. The guests were:

Mesdames—
A. E. Herzberg, Wilton,
Staples, Sharf,
McCaskill, Krebs,
Iverson,

Wed at Minneapolis.

A Minneapolis wedding of interest to friends in this city was that of Miss Nora Hollinshead, daughter of Mrs. Cornelia Hollinshead and Theodore Pike, Friday evening, at the home of the mother of the bridegroom. Mrs. George Morgan of this city, formerly Miss Cornelia Hollinshead, was her sister's matron of honor, and William Hollinshead was best man. Mr. and Mrs. Pike are taking a motor trip, and on their return will live in Minneapolis.

PRESENTING COMIC OPERA ON A GRAND OPEN SCALE

SOPHIE BRANDT.

Oscar Hammerstein has a very keen judgment in matters musical. He made extraordinary vocal discoveries when he was running grand opera in New York. He is making a like record in the field of comic opera. After the mangers of the Metropolitan Opera house had told American music lovers that there were no more tenors in the world, Oscar found Bonci and Dalberes and Oscar was equally successful in finding first class sopranos, baritones, etc. When it came to producing the light opera "Hans the Flute Player," Hammerstein showed equal felicity. He brought over Sophie Brandt, a soprano, little known in America, with a most delightful strong, clear, well-placed voice and he presented Frank Pollock, a fine light tenor, and George Chadel, a baritone, whose style, both in singing and in acting, suggested that of Renauld. With an immense cast and a ballet which fills the stage of the big Manhattan, Oscar has made New York marvel again. He says he is producing comic opera after the fashion of grand opera and doing it at normal prices. His next production will be a Victor Herbert opera, with Trentini as the star. "The Little Trentin," as she was called in grand opera days, when she was a great favorite with the public which thronged the Hammerstein opera house.

CALUMET ELKS' TEMPLE

Will Be Dedicated Wednesday Evening With Big Attendance.

Calumet, Mich., Oct. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—More than 300 visiting Elks are expected here tomorrow evening, when the local lodge of Elks will dedicate their beautiful new temple. The dedication of the temple was planned for last spring, but was postponed because of the non-arrival of some of the furnishings. A party of Duluth, Superior and Ashland Elks, headed by a Duluth architect, F. W. Hesenmueller, formerly of Calumet and a member of the Calumet lodge, are among the expected visitors. Two hundred members of the Hancock lodge will come in a special train, while a special coach will bring fifty or more members of the Marquette and Ishpeming lodges. Others are expected from Marinette, Menominee and Escanaba, while already in town are several Soo, Detroit and Chicago Elks. Lew Hall of Milwaukee will assist in the entertainment with his famous sextet, and Al Abbott, the Chicago tenor, formerly with "The Girl Question," and S. E. McBride, a commercial traveler, but one time a well-known minstrel, will also be on the program. The famous Calumet & Hecla band will play.

AUTO OWNERS TO HOLD PICNIC

Bond Between Range Town and Duluth Enthusiasts to Be Cemented.

Automobile owners of Duluth and the iron range towns will hold a joint picnic next Sunday at Whiteface river, which is about half way between Duluth and Eveleth, the first town encountered on the road to the ranges.

The spirit of fraternalism between the owners of power carriages in Duluth and the range towns has been growing and the picnic next Sunday is intended to cement the bond and draw the owners closer together for mutual benefit.

The road between Duluth and the range towns is much traveled. There is a live auto club on the range and the owners there are enthusiastic over the plan to co-operate with Duluth owners in securing good well-maintained roads and other benefits that must come through co-operation.

NAMES COMMITTEE FROM THE HOUSE

Speaker Cannon Includes Volstead Among Those to Attend Funeral.

Chicago, Oct. 18.—Speaker Joseph G. Cannon has named the following committee to represent the national house og representatives at the funeral of Senator Dolliver:

William B. McKinley, Illinois; Charles Townsend, Michigan; James H. Davidson, Wisconsin; James T. Lloyd, Missouri; Charles F. Scott, Kansas; Andrew J. Volstead, Minnesota; John E. Andrews, New York; E. H. Hinshaw, Nebraska; Charles H. Burke, South Dakota; Nicholas Longworth, Ohio; Wagger Sherley, Kentucky, and Lincoln Dixon, Indiana.

It is expected that the majority of the members of this committee will meet in Chicago and go to Fort Dodge in a body.

Proclamation of Sorrow.

Des Moines, Iowa, Oct. 18.—Governor Carroll issued the following proclamation of sorrow for Senator Dolliver's death:

"Providence has removed from our midst one of our most distinguished citizens and it is my painful duty to announce to the people of Iowa the death of Senator Jonathan P. Dolliver.

"Of all the able men that our state has given to the public service, few have risen to that mark of distinction attained by Senator Dolliver, especially as an exponent of public questions. His friends extend beyond the limits of our nation, and his splendid ability and patriotic devotion to public duty are recognized by all who know him.

"Our state will deeply mourn the loss of this brilliant and able statesman."

ADDITIONAL SPORTS

PLANS BASEBALL TRIPS.

National Commission Arranges for Changes By Teams.

Philadelphia, Oct. 18.—The National Baseball commission held a session today and arranged for the transportation of the baseball contingent to Chicago. The team will leave here at 8:55 o'clock tonight in two sections and will be due in Chicago tomorrow afternoon between 1 and 2 o'clock. The first section will carry the American league champions and party, Presidents Johnson and Lynch and the Eastern newspaper men. The National league champions will travel on the second section, accompanied by Garry Hermann, president of the National commission, and party and Western newspaper men.

Arrangements have also been made for quick traveling between the two cities in case games are necessary Saturday and Sunday. The teams will leave Chicago in the same two sections at 5:25 p. m. Friday, arriving here about 11 a. m. Saturday, and will leave at 5:25 p. m. the same day and get into Chicago about 11 a. m. Sunday.

Beat Japanese Nine.

Tokio, Oct. 18.—The baseball team representing the University of Chicago again met the Waseda university nine today and won by a score of 15 to 4.

HOFFSTOT GIVES BOND OF $20,000.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 18.—Following the decision by the United States supreme court yesterday that he must come to Pittsburg to answer charges of conspiracy and bribery, Frank N. Hoffstot, the millionaire steel manufacturer, appeared before District Attorney William A. Blakeley this morning and gave the necessary bond of $20,000.

Hoffstot, who is a banker as well as a steel manufacturer, was charged with conspiracy to bribe councilmen in connection with the bond depositary ordinance.

Woman's Nature

It is the nature of women to suffer uncomplainingly, the discomforts and fears that accompany the bearing of children. Motherhood is their crowning glory, and they brave its sufferings for the joy that children bring. No expectant mother need suffer, however, during the period of waiting, nor feel that she is in danger when baby comes, if Mother's Friend is used in preparation of the event. Mother's Friend relieves the pain and discomfort caused by the strain on the different ligaments, overcomes nausea by counteraction, prevents backache and numbness of limbs and soothes the inflammation of breast glands. Its regular use fits and prepares every portion of the mother's system for a proper and natural ending of the term, and it assures for her a quick and complete recovery. Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. Write for free book for expectant mothers.

SUPERIOR

TAX RATE MAY BE LOWER

Unless County Board Provides for Special Two-Mills Levy for Roads.

With a reasonable levy from the county yet to be heard from, it is now estimated that the tax rate for Superior will be kept below .032 on each dollar of assessed valuation. The tax rate for 1909 was .0323. The fact that $25,000 has been added to the levy for a municipal dock site will not prevent a lower tax rate, it is said.

There is a rumor that the full limit for roads allowed by the special law passed by the state legislature, will probably be levied by the county board at its annual meeting next month. On the basis of a two-mill special levy for county road improvements, Superior would be called upon to pay a total of $45,000.

The possibility that this may be done, is the only thing that would tend to boost the city tax rate.

INVENTS SAFETY DEVICE FOR INTERSTATE BRIDGE.

N. B. Benson, foreman of the interstate bridge is the inventor of a new safety device, consisting of 100-candle power lights, which burn while the interstate bridge whistle is sounting. The new device has just been installed by the Great Northern Railway company.

Heretofore lake captains have claimed that on dark and windy nights they have had difficulty in determining whether or not the bridge tender answered their signals for the bridge. The new system, it is claimed, will overcome this difficulty.

JURY AWARDS WOMAN $2,000 FOR DAMAGES.

A jury yesterday in superior court, after a half hour's deliberation, brought in a verdict for the plaintiff in the case of Ida M. Holcom vs. the Duluth Street Railway company, making an award of $2,000, the full amount asked. The plaintiff claimed to have fallen from a street car and injured herself, as a result of the negligence on the part of the defendant.

Changes Approach.

The Great Northern road was granted a permit Saturday at Madison for the construction of an approach to the interstate bridge on a changed route. Several months ago the Great Northern secured a permit for an approach running to the bridge from a point near G avenue westward of Main street from the base of Conor's Point. On the new permit the route will lie to the east ward on Main street and close up to the tracks of the Northern Pacific railway.

Timber Bridge Wanted.

It is thought that a wooden bridge across the Nemadji river at East Fourth street will be recommended this evening at the council meeting in preference to one of steel construction. The steel bridge would cost in the neighborhood of $100,000 and it is said that a timber bridge with a creosoted deck would cost not more than $50,000.

EXTRA GAME IN NEW YORK CITY SERIES.

New York, Oct. 18.—With the count still standing 2 to 1 in favor of the National league team, the New York teams met again today for the fifth game of the post-season series. Yesterday's tie game necessitated the playing of an extra contest, in the receipts of which the players will share. The men already have $32,208 to distribute between them.

Mathewson will probably pitch for the Nationals while either Quinn or Warhop will be in the box for the Americans.

HONOR NEGAUNEE MAN.

Superintendent Schurtz President of Upper Peninsula Educators.

Negaunee, Mich., Oct. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Upper Peninsular Educational association which has just concluded its meeting here elected Supt. Schurtz of this city, president for the ensuing year. Mr. Schurtz served as vice president last year. Supt. Hill of Crystal Falls is the new vice president. Supt. Davis of Dollar Bay is treasurer and Supt. Jeffers of Painesdale and Supt. Brennan of Ironwood were chosen members of the executive board.

May Bridge Escanaba.

Escanaba, Mich., Oct. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—A proposition to build a bridge over the Escanaba river at Wells is under consideration in Delta county. It is proposed to build a steel and concrete bridge at a cost of $40,000. A proposition to bond the county for the necessary money will be submitted to the electors.

DEPORTATION CASE IN SUPREME COURT.

Washington, Oct. 18.—Whether the government possesses the right to deport a woman on grave charges of character, within three years after her return to the United States from her native country, where she had gone for a visit, following thirteen years' residence in the United States, is a question which the supreme court of the United States has decided to review. The point arose in the case of Annie Lapina, who was ordered deported from the Tucson, Ariz., station. The court approved the deportation order.

SMILE AND WAIT

By POLLY PAGET.

One of the hardest, and yet one of the most useful, lessons we can ever learn is to smile and wait after we have done our very best.

It is a finely trained mind that can struggle with energy and cheerfulness toward the goal which he cannot see. But he is not a great philosopher who has not learned the secret of smiling and waiting.

A great many people can smile at difficulties who cannot wait, who lack patience; but the man who can both smile and wait, if he has the tenacity of purpose which never turns back, will surely win.

The fact is, large things can only be done by optimists. Little successes are left to pessimistic people who cannot set their teeth, clench their fists and smile at hardships or misfortunes and patiently wait.

Smile and wait—there are whole volumes in this sentence. It is so much easier for most people to work than to wait.

The store that takes a lot of pains to make its advertising serviceable to you has earned your favor and interest.

"THE KISSING GIRL"

Mlle. Vanity, the nimble French danseuse, who has made a local hit in "The Kissing Girl," the new musical comedy which comes to the Lyceum theater on Thursday is a newcomer to this country, having been brought here by John P. Slocum as a result of his recent trip abroad. The country is now dancing mad and any musical organization of high class which does not carry an expensive dancer is decidedly behind the times.

When Mr. Slocum was selecting his cast for "The Kissing Girl" he determined to feature a great dancer in the production. In his travels he spent a great deal of time looking for a dancer who could be fascinating without being vulgar or suggestive. Strange to say, he found in Paris his ideal dancer in the person of little Mlle. Vanity, who, although the idol of the boulevarde, had never condescended to waste her art upon the decadent dances so much in vogue in the music halls.

Paris Hats

WE ARE SHOWING some exquisite models originated by the cleverest of French designers. Almost every day finds a new array, more beautiful, if possible, than those which charmed the previous day. All the witcheries of exquisitely shaded plumes, rich laces, gleaming velvets, glinting ornaments, cloth-of-gold and silver-threaded brocades unite in an irresistible appeal to one's sense of beauty.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF POLITICS AND POLITICIANS

Eberhart and Party to Be Here Nov. 2-3—Simpson and Janes On Banquet Program—Speakership Talk Continues General—Range Editors Hand Boquets to Judge Jaques and Commissioner McEwen—Politics in North Dakota.

Governor A. O. Eberhart and party will spend Nov. 2 and 3 in Duluth and on the ranges, coming to this part of the state by way of Crookston. The governor will speak at Virginia on Nov. 2, and will be in Duluth the following day. He will be at Grand Rapids Nov. 1. Just who will be with him is not known at this time, but it is expected he will be accompanied by a number of state officers or speakers on the staff of the state central committee.

Miller Yokes Up With Party

The Republican county committee has arranged for a tour of range towns by Congressman C. B. Miller, James P. Boyle, nominee for state senator from the Forty-ninth district, Walter J. Smith, Republican candidate for state treasurer, and such of the county candidates as may desire to join the party.

This group of "well-binders will follow this itinerary: Ely, 22; Eveleth, 24; Chisholm, 25; Gilbert, Biwabik and Aurora, 26; Hibbing, 27.

These arrangements indicate that Mr. Miller desires to escape the ordeal of the spotlight in his home county, but the probabilities are that he will be severely heckled, in spite of the protection that may be afforded him by the presence of two such popular range men as Smith and Boyle.

Attorney General George T. Simpson has been substituted for Senator Moses E. Clapp on the speakers' program for the banquet of the Young Men's Republican club at the Spalding Thursday night. Mr. Simpson has been paying a good deal of attention to this part of the state and in a talk he made before this club at its headquarters some weeks ago, he said some very nice things about the future of St. Louis county, so he has a rather warm place in the hearts of the club members. It is also announced that Alex Janes of Pipestone, an orator of note in all parts of the state, will be an additional speaker at the banquet. Congressman Miller, James P. Boyle and H. B. Haroldson are the others.

Simpson Will Be Banquet Orator.

The News Tribune this morning makes the misstatement that only one Democratic candidate for the legislature—Senator Cashman of Owatonna—has declared for Clapp for United States senator. The supporters of H. W. Cheadle, candidate for the senate against George R. Laybourn, say that this assertion is of a piece with the other political remarks from that source on the Fifty-first district senatorial contest—just bamboozling.

Cheadle and the Clapp Flubdub.

The night John Lind came out with a formal declaration in favor of Clapp's re-election, Mr. Cheadle, addressing an audience at Two Harbors, said:

They have already set up the cry that unless my opponent is elected, Senator Clapp will be defeated. Yes, it is laughable, indeed, when you know that the ring which is behind my opponent would, at any moment they saw the opportunity, throw Senator Clapp overboard and elect a man to their liking. But this is not to be. There is no considerable opposition to Senator Clap and he will be re-elected. They can't down Clapp and they know it. In fact, he is nearly a Democrat and the Republicans practically read him out of the party last spring.

I owe my allegiance to the Democratic party. I am a progressive Democrat. Were it possible for the impossible to happen and the legislature be Democratic, I should vote for a progressive Democrat, but in the event that it be Republican, I shall vote for a progressive man, and his name is Moses E. Clapp.

But you know and I know and they know that the only reason they raise this issue on me is to bamboozle Republicans of this district who are disgusted with my opponent's record and to enable him to slip back into the public service under the coat tails of Senator Clapp.

This is the position also taken by E. R. Ribenack, candidate for the house in the Fiftieth district.

The Virginia Enterprise, in its notice of the recent Democratic rally there, describes the audience as large and enthusiastic and pays appreciative attention to the speeches of the several speakers, remarking that interest naturally centered in the appearance of Judge Jaques, who would, in the language of the Enterprise, "succeed the more or less honorable Clarence B. Miller in the house of representatives." Continuing, the Enterprise says:

Appreciation of Judge Jaques.

That his hearers were not disappointed in the promises made, and that they fully and firmly believed in the honor and integrity of the speaker, was evidenced by continued rounds of applause as he noted the difference between the pre-election promises of the present congressman from this district and his acts and voice in the house during the past session, and his proclamation that if elected he would faithfully, insofar as in his power, vote as the people of his district demanded—not become a pawn in the hands of the machine which has for so many years absolutely ruled the house through the master hand of Speaker Cannon, for whom Mr. Miller so consistently voted after his repeated declaration on the stump two years ago that he sought election to fight the power of Cannonism and that if his vote was the only one cast against the re-election of Cannon as speaker he would vote and fight to the last ditch.

Judge Jaques read Mr. Miller's interesting record of votes on Cannon and Cannonism from the congressional record, showing that on the first day after taking his seat he voted for Cannon as speaker, for the adoption of the old house rules which gave the speaker absolute control of the situation and for other measures tending to strengthen the stronghold and fortifications of Cannonism, and rightly asked if the people of the Eighth district wished to elect a man to congress to represent Joe Cannon and the money power or a man to represent the Eighth district.

The Judge is not a specially strong speaker but has the method and manner which bears conviction of his honor and integrity, and without doubt made both friends and votes.

The Enterprise quotes Judge Jaques as saying he has met with pleasing assurances of support all through the district so far as he has canvassed it, and "considers that his chances for election in this solidly Republican stronghold, in this year of non-partisan, free thinking Americanism, are excellent.

Although admonished by Bob Dunn that it is too early to talk about the speakership, the politicians persist in doing just that, and some of them talk about Bob for speaker, but not many. Another Bob and another Dunn are much more frequently mentioned. They are Bob Wells of Breckenridge, and H. H. Dunn of Albert Lea. Wells, who was defeated for the Republican nomination for state auditor, is an independent candidate for the house, running against Moyle Bedwards, editor of the Breckenridge Gazette, whom Bob Wells most distinctly does not admire.

Talk About The Speakership.

L. C. Spooner of Morris, a veteran house member, is said to be ambitious to gain the gavel, and J. N. Johnson of Canby is touted as the county option candidate for the speakership. J. A. A. Burnquist of St. Paul, is another optionist aspirant to the chair.

Elmer E. Adams of Perseus Falls, who is running as an independent, would like to preside over the house, too, but there's small chance of that outcome.

Congressman Frank M. Nye has returned to his home in Minneapolis from the western headquarters of the congressional committee in Chicago, where he called on Henry Casson, sergeant-at-arms of the house. Mr. Nye says he was informed of conditions which gave the situation an encouraging aspect. Casson is directing the work of the committee, in the absence of James A. Tawney, who is detained at Winona by the illness of his daughter.

Nye Refuses to See Doom.

"I found an excellent feeling prevailing at the headquarters," said Mr. Nye, "and the committee is confident that the next house will be Republican. Sentiment through the West is much better than it was, and in the states heard from the Republicans are expecting to hold their own at least, and in some places to make gains.

"The death of Senator Dolliver is very deplorable. He was a man I thought a great deal of personally. He was a great genius, the greatest orator in either house and a very lovable man."

The Democratic rallies held last week on the ranges form the subject of considerable comment, printed and spoken, because they were unusually large meetings and the speakers made their auditences sit up and take notice. Speaking of Judge Jaques, the Hibbing Tribune says he "is a pleasant man to meet and gives every evidence of ability and sincerity."

Jaques and McEwen Get Deserved Compliments.

The Hibbing Ore says:

Judge Alfred Jaques of Duluth, Democratic candidate for congress in this district, was a Hibbing visitor Thursday, and honored the Ore office with a social call. Mr. Jaques reports that there is much more Miller dissention about the district than appears on the surface and that his chances for success are improving every day. Mr. Jaques is a very pleasant gentleman and if it should come about that he is called upon to preside in Washington during the sessions of congress the district will have a representative it will not be ashamed of.

Concerning William E. McEwen, the Ore says:

William E. McEwen of Duluth, state commissioner, was in the city Thursday and found time to pay his fraternal respects to the Ore office and the old man hereof. Mr. McEwen is accredited the best labor officer the state ever had and it all comes about because he does not do all of his work for McEwen or the Democratic party—he works for the good of humanity, and his work counts for a great deal. He was appointed to the position by the late Governor Johnson and under his administration the office has become something of real value to the state. Mr. McEwen's visit to Hibbing was for the purpose of introducing Judge Alfred Jaques, Democratic candidate for congress, to the people, and he did it in his best style.

"State Labor Commissioner W. E. McEwen of Duluth made a mighty good talk and created a very favorable impression," said the Virginia Virginian, referring to the meeting at that place. "He dwelt on national and state issues in a manner which plensed many of his auditors and many were heard to remark that the 'Democrats made a mistake in not nominating Billy McEwen for governor instead of Jim Gray.'"

There will be a meeting of the Young Men's Republican club this evening at headquarters, 202 Palladio building. This will be the last meeting of the club preceding the banquet to be held Thursday evening and a large attendance is expected. There will be speaking.

FLICKERTAIL POLITICS

John Burke is making one of the most spectacular campaigns ever made by a gubernatorial candidate in any state, sweeping about the state from community to community in an automobile and getting right next to the voters themselves. Frantically on his trail have come numbers of Republican spell-binders, sent out to talk to those with whom the governor has talked and to break their faith in him if they could, and apparently their task has been a futile one.

In his flying tour of the state Governor Burke has, in the brief space of three weeks, covered fourteen counties, and done it pretty thoroughly. These counties are: Cass, Richland, Sargent, Dickey, La Moure, Ransom, Ramsey, Nelson, Walsh, Cavalier, Pembina, Griggs, McIntosh and Steel.

Just now he is in the "enemy's," in the vicinity of C. A. Johnson's home, which is in Minot. McHenry, Pierce, Renville, Towner, Bottineau, Williams and Wells counties will be covered rapidly, and then Governor Burke will go to the southwestern part of the state, later swinging around to the Red River valley and finishing the remarkable campaign on the night of Nov. 7, at his home, Devils Lake.

Accompanying Governor Burke part of the time is United States Senator Purcell, who is one of the best attractions obtained for a political gathering. He is a popular favorite almost equalling Governor Burke and is doing excellent work in the campaign.

Alec McKenzie is now in St. Paul and former Senator Hansbrough, first lieutenant of the boss, is in Minneapolis, from which points they are directing the fight on behalf of C. A. Johnson. They are exerting every effort to save the day, but the tide has set against them, by all accounts, and Burke's election by a larger majority than ever given him before is predicted. The McKenzie people clearly are worried.

Summed up by the Grand Forks Herald, a Republican paper that is earnestly advocating the re-election of Governor Burke, the campaign against him amounts to this:

The charges that are being publicly made against the governor are that he vetoed some appropriations that several people wanted made, that he signed a bill making some provision for the legitimate expenses of his office, and that he didn't appoint the right man senator. That is the whole indictment that is brought against the man who has held the most important office in the state for four years, every one of whose official acts have been open to inspection, and who has been watched at every turn by an element that has been hostile to him, that is resourceful and persistent, and that has had every opportunity to be informed. Let every one of the charges be admitted, and then any reasonable man will say that if that is the worst that can be said of Burke, after four years' service, he must have been a pretty good governor.

Congressman Hanna's campaign for re-election on the Republican ticket is a hustling one. He has been challenged to debate the issues and his stand-pat record, but like Congressman Miller in Minnesota, he declines to enter into such an arrangement. O. J. Major of Hope and M. A. Hildreth of Fargo have been especially persistent in trying to get him on the rostrum, but he prefers not to run the risk.

PLUMMER SENDS $108.

Little Red Lake County Town Raises Money for Sufferers.

Bemidji, Minn., Oct. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The village of Plummer, a small town in Red Lake county with about 200 inhabitants, has raised $108 to add to the fund for the sufferers in the fire zone. The money has been sent to Mayor J. C. Parker of Bemidji, accompanied by a note, saying:

"It is with the greatest of pleasure that we are able to herewith hand you draft for $108 to help the poor sufferers, and all of us knowing you personally, you being interested in the sawmill here, we well know that the money will be taken care of and distributed in the proper manner. As you konw, we are only a small village with a population of less than 200, but nothing the contributions from other towns, we have a right to feel pretty good with what we are able to contribute, and trust that every other village and city in the state will be able to do as well accordingly."

IS RETURNED TO PEN.

Montana Penitentiary Trusty Is Captured in Minnesota.

Deer Lodge, Minn., Oct. 18.—Chief of Police P. E. Melvey of Moorhead, Minn., has arrived at the state penitentiary here with John Stanford, a "trusty" who made his getaway Aug. 30, while employed on road work. Stanford was captured in Moorhead on a description sent broadcast throughout the country by Warden Conley. The Moorhead officer will receive a reward of $100 for capturing Stanford.

INSPECTING SITES

In Five North Dakota Cities for Proposed Federal Buildings.

Mandan, N. D., Oct. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sites offered in Jamestown, Mandan, Dickinson, Williston and Wahpeton for federal buildings are being inspected by Col. Fred Brackett, a representative of the treasury department. Col. Brackett has something over 100 cities on his schedule, and it will be some time before a final decision is made in the case of any of the North Dakota cities.

FUND PASSES $20,000 MARK

More Than the Sum Asked for Has Now Been Raised.

Jobbers' Fund Is Closed With Close to $5,000 in It.

The Duluth fund for the relief of the border fire sufferers has passed the $20,000 mark, cash contributions and pledges taken together, and is well on its way toward $25,000. A number of the contributions came from Virginia, Buhl, Gilbert, Tower and Ely, and perhaps should not be counted in the Duluth total, which is still slightly below the $20,000 mark.

With four contributors not yet reporting, the jobbers' relief fund has been practically closed, the total in hand being $4,642. When the remaining four have turned in their checks, the amount will be within a few dollars, one way or the other, of $5,000.

The committee is composed of Bentley D. Neff, chairman; W. R. Peyton and J. O. Lenning. Immediately after the adjournment of the meeting of the public affairs committee at the Commercial club, on the day Chairman Mcgonagle returned from the scene of the great fires, the jobbers' committee took up its work, and the success of its efforts is shown by the sum raised.

Refined Millinery Elegance!

REFINED elegance was never more forcibly expressed than in the artistic headwear evolved by our corps of designers. For tomorrow's initial showing, a number of master creations, voicing accurately the latest style whispers from Paris, will make their bid for recognition.

The resourcefulness of our designers in imbuing such charming individuality to our hats is nothing short of marvelous. Though we have made hundreds of them, there is not the slightest semblance expressed. There seems no end to the variations of tilt, droop, poise or embellishment of "P. & W." millinery.

Of secondary consideration to style is price. Our milliners have mastered the secret of creating the richest effects at the slightest cost. We are showing hats of rare beauty and strong personality at even $10 and $12, and most exquisite models for $15.

Whatever may have been the standing of "P. & W." millinery in past seasons, it certainly is "right" now. We invite examination and consideration of many new models.

WEST END

THURSDAY TO BE FESTIVAL NIGHT

Novel Affairs Are Planned for Two West End Swedish Churches.

Thursday evening will be "festival" night in two of the West end churches.

At the Swedish M. E. church, Twentieth avenue west, Rev. C. P. Carlson of Stockholm, Sweden, a noted preacher among the Swedish Methodists, and who has for the past six years acted as superintendent of the Eastern district of Sweden, will lecture on his native land.

Rev. Mr. Carlson, who is touring this country on his own expense, has been visiting several of the principal cities where there are large Swedish churches. Besides the lecture by Rev. Mr. Carlson, there will be a talk by Rev. G. Tapper, range missionary and a resident of West Duluth. Rev. Mr. Tapper will be the editor of the Swedish Methodist church paper which will soon be published in Duluth. There will also be musical numbers.

A two nights' festival, beginning Thursday evening, is planned by the Ladies' Aid Society of Bethany Swedish Lutheran church, Twenty-third avenue west and Third street. Rev. Theodore Ekblad of Superior will be the speaker Thursday evening. He recently came from Rock Island, Ill., where, for a number of years, he was president of Augustana college. He is a brother to Dr. J. W. Ekblad of 2301 West Third street.

On Friday evening the festival will be continued at Bethany church. G. W. Olson, a Minneapolis man, will be the speaker and there will be a suitable musical program.

MAYOR CULLUM WILL OPEN CHURCH BAZAR.

The silver jubilee "tomolla" or bazar, which will be given this year by the congregation of the St. Jean Baptiste church, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street, opens tonight at the school hall adjoining the church. Mayor Cullum will make the opening address.

Preparations for the affair have been under way for the past three months and both the ladies and the men of the parish have been working hard to make it a success. The church is heavily in debt and expects to realize a good sum as a result of the bazar.

A good program has been arranged for this evening, including musical numbers, both vocal and instrumental. The bazar will continue every evening this week with a varying program every day.

Plan House Social.

The Ladies' Guild of St. Luke's Episcopal church will entertain at a "house social" Thursday evening. The affair, which will be an innovation for the guild, will be held at the home of Mrs. Thomas Barks of 2120 West Third street.

NEW CHURCH IS NAMED.

Official Title of Consolidated Episcopal Congregations Is St. Peters.

St. Peter's Swedish Episcopal church will be the official title of the new congregation, which will be formed within the next few weeks by the consolidation of the two Episcopal churches of the West end.

A short time ago steps were taken in this direction, and the edifice which has housed the congregation of the St. Peter's Swedish Episcopal church is now being remodeled to also accommodate the needs of St. Luke's congregation, which will unite with the former.

Rev. W. E. Harmann, who will be the pastor of St. Peter's Episcopal church, has acted as rector of both churches for the past year. St. Luke's church property has been sold and the church will be vacated to the new owners when the congregation moves into the remodeled St. Peter's church at Twenty-eighth avenue west and First street.

St. Luke's church will probably continue as a mission at New Duluth, according to Mr. Harmann.

West End Shortrails.

Oscar Moe, junior member of the John J. Moe & Sons company, proprietors of the large dry good store at the West end, returned this morning from a vacation trip in the West. He spent most of the time on a sheep ranch in Montana.

Mr. and Mrs. Hans P. Jorgenson of Little Falls, Minn., are the guests of relatives and friends in the West end for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Bartels of Bismarck, N. D., are guests at the home of the former's brother, C. D. Bartels of Twenty-seventh avenue west.

Miss Esther Anderson of West Fourth street left yesterday for a month's visit with friends and relatives at Terre Haute, Ind.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the First Swedish M. E. church will be entertained Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Wreppman of 619 North Twenty-third avenue west.

A program and sale will be held Thursday evening at the branch of the Swedish Mission church, Seventeenth avenue east and London road. Mrs. J. J. Daniels, wife of the pastor, will sing and there will be several other musical numbers.

Miss Hedwig Nelson, who has been a guest at the home of Rev. and Mrs. W. E. Harman of 113 North Twenty-eighth avenue west for the past few days, has left for her home in Aitkin, Minn.

The Ladies' Guild of St. Peter's Swedish Espicopal church will be entertained tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. Albert Swenson of 316½ Third avenue west.

Terrible Suffering

Eczema All Over Baby's Body.

"When my baby was four months old his face broke out with eczema, and at sixteen months of age, his face, hands and arms were in a dreadful state. The eczema spread all over his body. We had to put a mask or cloth over his face and tie up his hands. Finally we gave him Hood's Sarsaparilla and in a few months he was entirely cured. Today he is a healthy boy." Mrs. Inez Lewis, Baring, Maine.

ALLEGED TRAIN ROBBER CAUGHT

Man Who Broke Montana Jail Is Arrested in New Mexico.

Denver, Colo., Oct. 18.—Believed to be one of the two bandits who robbed the Great Northern express at Rondo, Mont., Sept. 12, 1907, Charles McDonald was arrested at Baugh, N. M., yesterday by Postoffice Inspector Earl Smith of the Denver office.

Shortly after the robbery, in which $40,000 was secured, mostly in registered mail, McDonald and Ed. Smith, alias Frankhauser, were arrested, and $1,200 of the booty recovered. The pair escaped from jail at Helena. Smith was caught at Barnesville, Minn., convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment at Fort Leavenworth. McDonald has eluded federal officers for more than two years.

HUNTS HIS WIFE DOWN AND THEN SHOOTS HER.

Joliet, Ill., Oct. 18.—After she had been pursued through half a dozen states, Mrs. J. J. Payne was probably fatally shot last night by her jealous husband, who shot himself dead directly afterwards in the courthouse square.

Payne was a railroad man. He had lived in El Paso, Memphis, Los Angeles and other places. He was yard master for the Southern Pacific at Los Angeles at one time. His wife left him in the West and finally went to the home of a sister, Mrs. Christ Brugeman at Manhattan, a suburb of Joliet. Payne traced her through several cities and at last met her on the street last night. Few people saw the shooting.

BIG PRIVATE BANK IN ENGLAND IS CLOSED.

London, Oct. 18.—The Charing Cross bank, with headquarters in London and forty country branches, closed its doors yesterday. An official receiver has been appointed. The deposits amount to $5,000,000. The bank is of no importance in the financial world, as it is a private concern doing an extensive loan business.

BOY CRAZED AT FATAL HUNTING ACCIDENT.

Springfield, Ohio, Oct. 18.—After dragging the body of the comrade whom he had accidentally killed, across a stretch of country, George Freshour, 14 years old, collapsed from grief yesterday and physicians now fear for his reason. Young Freshour was hunting with William Fulton, a lad of his own age, and an accidental discharge of his shotgun almost decapitated the Fulton boy.

KETCHEL'S SLAYER TO BE ARRAIGNED FRIDAY.

Springfield, Mo., Oct. 18.—The preliminary hearing of Walter Dipley, alias Walter Hurtz, who shot and killed Stanley Ketchel, middleweight champion, on the Dickerson ranch Saturday, will take place at Marshfield Friday morning. At the same time Mrs. Goldie Smith will be arraigned.

Dipley, or Hurtz, will be charged with murder in the first degree, while the woman will be charged with being an accessory.

REV. NORMAN PLASS IN BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Victoria, B. C., Oct. 18.—Rev. Norman Plass, former president of the Redeemable Investment Company of Boston, for whom the United States authorities are said to be searching, has arrived here to close a deal in connection with the purchase of twenty-three British Columbia timber claims.

Mr. Plass denied that there was anything fraudulent in the business methods of his company and said its books would show everything to be in proper order.

"It Beats All."

This is the quoted from a letter of M. Stockwell, Hannibal, Mo. "I recently used Foley's Honey and Tar for the first time. To say I am pleased does not half express my feelings. It beats all the remedies I ever used. I contracted a bad cold and was threatened with pneumonia. The first doses gave great relief and one bottle completely cured me." Contains no opiates. WILL ENCOURAGE ALL HOMESTEADERS

Congressman Steenerson to Introduce Bill to Help Them Out.

Crookston, Minn., Oct. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Following the precedent established by the government at the time of the great Hinckley, Minn., fire disaster, when legislation was enacted in the interest of homesteaders who had not proved up on their claims and for the relief of all homesteaders' heirs who lost their lives by the recent Northern Minnesota fires, Representative Halvor Steenerson of this city will introduce the necessary bill in congress.

The congressman outlined his intentions to take this action to encourage settlers to return to their homesteads in the following letter he has just written G. H. Mattson of Roseau in response to an inquiry:

"Dear Sir: Replying to your favor I have the honor to advise you that I intend to apply to congress at the opening of the nextff session for relief of all homesteaders who were in actual occupancy of their claims, and whose property was destroyed in the late forest fires, and for the relief of the heirs of all such homesteaders who lost their lives in the disaster.

"Following the precedent established by congress for the relief of the forest fire sufferers of 1894, (Hinckley fire) such relief would be in these terms:

The Prosposed Relief.

"1st. Two years' extension to make final proof and payment, and leave of absence during that time, but without credit for such absence.

"2nd. Proof of occupancy and compliance with the homestead law up to time of fire, and loss of buildings and property in the fire shall be sufficient to entitle entryman to make payment and secure patent, or such proof in case of death in the fire shall entitle the heirs to make payment and secure patent.

3rd. Other homesteaders who may not be entitled to commute under above provision, whose claims have been burned over, to be permitted to cut part of the timber upon payment of the price of the land.

"I should be glad to hear from you and all interested in the subject as to the proper form and scope of the proposed relief measure, in order that it may be perfected and be in shape for introduction on the first day of the session."

ENDS DYSPEPSIA IN FEW MINUTES

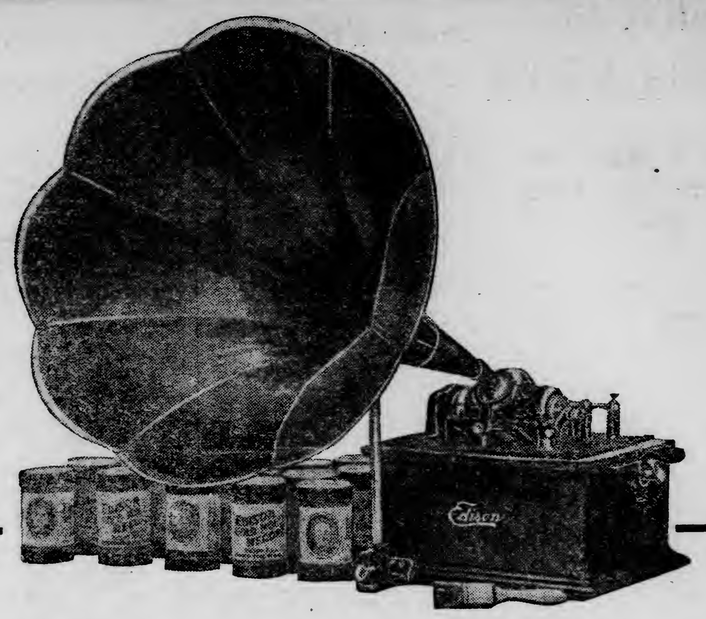

Heartburn, Gas, Indigestion and All Stomach Misery Vanishes.

There would not be a case of indigestion here if readers who are subject to Stomach trouble knew the tremendous anti-ferment and digestive virtue contained in Diapepsin. This harmless preparation will digest a heavy meal without the slightest fuss or discomfort, and relieve the sourest, acid stomach in five minutes, besides overcoming all foul, Nauseous odors from the breath.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula plainly printed on each 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will readily understand why this promptly cures Indigestion and removes such symptoms as Heartburn, a feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach, Belching of Gas and Eructations of undigested food, water brash, Nausea, Headache, Biliousness and many other bad symptoms; and, besides, you will not need laxatives to keep your stomach, liver and intestines clean and fresh.

If your Stomach is sour and full of gas or your food doesn't digest and your meals don't seem to fit, why not get a 50-cent case from your druggist and make life worth living? Absolute relief from Stomach misery and perfect digestion of anything you eat is sure to follow five minutes after, and, besides, one case is sufficient to cure a whole family of such trouble.

Surely, a harmless, inexpensive preparation like Diapepsin, which will always, either at any time or during night, relieve your stomach misery and digest your meals, is about as handy and valuable a thing as you could have in the house.

COURSE IN AGRICULTURE

Hoped to Make Study a Feature at Industrial High School.

Plot of Ground May Be Secured for Practical Work.

In line with Supt. Denfeld's innovation in the introduction of a course in agriculture in the Industrial high school in West Duluth is a bulletin issued by C. G. Schulz, superintendent of the department of public instruction of the state of Minnesota on industrial and agricultural training.

The suggestions on the introduction of industrial training in the schools of the state do not apply to Duluth as the industrial training in the Duluth schools is highly developed and is being extended every year. The recommendations on agricultural education are interesting, however, for in introducing a course in agriculture in the industrial high school, the superintendent is making a start in the direction of an agricultural high school which he hopes will be a feature of the Duluth school system when the city attains a greater growth and the need for such a school develops.

In regard to agricultural education in the high schools of the state, Mr. Schulz says in his bulletin:

"This subject is studied not from a standpoint of theory, or for the purpose of gaining only book knowledge. The young people plant gardens, care for them, market the product, are trained in the selection and testing of seed corn and seed grains, and in all respects the study of agriculture is pursued with a view of making it fully practical and in harmony with actual farming operations."

The course in agriculture in the Industrial high school was introduced this year and is elementary in its nature. It is the plan of Supt. Denfeld and Principal Fester to secure the use of a tract of land near West Duluth in which the text-book instruction may be supplemented and amplified by practical work.

Agriculture is becoming recognized all over the country as a science, knowledge of which is more remunerative than many of the other sciences. There are now eight agricultural high schools in the state and it is the hope of those interested in Duluth's school system to see Duluth also in line for the instruction of young people who will thus be better fitted to join the "back to the land" movement and develop the agricultural resources of Northern Minnesota.

WANT RELIGION IN THE SCHOOLS

Episcopalians Discuss Education and Work Among Foreign Born.

Cincinnati, Oct. 18.—Discussions teeming with inferences that the general educational plans in the schools of the country do not contain enough religious training, occupied almost the entire time of the fourth joint session of the house of bishops and the house of deputies of the Protestant Episcopal church convention. Several were outspoken in their belief that the schools controlled by the church should improve their pupils by giving them a complete religious training in conjunction with the regular school work, and inferred strongly that all of the schools of the country should take up the plan.

Thank Sunday School.

With the exception of a vote of thanks to the Sunday school children for their contribution of $125,000 to the missionary fund during the last three years, the discussion of the schools of the country and the church occupied the entire session.

The proposal that a bishop coadjutor of a diocese may be transferred from one diocese to another, with the consent of a two-thirds vote of the house of bishops, was voted down.

Bishop of Duluth on Board.

The bishops of Duluth, New York, Bethlehem and the bishop coadjutor of New Hampshire were named a committee to study what the church can do with the foreign born population of the United States.

A committee on social service was also appointed, consisting of the bishops of Massachusetts, Chicago, East Carolina, Utah and Michigan, to study the social and labor problems and endeavor to promote sympathetic relations between capital and labor.

FREE RHEUMATISM CURE

A Home Cure Will Be Given FREE By One Who Had It.

In the spring of 1893 I was attacked by Muscular and Inflammatory Rheumatism. I suffered as only those who have it know, for over three years. I tried remedy after remedy, and doctor after doctor, but such relief as I received was only temporary. Finally, I found a remedy that cured me completely, and it has never returned. I have given it to a number who were terribly afflicted and even bed ridden with Rheumatism, and it effected a cure in every case.

I will send a free trial of this precious remedy by mail, postpaid to any sufferer who writes for it. Just fill out the coupon below and mail it to me today.

ESCAPED CONVICT STABS HIS WIFE

Plunges Knife Repeatedly Into Her When Officers Go After Him.

Elizabeth, N. J., Oct. 18.—Jack Aitken, an escaped convict, repeatedly drove a knife into the body of his wife last night as she interposed herself between his fury and the officers who were attempting to arrest him.

A year ago Aitkin killed James Carey of this city and was sentenced to twenty years. Two months later he escaped, and the police have been hunting him since. Last night they found him with his wife, but when they broke into the room, he whipped out a knife and started to cut his way past the two officers who blocked the door. The wife, knowing that her husband would kill some of them before he would permit himself to be taken, threw herself in front of him.

Blinded and partly stunned, but still furious, the man kept plunging the knife into the body nearest him. It was his wife's, but he never stopped until he had been floored and bound. Physicians say the woman will die.

ROOSEVELT ON THE WAR PATH

Roasts Dix, Lauds Stimson and Defends Attack on Court.

Troy, N. Y., Oct. 18.—Theodore Roosevelt journeyed up the Hudson yesterday, speaking in behalf of Henry L. Stimson, Republican nominee for governor, and belaboring John A. Dix, the Democratic nominee, Tammany hall and Wall street as he went. After a rest over Sunday at Oyster Bay, Col. Roosevelt's throat was in much better condition than it was on his return from the Southern trip.

Col. Roosevelt stopped at Yonkers long enough to say that Tammany hall exercised an improper supervision over the nomination and election of judges. At Hudson he made a little speech, replying to what Job Hedges of New York, who was with him, called "this king business." The colonel told the crowd that the only power he has is that which came to him because the people thought he stoor for their rights.

From Albany the colonel went to Schenectady, where he made two speeches, and then came to Troy to wind up the day with a big meeting, at which he attacked Mr. Dix again, and recited the career of "Harry" Stimson, as he called him. Throughout the day good-sized crowds turned out to hear the colonel. In no case was the crowd of exceptional size. He was received with moderate enthusiasm whenever he appeared.

Col. Roosevelt in Schenectady stood squarely by his criticisms of the supreme court. He defended the right of any man to criticise any public servant.

mitting a candidate for the United States senatorship to go into the primaries and make a fight for his nomination was practically ignored until the last election. Nobody thought it was going to be taken advantage of. Senator Dick, recognizing the possibilities of the situation, set his machinery to work in a sort of silent and secretive way, and in the primaries polled something over 300,000 votes as the Republican candidate for United States senator. Nobody attaches very great importance to the result of the primaries, because nobody here feels that it was an absolutely fair primary election."

"But," I asked, "if Senator Dick had the knowledge of the situation and of the law which enabled him to make that fight in the primaries, and to win it, does he not deserve the support of his party in the legislature?"

Dick To Be Cast Aside.

"He may deserve it, but he won't get it. There will be three strong candidates on the Republican side, and of the three Myron T. Herrick of Cleveland will probably be the strongest. The so-called indorsement of Dick will amount to little or nothing when the determination of the issue comes; that is if we have a Republican legislature, of which there is a good deal of doubt."

My own judgment is that if the Republicans carry the state Senator Dick will not be re-elected. He has been in office some time, has made enemies, and it is fair to say of him that he has not made money. Senator Dick plays the game of politics because he enjoys it. Of course he has been a "stand-patter," but his closest friends in Ohio and his bitterest enemies agree that he is today as poor a man as he was when he went into the senate. Poverty is not always to be regarded as an evidence of honesty, but when one thinks of the opportunities which Dick has had and of his present financial condition one must admit that this man, however, narrow and partisan, must certainly have conducted his affairs at Washington with an eye to the public good as he understood it rather than to his own personal and private profit.

Myron T. Herrick's Candidacy.

The other two possible candidates to whom I have referred in the preceding paragraph are, first, Myron T. Herrick of Cleveland; second, — now don't laugh at this—George B. Cox of Cincinnati. Mr. Herrick has a national reputation. I wouldn't say, as Macaulay said of a certain chief justice, that he was "rich, respectable and infamous." He is rich, he is respectable. He has been a persistent claimant for public office in the state of Ohio during all the years that the present political generation can recall. He represents in his own person the "interests" as no other man could. If elected he would be in Washington society an interesting and attractive figure, but in the senate he would stand for all that Aldrich has stood for. Moreover, if elected, it would be in entire disregard of the primary vote in favor of Dick. The suspicon would be immediately aroused that the legislature had been "Lorimerized." That would destroy his influence and make him of little value to his state.

Boss Cox May Be Candidate.

In the undercurrents of Republican politics I find a curious but constant reiteration of the belief that if this state legislature should go Republican George B. Cox, the notorious boss of Cincinnati, might be elected senator. It seems almost incredible, yet in Cleveland, Columbus and Dayton I have heard this story. The dominance of Cox is a matter which no one questions. He controlled the Ohio Republican convention precisely as Murphy controlled the New York Democratic convention and as Roosevelt controlled the New York Republican convention.

Foraker Wants to Come Back.

There is apprehension in this state that if the legislature is closely divided there will be political and even financial trafficking in the senatorial election. Into the fight may yet come Foraker. A close friend of his told me that the former senator had said that the only ambition he had in his life was to go back to the senate. That means he would like to go back this year. His advanced age makes it impossible for him to wait until the expiration of the term of Senator Burton, so that if he desires to fulfill this ambition he will have to get into the fight immediately. Given Cox, with his prodigious power in Cincinnati, his almost complete domination of the state organization, and his control of unlimited funds; Dick, with the advantage which comes from an indorsement in the primaries, but without money; Foraker, who, notwithstanding political disaster and the bitter hatred of the Taft administration, is today the most popular Republican in Ohio; and Herrick, who has never had great popularity, but who is happily provided with the money necessary to push the senatorial campaign, you can readily see that the fight within the Republican party for this particular plum is going to be a bitter one if they have any opportunity to shake the plum tree.

The Money Menace.

It will not be surprising if the legislature, in the event of its being closely divided, should be very much like the Illinois auction mart—with lavish spending of money. To the outsider it seems almost incredible that the name of Cox should be seriously considered, but I find among public men a certain feeling that the money of Cox may be. And the worst of it is that the more respectable money of Herrick is likely to play just as much a part in the senatorial contest.

The Democratic Candidate.

On the Democratic side there are so many candidates and the considerations of acceptability for the place are so entirely different that I shall withhold discussion of the Democratic situation until a succeeding letter. The candidates being discussed are:

John Lentz of Columbus, former member of congress and the only avowed candidate at present; Atlee Pomerene, present nominee for lieutenant governor; Brand Whitlock, mayor of Toledo, and the well-known inheritor of the principles of "Golden Rule" Jones; Col. James Kilbourne of Columbus, an old-time friend of William J. Bryan, and a lifelong Democrat, and E. W. Hawley of Dayton, a new man, young, active and said to be a marvel as an organizer. But of these Democratic possibilities more will be said in my next letter.

This Will Stop Your Cough in a Hurry

Save $2 By Making This Cough Syrup at Home.

This recipe makes a pint of better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for $2.50. A few doses usually conquer the most obstinate cough—stops even whooping cough quickly. Simple as it is, no better remedy can be had at any price.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with ½ pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle; then add the Sugar Syrup. It has a pleasant taste and lasts a family a long time. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

You can feel this take hold of a cough in a way that means business. Has a good tonic effect, braces up the appetite and is slightly laxative, too, which is helpful. A handy remedy for hoarseness, bronchitis, asthma and all throat and lung troubles.

The effect of pine on the membranes is well known. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norwegian white pine extract, and is rich in guaiacol and all the natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

This Pinex and Sugar Syrup recipe has attained great popularity throughout the United States and Canada. It has often been imitated, though never successfully.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Fort Wayne, Ind.

Victim of Drink Needs Orrine

Drink cunningly destroys the will power, and while the drunkard wants to do what you tell him, he wants a thousand times more the drink that he craves. Medical treatment is necessary. PARKER ATTACKS ROOSEVELT SPEECH

Says It Implies Alliance Between Republicans and Wall Street.

Olean, N. Y., Oct. 18.—Judge Alton B. Parker last night began the Democratic state campaign here with a speech in which he strenuously denied Col. Rosevelt's charge of an alliance between Tammany hall and Wall street. On the contrary, he said, the colonel's charge raised a strong presumption that the Republican political organization has established relations with Wall street or some part of it.

He urged enactment of a law providing for imprisonment instead of mere fine in cases of corporate contributions to the campaign funds. Judge Parker quoted extensively from letters of Mr. Roosevelt, William J. Bryan and Edward H. Harriman, to fortify assertions that Mr. Roosevelt in the campaign of 1904 solicited campaign funds; that Roosevelt knew "the great financial interests, protected interests and others having favors to seek, contributed largely" and that Mr. Roosevelt's urgent request, Mr. Harriman very shortly before election day interested himself in securing $260,000, which was turned over by the Republican national committee to the Republican state committee.

Mr. Parker then said that the political contributions bill passed by congress did not provide imprisonment as a penalty, and that imprisonment alone would suffice to check contributions out of corporate treasuries, expecting to gain by the investment.

The glory of life is to love, not to be loved; to give, not to get; to serve, not to be served. To be a strong hand in the dark to another in time of need; to be a cup of strength to a human soul in a crisis of weakness is to know the glory of life.

IS THIS A "STRADDLE" DISTRICT?

The issue in the Eighth congressional district is not quite so clear as it is in the state campaign, but it is clear enough.

In the state the issue is openly between reaction and progress—between standpatism and the forward movement for the common good.

In the Eighth district the issue is between progress and a straddle—between Alfred Jaques, who is boldly, consistently and aggressively progressive, and Clarence B. Miller, who is playing both ends against the middle and asking for re-election without committing himself to either side.

There isn't any doubt about where Jaques stands, or about what he believes, or about what he will do if he is elected. What he says, he means. What he declares, he will do. When he demands that the "voice of the people be OBEYED," he means that the people's demands shall guide their congressmen when he gets to Washington; not that the "voice of the people be heard" at election time, and then forgotten when the congressman gets to Washington.

Two years ago this district seethed with opposition to Cannon and Cannonism. It was chiefly "Cannon," because Cannon was then in power and the end of his power was not in sight. Hearing the tumult of indignation against methods which had prostituted the people's congress, Mr. Miller became a candidate against Bede, an acknowledged Cannon supporter, and with the war cry "Let the voice of the people be heard," was nominated for congress over Bede by an overwhelming majority, and elected without Democratic opposition.

The voice of the people had been heard—and that ended it. After that voice had served its purpose of providing an election, it was no longer audible to the congressman. Fresh from his election, with that voice still ringing, Mr. Miller went to congress and voted for Cannon for speaker. The voice of the people had been heard—and flatly disobeyed. Murmurs arose. The "voice of the people" again made itself manifest. Panic-stricken, Mr. Miller voted a few times with the insurgents, though he never was classed with them by any recognized authority.

Now he is a candidate for re-election. There is nothing, now, about "the voice of the people." There is nothing, apparently, about much of anything. If he talks insurgency, he will affront his standpat supporters in the Eighth district, and his standpat associates in congress. If he talks standpatism, he will fly in the face of the public opinion of a district that has gone emphatically on record. With one heel planted safely on the standpat stool, he straddles across the chasm and puts a toe delicately on the insurgent stool. In that attitude, perilous and difficult as it is, he asks a re-election.

Now Cannon is dead as an issue. Whatever happens, Cannon will never again be speaker. Mr. Miller knows that, and everybody else knows it.

But Cannonism as an issue is not dead. The standpatters in congress, if by any chance the Republicans get control of the next house, are planning to put in Cannon's place Olmsted of Pennsylvania, Smith of Iowa, or some other man as obedient to the system that has controlled congress as Cannon ever was.

What candidates for congress in this campaign should tell the voters is whether, if elected, they will be for or against such a man.

Jaques will be against him, and for an out-and-out progressive. Mr. Miller hasn't intimated what he would do. To speak would disturb his straddle.

The question is whether this district, which has declared itself emphatically as to Cannon, is willing to accept a straddle as to Cannonism.

AFTER BIGGER GAME, NOW.

The railroads were the first to feel the force of public sentiment when it was aroused to action after the people had suffered persecution and oppression in silence for years.

Possibly some of the laws that grew out of public resentment of railroad control of politics and legislation were unjust. They couldn't have been as unjust as rail road usurpation of the power of government, and if they were unfair the courts have long since declared them invalid.

That tangible good came out of the revolt is evident from the fact that today the railroads are imploring a branch of the government to let them raise freight rates—a thing they used to do whenever they wished without consulting anybody. But the railroads have been placed under public regulation in the interests of the public, though control is not yet perfect and there is much to do yet before the railroads are put in the place of servitude to the people in which they belong.

Just now, however, the American people are after bigger game. They are not going to lose track of the railroads or let them climb back into their old place of control; but just at present there are other fish to fry, and the smell of their frying creeps temptingly into the nostrils.

These other fish to be fried are associated with that benevolent institution for the relief of needy billionaires—the tariff.

How much greater is the tariff wrong than the railroad wrong is made clear in this, from the Kansas City Star:

> The freight rate on a suit of clothes between New England and Chicago, according to the Wall Street Journal, is three and three-quarters cents. The railroads propose to advance that rate three-quarters of a cent on each suit of clothes, making it four and a half cents. The proposed advance has caused great indignation throughout the country. But people are only slightly distributed over the tariff on wool, which, as the Wall Street Journal points out, enables the woolen trust "to make three hundred times that amount out of the consumer's pocket by selling him something which he would not dream of accepting in that state of free competition which he demands of the railroads."

If the railroads have their will, the cost of a suit of clothes brought from New England to the West will be increased less than a cent.

The woolen trust has had its will of congress, and so it is enabled to tax the consumer with an additional charge of $2.75 on a cheap, shoddy suit of clothes, running from that up to $10, $12 and $15 on better grades of suits, as shown by Ida M. Tarbell in her recent article in the American Magazine.

While the railroads would take a fraction of a cent more on each suit of clothes, regardless of value, if they are allowed to raise freight rates, the woolen trust has been enabled by the kindness of a trust-ridden congress to add several dollars to the price of the cheapest kind of a suit.

The railroads can be left to the interstate commerce commission, the right and duty of which is to refuse to permit freight rate increases if they are unjust.

The tariff, which is a far bigger fish to fry, is yet to be placed under control of the people to be administered in the people's interests instead of in the interest of trusts which squeeze the last nickel out of the consumer, while sweatshopping their employes on nine-dollar-a-week wages.

A GRAND OLD WOMAN DEAD.

Mine eyes have seen the glory of the coming of the Lord:
He is trampling out the vintage where the grapes of wrath are stored;
He hath loosed the fateful lightning of his terrible sword:
His truth is marching on.

I have seen Him in the watch-fires of a hundred circling camps;
They have builded Him an altar in the evening dews and damps;
I can read His righteous sentence by the dim and flaring lamps.
His day is marching on.

I have read a fiery gospel, writ in burnished rows of steel:
"As ye deal with my contemners, so with you my grace shall deal;
Let the Hero, born of woman, crush the serpent with his heel,
Since God is marching on."

He has sounded forth the trumpet that shall never call retreat;
He is sifting out the hearts of men before His judgment seat:
O! be swift, my soul, to answer Him! be jubilant, my feet!
Our God is marching on.

In the beauty of the lilies Christ was born across the sea,
With a glory in His bosom that transfigures you and me;
As he died to make men holy, let us die to make men free,
While God is marching on.

The forging of such a hymn to the God of battles, a hymn that was written in the camp of an embattled citizenship ready to lay down life itself for liberty and the Union, was enough to make one life worth while; and Julia Ward Howe's life was made worth while by a long career of activity for the right in which the writing of this splendid call to arms was but an incident. The faith that gives it fire and life inspired the hearts of thousands of blue-clad men, as they sang it in thundering choruses on the way to victory. Its appeal to patriotism and religious faith is as powerful today as it was when it was written in the heat of the battle spirit, nearly fifty years ago.

THE SWEEPING TIDE OF REVOLT.

The New York Herald's second weekly survey of the congressional campaign shows strong Democratic gains and correspondingly strong Republican losses.

"Still the Democratic flood rises," says the Herald. "The fighting all along the line from the Atlantic to the Pacific is very hard and incessant, but with each survey of the field the Democrats seem to have a little the best of it. It is still in the air that this is a Democratic year."

The New York Herald now figures 161 districts reasonably sure for the Democrats against 141 a week ago, and 140 districts reasonably sure for the Democrats against 132 last week; a gain of twenty for the Democrats and eight for the Republicans. The number of doubtful districts has been reduced from 118 to 90. Of the doubtful districts 64 are now Republican and 26 Democratic.

To win control the Republicans must gain fifty-six of the doubtful districts, while the Democrats need gain but thirty-five, or nine more than they have already in the doubtful list.

It had been thought by some that insurgent victories over standpatters would lessen the chances of Democratic victory. The New York Herald, however, says that the returns do not indicate any very complete overturn for the insurgents, and that they control in but few districts, relatively.

In all the rest the only hope of progress is through Democratic candidates. Included in the doubtful list compiled by the New York newspaper is the Eighth district of Minnesota, where Clarence B. Miller, professing to be neither insurgent nor standpatter, is opposed by Alfred Jaques, progressive Democrat.

A PERMANENT RELIEF ORGANIZATION.

With the temporary fire relief work thoroughly organized, W. A. McGonagle of Duluth and others who have had charge of it returned to Duluth yesterday with the proposal that permanent relief shall be placed under a single director who is to be supplied with the assistants he needs. The plan is sound, and the suggestion that accompanies it, that Col. F. E. Resche be made the director in charge of the work, is fully as good. Col. Resche is abundantly equipped for such a task, as he has shown already in his organization of the temporary relief, and he is thoroughly trustworthy.

Incidentally, if the state is going to let its forests remain subject to peril from every camper who is careless with campfire and every railroad engine that emits sparks, it must be expected that forest fires will be regular institutions in this state; and in that event it will be well for the legislature to make formal provisions for state relief, accompanied by an appropriation. This will do away with the necessity for a new organization, in the making of which delay is inevitably, every time calamity befalls the state

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

RETAILER NOT THE MAN WHO DOES THE "SOAKING."

To the Editor of The Herald:

Kindly allow me to reply to the article published in your paper Saturday evening regarding present prices on auto tires, as it conveys an impression to the tire user that is entirely erroneous.

In order to understand the situation, one must know something about the way tires are made. In the first place, after the crude rubber has been washed and otherwise prepared, it must be hung up in the curing room for a year, so that tires made today are made from rubber bought a year or more ago. This ties up large sums of money for material, and is one of the big expenses of the tire maker.

Some time over a year ago, when rubber was worth $1.40 per pound, the Rothschilds cornered the then visible supply of crude rubber, some 20,000 tons. Tire makers were then working on rubber which cost then $1.10; at this time they began working on $1.40 rubber and advanced their price accordingly. This price is the one now in effect, and the one your reporter claims as being based on the $2.90 price. As he says rubber is now worth $1.75 on the basis of his contention, there should be a further advance.

Now as to the retailer, whom he says advances his selling price on the first intimation of advance in cost of rubber, but does not seem to know when it declines. Of all the lines carried in the city, the writer knows of none that causes him more trouble and pays less profit. This $4 by 4 tire which he mentioned as selling for $48.30 costs the dealer $45.45, leaving so small a margin of profit for which the user is "soaked" that no retailer could exist on it, and is the reason why the other dealers have gladly turned this line over to us.

If space permitted we could give other reasons, among them the protest that would come from the automobile maker at an excessive price for tires, as injuring their business. Yours truly,

W. N. HART,
Manager, Kelley Hardware Company.

Duluth, Oct. 17.

The Reason.

Do you ever feel down in the dumps
As cranky and cross as two sticks,
When life seems a load full of bumps,
And your spirits are all in a mix?
Would you know why you're in such a fix?
Why inward forebodings you're gnawed?
The reason, five times out of six,
Is called Gladys, or Phoebe, or Maude.

Did you ever feel light as an elf?
As free and as blithe as the air?
As pleased as old Punch with yourself,
Without e'er a trouble or care?
Would you know why the world seems so fair,
And life's way so smooth and so broad?
The reason (exceptions are rare)
Is called Gladys, or Phoebe, or Maude.

In short, if you feel sad or blue,
Or your spirits with joy overrun;
When you feel that with life you'd be through,
And with the gray world you'd be done;
When you're bubbling all over with fun—
When from coldness your attitude's thawed,
The reason, ten chances to one,
Is called Gladys, or Phoebe, or Maude.

The Nelson Report.

Collier's: The standpat members of the Ballinger committee would undoubtedly rather have most of their teeth pulled, or at least filled, than to make the exonerating report which is expected of them. We are rather expecting to pass out a little news from time to time, in the form of driblets, and here is a trifle which is strictly confidential: The first plan of the administration, as is well known, when our publication of inside documents convinced them that something must be done, was to have Sherman and Cannon appoint a docile committee which would sit for a few days, say there was nothing in the case against Ballinger, and clear the way for the secretary to bring a lawsuit against us for enormous damages. The revolt of the insurgents and the ability of Glavis and Brandeis frustrated this plan. Now comes the news part of this editorial. Nelson, panic-stricken at the rapid development of the evidence against the secretary, for whom he was supposed to act as attorney, went to see Ballinger, and procured from him a typewritten list of questions to ask Glavis. Later on the decision was reached to procure a lawyer for Ballinger other than the group of lawyers on the committee who were acting for him. Nelson thereupon wrote a letter to Ballinger, enclosing the list of questions which he had received. This letter of Nelson's and the list of questions, were stored away in Mr. Ballinger's confidential file, where, for all we know, they may be reposing peacefully. Observers of the case realize that Nelson was acting in thorough accord with Ballinger, but this is the first time we have made public the fact that he was being coached in writing by the secretary. The reason we make it public at present is that it will throw some light on the value of the Nelson whitewashing report, when that document is finally forced out of the reluctant majority.

The New Country School.

The walls and the ceiling they're spraying,
They're scrubbing the woodwork and floors;
A stream on the blackboard is playing,
They're boiling the desks and the doors;
The old water pail has been scalded,
A cup for each lassie and lad,
And no one may drink, as we all did,
From that old tin dipper we had.

They've cleansed every pointer and ferrue,
The ink wells are scrubbed out with lye,
The books and the slates are made sterile,
The old well is filled up and dry;
The girls have to wear, willy-nilly,
A button which bears this bold sign:
"The lips that touch germs or bacilli
Are lips that will never touch mine."

The dunce cap is boiled every morning,
(They're the individual kind!)
The front door is set with this warning:
"Who enters here leaves germs behind."
No apple is smuggled for sharing
As was on the schooldays of yore,
Until they've made sterile the paring
And quite disinfected the core.

Alas! The old pump is discarded,
And gone in the flight of the years;
The new drinking fountain is guarded
By the Anti-germ Grenadiers!
The vines from the windows they're stripping,
Lest germ-breeding insects might stay,
The eaves and the rafters are dripping
All wet with a sterilized spray.

Oh come, in the joy of the morning,
What secrets of schooldays we'll tell!
That thick rising vapor gives warning
That Teacher is boiling the bell.
It's time for the B Class to Scrubbing,
The A Class is set out to cool
From its recent boiling and rubbing—
Three cheers for the Sterilized School!

A POLITICAL DISCUSSION.

From the Chicago Examiner:
Cast of Characters—Mr. and Mrs.
Scene—A breakfast room.
Time—The present.

Mr.—Well, things are getting pretty warm in politics these days.

Mrs.—Where, dear?

Mr. (with a pained look)—Why, all over the country. In New York, in Indiana, In Illinois—everywhere. Haven't you noticed it in the papers?

Mrs.—Why, of course, Henry. The very idea! Don't I read the papers every day! I think every woman should know what is going on—even in politics. It's so exciting! Do you think Taft will be elected?

Mr. (a horrible suspicion entering his mind)—Well, you know, dear, of course you know, that they are not electing a president this year. That's two years from now.

Mrs. (hastily)—Why, certainly. How stupid of me! I sometimes get the different elections mixed up. This year they elect a—a—the——

Mr. (patiently)—Well?

Mrs. (getting mad)—Henry, you're know all about politics you think everybody else should, too. How in the world can a body keep track of what these dreadful politicians are doing? It's so confusing—all these articles about scandals and bribery. I should think they'd behave on account of their families, for no other reason. And then all this endless talk about Ballinger—I get so sick of seeing his name in the paper! I do hope he'll be defeated.

Mr.—He's not running for anything, dear.

Mrs. (in confusion)—Why, I thought—well, anyway, he must be a dreadful person according to the cartoons. I only know what I see in the papers.

Mr.—Ballinger is the Secretary of the Interior.

Mrs.—Certainly Henry, I know that, who doesn't? He's in the cabinet, isn't he?

Mr.—Yes, he's in the cabinet. He succeeded Garfield——

Mrs.—Oh, Mary Spencer knows Mrs. Garfield. She entertained in Washington and she says she's perfectly charming and——

Mr.—Hold on. I want you to get this Ballinger matter straight. He——

Mrs.—Ballinger is the—the—the Republican, isn't he?

Mr.—Yes. I thought——

Mrs. (triumphantly)—I knew he was! Now, Henry, you see I'm not quite so ignorant as you think.

Mr. (with resignation)—Well, then, dear, of course there's no use of explaining any further.

Mrs.—Yes, and I know all about the insurgents—I hate the word "gents"—and the standpatters, or is it standpatters? How absurd! I was getting the standpatters and the jackpotters mixed up. And (sailing gayly on) I know all about Cannonism—he's the one who is always smoking a big cigar—and Taft, the president, and Roosevelt. Mrs. Scadsworth was telling me yesterday that her husband is very much disappointed in Roosevelt. It seems that Roosevelt did something he didn't approve of. And, oh, I do wonder whether Kermit is really engaged to that Miss Rutherford! I read this morning——

Mr.—Hold on, let's not get sidetracked on Kermit. This is a political discussion. Now, is there anything that you want me to explain about politics? Is there anything that you don't exactly understand?

Mrs. (hesitatingly)—Why, Henry, I can't think of anything just now. (Goes through motions of deep thought.) Oh, yes, I've always wondered which is correct—"politics is" or "politics are?"

Mr.—Good night. (Falls over in dead faint.)

WOMAN AND THE BALLOT.

By Petroleum V. Nasby.

The women who fancy they are oppressed, demand, first, the ballot that they may have power to better themselves; and, second, the change of custom and education, that they may have free access to whatever employment they have the strength and capacity to fill and to which their inclination leads them.

Most emphatically I object to the giving of them the ballot. It would overturn the whole social fabric. The social fabric has been overturned a great many times, it is true—so many times, indeed, that it seems rather to like it; but I doubt whether it would be strong enough to endure this. I have too great, too high, too exalted an opinion of women. I insist that she shall not dabble in the dirty pool of politics; that she shall keep herself sacred to her family, whether she has one or not; and under no consideration shall she go beyond the domestic circle of which she is the center and ornament.

There are those who have an insane yearning to do something beyond the drudgery necessary to supply the commonest wants of life, and others who have all of these, who would like to round up their lives with something beyond dress and the unsatisfactory trifles of fashionable life. There may be women turning night into day over the needle, for bread that keeps them just this side of Potter's field, who are unreasonable enough to repine at the system that compels them to this; and they may possibly in secret wish that they had the power in their hands that would make men court their influence, as the hod-carrier's is courted, for the vote he casts.

The seamstress, toiling for a pittance that would starve a dog, no doubt prays for the power that would compel lawmakers to be as careful of her interests as they are of the interests of the well-paid male laborers in the dock yards, who, finding ten hours a day too much for them, were permitted by act of congress to draw ten hours' pay for eight hours' work. The starved colorer of lithographs, the pale, emaciated tailoress, balancing death and virtue; drawing stitches with the picture of the luxurious brothel held up by the devil before her, where there is light and warmth and food and clothing, and where death is at least farther off; no doubt this girl wishes at times that she could have that potent bit of paper between her fingers that would compel blatant demagogues to talk of the rights of workingwomen as well as of workingmen.

But woman would lose her self-respect if she mixed with politicians. Most men do; and how could woman hope to escape. Think you that any pure woman could be a member of the New York, New Jersey or Pennsylvania legislatures and remain pure? For the sake of the generations to come, I desire that one sex at least shall remain uncontaminated. Imagine your wife or your sister accepting a bribe from a lobby member! Imagine your wife or your sister working a corrupt measure through the legislature, and becoming gloriously elevated upon champagne in exultation over the result! No! I insist that these things shall be confined to man and man alone.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1890.

Henry T. Johns, whom many of Duluth's old citizens will remember well as Duluth's first histiographer, has issued a second edition of his letters from the ranks, entitled "Life with the Forty-ninth Massachusetts Volunteers." This is the regiment which was commanded by the brave Col. W. F. Bartlett.

The St. Louis & Superior Terminal company has been formed with a capital stock of $200,000, the members being the St. Louis Land company, H. B. Walmsley of Eau Claire and E. L. Emery of Duluth. The terminal road will be twenty miles long.

Already there are municipal improvements in Duluth ordered for next year amounting to over $320,000, and more are under way.

The colored voters of Duluth are preparing to take an active part in the campaign. An enthusiastic meeting was held last evening at J. N. Richey's barber shop, at which the Zenith City Colored Republican club was formed with about forty members. The following officers were elected: J. N. Murphy, president; P. A. Jordan, first vice-president; W. F. Hodges, second vice-president; A. P. Perry, secretary; J. H. Sims, assistant secretary; W. H. Bryant, treasurer. J. N. Richey, C. W. Dorsey and H. J. Sheldon were appointed an executive committee, and W. H. Ray, Jesse Walker and E. T. Rone were chosen as a committee on resolutions.

The Democratic legislative committee has been made up as follows: John C. Brown, John K. Shaw and C. J. Marshall of Duluth, S. C. Murphy of West Duluth, H. M. Dry of Two Harbors, John Miller of Grand Marais, and two members to be chosen by the Ely and Tower Democrats.

Mrs. J. E. Woodbridge expects to leave next week for a winter in Southern California.

Eben Fuller of Clinton Mass., is in Duluth, visiting his son, John E. Fuller, and other relatives.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

No Longer Covet Texas.

Winona Independent: The Republicans are not making as much noise as formerly about "breaking the solid South." What most interests them now is how to save Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, New York, Ohio, Minnesota, and a few other supposedly Republican states in the Solid North.

Different Kinds of Roosters.

Cloquet Independent: Here is a little rhyme that should become the motto of every citizen who not only desires prosperity himself but wants other people to prosper as well.

"There was an old rooster who was a terrible booster,
And when he couldn't boost he always went to roost."

Most of us are good boosters when things go our way and we are in sympathy with the movement. But where we fall short is in not going to roost when we can't boost. We stay up and knock.

Nor of Sprinters.

Coleraine Optics: The world wouldn't be so full of kickers if we all had wooden legs.

Explains Tawney's Defeat.

Hibbing Tribune: James A. Tawney is more valuable to Minnesota than any other Minnesotan in congress, not excepting the state's two senators, but the people of the First district denied themselves his services, believing that it is better to lose them than not to insist on a solution of the grave economic conditions that confront the country in the relations that exist between the individual and great business enterprises.

Otis Surprises The Roads.

Ortonville Herald-Star: Two more courts have a guess coming before the railroads will feel entirely certain of their ownership in fee simple of the state of Minnesota. The decision of Judge Otis, master in chancery, to the effect that the Minnesota commodity and 2-cent rate law is confiscatory and therefore unconstitutional no doubt surprised the railroads as much as it did the general public. If this decision is sustained by the United States circuit and supreme courts the roads will be at liberty to return to the 3-cent rate for passenger traffic and to fix their own freight rates independent of the state railway and warehouse commission. Attorneys for the state even go so far as to declare that if this decision stands the inter-state commerce commission will also be shorn of any control of the roads.

Denies Point Is Well Taken.

Buffalo Journal: Judge Otis of the federal court has decided that Minnesota has no right to regulate freight and passenger rates of the railroads. The law limiting the passenger rate within the state to 2 cents a mile, and setting a maximum on certain freight rates, was taken into court, and the judge finds the legal rates are confiscatory, meaning that they do not permit sufficient dividends to be paid on the stocks of the roads.

When analyzed this point does not appear to be well taken, as the returns on the capital at water prices is from 6 to 8 per cent. The railroads are contending that the government has no right to regulate rates, and if the states have no such right, then the public can be damned, and the roads can charge what they please, and can discriminate in rates so as to build up favored localities. The more the masses are educated the worse the condition of the people seem to get. Government and laws are supposed to be for the benefit of the people, but they are being used to benefit large interests against the masses. It might be best to wipe the legal slate and commence all over again, with only the common law as a basis.

Progress Even In That.

Winona Independent: It seems that in Oklahoma it isn't necessary to fill an Indian up with firewater and sit into a poker game with him in order to get his wealth.

High Credit to the People.

Albert Lea Standard: The triumph of Senator La Follette at the primaries in Wisconsin, in which he won by the sweeping majority of over 80,000 is certainly magnificent, a mark of high credit to the people of that state and one which may well be a subject of national congratulation.

Why the Dog's Nose Is Always Cold.

"What makes the dog's nose always cold?"

I'll try to tell you, curls of gold,
If you will sit upon my knee,
And very good and quiet be.
Well, years and years and years and years ago—
How many I don't really know—
There came a rain on sea and shore;
Its like was never seen before
Or since. It fell unceasing down
Till all the world began to drown;
But just before it down did pour
For the sake of the generations to come, I
An old, old man—his name was Noah—
Built him an ark, that he might save
His family from a watery grave;
And in it also he designed
To shelter two of every kind
Of beast. Well, dear, when it was done,
And heavy clouds obscured the sun,
And the Noah folks to it quickly ran,
And then the animals began
To gravely march along in pairs.
The leopards, tigers, wolves and bears,
The deer, the hippopotamuses,
The rabbits, squirrels, elks, walruses,
The camels, goats, and cats, and donkeys,
The tall giraffes, the beavers, monkeys,
The rats, the big rhinoceroses,
The dromedaries, and the horses,
The sheep, the mice, the kangaroos,
Hyenas, elephants, koodoos,
And many more—'twould take all day,
My dear, the names of all to say—
And at the very, very end
Of the procession, by his friend
And master, faithful dog was seen.
The lifelong time he'd helping been
To drive the crowd of creatures in;
And now, with loud, exultant bark,
He gayly sprung aboard the ark.
Alas! so crowded was the space
He could not in it find a place;
Stood half-way in and half-way out.
And those extremely heavy showers
Descended through nine hundred hours
And more; and, darling, at their close,
Most frozen was his honest nose;
And never could it lose again
The dampness of that dreadful rain;
And that is what, my curls of gold,
Made all the doggies' noses cold.
—Margaret Eytinge.

Democratic Prospects.

American Review of Reviews: It looks as if the political pendulum were swinging from the Republican to the Democratic side. But if the Democrats are destined to win many victories this year, it is not wholly because of their own shining virtues nor wholly by reason of the unfaithfulness of Republican stewardship. The people of the United States are no longer hidebound partisans. Many things have conspired to make it seem salutary to thousands of independent-minded citizens to discipline the Republican party by administering to it some wholesome defeats. It is probably fair to say that more than half of the intelligent Republicans of the United States—apart from those who are interested in questions of office-holding—were more glad than sorry of the news that came from the state of Maine on the evening of Sept. 12. There was a general feeling that it was a good thing for the Democrats to carry that state.

BRUSH FIRES AT PIKE LAKE

Homes Are Threatened But Flames Are Turned Back By Residents.

Summer Homes of Duluthians as Well as Farm Buildings Menaced.

Women and men of Pike Lake and Duluth turned out to fight brush fires which threatened their property at the former place yesterday afternoon and last evening.

The flames ran close to several homes and barns, but they were turned back after a fight of several hours' duration. The Dunphy residence had probably the narrowest escape, but the barn owned by A. McDonald was a close second.

Watches stood on guard all night long, ready to arouse the residents at the first signs of danger. Had a strong wind sprung up the entire settlement, as well as many farmhouses and farm buildings in the vicinity, would probably have been razed. The fires died down late in the evening and this morning the men returned with a determination to stamp them out entirely.

Many Duluthians have property in the vicinity upon which many of them have erected comfortable summer homes. A few were out there when the fires assumed threatening proportions, but many others hurried out in automobiles when the reports of the fires reached them in the city. They promptly joined the others in the fight to save property. Among those whose places were endangered are: T. F. Cole, Lon Merritt, H. F. Williamson, Martin Stead, Rodger Smith, Erick Olson, J. T. Collins, A. McDonald and Mr. Dunphy.

The fires were so bad that E. M. Welsh was driven back when he tried to get through to Twig, a small settlement near Pike Lake.

Fires of large proportions were reported near Proctor, Maple Grove and Kelly Park yesterday afternoon and evening. The residents turned out in numbers to drive them back. The local fire department received no calls for assistance from any of the settlements endangered by the fires.

The Best Plaster.

A piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Liniment and bound on to the affected parts is superior to any plaster. When troubled with lame back or pains in the side or chest give it a trial and you are certain to be more than pleased with the prompt relief which it affords. This liniment also relieves rheumatic pains and is certain to please anyone suffering from that disease. Sold by all druggists.

FREE DELIVERY IN THIEF RIVER FALLS

Long Desired Service Will Go Into Effect on Nov. 1 Next.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Oct. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Free delivery of mail will go into effect in this city Nov. 1. The houses have been numbered and the street signs are being placed in position on the various streets. The postoffice inspector visited the city some weeks ago and arranged for the introduction of the service.

The town was entitled to the free delivery some months ago, as the receipts had for four quarters passed the requisite amount entitling it to the free distribution. It is probable that three mail carriers will be placed on the city routes, although for the first, two may accomplish the work. The time of leaving for the rural routes will also be changed to one hour earlier in the morning, returning one hour earlier in the afternoon.

FALL FROM SWING PROVES FATAL

Chester Pettibone, 21 years old, who was brought to St. Luke's hospital yesterday morning with a broken leg and fractured skull sustained in a fall from a swing at his home at Wrenshall, died at 8 o'clock last evening. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Pettibone, who survive him, together with several brothers and sisters. The body was taken to the undertaking rooms of J. L. Crawford and will be shipped to his home at Wrenshall this evening.

BODY FOUND IN THE HARBOR

Swathed in five shirts and wearing a pair of mittens, the body of an unidentified man was found floating in the slip at Seventh avenue west late yesterday afternoon. His clothing contained no papers which would lead to identification. The body had evidently been in the water a long time. He had a sandy complexion and about a week's growth of beard. The body was taken to Crawford's undertaking establishment.

PRISONER DIES OF HEART FAILURE

Otto Johnson was found dead on the floor of the city jail about 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He had been arrested for drunkenness, after being picked up by the police at Fifth avenue west and First street, where he had fallen to the sidewalk in a stupor. Death was due to heart disease, as shown by a post mortem at the undertaking rooms of Flood & Horgan. Old cards of the Eagles and Redmen were found in his pockets. It is thought that his home was at Adolph. Two full bottles of whisky and one partially empty, were taken from his pockets at the police station.

CARRYING FREIGHT BY AUTOMOBILE ROUTE.

Ridgerwood, N. D., Oct. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Freight heretofore hauled from Lidgerwood to Vig, an inland town in South Dakota, just across the boundary line, will hereafter be handled in automobiles, C. D. Thompson of Vig having established such a service. The automobile freight line will make a daily trip between the two points.

LA MOURE COUNTY PLANNING FOR FAIR.

La Moure, N. D., Oct. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Early plans are being laid by the people of La Moure county for the establishment of an annual county fair next year, the organization of a county association being perfected. The officers: President, D. F. Stewart; vice president, Oscar Wankle; treasurer, Henry Neverman; secretary, T. S. Hunt. The board of directors is composed of the officers and J. H. Gallagher, E. Shawver and William Harck. Ground has been leased.

Injured During Runaway.

Oakes, N. D., Oct. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Wallace Galbreath, aged 67, was found lying unconscious on a road near this city, having sustained injuries in a runaway which may result fatally. Galbreath was alone at the time and his condition is so critical that he has been unable to give any details of the manner in which it happened.

Box Car Thieves Caught.

Williston, N. D., Oct. 18.—Wholesale thefts of merchandise from Great Northern freight cars in this city have been done away with, officials declare, by the arrest of James Edwards and Mike Gascalli, who, it is charged, have been engaged in an extensive system of burglary. The men were captured redhanded just as they were engaged in breaking a seal on a car.

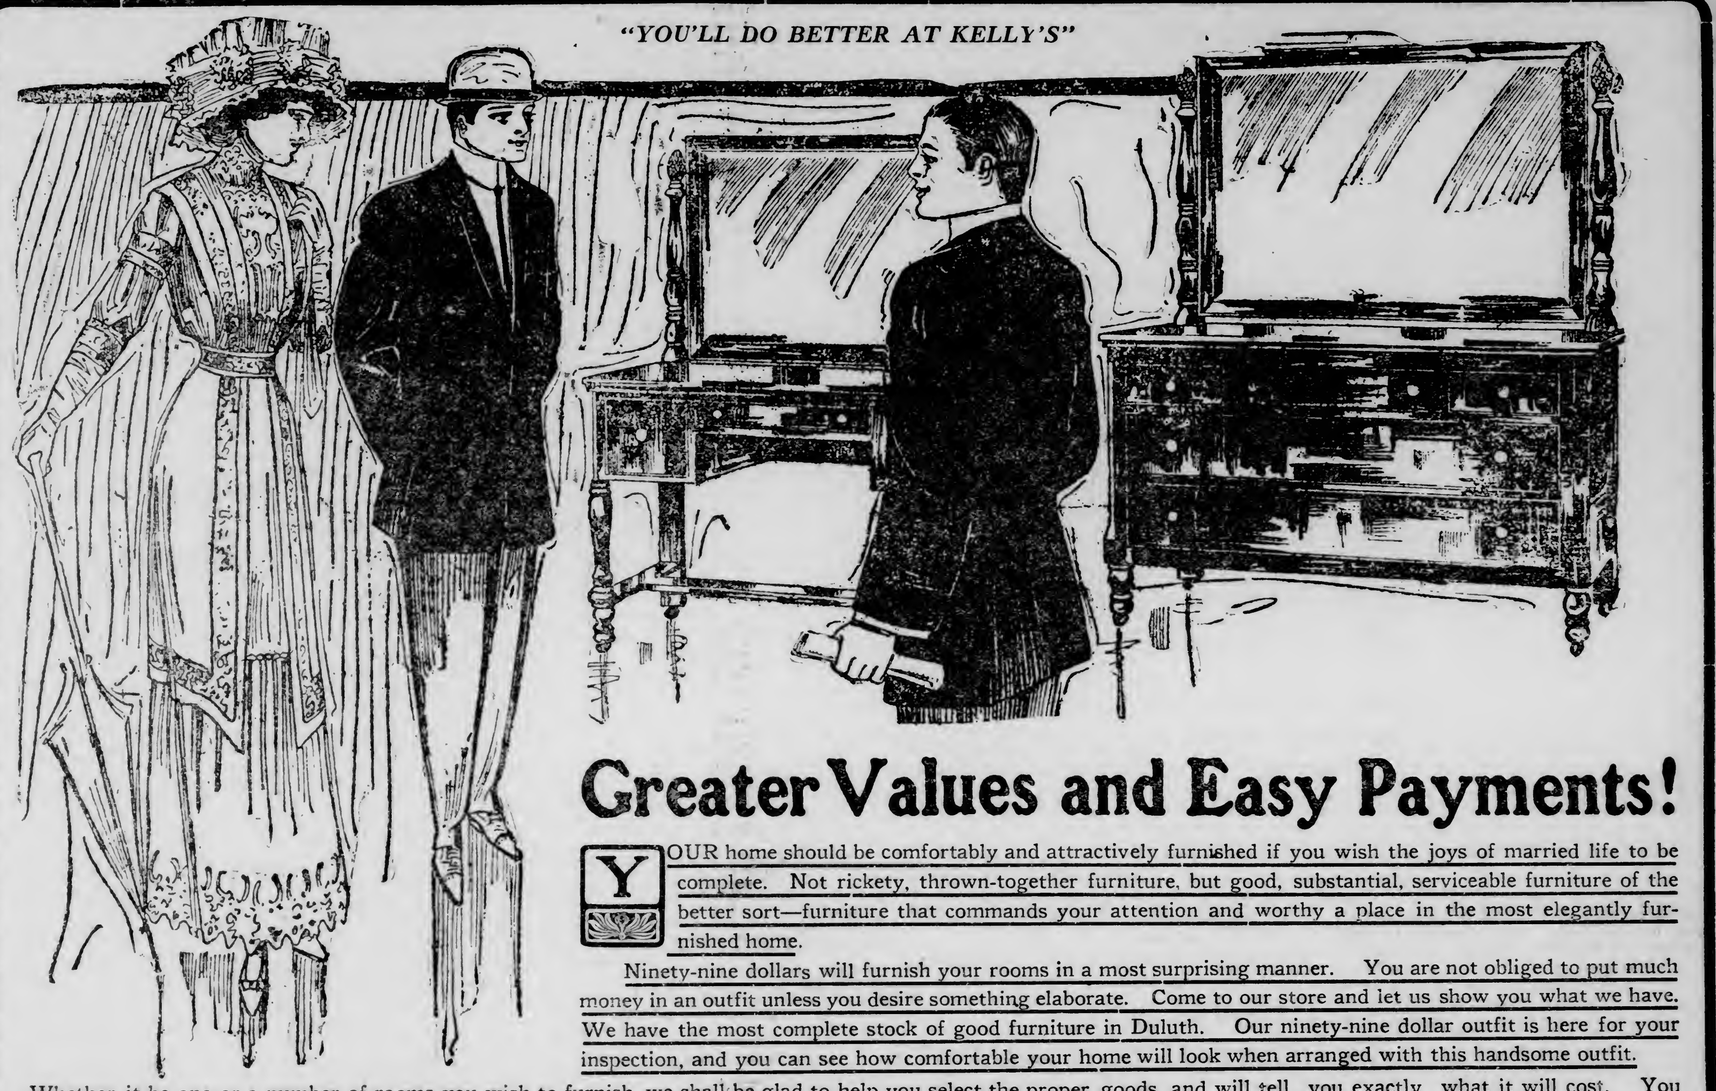

Elk River Store Burns.

Elk River, Minn., Oct. 18.—A. D. Trombley's store in this place burned at 2 a. m. Monday. Loss was $6,000 and insurance $3,000. The family lived upstairs and were saved by means of a ladder. The origin of the fire is not known.

MINOT MAY CONSTRUCT DAM TO HOLD WATER.

Minot, N. D., Oct. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The plan adopted by several cities of the state of constructing dams for the purpose of conserving the water supply and making certain a supply for the winter months, will very likely be followed in this city. The Mouse river from which city water is secured is very low, being only two feet six inches over the intake pipe. This low water has also caused serious difficulties with the sewage, which is emptied into the river below the city. The sewage pollutes the decreased flow of water to such an extent that it has become a menace to public health.

ON THE IRON RANGES

RANGE AUTO MEN HAVE BIG MEET

Gather Near Biwabik and Discuss Many Matters of Interest.

Biwabik, Minn., Oct. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thirty new names are added to the membership roll of the Iron Range Automobile association at the meeting held Sunday at Esquagama lake to consider various matters of interest to the owners of cars in this section. About twenty-five members were present. The question of the location of the proposed clubhouse was left to a referendum vote of the members. It was decided to add vice presidents from the different towns as follows:

J. S. Lutes, Biwabik; F. J. Webb, Gilbert; J. J. Gleason, Eveleth; Dr. Miller, Virginia; Dr. Shaw, Buhl; and E. M. Smith, Hibbing.

Board of Governors Chosen.

The first definite step towards the establishment of a permanent clubhouse and to provide for its management was the choosing of a board of governors. This board will include all the present officers of the association, consisting of A. L. Myers, president, Biwabik; G. H. Thompson, vice president, Hibbing; F. S. Colvin, treasurer, Biwabik; D. Elmquist, secretary, Virginia; T. J. Ryan, Hibbing; E. B. Myers, Biwabik; Dr. Harwood, Eveleth; Clarence Moore, Virginia; Dr. Shaw, Buhl.

Each town represented is to be asked to submit a list of places that are regarded as suitable for a clubhouse, following which the question of a choice will be submitted to the entire membership. The reason for this is that it is desired that all interested be perfectly satisfied with the outcome. Esquagama lake will doubtless be submitted by the Biwabik contingent, in which will be included the use of forty acres of land owned by local parties. Ely lake, near Eveleth, has also been suggested.

The start was made from Biwabik by six cars, which went through, blazing the way and putting up signs. The others came along at different times up until after noon. The weather was delightful and all reported a most pleasant run.

HEATING MAINS ARE BEING LAID

Heating Company of Eveleth Preparing to Heat More Buildings.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Home Heating & Electric company is laying new steam mains to the Othello theater, Star office and Home Heating & Electric company office on Jones street, from Grant avenue. Work on the new steam main extension will be completed this week, and no further extensions are contemplated by the company. Many blocks on Grant avenue are being supplied with steam heat from the central plant on Jones street and many new business structures will be conected with the plant this fall.

The Home Heating & Electric company has also installed a large five-globe bracket on Jones street as a sample of the lighting system that may be installed on the Main street next spring by the council, inasmuch as much interest is being taken in the proposed "white way" for which the city council levied $6,000.

HEAVY SHIPPING OF ORE IN 1911

Mines About Eveleth Expect to Do Better Than This Year.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ore shipping operations are slackening up. At some of the local mines small crews are being laid off as well as some of the shipping clerks.

Preparations for a successful shipping season next year are already being made. Concrete blocks for the new trestle will be completed this fall, if the steel arrives on time.

At the No. 4 shaft, Spruce mine, a new steel trestle has already been erected and will be of much service next season. The old coal dock at the No. 3 shaft, Spruce mine, has been dismantled and shiped to Marble. At the Fayal mine new stripping cars have been secured and a heavy shipping season is looked forward to for next year.

EVELETH CHILD FALLS BREAKING ONE ARM.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Esther, the 11-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Anderson, a member of the fifth grade, while swinging in one of the new swings at the high school playgrounds, yesterday morning, went too high, lost her balance and fell to the ground, sustaining a broken arm. She was taken to the More hospital.

WHY SALVES FAIL TO CURE ECZEMA

Scientists are now agreed that the eczema germs are lodged not in the outer skin or epidermis, but in the inner skin. Hence, a penetrating liquid is required, not an outward salve that clogs the pores.

We recommend to all eczema patients the standard preparation Oil of Wintergreen as compounded in liquid form known as D. D. D. Prescription. A trial bottle of this D. D. D. Prescription, at only 25 cents, will instantly relieve the itch. We have sold and recommended this remedy for years, and know of wonderful cures from its use. We recommend it to our patrons.

STATE IRON MINES SHIPPING MUCH ORE

This Is Record-Breaking Year With Properties on Iron Range.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—More Iron ore was shipped from mines owned by the state up to Oct. 1, than during the entire year in 1909, according to reports received by State Auditor Iverson from the state mining inspectors.

There have been ten shipping mines on state property this year and they have sent out a total of 19,717 cars of ore, or 857,315 tons. Last year the entire output of the state mines was 826,000 tons. Mr. Iverson expects that the output during October and November will be at least 300,000 tons, and perhaps more, bringing the total for the year to about 1,200,000 tons.

The ore shipped from state leases is only a small part of the ore output of Northern Minnesota, but figures on the output of private properties are not available yet. The state gets a royalty of 25 cents per ton on ore shipped from state mines.

The Hanna mine, near Virginia, has had the largest shipments of the state mines this year, the output being 7,056 cars. The Pool mine near Hibbing, was the largest producer early in the season, but later in the summer operations were curtailed and so far it has shipped 5,490 cars this year.

AURORA YOUTH IS SHOT BY BROTHER

Old Story, "Did Not Know It Was Loaded"---Wound Not Bad.

Aurora, Minn., Oct. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Alex Mattenen, aged 12, was accidentally shot by his younger brother Sunday morning while they were going into the woods to go hunting.

It was the same old story of not knowing it was loaded. The young lad was carrying a .22 caliber rifle, which he was careless with, as he claims he did not know it was loaded. The gun became discharged and the bullet struck Alex in the leg, inflicting a painful but not a serious injury. He will be laid up for several days.

HAVE PLAYGROUND FOR LITTLE ONES

Hibbing School Board Has Made Provision for the Youth.

Hibbing, Minn., Oct. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The setting up of the paraphernalia for the public play grounds, situated between Mahoning and Superior streets and Fifth avenue, is completed and the little folks have one of the best equipped recreation grounds in the Northwest. The cost of the furnishings was about $1,500 and was paid for by the school board. The transformation of the Hotel Superior is a most pleasing one to the traveling public. The structure has been recovered with stamped metal sheeting which resembles masonry. The building is owned by Frank Ansley. The first floor has been remodeled, the new fixtures adding much to the attractiveness of the interior. The upper floors are devoted to furnished rooms.

NASHWAUK NIGHT SCHOOL

Is Being Held Twice a Week in School House.

Nashwauk, Minn., Oct. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The school board of District No. 9 has begun a free night school for men and women. The first session was held in the school building under the supervision of Supt. H. A. Gilruth. School will be held every Tuesday and Thursday evening from 7 until 9 o'clock. A deposit of $1 will be required before entering. If the attendance is regular, this amount will be paid back when all books have been returned at the end of the year. Each class will have instruction in reading, writing and arithmetic.

AURORA'S WHITE WAY RAPIDLY TAKING SHAPE.

Aurora, Minn., Oct. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Aurora's new white way is beginning to take form and is adding much to the appearance of Main street.

The concrete bases are all in and the light standards are now being set. There will be five lights to each standard and six standards to each block. Each standard will give light equal to 500 candle power.

The wire work is practically all done, and all other work is in readiness for the engine and dynamo, which are expected to arrive soon.

TWO HIBBING FUNERALS.

Hibbing, Minn., Oct. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of Wilbert, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. P. Harby of the Morris location, who died Monday morning was held today at 2 o'clock from the residence. Rev. J. E. Pickard officiating.

The funeral of James Forberg who died Saturday from injuries received while crossing the track near Alice was held yesterday afternoon. The body was burried in the Hibbing cemetery.

HIBBING NOTES.

Hibbing, Minn., Oct. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. D. M. Power has leased the first floor and basement of the Close block, on Center street.

Neil Moynihan left Sunday noon for Chicago where he will attend the World's serious before leaving for his home in Detroit, Mich., where he will visit for several weeks.

Oscar Rudd has arrived from Duluth for a few days' visit with friends.

CHISHOLM NEWS NOTES.

Chisholm, Minn., Oct. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sunday evening as engine No. 33 was running down to Willin to meet the train from Duluth, a cow crossing the track near the Y was struck by the engine and injured so badly that she soon after died. During the night some party hearing of the dead cow near the track, cut off the hide.

C. T. Knapp, candidate-elect for the state house of representatives from the Forty-ninth district, made a business trip Sunday to Duluth.

Rev. C. P. Keast went to Duluth on Monday morning to attend the monthly meeting of the Methodist Ministers' association of the Duluth district. Mr. Keast is greatly pleased of late with the progress being made on the new church building.

PIKE RIVER HAS BURNING FORESTS

Smoke Enveloping Tower From That Direction Leads to That Belief.

Tower, Minn., Oct. 18. — (Special to The Herald.)—A heavy pall of smoke was hanging over Tower last night, indicating large forest fires in the vicinity of Pike river. Though not in any immediate danger Tower is poorly prepared to cope with forest fires being without water works.

A very severe electric storm accompanied by a heavy fall of rain visited Tower early Thursday morning. The city electric plant suffered considerable damage, several transformers being partially destroyed and others fully so.

Capt. Edward Osterberg of the steamer Mary Belle and Olive, has discontinued daily trips to Vermilion Dam and will only stop there on Monday, Wednesday and Friday. The tourist season is over, and there is not enough traffic to warrant the boats making daily trips. One of the boats will be kept steamed up all the time and will make special trips at any time.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Hannula of Embarrass, died last week.

Mrs. Konst Martilla, who has been seriously ill for a long time, is improving.

TOWER CONSIDERS A WATER SYSTEM

An Engineer Will Be Engaged to Report Upon Probable Cost.

Tower, Minn., Oct. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—A special meeting of the Commercial club was held last night at Vermilion hotel with a full attendance. Mr. Murphy of the council committee reported that $125 in cash was raised for the forest fire sufferers and eleven boxes of clothing shipped to the mayor of Baudette.

The band committee reported that the new band has some thirty-five members and is planning on having a band of fifteen or twenty pieces soon in shape for work. The committee on clubroom was given further time to arrange for a suitable room. The club voted to give F. E. Kolb its support in the matter of putting on a minstrel show by local talent. The secretary was instructed to learn if possible what would be required in the way of grounds to secure the location of Suomi college.

The water works proposition was discussed at considerable length and the club will confer with a competent engineer to learn the probable cost of installing an adequate water system for Tower.

BRIEFS FROM EVELETH.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—S. Edelman of St. Paul was a business visitor in Eveleth, Sunday and Monday.

Next Monday, the Ladies' Guild of St. John's Episcopal church will give their first musical entertainment of the year at Walonlahde hall, with Miss Donna Louise Riblette of Duluth, as soloist asisted by home talent.

Four Hibbing Arrests.

Hibbing, Minn., Oct. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Four men were arrested Sunday. Two of them were allowed to go upon the promise of good behavior in the future. Alex Cromanzi, who was arrested for being drunk and disorderly and resisting one of the local officers was fined $111.50. Charlie Peterson, who was charged with being drunk and disorderly, was fined $5.30.

Eveleth Double Funeral.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—A double funeral was held from the Finnish Lutheran Concordia church, yesterday. Services were held for Emil Bohija and the 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lakej, who died Saturday.

Bohija was killed at the No. 4 shaft, Spruce mine Saturday, while the boy succumbed to typhoid fever. The bodies were interred at Virginia, Rev. P. C. Keranen, officiating. Many relatives and friends escorted the bodies to their final resting place.

have sustained many thousands of dollar and the property damage along the Atlantic coast south of St. Augustine probably will surpass that of any hurricane of recent years. It is feared here that there has been considerable loss of life.

Wind Ninety Miles an Hour.

The last message from Key West reported a wind velocity of ninety miles an hour, a barometer reading 28.80 and high seas. Shortly after that message was sent the wireless apparatus failed.

St. Augustine reported increasing wind and a barometer falling.

Railroad traffic on all lines south of Jacksonville has practically been abandoned. The telegraphic companies report almost all wires down. It may be several days before communication is re-established with the storm-swept territory.

Storm at Savanna.

Savanna, Ga., Oct. 18.—At 7 a. m. the wind had reached thirty-three miles an hour and apparently was increasing steadily. The barometer at 9 o'clock read 29.75, having steadily declined since yesterday. Shipping in the harbor is preparing for the expected blow, and the local wireless station is trying to warn vessels at sea.

The last dispatches received from Havana said that the Island of Cuba had probably sustained the greatest material disaster in all her history in the practically continuous cyclone, which began with light rains on Thursday morning, developing into torrential floods and devastating hurricanes and continuing until last evening. The western half of the island suffered more severely than the east. At 10 o'clock last night came a report that the wind and rain had ceased and there were no indications of a further storm.

Water Pours Over Sea Wall.

St. Augustine, Fla., Oct. 18.—The entire business section of this city is flooded with inrushing sea water today, while the wind and waves are still rising, with no indication of when their limit will be reached. The water is pouring over the sea wall from the highest storm tide in sixteen years. It is feared that tonight's tide will be still worse and that it will sweep high over the city.

So far there has been no loss of life.

South Milwaukee, Wis., Isle de France and Million Population club.

The weather bureau predicts that the balloons will maintain a northeasterly course.

Have Crossed Lake.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Oct. 18.—A large, silver-colored balloon was sighted at Shelby today at 10:30. The altitude was about 500 feet and three men were in the basket. At 10:30 a. m. a large black balloon passed over Montague. Both were traveling northeast.

Seen at Muskegon.

Shelby, Mich., Oct. 18.—Two balloons have been sighted after crossing Lake Michigan. One was seen at Muskegon and the other northeast of this place.

Landed in Wisconsin.

Racine, Wis., Oct. 18.—Because they had but eight bags of sand left with which to cross Lake Michigan, Tony Von Phul, the pilot, and Joe O'Reilly, his aide, landed their balloon, "The Million Population," six miles north of this city at 7:25 this morning.

The Million Population reached its highest altitude near Vernon, Ill., during the night, when it soared 4,500 feet above the earth. It covered 355 miles, figuring by the air route.

The balloon was brought to this city and the pilots left immediately for St. Louis.

The balloon landed on the farm of John Trumbull and a telephone message was sent into the city.

"If we had had fifteen bags of sand we could have made the trip across the lake, but with only half that number and the wind in the southwest, blowing the long way of the body of water, we decided it best to drop where we did," said Von Phul to the Associated Press.

Von Phul sighted the Swiss balloon Azurea, Messner pilot, seven miles north of Racine at 7:30 a. m. She passed onto Lake Michigan going northeast. Messner said he was going to cross the lake.

SAY RAINY RIVER WAS HOSPITABLE

Baudette Officials Deny Statements Attributed to "Doc" Rutledge.

Mayor J. U. Williams of Baudette and C. R. Middleton, president of the Commercial club of that town, are incensed over an article in an International Falls paper based on a purposed interview with A. G. "Doc" Rutledge of Bemidji. Mr. Williams and Mr. Middleton, in a joint letter to The Herald, deny certain statements in regard to the treatment accorded the stricken people of Baudette and Spooner by the people of Rainy River, Ont. The letter follows:

"Baudette, Minn., Oct. 17, 1910.—An article appeared a few days ago in one of the International Falls papers, which purported to be an interview with Doc Rutledge of Bemidji, formerly on the staff of the Bemidji Pioneer, but now a deputy under Sheriff Hazen, and also a member of Company "K" of the Third infantry, in which it appeared that Mr. Rutledge made the statement based upon his own experience and investigation in effect the people of Rainy River, Ont., a Canadian town just across the border from the devastated villages of Baudette and Spooner had failed to in any manner offer relief or assistance, or to help bury the dead.

"Mr. Rutledge, according to this paper, made the further statement that he was charged $2.00 for a room, 50 cents for a sandwich, and in one of the licensed drinking houses $1.00 for two soft drinks. The statement as to what purports to have been Mr. Rutledge's experience we are not prepared to deny because we do not know whether it is true or false, but all of the other statements in the article are unqualifiedly false.

"A considerable portion of the town of Rainy River was burned the night of the conflagration in Baudette and Spooner, and the people of that little town had been fighting fire constantly day and night for several days, but notwithstanding this they did everything in their power to aid, assist and as far as possible make comfortable the people who were carried into their town in forty box cars from Baudette and Spooner. Practically all of the best citizens of Rainy River threw their homes open, and accommodated all the people they had room for, free of charge. Hugh Carson, mayor of Rainy River, ever since the devastation has shown an inclination to do anything that could be done by the town to aid and relieve the distressed. Probably 1,500 people from the destroyed villages were taken care of in Rainy River for three or four days after the fire, and many of them are there yet. We have made inquiry of a large number of these people, but in no single instance have we found any person who had occasion to complain, but on the other hand everybody who was taken care of there commends the conduct of the officers and people of Rainy River, and feel that they owe them a debt of gratitude they can never repay.

WANTED IN MONTANA ON CHARGE OF FORGERY.

Granville, N. D., Oct. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—William Nagle was arrested by Sheriff Kramer and held for the officials of Glasgow, Mont., who charged him with being guilty of forgery. Nagle was a member of a hay-pressing crew near here when the notification came from Glasgow authorities that he was wanted and it was only a short time before he was located. Nagle disclaimed knowledge of the affair.

SNARING MANY FISH.

Catfish, Sturgeons and Sheepshead Being Taken From Red River.

Grand Forks, N. D., Oct. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fishermen pulling large catfish, sheephead and sturgeons from the Red river with a wire snare is of daily occurrence here, the very low stage of water in the river being such as to render this means of catching the fish possible. The river has not given up many fish all year until this week, when it seems to have become fairly alive with them, and they can be seen in the water at almost any time, most unusual, in view of the muddy condition of the river at all times.

SHELL LAKE BANKER DIES.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

BOTH TOWNS REBUILDING

New Spooner and Baudette Will Be Better Than Before Fire.

Many Typhoid Fever Cases Developing; Disease Is Being Attacked.

Baudette, Minn., Oct. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Shevlin-Mathieu Lumber company has commenced the erection of a number of houses for its employes. The company will erect this fall fifty houses running in value from $1,000 to $5,000. Most of these dwellings will be erected on the same sites as the former residences were located before the great fire swept out the two towns. The company will send carpenters here with their tools and work will be rushed. Ten houses are under construction and the company will also send in carloads of house furnishings goods, full equipments of kitchen utensils and furniture.

Burned Towns Rebuilding.

Spooner and Baudette have commenced to rebuild. The business people have all the same thought in mind—they will have better towns than before. In Spooner temporary buildings are being erected. The Security State bank is erecting a building which will be used until spring. B. Egan, John Brodin, John Weeks and T. Thompson are also erecting temporary store buildings and business will be resumed at once.

The only place of business that is in operation now is John Weeks' hardware store.

In Baudette T. J. Andrews and J. U. Williams have begun the erection of temporary store buildings. In the spring Williams Brothers will erect a brick block on the site where the Pioneer store stood. They have not decided what the building will be used for. The village council of Baudette has decided that only brick or cement buildings will be erected for permanent use on Main street. Cement sidewalks will be laid in Spooner. Car loads of food and hay have arrived. Horses and cattle were feeding on rags and other things, as there was nothing for them to eat before fodder arrived.

Towns to Fight Typhoid.

A joint meeting of the Spooner and Baudette councils and health boards with the National Red Cross society was held in one of the tents of the army Saturday night. Attorney General George Simpson, was also present. This meeting was for the purpose of investigating the epidemic of typhoid.

Lectures were given on the causes of typhoid by an authority on typhoid. The main cause of typhoid was the use of water from Baudette bay and the insanitary condition of old Baudette. It was decided to rent the Hyland's building and install a hospital for the typhoid patients. Thirty-two cases of typhoid are reported. Special nurses will arrive at once.

A house to house canvass was made to investigate new cases, under Marshall Lew. Sponer and Baudette are receiving a general cleaning up. The soldiers have smashed the pumps where any surface water is likely to enter.

The expense of keeping the temporary hospital in the Hyland building will be met by the Red Cross, which will carry half the expenses, the other half will be paid by the villages of Baudette and Spooner.

HILL CITY HAS MUCH BUILDING

Estimated Quarter of Million Dollars Being Spent There.

Hill City, Minn., Oct. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Few new and growing towns in the Northwest can approach this one in the amount of building going on.

It is roughly estimated that $250,000 will be spent in the amount of building now in course of construction.

Armour & Co. have the first of their big buildings enclosed and have the second well begun. They now have over 100 mechanics and laborers pushing the work vigorously, and their enterprise has begun to assume the activity which the citizens have looked forward to all summer.

There are fifty houses which are nearing completion. Many of these latter will be ready for occupancy within ten days. The greater number of these cost in the vicinity of $1,000, while a goodly number will cost from $2,000 to $4,000.

Need Men for Excavating.

With the arrival of the Harsper Bros., who secured a location and immediately set to work building a double house, several others began to build at once, and teams and men for excavation work are in strong demand.

L. E. Fisher has his excavation completed and is now putting in a foundation for a modern seven-room house, which when completed will cost from $1,200 to $1,500.

Saturday Messrs. Asselin and Munn from Crookston set a gang to excavating a basement 48 by 48 feet at the corner of Henrietta avenue and Gill street. These gentlemen will erect a business block 75 by 48 feet, two stories high, modern in every respect. The structure will cost from $6,000 to $7,000 and will add much to the business appearance of the town.

J. L. Diven broke sod Saturday for a $2,000 modern residence. Work on this building will be pushed rapidly.

Edward Johnson arrived here Friday from Kasota with a car of household goods. For immediate use he will put up a three-room house to be used as a wing to the main part, which will not be put up till spring.

Ed Embury is on the list with improvements, he having begun a cottage for bachelor quarters.

SUICIDE NEAR HOULTON.

Body Found in Wisconsin Woods Is Not Identified.

Houlton, Wis., Oct. 18.—The partly decomposed body of a comparatively young man was found in the woods on the Thelen farm, four miles from here, in the direction of Somerset, by a Mr. Nehring, who was out hunting.

The body was lying face down. The coat, trousers and shoes of the man had been removed and the coat was lying over the body from the waist downward. It was a blue cheap coat.

A revolver was found near the body with one chamber fired. A watch fob was found a few feet from the body, but there was no watch. There was nothing on the body to disclose the identity.

A revolver wound in the head, near the right ear, pointed to suicide. An investigation was made by the deputy coroner of St. Croix county, but he was unable to ascertain the identity of the man.

FINDS TARANTULA IN BANANA BUNCH.

Moorhead, Minn., Oct. 18.—In handling a big bunch of bananas Nels P. Peirson discovered a tarantula. A glass jar was secured and the deadly insect was flicked into it. It is now on exhibition.

FIFTH ACTION HAS UNTIED THE KNOT

Matrimonial Bureau Marriage of North Dakota Is Finally Set Aside.

Grand Forks, N. D., Oct. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—A matrimonial bureau wedding of fifteen years' standing came to a close in Grand Forks yesterday afternoon when Judge C. F. Templeton granted Mrs. Kate L. Wagner, a divorce from Albert W. Wagner. The judge also gave her the custody of two children and $2,500 alimony.

The case is the fifth of that sort that had been started since the couple became wedded. The first two actions were started by Mrs. Wagner but were dismissed on her own motion. Later two other suits were dismissed by Judge Cowan, but the climax came some few months ago when Wagner, owning property valued at approximately $50,000, was accused of non-support, and was convicted, the verdict being set aside by Judge Templeton later.

The fifth divorce action was commenced by Mr. Wagner and a cross bill was filed by Mrs. Wagner. Now their troubles are over, and Mr. and Mrs. Wagner are no longer one.

Mr. and Mrs. Wagner were married fifteen years ago through the agency of a matrimonial bureau.

BUCKET OVERTURNS; FOUR LOSE LIVES

Riding to Surface in North Lake Mine, Drop 250 Feet.

Ishpeming, Mich., Oct. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The North Lake mine of the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron Mining company near here was the scene of the death of four miners last night when the bucket in which they were being raised to the surface overturned and they were precipitated 250 feet to the bottom of the shaft.

The dead:

GUSTAF JOHNSON.
EDWARD HONKALA.
HERMAN HUPALA, all married and a single man, whose name has not been learned.

A fifth man, John Luoma, was thrown onto the timbering which divides the two compartments of the shaft and marvelously escaped death.

PUT IT OUT OF MISERY.

Is Excuse Offered By Man Who Killed Deer.

Minot, N. D., Oct. 18.—Game Warden Delchert has returned from a raid on deer hunters in the northern part of the state.

It seems that a deer from the forests of Montana or Minnesota had wandered as far as Glenburn, where it was sought by several hunters. It was finally secured by E. Earsly, a farmer living near Eckman, after being wounded by another party. Earsly was apprehended and pleaded that he shot the deer to put it out of its misery. It seems that very few violators of the game law escape the notice of the wardens.

GRAND MARAIS WOMAN DEAD OFFICER'S SISTER.

Grand Marais, Minn., Oct. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. O. M. Stuart of this village was a sister of George Harp, the Sawyer county, Wis., deputy sheriff who was shot and killed during the attack upon John Dietz' cabin at Cameron dam. Mr. and Mrs. Harp left at once for Winter on receipt of the news.

OLD BRAINERD CITIZEN.

Nels Erick Erickson Borne to Grave Monday Afternoon.

Brainerd, Minn., Oct. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Nels Erick Erickson, aged 78, one of Brainerd's old residents, who died Friday night was buried yesterday afternoon from the Swedish Mission church.

Mr. Erickson, a native of West Winoker, Sweden, came to America first in 1863, living first in California. He returned to Sweden where he married Miss Matilda Larson and later, in 1869, he returned to America, settling near Rush City in 1871 and in Brainerd in 1903.

To them seven children were born: W. E. Erickson of this city, Mrs. Emma Peterson of Minneapolis, Albert Erickson of this city, Mrs. Cecilia McKay of Rush City, Oscar Erickson of Brainerd and Gustaf Nicholas Erickson, deceased, buried at Rush City. He was always an active Mason and helped to organize the Masonic lodge at Rush City. He attended the Swedish Mission church.

WISCONSIN TEACHERS TO MEET IN EAU CLAIRE.

Eau Claire, Wis., Oct. 18.—The annual meeting of the Northwest Wisconsin Teachers' association will be held in Eau Claire on Friday and Saturday. A state law now provides that all teachers who present certificates of attendance handed out at the place where the meeting is held may draw pay for the time gone. It is expected that between 200 and 300 educators from the Northwest counties will attend.

BOY KILLS SISTER "PLAYING" AT INDIAN.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 18.—While playing "Indian" Wilbert Coffman, aged 8, son of Walter M. Coffman, a draftsman at the Northern Electric shops, shot and killed his sister, Thelma, aged 12. The children found a rifle and the boy suggested that they imitate wild redmen by shooting each other. They did not know the gun was loaded. The boy was only a few feet away from his sister when he fired, the ball hitting her in the forehead and passing through her head.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Fargo, N. D.—The county jury board, consiting of the county treasurer, auditor and clerk of the district court, Saturday morning drew thirty names of those who will serve on the juries during the November term. The jury drawn is ordered to report Wednesday, Nov. 2, at 9:30 a. m.

Botineau, N. D.—Nov. 22 is the date that has been selected by the association organized to promote the construction of a state road from Botineau to St. John, for a meeting which will be held in Minot. At that time definite plans for the course of action to be pursued will be decided on.

Fargo, N. D.—The North Dakota Agricultural college eleven defeated the Whipeton Science school tenm here 16 to 0 Sunday in a game marked by rough tactics on both sides.

Mandan, N. D.—Instead of one division proposition in Morton county, there is a possibility that there will be three up for a vote on Nov. 8, petitions for the establishment of Grant and Brown counties out of portions of the present county of Morton having been filed. The board of commissioners will meet Wednesday to consider them.

Grand Forks, N. D.—Friends in the city have received notification of the death of J. B. Copeland at Seattle on Wednesday of last week. Deceased was formerly a prominent resident of Crookston, and was a Great Northern passenger conductor until he left quite a number of years ago. He served out West for several years as division superintendent.

Devils Lake, N. D.—Miss Etta Smith has accepted the position recently vacated at the telephone office by the resignation of Miss Lizzie Panzram.

Minot, N. D.—F. W. Petrick of Holloway, Minn., has been elected assistant cashier of the Savings Deposit bank of this city. Mr. Petrick will make Minot his permanent home and comes highly recommended. He is a young man of pleasing appearance, about 23 years old, and has had considerable banking experience in country banks in this state.

Chaseley, N. D.—The new Evangelical church, erected six miles from this city, was dedicated Sunday. Rev. William Suckow of Fargo, presiding elder for the district, took a prominent part in the dedicatory services. The church is one of the best of the denomination in this section of the state.

Anamoose, N. D.—The city's two chemical fire engines were called out to extinguish a prairie fire which burned over a large section northwest of the city. On the John Leder and K. Kickbusch farms heavy damage to hay was done, an immense quantity of it being destroyed. A spark from a passing locomotive caused the fire.

Williston, N. D.—Another new town has been established in McKenzie county, being known as White City, and it is located on the Missouri river approximately twenty miles directly north of Schafer.

Carrington, N. D.—Charged with the sale of mortgaged property, O. Irons of this city was captured at Williston and brought back to face his accusers. Irons was driving from Carrington to his claim in Northern Montana when arrested. It was claimed that the man sold a large quantity of goods on which there was a mortgage held by a party at Bordulac.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Fergus Falls—The general committee, consisting of Salo Deeky, M. Benson and M. H. Stang, reports progress in the work of collecting subscriptions for the fire sufferers and says that between $800 and $900 in cash has been subscribed. The students of Park Region college gave $33.75 and the Synodical Ladies' Aid society gave $10 to aid a synod society which was a sufferer through the fire.

Grand Marais—The fair given by the Congregational Ladies' Aid society was a success; $27.25 was taken in, of which $24 was clear profit.

Brainerd—Mrs. J. W. Smith and Master Bermann left Saturday for Bemidji to join her husband, where they will make their future home. Mr. Smith having accepted a position with the M. & I.

Deer River—Next Friday and Saturday, Oct. 21 and 22, the county Sunday school convention will be held in Deer River. This is the first honor of the kind Deer River has been given.

Moorhead—Two filings of independent candidates for county office have been received at the auditor's office. Charles Brendemuhl, Jr., filed for commissioner from the Fourth district, now represented by Robert Richards, and Iver Thompson filed for the office of sheriff of Clay county.

Aitkin—The Knox Lumber company is installing in their planing mill the machinery and equipment for a feed mill that will crush corn and cob, with or without husk, and grind all kinds of small grain, oats, rye, barley, shelled corn, etc. The mill has a capacity of from twenty to sixty bushels per hour.

Crookston—Gerrit Smith has purchased four of the finest looking mules ever brought into this territory from T. D. Tice, the stock man, from Pella, Iowa. The mules arrived Saturday and were unloaded in the Carman yards.

Onamia—D. H. Robbins of Cleveland is among the fire sufferers of this region. A fire which got from under control of whoever had it in charge, ran on to Mr. Robbin's place and destroyed about $700 worth of hay and buildings before it could be gotten under control. N. O. Oliver and Henry Pearce also lost about twenty tons of hay.

Little Falls—At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rasicot of Belle Prairie on Friday occurred the celebration of their golden wedding anniversary. Only members of the family were present to assist Mr. and Mrs. Rasicot commemorate the event, which took place at Malone, N. Y., five decades ago.

Minneapolis — Arrangements have been completed for a dinner at the Kalisson next Thursday for 300 members of the New York Bankers' association who will stop off in Minneapolis on their return from the annual convention of the American Bankers' association in Los Angeles. They will be the guests of the local bankers during the day.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Munising — Extensive improvements are being made at the plant of the Munising Leather company. The work includes the rebuilding of all the ovens which have become very much worn during the years of constant service.

Marquette—Mrs. John Burke died Sunday evening after a long illness at the age of 69. Mrs. Burke has been bedridden for some time. She is survived by her husband and six children: Mrs. A. J. McNulty, Mrs. E. B. Williams and Matthew of this city, William of Houghton, Thomas of Butte, Mont., and H. B. of Chicago.

Negaunee—Nicholas Britz, the well known lumberman of Lathrop, has two camps in operation and is making preparations to open more. He recently secured a big contract from the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company for mining timber, and he intends to employ a good sized crew during the winter.

Feeding and Eating

"In recent physiological studies of the alimentary canal the importance of emotional states to normal digestion has received striking confirmation . . . Pawlow's well-known observations showed the importance of appetite and a relish for food in starting the secretions of the stomach." — W. B. Cannon, M. D., in American Journal of the Medical Sciences.

TO digest a meal and get the full benefit of it, it must be relished.

The finest meal, taken while you have a "grouch" or are under nervous or emotional strain, will not "set" well. A plain meal, taken in conditions that make you enjoy it, will agree with you. Hunger and appetite must both be appeased. They are nature's guides to our proper nutrition.

Does an animal or man eat or drink because he has an abstr act opinion that his body needs so much albumen to repair tissue and so much carbon to supply heat or energy? Or does he eat bec ause he is hungry, and drink because he is thirsty?

In other words, does he not eat and drink because he likes it?

Good beer helps you to enjoy a meal.

It is therefore a valuable aid to digestion, besides containing some food itself.

City Engineer Suggests Plan for Caring for Storm Water.

Health Commissioner Wants to Ship Manure to Farmers.

The inauguration of a new plan for caring for the storm water which rushes down the hillside of the city with every heavy rain, flooding basements and tearing out pavements, had its first hearing in the council meeting last night.

The proposition is to divert the water into the natural courses which run down to the lake and bay at many different places in all parts of Duluth. This would cause a great saving in new construction work as well as in the remodeling or enlargement of the present sewer system.

At comparatively short intervals the hillside is cut with ravines, most of which boast streams. Between the ravines are natural rises of land. To turn the heavy flowage to either side, it is stated, would be a comparatively simple matter. On both sides of some other rises, large storm sewer pipes have been put in, and where no streams are available, the water from these rises could just as easily be turned into the sewers.

The successful working out of this proposition would save Duluth and her citizens thousands of dollars less annually, at the least possible expense. The construction work necessary would not be difficult and in the majority of instances the distances between the top of the rise to the ravine or storm sewer pipe is not more than a block or two. Alderman W. B. Getchell states that the plan has been suggested for some time past, and that it appeals to him as the best that has ever been offered.

City Engineer Thomas F. McGilvray last night sent a communication to the council suggesting that part of the water coming down Lake avenue be taken care of in this manner, by constructing a storm sewer in Second street from Lake avenue to the storm sewer in First avenue east, the estimated cost of which would be $554. The proposition brought forth some differences of opinion and the resolution authorizing the work, was laid over a week for further investigation.

Health Commissioner Webster sent in a communication asking the council for advice as to the future disposal of the manure now being thrown on the city dumps. He explained that the dumping area is restricted, and estimated that within two years it will be necessary to burn the manure unless some other means of disposal is available. He stated that farmers in the neighboring territory are willing to pay for the expense of shipping, and possibly enough additional to furnish the city a small revenue. All they asked, he explained, was that the city load it on to cars. This would necessitate an initial expense of about $300 for a trestle on which the teams could drive to unload their wagons, he figured. Dr. Webster touched upon the benefits of enriching the land adjacent to Duluth in this manner and put it up to the council to furnish the $300 needed for the trestle. The proposition will be investigated by a council committee.

Following a complaint from the health commissioner as to the dirty conditions of the drinking fountains for horses, the board of public works was instructed to clean them every day until they are shut off. Several cases of glanders have been reported the last summer, and it was feared that unless this precaution was taken, an epidemic might result which would cause a heavy loss of horses.

An ordinance was passed authorizing the issuance of certificates of indebtedness for the several departments. The fire department fund is allowed $15,000; the light fund, $10,000; the permanent improvement fund, $12,000, and the public works fund, $45,000.

* * *

The vacation asked for by the Imperial Iron works at the foot of Fifty-second avenue west was allowed. The company will erect a foundry adjacent to its plant in that vicinity.

* * *

A. H. Polinsky was allowed a license to sell goods at auction at 311 West Superior street for thirty days, the permit to expire not later than Dec. 4.

The chief of the fire department was asked to report as to the need of a fire hydrant in the vicinity of Tenth avenue east and Eighth street.

The chief of police was directed to provide heat for the West end station at a cost of not to exceed $10 a month and to have the place repaired and papered at a cost of not more than $100.

The arc lights on First street and Fourth and Fifth avenues were ordered discontinued upon the lighting of the great white way now being installed on First street. The cost of the arc lights will go towards the maintenance of the new lights, as was agreed by the council some time ago.

* * *

The city engineer sent in a communication recommending that the city secure a membership in the organization of city officials for the standardization of paving materials. He thought it would be an economical proposition as the city will be able to keep its paving specifications up to date through the association. The fee is $50.

* * *

The board of fire commissioners was authorized to dispose of a horse unfit for further service and to purchase another to replace it.

The issuance of $50,000 worth of bonds for the park board was taken up again. The new ordinance had its first reading. This is necessary because of a technical defect in the form of the application made previously by the park board.

* * *

City Comptroller W. S. McCormick submitted his statement of the permanent improvement revolving fund, showing that it has increased about $59,000 since its inauguration in 1900.

FRENCH STRIKE IS CALLED OFF

Premier Briand Is Credited With Having Prevented Serious Outcome.

Paris, Oct. 18.—The strike committee of the railroaders' union at a meeting last night formally called off the strike of the railroad employes which has extended over several of the most important systems in France. Work was resumed on all lines today.

The collapse of the strike was primarily due to the stringent measures taken by Premier Briand, who called to the colors the majority of the strikers, thus compelling them to do service as reservists. The premier also placed under arrest many of the strike leaders and used the military forces without restraint for the protection of life and property.

After having broken the backbone of the strike, Mr. Briand successfully arranged a practical settlement, whereby the chief demands of the men were met.

Anarchists Were Active.

A serious situation arose through the throwing of bombs and attempts at train wrecking, responsibility for which the strikers denied. According to the police these outrages were planned by the anarchists and fighting revolutionists, who hoped to take advantage of the strike situation to terrorize the people. The entire press in France, with the exception of certain revolutionary organs, were opposed to the strike and supported Premier Briand.

DOLLIVER'S DEATH IS MOURNED IN WISCONSIN.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 18.—The Republican state central committee in session here last night adopted resolutions mourning the untimely death of Senator J. P. Dolliver of Iowa.

Death Worries La Follette.

Rochester, Minn., Oct. 18.—The news of Senator Dolliver's death caused a slight set-back to the favorable condition of Senator Robert M. La Follette, who is recovering from an operation for gall stones at St. Mary's hospital. The close relationsip between the Iowa and Wisconsin senators in their careers at Washington made the news of the death a great shock to Mr La Follette and it caused him to worry. His conditions is by no means serious and it is thought the slight turn for the worse will be overcome very shortly. It is expected the senator will leave the hospital some day this week.

ADMITS CLAIM OF NORTH DAKOTAN

"Dakota Dan" Is Acknowledged as Brother and Heir to Estate.

Boston, Mas., Oct. 18.—The longest contested probate case in the world, it is claimed, was settled last night when William C. Russell of Melrose declared that Daniel Blake Russell of Dickinson, N. D., ("Dakota Dan") was his brother and a co-heir with him to the $500,000 estate of his father, the late Daniel Russell.

The acknowledgement was made in writing and throws out the claims of the alleged Daniel Blake Russell of Fresno, Cal. "Fresno Dan" was publicly acknowledged as the long lost brother by William Russell last April at the conclusion of a six months' trial in which the claims of "Dakota Dan" were thrown out. "Fresno Dan" had since lived in Melrose with William Russell as his brother.

Efforts were made at the recent trial, which lasted 123 trial days, to prove that "Dakota Dan" was James D. Rousseau of Messina, N. Y. "Dakota Dan's" attorney was State Senator Leslie A. Simpson of Dickinson, N. D., and "Fresno Dan's" lawyer was George N. Calwright of Fresno, Cal.

WILL ADJUST FIRE LOSSES

Insurance Adjusters Pass Through City on Way to Border.

Eighteen insurance adjusters from the Twin Cities left Duluth last night for Baudette and Spooner, Minn., in a private car, which was attached to the Winnipeg flyer of the Missabe and Canadian Northern roads. The men will occupy the car while in the fire-swept district. They will adjust losses sustained in the recent holocaust.

Most of the business men, said an adjuster, carried insurance to the extent of 50 per cent of the value of their property. The largest loss was sustained by the Shevlin-Mathieu Lumber company of Spooner, which was protected by insurance to the extent of 80 per cent. The loss on the lumber owned by the company was $500,000.

The adjustors will not have much trouble in estimating losses. Property that was touched by fire was generally consumed entirely and was a total loss. The insurance companies will pay the losses as soon as the adjustors have returned their reports.

McGOVERN'S CLOSE CALL.

Wisconsin Candidate for Governor Drops With Passenger Elevator.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 18.—F. E. McGovern, candidate for governor on the Republican ticket, with three other state candidates and five members of the state central committee, narrowly escaped death last night when the elevator in which they were riding fell three stories in an office building.

WALTER CAMP TALKS ON THE NEW FOOTBALL RULES

Admits That This Year's Rules Are Largely an Experiment.

Changes Are Necessary But New Game Is Here to Stay.

WALTER CAMP.

Walter Camp, the dean of American football one of old Yale's early gridiron stars, and the man who for years has shaped the policy of the New Haven team, reached Duluth late last night on a business trip and will spend part of today here.

One associates the name of Walter Camp with the beginning and present development of the game. It is therefore of deep interest to have his ideas on the new game. Mr. Camp admits that the game is more or less of an experiment, but hastily adds that the experiment has been more successful than he had dared to hope.

The oracle of football also believes that the present game is here to stay. He does not believe that American collegess will ever return to the old five-yard game, or that the present style will be greatly changed in the fundamental aim, which is, he says, to make the game more open, and lessen the concentrated attack upon one man.

As to the injuries of last season, Mr. Camp says they resulted from the pulling of the second defense back and proving no counter-action in the shape of lessening the concentration on the line attack. As a result, Mr. Camp says, the teams played masses off tackle, in many instances, instead of resorting more freely to the forward pass, as was the hope and original intention of the framers of the rules.

And then Mr. Camp took up the new rules. He was frank and to the point in giving his opinion of them.

"There are some things that will undoubtedly be changed," he said. "I believe also that the men in the game, the men wishing for the success of the game, and those others who may be inclined to assume a critical attitude, will simply accept the present rules as an experiment, and as such will get out and boost; put their shoulders behind the game, so to speak, and help make it a success.

"At the present time the game is too complicated. It also tends too much to individual play. Many of these features with the passing of time and the gaining of experience, will be improved upon. The game will become smoothier, and will generally be accepted, without complaint or resentment.

The Four Quarters.

Our here in the West there can be no doubt of the hearty disapproval of the four quartering of the game. This rule has met with ridicule and deep resentment, and therefore it sounds good to hear Mr. Camp say that he is very sure that this feature of the game will be eliminated at the meeting of the rule framers, next year, and that the game will be placed back into halves.

"Because of the complaint of the general public that players were more readily injured when they were exhausted, which is quite true, the game was divided into quarters," was the explanation of the Yale coach. "At that time we had not thought of changing the interference, of prohibiting interlocking interference—and also pushing and hauling. When we did prohibit these features of the old game, we thought some of putting the game back in the two-period basis, but really did not dare to undo anything we had done.

"There is little doubt in my mind but that the four-period play will be cut out next season. It is quite useless, for we have succeeded in reducing the concentration on the line, with the consequence that there is less chance or opportunity for exhaustion. Teams or the game should not be stopped just as they are getting well started. I don't believe that the public wants this.

"There are many things about the new game that are not practical of enforcement. If an official under the present rules is inclined to be meayunish, he could stop the play on almost every down, penalizing players for some small infraction. This is really not the idea of football, and neither does the public care for so technical an interpretation of the game. Therefore, I am free to admit that at the present time the game is a trifle too complicated.

"It will be simplified and worked out on rational lines. Coaches and players will become more familiar with it, and that will result in greater possibilities being evolved. At the present time it is a game for the veterans, and the veteran teams are going to have a great season. Minnesota should be very strong for that reason alone."

Mr. Camp stated that the cause of the unprecedented number of injuries last season was the weakening of the first defense by the drawing back of the backs, for the purpose of intercepting forward passes, and providing any rules for the lessening of the attack on the line. He also stated that though there would undoubtedly be more injuries in the open style of play, the injuries would not be as serious.

Another thing, Mr. Camp stated, was that there is the undoubted element of luck in the game the present season—an element that had not existed in her the old rules. For instance, he pointed out that the better team could be defeated this season by an inferior team, for the simple reason that it was a matter largely of luck in some of the forward passes.

But, on the whole, Mr. Camp regards the new game as a move in the right direction. He is sanguine, hopeful, for Mr. Camp is a football optimist and he believes another year will bring about many improvements.

McIlovern Great Quarter.

A great compliment was paid to two Minnesota players, Here is what Mr. Camp said:

"Pudge Hofelfinger ranks in my opinion, as the greatest of all linemen. Truxon Hare of Pennsylvania and Glass of Yale, stood next to him, for they were both great players. But I do not believe that Hofelfinger has ever had an equal as a great line player.

"McGovern ranks with the greatest quarters I have ever seen. It was not because the East produced smarter backs last year that were below the average; but, on the contrary, it was because McGovern has about everything that any quarterback has ever had, that I selected him for the All-American team.

"Stop and think of this player for a minute. He is one of the most powerful quarters that the game has ever developed. He is a fine general and a great quarterback must have his hand on every level of the machine. He is quick to diagnose the attack of the enemy and resourceful in handling a defense for he is also a great runner with the ball, one of the strongest runners I have ever seen. He is a sure tackler and one of the best kickers in the game today. What more could you want in a quarterback?"

Mr. Camp was asked if McGovern ranked with the two De Saulles boys, Daly of Harvard, Weeks of Michigan or Eckersall or Steffens of Chicago, and without hesitation replied that the Gopher back ranked with the greatest backs the game has produced since the inception of football.

Besides being general oracle of Yale athletics, head coach and general adviser, Mr. Camp is a business man of ability. He is president of the New Haven Clock company and this is the business that has brought him to the Head of the Lakes, his first visit, by the way.

Mr. Camp expects to be at Yale Friday, when he will take active charge of the coaching. He stated that Yale had rallied before, after defeat in early season, and that perhaps the Sons of Eli could again come to the championship scratch.

NAPS AND REDS HAVE EACH WON THREE GAMES.

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 18.—By winning yesterday's game, the sixth in the post-season series, by a score of 9 to 5, Cleveland is tied with Cincinnati in the contest for the baseball championship of Ohio. Each team has won three games. The seventh game to decide the championship will be played at Cincinnati today. Cincinnati used five pitchers, including Manager Griffith, in yesterday's game. Score:

BOWKER KNOCKED OUT BY "DIGGER" STANLEY.

London, Oct. 18.—"Digger" Stanley of London last night knocked out the ex-bantam champion, Joe Bowker, in the eighth round before the National Sporting club. The fight was for the bantam championship of Great Britain and a purse of $3,000.

WOMEN QUALIFY IN BROOKLINE TOURNEY.

Brookline, Mass., Oct. 18.—More than seventy of the leading women golfers of this country and Canada competed yesterday in the qualifying round of the invitation golf tournament of the Women's Golf Association of Boston at the Country club. Miss Dorothy Campbell of Hamilton, Ont., who recently successfully denfended her title as woman national champion, was among those who qualified.

Indian Had Cubs Helpless and Should Have Had a Shutout.

Baker's Three Hits Largely Responsible for Victory of Athletics.

Philadelphia, Oct. 18.—To Charles Albert Bender, the Chippewa Indian pitcher, and to Frank Baker, the third baseman, the Philadelphia team largely owes its victory yesterday. The "chief" never showed better form and Baker's valuable contribution was his hard and timely hitting. On the other hand, the American champions found Overall rather easy, and after the third inning Manager Chance was compelled to retire the star pitcher and send McIntyre into the box. The latter promptly stopped the Athletics and held them without a hit until the eighth inning, when Baker landed on one of his curves for a terrific smash to the right field wall for two bases.

Bender, who won the only game the Athletics took from the New York Nationals in the world's series in 1905, allowed the Chicago men but three hits, one in the first inning by Schulte and two in the ninth, and not one Cub reached second base until the final inning.

If it had not been for the muffing of Tinker's foul fly by Thomas in the ninth inning, the Chicagos would have been disposed of with the two hits, as the shortstop hit the next ball for a clean single and took second on Strunk's fumble.

The big Indian was as steady as a clock and appeared to be the master at every stage of the game. Besides getting only three hits, the National leaguers were able to work him for only two bases on balls and Schulte got both of these.

Overall Is Failure.

Overall, elected by Capt. Chance to win the first game, got away with the first inning, but in the sharp, tough Collins the star second baseman of the Athletics, hit a single, but he got into deep trouble in the second when the home team batted him for three hits, one a double, and also got a base on balls in this inning. In the third he was touched up for a single and a double.

Third Baseman Baker was the only man on either team to get more than one hit. He landed on the ball for two doubles and a single, scoring one run himself and sending home two others of the total of four. Lord was the only other man to hit for an extra base.

Except for a hard running catch by Sheckard of a long fly off Murphy's bat in the seventh inning and several hard stops by Baker and Barry, the fielding was not sensational.

The only base stolen was by Murphy, who reached second on a high pitched ball which Kling could not bring down in time for a throw.

The Athletics' much-discussed weakness behind the bat did not show itself, as Thomas had the ball down to second ahead of the runner each time a steal was tried. Only two attempts were made, both by Schulte.

Crowd Not Largest.

The crowd that saw the game was not the largest that ever attended a baseball game in this city. The official count of the attendance was 26,891 and the total receips $37,424.50. Of this amount the players will receive $20,209.23; the club owners $13,472.82 and the national commission $3,742.45.

The failure of a record crowd to attend was due partly to the inability of thousands to obtain reserved seat tickets, and to the fact that the police department would not permit anyone to stand in the aisles of the grand stand. The national commission had arranged to sell several thousand standing-room tickets in the big pavilion, but after eighty-eight of them had been disposed of, the police shut down on the sale.

The bleacher seats were packed and there were several thousand persons crowded behind the ropes in right and left fields.

The bleachers were filled two hours before the game began, several thousand rooters having spent most of the night at the gates of Shibe park in order to get good seats.

Outside of the grounds enterprising householders, whose homes overlooked the playing field, erected bleacher seats on the roofs and sold them at from $3 to $5 each.

The big game was late in starting, due to a long conference over ground rules, and over the question of permitting moving picture men on the field while the game was in progress. Umpire O'Day, who decided the base decisions, ordered the photographers off the field. They refused to go and appealed to Ban Johnson, president of the American league, who was in a box. Mr. Johnson summoned Connolly and told him that the moving-picture men had permission of the national commission to operate their machines. O'Day acquiesced, but Manager Chance objected to the machines being placed behind the plate.

It finally was agreed to permit the photographers to place their cameras against the grandstand behind first and third bases.

ROLLER WILL MEET LEHTO

Negotiations Practically Closed for Match Between Finn and Physician.

Negotiations were practically completed yesterday for a match in this city betwen Karl Lehto, the "Mysterious Finn," and at the present time one of the most talked of wrestlers in the entire country, and Dr. B. F. Roller, the famous Seattle wrestling physician, the man who will contest with Henry Ordemann the present season for the American championship.

It has long been the ambition of Lehto to meet the famous Pacific coast athlete, and at last the goal of his ambition is to be realized. Roller, in addition to meeting Lehto, the present season, will meet Hackenschmidt, and Ordemann. Hackenschmidt is coming to this country next month, and before challenging Gotch will endeavor to beat some of the American mat colony.

KARL LEHTO.

Friends of Lehto here and in the Copper Country, state that he is one of the very best wrestlers in the country, and is constantly growing better. The big Finn will have some very important matches here the present winter, if he shows in his match with Dr. Roller that he is the great wrestler that has been claimed for him.

Lehto is going after the best in the business, as he believes he has a chance to become one of the greatest wrestlers in the world.

Ensigns Defeat Maroons.

Last Sunday the J. D. Ensign football team of this city defeated the Maroon Juniors by the score of 15 to 2. The two Hanson boys did stellar work for the Ensigns, while Ecker did great work for the Maroons. The teams lined up as follows:

Answers Tiger's Challenge.

In reply to the challenge of the Tigers, Manager John Geistman of the Adams yesterday deposited $200 to go as a side bet, and also stated that the gate receipts could be figured in the wager, if the Tigers were willing. The only stipulation, is that the Tigers play the same men that were in the game of a week ago Sunday, when the Tigers left the field, stating that they had been robbed of the game.

COMPLAINT FROM A FOOTBALL FAN.

To the Sporting Editor of The Herald:

Am a regular attendant at the Sunday football games and while not wishing to find fault with the Adams Athlethic association, who are giving us some good games, I would like to call the attention of the management to the poor manner in which the field is kept clear during the game. It is true the playing space is wired off and spectators are supposed to keep out of the enclosure, but they don't and with one-half of the spectators inside the field, the other half who keep outside (where they all belong) have a very poor chance of seeing the game at all. Judging from the attendance, I think the management could well afford to have about four patrolmen, who could easily keep the crowd where they belong and give everyone their money's worth of football and also the players a clear field to work on. Personally, I like the game like many others, and am always there, and I also, as others, like to see it all if possible, and if this feature of the arrangements were attended to, it would improve things a lot and would help to sustain the growing interest in the Adams Athletic association, and they, as well as the public, would profit by this small expenditure, for after all, it is the patrons of the game who make it possible to have these games, and as such they are entitled to a little consideration in this respect. Think it over.

When seen late yesterday afternoon, before taking the train for Moose Lake, Mr. Clyde Kelly, the builder of conservation and buildin's, said, arms akimbo, and smiling slightly:

"I pick the Cubs to win, because it seems quite the fashion hereabouts. My reasons are profuse and copious."

That was before The Herald Extra heralded and gently wafted the news of the Cub's treeing around the angles of the town.

Mr. John Geistman, impressario in general in the cause of the Adams, is the Gen. Anthony Wayne of city football. He never sleeps. With his little pencil he has figured out by comparative scores, that the Adams will surely lick the Blaine Aumni. Let us hope that fickle figures appertainin' here to not fib fabulously.

And mentioning the outcome of the game of yesterday, it might be said that the kettle of heated dope somewhat scalded the cook.

Mr. Hugh S. Fullerton's figures on young Mr. Barry, have so far proved that geometrical prognostications fall before the warm and human, strenuous, heroic accomplishment. According to dope, Mr. Barry should have failed to hit yesterday.

Some of the Kodahpas failed to report at work yesterday.

Theodore Roosevelt has been accused of being the cause of the present mollycoddle football. This might make good material for the members of the old guard in Noo York.

NEGAUNEE OUTCLASSED.

Football Players Are Beaten By the Ishpeming Eleven.

Negaunee, Mich., Oct. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—In the third game of the interscholastic series between the Marquette, Ishpeming and Negaunee high school football teams, the locals were completely outclassed by Ishpeming Saturday afternoon on the Union Park gridiron. Score 34 to 0.

The locals lacked weight and experience, the "Hematite City" boys plowing through their line, making long gains and touchdown after touchdown.

Slugging matches were frequent during the game.

The latter part of the fourth quarter was not played owing to a dispute arising between the captains of the respective elevens. Ishpeming's captain accused Manning, center for Negaunee, of slugging and refused to play unless he was removed. As Capt. "Reddy" Rough of the locals had no substitute to fill the position the game ended.

Next Saturday Marquette and Negaunee will meet on the gridiron. These teams meet for the first time, but the local highs proved too strong for the "Queen City" aggregation, winning by a score of 5 to 0.

GAMES SCHEDULED WITH ST. CLOUD AND IRONWOOD.

Games with the St. Cloud high school and the high school of Ironwood, Mich., have been scheduled by the management of the Central high school.

The game with St. Cloud will be played the morning of Saturday, Nov. 11, the high school boys going on from there to Minneapolis, arriving in time to see the university play.

Nov. 19 Ironwood will be played at Ironwood. From reports received from the Michigan town, Ironwood has a good team. "Bennie" Nelson, a member of the team last season, will be out tomorrow afternoon, as will "Dutch" Jeronimus, who was injured in the game a week ago last Saturday.

SHORTSTOP AL TAYLOR IS LEADING HATLEY.

Al Taylor, the crack Milwaukee shortstop, billiardist, led William Hatley of Duluth by 148 points at the end of the first two games, last evening. The first 300 points were played in the afternoon, Hatley leading by 90 points, scoring 300 to Taylor's 210 points. Hatley made a high run of 46, while Taylor's best effort was 36.

In the evening Taylor reversed the situation, in twenty innings Taylor scoring 390, making a total of 600 against Hatley's 452, the Duluth man scoring but 152 points in the evening game.

The games were well played and were witnessed by a large and interested crowd. There will be a game this afternoon and one this evening.

FRANKIE BURNS WINS FROM JOE COSTER.

New York, Oct. 18.—Frankie Burns, the Jersey City bantamweight, defeated Joe Coster of Brooklyn in a ten-round bout last night.

Onlyone round was in Coster's favor—the eighth, and only one, the fourth, could be called even. At the last bell Coster was dizzy and hanging on.

Knocked Out in Second.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 18.—C. Robertson last night knocked out Arthur McLaglin of Australia in the second round of what was to have been a ten-round fight.

THE LEADER OF THE YALE TEAM

Capt. Daly is the famous head of the Yale football team. During the preliminary work he has not been very active on the field, but has stood with the four coaches watching the work of the men so as to make sure of the selection of the strongest possible eleven.

GOSSIP PICKED UP ALONG THE SPORTING HIGHWAY

The Greatest American Fan—Fletcher Still Fletcherizing—First Blood for the Athletics—Ordemann Is After Big Game—The White Czar of Baseball.

(BY BRUCE.)

"Why Smith Left Home."

The real reason has generally been assigned to feminine charms. But Milwaukee has an original and very deep-feeling Smith. You can all talk about your fans and their interest and enthusiasm for the game; but this Smith, hiding his light under a bushel, so to speak, for he ought to do big things, is the hottest fanatic that ever muttered exortations from the gaping maws of the fiery bleachers.

He is R. T. Smith of Milwaukee, and because he could not get anyone to mind the sale of "two-fers" in his cigar store, this Smith just up and sells his bloomin' store, for he must see the game at any old cost. If there were more Smiths in this broad land of ours, the game of baseball would be one long, sweet dream for the magnates.

A man by the sweet and highly romantic name of Smith wrote a song that has every element of liberty condensed in it. Maybe the Milwaukee Smith inherited some of his love of liberty from this earlier Smith. Those people of Milwaukee usually like to stay at home, having the strong German characteristics in this regard. The attendance record of the Milwaukee park will also bear out this statement.

But the R. T. Smith chap is one of the best little results of the baseball disease that has been developed for some summers. In fact, Brother Smith may be said to be a perfect result. After long years of development and constant nursing upon the part of the managers of various teams, we are getting some of the highly developed fans.

They come from all over the country. Some steal their way to the games on the "blind," while others hock all the available plate and steal away in the dead of the night to get to these great and only once-a-year contests.

But, after all the cases have been filed and the claim judgment has been passed upon their degree of intensity, the first place must be given to Smith.

He should be given a Carnegie medal. Smith has turned over a lot of old leaves for the cause of baseball—in the shape of clear Virginia leaf, etcetera. He is there, is Smith, and as an example of the fanatical fan, firm and fervent, he deserves to have his phiz done in oil and hung in the office of the national commissioners.

Some good and kind fate should hand Smith something nice, one of these dreary days.

Rumors are filling this land with their wild and varied tales of the baseball doings of next season. Each bushel dumps of it little contributions in the shape of some weird story of how this Fletcher youth, or man, is signing all the available material in sight.

Some One Kindly Tell.

From Columbus, Ohio, there comes the wire tick of how some mysterious agency is attempting to get an option on the American association park. With this story are coupled other rumors, crediting some one with attempting to secure options on other American association parks in other cities of the A. A. circuit.

Fletcher—bah—is he? He is a very energetic man, is he, and to date he has succeeded in getting a large amount of free advertising. Maybe after the noise and excitement has all blown away, Fletcher will settle down to business, exceedingly good natured in the knowledge that he is one of the best noised knaves that ever attempted to disturb the peace of the baseball regulars.

Unless something in the form of definite doings develops in the near future, there are those of us who will refuse to listen with straight and concentrated brows to this chatter of the Fletcher flier.

In response to the alluring caste in the way of a baseball call, he must come to the limpid surface of the baseball pond and answer "present" at the sincerity roll call. If Fletch—we call him that for short—is really there as strong as father's threats, he will show something in the weary winter months that are approaching, and then look for excitement in the ranks of the regulars.

For the first time since they lost the world's championship to the Comiskey White Sox, in the sad fall of 1906, the Chicago Cubs have lost a single game in the series in which they have participated for the world's highest baseball honors.

In the two series they have engaged in with the Detroit Tigers the Cubs did not lose a single game. The Tigers tied the Chance men in the first game of the first series, and after that the Cubs had it pretty much their own way.

In view of this rather remarkable fact, there will be wide speculation today as to how this rather disastrous rout in the opening game of the present series will affect the Cubs.

That the Cubs have nerve, no one who has followed the record of this wonderful team will deny. But, just the same, a defeat such as the one of yesterday cannot fail to help the cause of the Athletics. Still, the Cubs, if they are the fighters we all believe they are, may come back and win the majority of the remaining games.

History may be repeating itself in the case of Chief Bender. If you will delve into your baseball memory; if you will recall as how the Indian was the only one of the Mack pitchers to win a game from the New York Giants in the series that was played between Philadelphia and New York, back in 1905, the last year the New York Nationals won the pennant in the older major.

Overall isn't right, as many feared. How will the remainder of the Cub slabmen work? Ritchie has been going well, and he may do something in the series. But if the rest of the slab artists of the Chance stable are not in any better form than big Overall, it will be one big elation for the American league supporters.

And there will be some elation after all these lean years of sack cloth and ashes. The loud-lunged supremacy yellers will be here, and the old question of the strength of the two majors will be revived. The series promises to be so interesting that it will hurt.

Down in Minneapolis they will see some great wrestling the present season. On Oct. 25, a most auspicious occasion by the way, Henry Ordemann, the big Mill city heavyweight, the chap who is right in line for the highest honors of the mat, will clash with Charles Cutler, the former Bemidji boy, and today one of the very best heavyweights in the world.

There are three men that stand in the path of the genial Henry. They are Roller, Westegaard and Cutler. Cutler and Ordemann were matched for this city last winter, but owing to some big Eastern matches Cutler was unable to come here. This winter he will be one of the contenders for the American title, at the present time held by "Doc" Roller, who will probably be seen here in the near future in a big match with Karl Lehto, "The Mysterious Finn," and the most talked of wrestler in the West today.

Frank A. Gotch will referee the big Minneapolis match. And, talking about Gotch, the writer has it pretty straight that there will be a match the present winter between the great and only man from Humboldt, and Hackenschmidt, who is really coming to this country. Gotch will be a great attraction, so that the season in Minneapolis promises to start off with the biggest show they have held in years.

Down in Minneapolis it has been shown conclusively that wrestling is popular when kept upon a high level of fairness. Last winter crowds packed the halls at all of the matches and the present season some of the biggest men in the world will be brought to the Mill city.

Ordemann will probably meet Roller the coming winter, and he may be persuaded into a match with Lehto here. If Ordemann wins from Cutler, he will be a step nearer the throne, and the match between Henry and Roller therefore will be one of the biggest in the country.

Sailor Jack is becoming widely known over the Northwest as one of the greatest little workers in the busy wrestling bee hive. Last evening he left for Northern Minnesota, and later will go to Madison, Wis., the home of collegiate culture, to meet a man who has been especially chosen for the Duluth marine. He has other matches in sight, before he meets in a finish contest here Dick Sheppard, one of the greatest welterweights in the world today, and perhaps the fastest wrestler ever seen on a mat.

Sheppard will be the first man Jack will meet in his strenuous endeavor to wrestle his way to the top of the welterweight division. If he beats Sheppard, he will be in a position to get the best of his class. And if he beats them—well, then Miller will just have to come.

At the present time Miller is training in Minneapolis as no little man ever trained before. In his daily workouts at the Minneapolis Athletic club, he is grueling and bulling around the mat with Ordemann, Gordon and Carl Mattson, all in the high mountain neighborhood of 200 pounds, and the little man makes all of these big boys travel some.

After the little Russian gets through working out with these big three, he takes on some boys of his own boundage, and what he does to them is a shame. Miller is going after the best in the world the present winter, as his match with the great Otto Suter indicates; and if he can be persuaded to come to the Head of the Lakes and dispute the welterweight title, there will be a match that will be talked of for years.

It is rumored in American league circles that Ban Johnson has his axe nicely on edge for Jack O'Connor, the latest experiment in the way of manager agers of the St. Louis Americans. If this report be true, the days of merry Jack are probably numbered.

Ban hands out the "con" talk with Chesterfield manner and aplomb, the same being conversational jam. But he is thinking, pondering and meditating the while—and then suddenly, some day when it is the least expected, he acts.

That was so in the case of George Stallings of the Yankees. This Johnson is the white czar of baseball, not only in the American league, but also in the National league as well, as witness the backing down of the National last winter, when some of the owners tried to elect John M. Ward.

If Ban says O'Connor goes, there will probably be but faint disputing and arguing over the mandate of the fat boy. Johnson has been eminently successful with his methods, and as nothing succeeds like the old success brand, he will probably continue at the same old game of telling 'em where to alight.

MAY SHAVE MORE CLOSELY

Many Men Would Not Do Without Poslam, Which Soothes and Heals.

While the application of poslam, the new skin remedy, after shaving is one of its minor uses, such as for pimples, the complexion, etc., shavers have found it a revelation, as it does for abrasions, roughness and severe scrapings what it does in all manner of skin difficulties—heals and cures in a few hours. Poslam's great antiseptic and curative value enables it to tone up the skin as no toilet preparation possibly could. Any infection, such as barbers' itch is quickly cured, for poslam's primary work is the rapid healing of such serious skin diseases as eczema, acne, tetter, salt rheum, etc. "Poslam is the best and quickest cure that I have seen in my 25 years' experience in the barber business," says Frank J. Kammerer, Racine, Wis.

A sample of poslam (mailed free) will tell the whole story. Write for it to the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York city. Poslam is sold in two sizes (trial, 50 cents; regular jars, $2) by all druggists, particularly the Lyceum Pharmacy and W. A. Abbett's in Duluth, and the A. E. Holmberg Drug Co., in Superior.

QUININE DOESN'T CURE BAD COLDS

Tells How to Break a Severe Cold and Grippe in a Few Hours.

You will distinctly feel your cold breaking and all the Grippe symptoms leaving after taking the very first dose.

It is a positive fact that Pape's Cold Compound, taken every two hours, until three consecutive doses are taken, will end the Grippe and break up the most severe cold, either in the head, chest, back, stomach or limbs.

It promptly relieves the most miserable neuralgia pains, headache, dullness, head and nose stuffed up feverishness, sneezing, sore throat, running of the nose, mucous catarrhal discharge, soreness, stiffness and rheumatic twinges.

Pape's Cold Compound is the result of three years' research at a cost of more than fifty thousand dollars and contains no quinine, which we have conclusively demonstrated is not effective in the treatment of colds or Grippe.

Take this harmless compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine, made anywhere else in the world, which will cure your cold or end grippe misery as promptly and without any other assistance or bad after-effects as a 25-cent package of Pape's Cold Compound, which any druggist in the world can supply.

"THE WORLD AND HIS WIFE"

Evils of Gossip Theme of Strong Play at the Lyceum.

"What most people are pleased to call smoke is really dust kicked up by a lot of busybodies."

This sentence spoken by Frank Hollins, who took the part of Capt. Beaulieu of the British embassy, in Charles Frederic Nirdlinger's great play, "The World and His Wife," in which William Faversham and Miss Julie Opp appeared at the Lyceum last night, not only explains the theme of the play, but furnishes a sentiment that could many times be taken home.

"The World and His Wife" does not tell a pretty story. Gossip is the theme of the play—gossip that begins in side glances and the knowing way of lifting the eyebrows at the mention of names. Gradually it grows until the atmosphere is humming with an undercurrent of slander, so strong that it breaks down the better judgment of the victim. It does its work; breaks up a happy family, causes one death and finally drives the innocent victims into the sin of which they were innocent at first.

The play is strongly drawn. During the three acts climax follows climax in rapid succession and never does the play drag for an instant. The real climax comes at the end of the play, and the work of Mr. Faversham stands out boldly in it.

As Don Ernesto, the youthful friend of Don Julian, William Faversham appears at his best. He is easy, natural, quiet and unassuming until the end. Then he rises to the occasion with the fire and fervid characteristics of youth and claims the woman who has been wronged and driven from her own home. For his superb work at the very end of the play Mr. Faversham was forced to respond to several curtain calls at last night's performance.

The actor who made famous the "Squaw Man" is ably supported by his wife, Miss Julie Opp, who does not have to resort to hysterics for effects.

At the beginning of the play a happy family, living in the most wholesome atmosphere, is shown. Don Julian, his wife, Dona Theodora and Don Ernesto, their friend are living together at Don Julian's magnificent home at Madrid. Don Ernesto's father has at one time done Don Julian a good turn which the latter can never forget. He is trying to repay the obligation by giving the youth a home and trying in every way to make his life a happy one.

Don Julian is awaiting an appointment to a high office which has been held up on account of the gossip concerning his young friend and his wife. Don Ernesto is somewhat of an idealist and he and Dona Teodora find much innocent comfort in each other's company. They are together as much as possible with only the friendliest of feeling and love the furthest from their thoughts. A grafting office holder gets busy and soon the gossip which begins to hum at the clubs, the cafes, and the theaters and at the parties and gatherings, comes to the ears of Don Severo, a brother to Don Julian.

He tells his brother of the wagging tongues and insists that Don Ernesto be sent away. Don Julian pooh-poohs the idea.

Gradually, Julian begins to notice things that suggest, but offer no proof. His mind is in a sad state and he does not know what to think.

Alvarez, a man about town, utters Teodora's name in a cafe and openly picks a quarrel with Ernesto. This means a fight, but Julian, as the husband, wishing to himself defend his wife's name, takes the matter out of Ernesto's hands and meets Alvarez.

Teodora, thinking that it is her husband and Ernesto that are about to fight goes in all haste to Ernesto's rooms. Her one thought is of her husband and, she pleads with Ernesto to call off the duel. No sooner does she understand the situation than Julian is dragged to the room wounded. She had at first tried to conceal herself but on finding that her husband was wounded, she rushed to him. The husband condemns his wife and Ernesto rushes from the room to finish Alvarez.

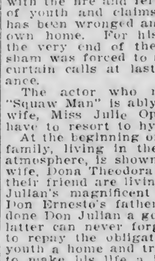

The last act finds Julian near death. Teodora forbidden to see him, and Ernesto forbidden the house. Ernesto forces his way to the house and he and Teodora are going with their story to Julian. They are held up at the door by the brother who refuses them permission to go in. Julian dies.

It is then that Faversham rises to the occasion and in a scene of tremendous intensity takes the wronged wife for his own and confesses his love for her which was born at that moment. He overwhelms their chief accuser, telling him the truth and blaming him for the death of his brother.

H. Cooper Cliffe plays the part of Don Julian in a convincing manner. L. Robert Lytton is Don Severo, the brother. Dona Mercedes, his wife, is played by Miss Mina Herbert. She knows how to meddle and gossip and kicks up her share of the rumpus. Don Pepito, their son, played by Harry Redding, gets himself thoroughly disliked as soon as he comes on, which it was intended by the author he should do, and Capt. Beaulieu of the English embassy, Frank Hollins, contributes what little fun there is in the play.

The play will be repeated at the Lyceum tonight.

MISS TEXAS GUINAN.

Texas Guinan, the bright little prima donna of "The Kissing Girl," is consluered both a magnet and a mascot—magnet because she draws the public to any attraction in which she appears; mascot, because all the musical comedies and operas she has enlivened have enjoyed a run of from 200 to 400 nights each.

The Orpheum circuit has sent out a general letter of instruction to all of its house managers as a result of Martin Beck's recent trip over the circuit. The letter prohibits the display of music covers in the orchestra on which the name of the publisher appears in large type, the singing of parodies or songs that places any nationality, creed, religious or racial characteristic in a ridiculous light, and the attempts at "song plugging."

Amy Leslie of the Chicago Daily News, in her review of "The Flirting Princess," wrote as follows: "As I said before, there are a dozen or more fetching ensembles, and the whole performance moves with a nerve and spirit that tingle the nerves and sweep you laughing on with it. That is the reason why "The Flirting Princess" played to a big and enthusiastic audience for 340 nights in Chicago, and will play to the same kind of audiences wherever it goes. It will be the attraction at the Lyceum on Oct. 23 and 24, next Sunday and Monday.

"I save $364 a year by not giving tips. In ten years I save $3,640, and the simple interest in the yearly saving alone amounts to $21.84, while the compound interest for the whole period would bring my entire savings up to $5,000; save your tips and start a new bank account," urges "Marveolus Griffith," the lightning calculator at the Orpheum. Griffith does not believe in tipping; never gives a tip, and says he never will. He comes from a farming community in Northern Indiana, and the customs of big cities come in for a severe grilling at his hands. He needed very little urging to express himself on the "tip" question yesterday.

"I can't see the sense in giving a barber, whom you pay 15 cents for a shave, an extra 10 cents just because he did his work well," said Griffith. "Why should it be necessary for you to give a waiter from 15 cents to a quarter extra because he put himself in your way whenever he got a chance or stood and watched you chew your food? It is the principle of the thing that arouses me.

"When you buy a ticket at the railway station and the fare is $9.80, you throw down a $10 bill, but you don't tell the ticket agent to keep the change, do you? And when the brakeman passes through the car calling the stations, why don't you give him 10 or 15 cents for doing what the railroad company pays him to do.

"And when your bill of groceries comes to $4.95, why don't you let the faithful clerk, who has picked out the best edibles for you, keep the change? No, you will wait ten minutes for the nickel. They tell me that there are cafes in St. Louis where the waiters pay for the privilege of their jobs; where supposably 'free' hat racks and cloakrooms will earn $3,000 a year."

The Orpheum and Lyric theaters, the popular moving picture houses, are attracting big crowds this week and the good programs merit the patronage. At the Lyric, "More Than His Duty," is the feature film and the other films, comic and historical, are also good. Fred Merrill is singing, "The Kiss of Spring." "The Chink at Golden Gulch," is being featured at the Orpheum. "The Sage, the Cherub and the Widow," and "For Her Country's Sake," are other films on the Orpheum bill.

RAIN

The weather man was only having his little joke when he made that rain prediction yesterday. There wasn't any rain last night in the beautiful autumn sky in which was set about as fine a moon as anyone would want to gaze upon. The summery weather continues. The sky is clear and the sun bright today, but the weather man says with strident tone, "probably showers."

Cool, cloudy weather prevailed a year ago today and snow was predicted.

The sun rose this morning at 6:30 and it will set at 5:16, giving ten hours and forty-six minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The West India hurricane has apparently increased in intensity and has begun to move northward. During the last twenty-four hours high winds and rain occurred in that section and Florida. The Red River valley disturbance has moved its center southward to Nebraska. Rains have resulted in the Dakotas, Montana, Wyoming, Utah Nevada, Idaho, Oregon, Washington, British Columbia and Alberta, besides somewhat warmer weather throughout the Lake region. Rising pressures over the Northwest are attended by lower temperatures from Saskatchewan and Montana westward to the North Pacific coast. The barometer is high over extreme Northwestern Canada and North Atlantic districts. The easterly movement of the low pressure area now over Nebraska, will probably be attended by more or less rain at the Head of the Lakes during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, Oct. 18.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Wednesday:

Upper Michigan—Showers tonight or Wednesday; cooler.

Wisconsin—Partly cloudy with local showers tonight or Wednesday; cooler Wednesday.

Minnesota and Iowa—Local showers tonight or Wednesday; cooler.

North Dakota—Showers tonight or Wednesday; cooler tonight.

South Dakota—Showers tonight or Wednesday; cooler tonight and in east portion Wednesday.

Montana—Partly cloudy tonight and Wednesday; cooler tonight.

Upper lakes—Moderate south winds shifting to northwest on Superior tonight, on Michigan Wednesday, and on Huron by Wednesday night, increasing and probably becoming high; unsettled with showers tonight or Wednesday.

Alfred Aspinwall Tobin, K. C., Unionist member of parliament, and Huntly Eugene Jenkins.

Try Typist Later.

Ethel Clare Leneve, the doctor's typist, who has been indicted as an accessory after the fact, was not in court today. Her trial will follow in the event of Crippen's conviction.

The American witness, Bruce Miller of Chicago, and his wife, were recognized when they appeared in a cab and were followed to the doors of the building. When Crippen was attempting to explain the disappearance of his wife to Inspector Dew of Scotland Yard, he said that he thought she had gone to join Mr. Miller in the United States.

Crippen entered the dock wearing a black frock coat and light trousers, and escorted by two policemen. It was well on toward noon when Lord Chief Justice Alverstone took his place on the bench. From that moment the proceedings moved quickly. The indictment was read at once and Crippen, standing, replied to the usual questions and pleaded "not guilty, my lord."

Three Jurors Replaced.

Mr. Tobin, for the defense, objected to three of the jurors who had been summoned, and these stood aside, being replaced by as many more, who were not challenged.

Counsel Muir concluded a speech of two hours' duration by stating that up to the present moment Crippen had given no explanation of his flight to America. The taking of testimony was then begun.

dicians who attended the meeting and have heard the general comment on the speech.

Jaques men say their candidate will easily carry the county, and Miller adherents reluctantly admit that they cannot do better than split even on the county.

Riddled Miller's Record.

In his speech Judge Jaques took up Congressman Miller's records as to Cannon and Cannonism. He told of the solemn pledges Miller made repeatedly and with eloquent vehemence two years ago, and of how the people of the district believed Miller was sincere. Then he told of Mr. Miller's first official act at Washington.

"That was an act to perpetuate a condition of affairs in congress which he had so lately and so wrathfully denounced among the people of this district," said Judge Jaques. "He voted for Cannon, and for the rules which made Cannon the force for evil that he is and has been. That act was in direct conflict with his promise to these people in the people whose voice he said should be heard.

"The voice of the people was heard, and it is for that reason that the voters of this district are sorely displeased with their present representative in congress. They insist that the voice of the people shall be obeyed, and they have the right to insist upon that.

"If I am sent to congress as the representative of this Eighth congressional district, I will represent it!"

Judge Jaques held the attention of the audience from start to finish and when he had concluded his remarks he was warmly complimented by many of his hearers, who assured him that he could expect a very good vote in Anoka and Anoka county.

Forgets to Come Back and Is Being Sought After.

Napoleon, N. D., Oct. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Pat Nugent, sent by the jailor of the Logan county jail to secure a pail of coal forgot to come back. Nugent was charged with violating the prohibition law and was regarded as a trusty about the jail. When H. Telchow was starting a fire in the jail stove he sent Nugent into the coal shed to secure a pail of coal and that was the last that has been seen of him. Nugent has been previously convicted of blind-pigging and if recaptured and convicted will have to spend a term in the state penitentiary.

BRUSH FIRES AT IRONTON

Blaze Is Causing Considerable Alarm Among the Residents.

Brush fires, which have been raging all day in the vicinity of Ironton, are causing considerable alarm among the residents of that section. The fires started at the bottom of the hillside Sunday night, but until today, have only been smouldering in spots.

This morning, a breeze, fanned the blaze into a brisk fire and late this afternoon the flames had crept almost up to the residence of Robert Y. Dunn, 7109 Sherburne street. It was rumored that a farmhouse had been burned in this vicinity, but Mrs. Dunn, said that this report was unfounded.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon, the blaze had not reached the new Canadian Northern right-of-way, where a large crew of men are employed in grading the roadbed for the new line. Preparations were being made to back fire a long stretch in that vicinity to prevent the flames from crossing the right-of-way.

Practically all of the houses at Ironton are above the right-of-way and if the men who are employed in the Canadian Northern camps in that vicinity succeed in keeping the flames confined to the hillside it is not thought that any property will be destroyed.

However, four or five residences are now in danger as well as three or four buildings, which the Canadian Northern has erected at Ironton for the construction crews. As yet the fire has not spread west far enough to be dangerous to the old iron works at Ironton and the old plant is reported to be safe from the flames.

In West Duluth, the entire hillside in the vicinity of Fairmont park seems to be ablaze, but in reality the fires are confined to a stretch of about six blocks along the hillside. Not until this afternoon did the blaze reach the top of the hill.

BEGIN WORK ON CULVERTS

Thompson & Stewart, Duluth contractors, are busy this week putting up large camps on Howard street and Ninety-fifth avenue west. The firm has the contract for the concrete culverts for the Canadian Northern railroad and will soon have its part of the work in full swing.

The grading of the new line has been advanced as far as Fairmont park within the past few days, and residents of West Duluth, who have been fearing that the right-of-way would disfigure the beauty of the park, have had their minds set at rest.

The line cuts through the park in one corner and in an inconspicuous place. The creek will be crossed with a high bridge, and the timbers for the bridge are now being hauled to the scene of operations.

A temporary track has been laid for hauling the bridge materials, and everything is about ready for its construction. Contractors who have the work in charge say that before winter sets in the portion of the line in this vicinity will be completed with the rails laid.

It is said that the vacation of the right-of-way through West Duluth by former home-owners will start a mild building boom this fall and next spring. Many people who were forced to give up their homes to the railroad are now making plans for building new houses in another section of the suburb.

At the present time Oneota is growing faster than any other section of West Duluth.

IRVING GRADE SCHOOL HAS FOOTBALL TEAM.

The Irving grade school football team has just organized and is seeking amateur gridiron honors. It has just issued a challenge to any eighth grade team in Duluth and announces its lineup as follows: Rowe, center; Wade, quarterback; Callahan and Wilcox, guards; Peterson and Shrantz, tackles; Norberg, right end; Stahl and Deckins, halfbacks; and Deloyia, fullback.

NEW BUILDINGS FOR IMPERIAL IRON WORKS.

The request of the Imperial Iron works that Fifty-second avenue west and Fifty-second alley be vacated for about a block so as to permit of extensive improvements at the plant, was granted last evening at the council meeting.

The company has plans for a big foundry as an addition of its plant. Several other smaller buildings will also be erected.

WORK BEGINS ON NEW TEMPLE.

Work has commenced on the new $16,000 temple of the Proctor Odd Fellows, which will be erected on the East side of the suburb at the corner of Second and Main streets.

The building will have a fifty-foot frontage, will run 150 feet deep and will be a two-story affair of brick and stone construction.

An auditorium with a seating capacity of about 700 will occupy the first story and the upper floor will be given over to lodge rooms. It is to be completed by Feb. 1.

CLAIMS HIS HORSE WAS STOLEN.

Are horse thieves at work at Smithville?

Yesterday Oscar Salmo, living at 6118 Waseca street, West Duluth, reported to the police that his horse had been stolen from him, and asked that they made an investigation.

He claimed that he had left it tied while in front of a store at Smithville and that when he came out to drive back to West Duluth, the animal was missing.

The horse is a bay colored animal, weighs about 900 pounds and is described as having a white spot on its hip.

Beneath Your Fat a Graceful Figure Dwells

Hereditary, natural tendency, inaction, high living, an inability of the system to dispose of fatty foods are responsible for the pads and rolls of fat which gather on chest, hips, waist, chin, cheeks, and neck, covering up distorting the lithe, graceful figure beneath. To remove or prevent these unwelcome deposits—control their quantity and location without paying the price of violent exercise, dieting, self-denials or impairment of health; in short, to find one's own slim self beneath the fatty sheath—has been made possible by a noted physician, whose Marmola Prescription helped thousands of over-fat men and women to reduce safely and surely from 10 to 16 ounces per day, until the natural health of the system is restored and slimness results. Marmola Prescription Tablets, then we form of this great remedy, each contain an exact dose of the famous Marmola Prescription. Like the original prescription, they are absolutely sure and harmless. Nearly every druggist keeps these wonderful little tablets, or they may be secured direct by mail from the Marmola Co., 491 Monroe Av., Detroit, Mich. 75c for a large case is the uniform price.

SHORTS BUY ON DECLINE

Wheat Bumps Into Hard Place After Quick Break.

Stop-Loss Orders and Argentine News Contribute to Weakness.

Duluth Board of Trade, Oct. 18.—Wheat hit a bunch of stop-loss orders, was subjected to heavy selling pressure by bears, responded to reports from Argentina that rains were more widespread than first indicated, and then rebounded like a rubber ball from a stone wall in an active and interesting session today. On the soft spot shorts covered heavily and the market reacted quickly. On the advance there was some speculative buying by folk who thought the rapidity of the upturn indicated that the bottom has been reached.

The wheat market opened with a net decline, notwithstanding the reaction at the close, December and May lost 1⅛c. Durum declined ⅛c; cash wheat was on a parity with December; oats gained ⅛c and rye and barley were unchanged.

Flax was higher. The demand was insistent and offerings were not liberal. October gained 3c; November, 2c; December, 2⅜c and May 2c. Cash flax was 1c higher than at Minneapolis and was on a parity with Duluth October.

Today's wheat market was erratic and unstable. Cables were lower and values on this side opened weak despite the decrease in the European visible supply. Bradstreet's report on the world's visible showed an increase of 4,092,000 bu. The foreigners' markets were not influenced to any great extent by the smaller supplies abroad as Argentine news was favorable. Offers from this side met with no response abroad, indicating that the foreigner was not uneasy.

Shorts began to accept profits in the early hour and values firmed. On the hard spot the bears jumped on the market with both feet and jammed values down to a point where stop-loss orders were encountered. This class of selling which found a fruitful source in the country contributed to the demoralization of prices. On the decline, before new shorts again began to cover and values rallied a small fraction. The market took a breathing spell and prices held steady at a level sharply under yesterday's close.

Receipts in the Northwest are extremely small and the bulls made mental capital out of the small increase in wheat here in the last two days, but the said nothing to do with the trend of values. On the decline the country offerings dried up. Offers were fairly liberal yesterday, but today they were extremely small. The professionals seemed to be hammering the market to run in the country longs and that they succeeded in a measure was indicated by the sharp drop in values when the lowest levels in several months were reached. The market frequently took on an oversold appearance and gave indications of a decline to rally, yet on every slight advance the market was subjected to renewed pressure.

The outlook is for heavy shipments of spring wheat from this market in the near future. In the late season grain tends to go to Buffalo for storage and it is said that about 500,000 bu will leave here in the immediate future to be stored in bottoms there. That amount, also, has already gone. Chicago and Milwaukee have shipped considerable winter wheat for storage in bottoms at the other end of the lakes. What effect this outgo of spring wheat will have on values is problematical. The removal of so much wheat from the show windows in Duluth ought to have a bullish effect but the same wheat will be recorded as afloat at Buffalo and the presence will continue to be bearish until it is converted into a manufactured product.

It 200,000,000 bu of wheat are available for export from this country in the next nine months and this country does not get on an export basis the trade may face a big carryover next July. European buyers appear confident and the situation in Argentine does not now show promise of a disaster or a situation sufficiently reduced to instigate buying of American wheat by the foreigner.

About the only hope for higher prices lies in stronger cash market. There is a big short interest present and this tends to make the technical position of the market stronger than appears on the surface. So long as cash markets are weak speculative purchasers have very little confidence in values. Receipts are fairly heavy everywhere except in this market but the receipts here are overbalanced by the absence of an Eastern milling and an export demand. Mills have had their fill of wheat and the decline has hurt flour business which was not in a flourishing condition before the present slump.

Foreign Conditions.

The chief news of interest from foreign countries is coming from the wheat growing regions of the southern hemisphere, especially Argentina, India and Australia. The winter and spring harvests of these countries help to supply Europe with food and are of especial significance this year when the countries of the northern hemisphere generally report reduced crops.

The Australian crop is showing excellent promise and the present outlook, according to the federal government, is for a full yield. Rains have relieved the prolonged drouth in the northern part of Argentina, although there is no doubt that the stamina of the wheat plant has been weakened by the dry weather. In the central and southern parts of the republic moisture has been abundant and all crops are reported to be in good condition. Seeding is practically completed in British India under favorable circumstances. The acreage is said to be slightly larger than last year. Some wheat is above ground and it appears to be in good condition.

According to the federal government, the total wheat yield of Europe last year was 1,570,000,000 bu, exceeding the previous high record in 1906 by 160,000,000 bu. Notwithstanding the heavy yields in the Danubian and the Balkan states the total European yield this year has fallen between eighty and one hundred million bu below last year's yield. The reduction is due chiefly to the disastrous year in France and decreased production in Russia, although some people claim that the Russian crop is larger than generally believed.

Official yields from territory, which produced 81 per cent of the European wheat crop, follow in bushels: Russia, 660,000,000 in 1910; 711,000,000 in 1909; France, 268,000,000 in 1910; 356,000,000 in 1909; Hungary, 185,000,000 in 1910, 113,000,000 in 1909; Italy, 153,000,000 in 1910, 183,000,000 in 1909; Spain, 137,000,000 in 1910, 144,000,000 in 1909; Roumania, 106,000,000 in 1910, 57,000,000 in 1909; Bulgaria, 57,000,000 in 1910, 37,000,000 in 1909. Total, $1,506,000,000 in 1910, 1,601,000,000 in 1909.

The Flax Market.

Country offerings in flax are more liberal as the crushers at Minneapolis have wiped out the premium there. Crushers have been taking everything offered in this market. Buying has been general among Eastern crushers and a Milwaukee crusher bought flax here yesterday. Farmers appear to have set a minimum price of $2.50 a bu for flax in the country. Most of the flaxseed is raised in districts from which freight and other charges make the price about $2.65 in this market for flax that brings the farmer $2.50 in the country.

Light receipts may be ascribed to several reasons. The flax crop is exceedingly late, but it is maturing under favorable conditions. Temperatures in the northwestern states are mild and conditions are ideal. Farmers are preparing to harvest and thrash flax in Western North Dakota and Eastern Montana that thirty days ago did not give promise of anything but a failure. Farmers have practically completed their fall work and find the flax market comparatively stable and their plant improving on account of recent light moisture, warm weather and absence of frosts. Considerable flax is from thirty to sixty days late. Every field of flax that shows a yield even of 1 bu an acre will be thrashed as prices are profitable.

Receipts at country stations have been in driblets, but advices from the interior indicate that marketings will be larger if flax prices do not decline. The farmer thinks he has the whip hand and intends to use his advantage. Farmers have been selling small lots to arrive, and in many instances they have put their stuff in country elevators and received their storage tickets. When crowded for space some elevators have sold this cash flax and bought the option. When the farmer sells the option will be closed out.

Eastern crushers are getting old crop Argentine and Indian seed to arrive on a basis of one, two or three months' delivery which tends to reduce to the ultimate demand on this market. Old crop seed from abroad is on a stiffer basis, but it can be bought for around 6c to 10c cheaper than Duluth seed on a basis of New York delivery. A short time ago the discrepancy was so great as 20c in favor of the foreign seed. Linseed oil is offered by Europe at seaboard, this country, at from 6c to 7c under prices of domestic crushers.

Broomhall cabled: "Market at the opening was affected by weakness in American cables yesterday and the pressure on Manitoba spot. Further pressure was given as a result of the continued rains in Argentine, reaching northward and favorable crop advices from there. The Buenos Ayres future market was heavy and generally lower. Foreign crop conditions are generally favorable. Following the opening the market showed unexpected dullness with shorts nervous and offerings lighter, and prices advanced ⅝d. The advance was attributed to good buying reported for American account. Cargo offerings were light and a fairly good demand was reported from the continent and the visible showed a decrease of 244,000 bu against an increase last week of 9,972,000 bu. Corn was heavy and ⅝d to ½d lower. The decline was due to realizing on the weaker American cables and the cheaper Plate offers."

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Starts Weak and Lower But Advances.

Chicago, Oct. 18.—In spite of a decrease in the European visible supply there was a bearish turn to the market early today. The world's visible supply showed a large increase. A lessening of the amount of wheat in sight across the Atlantic was large when compared with the increase shown last week. At first, however, the tone of trading was weak, because of continued rains in Argentina and on account of reports that firmness at Liverpool was due to purchases by an American house. Some of the local interests appeared, notwithstanding, to be inclined to work for a rally and were soon successful. The opening was unchanged to ½c lower, with December ranging at 93⅞@94c and May at 93⅜@94c. After selling at 93¾@93⅞c, the market advanced to 94⅛@.

Reports that Argentina rains exceeded all expectations switched pit traders to the bear side and there was a sharp decline. Denials that the heavy rains were general led to a recovery. The close was firm with December at 93¾@94c, a net loss of a shade.

Improved demand for corn caused a rally. December started a shade higher to ⅛@¼c off at 45⅞@46⅛c, and rose to 46⅜c.

The market fell later with wheat. The close, however, for the same reason was firm, with December at 46½c, a net gain of ⅜@½c.

Considerable commission selling made oats relatively weak. December opened a shade to ⅛@⅜c down at 29¾@30c, but reacted to 30⅛c.

In consequence of the hog run West being materially short of that of a year ago, provisions gained some strength. First sales were a shade to 5c up with January at $17.50 for pork, $10.62½ for lard, and $9.37½ for ribs.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 18.—Wheat prices suffered a severe break early today. The opening was easy, this was followed by an advance of ½. From this ealy high point there was a break of 2⅛. The market became oversold and a reaction resulted. December closed 1c lower than yesterday and May 1½c lower. Local elevator stocks increased 500,000 bu for three days. Minneapolis today received 501 cars of wheat against 338 a year ago; Duluth, 79 against 577. December opened $1.04⅛; high, $1.04½; low, ; closed, $1.03½. May opened $1.05¾; high, $1.08⅝; low, $1.06⅝; closed, $1.07⅝.

Cash wheat offerings were heavy again today and in excess of the demand. Elevators continued leading buyers. Mills bought only few cars of choice spring grades. No. 1 northern sold for 1@1½c above December. Closing cash prices: No. 1 hard, $1.05¾; No. 1 northern, $1.04½@1.05; to arrive, $1.04½@1.05; No. 2 northern, $1.00½@1.03; to arrive, $1.00¾@1.03; No. 3 wheat, 99½@$1.01½; No. 3 yellow corn, 48@38½c; No. 3 white oats, 29@30c; No. 2 rye, 71½@72½c.

Millstuffs—Shipments, 2,583 tons. Market held steady. Prices firm, at Monday's decline. Demand slow. Bran in 100-pound sacks, $18.00@18.50.

Flour—Prices were lowered today on account of the sharp break in wheat. Demand showed no improvement. Shipments were heavy. Shipments, 74,083 barrels. First patents, in wood, f. o. b. Minneapolis, $5.00@5.20; second patents, $4.20@5.00; first clears, $3.40@3.60; second clears, $2.10@2.40.

Flax—Receipts, 74 cars; year ago, 64; shipments, 4. Demand good for both spot and to arrive at even Duluth October price. Closing price, $2.65.

Barley—Receipts, 88 cars; year ago, 83; shipments, 60. Slightly easier tone ruled. Offerings liberal. Demand fairly good for both feeding and malting grades at prices unchanged to 1c lower. Closing range, 60@71c.

Commercial bills, $4.82¼@4.82½. Bar silver, 56⅛; Mexican dollars, 45c. Government cends, strong; railroad bonds, easy.

Cotton Market.

New York, Oct. 18.—Cotton opened steady at an advance of five points to a decline of three points, October being relatively firm on reports from Liverpool that the South was offering less freely while later months reflected a renewal of bear pressure, or scattering liquidation and were soon five to nine points net lower. Some believed that the West Indian storm was heading too much to the east from the south of Florida to actually threaten the interior of the Atlantic states, but the weather was at least uncertain and in connection with the ending of the strike and the practical settlement of the bill of lading controversy inspired a good deal of buying, as a result of which the market during the middle of the morning rallied to about the closing figures of yesterday.

Futures closed barely steady; closing bids: October, 14.30; November, 14.10; December, 14.27; January, 14.30; February, 14.37; March, 14.41; April, 14.47; May, 14.50; June, 14.48; July, 14.50. Spot closed quiet, 35 points decline; middling uplands, 14.45; middling gulf, 14.70; sales, 613 bales.

STOCKS ARE IRREGULAR

United States Steel Pushed Up Aggressively to Higher Figures.

Whole List Given a Firmer Tone in the Last Hour.

New York, Oct. 18.—Stocks were pressed for sale in large volume to realize profits with the opening of the stock market today. Prices of the leading issues receded before these heavy offerings, but there were sharp advances in some of the less prominent stocks. Southern Pacific declined 1 and Union Pacific, Great Northern preferred Reading, United States Steel and Amalgamated Copper large fractions. Canadian Pacific rose 1¾, the Texas company 1¾ and National Lead 1.

A good deal of stock was put out and St. Paul, Missouri Pacific and several other stocks lost a point before the market steadied. The rebound restored prices pretty fully to yesterday's closing and there were a few stocks which showed strength. Canadian Pacific rose 3⅜.

The burden of profit-taking sales plainly outweighed the new demand. The action of the market reflected none of the immediate news. United States Steel was advanced aggressively to 77 but met such a flood of offerings that it was forced back. The whole list yielded again in sympathy. Chesapeake & Ohio, Northwestern, Amalgamated Copper and Colorado Fuel lost 1, and St. Joseph and Grand Island first preferred 3. New York Central, Colorado & Southern and American Steel Foundries rose 1. The tone was steady and dull at noon. Bonds were easy.

The market closed irregular. The marking up of United States Steel, Reading and Union Pacific to a substantial fraction over last night's closing gave the whole list a firmer tone in the last hour. Those stocks rose to the highest of the day.

BOATS OFFERED FOR STORAGE

With boats in strong competition at this early date for grain cargoes for winter storage at Buffalo, there are very few cargoes in sight. Boats are being freely offered, but there is only a light chartering at the present time. The present rate is 2 cents for winter storage with but a small amount of business in sight.

From Fort William and also from Chicago there is a fairly large amount of spring wheat going down the lakes for winter storage at Buffalo.

The unusually large corn movement to Chicago, demanding elevator room at that terminal is one of the reasons for the movement of grain down the lakes for winter storage. The movement from Chicago has been fairly steady and no doubt many shippers have taken advantage of the present low rate.

Here, there is but little activity either in the wheat movement or the winter storage business. There has been about 500,000 bushels sent down the lakes lately for winter storage, and it is probable that other shippers will take advantage of the rates; yet, right at

BUSINESS CHANCES.

BUSINESS CHANCES—AN IMPORTant revision of the Chicago division of the "Soo" Line in Clark county, Wisconsin, between Owen and Spencer has made it necessary to lay out two new townsites, which will be named Atwood and Osborn. Both are splendidly located in well developed rich farming country with ample territory to insure prosperous towns. The opening sale of lots in these towns will occur on the sites on Wednesday, Oct. 26th, as follows:
Atwood, at 11:00 A. M.
Osborn, at 3:00 P. M.
Terms of sale are either all cash; one-half cash and the balance on or before one year, or one-third cash, one-third on or before six months and one-third on or before one year, interest at 7 per cent. The sales will be conducted by the Townsite Agent of the "Soo" Line. No reservations will be made, and all persons will be given an equal chance. The important fact that these towns will be upon the main line of the "Soo" system from Chicago to "Twin Cities," Duluth, Superior, Pacific coast and Canadian Northwest, and surrounded by a rich farming country with splendid market advantages makes them especially attractive for those desiring a location for any kind of business adapted to that territory. Attend these opening sales and secure choice of locations. For information apply to W. H. Killen, land commissioner, "Soo" Line, Minneapolis, Minn.

FOR SALE—SMALL GROCERY AND confectionery store with four living rooms, all conveniences. Rent, $20 per month. Inquire at 2821 West Third street.

SAYS EMANCIPATION OF THE NEGROES WAS "A DIRE DISASTER"

Episcopalian Clergyman Makes Statement in Address at Convention.

Racial Missionary District Proposal Is Voted Down.

Six Bishops to Be Named By the Church During the Sessions.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 19.—"The emancipation of the negroes was a dire disaster, as the negro at that very time was in need of all the teachings and help that could be given him by his white brother. They lost all of this, and the church has forty-five years of misguidance to undo."

This was the declaration of Rev. Joseph Dunn of the diocese of Southern Virginia in the Episcopal convention here, in a speech opposing the proposed amendment to the church constitution for the establishment of missionary districts along racial lines. The proposition was voted down decisively by the house of deputies. In

LAST BOAT STARTS FOR WHITE HORSE

Hundreds of Passengers Are Headed Up Alaskan River.

Dawson, Oct. 19.—The steamer La France, the last river boat of the year to sail from Dawson for White Horse, got away last night, crowded with hundreds of passengers. All freight for way points will be refused, as the boat has a race against ice. Pelly and Stewart rivers are thick with ice, and large floes are running past Dawson.

The first mail stage from Dawson to White Horse this season started yesterday.

BAY STATE DEMOCRATS' CHOICE FOR GOVERNOR

EUGENE N. FOSS.

FOSS IS THE NOMINEE

Mansfield Withdraws From Bay State Democratic Ticket.

Yields Candidacy After Declaring He Would Fight It Out.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 19.—Through the withdrawal today of Frederick W. Mansfield, who was named by the recent Democratic state convention as a "stop gap" candidate for governor, Congressman Eugene N. Foss became the only Democratic gubernatorial candidate. The state ticket will be as follows:

Governor, Eugene N. Foss of Boston; lieutenant governor, Thomas F. Cassidy, North Adams; secretary of state, Charles J. Martell, Boston; treasurer, Benjamin F. Peach, Lynn; auditor, Charles F. Payne, Barnstable; attorney-general, John Rattigan, Worcester.

The deadlock was broken by the formal withdrawal yesterday of Charles H. Hamlin as a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination and within a few hours the committee of four appointed by the convention had voted unanimously for Mr. Foss.

Mansfield fought Mr. Foss on the primary stump and had repeatedly declared since the convention that he would not withdraw in favor of Mr. Foss.

Mr. Foss is an old campaigner, although a comparatively recent convert to Democracy. He ran unsuccessfully as a Republican in two congressional campaigns, and was beaten last year for the lieutenant governorship as a Democrat by less than 8,000 votes. Last spring he won a notable congressional election in the Fourteenth congressional district, which had been strongly Republican since its inception. Mr. Foss is the head of a large manufacturing industry just outside this city.

MAY CROSS OCEAN YET

Wellman's Engineer Says He Believes Flight Is Possible.

Plans Considered for Second Attempt---Had Thrilling Experience.

New York, Oct. 19. — Walter Wellman and the members of his ill-fated trans-Atlantic expedition in the dirigible America, who were rescued from impending death at sea, 360 miles east of Cape Hatteras, yesterday, believe that a voyage in an airship across the Atlantic may be yet accomplished. The Wellman party are aboard the steamer Trent, whose timely arrival proved the salvation of the adventurers. A heavy fog held back the Trent this morning, and at 9 o'clock she was about twenty miles east of Sandy Hook, proceeding slowly. The Trent will dock this afternoon.

While the object of Wellman's venturesome trip was not accomplished, he succeeded in creating a new world's record for dirigibles, being seventy-two hours in the air and covering, according to Wellman, a thousand miles over rough seas.

Sailed Nearly 1,000 Miles.

Aeronauts pointed out today that the America nearly described a circle in

EX-MAYOR FILES FOR FIRST PAPERS

A. J. Scott of Hancock Finds He Is Not a Citizen.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 19.—An Evening Wisconsin special from Hancock, Mich., says:

A. J. Scott, president of the village and subsequently mayor for seven years when Hancock became a city; supervisor of Hancock township for thirty-six years, before the city of Hancock was separated from it, and prominent in other official life and in business and fraternal circles in Hancock for many years, has just discovered that he is not a citizen of the United States and has just made application for naturalization.

It is probably the most remarkable application for citizenship ever made in Houghton county. Mr. Scott discovered only a day or two ago that he was not a citizen, his previous belief that he was being based on the fact that he had served in the Civil war, which he thought naturalized him.

Born In Canada.

Mr. Scott was born in Canada in 1848, and moved to Ohio with his parents in 1849. He enlisted in Company D of the Fifty-second Wisconsin regiment on March 10, 1864, and served till the close of the war, coming to Hancock that year, 1865. He was Hancock's first executive and probably would be at the head of municipal affairs yet were it not for physical infirmities which have almost disabled him in recent years.

MONEY MAY DECIDE IT

Patriots Fear Ohio Senatorship Will Go to Highest Bidder.

May Be Fight Between Boss Cox and John R. McLean.

By Willis J. Abbot.

(Copyright, 1910, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

Toledo, Ohio, Oct. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—You will find in Ohio, in talking with the more patriotic class of politicians or observers of politics in either party, and particularly in talking with independents, an apprehension that the senatorship, whatever the political complexion of the legislature, will be disposed of to the highest bidder. Here are two remarks on the subject made to me in the state capitol within two days:

Money Put Above Ability.

From a Republican: "The dominant rule of Mark Hanna put an end to the development of really big men in the Republican party in Ohio. Hanna taught the politicians that any man, however slight his qualifications, could be elected to high office if he had the money to put up. This is the feeling now, and the question of personal ability is little considered. Of course, that has driven out of public life precisely the sort of men who should be in it—

LEECH LAKE IS SWEPT BY STORM

Two Launches Sent to Bottom and Much Damage to Dock Property.

Walker, Minn., Oct. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—A blinding rain, driven by a wind blowing at the rate of fifty miles an hour, is putting out all forest fires in this vicinity. The men who have been fighting flames for the past three days have turned their attention to saving gasoline launches, row boats and other property on Leech lake.

Two launches, one a forty-foot passenger boat, the Alert, and one an eighteen-foot pleasure launch owned by Dr. Wilcox, have gone to the bottom in the storm which is blowing from the north directly toward the Walker shore.

The storm is the worst of the year and the village dock recently finished at considerable expense is receiving considerable damage. The rain has come as a great relief to Walker and Cass county residents notwithstanding its severity and though many settlers were driven from their homes by the smoke and flames no lives have been lost, owing to gallant fire fighters' work.

Credit Men In Session.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 19.—The National Association of Creditmen met in annual convention here today for a two days' session. The convention was called to order by President F. H. McAdow of Chicago.

SNOW STORM PREDICTED

Cold Snap Follows Duluth's Beautiful Indian Summer Weather.

Brisk Gale Brings a Sudden Drop in the Temperature.

A driving rain early last evening followed by a gale that whistled through the trees and around the corners all night, only to greet with its maximum strength the thousands emerging from their homes this morning and a drop in temperature from 78 deg. yesterday to 43 deg. at 7 o'clock this morning made Duluth's spell of beautiful weather seem like a dream that had vanished.

But that isn't the worst. Even though low shoes, "knee lengths" and other articles of cool summer apparel have been hastily relegated to dark corners and many have "put 'em on" and have brought long neglected overcoats into use, the worst has not yet come.

More rain tonight, turning into snow, is the prediction of the weather bureau

HEPBURN LAW IN SUPREME COURT

Carmack Amendment Is Being Attacked By the Railroads.

Washington, Oct. 19.—The validity of the so-called "Carmack amendment" to the Hepburn rate law of 1904 was today before the supreme court of the United States for argument. This amendment makes the initial carrier of interstate commerce liable for damages occurring in transportation not only on its own lines, but on connecting lines. The contest is probably the greatest of all of the legal controversies which have arisen out of the passage of the Hepburn rate law.

Attacking the constitutionality of the law at this time are the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad company and the Louisville & Nashville Railroad company. In addition to those claiming damages for shipments over these roads, Attorney General Wickersham of the department of justice has come forth to defend the constitutionality of the law. Briefs have been filed in the cases and the matter set down for oral argument today.

Railroad Has Two Claims.

From two primary points of view the railroads attack the law. They claim that the requirement that the initial carrier shall issue a receipt, or bill of lading, for the property to be transported, and be liable for any loss throughout the transportation, compels one railroad company to be responsible for another company's errors. The other point is that the proviso declaring that no contract shall exempt the initial carrier from this liability for loss on the connecting carrier, destroys, or interferes with, liberty of contracts.

The answer of the government to this particular argument is that of "public policy."

GULF STORM HAS CUT OFF PARTS OF COAST FROM COMMUNICATION

Anxiety Is Felt for Miami, Fla., and Other Places.

Shipping Has Suffered But No Loss of Life Reported.

Hurricane Headed North Along Coast---Cuba Hit Hard.

St. Augustine, Fla., Oct. 19.—3:20 p. m., 18, delayed in transmission—With the storm abating slightly here, no word has been received this forenoon from Southern Florida points, which have been lost to communication for nearly two hours.

Much anxiety is felt about Miami.

The wind here this morning was still about seventy miles an hour, but the barometer was rising. Shortly after daylight the sloop Frolic was dashed to pieces against the seawall and a power launch was sunk in the bay. No —Copyrighted by Harris & Ewing.

DEMOCRAT URGED FOR CHIEF JUSTICE'S SEAT

EDWARD DOUGLASS WHITE, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States.

WHITE MAY HEAD COURT

Louisiana Democrat Urged for Seat of Chief Justice.

Taft Is Pressed to Appoint Him Over Hughes and Root.

New York, Oct. 19.—It was learned here today that among the candidates for chief justice of the United States supreme court whom President Taft is considering, is Associate Justice Edward Douglass White. Justice White is being strongly urged for the place, and the president is giving serious attention to the recommendations.

Justice White was appointed to the supreme court from Louisiana and is a Democrat. It is believed the president will give great weight to political consideration in making his selection.

While the president is considering both Senator Root and Justice White for chief justice, he has not as yet given up the idea of appointing Justice Hughes.

Hughes Has Rivals.

Some time ago it seemed that Justice Hughes was to be appointed without doubt; but the fact that he is seeking opinions both as to Justice White and Senator Root is taken to indicate that the president has not made up his mind absolutely.

None of the supreme court appointments will be made until congress meets in December.

ORDER FORBIDS LIQUOR DELIVERY

Injunction Against Express and Railroad Companies in Oklahoma.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 19.—In the superior court last night a temporary injunction was issued restraining railroads and express companies in the state from delivering intoxicating liquors to persons, corporations, societies or clubs, or those known to be holding federal liquor licenses. The order was issued at the instance of Fred S. Caldwell, state enforcement officer.

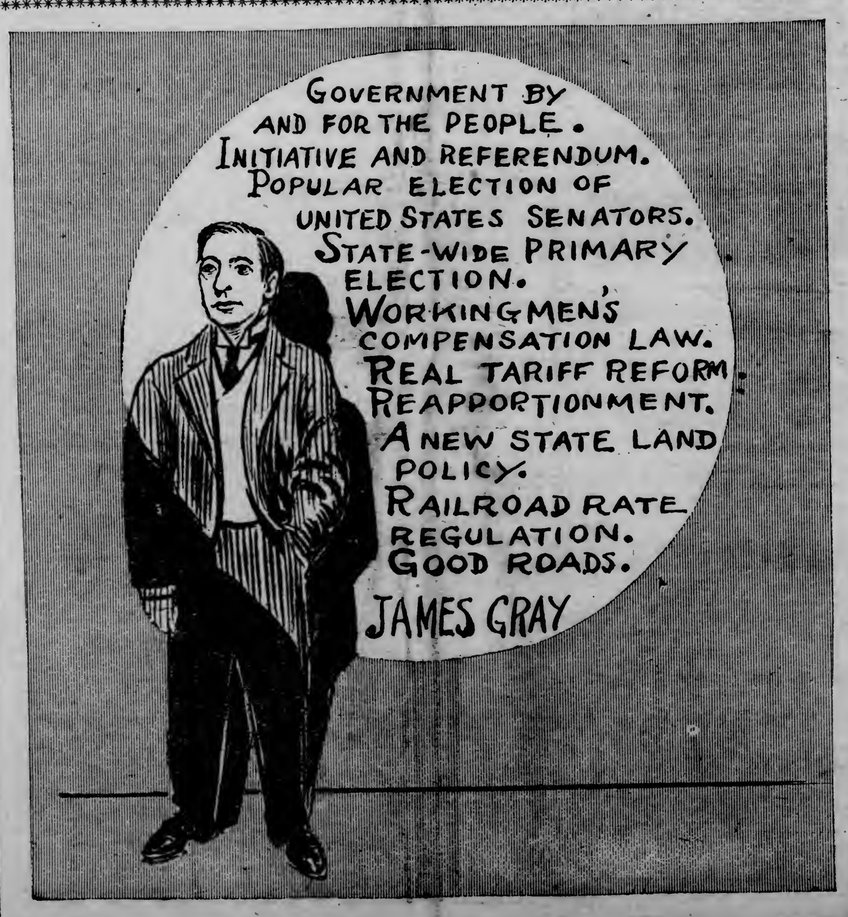

The order will not restrain the delivery of consignments of liquors to persons for medical uses. The companies were given thirty days to file an amended order.

EIGHTY HURT IN TROLLEY WRECK

Three Navy Yard Employes May Die as Result of Injuries.

Kittery, Me., Oct. 19.—Eighty employes of the Portsmouth navy yard, on the way to begin their day's work, were injured today, three possibly fatally, in a collision between two heavy loaded trolley cars on the Atlantic Shore Line railway at Fort Hill. Falling leaves had made the rails slippery and the first of two cars mounting the hill failed to respond to its brakes and rolled back, crashing into another car. George Gunnison, William Foye and Thomas Billings were the most seriously hurt.

WHERE HE STANDS!

BETHEL WORKERS MUST RAISE $90,000 THURSDAY

Fund Is Expected to Reach $40,000 Mark By Night.

"We Can Do It If We Get Workers," Says Sillaway.

The Bethel and rescue home building fund stood at $35,371.50 at noon today. This was a jump of over $2,300. By 6 o'clock this evening it is expected that at least $40,000 will be in hand and what tomorrow will bring forth, with all working as never before, cannot be predicted at this time.

Another urgent appeal for more men was made today by the directors of the Bethel, in order that the funds that Duluthians stand ready to give to the building fund may be collected. The campaign has been handicapped from the start by lack of field workers. Indeed, the campaign leaders consider it phenomenal that so large a sum has been raised with such a handful of men in the ranks. Had there been two men where there has been but one in a given territory, there is no question that the total today would have been

JUROR FAINTS IN CRIPPEN TRIAL

Two Hours' Delay Follows Incident in London Court.

London, Oct. 19.—The prosecution today continued its case against Dr. Hawley H. Crippen, charged with the murder of his actress wife, Belle Elmore, by introducing the testimony of Inspector Dew of Scotland Yard.

The inspector's evidence was a repetition of the now familiar story which he had recited previously in the lower courts.

While Alfred Aspinall Tobin, chief counsel for Crippen, was cross-examining Dew with the object of showing that the defendant exhibited no trace of anxiety or nervousness during the police investigation at his Hilldorp Crescent, home, one of the jurors fainted and the court was adjourned for two hours.

Railway Builders Meet.

Denver, Colo., Oct. 19.—The safety of the traveling public is the principal subject of discussion at the national convention of the American Railway Bridge & Building association, which commenced a four days' session here yesterday. Delegates from practically every state in the Union are in attendance and many of the big railway systems are represented.

ILLINOIS MEN ON TRIAL FOR FRAUD

Pemberton and Clark Accused of Conspiracy in State Contract.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 19.—The trial of State Senator Stanton C. Pemberton of Oakland and Representative Joseph S. Clark of Vandalia, charged with conspiracy in connection with the letting of the contract last January for new furniture for the legislative halls, was begun this morning in the Sangamon county circuit court. This is the first case to be brought to trial in this county resulting from the bribery investigation which has been carried on by State's Attorney Burke.

PENNSYLVANIA STATE TREASURER KEEPS JOB.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 19. — The state supreme court here this morning decided that State Treasurer Charles Frederick Wright will hold his position for the full term, which expires in 1913. An election for a successor will take place in 1912. Wright was appointed by Governor Stuart to succeed J. A. Stober, elected in 1909, but who died before qualifying.

CHICAGO FANS MAY SEE NO BALL GAME ON THURSDAY

Weather Man Predicts Possible Rain and Cold Weather.

Result May Be Three World Series Games There in Succession.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—"For Chicago and vicinity, rain tonight and probably Thursday; decidedly colder; high northwesterly winds."

In these words today's official forecast renders it problematical whether the third game of the championship series between Chicago and Philadelphia can be played here tomorrow.

According to the rules laid down by the national commission, if a game is postponed or drawn the teams will remain in Chicago until the two games have been played. The rules also declare that the Sunday game, if a fifth game is necessary, shall be played in Chicago, regardless of all else.

Thus, if it is impossible on account of the weather tomorrow to play a game, it must be played off on Saturday in this city, instead of the game

SOUTH AMERICAN TO PENITENTIARY

Negro From Ecuador Given Three Years in North Dakota Prison.

Fargo, N. D., Oct. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the term of court at Sherbrooke, Judge Pollock of this city sentenced Leon F. Adams, a negro, from Quito, Equador, to three years in the penitentiary for grand larceny.

Paul Lou, an Austrian, who murdered a countryman here Saturday night, waived examination, and was held to district court and will be arraigned today.

CUSTODIAN OF BALL GROUNDS ARRESTED.

Joseph Goneir, custodian of the ball grounds in the West end, was arraigned in police court yesterday afternoon on a warrant charging him with striking Chester Swick, a boy who is alleged to have been trying to "beat" his way into the grounds. He entered a plea of not guilty and will be tried tomorrow.

All purchasers of Millbrook tract will have free New England boiled dinner at Miller cafe, Oct. 22.

RELIEF FUND IS GROWING

Duluth's Contribution to Aid Border Fire Sufferers Nearly $25,000.

Relief Measures Now Being Taken Are Permanent and Require Money.

The fund for the relief of the border fire sufferers is still mounting and it bids fair to become $25,000 before all of the contributions are in. The public affairs committee of the Commercial club now has $13,232.37 in cash on hand and the total amount of the fund, including subscriptions not yet paid in, is well over $22,000.

The Herald fund is as follows:

Previously acknowledged	$2,481.35
N. Moberg, Worthington	1.00
Bethseda English Lutheran Sunday school	2.25
Alex Burns, Fort Frances	5.00
C. K. Dickerman	25.00
Total	$2,514.60

The members of the public affairs committee are anxious that all unpaid subscriptions be paid in promptly in order that the money raised in Duluth may be available for the fire sufferers. The relief work has passed the temporary stage and from now on, many of the measures taken will be toward the permanent rebuilding of Spooner and Baudette and the giving of a new start to settlers in the burned district.

SEEK THREE MEN.

Who Are Believed to Have Caused Minneapolis Man's Death.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 19.—The police have not arrested the three men believed to have caused the death of John Wilker, 30 years old, 1114 Hawthorne avenue, who died at his home following an assault received in a downtown saloon. It develops that Wilker had a fight with three men, wearing sombreros and appearing to be cowboys, familiar figures about Bridge square for a week, in which Wilker was knocked down and beaten. He was taken home and not believed at first to have been seriously injured until he died. Just before expiring he said incoherently that he was "murdered" by cowboys.

SCOUTING PARTY ON SATURDAY

Eleven Patrols Will Take Part in a Unique Contest.

The eleven patrols of the boys' department Boy Scouts, have arranged for their second scouting party Saturday afternoon under the direction of Scoutmasters J. R. Batchelor and N. D. McLeod.

All the patrols will meet at Hunter's Park grocery store at 2:30. The first stunt on the afternoon program will be to capture the house on the top of the hill at the park. The patrol that reaches the house first without being detected will be the winner, and the other patrols that come nearest within a given time, will receive four, three, two and one points in the order that they come in.

Points will also be given for observation. For every cow the scouts see on the way out they will get one point; for every fox terrier, one point; white horse, two points; crowd, one point. The first lesson will be given in the Scout commands, and the stretcher drill, and the points of the compass. Fire lighting and rope tieing contests will also be held by the patrols. The scouting program will close with two Scout games, "Over the Border," and "Spot the Rabbitt." Each patrol will cook its own supper.

The patrol that wins the most points will be photographed and will be the honor patrol until the next outing. Members of the boys' department, who are not Scouts who desire to go on the trip can meet at the boys' building at 2 o'clock sharp. Last Sunday the second group of boys qualified for the tenderfoot degree. A large number will be ready to take the Scout oath next Sunday. The following boys are the charter members and are the first full fledged Scouts in Duluth: Albert Armstrong, Fox patrol; Howard Ferguson, Fox; Carl Elgstrom, Owl; Hamilton Cook, Beaver; Ralph McCarthy, Beaver; Fred Bates, Wolves; Jack Shields, Wolves; Gerald Lonegren, Wolves; Gordon Hegardt, Beavers; Cecil Myers, Beavers; Hamilton Phelps, Beavers; Eugene Rice, Omricon; Charles Bush, Rams; Howard Strange, Rams; James Russell, Fox; Oliver Myegard, Buffalo; Carleton Volk, Beavers. Earl King, Fox; Robert Paine, Beaver; Ralph Ross, Fox; Ellard Sibbitt, Fox; William Williams, Coyotes; Tom Williams, Coyotes; Ralph Bogen, Coyotes; Harold Sund, Owls; Edwin Benson, Owls; Devier Ketcham and William Berg.

The qualifications necessary for tenderfeet are: to know the Scout law; to know the history of the American flag; to tie four standard knots. After these boys have been tenderfeet for one month they can take the second degree.

SEVEN BALLOONS STILL IN THE AIR

One Has Passed Over East End of Lake Superior--- All in Canada.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 19.—Six of the sky racers in the international classic, which started in St. Louis, it is thought have sailed over Lake Huron and Georgian bay into Canada, and are more than 700 miles northeast of this city.

The seventh survivor in the race, the Dusseldorf II, piloted by Hans Gericke, was last reported to have passed over Sutton Bay, Mich., and is believed to have crossed the eastern end of Lake Superior into Ontario.

No definite word has been received from any of the balloons since early last night. Beyond a belt 100 to 200 miles wide, north to Lake Huron, Ont., is a wilderness with few railroads. If the pilots bring their gasbags to earth in the forests, it may be several days before they will be able to telgraph their landing.

In Air Over Forty Hours.

Up to-noon today the aerostats have been in the air more than forty hours. In the 1907 race from here the winner, the late Oscar Erbsloch, landed at Asbury Park, N. J., a distance of 873.4 miles, in 39 hours and 55 minutes. The world's endurance record was made in a race from Berlin in 1908, when Capt. Theodore Schaeck, who is competing in the Helvetia in this year's race, remained in the air seventy-three hours.

The trip across Lake Michigan was made successfully by eight of the entrants. The balloon St. Louis No. 4 was forced to land near Hillman, Mich., after traveling 455 miles, because of lack of ballast to negotiate the flight across Lake Huron. With the Million Club aerostat down, the hope of the United States winning the race rests in the America II, piloted by Alan R. Hawley.

The third balloon which is down is the Condor. It, like the Million club, did not attempt to cross Lake Michigan, and landed in Wisconsin, near Two Rivers. The balloons which came to earth yesterday have cambric gas bags. The others have gas bags of rubber.

Balloon Over Ashland.

SNOW GENERAL IN COLORADO

Railroad Traffic Is Hindered in Some Parts of the Mountains.

Denver, Colo., Oct. 19.—Snow was reported from all parts of Colorado today, the first general storm of the season.

In the mountain passes of the Moffatt road, above Tolland, Colo., snow from eight to ten feet deep was reported and trains were blocked. Snow plows will open the line. In Denver the fall was light but was accompanied by a fall in temperature and high winds.

PACKERS PLEAD FOR MORE TIME

Cases May Be Brought to Trial Early in January.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—Counsel for the big meat packers who were recently indicted as individuals charged with conspiracy in restraint of trade, appeared before Judge Landis in the United States district court today and asked for more time in which to plead to the indictments. They said that the latter were so voluminous that more time was required to consider them.

Judge Landis entered an order that the packers must file their demurrers on or before Nov. 20 and must plead on Dec. 10. This is taken to indicate that the cases will come to trial early in January.

SAYS SPAIN IS NEAR TO WAR

Paris Paper Publishes Story Regarding Morocco Indemnity.

Paris, Oct. 19.—The Petit Parisien today claims that Spain is on the verge of a rupture with Morocco over the payment of the indemnity of 130,000,000 pesolas (approximately $26,000,000), which Spain exacted following the successful campaign against the Riff tribesmen in the summer of 1909, and contemplates despatching 40,000 soldiers across to the Riff coast to occupy Tetuan.

AN EMPEROR'S COUSIN COMING?

Member of German Royalty Reported to Be on Way Here.

A member of the royal family of Germany will reach Duluth this evening or tomorrow morning, according to a current report. The sprig of nobility who will visit the Head of the Lakes is said to be a cousin of Emperor William, who is making a tour of this country. He has been on the Pacific coast, and according to the report, is returning this way via the Great Northern road, escorted by Archibald Gray, assistant general freight agent of the road at Seattle. They are understood to have left Seattle Monday morning, and if they do not stop en route should arrive this evening.

Fred Hills, northern passenger agent for the Great Northern road, said this afternoon that he had not been advised of the coming of the distinguished visitor. He is trying to run down the report that the royal visitor may be properly entertained upon his arrival, but he had not succeeded up to 3 o'clock this afternoon.

OBITUARY

David Rankin, operator of the largest farm in the world, died at Tarklo, Mo., Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Rankin was prominent in North Missouri affairs and well known for his generosity to educational and philanthropic institutions. He was stricken with paralysis last Saturday.

Willard Stephen Whitmore, inventor of the papier mache matrix process of stereotyping, used by nearly every newspaper in the country, and from which he had gained no material benefit, is dead at his home in Washington, D. C., aged 68 years. He was born in La Porte, Ind., and was founder of the Stillwater, Minn., Gazette and the Minneapolis Chronicle, then the only paper in Minneapolis, which later was consolidated with the Tribune. At the time of his death Mr. Whitmore held a position as stereotyper in the government printing office.

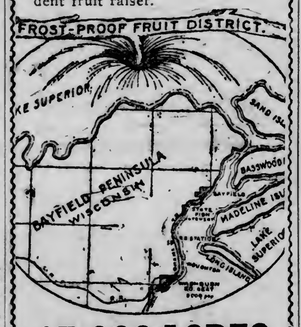

Charles Le Febvre, 95 years old, is dead at his home, eight miles north of Chippewa Falls, Wis. He was the oldest man in Chippewa county. He was born near Quebec, Canada, in 1815 came to this country in 1855 and ever since has lived on his homestead, which he located in the 60's. He had been in excellent health till two years ago, but for the last ten years he has not left his farm, which has been in charge of Mrs. Charles Richards and sons. Charles Le Febvre never married. He had lived so long that he had no existing relatives known to his Canadian French associates.

FAMOUS BAYFIELD COUNTY

FRUIT LANDS

NEAR WASHBURN, WISCONSIN

Start a new epoch in your life. Get out of store and shop, and plant an orchard within touch of Duluth. In a few years you will be an independent fruit raiser.

15,000 ACRES

We now have 15,000 acres for sale from $12.00 to $20.00 PER ACRE—$2.00 PER ACRE DOWN, AND $1.00 PER ACRE YEARLY.

You wonder why you can buy this land so cheap? Well, land in the North Yakima Valley sold ten years ago for ten to twenty dollars per acre while the celebrated Hood River Valley land could be purchased for that price even five years ago.

NOW—the land in either of these districts is selling $300.00 per acre and upwards.

Why not reserve 40 or 80 acres—terms to suit every purse. This is a most excellent investment. The facts that you want: FRUIT CROPS IN VICINITY YIELDED THIS SEASON $200.00 TO $600.00 PER ACRE. No crop failure in 15 years. Soil is a sandy clay loam, containing vegetable mold. Strawberries alone pay $300.00 to $400.00 per acre. ONLY SECTION of Northwest that yielded large crops this season. Duluth is the natural home market for Bayfield section.

There is no other well-developed fruit district that compares so favorably to ours as the celebrated Grimsby, Ontario district.

You will find upon investigation that soil and climatic conditions are identical with Bayfield Peninsula Fruit District lands in the Grimsby District selling for $300.00 to $1,000.00 per acre.

Our lands will be just as valuable when developed.

Can't you drop in here during the day or evening? I want to tell you of these fruit lands.

Your railroad fare paid to look this land over. See us about excursions, Northern Pacific Ry., for Ashland, and take ferry boat to Washburn.

FURNACE IS "BLOWN IN"

West Duluth Plant Is Once More Turning Out Pig Iron.

New Coal Dock Will Soon Be in Working Order.

The blast furnace at West Duluth has been "blown in" and today the first cast of iron on the new season's run was turned out by the Zenith Furnace company.

The furnace shut down for repairs on Aug. 13 and yesterday the work of repairing it was finished. About ten days ago the furnace was relined with bricks, but it required over a week to thoroughly dry the brick before the fires could be started. It is now ready for the year's run.

The average output of the pig iron daily from the blast furnace is 200 tons and the company employs about 200 men, in the furnace, divided in two shifts. Only a few were laid off while repairs were being made, and they have found employment again at the furnace.

The large stock of pig iron which the company had on hand during the time which the furnace was closed, has been practically exhausted. The furnace, which is now in running order will be able to fill the orders for pig iron as they come in.

The last run made by the furnace was a phenomenal one. For nearly sixteen months, it was in steady operation and the fires never went out during that time. The pig iron cast was of excellent quality and none of it had to go through a second process.

The production of the coke ovens was not curtailed while the furnace was being repaired. The production of the ovens is somewhat less than the usual consumption of the furnace and the coke which has been stored can all be used.

The new dock which will soon be in complete working order will increase the capacity of the old furnace dock by 50 per cent. The new traveling bridge which has been installed has a capacity of 2,000 tons per ten-hour day as compared to 1,000 tons capacity of the old dock.

The improvements which have been made in installing the new dock represent an expenditure of about $200,000.

BUILDING BOOM IN PROSPECT

Many West Duluthians Planning New Homes This Winter.

W. H. Kiltin and Robert E. Carroll have started three new residences on the corner of Fifty-second avenue west and Roosevelt street, each to cost over $2,000.

The lots are numbered 13, 14 and 15 in block 201, Fifth division. The concrete foundations for the new residences have already been constructed, and the superstructures will soon go up.

West Duluth will have a mild building boom this fall and next spring, say the real estate men. Builders during the last months have been busy preparing estimates. Among some of those who are planning on new homes are: William Mallough, Ed Dormedy, J. W. Browne, P. H. Martin and E. C. Gillison.

It is rumored that at New Duluth the Minnesota Steel company will erect a large number of houses for its employes, and it is said that a Chicago contractor has the job. There is a big demand for houses at New Duluth, and as yet it has not been supplied.

CHARLES MANN PASSES AWAY

Former West Duluth Man Dies of Typhoid Fever.

Charles F. Mann, 40 years old, a former resident of West Duluth and a son of Capt. Jacob W. Mann of 124 South Fifty-ninth avenue west, died at 11:30 o'clock last evening at the Duluth hospital. Death was due to typhoid fever from which he had suffered for three weeks.

Mr. Mann is survived by a wife and two children residing at Osakis, Minn., but who are now in West Duluth to attend the funeral. He was an engineer by trade and prior to his last illness, had worked at Marble, Minn. He was taken ill there and about a week ago removed to the home of his parents in West Duluth. Two days ago he entered the Duluth hospital.

The funeral arrangements have not been made although it is thought that the services will be held either Thursday or Friday from the Fillatrault undertaking rooms.

ON TOUR OF INSPECTION

Vice President Kerr Touring Iron Ranges in Special Train.

Accompanied By All Head Officers of Subsidiary Companies.

The Wolvin building was deserted by executive officers of the United States Steel corporation's subsidiary companies today, all of them being absent on a tour of inspection on the range with D. G. Kerr, first vice president of the corporation, who lives in New York.

Mr. Kerr, accompanied by John H. McLean, general manager of the Oliver Iron Mining company, arrived in Duluth this morning from Chicago and almost immediately boarded a special train and left for the range. On the special with the vice president were Mr. McLean, President W. J. Olcott, Vice President Pentecost Mitchell, Assistant General Manager J. H. Hearding, and General Mining Engineer Maj. J. Uno Sebenius of the Oliver Iron Mining company, President W. A. McGonagle of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern road, and President F. E. House of the Duluth & Iron Range road.

Vice President Kerr has charge of the mining and transportation operations of the United States Steel corporation and makes semi-annual tours of inspection of the properties in his department. He will examine into the conduct of the business of the subsidiary corporations in mine and on railroad, extending his trip of inspection, it is expected, to include all of the company's properties in the Lake Superior region.

The ranges will occupy the attention of the party for about a week, it is said, and the New York man will look into affairs in his accustomed thorough way.

Much interest in Mr. Kerr's visit is evinced in Duluth, where it is felt that these calls by chief officials of the steel corporation are of the highest importance. One Duluthian, well known for his close study of civic and industrial conditions, said today that it was to be regretted that the citizens were not apprised in advance of the coming of Mr. Kerr, suggesting that a banquet or some other form of formal welcome might have been arranged.

Duluth's interest in the doings of the steel corporation is a vital one and, in view of the fact that one of the great steel plants is being built in this city, the people feel they should show some appreciation of what the steel company is doing to make Duluth the metropolis of the state, said this man, in effect.

It was expected that some other officials of the corporation would come with Vice President Kerr, but so far as known he was alone, except for the company of Mr. McLean on the Chicago-Duluth portion of his westward journey. Mr. Kerr's itinerary after he has completed his inspection of the range properties has not been announced.

WESTERN UNION TAXES BOOSTED

State Commission Adds $250,000 to the Former Valuation.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two hundred and fifty thousand dollars was added to the valuation of the Western Union Telegraph company's property in Minnesota today by the tax commission, which is an increase of 25 per cent over the $1,000,000 valuation fixed by the state board of equalization in 1900 and as fixed also by the tax commission in 1908.

The Western Union Telegraph company has been fighting this valuation for ten years, losing its case in all of the lower courts, and the case is now before the supreme court of the United States, and will be argued shortly by the attorney general's department. This company on a valuation of $1,000,000, owes the state at present $74,825.62, which, together with costs in the various suits, interest and accrued penalties, would bring the amount up to over $100,000.

INEXPENSIVE "S. & B." GARMENTS

SUITS: strictly tailored with little or no trimming are, after all, the most popular with particular women. The fine tailoring and good looks of S. & B. Suits in the inexpensive lines, is a very important feature of this garment business. Suit prices range at $22.50 (for misses and small women), $25, $29.50, $35 and up.

COATS: in plain or novelty styles of rough materials, Heavy Serges, Boucles, Zibelines, English Tweeds, Broadcloths and many other new materials—topt off with distinctive trimming touches, such as strap effects, pipings, Persian collar touches, novelty buttons and bands of velvet. Prices $15, $17.50, $19.50, $25, $29.50 and up.

SKIRTS: that are brand-new, are here in wide variety these days.

—Stylish Hobble Skirts in navy and black with a broad band below the knee at $6.50.

Panama Skirts, gored to knee with full pleated flounce and band, in blues, black and browns, at $10.75.

—Frenchy Looking Models—Tight, narrow gored skirts, in blue and black, at $13.50.

—Novelty Blues, Browns with green checks; blue and black. Heavy Diagonals in distinctly new models, $14.50 to $19.50.

WAISTS: Lingerie and Linen Tailored Waists, at $1.50.

Tailored Waists with black and white stripe, at 95¢.

Silk Waists, at $5 and $7.50.

FURS: finer and better than these prices will buy at less careful stores. Every piece of fur in the house is GENUINE—of high-grade quality skins, fashioned by the best furriers in the world.

There is an unusually good assortment of INEXPENSIVE kinds here this year—such as Natural Mink Scarfs, at $19.50.	Black Fox Muffs, at $16.50.

Natural Mink Muffs, $45.00.	Natural Skunk Scarfs, for $12.50.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF POLITICS AND POLITICIANS

Congressman Lindbergh to Address Duluth Audience Next Tuesday Evening—Young Men's Republican Club Meets—Democratic Mass Meeting in Rowley Hall Tonight—Jack Puts Dad Wise to What's Doing—Arneson Mixes—Senatorial Candidate Indorsed by His Wife—Independents in Crow Wing.

Lindbergh Will Be Here Next Week.

Charles A. Lindbergh, the greatest insurgent of them all, is coming to Duluth next week and he will be the chief speaker at a meeting to be held at the Armory or in Columbia hall Tuesday evening. It is as a guest of the Svea Republican club that Mr. Lindbergh is coming here, and he will speak for the Republican party. He does not come to Duluth to further the cause of any particular candidate, but, as he agreed over the telephone this morning, to address a meeting to be arranged by the Svea club.

Dr. A. F. Elmquist of Minneapolis, one of the best known Swedish-American clergymen in Minnesota, will be the other speaker of the evening. He is noted as an orator and will undoubtedly add much to the attractiveness of the program.

Dr. J. J. Eklund, president of the Svea Republican club, will preside at the meeting.

Smith of Eveleth Enters The Danger Zone.

Walter J. Smith, Republican nominee for state treasurer, who was about town yesterday, seeing the politicians and smiling them into declaring he could not help leading the Republican ticket, left last night for St. Paul, where he may be expected to expostulate with Jake Preus for letting it be intimated that he will make the oration of the evening at tomorrow's oratorial gymkhana at Anoka. Sann Y. (Ypsilanti?) Gordon, Republican candidate for lieutenant governor, is to be there and speak and Mr. Smith most emphatically accords him the spotlight when it comes to the Demosthenes stunt, which is not exactly to his own liking. It may be, however, that the Eveleth man will be driven to public speech before the campaign is over, for he things so well of every one—and they all seem to reciprocate—that he can't reasonably keep it cooped up within him.

Chickens will go home to roost, as well as come home for that restful purpose.

Junior Republicans Hold Regular Session.

With Hans B. Haroldson in the chair in the absence of President Harvey S. Clapp and Vice President Colton, the Young Men's Republican club held an interesting session last evening at headquarters in the Palladio building, and among other business items disposed of, A. B. Block was selected to represent the club in the advisory council of Republican clubs of Duluth.

W. A. Anderson reported to the members that arrangements for the banquet to be given at the Spalding tomorrow evening are complete, that more than 300 tickets have been sold, and that probably 400 persons will be there to enjoy the banquet and hear the speeches. Mr. Anderson announced that Charles O. Aplehagen will be the banquet soloist.

Capt. Ray T. Lewis, who is running for the legislature in the Fiftieth district, addressed the meeting, relating some of his experiences in political and legislative activities. He urged young Republicans to remain Republicans.

Looking forward to the approaching municipal campaign, Henry Talboys said that in his opinion the club should take unto itself some definite object toward which it might strive, and he suggested that the attainment of a commission from of government for Duluth was about the best object available. This suggestion met with decided favor and it is probable the club will take some action after the election to this end.

The meeting was well attended, in spite of the unfavorable weather.

Mass Meeting in Rowley Hall.

There will be a political mass meeting this evening in Rowley hall, 112 West First street, under the auspices of the Democratic ward organization, at which there will be speaking and other attractive features. It is planned to make this gathering the opening one of a series to be held in all the wards and the party workers are taking a lively interest in it. They are inviting all their friends, of all political parties, to be present tonight and hear what the candidates and the speakers have to say about the ticket and the party's prospects.

Jack Tells Dad About Politics.

"The old man" back in Wisconsin is getting wise to a whole lot of things that should be known to all of the voters of this neck of the woods, through the letters Jack is writing, and for that reason copies of Jack's letters to Dad are deserving of the widest circulation. Jack has a talent for penetrating the sophistic disguises of the ungenuine and in the following letter he demonstrates that fact:

Dear Old Dad:

"Things are beginning to warm up here a little in this part of the country. The youngsters in the Republican party, our party, are to hold a banquet here this week. Senator Clapp was to speak, but owing to the death of Senator Dolliver he will be unable to be present. Congressman Miller is to speak on "The Young Man in Politics". That's a safe subject. Nothing about that that we need fear. He will not have anything to say about the Insurgents. Stick a pin in that statement, dad. He will not wipe his feet on Cannon and Aldrich, but is pretty apt to keep in the middle of the road, and attempt to offend none.

The Republican newspaper here makes a fellow laugh. It is doing good work for us all right, or at least is trying to. It keeps on claiming that all the members of the Minnesota congressional delegation are insurgents, and yet you and I know these are not the facts. Some of them are all right, at least there is one, that man Lindbergh. He seems to be a pretty good insurgent all right, but the majority of the others are our men. Of course they are trying to fool the people, and some of them, no doubt, will be successful in doing so. The Republican newspaper here lauds La Follette, Cummings, Bristow, et al., to the skies, but when it comes to supporting the fellows that are our men, why they are there with the goods. Good work, don't you think. That used to be good all right, but I am a little afraid of such tactics this time. After all I really admire the fellow that stands by his guns and fires the kind of ammunition that he believes is right, no matter whether I agree with him or not.

Quite a commotion was stirred up here at a Republican meeting the other evening. A young fellow got up and said it was not necessary for a man to vote the Republican ticket straight. Gee, but he certainly had nerve to say that. He sure is not a Republican. He is a Democrat, or what is worse, an insurgent. Don't believe the Republican paper here liked that very well. I know I didn't. Think we had better get Wickersham to read him out of the party.

Yours,
JACK.

It is no more than fair to say that Dick Jones would resent being classified as a Democrat, because in the talk he made at the West Duluth Republican club he said very distinctly that it was his belief he could be an insurgent and a Republican at the same time. Whether that belief is justified by the facts is another question.

Arneson of Chisholm Visits Duluth.

Jim Arneson, of Chisholm and the rest of the state, was in Duluth yesterday, mixing. Arneson is the climax when it comes to mixing. If it became expedient, from the Arneson point of view, to mix oil and water, Jim would mix 'em. He's so used to mixing that he insists upon drinking his buttermilk out of a mixing glass.

Aside from that, he is setting a pace as the publisher of the Chisholm Tribune-Herald which few country newspapers can maintain, with the result that Chisholm is getting the advantages of a modern, up-to-date weekly newspaper. Mr. Arneson concluded negotiations yesterday for the complete taking over of the plant, and hereafter he will be bossing himself around on the paper.

Mr. Arneson has taken an active and inquisitive interest in politics in Minnesota ever since he discarded a slate for scratch-paper. He was one of the busiest men involved in the perpetration of the Republican state ticket, and can look any man in the eye and say he's proud of a part of it.

He went to St. Paul last night and expects to return to Chisholm Friday.

Does Your Wife Indorse Your Candidacy?

Candidates for office have often said that, although they were successful in getting into office, they suffered the keenest humiliation of their careers in failing to carry their home precincts. There probably is something akin to humiliation in the contemplation of such a result, and it has been said that it is better to have your brother or your son vote against you than to have your neighbor do so, for the neighbor will naturally feel less scrupulous about "spreading the pizen" than will the kinsman. But what could a candidate do who was publicly "turned down" by his wife?

The Pillager Herald says:

C. D. Johnson, candidate for state senator from Crow Wing and Morrison counties, having referred to his wife as to his character and qualifications, we wrote to her and received an answer very favorable. She writes that he attends church regular once a year on the Sunday night that the Knights of Pythias hold their meeting. That she never saw him in a saloon; that he takes her to the theater once a month, and when he stays out late evenings she don't worry, as she knows that he is in good company, and should he be elected she will be willing to let him go to St. Paul alone, and that she will remain at home and darn socks."

Suppose Mrs. Johnson had suddenly become converted to the suffragette cause, and upon receipt of the Herald's inquiry had compared her husband's fitness for public office with her own? Fearless men are needed in the legislature, and with an independent in the field Mr. Johnson has a chance to land. If he doesn't, it is known to the public that he will be welcomed at home all through the session of the legislature.

No Prizes Offered in This Puzzle Contest.

R. J. Bell wants something, it is to be presumed, but what he wants is not revealed to the puzzled public. His interesting features, in half-tone, are shown in a supplement to the Roseau County Times, dated Oct. 14, and under the picture appear the words, "Yours Truly, R. J. Bell." At this season it is natural to suppose that Mr. Bell's enterprising method of seeking publicity has something to do with politics, but examination of the Roseau county primary returns fails to locate his name thereon.

Wonder what Bell wants.

Independents in Crow Wing.

In Crow Wing county the itch for office has manifested itself in an unusual number of instances, with the result that independent candidates are in the city for several of the offices. Ole P. Erickson, who for many years has been a prominent figure in the politics of that section of the state, is the Republican nominee for state senator. He beat Senator Alderman in the primaries. D. C. Henderson of Nisswa has come out as an independent candidate against him and it is said he is likely to make the campaign interesting for Ole. D. C. Johnson, a Democrat, also is a candidate.

Jay Henry Long has filed as an independent against County Attorney W. A. Fleming, the Republican nominee, and Mrs. Irma Camp Hartley has taken the field as an independent candidate for county superintendent of schools against P. V. Malm, who operates a business college in Brainerd and is the Republican candidate. Mrs. Hartley is prominent in social and uplift work in Brainerd and has many elements of strength, among them her family connections. Dr. J. L. Camp, one of the foremost physicians of that part of the state, is her brother.

I. T. Dean, nominated on the Republican ticket for coroner, is opposed by an independent, C. A. Nelson, who practices veterinary surgery. Thomas Keefe is out as an independent against Judge C. W. Stanton, but, as Judge Stanton has been indorsed by pretty nearly all the attorneys of his district for re-election, Mr. Keefe's chances are said to be nil.

There will be a meeting of the Second Ward Republican club this evening in Polish hall, Fourth avenue east and Fourth street. County candidates will speak.

The following general campaign committee has been named by Congressman C. B. Miller: Dr. J. J. Eklund, chairman; Roy M. Hughes, secretary, both of Duluth, and John Saari of Gilbert.

Eveleth Star: The coming fight between Mr. Jesmore and Meining for sheriff promises to be more interesting than at first anticipated. When Mr. Jesmore announced his intentions seriously after Meining was nominated, betting was 2 to 1 in favor of Meining with the odds that he would get in by two to one. What activity shown so far by the local candidate has been very reassuring. Throughout the range he is well known and extremely popular in many places and he anticipates a large number of votes from the range towns. Providing he feels sure of this support it is up to Mr. Jesmore to soften the stony hearts of the Zenith city voters. Meining so far has the pull in Duluth, but Duluthians are beginning to take kindly to us range folks and we have in mind the bumper vote secured "down there" by the next state senator for the Forty-ninth district. What has been done once can be done again, and it is quite possible that Jesmore may get more than one finger in the pie.

Mesaba Ore: Thomas J. McKeon of Duluth, Democratic candidate for judge of probate, was in Hibbing yesterday and created a very favorable impression with voters. Mr. McKeon is an attorney, and has lived and practiced twenty years in Duuth, and has a wide acquaintance in the county. If it is written that Republican Candidate Gilpin is to be defeated there is not a man in the county better qualified for the office and more popular than Mr. McKeon.

BETHEL WORKERS MUST RAISE $90,000 THURSDAY

well up toward the $100,000 mark, and had there been a force thrice what it has been, the full sum aimed for, $130,000, would have been gained beyond a question, the directors state.

There is yet time to bring the campaign through to a great finish. Men are what is needed. V. G. Sillaway, who came here from Milwaukee to help direct the final efforts in the campaign, said again today that could he be given enough men, three where there is now one, the goal would be gained by midnight tomorrw night in all probability.

As long as there is time, there is opportunity is the theory that all the executive committeemen and team leaders and directorate are working on. The efforts will continue throughout the day, this evening and all of tomorrow.

The Civic Problem.

The civic problem is just as acute as when the campaign began and will be more so when snow flies. There will be no time for Duluth to think about the Bethel building campaign then. The miners and lumberjacks are already beginning to come through the gates of the Zenith City, planning a stay until the employment agencies pick them up. Navigation will soon close and Duluth will be filled with idle sailors. The Bethel can take care of some, but since high rents deprived it of the added space at the Branch Bethel its problem will be much greater than it was last winter.

The full importance of what confronts Duluth will be realized a month from now. It will be too late to do anything about it then.

Gangs of men who must be tided over for a few days will be on the streets until the range mines can take them and the woods to the north can call them. As long as the Bethel, the ways of which they know and understand, can take care of them, well and good, but when the number gets beyond its slender accommodations, this army of waiting men will become a menace. Duluth has hardly forty-eight hours to decide whether it will avoid such a condition or permit the situation to come about through default. "As was said of another issue—it is a condition, not a theory, that confronts Duluth," said one Bethel worker this morning.

ACQUITTED OF ROBBERY.

Second Trial of Beltrami County Man Results in Acquittal.

Bemidji, Minn., Oct. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—In district court, on a new trial, John Carlton was cleared of the charge of robbery in the first degree.

This case was tried a week ago, and the jury disagreed.

The case of the state vs. Frank Van Tassel is on trial.

Van Tassel is charged with having beaten and robbed John Lehner, near Tenstrike, last March. This case was also tried a week ago, and the jury disagreed.

Judge McClenahan will probably preside at this term until Oct. 25, when it is expected that Judge Wright will again preside.

FIRES ARE QUENCHED

Rain Comes at Opportune Time for Pike Lake Residents.

Danger From Brush Fires Removed By the Downpour.

The heavy rains late yesterday afternoon and last evening came opportunely to the aid of the settlers of Pike Lake and other small settlements back of the city who have been fighting the forest fires which were blazing all about them.

Monday afternoon and night the flames threatened several residences and barns as well as scattered farms and farm buildings in the vicinity. They were saved only after the hardest of fights. Men and women battled with fires side by side. When the news of the fires at Pike Lake reached the city a large number of Duluth people owning property there, hastened to the scene in automobiles and aided in beating back the flames. Had the wind shifted it is almost certain that the entire Pike Lake settlement would have been wiped out.

No property was lost, however, and no one injured, and the rains of yesterday have caused the settlers to rest easy once more. They continued their fight with the fires yesterday, determined to stamp them out, and were duly thankful for the assistance of J. Fluvius.

MAY CROSS OCEAN YET

her course. The total distance covered was about 3,000 miles.

Had the distance covered been made in direct course along the trans-Atlantic steamer lane it would have carried the airship about 200 miles eastward of the banks of New Foundland. The opinion among aeronauts today is that the America will never be seen again. Wellman found it necessary to rid the airship of the burden of most of its gasoline, retaining only enough to reach land in the event the Trent had not come to the rescue. When the steamship heard the calls of distress and drew near its aerial sister, Wellman shouted his predicament through a megaphone and decided that he would lower his life boat, which swung from the dirigible's framework. As a precaution the Trent lowered her life boats, which stood by until the transfer was effected and Wellman and his crew, even down to the frightened, squirming kitten, were safe on board the liner, surrounded by the excited passengers.

Motor Broke Down.

One of the America's motors had broken down, which made more serious the predicament created when all the gasoline that could be spared was cast into the sea. It is also probable that the craft had suffered severely from the jerking of its great rat-like tail, or equilibrator, which served the triple purpose of an elongated gasoline tank, balance and wireless "ground." Wellman had flashed by wireless to Siasconsett that this immense appendage, battered by the waves, had caused trouble and anxiety, necessitating shutting off the motors at times. Buffeted as the craft was by the winds, it is likely that the equilibrator caused greater trouble in the America's unwilling southward journey.

The America is, or was, 228 feet long and 52 feet in diameter, with a lifting capacity of 23,650 pounds. The envelope alone weighed two tons. There were three gasoline engines aboard, two of from 80 to 90-horse power, for the propellers and the smaller a donkey engine. The craft was practically the same as that in which Wellman made two starts for the North Pole.

Delayed by Fog.

Shortly after 9 o'clock this morning the Trent came to anchor below Sandy Hook because of the heavy fog.

A wireless message was received this morning through the United Wireless system from Operator Ginsburg on the steamer Trent giving further details of the rescue of the America's crew at sea. The message follows:

"Steamer Trent, 6 a. m., 55 miles southeast of Sandy Hook—The crew of the America, after resting all night, are feeling none the worse for their thrilling experience. From what I can gather in conversation with Irwin, the wireless operator on the America, the most exciting moment of the three days was after the launching of the America's lifeboat.

"The Trent bore down full speed upon the small boat. Irwin declares for the moment it looked as if she would cut her in half. The Trent appeared to him the size of the Singer building and he was prepared to jump overboard and swim clear of the propeller. Fortunately, this was unnecessary.

Rescued With Difficulty.

"The Trent passed the lifeboat, dangerously rocking her. A rope was thrown and caught by the men, who, however, could not hold on, owing to the rough seas. The Trent cleared of the lifeboat, which dropped half a mile astern. As the big steamer turned in her wake to return to the lifeboat, it was seen that the airship's men had got out two oars and were struggling to keep her headed up to the sea.

"We were now alongside the craft. Again lines were thrown, but were dragged from the airship men's hands. In hanging to the rope Mr. Wellman's little finger was badly cut. Again the maneuver was repeated, this time with success. Loud, Simon and Irwin were straining on two oars. The ship was brought close enough to make fast the America's boat. Two ropes were thrown from the steamer Trent. The crew of the America climbed up the rope ladder and each was cheered as he was helped over the rail.

"So ended one of the most thrilling and daring feats in the annals of the sea. "LOUIS GINSBURG,

"Wireless Operator, steamer Trent."

Caught in Hard Wind.

Wellman says that after working well to sea on Sunday the dirigible was caught in a thirty-mile northwest blow which carried the America clear off her course. Night came, and the equilibrator jerked and bumped over the waves, threatening the America constantly with destruction. The crew was calm, but greatly exhausted, and one after the other went to sleep, expecting to wake up in the sea. Every effort was centered on keeping the America afloat, and gasoline was tossed overboard. The equilibrator kept up its incessant pounding and threatened to sweep away the lifeboat.

Wellman told the Trent's passengers that a course was laid for the Azores, but a veering wind made it impossible to reach the islands with reduced gasoline. Bermuda was then the hope of the party. On Monday night more gasoline and some damaged machinery were jettisoned to keep the America afloat.

No Regret at Loss.

Early Tuesday morning rescue came. The Trent was sighted two hours away and signalled. The lifeboat was successfully launched, Capt. Vaniman cleverly bringing the America down close to the water while Simon directed the release of the lifeboat. The lifeboat was struck a glancing blow by the equilibrator, which nearly capsized it. With the weight of the lifeboat and the party removed from the airship, the America shot up high in the air and disappeared quickly in the distance.

The loss of the dirigible was witnessed without regret, according to Mr. Wellman, as it could never have been used again, having been weakened by the constant jerking of the equilibrator. Wellman believes that the feat of crossing the Atlantic in a gas bag may be accomplished, but that a larger and stronger air craft will have to be built. Wellman says the equilibrator was the mistake of the expedition.

Native of Ohio.

Mr. Wellman is 52 years old and was born in Mentor, Ohio. As a journalist and explorer he became interested in ballooning and has great faith in the possibilities of exploration and voyaging by dirigible. Mrs. Wellman and Mrs. Vaniman, overjoyed that their husbands are safe, but disappointed that the goal was not reached, hurried from Atlantic City to New York tonight ready to meet the returning voyagers with the arrival of the Trent tomorrow.

May Try It Again.

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 19. — Another attempt will be made to cross the Atlantic ocean in a dirigible balloon next year, according to a wireless message received by President Joseph Salus of the Wellman syndicate. The message came from Chief Engineer Melvin Vaniman in answer to a query sent by Salus as to whether the arrangements should be started for a new balloon trans-Atlantic trip.

"I believe that if we had the thing to do over again it would prove a success," said Vaniman's message, which is taken to mean that enough knowledge of air currents was secured to almost guarantee the crossing of the ocean by a new attempt.

PRIZE CHICKENS TAKEN BY THIEF

Theodore Hollister Suffers Heavy Loss By Raid on Poultry Yard.

Forty prize chickens were stolen from Theodore Hollister's yards at 5061 London road last night by an unknown thief.

Mr. Hollister discovered his loss this morning and reported the case to the police. The thief must have had some assistance in carrying away the birds, or else had some kind of vehicle handy. The birds were worth about $5 apiece, and the total loss will be in the neighborhood of $200.

CHICAGO FANS MAY SEE NO BALL GAME ON THURSDAY

regularly scheduled for Philadelphia on that date.

Rain tomorrow, may mean that there will be three games in succession played on the local grounds—one Friday, Saturday and Sunday. This is certain should Chicago win one or both of the games Friday and Saturday.

"Ghost of a Chance."

The announcement of untoward weather prospects, when it appeared in the newspapers, deepened the gloom of impatient enthusiasts. They don't want to wait even one day for a chance to get back at the triumphant Athletics. Accordingly Forecaster Cuthbertson was appealed to over the telephone by scores who pleaded for a ray of hope for tomorrow.

"Well," the forecaster verbally supplemented his direful edict, "there's the ghost of a chance. We look for a heavy rain in the forenoon, which will soak the grounds, but the indications are that in the afternoon the downpour will cease, but the day in general will be cold, gloomy and forbidding."

May Dry Up.

If this proves true spectators may see a game tomorrow, as the local grounds are well drained and dry quickly. The groundkeeper covered the diamond with canvas and straw today to protect it as much as possible.

The two teams, which left Philadelphia over the Pennsylvania railroad in two sections of a special train last night, were scheduled to arrive here between 1 and 2 o'clock this afternoon.

lives were lost, nor have any fatalities been reported in this vicinity.

The property damage here will reach many thousand dollars.

Shipping Has Suffered.

Key West, Fla., via Havana, Cuba, Oct. 19.—Further news of the damage wrought by the tropical storm that swept the Southern extremity of Florida, was received today. The Norwegian steamer Fos from Port Tampa, Oct. 12, for Europe via Norfolk, is ashore off Boca Grande island. Her crew of eighteen men has arrived here.

The American steamer Herman Frasch from New York, Oct. 13, for Sabine, Texas, is disabled off Alligator Key lighthouse.

Sand Key lighthouse reports the British steamer Inventor, from Galveston, Oct. 11, for Liverpool, rescued sixteen sailors, ten from the Spanish bark Hugo and six from the American schooner Martha. The Inventor proceeded. The Hugo was bound from Corunna, Sept. 9, for Apalachicola, Florida. The Martha was last reported at Port Arthur, Texas, on Aug. 5.

The American steamer Nueces has arrived here en route from Galveston for New York and reports that the lighthouses on Rebhecca Shoal, Tortugas Island and Garden Key are dark.

Overdue Boats Safe.

New Orleans, Oct. 19.—The steamers Mount Vernon of the United Fruit company, from Port Barries, and the Mercater of the Cefalu company, from Celba, more than two days overdue, reached the mouth of the Mississippi river shortly before noon. No reports of damage were made.

Storm Rushing North.

Savannah, Ga., Oct. 19.—With an abating wind at daylight, Savannah appeared to have experienced the worst of the tropical hurricane now traveling northward up the Atlantic coast at tremendous speed. Streets littered with bits of wreckage and limbs from trees and excessive tides along the coast comprised most of the damage reported in this section. No great damage to shipping is reported. For hours the rain has been falling in torrents.

All last night the wind blew at an average velocity of more than fifty miles an hour. All trains from South were several hours overdue.

Because it was officially announced by Forecaster Boyer that the center of the storm might pass over Savannah this forenoon, the public schools did not open today.

Tybee island was completely cut off from communication with this city by the rising water today. It is believed that the inhabitants of Tybee island and of the flooded portions of the coast reached safety early last night, but there is uneasiness about the steamer Iroquois of the Clyde line, which, running "light," anchored off Warsaw island just before the storm.

Felt in South Carolina.

Charleston, S. C., Oct. 19.—Early today the wind here reached a velocity of sixty miles an hour, accompanied by excessive rainfall. It is said that growing crops have suffered serevely.

The German cruiser Freya, en route from here to Havana, is believed to have encountered the hurricane at its worst. The captain left here Saturday, despite storm warnings.

Exceptionally High Tides.

The worst of the West India hurricane, as far as this port is concerned, is believed to have passed. While exceptionally high tides have prevailed, no damage has been sustained.

Weather conditions had become better by 8 o'clock this morning and led to the belief that the storm would not increase in intensity in this vicinity. At that time the wind was southeast and was blowing at the rate of about thirty miles an hour.

Twelve Dead in Cuba.

Havana, Oct. 19.—Relief trains are being sent into Pinar del Rio, which bore the brunt of the recent heavy storms. Reports received here show that the property losses throughout that province were enormous.

The greater portion of the province was inundated and nearly all of its towns suffered severely. Hardly a house has been left standing in the country districts and the tobacco barns everywhere were destroyed.

Millions Are Lost.

It is impossible to estimate with accuracy the monetary loss, but it will total millions of dollars.

The loss of life apparently was much less than at first feared and occurred chiefly in the town of Consolacion, where twelve persons were drowned. It is expected that other cases of drowning will be discovered when the relief trains penetrate the devastated region.

his speech Rev. Mr. Dunn continued:

"The negroes cannot grasp the idea of the church as yet. Their religion at the present time is mostly emotional, and I believe the passage of this amendment would be fatal in regard to the negroes."

Pick Six New Bishops.

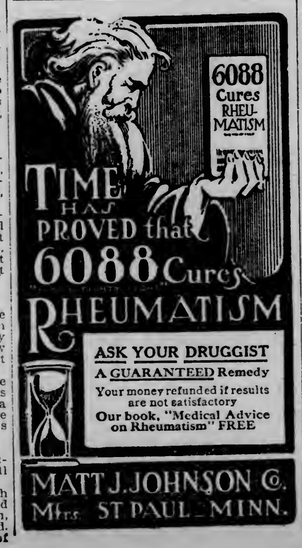

Prefacing their labors with the sacrament of holy communion, the house of bishops met today to elect six new members of their order to take charge of the five new missionary districts created at the convention now in session, and to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Bishop Graves of Kearney, Neb. The special service of the bishops and their meeting took place at Christ's church.

The new districts, which will increase the membership of the house of bishops to 109, are those of Wahu, China; Arizona, which has just been separated from New Mexico; North Texas, East Oklahoma and San Joaquin, Cal.

Joint Meeting Scheduled.

Following the election the bishops will hold their regular session for the transaction of church business. The house of deputies will also resume their deliberations. A joint meeting of the two houses will be held this afternoon.

Conferences of the women's auxiliary and the babies' branch, and a meeting of the Guild of St. Barnabas for nurses, were also scheduled.

FRIENDS OF THE INDIANS MEET

Lake Mohonk Conference Opens Twenty-Eighth Annual Session.

Mohonk Lake, N. Y., Oct. 19.—The Lake Mohonk conference of Friends of the Indians and Other Dependent Peoples began its twentieth annual meeting today with President Elmer Ellsworth Brown, United States commissioner of education, presiding.

The morning's session was devoted to Indian affairs and a feature of it was the submission of the report of a special committee appointed last year to investigate conditions on the New York state reservations.

BIXBY OPPOSES WATERWAY PLAN

Army Officers Take Part in Lakes-to-the-Gulf Meeting.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—Isham Randolph, representing the state of Illinois, and a number of United States army officers, conferred informally today concerning the proposed 14-foot lakes-to-the-gulf waterway. Among those present were Gen. William H. Bixby, chief of the engineering department, United States army, and head of the waterways commission appointed by President Taft; Col. G. McD. Townsend, Maj. Charles Keller, Maj. J. L. Cavanaugh, all of the regular army, and John Bogart, secretary of the American Society of Civil Engineers.

A trip down the drainage canal and the Illinois river to St. Louis was planned to begin later in the day. Mr. Randolph explained how the Mississippi could be deepened, but Gen. Bixby declared that he had been told that even with a 14-foot channel, vessel-men would not attempt to navigate the big river owing to dangerous currents and sand bars.

RACE PROBLEMS ARE DISCUSSED

Congregationalists Also Vote to Work With the Episcopalians.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 19.—The race problem, mission work among the Indians, the Hawaiians and the Porto Ricans and the education and religious training of the children of the "poor whites" of the South, were all touched upon today at the sixty-fourth annual meeting of the American Missionary association. All sessions of the National Council of Congregational Churches were suspended today in order that the entire day might be devoted to the American Missionary association's program.

Late yesterday the national council, by a rising vote, adopted a resolution declaring for a closer fellowship with the Episcopal church in faith and worship, and providing for the appointment of a committee of the council to confer with representatives of the Episcopal church toward bringing about the desired results. President Cyrus Northrop of the University of Minnesota.

The gift of the ballot to the Hawaiian natives without safeguarding its conditions, was a great blunder, in the opinion of Dr. Doremous Scudder of Hawaii, one of the speakers, who said that the native Hawaiian was the prey of the unscrupulous.

She Broke Down Entirely

Lantz, W. Va.—Mrs. Tebe Talbott, of this place, says: "I had been troubled with womanly ailments for some time, and at last I broke down entirely. I got so weak I could scarcely walk across the room. Thanks to Cardui, I improved right off. Now I do my housework, and am feeling well." During the past 50 years, more than a million women have been benefited by taking Cardui. You must believe that Cardui will help you, too, since it helped all these others. Cardui is a safe, harmless, vegetable remedy, of positive, curative merit, for women. At drug stores. Try one bottle. It will surely help you.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

The first meeting of the year of the Greysolon du Lhut chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution was held today at the Spalding, the annual luncheon being the affair with which the chapter members enter upon the new season. The table decorations were in nasturtiums and the natural foliage and flags. Mrs. W. H. Burris, regent of the chapter, presided. The toasts were given by Mrs. George M. Smith, who gave the history for the past year, and Mrs. Julia M. Barnes spoke on "Personal Impressions of the Continental Congress." The national meeting was held in April at Washington. Covers were laid for fifty.

The Daughters of Liberty chapter will be entertained at a picnic luncheon tomorrow at the home of Mrs. J. L. Washburn at Hunters Park. This will be the first meeting of the year and no formal program will be followed.

The proceeds from the amateur play given last Saturday at the Lyceum theater under the auspices of the two local chapters of the D. A. R. will probably amount to more than $350, although the final details of the production have not yet been settled. The money will go toward the restoration of Sibley house and at the annual meeting of the state society which will be held tomorrow at St. Paul the details of the work for the next year will be decided upon.

HEIMBACH-DAMKROEGER

Pretty Event at Home of the Bride's Parents.

At a charming home wedding last evening, Miss Gladys Mildred Heimbach, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Heimbach, became the bride of Henry C. Damkroeger at the Heimbach home, 1123 East First street. The rooms were beautifully decorated for the ceremony. In the reception room the white crysanthemums and ferns were the decorations. An archway of Southern smilax and the shaggy white flowers was arranged and on either side were baskets of the chrysanthemums. At 8 o'clock the wedding music was played by La Brosse's orchestra and the wedding party entered. Two little ribbon girls, Helen and Anna Bunker, in white satin costumes, entered first and marked off the aisle. The bride had as her matron of honor, Mrs. Hugh Robert Burgo, and the groom's attendant was W. P. Heimbach, Jr. The service was read by the Rev. John Walker Powell, Jr., of the Endian Methodist church.

The bride wore a gown of white marquisette over satin trimmed in rose point lace with a court train. She wore a cap of point lace with a long tulle veil and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and orchids.

Mrs. Burgo wore a gown of delicate green satin veiled in chiffon and carried a bouquet of chrysanthemums.

A reception followed the ceremony. In the library decorations of American beauty roses were used and in the dining room Killarney roses were the decorations. Assisting about the rooms were Mrs. J. H. LaVaque, Mrs. George W. Buck, Mrs. Frank E. Fregeau, Mrs. A. D. Goodman, Mrs C. E Lovett and Miss Christine Ross, Miss Ethel Farmer and Miss Helen Smith.

The out-of-town guests for the wedding were Mrs. C. B. Severance of Milwaukee, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Nolan of St. Paul and Mrs. Mary D. Greer of Coleraine. The bride's going away gown was of brown with a black hat trimmed in brown plumes.

Mr. Damkroeger and his bride left for a wedding trip. After Feb. 1 Mr. and Mrs Damkroeger will be at home at the Barrington apartments on Eighth avenue east.

Actress Is To Marry Aviator

—Copyright by George Grantham Bain.

PAULINE CHASE. CLAUDE GRAHAME-WHITE.

New York, Oct. 19.—Announcement of the engagement of Pauline Chase, the actress, known as the "Pink Pajama Girl," to Claude Grahame-White, the English aviator now in this country, was made last night. The announcement revealed a romance that had not even been dreamed of, and caused much comment.

Miss Chase first met the aviator nine years ago in London. Present plans of the couple are for the actress to continue her engagements in this country and England until spring, when she will retire to be married.

Mr. White comes of an adventurous family. His mother was one of the first women in England to ride in a automobile and she has been a passenger with him in his biplane. His sister was one of the first women to go up in an aeroplane in France.

NOON WEDDING.

Miss Harsh Becomes Bride of James A. Smith.

At noon today the wedding of Miss Bessie Harsh and James A. Smith took place at the Endion Methodist church. There were no attendants and the service was read by the Rev. John Walker Powell. Mr. Smith and his bride left for Winnipeg and from there will go for a wedding trip through the Canadian Northwest, and to California and Arizona. They will return to Duluth after the first of the new year and after May 1 they will be at home at 3001 Greysolon road.

NEW YORK ARTIST

Wins $1,000 Prize Offered By Mrs. Potter-Palmer.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—To William Sergant Kendall of New York has been awarded the gold medal and $1,000 prize offered by Mrs. Potter Palmer at the annual exhibition of American paintings which was opened to the public today at the Art institute. Four other prizes were awarded at the institute during a reception which preceded the public opening of the exhibition. Of these three were taken by Chicago artists.

Kendall won the gold medal for a painting entitled "Alison". William L. Metcalf of New York won the Norman Wait-Harris medal and $500 prize for his painting "Ice-bound". The Chicago artists winning medals and prizes were Henry S. Hubbell, Frederick G. Bartlett and William Wendt.

W. R. C. LECTURES.

Guy C. Lee to Speak at Memorial Hall.

"The Soul of a Woman" will be the subject of the first in the series of three lectures by Guy Carleton Lee to be presented at Memorial hall at the courthouse under the auspices of the Women's Relief Corps. Mr. Lee is a lecturer and historian of note and there is much interest in his local lectures. Tomorrow afternoon's lectures will be given at 3:30 o'clock. The evening lecture will be at 8:15 o'clock on "When the People Wake." The concluding lecture of the series will be given Friday evening, "The Mind of Man."

Of tomorrow afternoon's lecture on "The Soul of Woman," Mr. Lee's circular says:

"For years there has been insistent demand for a lecture that might set forth with depth and breadth of treatment and brilliancy of diction the position of woman in the world's history. Today, Prof. Guy Carleton Lee, fresh from the preparation of a comprehensive history of women (ten volumes), has produced a lecture on women that is without a peer. With a wealth of fact, a style of unexcelled brilliancy and a sentiment that glorifies woman as God's best gift to man, the distinguished author has created a masterpiece. Sweeping through the aeons of time he proves that the history of women is the history of the world. With keen analysis woman's character is presented in its intricacies, and from the dawn of man's first day woman is shown to be the mainspring of human action."

TRAVEL CLASS

Opens Year With Lecture By Mrs. Macleod.

The first meeting of the year of the travel class of the Twentieth Century club was held yesterday afternoon at the clubroom of the library and the course was opened with a most interesting talk by Mrs. John Macleod, who spoke on "The Story of the Crusades." Mrs. Macleod appears before this class each year and is always heard with great pleasure. Her lecture yesterday afternoon was a delightful one. She presented the historical view of the crusades and a keen analysis of their influence and the conditions of ideals and hopes out of which they grew. The meeting was well attended and Mrs. Macleod was enthusiastically received.

Women's Meeting.

The regularly weekly women's meeting of the Lake Avenue Bethel will be held tomorrow afternoon. Any woman interested is invited to attend.

Minneapolis Lectures.

Mrs. Frances Squire Potter, who lectured in Duluth recently and who formerly was professor of English at the state university, spoke at the Northwestern Conservatory in Minneapolis last night on "Romeo and Juliet." A reception will be held for Mrs. Potter at Stanley hall Saturday night, at which Mrs. Potter will lecture upon "When Women Go Out to Work." She will address the women of Stanley hall on Sunday on the "Prophets of Israel."

Aid Society.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Swedish Mission church will meet tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. J. Carlson of 120 South Fifty-eighth avenue. The young people's sewing circle will meet tomorrow evening.

Personal Mention.

Mrs. Jay Cooke Howard and Mrs. W. H. Burris will leave tomorrow to attend the annual state meeting of the Daughters of the American revolution.

THE EVENING STORY

THE FLOWER STEALER

By G. B. Burgin.

Dickie Longridge, dark, impassioned, full of youthful romance, and in spite of his sister Helen's society, inexpressibly lonely, set out in the Sunday evening after their arrival at the seashore to explore the neighborhood and in quest of adventure. Some one had told him that adventures always came to the adventurous, and he was longing to meet that some one again and tell him that he was a careless handler of the truth. Though he yearned for adventures, none ever came his way. Hence, when his sister, the golden-haired Helen, protested that she was tired of the season and wanted to get away into the country, Dickie (they were wealthy orphans and he worshipped his sister) joyously declared that they would leave all the servants in town, lead the simple life of the country, take a cottage where no one know them, and await their destinies.

Helen's blue eyes looked sorrowfully into his dark ones. "That is all very well for you Dickie, but fair girls never have any adventures. I shall die an old maid. You are the child of destiny."

"Helen said I was a child of destiny. I'd like to know what that means," grumbled Dickie as he swung to the rustic gate of the cottage.

His heart emote him as he left Helen to wrestle with the supper alone, although he had lit the fire for her himself. For a time instead of leading the simple life he had led a sintul one wrestling with that fire. Now Helen was struggling with their supper, and he had fled from the heat of the kitchen.

Dickie looked along the winding road. "I'm sick of it all," he said; "sick of it. Ah, here's a church. I'll go in and try to forget my troubles.

The church was very dark and full of shadows which filtered through the dusty windows.

Dickie remained by the door, and suddenly his heart gave a leap, for sitting directly behind the pulpit was the most beautiful girl he had ever seen.

He noticed there was a weary look in her beautiful eyes, and longed to comfort them.

Then he noticed that a very handsome dark fellow sat at her side, and he did not long to comfort him except with a club—that good old-fashioned kind of club with which cannibals killed Capt. Cook.

"What business has he to sit there beside her?" he mused: Offensive-looking beast like that. It's easy to see that she doesn't care for him."

At that moment the girl turned round and caught Dickie's reverent gaze. Her attitude changed, she no longer looked sad. "She understands already," thought the enraptured youth.

When the service was over the girl came out with the young fellow and passed Dickie as he stood bareheaded beneath an ancient yew. Something in her eyes made his heart jump.

"Now," thought Dickie, "that's my fate. There was no use arguing about it. I was unconsciously praying to meet some one I could love—some one who would take the sting of lonesomeness out of my heart, and I've met her. She didn't wear a wedding ring, therefore she isn't married; and as eyes as blue as blue waters still at even'. She's gone up the road; he's gone down it. I'll go after him a little way, and then turn back to meet her.

"If she's my destiny, some one will introduce us somehow. What a wonderful world it is. Why half an hour ago I didn't care to live. Now I'd hate to die and leave her."

He went down the road for nearly half a mile until he came to a little cottage. In his musings he had lost sight of the dark, handsome fellow.

"Presently," he resolved, "I'll turn back and meet her, and make believe I've lost my way. Then, out of the goodness of her heart she'll think I'm a simpleton from town and direct me. But how, without being taken for a cad, can I make her unmistakably understand that there's no one in the world like her, and that if she's engaged to that dark fellow I'll have to kill him. He can't be her brother. Helen and myself are exceptional in that way—one dark, one fair.

"No such luck. Ah, now when I want to be good to be worthy of her, why does the devil (I'm sure it's the devil) put this temptation in my way.

"The temptation stood on a lawn in front of a beautiful little rustic cottage, far prettier than one he had taken. In the center of the lawn was a standard rose tree. and in the heart of that standard four absoluteiy perfect crimson roses burned liked fire.

"If I could give her those," murmured Dickie, "she couldn't misunderstand such roses."

"But they don't belong to you," said conscience.

"Shut up," said Dickie angrily. "I'm going to leave a bill in an envelope in the heart of the bush; that's not stealing. Besides there is nobody about. A man who grows roses like that ought to be about to look after them. He's no business to put what a Chinaman would call temptation in my way, and deserves to lose them for his carelessness. Why, they are worthy even of her."

"You shouldn't have brought a conscience like me from town," said his conscience. "That's where I belong. If you're going to stifle my voice, I've no business here among these simple, unsophisticated rustics."

"Oh, shut up," said Dickie, irritably. "I'm doing this poor chap a kindness. He may't be able to pay his rent and that sov. will make all the difference to him. You go back to town till you are wanted."

After conscience had left him, he noiselessly opened the gate, put the sovereign in the middle of the bush, carefully cut the roses, and was just about to sneak out with his booty, when the dark young man, pipe in mouth, sauntered around from the back of the house, accompanied by a fat-nosed, ferocious-looking, bandy-legged bulldog.

"Hi! what the deuce are you doing with my roses?" the young man fiercely shouted.

Dickie bolted. The young man, accompanied by the bulldog, followed after.

As Dickie bolted up the hill in the gathering twilight, there did not seem to be quite so much simplicity in the simple life. Dwelling in town had told upon his wind, and it was no consolation to him to realize that country life had had the same effect on the bulldog, for the latter's master ran as easily as if he had been on the level. The hedges, too, were so steep and high that there was no chance of climbing over them. Altogether, although in his heart Dickie was gratified to think that adventure had overtaken him, he was not nearly so gratified when he realized that the bulldog's master would soon do the same. He remembered that he had noticed a certain grimness about the young man's mouth which seemed rather out of keeping with the tranquility of the old church. The pace began to tell on him. His heart pumped rapidly, his breath came in short gasps.

Suddenly his pursuer stopped short with an exclamation of annoyance. "Stop till I've found my pipe, you scoundrel, and then I'll give you beans."

Dickie, who had not the slightest wish to be the recipient of any kind of vegetable from his pursuer, regardlessly ran round the corner and into the arms of the beautiful girl whom he had seen at the church.

"I beg your pardon," he stammered, "but as you see I was in a hurry."

The girl looked at him mischievously, although her color heightened. "So it seems. Didn't I hear my brother shouting, 'Stop, thief?' You were in church this evening. Thieves as a rule don't go to church."

"Of course, they don't," panted Dickie. "It's just my luck. I, was praying to heaven for someone to introduce me to you when—"

The bulldog lumbered round the corner, his mouth open, his wide smile tempered by ferocious anticipation.

The young girl's expression changed to one of real horror. "He's after you?"

"I believe so."

"Get up into that oak tree out of his reach. Xenophon never lets go his hold; and he won't obey anyone except my brother."

"Can't I argue—"

"Not with him; jump for your life."

With the agility of a trained acrobat, Dickie leaped for an overhanging branch. The bulldog did the same and missed him by about two inches. Then he resignedly lay down under the tree.

"Your brother will be here directly" said Dickie, "and I shan't have a chance to explain. He's worse than the bulldog Will you do me the honor to accept these flowers? I've risked a good deal for them. Excuse my throwing them to you."

The girl caught the roses, then gave a little cry of dismay. "How could you! How could you! My brother expected to get the first prize for these at the rose show tomorrow."

"I didn't know he lived there," panted Dickie, still clinging to his bough. "And I wanted them for you; and I left a bill in the middle of the bush to pay for them, but unfortunately your brother came after me."

The girl wrung her hands. "I am so sorry. He'll hand you over to the police. He has been so melancholy and bad tempered lately that I haven't been able to do anything with him."

"I've been pretty bad tempered, too," explained Dickie. "All from want of sympathy. The roses were so lovely that I had to get them for you. I meant to find out where you lived and leave them there. You are the only person in the world who is worthy of them. How am I to explain to Helen?"

"Who is Helen?"

"My sister. We came last night to a little cottage here in search of the simple life."

"Three months ago we did the same, and we are both heartily sick of it."

"Don't be sick of it," implored Dickie. "It's a beautiful life—with the right person."

"Hush! Here's my brother."

"I dropped my pipe, Mollie," he shouted. "But I expect Xenophon got the beggar who stole my ro—what the —?" He paused in amazement.

"I left a bill in the middle of the bush," humbly explained Dickie. "I wanted them for your sister."

"Confound your impudence. I'll leave Xenophon here all night, and—"

There was a rustle of silken skirts, and Helen rushed between Xenophon and his quarry. "How dare you speak to my brother like that?" she cried, with flashing eyes. "Call off that brute at once, and give me back my brother. Our fire has gone out, and I can't get along without him," she lamely explained.

The young man took off his cap, his manner changed. "With pleasure. Come here, Xenophon, you bloodthirsty brute. I'm Roger Du Caine. This is my sister, Mollie."

"I'm Helen Longridge, and this is my brother Dickie." She read the admiration in the young man's eyes; Helen's indignation suddenly died away.

"Come down, Mr. Longridge," affably entreated Roger Du Caine, "and be introduced to Xenophon."

"I'd rather meet Miss Du Caine," said Dikcie, dropping from his tree.

Roger Du Caine took two of the roses from his sister and presented them to Helen. "The only reparation I can offer." "Mollie, won't you ask Miss Longridge and her brother to come back to supper with us?"

At supper they each wore a red rose. Xenophon, who hadn't a rose, seemed to be the only one dissatisfied with the simple life.

Working Their Way Around the World

OLIVE ADAIR AND ORALEE LIST.

These two girls, Olive Adair and Oralee List, have started on a trip around the world from their homes in Oklahoma, intending to work their passage all the way. In Kansas City they did work in a department store for a few days and so earned enough money to get to Chicago. In Pittsburg they sold copies of the Chronicle Telegraph. They have been successful in working their way to the Atlantic coast and they hope to be equally successful in foreign countries.

Hints for the Boudoir

By MILDRED WYCKOFF.

The Danger of Cosmetics.

Girls should be extremely wary of using powders and paints in order to improve their personal appearance. There are only a few powders which are non-injurious to the skin; the majority tend to block up the pores and create an unhealthy action of the skin, which cannot be quickly remedied. To test a powder put some into water. Those which are insoluble in water are the ones to avoid. A safe cosmetic to use is a mixture of elder flower water and rose water. Glycerine and ointments of a greasy nature should be omitted from the toilet table, as they tend to encourage the growth of superfluous hair. Lead poisoning is one of the evils produced by certain "hair restorers," while many violet powders contain arsenous acid—a dangerous thing to use. Girls should never employ the use of coloring of artificial flowers as a rouge, because many of these flowers contain aniline and arsenic, which may excite a bad case of eczema. A perfectly safe powder for the face is purified Fuller's earth, but the less nature is tampered with the better. Fresh air and soft water are the most valuable cosmetics, after all, but, unfortunately, one can get but few women to realize the fact.

A Pretty Superstition.

There is a quaint custom popular in certain parts of Bohemia. The mode of procedure is as follows: A girl goes into a field of sweet peas and there weaves a garland of flowers of five or seven different colors. Next she must lie down, using the garland for a pillow and, resting her right ear upon it, compose herself for sleep. Then in her sleep she will hear a voice from underground telling her what manner of a man she is to wed. There is no reason why this charm should not act as powerfully anywhere as in Bohemia, and to take a siesta on some shady bank on a hot day, when the air is likely to be agreeable to most people.

For Greasy Hair.

When the hair is greasy an excellent wash will be found in soft warm water to which have been added a few drops of ammonia—about a teaspoonful to a full basin of water— Too much ammonia, however, is bad for the hair, tending to make it brittle. Therefore, be chary in the use of it.

To Make Rose Lip Salve.

Procure white wax, 5 drachms spermaceti, 2 drachms; oil of sweet almonds, 1 ounce; oil of rose, 5 drops, and alkanet root 1 drahm. Heat the oil of almonds and alkanet together over a slow fire. Melt the wax and spermaceti and add the two together. When nearly cold, add the perfume and stir until nearly set.

MORE MONEY IS REQUIRED

About $25,000 Needed to Complete State Fire Relief Fund.

Duluth Leads All Cities in Amount of Contributions.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Insisting that more money must be raised, and that immediately, in order to extend adequate assistance to the section of the state recently swept by forest fires, those interested in this work, including representatives of the Red Cross society, met yesterday afternoon in the office of Governor Eberhart and designated the Red Cross Northern Minnesota relief committee to carry forward the work of temporary aid already begun.

The committee was given full charge of all further collections and distribution of funds in connection with the permanent relief. The committee was made up of W. A. McGonagle of Duluth, chairman; J. H. Beek, St. Paul, and E. T. Liese, Minneapolis. They were instructed to assume their duties at once.

All the details of the permanent relief work were left in their hands. It was declared, however, that they would be unable to determine upon a definite policy to pursue until they could know the size of the fund that would be at their disposal.

The following are the funds reported as raised: Minnesota Red Cross, $30,000; Duluth, $22,000; St. Paul, $7,000; Hibbing, $5,000; Minneapolis, $4,000; Brainerd, $1,800; Virginia, $1,500; Ely, $1,100; St. Cloud, $750; in hands of Mayor Williams of Baudette, $900; total, $74,050. This leaves $25,950 to be raised in order to provide the fund of $100,000 which is desired.

Send Money to Clark.

Kenneth Clark, president of the Merchants' National bank in St. Paul and treasurer of the Minnesota branch of the Red Cross society, will still continue as the custodian of the relief fund. It was decided to request the various cities in the state that have subscribed sums to send their contribution to him.

After having spent a week in the devastated country, E. P. Bicknell, who returned to St. Paul yesterday, reported that the serious difficulty in the way of erecting homes for the people existed because of the inability to secure any lumber except from Canada. Thereupon the following telegram from J. H. Beek was read:

"Baudette, Minn., Oct. 18.—Governor Eberhart, St. Paul: Duty on lumber from Canada for bonafide relief work waived if ordered by general relief committee. Confer with Marcus Johnson there."

An order was immediately entered to request the collector of customs for Minnesota to suspend the custom of Canadian lumber that is to be used in relief work. Authority for him to do this was said to have been received already from the federal treasury department.

WANTS LAWS FOR ALASKA AT ONCE

Delegate Wickersham Has Program to Present to Congress.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 19.—James R. Wickersham, delegate to congress from Alaska, arrived in Seattle yesterday on his way to Washington and declared that he will urge the passage of legislation for the development of the northern territory. The legislative policy to be urged by Delegate Wickersham contains the following:

"An elective legislature for Alaska that shall be enabled to make the laws governing domestic affairs.

"Opening of the resources of Alaska so that the individual and not the corporation shall benefit."

Concerning the decision of the interstate commerce commission in not assuming jurisdiction over Alaskan transportation companies, he said:

"Operators on the American side of the line are discriminated against. They are at the mercy of the transportation companies since the interstate commerce commission refused to assume jurisdiction."

IS STILL HEART WHOLE.

Col. Asa Daily, custodian of Memorial hall, was not married when away on his vacation and consequently he has the laugh on his friends at the courthouse, who first spread the story.

While visiting in Canada he sent many postals to friends at the courthouse in which instead of "I" he always used "we." Then on one he said: "Don't tell the boys."

The story began to spread and when Mr. Daily got back he saw that his friends had "bit."

ARBITRATE WINNIPEG STREET CAR TROUBLE.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 19.—With a strike of all employes of the Winnipeg Electric railway called for 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, officials of the company and labor leaders agreed to arbitrate just as the clocks were about to strike the hour. At 4 o'clock the company posted notices at its barns, calling the attention of the employes to the penalties they would be liable to under the Lemieux act should they strike rather than agree to arbitration.

Three Men and Several Children Terrorized By Boy With Revolver.

New York, Oct. 19.—The outbreak of a "bad man"—aged 13 years—who chose his chool room as the scene of his rampage, caused a borderland panic in St. Francis parochial school yesterday afternoon. The lad, George Masgreano, flourishing a huge revolver, terrorized his classmates and a male teacher for ten minutes, forcing them to a corner, and when Father James Merighi, attracted by the uproar, rushed into the room, the boy made him kneel with the others. Other pupils called Policeman O'Brien, but the threat of the revolver halted him at the door. As the boy's attention was diverted a moment, O'Brien was able to close in and seize the revolver. Then he found the weapon not only unloaded, but so stiff in trigger action that George could not have discharged it. The little boy will answer for his outbreak in the children's court.

CATHEDRAL ABBEY IN NORTH CAROLINA.

Charlotte, N. C., Oct. 19.—In the presence of a distinguished company of Catholic prelates and clergy, Mgr. Diomede Falconio, D.D., apostolic delegate, published the mandate of Pope Pius X and conferred upon Belmont Abbey yesterday the distinction of Abbattia Nullius, or cathedral abbey, the first of its kind in the Western hemisphere.

An audience that overflowed the beautiful abbey cathedral witnessed the elaborate ceremonies. The procession of ecclesiastical dignitaries, followed by Bishop Hald and Mgr. Falconio, formed in front of the monastery and marched in solemn procession to the cathedral, where Mgr. Falconio celebrated pontifical high mass. Then came the reading of the papal bull, erecting the cathedral abbey, and finally the papal benediction.

WASHBURN, WIS., COURT.

Judge Parish Cleans Up Calendar During the Week.

Washburn, Wis., Oct. 19.—Judge Parish held court here last week and cleaned up the calendar, consisting of seven criminal, eleven jury and twenty-two court cases. In sentencing Joseph Teddy, who pleaded guilty to resisting an officer at Iron River, Judge Parish commented severely upon that class who believe officers are not clothed with authority.

The defendant was sentenced to ninety days in jail.

James Davis was sent to the reformatory at Green Bay for sixteen months, he having been guilty of larceny from the person. Schultze Bros., of Duluth recovered a judgment against Hans Hendrickson of Iron River for nearly $300 on a bill of goods. Belle Fraraizer who sued F. S. Herbert of Iron River for assault and battery claiming $3,000 lost her case. Annie Johnson recovered a verdict for $950 against the town of Iron River for personal injuries she received while traveling upon a defective highway. Asa Kemp, who was injured while working for the Ellingson Lumber company at Hawkins in their sawmill recovered a judgment for $650. Only two personal injury cases were tried, both the plaintiff's recovering judgments. The case of Lake against the Northwestern Fuel company, of St. Paul was settled out of court, and dismissed.

FOUR MEN KILLED BY WOOD ALCOHOL.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—Daniel J. Brennan of Columbus, Ohio; Arthur Lowrey of Milwaukee; Clem O'Neill of Savanna, Ill., and Daniel Daily of Chicago, are dead from drinking what the police believe to have been wood alcohol. Brennan, Lowrey and O'Neill were railroad switchmen, and with a number of friends indulged in a drinking bout Monday afternoon. All became ill Monday night. As a result of the deaths the police have arrested three men who were in the party Monday, pending an investigation. Although friends of the dead men said they had drunk nothing but beer and whisky, the police found a half-filled pail of wood alcohol in a barn where the men had been drinking. The police say that the wood alcohol was mixed in the beer and whisky.

DULLNESS IN LAKE TRADE

Independent Boat Owners Look to Coal Movement for Cargoes.

Many Vessels Forced Out of Commission By Lack of Business.

Never before in the history of lake transportation during the past decade has there been the general dullness in certain lines of the carrying business as there is at the present time. Outside of the fact that the boats of the steel company have taken down a large amount of contract ore and will be busy up to the time they go into dock for the close of the present season, and the additional fact that there is an unusually large amount of coal moving, there is very little doing at the various lake ports.

It is reported from Milwaukee that the harbor there is the quietest it has been for years. This is true of other ports. Practically the only activity is in coal, the movement in which is heavy at the present time and promises to be heavy up to the close of navigation.

There are no ore charters, and for the season the independents have given up the idea of getting any ore. All the ore that is moving at the present time is contract ore, and many of the contract boats will be through within the next thirty days or less.

The grain movement is at a standstill and vessels formerly in the market for grain are either offering to take cargoes for storage or have given up the idea of getting cargoes.

There are too many boat, and with grain almost out of the market those grain boats that cannot secure cargoes for storage, will probably follow the lead of many of the independent ore boats and dock for the present season.

There is a general feeling that the season passing to its end may mark the last appearance on the lakes of a number of boats that will be taken to the Atlantic seaboard for other lines of transportation.

NO BACKACHE OR KIDNEY MISERY

A Few Doses Regulate Kidneys and End Urinary Troubles.

The real treachery and danger in kidney trouble is because the first symptoms are always seen in other parts of the body before anything wrong is noticed with the kidneys themselves.

The moment you suspect any kidney, bladder or urinary disorder, or feel a dull, constant Backache or the urine is thick, cloudy or offensive or full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a scalding sensation, begin taking Pape's Diuretic as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine, at any price, made anywhere else in the world, which is so harmless or will effect so thorough and prompt a cure.

Put an end to kidney trouble while it is only trouble—before it develops into Dropsy, Gravel, Diabetes or Bright's Disease.

Pape's Diuretic acts directly upon the kidneys, bladder and urinary system; cleanses, heals and regulates these organs, ducts and glands and completes the cure within a few days.

Pains in the back, sides or loins, rheumatic twinges, debilitating headache, nervousness, dizziness, bilious stomach, prostatic trouble, sleeplessness, inflamed or puffy eyelids, weakness, worn-out feeling and many other symptoms caused by clogged, inactive kidneys promptly vanish. Frequent, painful and uncontrolable urination due to weak or irritable bladder is overcome.

Your physician, pharmacist, banker or any mercantile agency will vouch for the responsibility of Pape, Thompson & Pape of Cincinnati, who prepare Pape's Diuretic—50 cent treatment—sold by every druggist in the world.

MORELAND IS AGROUND

Big Steamer Runs on Shore of Keweenaw Point Near Eagle River.

Details of Accident and Extent of Damage Are Unknown.

The big freighter, W. B. Moreland, owned by Jones & Laughlin, is ashore at Eagle river on Keweenaw point. Just how badly the boat is damaged, and whether there is any danger of the vessel being lost has not been learned here. It is said that she is hard aground, however, and that the task of floating her will be a difficult one.

The W. B. Moreland is a comparatively new boat of the largest type, being 600 feet in length. It has made only about three trips to the Head of the Lakes the present season. Claude Ennis is the captain of the boat.

Clearing with ore from Allouez, the Moreland had an uneventful trip until the time she ran aground. It is expected advices will be received this afternoon, telling just how serious the damage is.

Shipping Demoralized.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 18.—Lake shipping business at Port William and upper lake ports is demoralized on account of the light demand by the grain trade. Dozens of American and Canadian vessel men are preparing to winter their fleets already. Seven-eighths to 1 cent per bushel is now offered for grain cargoes to Buffalo and Montreal.

HEARING ON RATES IS POSTPONED

Committee of Development Association Will Meet in November.

The committee of the Northern Minnesota Development association, which is to hold a hearing on railroad rates and alleged discriminations, has postponed the hearing until some time in November. The dates first announced were Oct. 20, 21 and 22.

When W. R. McKenzie, secretary of the development association, was in Duluth last week, P. E. Dowling, who is chairman of the committee, had a conference with him and it was decided at that time to postpone the hearing. The call will be issued later.

The committee was appointed at the meeting of the development association at Crookston in June. Numerous instances of alleged discrimination were placed before the association by shippers and consignees alike and the committee was appointed to thoroughly investigate the subject. The report will be submitted to the association at Brainerd in December and, if the findings warrant, the association as a body will place the facts and allegations before the state railroad and warehouse commission in the hope of obtaining remedy for existing abuses.

Shippers and others having grievances against the railroad companies will be invited to appear before the committee some time in November to state their grievances.

LEAGUE HOLDS FIRST MEETING

Methodist Church Men's Club Holds an Enjoyable Social Session.

The first meeting of the season was held last night by the Men's League of the First Methodist church. More than 100 men were present.

After a social half hour, dinner was served after which there was an enjoyable program. Rev. C. R. Rice of Hartford, Kan., father of the pastor of the church, Rev. M. S. Rice, gave an interesting talk. Songs and a general good time followed with a talk by Rev. M. S. Rice on "Ignorance Abroad."

With slides, Mr. Rice gave an enjoyable talk, explaining the places pictured, and relating incidents that occurred while he was on the trip.

The Men's league is an organization of the church which combines with the work more than one feature that is pleasurable. The members go directly to the church from their day's labor. Dinner is served and either a business or social session is enjoyed.

The officers of the league are: W. L. Smithies, president; N. M. Young, vice president; T. E. McKibbin, secretary; W. C. Brundage, treasurer. The motto of the league is: "Come directly from business and bring a friend."

THIRTY-FIVE CENTS A DAY

That Is What Woman Claims She Has to Live On.

Husband Says She Took $10 From Him Tuesday Night.

"Can I live and clothe myself on 35 cents a day?" was the astounding question which Mrs Russell Lockhart hurled at Chief Troyer and Capt. Fiskett when she appeared at the police station today to find out about it.

The officers held up their hands, shocked surprise pictured on their faces. And it's pretty hard to shock a policeman after he has been on the force as long as either of those two have been on the job.

Before they had a chance to put their thoughts into words, Mrs. Lockhart went on, "Well, that's what my husband expects me to do, and I've quit staying awake nights trying to figure out how it can be done in this town, or any other. A hermit might do it by existing on bread and milk and nuts, if he didn't have to pay any rent. But he'd have to dress in skins or leaves. I can't do it. Steak is too high, and I haven't been able to find any landlords or landladies who supply furnished rooms just for the fun of taking care of them."

By that time the "powers that be" at headquarters got their breaths back. They wanted to know if they had heard correctly. "Yes, I said 35 cents a day," she reiterated.

Mrs. Lockhart also stated that her husband, who has been employed as a waiter, had tried to induce her to lead a life of shame.

A warrant was sworn out charging Russell with non-support. He was arrested and arraigned in police court this morning. He entered a plea of not guilty and his trial was set for tomorrow afternoon. Russell told the police that his wife had taken $10 from him last night and thought that she intended to leave for Minneapolis on this afternoon's train. Capt. Fiskett secured a subpoena for her with a view to serving it upon her should her husband's surmise prove correct.

RUSH FOR LICENSES TO HUNT GAME.

Up to noon today 600 hunting licenses had been issued this season from the county auditor's office at the courthouse.

This is a great many more than were issued at this season last year.

There has been a rush for licenses for some weeks now and it is expected that before the big game season begins, there will be several hundred more called for.

OLD EYESORES BEING REMOVED

The improvements which have been under way on Sixth avenue east have been about finished.

When the street car company removed its tracks it filled in the avenue with crushed rock, putting it in such excellent shape that it was unnecessary for the property owners to pave it. But they finished it up with a combined cement stone curb and gutter between Second and Fourth streets. From Second street to the alley between First and Second streets, about half the width of the road has been paved with tarcon. Below the alley, cement steps have been laid to First street. The total expense has been borne by the property owners. The city has also improved the appearance of the neighborhood at Sixth avenue east and First street by removing some of the unsightly buildings which stood there for years. The board of public works expects to take them all out in a short time.

SANITY DOUBTED.

Information of Insanity Has Been Filed Against Two Men.

Jacob Carlson, 23 years old, will be examined as to his sanity by a board of physicians this afternoon in probate court. Carlson thinks some one is after him with intent to take his life. The information against him states that he will not perform the slightest duty for himself without asking permission.

Joseph Somsa of Eveleth will also be examined at the same time. The information against Somsa does not state exactly what form his alleged insanity takes. He owns considerable property in the range town.

MAY BE ADVANCE MAN FOR CROOKS.

The police believe that Roland Meely, 23 years old, arrested yesterday on a charge of peddling without a license, may be the advance man of a gang of crooks who may have been planning to operate in this city. When arrested he was trying to sell soap in different houses. He had some papers on him containing some kind of a code, which could not be interpreted. He entered a plea of not guilty in police court today and will be tried tomorrow afternoon.

OVERCOME BY THE HEAT

Workman Employed By Sidewalk Contractor Is Taken to Hospital.

And Next Day the Weather Man Announces Snow Storm.

Yesterday, Oct. 18, Peter Nystrom was overcome by heat.

Tonight the weather man predicts a snowstorm for Duluth and vicinity.

A man overcome by heat at the Head of the Lakes in the middle of the fall is unprecedented. As far as can be learned the records show no similar case. Heat prostrations are not uncommon during the hotter summer months, but heretofore they have been unheard of at this season of the year.

Nystrom was employed by Contractor D. H. Clough to help lay a sidewalk on East Superior street, near Eighth avenue west. The mercury was up towards 80 deg. above zero, and many people complained of the oppressive atmosphere. Nystrom suddenly collapsed in the middle of the afternoon.

The police were summoned and Nystrom was taken to St. Luke's hospital in the patrol wagon. Restoratives were administered to him at the hospital. He showed a marked improvement and was soon taken to his home on Twentieth avenue west. There is little doubt but that he will soon recover.

RHODE ISLAND G. O. P. PEACEFUL

Payne Tariff Law Is Indorsed and All Officers Renominated.

Providence, R. I., Oct. 19.—It is practically certain that the present state officers, headed by Governor Aram J. Pothier, will be renominated without opposition and the party platform adopted as presented to the Republican state convention today. Interest centers in the Second district Republican congressional convention, where three candidates are in a contest for the nomination to succeed Congressman Adin B. Capron, who declined renomination after fourteen years of service, because of ill health.

Indorsement of the administration of President Taft and of the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill and expressions of regret at the retirement of United States Senator Nelson W. Aldrich are contained in the platform.

MILL CITY CENSUS NOT PADDED MUCH

Director Durand Hopes to Be Able to Tell Population This Week.

Washington, Oct. 19.—Director Durand of the census bureau stated today that he hoped to be able to announce the population of Minneapolis, Seattle and Boise, Idaho, before the end of the present week. These were among the cities mentioned by the director as having inflated returns in enumeration figures. He said today in none of these cases was the padding comparable to that at Tacoma. The additions in Minneapolis were almost insignificant, he said.

Many protests are being received from Tacoma, but the director is not yet prepared to make responses to them.

CRIPPLE IS KICKED.

Eleven Stitches Are Taken in Lidgerwood, N. D., Man's Face.

Lidgerwood, N. D., Oct. 19.—Eleven stitches were required to close a wound inflicted on John Kohoutek of this city when he was kicked by a horse. He was in a buggy when the horse became fractious and kicked him. The wound reached from the mouth to the chin, and clear to the bone. The victim is already a cripple, being unable to use either of his legs.

BOWBELLS, N. D., TO HAVE NEW WATER WORKS.

Bowbells, N. D., Oct. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Bowbells is to have a complete new system of waterworks, the contract for the construction of the plant being let to George W. Kemper at $11,850. Work is to be commenced immediately and the contract calls for the conclusion of the job before Jan. 1. Bowbells will be one of the first cities in this section to have a city water system, and the first in Burke county to enjoy such a distinction.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

PLANS FOR MUCH WORK

Brainerd City Council Proposes to Improve Many City Streets.

North Broadway to Be Boulevarded and Thirteenth Street Graded.

Brainerd, Minn., Oct. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The council ordered much grading and curbing on streets in various parts of the city. North Broadway is to be boulevarded. Thirteenth street is being graded, the county and the city sharing the expense. The assessment levy covering the expense of putting in the lateral sewer, "M," in district No. 1, was adopted. The propositions of the Toltz Engineering company of St. Paul to furnish current at 2 cents and the Stoner proposition offering electric current at 2¼c were carefully considered by the council. The entire water and light board was present and the consulting engineer, O. C. Claussen of St. Paul was in attendance. The room was filled with citizens. City Attorney Ryan and Engineer Claussen will draw up a power and light contract which the successful bidder will enter into.

Sells Grand Theater.

F. E. Low has sold his interest in the Grand theater, transferring his stock to F. H. Gruenhagen of the Slipp-Gruenhagen company. The house for some time has been under the management of Jull Wright, the president of the company, and the transfer of the stock will in no wise effect the management.

SANDSTONE HAS A SEVERE STORM

Lightning, Hail, Wind and Rain Strike Pine County Village.

Sandstone, Minn., Oct. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—A terrific electrical storm passed over here last evening after 6 o'clock which nearly gained the proportions of a tornado. Rain came down in torrents, with hail and accompanied by a strong gale. Some small buildings were blown over and signs were torn down, but no serious damage resulted in this neighborhood. The storm went northward and lasted about half an hour. It will greatly aid in quenching the brush fires hereabouts and be of material benefit to farmers, as the soil is sadly in need of a good drenching.

CHIPPEWA FALLS OLD MILL QUITS

Historic Cutter of Pine Lumber Has Run for the Last Time.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., Oct. 19.—The C. L. & B. company's mill has finished the season's cut and the last big cut of the famous mill is past.

The company has a few logs at Little Falls that it has been impossible to get in because of the low stage of water all summer. These will be brought down in the spring, and two band saws will run possibly ten days or two weeks, but never again will the great institution see a season's cut of pine.

The first mill began cutting lumber in this city in 1836 three-quarters of a century ago. From then until now every season has seen Chippewa Falls turn out millions of feet of lumber, and the passing of this industry will be mourned by every old settler, for there are few to whom the lumber industry has not given employment in the past.

Cut Millions of Feet.

The mill nas been in the hands of Frederick Weyerhauser, and his associates the C. L. & B. company, for the past thirty years, and in that time has cut a little over 1,500,000,000 feet, an average of 50,000,000 feet a year. The smallest cut was in 1896, 28,500,000 feet; the largest cut in 1902, 70,328,000, all day time work. The first mill was built in 1836. The present structure was erected in 1887. On the night of Sept. 15, 1886, the old mill was struck by lightning and consumed. On the 13th of June of the next year, the first half of the present mill was started, and on Aug. 7, the second half, 30,000,000 feet being cut that year, a record that was considered wonderful among lumbermen.

MOURNED IN MARQUETTE.

Mrs. M. H. Maynard, Early Day Resident, Is Buried Today.

Marquette, Mich., Oct. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Funeral services were held here this afternoon for Mrs. M. H. Maynard, one of the pioneer residents of this city who died Monday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William D. Rees, in Cleveland, Ohio, aged 75.

Mrs. Maynard's death was not unexpected as she had been in failing health since last spring. She spent the past summer in Marquette, leaving here for Cleveland early in August. Two children survive her, Mrs. William D. Rees of Cleveland, and A. F. Maynard of Chicago, both of whom are well known in this city.

Having come here as a bride in 1856, Mrs. Maynard was one of the oldest Marquette residents. She was the daughter of John A. Foot, a prominent Cleveland attorney in his day, and her grandfather was at one time governor of Connecticut and United States senator from that state. Her husband, who died in the South about three years ago, practiced law in this city for many years and was associated in business with the late Peter White.

Mrs. Maynard was beloved by all with whom she came in contact because of her delightful hospitality, engaging personality and beautiful character.

FOR POISONING STEER.

Pleasant Valley, Wis., Farmer Must Answer to Grand Jury.

Eau Claire, Wis., Oct. 19.—After a preliminary hearing which waxed quite interesting and exciting in Justice L. A. Brace's court yesterday, John Gamouf, a Pleasant Valley farmer who has become a familiar figure in the various courts of this county was bound over to the circuit court for trial on a charge of poisoning a steer, the property of Edgar Jacot, a neighbor. Bail was fixed at $5,000 and upon failure to furnish this amount the defendant was committed to the county jail.

MONUMENT DEDICATED

On Wood Lake Battlefield Where Gen. Sibley Met Indians.

Granite Falls, Minn., Oct. 19.—Fifteen hundred persons, many of them pioneers from various parts of the state, made a pilgrimage yesterday to the battlefield at Wood Lake, where the state monument commemorating Gen. Sibley's engagement with the Indian forces led by Little Crow, was dedicated. Hundreds of automobiles and carriages were used in taking the people to the site of the monument, which is on the farm of G. O. Homme, four miles from Wood Lake.

The invocation was pronounced by Rev. Gustav Melby of Granite Falls. Judge L. W. Collins of Minneapolis, president of the monument commission, presided and made appropriate remarks of introduction. The address of the day was delivered by Col. W. W. Folwell of the faculty of the University of Minnesota.

The monument is thirty feet in height and is of red granite from St. Cloud.

RAIN HAS EXTINGUISHED WISCONSIN FOREST FIRES.

Courderay, Wis., Oct. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The forest fires that have been raging through this section for the last few days were extinguished by last night's rains. The fires have covered many thousand acres of land and spoiled millions of feet of standing timber. The forest fires destroyed all farm buildings for two settlers near Birchwood yesterday and the Deer Lake settlement near here were all fighting the fire yesterday. Fires have driven deer and wolves from the nearby swamps within sight of this village the last few days.

KILLED IN TAMARACK.

Calumet Man Loses Life as Bride-to-Be Crosses Water.

Calumet, Mich., Oct. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Purpich, 27 years of age, attempted to step into the ascending cage at the thirty-fourth level of Tamarack No. 5 shaft Monday, missed his footing and fell to the bottom of the shaft, a distance of about 500 feet. The remains when picked up, were a mass of cuts and terrible bruises, there being hardly a whole bone left in the body.

Purpick's friends say that he was to have been married in about three weeks. A month ago he sent money to his sweetheart in Croatia, his former home in Austria, to pay her transportation to America and to Calumet. She will arrive in time to attend the funeral.

THREE SISTERS MARRIED DURING SAME CEREMONY.

Stephenson, Mich., Oct. 19.—An unusual event on Monday was the marriage of three sisters, daughters of Joseph Le Blanc, proprietor of an Ingalls, Mich., hotel, at the same time. The triple ceremony was performed in the Catholic church here by the Rev. F. X. Barth.

Miss Agnes Le Blanc became the bride of William Taylor, Nahma, Mich.; Saruh was married to Irving Deacon, Ingalls, and Anna was wedded to Albert Collins, Ingalls.

RAILROAD MEN HURT.

One Upper Michigan Man Loses Both Legs, Another One Leg.

Iron Mountain, Mich., Oct. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thomas Trottier, a brakeman employed by the Northwestern road, fell under an ore car Saturday and had both legs crushed below the knees. It was found impossible to save the limbs and they were amputated. Trottier was engaged in switching cars when the accident occurred.

Edward Nelson, for the past five years a fireman on the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic road, is at the home of his father at St. Ignace, minus his right foot. He was the victim of an accident at Allenville. He was at work beneath the locomotive when in some maner the "slack" of the train shoved the engine ahead and his foot was caught and badly crushed at the ankle.

PICKS RIPE RASPBERRIES.

Sandstone Man Gathers Luscious Fruit in His Dooryard.

Sandstone, Minn., Oct. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Chris Rudisuhle, the local grain inspector, Monday found a branch of ripe raspberries on one of the bushes in his garden and also some still in blossom. He is also somewhat of a potato grower and has some two-and-a-half-pound samples or Carman tubers on exhibition in Russell's land office. The berries are on exhibition at the Courier newspaper office.

HE COULD NOT BREATHE.

North Dakotan Loses Artificial Breathing Apparatus and Dies.

East Grand Forks, N. D., Oct. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Death came in a most peculiar manner here yesterday to Oscar Johnson of Merrifield, N. D., who has been here on a visit. Because of an injury sustained to his throat, he had a small silver tube in his windpipe. This he lost twice Tuesday night, then regained it. He lost it the third time while asleep early yesterday. Not being able to find it, he rushed downstairs to obtain assistance. On reaching the hallway below he stumbled forward, falling into the arms of George Pierce. He appeared to be dying, and a physician was called, but before he arrived the young man had passed away.

Johnson is survived by a widow and one child, aged 1 year. He has been making his home with his father-in-law for the past several years.

CONVICT HANGS HIMSELF.

Despondent Negro Confined in Prison Takes His Life.

Marquette, Mich., Oct. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—With his toes touching the floor, Thomas Hall, a negro prisoner, was found dead in his cell at the Northern Michigan penitentiary yesterday. He had been despondent, and had hung himself with a rope made from strips torn from his bed sheet. Hall was from Detroit. He had been convicted of assault with intent to rob, and was serving a five-year sentence.

DULUTH CONTRACTOR IS SUED FOR DAMAGES.

Grand Forks, N. D., Oct. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ten thousand dollars is the amount of damages asked by K. Mortenson in an action brought against P. McDonnell, the Duluth contractor. Mortenson was employed in the construction of a sewer here and on May 25 last fell into the trench, a distance of eighteen feet, claiming to have sustained permanent injuries which incapacitate him from earning a livelihood. Mortenson claims that faulty equipment was responsible for the accident. The defendant claims that it was the plaintiff's own carelessness that got him into the trouble. The case will come up for trial at the November term of court.

NORTH DAKOTA HORSES ARE WINNING IN THE WEST.

Grand Forks, N. D., Oct. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The J. A. Dinnie string of horses is continuing to be successful in the Western campaign, telegraphic advices being received here yesterday to the effect that they had succeeded in taking five firsts and one second in the races at Salt Lake City, Utah. From that city the string, which is in charge of Al Russell, was taken to Phoenix, Ariz., and they arrived there today. The string will remain in Phoenix about four weeks, and will then start in on another circuit. The winnings of the horses in the West have been little short of phenomenal.

MARQUETTE OWLS LODGE ORGANIZED TUESDAY NIGHT.

Marquette, Mich., Oct. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—A new social and fraternal lodge of Order of Owls was organized at Legion hall Tuesday evening with ninety-four members. The officers follow: President, James T. Gray; vice president, Charles Johnson; past president, Charles Dorais; treasurer, George O'Neill; secretary, C. A. Muhlhauser; invocator, P. T. McCarthy; warden, Wilfred Murray; picket, William Perron; guard, Arthur Pepin; trustees, for three years, Edward Bernard; for two years, Edward Brush; for one year, A. E. Peterson.

SEES ALLEGED THIEF DRIVING STOLEN HORSES.

Bowman, N. D., Oct. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The authorities are searching for Frank Baker, charged with the theft of a team of horses from V. G. Treat of Rhame. According to Treat's complaint, Baker stole the team from his ranch. The first that Treat knew of the affair was when he chanced to see the horses being driven near Scranton by Baker.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Madison—William H. Kerwin, aged 27 years, unmarried, was accidentally crushed to death Monday evening by falling under the wheels of a wagon loaded with coal which he was delivering to Riverside drive, in the eastern part of the city.

Janesville—There will be no Democratic ticket in Rock county this fall and even the Republican ticket is not full, the Social Democrats alone having a complete county ticket. This means there will be no opposition to the three Republican assembly nominees, Gettle, Fisher and Smith.

Portage—Detective W. A. Scholl of the Milwaukee road on Monday arrested five Milwaukee road employes, charging them with taking apples from a freight car standing in the road's yards here early Sunday morning. The men will have their hearing before Justice Bunker.

Stoughton—Five cases of infantile paralysis are reported in Stoughton. Dr. A. L. Harper, secretary of the state board of health, visited Stoughton on Saturday to examine these cases and reports that all but one are mild. The high school, however, was thoroughly disinfected on Saturday and Sunday in an effort to prevent the spread of the disease.

Viroqua—Mrs. Mary Tompkins was accidentally shot by a rifle in the hands of her son, George. The bullet entered her arm, but the wound is not serious.

Sauk Rapids—George Wells, aged 70, of Sauk Rapids died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. A. C. Inman Sunday morning from old age. He is survived by three daughters and two sons, Mrs. A. C. Inman of Sauk Rapids, Mrs. Mary Sheldon of Clearwater, Mrs. Eliza Moore of Bissen, Kan., George of Spokane and Walter of Michigan.

Stillwater—John Glade, a pioneer resident of this city, died Sunday night at 8:30 o'clock at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. F. C. Neumeier, aged 74 years. He was sick for about two months.

Hendrum—Some dogs caused havoc with G. K. Riste's sheep Tuesday morning. One sheep had been chased into the river and drowned while only nine out of twenty-three were left at home, the rest were found on the neighboring farms, and a majority of them had wounds.

Winona—Accused of a crime committed over two years ago, indicted by a grand jury in Winona over a year ago, and arested as he stepped into freedom over the threshold of the prison at Stillwater Monday morning, George W. Bruce, alleged horse thief is in the Winona county jail.

Fergus Falls—The active soliciting for funds for the relief of the fire sufferers in the northern part of the state is completed, and the general committee appointed by the commercial club to take charge of the work has forwarded a check for $861.55 to Kenneth Clark, treasurer of the Red Cross society.

Brainerd—The W. C. T. U. has appointed a committee to investigate the furnishing of a room at the Y. M. C. A. There are four rooms to be furnished. The Christian Endeavors are now furnishing one.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Fargo, N. D.—Lawrence McGovern, a 13-year-old boy who ran away from his home at Butte, Mont., and who arrived in Fargo on Saturday, has already found a home in Cass county on the farm of County Surveyor S. F. Crabbe. Young McGovern gave as his reason for leaving home that it was not that he was dissatisfied with his environment, but that he wished to see the world.

Bismarck, N. D.—For several days past a deep tilling machine has been working in the lower part of Oscar Will's nursery. This machine is a double disc plow, one disc set to cut lower than the other and acting as a subsoiler except the subsoil is thrown out on top of the plowed land instead of the furrow.

Jamestown, N. D.—William A. Jordan, a farmer near Jamestown for a number of years, and well known throughout this part of Stutsman county, took his own life by severing an artery in his throat. He had become mentally deranged through worry and tried to end his life before during the same day with a revolver but the bullet just missed his forehead.

Braddock, N. D.—The Emmons county teachers' institute will be held in Linton next week, but a two days' session will be held at Linton, after which the teachers will go to Bismarck and finish out the week at the state institute which will be in session in that city.

Carrington, N. D.—Not satisfied with the actual work that has been accomplished this fall in the way of building roads, the Foster County Good Roads association has taken up a plan of education, and on October 21 there will be a general meeting of the association in this city. At that time D. Ward King, the split log drag expert, will give an address.

Cogswell, N. D.—J. F. Donald has returned from St. Paul, where he went with a carload of stock. The train on which Mr. Donald traveled collided with a westbound freight near Minnesota Falls, and one man was killed and two others so badly injured they died before reaching the hospital, and a fourth was seriously hurt.

Bismarck, N. D.—At the preliminary hearing in the Indian murder case before U. S. Commissioner M. J. McKenzie, Samuel Newman, held for the murder of Roscoe Conkling, a fellow redskin at Elbowoods, was bound over to the federal court without bonds. Newman killed Conkling at Elbowoods on the Fort Berthold Indian reservation.

THE APPEAL TO PARTISANSHIP.

Republican papers, either because they believe it or because they think it necessary for campaign purposes, are expressing great confidence in the election of the full Republican ticket, from the top of the state ticket down to the bottom of the last county ticket.

Such confidence, if it is really felt, can be predicated on nothing except a belief that the people of this state are ready to accept anything that comes bearing the Republican label.

Unless the people of this state have changed greatly in two years, this belief is a libel. Minnesota, in the last three elections, has gained national fame as a state of independent voters who see clearly and vote straight—for their own good and the good of the state without regard to partisanship.

Winnowing the large percentage of chaff out of the arguments used in behalf of Mr. Eberhart's candidacy for the governorship, just one argument remains: He is a Republican, and should have the votes of all who have called themselves Republicans. The voter is to forget that the platform on which Eberhart stands, the organization that surrounds him, the corporation lobbyist who heads his campaign committee, and his own attitude on vital public questions, all are squarely reactionary and in flat contradiction to the principles of progress.

If this is a state which will swallow anything that is offered it providing it bears the Republican label, then Eberhart is certain of election. If this is a state that votes for the right thing, the right principles and the right candidates, judging them from the viewpoint of the common good and not from the viewpoint of "party solidarity", then Eberhart cannot be elected.

LUCKY WALTER WELLMAN.

Walter Wellman and his party got back alive, and we're glad of it, though there is an irrepressible feeling that he deserves a spanking for his harebrained experiment.

Considering what small capacity for traveling Wellman's airships have shown, it seems likely that Wellman never had the slightest chance of getting across the Atlantic, and only about one chance in a hundred of getting back alive. The balloon in which he made his futile trip is said to be about the same sort of balloon as that in which he made several calamitous starts for the North Pole, each resulting in a prompt collapse.

Nevertheless, the world probably is indebted to Mr. Wellman for a new appeal to its love of sensation, a taste that it gets harder every day to satisfy. Marvels of a generation ago are commonplaces now, and feats that would have been thought impossible a decade ago are now so common that they fail to arouse much interest. Wellman's trick of starting off across the Atlantic in a crazy balloon, however, is new enough to suit the world-wide craving for the sensational; and the manner of his escape by a transfer in mid-ocean from an airship to a steamship is theatrical enough to suit the most debased taste for melodramatic effects.

It is hard to see what was to be gained by it, except notoriety and advertising, if the Wellman balloon had made the trans-Atlantic trip.

A MENDER OF BROKEN HOMES.

New York city is trying an experiment of great social and human interest, and its progress will be watched with concern everywhere. It is establishing a "court of domestic relations," to which all divorce proceedings will be referred and which will use its power to reconcile disputing wives and husbands, granting divorces only when reconciliation is impossible.

Magistrate Robert Cornell is to preside. We don't know Judge Cornell, but we do know that the duties he is assuming call for more wisdom and tact than are crowded into the average normal human being. Patience, too, will be required in vast quantities. Judge Cornell has made a specialty of the causes and symptoms of divorce, it is said, and he is also said to be well versed in human eccentricities, which anybody may be who has the observing mind which is able to draw general rules from a study of specific instances—if there are any general rules to draw from the multitudinous variations of human queerness.

The theory upon which this new judicial experiment is based is that nine-tenths of the applications for divorce that come before American courts rise in trivial and remediable causes which ought to yield under the skillful arbitration of tact and common sense.

Probably that is true, too. Human differences have small beginnings, but if they are nursed there is almost no limit to the possibilities of their growth. Many a wife and husband have walked steadily apart when they were separated only by a division that had its seed in beginnings of the most trifling nature. While there are personalities that jar inevitably, these are abnormalities; and the ordinary, normal human being ought to be able to get along with almost anybody if the spirit of give and take is brought in to harmonize the differences that always exist.

The trouble with the duties of this "court of domestic relations" is that however small were the beginnings of the domestic disharmonies that come before it, usually they have been carefully nursed through a long period before they get into the courts; and then, of course, the possibility of reconciliation is much smaller than it would have been in the beginning.

However, unquestionably much can be done by a judge who starts out on the theory of this new court. Ordinarily a court merely hears the evidence brought before it, and if it is sufficient to prove the complaint, and if the complaint is based on legal grounds, the divorce is granted. Yet there are very many judges who go beyond this technical compliance with their duties, and go behind the evidence to find the real cause of the trouble. If, in that search, they find the possibility of restoring harmony by resolving the obstacles to harmony that have arisen, they follow up the lead it offers. So far as we know, however, no court other than this New York tribunal has been established for that specific purpose.

Perhaps in a majority of cases the technical grounds on which divorce is asked have little relationship with the real cause. Desertion is the commonest ground for divorce, but in nine cases out of ten there is something back of desertion, and perhaps in many cases that something can be straightened out by a wise and tactful judge.

There is too much divorce in this country, and anything that tends to restrict it to cases where it is wrong to withhold divorce is worth while.

THE GROWING RELIEF FUND.

Though its growth is not so rapid now as it was the first few days after the border calamity which touched the wellsprings of sympathy with its tales of disaster and suffering, the fund for the relief of the fire sufferers is still growing.

Yesterday it amounted to about $75,000, contributed as follows: Minnesota Red Cross, $30,000; Duluth, $22,000; St. Paul, $8,000; Hibbing, $5,000; Minneapolis, $4,000; Brainerd, $1,800; Virginia, $1,500; Ely, $1,100; St. Cloud, $750; in the hands of Mayor Williams of Baudette, $900.

It will be noted that of the total of $75,000, St. Louis county is responsible for more than $31,000, and its contributions are still coming in.

Of course, $75,000 isn't enough. The sum fixed upon, $100,000, probably isn't enough, either. There are temporary homes to be built in such shape that they can be used when permanent building is done. The settlers must be cared for and enabled to get through the winter until another crop season is at hand. There is much to do, and it will take much money to do it. The Herald still believes that the legislature should take action at its meeting in January, not only to relieve the victims of the recent fire, but to prepare for other fires that will certainly come unless there is a radical change in the state's methods of caring for its timber lands.

AN INTERESTING EXPERIMENT.

Mention in The Herald last night of the introduction of a course in agriculture in the industrial high school in West Duluth reminds us that this innovation is timely and wise and in keeping with the present promising movement to develop the richness that lies dormant in the soil of surrounding acres. It is to be hoped that it will be possible to provide the tract of land needed for demonstration purposes. Credit is due Superintendent Denfeld and Principal Foster for this valuable enlargement of the public school function in Duluth.

If Duluth succeeds in filling its surrounding acres with tillers of the soil, many of them will come from its own people. If its schools begin with the children and teach the elements of agriculture, they can be made to help greatly in this work of development. The West Duluth experiment deserves encouragement—and enlargement.

THE COLONEL'S OMISSION.

Contributing Editor Roosevelt has furnished the Outlook with a report of the Saratoga convention, which, according to all accounts, was dominated by Col. Roosevelt, who beat the "old guard" to a "frazzle" and gloried in it.

The report which Contributing Editor Roosevelt furnishes for the Outlook is entitled "A Fight for Clean Government and Popular Rule"; which is a very fine, mouth-filling title—very admirable, indeed. In the article there is much that is admirable besides the title. There are lofty sentiments about justice and fair play for everybody, about honesty in public life, and about the wickedness of the opposition.

But there isn't a word in the Colonel's report about the fact that the platform approved the Payne-Aldrich tariff law in terms of most fulsome flattery.

Now the Colonel might be forgiven for a minor omission, since he has had little experience in reporting conventions, but this omission is too distressingly glaring. In this case, the Colonel is a reporter. He should assume that the readers of the Outlook are depending upon him for the news of the convention, and he should give that news. Yet he omitted the most startling item that the New York Republican state convention provided—the news that this convention, which was absolutely dominated by Roosevelt, heaped praise of the most effusive type on a tariff law that is a flat and absolute negation of every principle of justice and fair play that the Colonel advocates so ably.

Probably it is easy to imagine the Colonel's motives in refraining from comment on the most important news item of the convention. It wasn't particularly to his credit, especially in view of the loud peans of victory which he emitted after the convention. It makes the incident altogether too much like Artemus Ward's story of how he carefully inserted his nose between the teeth of the enemy with whom he was grappling.

Here's one thing the Colonel's report does say, however: "We stand for the honest man, great or small, rich or poor, and we believe in trying to improve our system so as to give each honest man a better chance on his own merits to get the reward to which his honesty and exercised capacity entitle him in business."

What thing, in all the land, militates more against giving the plain citizen "the reward to which his honesty and exercised capacity" entitle him than the tariff?

The tariff farms out to the rich the right to tax the poor.

It conveys to private interests the public right to levy taxes, and the taxes go for private purposes. The many yield these taxes and the few enjoy them.

The new tariff law, which Roosevelt's personally conducted convention applauded, continues the old practice of farming out the taxes and makes those taxes heavier than they ever were before.

To explain how praise for such a law squares with a declaration for fair play and the square deal, no matter how loudly it is shouted, would tax the ingenuity of even so gifted a statesman as the Colonel.

Don't forget that it's "All eyes on Brainerd."

Duluth, as usual, is doing its full share in the relief of the fire sufferers.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

A SYSTEM OF HUNTERS' SIGNALS

To the Editor of The Herald:

At this time of the year when the woods are full of hunters again comes to my mind the necessity for a system of signal shots to be fired when necessary to obtain assistance from either friends or strangers in case of accident or other urgent cause. Although I have hunted for many years and have always had a pre-arranged system of signal shots for our own camp party, I am not aware that hunters universally follow the same system but consider that there should be just one code of shots, and that known and understood by everybody who frequents the forests, thus greatly lessening the danger to one who may be lost or suffering from some accident and is in great need of help.

It would facilitate matters if we might have an expression from our sportsmen on this subject and to start the ball rolling will say that for the past eighteen or twenty years our parties have always used the system of two shots close together, repeated at minute intervals until answered—one shot being the answer.

This signal, upon being heard, enables one to locate the line of sound and approximate distance, and answering at once by one shot, starts toward the one in trouble. If upon receiving an answering shot, assistance is slow in arriving, the call for help is to be repeated by the two shots at minute intervals until again answered. The two and one shots are preferable from the point of economy in ammunition, and have been found very satisfactory in the past although some hunters have used three shots answered by two, which is, in the writer's opinion, an unnecessary expenditure of cartridges in view of the fact that the one requiring assistance, having to use the most, may not have a sufficient supply.

With a view to the great number of hunters and fishermen in the woods, as well as woodsmen, it seems to me that a simple code of shots, as is here suggested, would prove very desirable and readily understood by all having occasion to be in the woods. Let us hear from others on this subject. Thanking you for this space in the interest of your sportsmen friends of which the writer is ONE.

HERE'S A WARNING TO HALLOWEEN CELEBRATORS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Hallowe'en has been supposed to be the time of all other times when supernatural influences prevail. It is observed to this day, but not always in the way originally intended—from playing harmless jokes it has developed into what some of our youths consider to be a license to destroy valuable property on that night of Oct. 31, and to make themselves obnoxious in many ways. We should not forget, and most of us men do not, that we were once boys, and enjoyed to a more or less extent the privileges we imagined we had on that night which was not passed over without being remembered. There should be a limit, however, to those privileges and the young and thoughtless miscreant who delights in the breaking of sidewalk railings, breaking windows, upsetting ash and coal bins, carrying away and breaking gates and signs, etc., should be brought to remember that fact.

During the past several years it has cost me from $2 to $8 on the first of each November to repair the damage resulting from the depredations mentioned, without provocation whatever on my part, and I have decided that it must stop, and in order not to incur any extra expense on the part of our officers who have plenty to do on that night, I am going to be my own protector, and will also have my share of the fun, by using a good old fashioned musket in a way that will undoubtedly be very effective, in giving a reception to any youth who comes with the intention of doing up my premises to his particular liking. Should he happen to see this article, I trust he will take the same as a special warning.

A CITIZEN WHO HAS ENDURED TO THE LIMIT.

Duluth, Oct. 18.

Sunday, Day of Lost Talents.

Joseph Lee in the Survey: Sunday is the day for revisiting the ancient shrines, for going back to the fountains of our strength, back in our racial past, for excursions to our ancient abode by stream and wood and seashore, for the revival of the joy of war, of the chase, and of intense membership as found in the great team games.

The true Sunday will be partly different for different men. The artist condemned to his office work will turn to his carving; the musician to his violin. The born teacher will spend his Sunday with the children. The Nimrod will to the woods, the poet to the hills, the soldier to some athletic contest. That which he should have been and is not in his daily work, each man will diligently seek on the day given him for this very purpose.

The forbidding of such pious pilgrimage on that one day of the week consecrated by nature, and by the wiser portions of our law, to the end that such pilgrimage may be made, is not truly a Sunday law, but a law to the effect that Sunday shall not exist.

Even those whose good fortune has placed them among the expressive trades, the lawyer, the doctor, the business man, require some avocation to keep them fully human and alive. To the clerk, the factory hand, whose week-day life is within the covers of a ledger or in the making of a simple muscular contraction—to these, Sunday is their one chance of life, their day of standing erect, of resuming the form and stature of a man.

Sunday is the day of the lost talents, of unfulfilled possibilities, the day for keeping alive some little fragment of the original gift that nature made. And this one day our Sunday laws take from us, or at least greatly impair.

Effect of Alcohol on Memory.

The Survey: Experiments which have been conducted on intelligent, sometimes highly educated, men, to discover the effect of very small quantities of alcohol, are of great interest. The conclusions which have been accepted by scientists are that even a "moderate" amount of alcohol, if taken habitually, tends to have the following effects, to different degrees in different individuals:

1. To diminish the amount of mechanical muscular work performed, as measured by the ergograph;
2. To weaken the power of attention, as indicated by the length of time required to write down certain figures or letters;
3. To lessen efficiency in the performance of work like typesetting, in which it is comparatively simple to measure the amount accomplished in a given period;
4. To retard the mental processes involved in
   (a) Adding single numbers,
   (b) Writing down words suggested by a given word,
   (c) Memorizing figures.

The curious thing about this is that the individual affected imagines he is working faster, thinking more clearly than usual.

Heroism Next Door.

John Burroughs: The young man who went West did well, but the young man who had the Western spirit and stayed at home did equally well. To evoke a spark of fire out of a flint with a bit of steel is the same thing as evoking beautiful thoughts from homely facts. How hard it is for us to see the heroic in an act of our neighbor!

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Some Republicans Joyous.

Little Falls Transcript: Maine went Democratic, not only on the governorship but the majority of its representation in congress will be of the Democratic variety. These tidings will doubtless brng much joy to the hearts of a certain class of Republicans, who have contributed to bring those results about.

This May Explain Some Things.

Willmar Tribune: The insurgent movement is assuming so formidable proportions right now in the country, that every old political hack everywhere is figuring unceasingly on the problem of how to become identified with it in some way in order to stay in office.

"Is Especially Unfortunate."

Battle Lake Review: The selection of Senator Ed Smith, the recognized mouthpiece of the railroads, as his personal representative by Governor Eberhart, is especially unfortunate at this time, when the people are resentful of the Otis railroad decision. If Governor Eberhart is not tied up to the brewery combine and the railroad corporation, he is decidedly unfortunate in selecting those who must speak for him and represent him. The fact that all the combines are enthusiastic for Eberhart is also unfortunate—for him.

Very Strong Probability.

Park Rapids Enterprise: It appears probable that the Democrats will have control of the next congress. The mass of voters are filing their protests against the mismanagement of the Republican leaders and this is the result that follows. It appears to be the only way by which the public can get a hearing and certainly is the only thing that the old line Republican leaders fear. When confidence in Republican leadership in the house has been restored a Republican majority will be returned.

Job for "Strong Candidates."

Wabasna Herald: A woman bandit, six feet three inches tall, is at large in the forests of Louisiana terrorizing automobilists and planters. Moved and seconded that defeated politicians be made constables and put on the job of serving the public.

He'd Never Have Tried It.

Rochester Post-Record: It's lucky for Diogenes that he didn't have to look over the Illinois legislature for an honest man. His lantern never would have burned until he found one, and he would have been fortunate if his lantern wasn't stolen.

Some Prices Unchanged.

Bemidji Pioneer: The cost of living continues to increase. Prices quoted by Judge Bailey show caribou, moose and deer meat holding steady at $55.20 a quarter.

Even Taft "Getting Wise."

Illiaire Spectator: It is announced that no difference between so-called "progressives" and "regulars" will be recognized by President Taft hereafter, but all party leaders will be treated alike as Republicans in the matter of federal support. Mr. Taft is beginning to realize "where he is at," and no doubt the recent primaries and elections are helping to enlighten him.

Tendencies Worth Noting.

New York World: Great wrongs are supported by great falsehoods. Cannon, Aldrich and Taft broke faith with the people when they revised upward a tariff already extortionate. The falsehood with which this perfidy is now sustained by Mr. Roosevelt's New York platform and in various other standpat deliverances is contained in the following sentence:

"Advances in the cost of living are only the local reflection of a tendency that is world-wide and cannot truthfully be said to be due to the present tariff."

This is a falsehood because it is a half-truth. What is the tendency that is world-wide? It is toward plutocrary, toward privilege, toward jingoism and toward governmental extravagance of every description.

Everywhere we see excessive taxation and discriminating taxation. Everywhere enterprise and industry are burdened in the interest of a favored few. Of course the cost of living rises.

The stand-pat falsehood is a half-truth because it suppresses the fact that these very evils fastened upon free America by greed and treachery are producing here the same consequences that are to be witnessed in Europe. The cost of living is not the tendency. The tendency itself is the increasing injustice of those who rule.

No doubt every responsible politician in war-scourged and tax-ridden Europe is asking his critics to look at free America, which is suffering from the same mysterious ailment. No doubt the weak king and the despotic ministers in Portugal were pointing to us also a month ago in order to excuse themselves. No doubt the czar of Russia finds some comfort in the fact that there is wasteful misgovernment in the United States.

We have all the fixtures of empire except the cheapness of them, which are crowns, thrones, decorations, titles and circus-wagons. We have our privileged manufacturing class sustained by taxation which costs more than any aristocracy in Europe. We are in the forefront of the made race for naval supremacy. We are playing the kingly game of colonization. We are becoming almost as bureaucratic as Germany; almost as inquisitorial as France; almost as docile under our taskmaster as Japan. On top of the fabulous sums which we spend for state and municipal government we are scattering two thousand millions a year at Washington and boasting of it.

This is the world-wide tendency under whose influence we have blunderingly fallen. It is a tendency encouraged by the stand-patters. It controls them. As a result of it many of them profit. Instead of excusing the high cost of living it explains it.

Turn on the light!

The Lost Child.

I 'member when they cut my curls,
not very long ago,
Because they looked just like a girl's,
and I'm a boy, you know;
I used to wear 'em awful long, and once my pa, he said,
It's time I had my curls cut off and and wore short hair instead;
Because I'm big enough for that; and then they took the shears
And snipped my curls off one by one right close up to my ears,
But every time a curl came off, my mother, she just hid
Her face a little bit and cried. I wonder why she did!

And after 'while she picked one up and held it in her hand
With something shining in her eyes
I didn't understand;
She petted it as if it was a little boy or girl,
And acted fond of it when it was nothing but a curl.
And after 'while they're all cut off and down there on the floor,
And I looked much more like a boy
than I had been before,
But there was something in her eyes
she tried and tried and tried To brush away, but still it came. I wonder why she cried.

And after 'while I'm all trimmed off,
and then my pa, he said,
I'm not a baby any more, but I'm a boy instead;
And he is awful proud of me, and then my ma, she smiled
And said we found a boy that day and lost a little child;
So I said I would hunt for him and bring him back, but then
She said she was afraid that he would not come back again;
And picked the curls I had all up from off the floor and hid
Them in the bureau drawer and cried.
I wonder why she did.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1890.

•••The Minnesota Car works at West Duluth are running again in all departments, and it is expected the company will do more work and employ more men than ever before. The company has closed a contract with a large railroad corporation to build 1,000 cars, the contract price being over $500,000.

•••Representatives of a Massachusetts nail company are negotiating for a site in one of the up-river towns. The works are guaranteed to turn out 1,000 kegs of nails a day and employ a large number of men.

•••A thoroughly equipped hunting party, consisting of C. E. Shannon, A. C. Pearson, M. Cate and Walter Myers, all of Duluth, arrived at La Prairie yesterday. They will spend several weeks hunting at Lake Pokegama and other points farther north.

•••Mrs. D. E. Cain of Topeka, Kan., who has been in Duluth visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Thompson, has returned to her home. She was accompanied by her sister, Miss Nellie M. Thompson, who is going to Asheville, N. C., where she will attend a young ladies' seminary.

•••Mrs. M. A. Beale, a sister of Vice President Carpenter of the Duluth & Iron Range road, and Mrs. Carpenter of Lynn, Mass., are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Carpenter.

•••Cards have been received announcing the marriage in Tennessee of Mr. Crosby of the firm of McCordic & Crosby of Duluth to Miss Johnson, a belle of that state. They will come to Duluth at once.

•••John T. Murphy, business manager of the Evening Telegram of Superior, and before that a Duluth real estate man, was married on Oct. 14, at North Adams, Mass., to Miss Margaret Hylands. They will come to Superior, Nov. 1.

•••Mr. and Mrs. Delos Haines of St. Louis were visiting Duluth friends last week. Mr. Haines will be pleasantly remembered by old timers as the principal of Duluth's schools way back in 1872 or 1873.

"COUNTING OUT" RHYMES.

Correspondents of the New York Sun have attributed the following additional list of childhood runes:

To the Editor of The Sun—Sir: Here are a couple of Long Island "counting out rhymes" as they existed in 1860:

T-na ma-na mo-na Mike,
Basse-lona, bo-na, strike,
Har-ware-froun-ac,
Hallico-ballico,
We-wo-wy-wack.

One-ary two-ary tickary-an,
Bobtail vinegar tickicum fan,
Harum-scarum, bird-saw marum,
Single-um sangel um buck.

Garden City. —W. J. Youngs.

Scrantonian Song.

To the Editor of The Sun—Sir: This is the way we counted them out in Scranton thirty years ago:

Enna mena tepela tee,
Dela dila doma nee,
Occu pocha doma nocha,
Hi pon tusk it,
Out goes she (or he).

Scranton, Pa. F. H. C.

In the Jerseys.

To the Editor of The Sun—Sir: This was in use sixty years ago:

Eney, meney, mony, miglit,
Butter, lather, trainy tripe,
Hickery, dickery, one, two, three,
Hear me say out goes he (if a boy;
she, if a girl).

Chatham, N. J. —J. H. Egbert.

Bay State Melodies.

To the Editor of The Sun—Sirs: This is how we did it in Massachusetts:

One a zaw, two a zaw,
Zig a zam zam,
Bobtail vinegar,
Tickle 'em tam,
Hirum skyrrum,
Virgie mirum,
Tee taw buck.

And this:

Eeny meeny mony my,
Husky loney bony stry,
Air fair brown hat,
Lippety we wo wat,
Haley baley himty-fig,
Timo toe tomy nig,
Hichy pichy dominichy,
Ho pawn tush.

And here is another:

Intry mintry cutry corn,
Apple seed, apple thorn,
Wire briar, limber lock,
Five geese in a flock,
Sit and sing 'round a spring,
O-U-T spells out goes she.

Brooklyn. —N. S., G.

Manhattanese.

To the Editor of The Sun—Sirs: The following was the counting out rhyme in New York city in the '60s:

Ana, mana, mona, Mike,
Bassa, lona, bona, strike,
Hare, ware, cum back
Hallico, ballico, wee, woe, wy,
whack,
One, two, three,
Out goes he!

None others are genuine. Beware of imitations.

New York. —Old Boy.

South of Ireland.

To the Editor of The Sun—Sir: In the '50s I was the youngest of a family of eight; we lived in the south of Ireland. Our version of counting out rhymes was singularly like that given in The Sun by Mr. W. P. Adams, but where we got it from I never knew:

Onery, twoery, dickery, davy,
Hannymoe, crackery, Henery,
navy,
Disdum, dandum, merriman,
thigh,
Humpty, dumpty, twenty-nine.

New York. —A. F. Baker.

William Trimbleton et al.

To the Editor of The Sun—Sir: This was a popular form for counting out with the children of the South twenty-five years ago:

William Trimbleton, he's a good fisherman,
Catches hens, puts them in pens;
Wire, briar, limber lock,
Three geese in a flock,
One flew east, one flew west, one flew over the cuckoo's nest,
Eney, meney, miney, moe,
Catch a nigger by his toe,
If he halloo let him go,
Eney, meney, miney, moe,
Out goes she (he).

New York. —W. W.

Making Up Our Minds.

Henry van Dyke: We say that we "make up our minds" to do a certain thing or not to do it, to resist a certain temptation or to yield to it. It is true. We "make up our minds" in a deeper sense than we remember. In every case the ultimate decision is between two future selves, one with whom the virtue is harmonious, another with whom the vice is consistent. To one of these two figures, dimly concealed behind the action, we move forward. What we forget is that, when the forward step is taken, the shadow will be myself. Character is eternal destiny.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

SNOW

The lever that works fall weather was pulled late yesterday afternoon, and Duluthians were dropped from the height of enjoyment of summer weather to the shivering depths of chill winds and driving rain. From 78 deg. yesterday the temperature dropped to 44 deg last night. The wind blew a gale, and though the rain didn't last long, rain wouldn't have made conditions much more uncomfortable. Today is a bleak October day, and one may be pardoned for believing it is time to "put 'em on." The weather man holds out the cheering hope that snow may fall tonight or tomorrow.

Autumn weather also prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 6:32 and it will set at 5:14, giving ten hours and forty-two minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"A storm of considerable energy is central this morning over Lake Superior. It is attended by a northwest gale, which will probably affect the whole lake region by Thursday morning. Storm warnings are displayed at all stations. The gale will also be accompanied by decidedly colder weather and rain, and the latter will turn to snow flurries on Lake Superior tonight. Freezing temperatures prevail in Western Canada and Montana this morning in connection with a strong high pressure area central over the latter state. Temperatures as low as 14 deg. above zero are reported from Saskatchewan. During the last twenty-four hours rain or snow fell over the Northwestern states and Rocky mountain region. The West India hurricane is advancing slowly up the South Atlantic coast, being apparently central off the Florida coast. It is attended by high winds and torrential rains."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Thursday:

Upper Michigan—Threatening weathening weather with rain tonight and snow near Lake Superior Thursday; much colder tonight with temperatures near freezing; colder in east portion Thursday.

Wisconsin—Rain and decidedly colder tonight; Thursday partly cloudy and colder with probably rain near lakes.

Minnesota—Partly cloudy with rain or snow flurries in east portion tonight; colder tonight; Thursday partly cloudy, except probably snow flurries in northeast portion; colder in southeast portion.

Iowa—Partly cloudy and decidedly colder tonight with showers in east portion; Thursday partly cloudy with colder in east portion.

North Dakota—GGenerally fair tonight and Thursday; colder tonight in east portion.

South Dakota—Partly cloudy tonight and Thursday; colder tonight.

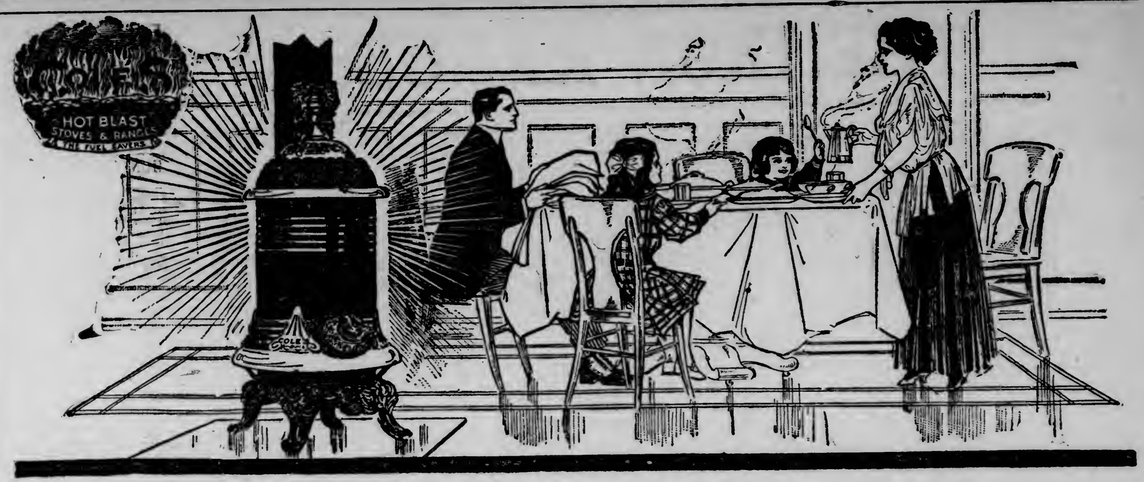

Montana—Generally fair tonight and Thursday; warmer tonight and in north portion Thursday.

Upper lakes—Northwest gale tonight and Thursday; rain turning to snow on Superior; decidedly colder, storm northwest warning displayed at all stations.

Your Breakfast Room Made Comfortable With Fuel Supplied the Night Before

Cole's Hot Blast Heater maintains a continuous fire—also a steady even heat. It will hold fire from Saturday night until Monday morning (48 hours) without attention. It will hold fire over night with less coal than any other stove.

Open the drafts in the morning and the rooms are quickly heated with the fuel put in the night before. No other stove does this.

Burns Soft Coal, Slack, Siftings, Hard Coal or Lignite. One ton of either kind of fuel goes further and gives you more comfort than two tons, using any other kind or make of stove.

Your attention is called to the unparalleled statement made by the manufacturer of Cole's Hot Blast Heating Stove

"For several years we have authorized our Agents to sell Cole's Original Hot Blast Heater on the guarantee as follows:

"1—A saving of one-third in fuel over any lower draft stove of the same size, with soft coal, slack or lignite.

"2—That Cole's Hot Blast will use less hard coal for heating a given space than any base burner made with the same size fire pot.

"3—That the rooms can be heated from one to two hours each morning with the soft coal or hard coal put in the stove the evening before.

"4—That the stove will hold fire with soft coal from Saturday night until Monday morning.

"5—A uniform heat day and night, with soft coal, hard coal or lignite.

"6—That every stove will remain absolutely air-tight as long as used.

"7—That the feed-door is and will remain smoke and dust-proof.

"8—That the Anti-Puffing Draft will prevent puffing.

"All we ask is that the stove shall be operated according to directions and connected with a good flue.

"(Signed) COLE MANUFACTURING CO., Not Inc."
(Makers of the Original Patented Hot Blast Stove.)

This remarkable guarantee from the makers of this stove should be of interest to you if you contemplate buying a heating stove.

Years of use has proven that no heater—at twice the price—equals it for radiating heat, for holding fire, requiring so little attention, never giving trouble, and cutting down your coal bill one-third to one-half.

Come in and examine Cole's Original Hot Blast which is now imitated by nearly every other stove manufacturer. Price $12.00 and upward, according to size.

No other Heater Nearly as Good.

MONEY MAY DECIDE IT

for as a rule men of that sort are neither rich nor are they willing to accept financial favors from others."

Bad Democratic Record.

From a Democrat: "The only two Democratic senators Ohio has had at Washington in the present political generation were Henry B. Payne and Calvin S. Price. Both bought their seats—Payne with Standard Oil money and Brice with the money he filched from Vanderbilt through his device of paralleling the Vanderbilt railroads with the so-called 'Nickel Plate.' Both were investigated. Both were discredited. Neither had any considerable influence at Washington. The Democratic party confronts the same situation today. Its senatorship, if it shall have one to dispose of, is likely to be put up and sold to the highest bidder."

Perhaps these are extreme opinions, but they are held by nearly everybody to whom I have talked except the always regular "practical" politicians, who insist that the situation will work out to the good of the people—that sort of insistence is part of the practical politician's job.

Brand Whitlock's Strength.

On the Democratic side the senatorial aspirant who is probably best known outside of Ohio is Brand Whitlock, mayor of Toledo, the successor of "Golden Rule" Jones, the protege and defender of Tom L. Johnson, and a radical who is proud of his radicalism. I sat in his office the other day and noted these as the pictures over his desk—"Golden Rule" Jones, Prince Kropotkin, Tolstoi, Emerson, Ibsen, Walt Whitman and "Bobby" Burns. Not exactly a typical lot of heroes for the mayor of an American city. Whitlock will get a considerable complimentary vote in the legislature if the Democrats carry it. The candidates from Cuyahoga—whion is Cleveland—have declared for him, and if elected will form a considerable nucleus. It would not be surprising that if money is kept out of the legislature he might slip in as a compromise candidate. I am, however, inclined to look on his candidacy as rather academic and literary than really political, and think he does, too.

Other Democratic Candidates.

The only avowed and active candidate in the field is John J. Lentz of Columbus, a member of congress some years ago and a radical Democrat of what used to be called the Bryan type. Mr. Lentz is a good platform speaker, with a host of friends and not a few enemies. He, too, will be an easy mark if the legislature shall be one to which the Illinois "jackpot" method of choosing senators shall appeal.

Atlee Pomerene, candidate for lieutenant governor, will no doubt be the organization candidate for senator. Just now he is running for the office immediately in sight, but all political authorities agree that had there been a nomination for senator in convention he would have been the favored one. Col. Kilbourne, a wealthy manufacturer of Columbus, at one time a strenuous supporter of Mr. Bryan, and E. W. Hawley of Dayton made up the list of avowed Democratic aspirants. The former suffers from a record of lassitude in recent campaigns, while the latter has won fame and money, but not political strength, by assiduously gathering in all the public service corporations of his vicinage and beyond.

Will John R. McLean Take It?

But over the entire Democratic senatorial situation broods the shadow of John R. McLean. The officials of the state committee vehemently deny that he has any designs on the place, but individuals outside the organization insist that his blandishments will be swiftly exerted should a Democratic legislature be elected. It will be remembered that it was apprehension of this that caused Bryan's attack upon Harmon apropos of the refusal of the Democratic convention to nominate a senatorial candidate. Personally, I don't think McLean will attempt the task. A Washington man, in whose judgment I have much confidence, put the argument this way:

McLean's Power.

"McLean is today the most powerful man in Washington. His wealth and social influence enable him to do as he wishes with the District government, and almost as he chooses with congress. His power would not be enhanced by winning the empty title of senator. Moreover, he knows that he could only get the senatorship by buying it. The country is not in a good temper for that sort of thing just now, and I don't believe that McLean would risk losing his assured position, and being put in that of Lorimer, for the honor of sitting in the United States senate."

The argument sounds reasonable to me.

Cox vs. McLean.

Still, the Democrats are not alone in having their troubles and their dire apprehensions. Over the Republican horizon rises the sinister shape of George B. Cox, the notorious boss of Cincinnati, who, if it is to be a matter of money, has all that is needed, and if a matter of political power, more than any of his competitors. It would be a curious and melancholy spectacle if in the end the senatorial fight should be fought out between Cox and McLean.

Let Me Tell You Something

A woman who is sick and suffering, and won't at least try a medicine which has the record of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, is to blame for her own wretched condition.

There are literally hundreds of thousands of women in the United States who have been benefited by this famous old remedy, which was produced from roots and herbs over thirty years ago by a woman to relieve woman's suffering.

Read what these women say:

Camden, N. J.—"It is with pleasure that I send my testimonial for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, hoping it may induce other suffering women to avail themselves of the benefit of this valuable remedy.

"I suffered from pains in my back and side, sick headaches, no appetite, was tired and nervous all the time, and so weak I could hardly stand. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me a well woman—and this valuable medicine shall always have my praise."—Mrs. W. P. Valentine, 902 Lincoln Ave., Camden, N. J.

Buffalo, N. Y.—"I am writing to tell you that I am pleased with your medicines. I had been sick for a long time with prolapsus. I heard about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I have found that it is the right kind of medicine for me. I felt relieved after taking one bottle and I kept on taking it till now I am well and strong, and am able to do my work."—Mrs. Henry Kossow, 472 Genesee St., Buffalo, N. Y.

Since we guarantee that all testimonials which we publish are genuine, is it not fair to suppose that if Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had the virtue to help these women it will help any other woman who is suffering from the same trouble?

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

If the slightest trouble appears which you do not understand, write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., for her advice—it is free and always helpful.

BEMIDJI WOULD KEEP SALOONS

City Authorities Trying to Enforce Regulation Against Selling to Indians.

Bemidji, Minn., Oct. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Bemidji is to take no chances on losing her saloons as a result of the activity of the Indian bureau of the department of the interior in enforcing the Indian treaty which prohibits the sale of liquor to persons of Indian blood.

Every precaution is being taken to make the sale of liquor in this city harmonize with the desires of the government. At a meeting of the city council an application for a license to establish a new saloon was rejected and the council went firmly on record against permitting the establishment of any additional saloons here.

The chief of police was instructed to watch the saloons for any possible violation and to work in accord with the government agents.

The council also favored increasing the cost of a saloon license from $500 to $1,000 and City Attorney Torrance was instructed to draw up an ordinance along these lines and present it to the council at its next regular meeting on Oct. 24.

Tuesday afternoon, Deputy Special Agent N. J. Sero caused the arrest of Mary Smith, who was charged with selling liquor and maintaining a disorderly house. The evidence was gained by two government agents disguised as lumber jacks. In municipal court before Judge Pendergast, the woman was found guilty and sentenced to pay a fine of $100. The fine was paid. Other prosecutions are pending.

LIGNITE COAL IS GENERALLY USED

Mining of That Fuel Product Becoming Big North Dakota Industry.

Wilson, N. D., Oct. 19.—The use of lignite coal in several of the state institutions, already commenced, will have a helpful effect with the state legislative assembly on the efforts that will be made next winter to secure increased appropriation for the Hebron experimental station. At the present time the agricultural college, the state normal schools, institute for the feeble minded, soldiers' home and other state institutions use lignite coal exclusively, and the greater portion of it is mined near this city.

Lignite coal mining has been placed on a sound business basis in this section of the state and approximately thirty cars of coal are shipped out of here daily at the present time. The Hebron station will ask for an appropriation for the purchase of a briquette plant, the manufactured product to be sold to the state institutions.

BONIFACE SERVED GAME.

Hackensack, Minn., Hotel Man Fined for Violating the Law.

Bemidji, Minn., Oct. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charles Wood, who conducts a hotel at Hackensack, a small station on the Minnesota & International railway, south of Walker, has been convicted of serving partridges to his guests. Mr. Wood was caught by S. C. Bailey of this city, warden for the state game and fish commission.

A few days ago, Mr. Bailey was given a "tip" that the Hackensack hotel man was lax in observance of the game laws, and was feeding nice, plump partridges to his guests, as well as shipping some of the fine birds.

Mr. Bailey left Bemidji at 11:30 at night and before 2 o'clock the same night, had persuaded Mr. Wood that the best thing for him to do was to plead guilty to the charge.

Woods pleaded guilty and Justice Garrity fined him $10 and costs, which he paid.

Bury Hotel Man Thursday.

Brainerd, Minn., Oct. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of Adam A. Armstrong, proprietor of the Antlers hotel, who died Monday night of liver complaint, will be held tomorrow from St. Francis Catholic church.

He was alderman of the city one term. He leaves a wife and one daughter, Miss Eliza Armstrong, aged 17. He was a member of the Elks, Eagles, Redmen and the Pochahontas Degree.

CHISHOLM HAS NIGHT SCHOOL

It Began Monday and Promises to Be Very Liberally Patronized.

Chisholm, Minn., Oct. 19.—(Special to The Herald.) — The night school for the coming school term was opened Monday in the high school building. The classes are not as large as they will be later. Six or seven of the grade teachers have been selected by the school board to take care of the night classes. The sessions begin at 7:30 and continue until 9 o'clock. Most of the pupils are men of foreign-speaking nationalities, although some are women. No charge is made upon those desiring to enroll as students.

The school board was in session until a late hour on Monday evening when they met to award the contract for the erection of the new school building to be put up this fall in the northern addition of town. The site chosen is block 15 between Fir and Cedar streets facing Third avenue. It is estimated that the building will cost in the neighborhood of $115,000.

COUNCIL FAVORS SANITARY SEWER

Virginia Will Take Proper Steps to Improve City Health Conditions.

Virginia, Minn., Oct. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The council last night took another step towards the improvements of the sanitary conditions on the North side, when it accepted Alderman Boylan's motion to construct a storm sewer and sanitary sewer in that end of the city.

The proposed storm sewer will drain the North side addition and run into Virginia. The sanitary sewer will be constructed from the corner of First street and First avenue and connect with the main sewer on Virginia avenue. Mr. Boylan made a plea to the council for the further preservation of the health of his constituents of the First ward. He said that there had been too many cases of typhoid and too many deaths in that portion of the city and something ought to be done to relieve the situation.

Object to Gross Earning Tax.

The franchise asked for by the Mesaba Telephone company came up for its second reading and after several amendments to the original draft had been introduced the document was referred back to the ordinance committee, Aldermen Weber, Kimball and Mollan and City Attorney Poirier. The one particular clause in the proposed franchise relating to the gross earning tax was objected to by T. A. French, the general superintendent of the company and F. E. Lister, assistant superintendent, who were present. Mr. French stated that he had been authorized by his company to state that it would not bid on a franchise which carried a gross earning tax clause.

The ordinance relating to weights and measures received its second reading without further amendments. If this ordinance passes the council it will be the duty of Meat Inspector John Byrne to examine and inspect all weighing scales and measures at the business places of the city and see to it that the people are given correct weights and measures.

Miss Jessie McNell, clerk of the municipal court, reported fines collected in that court for the week ending Oct. 15, amounting to $196.

E. A. Lindsay was granted a renewal of his liquor license, City Clerk Bickford reporting that Mr. Lindsay had nothing to his discredit on the books of the local court.

THIRTY DAYS TO PAY.

Eveleth Property Must Put Up for Street Improvements.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The assessment for the Grand avenue improvement must be paid within thirty days after the notice is given. The average cost om improvement for each property owner is over $110. At first it was thought possible to have the assessment paid in installments as was done in the case of the sidewalk improvements, but this has been found to be impossible by the city authorities and each owner will be given only thirty days in which to pay his assessment.

Work on the old Pierce street water tank is progressing rapidly, and the entire tank will soon be dismantled. Work has commenced on the new $10,000 water improvement in the Central Division No. 2, and the contractors, Pastoret & Lawrence, Duluth, expect to have all the mains installed for the city this fall. Work will soon be started on the Fayal road water main extension by the same contractors.

EVELETH COUNCIL IS MADE LARGER

Three New Aldermen Chosen to Represent New Territory.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city council last night elected three aldermen to represent the territory recently annexed to the city until the next city election as follows:

Fourth ward—Dr. E. K. Medlar.
Fifth ward—Gus Koppe.
Sixth ward—Edward M. Hatch.

The only contest was in the Fourth ward, a ballot being necessary to decide between Dr. Medlar and H. S. Shermait.

The bid of the Chicago Bell company to furnish new fire alarm boxes was referred to the fire department committee.

As the charter under which the city is operating is considered out of date the city clerk was ordered to petition the district court to appoint a charter commission.

The report of Health Inspector Bulkley, recommending that the Douglas avenue dump be leveled, the deadwood at the lake removed, and no permits for new icehouses granted, and deploring the fact that the city was without a laboratory in which he could test the city water, was placed on file.

The street commissioner was instructed to have a man stationed at the Douglas avenue dump and the city engineer requested to furnish the council with a grade of Douglas avenue. The matter of making new amendments to the health ordinance was discussed.

Saloonkeeper Voted Against.

The application of Max Stipitich, a saloonkeeper convicted of violating the liquor laws, for a license which the police and license committee recommended be granted, was laid on the table, the council voting 3 for and 3 against. The application of Paul Maros for a license in the Jugovich building was referred to the police and license committee.

A communication in answer to a letter from the city clerk requesting permission to tunnel under the Missabe tracks was received from the chief engineer of the road stating that the permit would be granted on receipt of sketch showing the contemplated water main improvement. A motion to amend the ordinance No. 73, so that residents making connection with the city main from the curb be charged the actual cost of the work instead of $16 as at present was referred to the ordinance committee, as was the matter of fixing a minimum rate for the use of city water. The matter of purchasing a street washer to be attached to the city sprinkler was deferred until next spring. The reports of the board of health and the chief of the fire department for September were accepted.

A communication was received from Secretary Fred E. Lister of the Commercial club requesting a park board be appointed and steps taken for the maintenance of a city park next year. The matter was referred to the mayor with requests that he appoint a park board. The bond of the city clerk for $1,000 was referred to the city attorney.

CHISHOLM MAN WEDS TEACHER AT EVELETH.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Ethel Corbin of the Fayal location and Timothy Sullivan of Chisholm were married this morning at the St. Patrick's church, by Rev. Father Floyd, in the presence of many relatives and friends. The bride is a well known resident of this city and has been employed in the local schools for many years. The couple will take a short honeymoon trip prior to taking up housekeeping at the French residence, in the Monroe location, Chisholm.

Thomas Hoper, formerly of Ishpeming, Mich., who was married Saturday to Miss Beatrice Haglund of Marinette, Wis., is now employed at Virgina, but for the present the couple will make their home with the groom's brother, John Hooper, in this city.

CLEARING FIVE ACRES.

Hibbing Man to Farm the Du Pont Powder Plants.

Hibbing, Minn., Oct. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Herman Antonelli, president of the Italian Mercantile company, is clearing a farm a short distance from the Dupont powder plant, about seven miles southeast of town. Mr. Antonelli recently purchased land from the Duluth & Iron Range railway and immediately started clearing. He has five acres ready for the plow and is erecting a substantial farm house and barn and expects to be right in the farmer class next year.

I. P. Lind has a crew of men at work erecting a sawmill at Nelson, a few miles south of Hibbing. The new structure will be 110 by 40 feet with a concrete foundation and will have in connection with the sawing of rough lumber, a planing and shingle mill. The approximate cost of the mill will be $30,000 and when completed will employ from twenty to thirty men.

HIBBING WHIST PARTY.

Mrs. La Fave Entertained Pleasantly Monday Afternoon.

Hibbing, Minn., Oct. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. La Fave entertained very delightfully Monday afternoon at her home on Lincoln street. Whist was played, Mrs. Heasley carrying away the first prize, while Mrs. Frank Kleffman won second prize. Mrs Abe Kleffman was awarded the consolation prize. A delightful lunch was served and the afternoon was spent very pleasantly.

Company M, Minnesota National Guard, will give its second dancing party in the armory hall on Thursday evening. The members of the company are good entertainers and it is safe to say that a capacity crowd will be in attendance.

Miss Lottie Thibodeau of Washburn, Wis., returned home Tuesday after spending several weeks visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Young.

Fred Smith and N. M. Hartford left Tuesday for Duluth in Mr. Smith's auto.

Mike Somers and P. McCarthy left Tuesday morning on a hunting trip to Bengal, Minn.

Mrs. Dr. C. F. Norsman and Miss Belle Likely arrived home from Duluth last evening after spending the day there.

RANGE PARTY MAKES QUICK TRIP TO DULUTH.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Evelethians have the honor of breaking the automobile record between Duluth and the ranges. The new record was established Monday morning, in Deputy Coroner J. J. Gleason's new Lozier car, which left here in the morning at 10:45, with S. G. Cromswell of Minneapolis at the wheel and Deputy Coroner Gleason, Father Floyd, Ray Marty, ex-Alderman Edward J. Millette, Engineer Adolph Hartman and Dr. C. W. More as passengers. The car reached Duluth at 1 o'clock, making the distance of about seventy miles in two hours and fifteen minutes, which is thirty minutes better time than two two hours and forty-five minutes, the old record.

MODERN BROTHERHOOD OF VIRGINIA INITIATES.

Virginia, Minn., Oct. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. F. Dykeman, district manager of the Modern Brotherhood of America, assisted by J. A. Prince, range deputy, initiated two candidates in the local lodge last night. Following the ceremonies a social session was held and a lunch served. The local lodge has a membership of about 200 and are preparing to initiate some forty new members on Nov. 1.

The dance given by the Virginia City band for the benefit of the Baudette fire sufferers at the roller rink last night was largely attended inspite of the heavy rain which fell during the evening. About $100 will be realized from the entertainment.

CHISHOLM GIRL IS HOME FROM NEW YORK.

Chisholm, Minn., Oct. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Esther Sapero, who has been spending the last two months in New York City, Baltimore and Chicago returned Monday evening. She was met at the depot by her relatives who were overjoyed to see her. Most of the time Miss Sapero spent in New York City she was under the care of a prominent dermatologist. Miss Sapero is a graduate of the Chisholm high school of the class of 1910.

Hibbing Drunks Fined.

Hibbing, Minn., Oct. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Tony Kroberker and George Miller, who were arrested late Monday evening for being drunk and disorderly, appeared in the municipal court Tuesday and were fined $18.50 and $8.50, respectively. The men paid their fines.

COAL ACROSS LAKE.

Shipping 1,000 Tons From the Docks at Tower.

Tower, Minn., Oct. 19. — (Special to The Herald.) — One thousand tons of coal are being taken across the lake by the tug Oddfellow for the Vermilion Steel & Iron company at Mud Creek.

Alfred Wadman and Martin Nelson have returned from Summit, S. D., where they went expecting to invest in land. Dry weather and poor crops made them change their plans.

Mrs. Conrad Mattson, who underwent a delicate operation some weeks ago at the Soudan hospital is well enough to be at home again.

Frank Neponsich, a young Soudan boy, fell and broke his collar bone Saturday.

G. C. Thompson, Iron Range station agent at Tower junction, has resigned and leaves Nov. 1 with his family, for Florida, where they will make their home in the future. He sold his house to Mike Muelch of Soudan.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Nelson are the happy parents of a little son born Monday morning.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Swedish Lutheran church will meet at the home of Mrs. Ole Olson on North Third street tomorrow afternoon.

Train loads of lumber are being shipped out by local lumber companies.

Proff Croft of Virginia, was a business visitor in town Sunday and Monday.

Zacary Peltola of Virginia, who has been to the Soudan hospital with a broken arm for several weeks has been discharged cured and returned home.

EXPECT NOTED ONES

At Annual Meeting of the Lake County Old Settlers.

Two Harbors, Minn., Oct. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Col. A. Delacy Wood, president of the Lake County Old Settlers' association, expects to have quite a gathering of prominent public men here Thanksgiving evening on the occasion of the annual meeting of the association. He has secured United States Senator Moses E. Clapp, Congressman C. B. Miller, Governor A. O. Eberhart, Mayor Cullum of Duluth and others to be present and make addresses. These men attended the meeting held here last summer and were delighted with their greeting and want to come again. A feature of the meeting will be a grand banquet in the evening.

GET DRENCHING RAIN.

Mesaba and Vermilion Ranges Are Given Good Soaking.

Virginia, Minn., Oct. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Mesaba range was visited by a drenching rain for several hours last evening that cooled the atmosphere considerably and today it feels like snow.

Soaked Around Tower.

Tower, Minn., Oct. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The fine dry weather of the past two weeks terminated last night with an immense downpour of rain, which has extinguished the forest fires in this vicinity. The weather is rapidly turning colder and snow is expected.

TO PAY TRIBUTE TO JULIA WARD HOWE.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Interest is felt here in the death of Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, and local ministers are preparing to hold appropriate services Sunday. At the Methodist Episcopal church, Rev. R. C. Johnson, the pastor, who met Mrs. Howe while traveling in the East and heard her recite the "Battle Hymn of the Republic," will speak on the famous war song, and the life of its authoress. Special patriotic music will be sung and exercises of a patriotic nature rendered.

Rain Prevents Eveleth Lecture.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The address on the "War on the White Plague," which was to have been delivered at the high school last evening by Rev. Father John Tscholl of the St. Joseph church, Chisholm, was deferred owing to inclement weather.

Father Tscholl will deliver addresses on the Western Mesaba, and Thursday evening will speak at Marble, Friday at Coleraine and Saturday at Coleraine. The trip is being made under his personal direction and expense and he will also deliver an address at Crookston.

To Dance For Charity.

Nashwauk, Oct. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—A charity ball is to be given here Friday night for the benefit of the fire sufferers in Northern Minnesota. The Shuirman orchestra will furnish the music gratis, and the school auditorium has been tendered for the big benefit.

Virginia Sausage Stolen.

Virginia, Minn., Oct. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The meat market of Alderman Staff was broken into early yesterday morning and several pounds of sausage taken. The burglars broke a hole in the large plate glass and extracted the meat from that position.

Got Thirty-six Partridges.

Hibbing, Minn., Oct. 19—(Special to The Herald.)—J. A. Miller and William Rezac returned yesterday from a hunting trip to Sturgeon lake with thirty-six partridges. The birds are reported as being hard to tree and it was only with the service of an excellent pointer that the hunters were so well rewarded for their trip.

L. R. Bellman returned Monday evening from a week's hunting at Bowstring lake and reposts birds very scarce.

This is the result of the warm weather which has delayed the southward flight of the feathered game, but Mr. Bellman bagged forty-eight birds, including some fine mallards.

Green Room Gossip.

"The Kissing Girl," a musical comedy by Stanislaus Stange, with lyrics by Vincent Bryan and music by von Tilzer, will be presented at the Lyceum Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

From Detroit's ablest critics comes a flood of golden opinion on the opera and its cast. George Goodale, dean of theatrical writers, pronounces it "the unparagoned product of musical mind." The following names of principals will give some idea of the strength of the cast:

Lina, "The Kissing Girl".....Texas Guinan
Fritz Kobus, a corporal in the Austrian army.....Dick Temple
Hippocrates Muller, a wealtny brewer .....Harry Hermson
Karl Oppe, the king's forester.....Louis London
Christine Muller, the brewer's daughter .....Marion Mills
Margaret Kobus, landlady of the "Hunter's Rest".....Ida Fitzhugh
Max Pulaski, a Polish cement manufacturer.....D. Roy Torrey
Frou-Frou, a Parisian danseuse.....Mlle. Vanity

The company presents an ensemble of seventy people with a complete orchestra under the direction of Whitney Bennington.

Probably the majority of the people in the Orpheum audiences this week have thought that the manner in which Mrs. Jack McGreevy, who is appearing in a most amusing sketch with her husband, has kept her right eye covered, was part of her makeup. It added a comical touch to her Sis Hopkins attire, but it was far from being amusing to Mrs. McGreevy herself. Her eye became poisoned last week, and she has been suffering acutely with it since coming to Duluth.

Robert Carter, who is appearing in "The Wise Mr. Conn" at the Bijou is a fine example of the present day progressive actor. Mr. Carter is the owner of 320 acres of the finest fruit lands in the state of Colorado. His land is located about forty miles from Palisades, Colo. Not only is Mr. Carter the possessor of this land but he also owns an irrigation project of his own design. These irrigation projects are suually owned and controlled by large corporations or the government but Mr. Carter's project waters 25,000 acres of land and he is the sole owner.

One of the most distinct novelties of the season will be seen at the Lyceum during the engagement of "The Broken Idol" the latest of musical playlets. At the finish of the play a huge silken balloon floats down from the fly gallery of the theater and Miss Perle Barti the prima donna of the company seats herself in it and floats lazily over the audience singing "Love Makes the World Go Round." Miss Barti has also the distinction of being the first actress to go up in an aeroplane having made a flight with Ely when he was appearing at the Hawthorne race track during the last aviation meet.

Lewis McCord, who has a comedy sketch at the Orpheum this week, was the first man to use a bare stage rehearsal scene in vaudeville. His idea has been copied in numerous sketches and acts, but he was the pioneer in this line.

"I had a sketch which told the story of an old time manager rehearsing a young girl for the role of Juliet," said Mr. McCord. "I played that sketch more than 3,000 times and it is a valuable piece of stage property yet, but there have been so many imitations and other bare stage acts, that I laid it aside and got a new one."

"The Flirting Princess," which comes to the Lyceum Sunday and Monday ran the entire season in Chicago. It was produced by Mr. Singer in October last and during its Chicago engagement broke every attendance record that had been made in that city. One by one the attractions which played at other theaters in opposition to it withdrew until it and its sister attraction, "The Goddess of Liberty," became the pioneers of the season. "The Goddess of Liberty" at length went on the road, with the season's record of 325 performances. But even this has now been discounted by "The Flirting Princess," which left with a seven months' record of 340 performances. Mr. Singer is presenting Harry Bulger in the leading role this season and he is repeating the hit he made in Henry W. Savage's "Woodland" not long ago.

and the timid will probably be wearing rubbers tomorrow.

Duluth isn't alone afflicted. The storm is general and temperatures of 14 deg. and thereabouts were registered last night in the vicinity of Medicine Hat, where they do say all cold weather and storms are manufactured and turned loose.

The wind blew in terrific gusts last night and the low temperature, coming after a beautiful day, was uncomfortable, to say the least. This morning the gale from the northwest swept pedestrians from their feet and a maximum velocity of forty-eight miles an hour was registered at 8 o'clock this morning, when the temperature was about 42 deg. At 11 o'clock this morning the mercury stood at 41 deg.

Freezing temperatures are predicted for tonight and the rain, which will be general throughout the Northwest, will probably be turned into snow in this section—the first snow of a fall that has been almost perfect thus far.

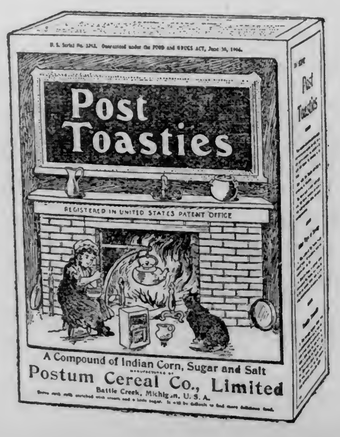

Today is a bleak October day, with a ⁴⁸ wind and lowering clouds that eloquently tell of winter's approach.

Medical Society Meets.

Brainerd, Minn., Oct. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Upper Mississippi Medical society met last evening. Their semi-annual meeting embraced a banquet at the Ideal restaurant, attended by twenty physicians, a business session and the reading of papers on medical subjects by Dr. F. J. Sykora and Dr. Brown of Brainerd and Dr. Coulter of Wadena.

Gold Dust

makes dish water that digs

GOLD DUST offers the shortest cut from the drudgery of dish washing. Just a little GOLD DUST shaken in your dish water will remove the grease and dirt.

GOLD DUST digs deep into cracks and corners—purifies and drives out every bit of dirt or hidden germs which soap and water will not reach. GOLD DUST sterilizes as well as cleans.

If you spend two hours a day washing dishes, GOLD DUST will enable you to save one hour—and your dishes, too, will be spotlessly white, wholesome and sanitary.

Do not use Soap, Naphtha, Borax, Soda, Ammonia or Kerosene with Gold Dust. Gold Dust has all desirable cleansing qualities in a perfectly harmless and lasting form.

NO "PADDING" IN DULUTH

Census Figures Not Swelled Here By the Hotel Registers.

Figures for Duluth Will Show Honest Count When Announced.

The scandal arising from the alleged discovery that the census returns from some cities were flagrantly "padded" has caused considerable discussion in Duluth. In Minneapolis it is said transients at hotels were counted as residents of the city and, as Duluth has a large transient population, the opportunities for "padding" by that system, had the inclination existed, would have been rich.

There was no "padding" of the Duluth census and the returns will show the exact population of the city—or the population as nearly exact as it is possible for fallible man to count it.

The transients in the hotels and lodging houses of the city were counted, but not as residents. The census bureau furnished a special form for hotels and lodging houses. Transients filled out the forms in case they had not been or would not be counted in their home towns. Regular lodgers at the hotels, residents of Duluth, also filled out the forms and those from regular lodgers were incorporated in the Duluth census. The forms filled out by transients were returned to the census bureau to be apportioned to the towns from which the transients hailed.

Supervisor B. L. Hollister and Assistant Supervisor J. W. Allen, who had charge of the census in Duluth laid down an iron-clad rule that the enumerators should work for accuracy first of all. Transients were carefully separated from residents and if any transients crept into the count of the Duluth population, it was by accident.

Any semblance of "padding" was avoided. There was a suggestion made to Supervisor Hollister that many of the men in the lumber camps to the north of Duluth should be counted as residents of Duluth, as they make their home in this city the greater part of the year and are only temporarily residents of the camps. Supervisor Hollister refused to act on the suggestion, saying that he would not go outside of Duluth to take the census, the only people out of the city to be counted being those who were spending the winter at their winter homes in California and Florida, and some of those did not get into the census.

When Duluth's population is announced by the census bureau, it will be found to be an honest census. The growth of the city has been gradual and satisfactory during the past five years and while a substantial increase in population will be shown, it will be an increase based on facts, not frenzied efforts to make a showing at any cost.

HANDLING STEEL OUTPUT DIRECT

Steel Corporation Takes More Radical Step to Be Free of Jobbers.

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 19.—Discussing a reported move among jobbers to break with the United States Steel corporation and handle the products of independent steel companies, the Daily Iron Trade Review gives the following as the source of the jobber's complaint:

"For a number of years after its formation, the Steel corporation sold a large part of its product through jobbers, and seemed content to do so, making liberal concessions to them, paying what practically amounted to commissions for handling the business. Gradually, however, the steel corporation manifested a disposition to establish warehouses and handle its own products in a retail way. The building of the warehouse at Waverly, near New York City, was an important step in this direction.

Radical Action Taken.

"A few weeks ago, however, the most radical action was taken in the withdrawing of price concessions made to jobbers by the Steel corporation. Following this action, the Carnegie Steel company a few days ago sent out twenty salesmen to represent its Pittsburg warehouse and scour the Central West for warehouse orders. Several were sent to Cleveland, several to Cincinnati, and others to different parts of the Central West, including West Virginia.

STATES TO CONFER ON FIGHTING FIRE

Tri-State Meeting in St. Paul to Consider Needed Laws.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 19.—Tentative plans for a lake states forest fire conference to be held in St. Paul Dec. 6 and 7 were outlined at a meeting of the Minnesota state forestry board yesterday. A proposed program was submitted by J. E. Rhodes, president of the Minnesota Forestry association, which will be used as a basis for the final program.

The governors of Michigan and Wisconsin will be present to discuss forestry legislation in their states and every phase of the subject will be openly discussed. The state, the railroads, the settlers, the lumbermen and the federal forestry experts will all be present to present their sides of the question.

In discussing the tentative plan which he suggested, Mr. Rhodes declared that the railroads were willing to co-operate with the state board in preventing the forest fires and that every interest should be given a hearing so that no injustice would be done in framing the laws desired.

The conference is to be held under the auspices of the Minnesota state forestry board and the Minnesota Forestry association.

Better Able to Frame Law.

Following this conference it is thought that the state forestry board will be in a better position to frame up a law that will protect the forests of the state from devastating fires.

W. B. Douglas of St. Paul, former attorney general, presented a report in which he outlined necessary amendments to the state forestry laws for the prevention of fires. He declared that many fires were caused by the neglect of the railroads to clear their right-of-way, and that spark arresters should be placed upon the locomotives and that through the forest regions oil should be burned in the locomotives. He declared that there should be a law prohibiting the lighting of campfires in the forest regions between the dates of April 1 and Nov. 10. During this season fires should be allowed only by permission of county auditors, who should issue a permit.

ROYAL FAMILY DECREED EXILES

Portuguese Government Proscribes the Whole House of Braganza.

Lisbon, Oct. 19.—The government of Portugal has issued a decree proscribing the Braganza family to the position of an exiled house.

Concerning the property in Portugal owned personally by King Manual and others of the royal family, the decree states that this matter will be settled as soon as possible. The government promises that the legitimate rights of the exiled of the royal family shall be respected.

JOHN B. WALKER RAPS ROOSEVELT

Former Editor of Magazine Makes Attack in Kansas City Speech.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 19.—Without mentioning the name of Col. Roosevelt, but making it obvious that it was he of whom he was speaking, John Brisben Walker, former editor of the Cosmopolitan Magazine, last night in an address before the Knife and Fork club here, made a sharp attack on the ex-president.

Mr. Walker pointed out that a republic was just as enlightened as its average citizen. Such a citizen, he said, failing to read and keep himself informed upon public questions, might easily be induced to follow the lead of a popular idol. Thus, said Mr. Walker, the idol might become a dictator in fact if not in name.

"Of course," said the speaker, "it would not be an ordinary man who could do this. It would require some supreme demagogue, some quintessence of fake, some one equipped with an unblushing affrontery capable of putting into the Ananias club every man or woman who could analyze his attempted deceptions; some practical politician who can be an enthusiastic progressive in Kansas and Iowa, and write an indorsement of the Aldrich tariff in a New York town."

MANY TO SPEAK AT DOLLIVER FUNERAL.

Fort Dodge, Iowa, Oct. 19.—The program for the funeral of the late Senator Dolliver as completed is as follows:

Services will commence at 2 o'clock p. m. Thursday, Oct. 20. Dr. Frank Gunsaulus of Chicago will pay tribute an "Dolliver, the Man." Governor Carroll will speak in behalf of the state of Iowa. Senator Cummins will speak for the United States senate. George F. Roberts of Washington, director of the mint, will speak in behalf of the press.

Judge W. S. Kenyon of Washington and Fort Dodge, assistant to the attorney general, will speak in behalf of the home city, Fort Dodge.

Rev. Robert Smylie of Sioux City will speak in behalf of the Northwestern Iowa conference of the Methodist church, and Rev. W. H. Spencer of this city will have for his subject "The Senator's Relation to the Home Church."

Bishop Luther Wilson of Philadelphia will speak on "The Laymen's Relation to the Church," and Bishop William Frazier McDowell of Chicago on "A Fallen Leader."

WILL DISCUSS HIGH TAX RATE

Members of Lakeside Club Plan an Interesting Session.

The high tax rate will be discussed pro and con at the next meeting of the Lakeside club, to be held Friday evening at the town hall. Among those who will discuss the subject are: Mayor M. B. Cullum, City Comptroller W. S. McCormick, President W. E. Magner of the school board, and City Attorney Bert Fesler.

The tax rate has already been the subject of much comment and it is expected that some important as well as interesting facts relative to the question, will be brought out. Other matters which will likely be touched upon are the improvement of the street car service and the organization of a federation of all the civic and commercial clubs of the city. President A. G. McKnight will preside.

MEMBERSHIP IS INCREASED

Thirty Carlton County Veterans Become Members of Willis A. Gorman Post.

Thirty veterans of the Civil war, who reside in Carlton county, became members of the local Willis O. Gorman post of the Grand Army of the Republic last night. Fifteen of the new members reside at Moose Lake. The others were from the other towns in Carlton county.

There are a great many veterans in Carlton county and an effort is being made to have them all join the local post. The matter was taken up at the Carlton county fair recently by Asa Dally and a number of other veterans from Duluth and the initiation last night was the result.

Music was furnished by the fife and drum corps and a dinner was served by the women of Garfield Circle, No. 4.

The Carlton county delegates returned to their homes last night by the late train.

Russian to Be Extradited.

Winnipeg, Oct. 19.—Savva Federenke, a revolutionist wanted by the Russian government on a number of charges, including murder during the revolution of 1905, has been committed for extradition by Chief Justice Mathers. A writ of habeas corpus will be applied for at once by the Russian Freedom league, which, it is understood, will fight the case to the court of last appeals.

TELLS OF PROBE OF CENSUS WORK

Durand Explains How Suspected Padding Was Checked Up.

Washington, Oct. 19.—Census Director Durand has issued a statement with reference to methods employed by the census bureau in investigating the possibility of "padding of the population returns," there having been opinions expressed in some of the Western cities that the incredulity at the enormous increase shown was the only ground for investigation.

Director Durand outlines in detail the systematic operation of a special force of workers in the department, constantly employed to detect fraud in the enumeration.

"It is needless to say," says Director Durand in his statement, "that the census bureau would not for a moment think of eliminating names from the schedules merely because of this office investigation. In every case where such an investigation indicated sufficient grounds for suspicion, competent men have been sent from Washington to investigate.

Made Canvass of Houses.

"Such men have interviewed the supervisors, special agents and enumerators who took the census, as well as others in the community, and have made a house-to-house canvass in the suspected districts. In many cases they found that the enumeration of the suspected districts was entirely correct, but in a considerable number of other cases they found further evidences of 'padding' of one kind or another."

Director Durand, in referring to Stacey M. Corwin, the special agent who is alleged to have given the Tacoma enumerators population slips by means of which the returns for that city were "padded," said that Corwin was believed to have been a Tacoma man and his appointment as special agent to assist in the direction of the Tacoma census, only was made upon the recommendation of the census supervisor of that city.

FEVER HOSPITAL IN WINNIPEG IS BURNED.

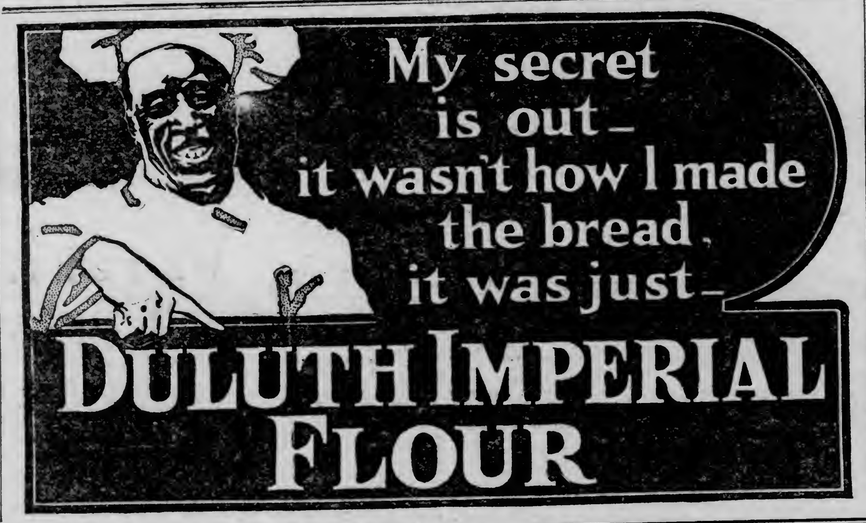

Winnipeg, Oct. 19.—The main building of the local exposition, which was being used temporarily for the housing of forty-four children suffering from scarlet fever, was burned last night and the patients removed during a heavy rain and placed under the grand stand. The loss is $75,000.

NEW YORK TO SUPPLY PASTEURIZED MILK.

New York, Oct. 19.—Beginning next summer, pasteurized milk will be supplied to the public by the city government as one of the duties of the municipality. This decision was reached yesterday at a meeting of the budget committee. Pasteurization stations will be established throughout the city and physicians and nurses will be kept in constant attendance to instruct mothers in the proper care of their children.

THREE OF OUR FIVE HOUSES ARE GONE!
If You Want One of the Last Two, You'll Have to Hurry

If you want a chance to OWN YOUR OWN HOME in Duluth's most beautiful, most healthy suburb, amidst ideal surroundings, close to the car line and to beautiful Lester Park—HERE IT IS!

Two splendid six-room houses remain out of the five we offered for sale some little time ago, two ideal homes, with full concrete-floored basement and stone foundation, with hardwood floors throughout and finished in oak downstairs, with all lighting and plumbing fixtures already installed—one of them can be YOURS for a very small cash payment and little monthly payments just about equal to what you now pay out in rent for another man's house.

You'll never get a better chance to start towards owning your own home and you certainly can't afford to keep on paying rent—buying a house several times over and having nothing to show for it but a bundle of receipts.

Call on us first thing tomorrow morning and we'll show you these splendid homes—or better still—COME OUT AND SEE THEM TODAY!

Take the Lakeside car to Fifty-fourth avenue east and walk north four blocks, there you will see five houses in a row—the last two on the west side are the ones we here advertise for sale and are all that remain.

LATEST SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

GOSSIP PICKED UP ALONG THE SPORTING HIGHWAY

Walter Camp's Tour of the West — Barney Oldfield and the Racing Game — Yost and Williams — Ketchel's Successor.

(BY BRUCE.)

Mr. Camp's trip over the country, in the interests of the firm he is with, cannot but help of being of great benefit to the football of the country. Walter Camp is a great man in the annals of football, and his observations upon the game are deep and shrewd; and therefore, when he makes a little remark about some vital point of play, in some particular vicinity, it will be taken up with the seriousness it deserves.

For instance, yesterday when talking with the writer, Mr. Camp gave a striking fault of some teams under the new rules. He stated that great credit must be given Yost for the development he made in his team last season, following the defeat by Notre Dame.

"Yost took his team East and defeated the University of Pennsylvania, and then defeated the great Minnesota team," said Mr. Camp. "He would never have accomplished these two victories, had he not changed somewhat materially his style of play. Under the new rules some coaches have fallen into the error of instructing their forwards to stand up higher and watch for the progress of the ball. And in this momentay lapse of aggressiveness, the other side may have made telling and timely gains.

"This is just what Notre Dame did against Michigan, for the Wolverine forwards were playing, in that game, high in the air, and rather vaguely watching for the expected flight or pass of the ball. Down at Yale we have instructed and coached our men to charge aggressively through, and then to watch for the progress of the ball. If the ball has not passed the line of scrimmage, the forwards are in a position to block a pass, or to break up the play; and, too, if the play is a pass, there are your backs to intercept or secure the ball.

"In my opinion, the linemen should not wait and watch, but should charge through and then be in a position to stop plays, attempt to intercept passes, or to get the man with the ball."

While more of the burden of duties has been lifted from the stalwart shoulders of the linemen, under the new rules, there yet remains quite a gentle sufficiency for these gentlemen to accomplish. How many great gridiron battles have been settled in the line? Most of the great games that can be recalled.

Under the new rules, which allow much more open work, it is true, if the linemen take care of their opponents, and leave the handling of passes and punts, and a few straggling runners that may break through—which is quite unlikely, if the line is charging and breaking through—that the backs will be much more able to hold up their very important end of the game.

Mr. Camp's visit to different football centers will add interest to the game. His suggestions and advice will be acted upon by coaches who have the good sense to see the soundness of them. Like the Teddy tour, it will be stimulating and interesting.

Barney May Queer Himself

Several drivers of more or less distinction, have come out in the open and declared that, in the event of Barney Oldfield racing with the colored heavyweight champion, they will never drive in a race with him.

And thus in his wild scramble for glory and the elusive dollar that knocketh not twice at the door of any man, the king of the speed merchants may find that he has been blacklisted.

However, any man who can break records with the persistency of Oldfield, need not worry long over the failure to secure engagements. The public after all, in sports if not in politics, is the final arbitor, and if the public clamors for Oldfield, you may rest well assured of the fact that there will be promoters in plenty who will have the peerless one at various tracks throughout the country.

There may be some to regret the fact that the automobile game has thus been opened to a colored prize fighter; especially one who has seen fit to conduct himself like Johnson has. It is Oldfield's own business, and being a shrewd man, managed by shrewd managers, Barney has probably figured all this dope to the last fraction. There is little likelihood that as long as Oldfield retains his present nerve and ability to drive faster than any man in the world, that he will be forced to saw tough hickory wood or dig ditches to secure the wherewithal to get three approaching square per weary diem.

There was a rumor, some few years back, of an attempt to blacklist Jack Johnson. When he was a comparative unknown he found it hard rustling for doughnuts and coffee of a doubtful blend; now he is the champion of the world, and the money is coming in bales.

This same does most surely apply in any profession. When you are up there at the top, you can get all the work you want for the dear people do desire and dearly love to see a champion, and it is the public that pays the freight.

How About All This?

A special from the Ann Arbor camp to the Chicago Tribune says that Yost is highly pleased over the showing of his pupils against the Michigan Agricultural school. If this be so, what must the state of exhilaration of the mind of Dr. H. L. Williams be?

But, when lots of columns of stuff have been printed, you must watch Yost. He brings his team along slowly, sometimes, but, like the mills of the gods, his old mill grinds exceeding small. One of the things about the teams of Yost is that they learn the fundamentals of football before they learn the varied plays. Thus, in the early season, they may make indifferent showings, and later on, when it is least expected, achieve some brilliant victory.

According to the dispatch from Ann Arbor, Yost believes his team showed 100 per cent improvement in the game last Saturday. It looks as if there will be only two real championship competitors in the West the present season—Minnesota and Michigan. If that is the case, in those who are fond of a real struggle, hope that the game between the two great Western schools will be the greatest ever played in the West.

Ketchel's removal from the ranks of the middleweights leaves the championship between Papke and Klaus. From the fetching fact that Kewanee Bill travels in a wider publicity path than the man from Pittsburg, it is very probable that the majority of the fans will instantly and insistently claim that the Papke party is the paprika in the 158-pound class.

Papke and Klaus.

Go slow, little brother of the impulsive. This Klaus boy is one of those sturdy German lads, with shoulders wide and strong and one of those eat-'em-alive castes of countenance. He has fought the very best of his class, including both Papke and Ketchel, and he did not get any the worst of it.

He is a youngster and he is coming. Papke is awfully good and we all hesitate to think that Klaus can beat the pride of Illinois in a fight that goes along well over the six-round route. But, just the same, proud Pauline, this other boy must be given a chance. Eddie McGoorty is hardly strong enough to clash with Papke, and the Italian, Hugh Kelly, has been decisively beaten by the Illinois Thunderbolt.

Klaus is about the only man who stands in the way of the proud Papke and a fight between the two should prove one of the best engagements of recent years.

CHICAGO FANS DEEP IN GLOOM

Second Defeat of National League Champions Is Crushing Blow.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—One hundred thousand National league baseball supporters, whose spirits have been only temporarily checked by defeat in Philadelphia Monday, gathered at newspaper offices, around tickers and at telephones here yesterday and tried to account for the second drubbing by the Philadelphia Americans in the world's series.

Nearly everyone had a different reason to offer. The defeat yesterday, however, is agreed by all to have a much more serious effect than the one Monday. Gloom, which hovered over baseball circles Monday night, settled lower down last night and now hope has taken the place of confidence.

The defeat also proved expensive to those who had bet on the result. Odds went down after the first defeat, and Monday's loser's wagered heavily yesterday in an effort to get even. Even money was offered here last night that the Chicago team will win Thursday's game, the first on its home grounds. Three to five that the National league champions will win the series also finds takers.

While no concerted welcome has been prepared to greet the players when they reach this city today, it is expected supporters of both leagues will meet the trains. American league men who cheered the first Philadelphia victory, experienced a change of heart when it began to appear that the pennant would be won by an Eastern team. Civic pride got the better of league loyalty and some of the ardent supporters of the Chicago American league team have turned their sympathies toward the local Nationals.

Conley Is Matched.

New Orleans, Oct. 19.—Frankie Conley of California and Joe Mandot of New Orleans were matched last night to fight ten rounds before the Royal Athletic culb here next Saturday.

MATHEWSON, New York Nationals.

FORD, New York Americans.

The Giants won the first game of the series between the New York Americans and New York Nationals before a crowd of about 30,000 people. Mathewson was at his best and fanned fourteen of the Yankees and would have scored a shutout but for two errors by Merkle. Ford pitched good ball in every inning except the eighth, when the Giants made four runs.

MATHEWSON WINS FROM AMERICANS

Devore's Hitting Helps Giants Take Fifth Game of Series.

New York, Oct. 19.—Christy Mathewson was an unsolvable problem to the American leaguers yesterday and had no trouble in winning the fifth game of the post season series, 5 to 1. The game now stands, New York, 3; Americans, 1; tie, 1.

Devore brought the Nationals' first run with a high drive into left field bachers for the circuit. After two men were out in the second inning, Meyers got a lucky infield hit and Mathewson walked to first on four wide ones. Devore doubled to right, scoring Meyers, and Doyle followed with a drive which rattled the ball against the center field fence. Doyle was across the plate before the ball reached the diamond. Score:

Nationals	1 4 0 0 0 0 0 0 —5	6	2

Batteries—Fisher and Michell; Mathewson and Meyers. Umpires—Klem and Evans.

The total paid admissions at the Polo Grounds yesterday numbered 15,353 and the total receipts were $12,339.75. Of this sum the players will receive $6,663.46, each club owner $2,221.16 and the national commission $1,233.97. It was the last day in which the players had a financall interest in the series. Their total share is $38,871.88.

REDS WIN LAST GAME FROM NAPS

Cincinnati National Leaguers Take Baseball Championship of Ohio.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 19.—The Cincinnati National league baseball team, by defeating the Cleveland Americans here yesterday, won the post-season series between the two teams for the championship of Ohio. The score was 8 to 5. Falkenberg pitched gilt-edged ball until the sixth inning, when six hits allowed Cincinnati to take the lead by scoring five runs. In the fourth Cleveland had secured four runs by pounding Suggs hard.

Cleveland tied it up in the seventh and in the Cincinnati half the locals went ahead again by scoring two more. They added one to this in the eighth. Kaler, who relieved Falkenberg served only three men, walking all of them. Mitchell, who pitched the last two innings was also wild. Gaspar, who relieved Suggs was hit rather freely, but managed to keep the hits well scattered. Lobert's triple in the sixth with two men on bases was the feature. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Cleveland	0 0 0 4 0 0 1 0 0	5	12	1
Cincinnati	0 0 0 0 0 5 2 1 x	8	8	1

Batteries—Falkenberg, Kaler, Mitchell and Adams; Suggs, Gaspar and McLean. Umpires—Brennan and O'Loughlin.

The attendance and receipts for the series as announced from the office of the national baseball commission last night were:

Total attendance, 34,649; total receipts, $18,512.75; players' share, $8,565.61; each club's share, $4,407.45; commission's share, $1,851.26.

The Cincinnati players divide $5,129.36 among them while the Cleveland players will divide $3,426.25.

NEARLY $40,000 FOR PLAYERS IN TWO GAMES

The total paid attendance at the Philadelphia-Chicago game yesterday was 24,057 and the total receipts were $35,137. The total attendance for the two days was 51,488 and the total receipts $72,561.50. The share for the players for the two days is $39,183.21.

The two teams left here over the Pennsylvania railroad at 8:57 o'clock last night for Chicago. They are traveling in two special trains. The third game of the series will be played in Chicago Thursday.

HATLEY REDUCES LEAD OF SHORTSTOP AL TAYLOR.

With the first half of the 2,400-point billiard series completed, Al. Taylor of Milwaukee leads William Hatley of this city by 35 points, Hatley cutting down the lead of Taylor in the game of last evening, making 437 to Taylor's 300, cutting down the lead of Taylor from 172 to 35. In the afternoon game Hatley ran up 276 points while Taylor was running out on his 300 points.

In the game last evening Hatley made a high run of 66 and Taylor made a run of 49. There was a large number of spectators on hand last evening, and both men played some of the best billiards that have been seen in this city. The final half of the series will be completed in Milwaukee.

FRIEL TO MANAGE COLUMBUS IN 1911.

Columbus, Ohio, Oct. 19.—President Schoenbern and Manager Friel of the Columbus Baseball club met in Philadelphia yesterday and Friel attached his name to a contract to manage the Columbus club for 1911.

JAPS LOSE ANOTHER GAME TO CHICAGO.

Tokio, Oct. 19.—The baseball nine representing the University of Chicago, which is making a tour of Japan, added another victory to its list today by again defeating the team from the University of Kelo. The score was: Chicago, 5; Kelo, 2.

Adams and Blaine.

Arrangements were completed this morning for the annual football game between the Blaine and Adams football teams. The game will be played Nov. 6, at Athletic park. The management of the Superior team held out for a game in Superior, but refused to guarantee the Duluth team any stipulated amount. Manager Geistman of the Adams guaranteed the Superior team $75 as its end of the gate, and therefore secured the game for this city.

Bowlers Hold Meeting.

At the meeting last evening of the Duluth Bowling association, the new organization to supervise the games in this city, rules and regulations that have been adopted by the American Bowling association, were adopted for use by the new association.

Captains of teams that are considering entering the new league, are requested to report either to the manager of the Majestic or Grand bowling alleys. Cards and buttons for members of the association will be out in a few days. It is also expected that the schedule of the association will be completed in a few days.

ADAMS HAVE STRONG TEAM

New Material Will Add Strength to Fast Local Aggregation.

As the football season grows older it is becoming apparent that the Adams team of this city is going to come mighty near winning the Head of the Lakes championship. Heavier than the team that was defeated last year by the heavy Blaine alumni, the Adams men are playing a game that will make any team go some to defeat them.

One of the fastest backs in the city will come out and try for a backfield position on the team, and then there is big Halley, a man who has played football in the East, who is trying for fullback. If Halley is as good as some of his friends believe, he will add strength and weight to the Adams' backfield.

Playing together for the past three seasons, the members of the association team built up a machine that is attracting the attention of football lovers in this city. Not knowing much football the first season the team started, today the Adams team plays a game that is clean, fast and scientific. As the season advances the play of the team has improved, and the game last Saturday was the best exhibition the team has given in this city.

If the Tigers make good the statement that they wanted to play the Adams for a side bet and all the gate money, they can have the chance, as Manager Geistman has money up at the present time to bind a contest. If the game between the Adams and Fairmonts is not arranged, the Washburn city team will be brought here for next Sunday's game.

On the basis of comparative scores, the Adams team is at the present time as strong as the Blaine alumni, and already the fans who follow the Sunday games on the city football league are looking eagerly forward to the game between them.

In response to the communication published in this paper yesterday, Manager Geistman of the Adams team stated that the grounds would be policed in the future, and that spectators would be kept off the field of play.

ONE CITIZEN LOSES $500 ON CHICAGO.

One of Duluth's well known citizens is reported to have dropped $500 on the Cubs yesterday. The odds were on the Chicago team despite the defeat of the previous, and some of the fans of the city are large sums out of pocket as the result of the two defeats of the Cubs.

The betting is not as heavy as it was on the results of the games between the Tigers and Cubs, the last time these teams met, but there has been considerable money wagered around the local cigar stores. With the two defeats for the Cubs the odds have shifted, though there are many who yet pin their faith upon the Cubs to take the series and others who are willing to bet Cole will win his game.

PARK PLANS PROGRESSING

Site Surveyed and Consent of Abutting Property Owners Secured.

Further details were completed yesterday in the plan to give this city one of the best athletic parks in the Northwest. The ground has been surveyed, a rough estimate of the cost of filling and leveling made, some of the abutting property owners interviewed on the question of having the park on the location planned, and favorable assurance received from the big corporate interest, whose consent is necessary for the construction of the park on the site in mind at the present time.

It was announced today by one of the gentlemen interested in the project of giving Duluth a thoroughly modern and up to date park, suited for all kinds of athletic games, that the plans were very near to realization, and that the deal may go through the present week.

While definite details of the location of the park cannot be given out at this time, for several reasons, it may be said that the site in prospect is in the very best location possible, and will give the park more playing space than Athletic park, and will also be larger and even more centrally located than the Superior park.

It is expected that further details will be completed today, and in that event the fans of Duluth will soon know whether they are going to have a fine new park next season.

If the deal is put through within a week or more, work on the site will be started this fall, in order that the park may be ready as early as possible next year.

CENTRAL SECURES GAME WITH FARGO HIGH.

After much worry and much writing and also much delay, the management of the Central High school football team has succeeded in scheduling a game. The team of the Fargo high school, about which there is apparently a deep mystery, as far as its record is concerned, will be here Saturday, and a hard and fast game is expected.

Little is known of the Fargo team, but the coach and members of the Central team are taking it for granted that the Flickertails are strong, and hard practice will be the order of the present week.

Jeronimus will be in the game Saturday, if his services are needed, as he has so far recovered from his bad ankle that he can be played if it becomes necessary. Ben Nelson was out yesterday, and though he will not be used in the game of Saturday, it is very probable that he will get into the remaining games of the present season.

YOST PLEASED WITH SHOWING AGAINST AGGIES.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 19.—Because of the wonderful improvement over the work in the Case game that Michigan exhibited against the Michigan Aggies, Wolverine athletic authorities are more than ever confident the eleven will go through the season without sustaining a defeat.

"On paper our 6 to 3 victory over the Aggies does not look particularly encouraging," said Coach Yost, "but it has a great deal of significance from our point of view. The team looked a hundred per cent better than against Case. If we had not we'd have been beaten.

"Of course there is still room for great improvement, but if the team continues to develop as rapidly within the next two or three weeks as it did last week we'll be ready for our hardest games when we come to them."

FORMER GREAT FIGHTER PASSES THROUGH CITY.

Otto Selloff, a famous little fighter, some seven or eight years ago, passed through the city yesterday, coming down from Winnipeg on his way to the Windy City. Otto has been taking a peep at the fighting game in the Peg, which is the bright mecca of the pugilists at the present time.

Selloff has fought such men as Oscar Gardner, the Omaha Kid, now a strenuous citizen of Minneapolis, and in fact, all the cracks of the lightweight class. He was one of the best of them all in his day, and though out of the game at the present time, can still go a few. Selloff was simply looking the game over. Harry Gilmore is putting on some shows in the Manitoba metropolis, and as the bars are down at the present time, some of the best men in the country are fighting up there.

M. Canfield	153	157	149
A. Lindgren	170	178	176— 983

O'CONNOR AND HOWELL LET OUT BY BROWNS.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 19.—Owner Robert Hedges of the St. Louis American league ball club announced last night that he had released both Manager Jack O'Connor of the Browns and Harry Howell, former pitcher, who has been acting as scout for the team for the past season.

Hedges' action is the result of the scandal brought about by the eight hits which Lajoi of the Cleveland team made here last Sunday.

In a statement issued by Hedges, the club owner says that he is satisfied that O'Connor and Howell conspired to help the batting average of the Cleveland player and that he does not believe there is room for men of such character in baseball.

In view of the fact that President Johnson virtually exonerated O'Connor in his statement awarding the automobile to Cobb, the action of Owner Hedges is causing a lot of surprise.

Hockey Plans Next.

A meeting of the officers of the City Amateur Hockey association is on the schedule for next month. The meeting will be held early in November, when it will be decided what steps will be taken in the games for Duluth the present winter.

It is believed all of the teams that composed the league last season, will be members this season, and there is the possibility that some of the Superior teams may enter. Several suggestions will come up at the meeting.

STALLINGS GOES BACK TO BUFFALO CLUB.

Philadelphia, Oct. 19.—President Hart of the Buffalo Eastern league club announced last night that he had signed George Stallings to manage the Buffalo team next year.

Stallings managed the New York team of the American league during the season just closed, until removed by President Farrell.

GOODMAN KNOCKED OUT IN FOURTH ROUND.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 19.—"Knockout" Brown of New York lived up to his reputation at the Armory Athletic association last night and sent Kid Goodman of Boston down and out in the fourth round of a scheduled ten-round bout.

DE ORO WINS FIRST BLOCK FROM JEVNE.

New York, Oct. 19.—Alfred De Oro, three-cushion billiard champion, defeated Lloyd Jevne of Salt Lake City here last night in the first block of 50 points for the premier prize, the score being 50 to 37. Both men played excellent billiards, De Oro being the more strategic, spreading his safely play at opportune times. One hundred innings were necessary for De Oro to gather his 50 points, his best runs being two for four and three of three each, while Jevne made one run of four and two of three.

DULUTH MAY HAVE NEW ROLLER RINK.

Negotiations are under way at the present time which may result in providing Duluth with a big downtown skating rink. The proposed location is convenient, and in the event of the plans materializing, this city will have a rink where some of the best speed skaters in the country will be seen in action. If the rink becomes a reality the present winter and Frank Bryant makes a good showing against Joe Munch next week, Hartley Davidson and some of the best roller skaters in the country will be brought here to try conclusions with the local champion.

POSTAL DEFICIT IS $11,500,000 LESS.

Washington, Oct. 19.—As indicating that the postoffice department is fast approaching the state of self-support, Postmaster General Hitchcock has announced that the deficit for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1910, amounted to only $5,881,482 as compared with $17,479,770 for the preceding year. These are the final figures as reported by the auditor, and show a saving of $11,978,288 during the course of the year.

The wide discrepancy between the deficit for the fiscal years 1909 and 1910 is regarded by officials as bearing out the recent statement that before the close of another fiscal year the postal establishment will become self-sustaining.

S.S.S. CURES OLD SORES

Whenever a sore or ulcer becomes chronic it is because of bad blood; the healing qualities of the circulation have been weakened by impurities and germs in the blood.

We all realize that the circulation is the great source of nourishment for all flesh tissues; thus we readily understand why impurities or poisons in this vital fluid will infect and disease the flesh at some particular spot, and by continually discharging impurities into it, keep the place open, raw and inflamed.

Every symptom of an old sore suggests diseased blood. The inflammation, discharge, discolored flesh, and the fact that external applications have no permanent effect toward healing the ulcer show that deep down in the system there is a morbid cause for the sore. But more convincing proof that bad blood is responsible for these places is furnished by the fact that even removing a sore or ulcer by surgical operation does not cure; they always return.

No sore can heal where the blood is impure; no matter how much attention is devoted to the dressing of it with salves, washes, lotions, etc., the impurities on which it thrives are being continually deposited into it by the burdened circulation. Cleanse the blood and the sore will heal of its own accord, because then its very source and foundation will have been destroyed, and the plasmic qualities of the circulation will cause a firm knitting and interweaving of the flesh.

There is a simple way to cure old sores, and it is the only way—remove the morbid matters from the blood. Outward applications can never produce a cure because such treatment does not reach the blood, they merely assist in cleansing the diseased flesh or allaying feverish inflammation.

S. S. S. heals Old Sores by going down into the circulation and removing the cause from the blood When this has been done there is no longer left any inflammatory impurity or infectious matter to irritate the place, and nature causes the natural healing of the ulcer. When S. S. S. has purified the blood and the place is once more nourished with pure healthful blood, then every symptom disappears, and it is not a surface cure, the place is firmly and solidly healed from the bottom to the outer skin. S. S. S. is recognized as the greatest of all blood purifiers, made entirely of healing, cleansing roots, herbs and barks. It is a medicine adapted to persons of any age, and is just as efficacious with the aged as with those of younger years. Under the purifying and tonic effects of S. S. S. the system is built up, and those whose health has been impaired by the drain and worry of an old sore will be doubly benefited by its use. Special book on Sores and Ulcers, and any medical advice desired will be sent without charge to all who write.

THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

BAD SORE FROM OLD WOUND.

I want to recommend S. S. S. to any who are in need of a blood purifier, and especially as a remedy for sores and obstinate ulcers. In 1877 I had my leg badly cut on the sharp edge of a barrel, and having on a blue woolen stocking, the place was badly poisoned from the dye. A great sore formed and for years no one knows what I suffered with the place. I tried, it seemed to me, everything I had ever heard of but I got no relief, and I thought I would have to go through life with an angry, discharging sore on my leg. At last I began the use of S. S. S., and it was but a short time until I saw that the place was improving. I continued it until it removed all the poison from my blood and made a complete and permanent cure of the sore.

AN ABSOLUTE NECESSITY

So Thinks at Least One Traveling Man.

I would as soon think of starting out without my mileage books and grip as to start out on a trip without a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in my valise, said a traveling man who represents a St. Louis hardware house. Why? Because I have to put up at all kinds of hotels and boarding houses. I have to eat good, bad and indifferent food at all hours of the day and night and I don't believe any man's stomach will stand that sort of thing without protest, anyway I know mine won't. It has to have something to break the fall and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the crutch I fall back on.

My friends often "josh" me about it, tell me I'm an easy mark for patent medicine fakers, that advertised medicines are humbugs, etc., but I notice that they are nearly always complaining of their aches and pains and poor digestion, while I can stand most any old kind of fare and feel good and ready for my work when it needs me, and I believe I owe my good digestion and sound health to the daily, regular use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, year in and year out, and all the "joshing" in the world will never convince me to the contrary.

I used to have heartburn about three times a day and a headache about three or four times a week and after standing for this for four or five years I began to look around for a crutch and found it when my doctor told me the best investment I could make would be a fifty-cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and I have invested about fifty cents a month for them ever since and when I stop to think that that is what I spend every day for cigars, I feel like shaking hands with myself for I can keep my stomach and digestion in first-class order for fifty cents a month. I don't care for any better life insurance.

My druggist tells me they are the most popular of all stomach medicines and that they have maintained their popularity and success because they do as advertised. They bring results, and results are what count in a patent medicine as much as in selling hardware.

SECRETARY IS ENGAGED

New York Man Will Be Active Head of Associated Charities.

Will Assume His New Duties in Duluth Nov. 15.

After negotiations covering a period of several months, during which the country to obtain a high-class, efficient, trained secretary for the Associated Charities of this city, E. A. Silberstein, president of that organization, reports that Courtenay Dinwiddie, one of the foremost philanthropic experts of the East, has been obtained for that position.

Mr. Dinwiddie will assume the duties of his office Nov. 15. Miss Jean Poirier has been acting as temporary secretary of the local Associated Charities up to this time.

Mr. Dinwiddie for the past four years has been the secretary and chief executive officer of the New York city visiting committee of the State Charities Aid association. This committee is one of private citizens organized under special provisions of the state laws, to visit and inspect public hospitals, almshouses and lodging houses in Greater New York city, and to take such steps as may be advisable for the welfare of the inmates. Its personnel includes about 100 active volunteer visitors, a secretary, an assistant secretary, a stenographer, an office boy, and a teacher to instruct the crippled, infirm and blind inmates of the almshouses in basket making, bead work, etc.

Prior to occupying this position, Mr. Dinwiddie was secretary to the president of Bellevue and the three allied hospitals of New York City, which he filled for one year and eight months. Before taking this position he had been employed by the New York Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, as an investigator of the references given by the applicants for relief.

Highly Recommended.

Hon. Homer Folks, the president of the New York City visiting committee of the State Charities Aid association, wrote recently:

"Mr. Dinwiddie has been for several years secretary of our New York City visiting committee. The duties of this position involve the inspection of the public charitable institutions of the city, the verification of reports of inspection submitted by a large number of volunteer visitors, and the preparation of specifications for the public authorities of the city, including the commissioner of public charities, the trustees of Bellevue and allied hospitals, the board of estimate and apportionment, and the board of aldermen, concerning the condition and needs of these institutions. In this position Mr. Dinwiddie has shown marked ability. He is accurate, painstaking, methodical, reliable and efficient. In the nature of the case the communications which we have to send must be most carefully written; we must be absolutely sure of our ground; we must distinguish with great care between things we know and the things we simply hear or believe. Mr. Dinwiddie in this delicate task has shown great discretion and skill."

The Duluth Associated Charities has been in existence for one year, and during that time has accomplished a great deal in the way of systematizing and providing relief for the worthy poor of this city. Among the results accomplished during that time the most notable has been the avoidance of much duplication, and overlapping of relief and a general reorganization of philanthropic work in line with the best organizations of the country.

Three hundred and twenty-four families were investigated and the records of these families are on file in the office and accessible. Work was found during the year for ninety-eight women and seventy-eight men, besides nineteen handicapped men and women. Eighteen itinerant beggars were sent to the police or out of town. During Thanksgiving and Christmas of last year, the Associated Charities undertook to register all families receiving gift baskets of fruit and provisions by friends and organizations, with the result that many duplications were avoided and the baskets distributed over a much greater field by reason of this saving, than ever before. It was found that one woman had sent her name into seven different societies, from each of which she asked for a basket.

One of the most important works undertaken by the Associated Charities has been the institution of a penny provident fund for the school children of the city. The details of this fund are now complete and are only awaiting the coming of the secretary of the Associated Charities to be actively put into operation.

The financial support of the Associated Charities is purely voluntary and must come from the people of the city, independent of church or charitable affiliation. Inasmuch as it aims to bring about a great economy, as well as more thorough results in the charitable work of the city, its officers expect it will receive the generous and liberal support of the public.

BAPTISMAL CERTIFICATE

Of Deceased Needed to Prove Claim in Land Contest.

Dickinson, N. D., Oct. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The baptismal certificate of Fred C. Vincent will be necessary to prove the contention made by Miss Anna Ballwebber that he was not 21 years of age when he filed on a claim near New England, this county, to which his legal heirs claim title. The undertaker's certificate issued at the time of death showed the age of Vincent at only 18 years, but the baptismal certificate will be received by the land office officials before a final decision is made. The land in question is quite valuable.

BUILDING LAKE DAM TO PRESERVE THE FISH.

Granville, N. D., Oct. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Extensive work is being done by the local people on a dam at Buffalo Lodge lake, to maintain the lake at approximately its normal heighth and thus do away with the possibility of depopulating the waters of fish. The dry season has resulted in the lake dropping considerably and there was grave danger that it would dry up entirely if some steps were not taken to conserve the water.

WEST END

NORWEGIAN HALL PLANS DROPPED

Duluth Lodges Unable to Finance Scheme at Present.

After having been carefully considered by a joint committee from the five Norwegian lodges of the city, the proposition to erect a Norwegian hall at the West end in the near future, has been dropped, at least temporarily.

L. A. Simonson, one of the prominent members of the joint committee, said that the matter had been carefully gone over and stated that the various Norwegian lodges of the city at the present time, did not see their way clear to raise the $50,000 needed to finance the proposition.

It was originally intended to build a two-story lodge and entertainment hall in the business district of the West end with the ground floor devoted to commercial purposes. A stock company with the lodges in the movement holding most of the stock, was a part of the scheme.

The latter may be taken up at some future time, said Mr. Simonson, but just at the present it has been dropped and the joint committee is not considering it.

SOCIALISTS WILL PRESENT A PLAY.

Socialists of the West end are planning on giving a play, probably a comedy sketch, at Sloan's hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street within the next few weeks. The exact date of the affair has not been announced. The sketch will be picked out at once and rehearsals will begin soon.

The play will be given in Swedish and will be under the auspices of the Scandinavian Socialist club. The club will hold a campaign meeting Tuesday evening at Sloan's hall, when Dr. C. S. Watkins and J. R. Keyes will be the speakers. The public and especially workingmen are invited, to attend these meetings

House Prowler at Work.

West end people of late have complained to the police about prowlers. Residents of this section of the city allege that some person has tried to get into several West end homes by using duplicate keys. They assume that it is the work of amateurs and the police have been asked to investigate.

FALL FESTIVAL OF ORPHEUS SOCIETY.

The four days' festival of the Orpheus Singing society, a West end organization, will open this evening at 2110 West Superior street. A free program will be held every evening in connection with the annual bazar.

The proceeds of the affair will go towards the building fund of the society. The organization owns lots at Twenty-sixth avenue west and Third street and has plans for a $10,000 club house. It is thought that building operations will begin within a year.

The program for this evening follows:

Song selection—Orpheus Singing society.

Opening address—Mayor M. B. Cullum.

Piano solo—Miss Bertha Melander.

Recitation—Miss Gertrude Fahrmann.

Vocal solo—Roy Prytz.

Address—Rev. Edward Stromberg.

Song selection—Orpheus Singing society.

Speaks on Bethel Work.

Miss Jean Fraser of the Bethel society was the principal speaker this afternoon at a meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of Central Baptist church, which was held at the home of Mrs. Eliza Horton of 322 North Twenty-third avenue west. Miss Fraser spoke of the Bethel campaign and urged that the members of the society lend their support to the project.

West End Shortrails.

E. Gust Hjerpe of 2728 West Eleventh street, candidate for sheriff on the Prohibition ticket, left yesterday for a business trip to Braham, Minn.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Sandin of Mora, Minn., are visiting with friends and relatives in the West end for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Lent of Hibbing, returned to their home yesterday after a short visit with friends in the West end.

L. A. Simonson of 2102 West Superior street, left this afternoon for a business trip on the range. He will spend a week at Hibbing, Virginia and Eveleth.

At the meeting of the Sons of Vasa at Columbia hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street, last evening, a degree team was organized to do the ritual work of the order. The society has been organized in Duluth for a number of years but this is the first time that a degree team has been formed.

A sewer at Twentieth avenue west and Superior street was choked last evening following the rain storm and as a result the corner was flooded. For a while the water threatened to get into the cellars of some of the business places on the corner. Outside of the inconvenience to pedestrians there was no damage.

The car was turned upside down and wrecked.

Moorhead Weather Record.

Moorhead, Minn., Oct. 19.—Observer Grasse reported that the government thermometer registered 90 deg. in the shade Monday at 3 p. m., the highest ever recorded for the middle of October. Such high temperature was never known in October at this station except on Oct. 2, 1897.

First Village to Incorporate.

New England, N. D., Oct. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—This village will be the first in Hettinger county to become incorporated, an election being held this week, at which the question was passed on favorably. Under the incorporation plan it is expected that considerable improvement work will be carried on within a short time.

MEN CALL OFF COLUMBUS STRIKE

Have Had No Concessions and the Vote Is Nearly 3 to 1.

Columbus, Ohio, Oct. 19.—The Street Car Men's union by a vote of nearly 3 to 1 last night called off the strike which has been in progress since June 24. The men have received no concessions from the company and those who have forsaken the strikers' ranks heretofore have been accepted only for extra runs.

GYPSIES DID NOT TAKE TO FARMING

Tried It Near Spiritwood, N. D., Then Returned to Nomadic Life.

Spiritwood, N. D., Oct. 19.—Gypsy life had too strong a hold on a band of Gypsies that thought farming would satisfy them better than the roaming habit.

Thirteen families came to Spiritwood about a year ago, purchased farms and commenced operating them, but one by one they have all gone away and now only one of the families remains here. The Gypsies admit that the idea of farm life was not to their liking, and that was the reason they again took up their travels.

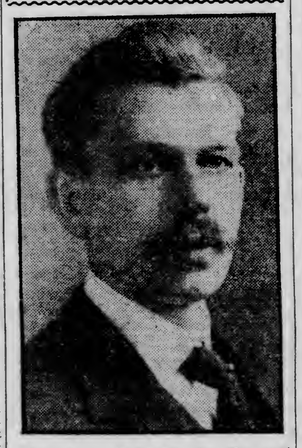

Lenroot at Chippewa Falls.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., Oct. 19.—The Republican campaign committee has been notified that I. L. Lenroot of Superior will be here Wednesday evening, Oct. 26, to address the voters on the issues of the campaign. Congressman Lenroot will speak at the armory.

Mill Capacity Increased.

Marinette, Wis., Oct. 19.—(Special to The Herald.) — The Sawyer-Goodman company of this city have installed a new Prescott band mill. This increases the capacity of No. 2 mill to 140,000 feet per day and replaces the old Prescott band mill.

TAKES NEW POSITION

Alfred O. Anderson, for the past two years advertising manager for R. R. Forward & Co., has resigned to accept a similar position with Enger & Olson, the West end homefurnishers. He succeeds A. B. Anderson, who is leaving the West end store to enter busines for himself in the near future. A. O. Anderson is a long time resident of the West end, having been advertising manager for John J. Moe & Sons for sixteen years previous to going with the Forward company. He has a wide circle of friends in all parts of the city and has been very successful in his line of work.

TAFT TALKS OF CAMPAIGN

Political Conferences Take Much of His Time in New York.

President Visits Ellis Island and Helps Some Aliens to Enter.

New York, Oct. 19.—Political conferences occupied most of President Taft's time in New York today. No word had come rfom Oyster Bay up to noon, and it became evident that there would be no meeting between the president and Col. Theodore Roosevelt at this time. The necessity for two days of complete rest is said to have made it impossible for the colonel to leave Oyster Bay during the president's three days' stay in this city.

Lloyd C. Griscom of the New York county Republican committee saw President Taft this morning and talked over the New York state situation with him. Mr. Griscom found the president keenly interested.

Not Active in Campaign.

It was denied that efforts were being made to have the president write a letter in behalf of Henry L. Stimson as Republican candidate for governor or to have the president make a speech in New York during the campaign. The president feels, it is said, that he has gone as far as he can. His admiration of Mr. Stimson is of long standing and he endeavored to express his admiration in the telegram of congratulation sent to the candidate following his nomination.

Another caller was Walter D. Hines, chairman of the board of the Santa Fe railroad. Mr. Hines talked over the freight rate situation with the president. Secretary Charles D. Norton, who went to Chicago to register several days ago, rejoined the president this morning. Mr. Norton spoke cheerfully of the Republican situation in Illinois.

Mr. Taft will leave at midnight for Washington.

Leaders Are Puzzled.

The president heard a number of interesting reports regarding the situation in this state. The leaders say the situation is perhaps the most puzzling they ever have had to face. One of them put it to the president this way:

"We couldn't win without the colonel and it looks as if, if we are beaten, it will be because of attacks on the colonel."

Campaign contributions are coming in more slowly than for many years.

The leaders told the president that they found the sentiment in his favor growing daily in this state. They also said that they believed the opposition to Col. Roosevelt in many quarters would abate as the campaign advances.

Saw Ellis Island.

President Taft had his first view yesterday of that wonderful piece of machinery on Ellis island, where the aliens of many countries undergo their first gruelling on the road to American citizenship. He spent five hours in the one place in the United States where the rights of human liberty temporarily are suspended by executive action alone, while the tedious work of separating the moderately good immigrants from the wholly bad goes on day after day.

The human interest side of the work at the big immigration station appealed keenly to the president. He saw the process of handling the aliens from the moment of landing, up to the moment of final discharge, when, with tear-streaming eyes, they rushed into the arms of waiting friends and relatives.

Ordered Welshman Admitted.

The most interesting of all the cases that came up for appeal, was that a Welsh miner and his family of seven motherless children. The president personally directed that the family be admitted. He said that if he was at all a judge of human nature the seven children would grow into the best type of citizens.

As a result of his studies and observations, Mr. Taft by night had reached a pretty definite conclusion on three points:

First, he believes that a strong effort should be made to distribute the influx of foreigners.

Second, he believes that all male immigrants should be put through a thorough examination as to the condition of families left behind in Europe.

No Bigger Appropriation.

Mr. Taft was urged to use his influence in getting an appropriation from congress which would practically double the facilities of Ellis Island. This he will decline to do. He holds that if the Ellis Isand facilities were doubled, it would simply mean a further inducement to the steamship companies to concentrate their immigrant traffic in this city.

Some wives suffering from flat foot were fortunate enough to be brought before the president. He declared that while flat foot interfered with a number of occupations, it was possible for persons so afflicted to follow many useful trades. The flat-footed immigrants went joyously on their way to New York.

Questioned The Applicant.

When George Thornton, the Welsh miner and his seven children were called before Commissioner Williams and President Taft there was much excitement. President Taft took a hand in questioning the miner. Thornton's children rango from 2 to 19 years in age. When the president asked him what funds he had, Thornton replied:

"One hundred and sixty-five dollars and two hands."

While the president was examining Thornton he asked the immigrant if he knew who the president of the United States was. The man promptly replied: "President Taft," and he did not seem a bit excited when the commissioner informed him that the gentleman with whom he was talking was the president himself.

Thornton bowed politely to the executive to indicate his gratification at meeting him.

LOT OWNERS,

WHY PAY RENT?

We will build on your lot in Duluth from $1,000 and up, without a down payment. We can build six more houses this fall.

Why not start the new year right by living in your own home. BE ONE OF THE LUCKY SIX and save money by having us build for you NOW.

Our organization consists of expert builders, architects, electricians, masons, etc., and our plan is to save you the trouble and expense of dealing with the middlemen. You come to us and give us an idea as to what you want; we discuss plans, details, etc., with you personally, and we then submit you estimates of cost. In merging of the many trades-professions and the middlemen necessary for construction in one company, we find economy for you and a fair profit for us.

If you so desire it we finance the erection without any disbursements whatsoever on your part, on the following basis, which in fairness will immediately appeal to you:

We take first and second mortgage for cost of construction; second mortgage to be paid off monthly on TERMS TO SUIT, and first mortgage to run five years or to be paid off at your convenience. YOU TO HOLD TITLE TO YOUR LOT.

In our architectural department we have plans of every description, or we will build from your own plans. Either call on us or allow our representative to call on you at your convenience. Evenings by appointment.

IS PLEASED WITH SALE

Mr. Dowling Says Woodland People Are Securing Brookline Lots.

"We are pleased with the large number of people interested in our new addition, especially with the fact that the majority of the purchasers are residents of Woodland," said P. E. Dowling, president of the Dowling-Kirby-Hepworth company, which began yesterday the sale of lots in Brookline addition.

"The Woodland people, by their purchasing, are showing their appreciation of local conditions and love that they have for one of the best and most exclusive sections of the future modern Duluth.

"All of the lots were not sold, by any means, because this company is exercising its best judgment in getting the best type of citizenship for Brookline, the future beauty spot of Duluth.

TREE'S ESTATE IS $4,500,000

Jurist and Diplomat's Personal Property Is $1,500,000.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—The late Lambert Tree, jurist and diplomat, died possessed of an estate valued at $4,500,000, according to a petition filed in the probate court today by the executor of the estate. Decedent's personal property is placed at $1,500,000; real estate in Illinois at $2,800,000, and in the District of Columbia at $200,000.

Moves to Cuba.

B. E. La Londe, who has been a resident of Duluth for some time, has resigned his position with the Oliver Iron Mining company and leaves Duluth tonight with his family for New York. From there they will go to Havana, Cuba.

Mr. La Londe, better known as "Ben" La Londe, has a host of friends in Duluth. He has made the acquaintance of a wide circle of the younger business men of the city and is a general favorite among them.

While here he has often entertained his friends by playing stringed instruments, in the use of which he is exceptionally adept, and it is understood that he plans to desert civil engineering and blue prints for melody. He has in his day been a footlight favorite where the twang of the mandolin and guitar are heard, and is going back to the first love, the music stage.

COMISKEY PICKS MACK

Says He Is Not Surprised at First Two Games.

"Old Roman" in Duluth on Way Back From Woods.

Charles A. Comiskey, the "Old Roman," and probably the best known character in the baseball world at the present time, is in the city today on his way home from his annual hunting trip to the Rainy River country.

Mr. Comiskey is the owner of the Chicago White Sox, and he comes to

CHARLES A. COMISKEY.

Northern Minnesota every year on a hunting trip. On his trip he is accompanied by J. R. Ray of Chicago.

"I am not surprised at the outcome of the world's series to date," he said this afternoon. "The Athletics are the better team and I expected them to defeat the Cubs with an even break in the luck."

Mr. Comiskey is cutting his hunting trip short in order to get back to Chicago and see the two games of the series there tomorrow and Friday. He states that he received the report of yesterday's game by wireless, aboard a boat on Rainy river.

"There is nothing to this talk of a new league," declared the Old Roman. "It is not being taken seriously by baseball men. Most of the best players have signed their contracts for next season, and this proposed new league will never materialize."

Mr. Comiskey stated that the past season had been the greatest in the history of baseball, and that the sport is steadily growing in popularity.

ANNUAL MEETING SOON TO BE HELD

Northland Country Club Will Hold Business Session Nov. 2.

The annual meeting of the Northland Country club will be held at the clubhouse Wednesday evening, Nov. 2.

A. W. Hartman, president of the club has issued a report of the affairs of the club. He congratulates the members on the purchase of the Cole 40-acre tract. This adds greatly to the desirability of the property and also to the course.

President Hartman recommends that the new links be finished as soon as possible, that they may be in use the early part of next season.

In the statement sent out by the president, figures as to the cost of maintaining the club and the amount spent and to be spent on improvements, are given.

LA JOIE RETURNS FLETCHER'S CHECK.

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 19.—Napoleon Lajoie, second baseman of the Cleveland American league team, today mailed a certified check for $1,000 made out in his favor by S. A. Fletcher of Cincinnati, promoter of the All Star series, to August Herrmann, chairman of the national baseball commission, with a request that Hermann return the check to the proper parties.

"I have prospered as a player in the American league and have always been well treated by its officials," said Lajoie in a note accompanying the check. "I would not want to take part in the series against their wishes."

CITY MAY HIRE BRIDGE EXPERT

Council Proposes to Strengthen Long Structure Over Nemadji River.

Until a report can be secured from a bridge expert, who will be hired by the city, the city council has deferred action on the construction of a new bridge over the Nemadji river at the East end.

The expert will report to the council whether or not the present span of the East Fourth street bridge could be reinforced enough to carry the double truck street cars without a strain.

At its meeting last evening the council appropriated $200 for the purpose of hiring an expert.

The formal offer of the McCord tract at the end of Winter street to the city for city dock purposes for $125,000 was accepted by the council, and the terms of the sale directed to be carried out. The council has included $25,000 as first payment in this year's levy.

* * *

The council turned down the crematory plan which had been recommended by the health department. It was proposed by the health board that $15,000 be included in the levy for a city incinerator. The finance committee ruled against this move, and the matter was dropped for the present.

BURGLAR GIVEN QUICK JUSTICE

Caught lurking in an alley, arrested on suspicion and found to have stolen goods on him, arraigned in municipal court and bound over after a brief examination and finally pleading guilty and receiving a four years' sentence in the penitentiary—this is the cycle of events through which Lars Hanson, 35 years old, passed this morning.

Hanson admitted having broken into the hardware store of Scott & Thomas, 913 Tower avenue, and when he was picked up by the police while attempting to hide in an alley early this morning at the rear of Gill & Alquire's grocery store, on Broadway street and Tower avenue, he had on his person a new revolver, several cartridges, a number of jack-knives and $5 in cash which he had taken from the till.

He was taken before Judge Parker of the municipal court, where he was given a brief examination, and was bound over to the superior court. When arraigned before Judge Smith he pleaded guilty and was sentenced to four years in the state penitentiary at Waupun.

Detective Meade of the Superior police force looked up Hanson's place of abode, a rooming house in Duluth, and discovered a suit case and a number of articles of wearing apparel, which were reported stolen from Fargo about a week ago.

Hanson will be taken to Waupun at once in company with Fred Perenia, a North Third street barber, who was sentenced this week to four years in the state penitentiary on a similar charge, having been caught in the act of picking a man's pocket in a Third street rooming house.

Lodge Buys Music Hall.

For a consideration of $2,500 the East End Music hall was transferred from the Reiter estate of Madison to Northern Lodge No. 339, I. O. O. F., yesterday. The building was built ten years ago by A. G. Descent for $10,000 and is a two-story structure, 50 by 140 feet. Extensive repairs on the structure are contemplated.

CROWNHART QUITS RACE.

Superior Attorney Is Ruled Out as Candidate for Attorney General.

Since the ruling of the supreme court that Levi H. Bancroft is the legitimate candidate on the Republican ticket, following the death of Frank T. Tucker, who was nominated for attorney general of Wisconsin on the Republican ticket, Attorney Charles H. Crownhart has withdrawn from the race.

Mr. Crownhart was selected by the central state committee to take Tucker's place on the ticket, but the matter was taken to the courts. It was decided that Bancroft, who had the second highest number of votes in the primaries, was the legal candidate. Mr. Crownhart has now refused to run independently.

ASSOCIATION PLANS FOR BIG COUNTY FAIR.

W. E. Pickering was elected president of the Douglas County Development association last evening at its reorganization meeting of the year. N. S. Beardsley was named as secretary-treasurer.

The association made preliminary plans to organize a county fair association. A mass meeting may be called later to test the sentiment on the matter.

Boy Cut By Barbed Wire.

Ray Brzonkala, the 11-year-old son of Attorney and Mrs. M. C. Brzonkala of Central Park, ran into a barber-wire fence while playing football yesterday afternoon and sustained several severe cuts about the face. Dr. Baird of the East end was called and took several stitches on his upper lip to close the wound.

FORMER SUPERIOR MAN DIES AT IDAHO HOME.

Alex McEachern, formerly of Superior, died yesterday at his home, Plummer, Idaho, according to advices received here by friends of the former pioneer resident. Mr. McEachern was 62 years old, and about twenty years ago was a well-known business man in Superior. He was also well known in Duluth. The funeral arrangements are not known.

Knox Funeral Today.

The funeral of Thomas Knox, whose body was brought to Superior yesterday from Little Falls, Minn., was held this afternoon from the Downs undertaking rooms, 1606 Tower avenue. Interment was at Greenwood cemetery. The deceased was a former resident of Superior and was 35 years old.

Howson Funeral Held.

Funeral services for John Howson, superintendent of the St. Paul & Western Coal company's docks, Connor's Point, were held yesterday afternoon at the Cumming Avenue M. E. church, under the auspices of the Masonic bodies, of which he was a prominent member. Interment was at Greenwood cemetery.

If, through some special gift of business clairvoyancy, you could estimate the number of people who during last week should have patronized your store, but who were influenced by the other store's advertising to go there instead, you'd have insomnia.

MISMANAGEMENT CHARGES MADE

Sensation Is Sprung at Illinois Central Meeting.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—Unexpected excitement was furnished today at the annual meeting of stockholders of the Illinois Central railroad. Attorney Maxwell Edgar, who held proxies from an independent committee, including Secretary Franklin MacVeagh of the United States treasury, made charges of gross mismanagement of the affairs of the railroad company. Almost simultaneously deputy sheriffs served subpoenas on the officers of the road to appear in a $10,000,000 damage suit brought by Attorney Edgar.

FRANK HARCOM MISSING.

Little Falls Woman Asks Police to Search for Husband.

Information concerning the whereabouts of Frank Eugene Harcom, 27 years old, of Little Falls, Minn., will be welcome news to his wife and two children, the former having written to Chief Troyer, asking if the man could be found in Duluth.

Two weeks ago, Harcom left Little Falls in search of work. His wife, in her letter to Chief Troyer, stated that she did not know whether he had been a victim to the fire disaster in the border towns or whether he had come to Duluth in search of work. In either event, she writes, she has not heard from him.

The family are left penniless and are in destitute circumstances. Harcom is a medium sized man with dark brown hair.

MORELAND MAY BE LOSS

Steamer Lies Broadside to Heavy Attack of Wind and Waves.

Crew of Stranded Vessel Taken Ashore By Life Savers.

A message received this afternoon by United Wireless from the Calumet station indicates that the steamer Moreland, which is ashore on Keweenaw point near Eagle River, may be a total loss. The crew is safe.

According to the dispatch, the Moreland lost her bearings in the fog about 9 o'clock last night and went hard aground after rounding Keweenaw point. The distress signals were sighted from the shore and the crew of the life saving station at the western end of the Portage Lake ship canal was summoned.

By the time the life savers reached the stranded vessel, a northwest gale had come up. After rescuing the crew, the life savers were unable to return to their station, a distance of about twenty miles, and were forced to beach their boat at Eagle river.

The Moreland is lying broadside to the waves and the northwest wind has aroused a heavy sea, which is beating against the stranded steamer. A wrecking outfit has started from Port Huron to the scene of the wreck, but it is feared the ship will be irreparably damaged before the wind and waves cease their attack.

PROFIT-TAKING WEAKENS COPPERS

Values Decline---Short Covering Makes Prices Nervous.

Under profit-taking the market declined today. The foreign market was weak on the report that the Bank of England probably will advance its rate tomorrow. The only buying today came from the short side. This class of support caused an erratic market, as the buying came in spurts. The close was weak.

The United Metals Selling company is quoting 12⅞c a pound for electrolytic copper. The American Smelting & Refining company is asking 13c for January delivery. American consumers are said to be following the lead of European buyers and are showing the first inclination to buy large lots of copper in recent months.

A special from Boston to Paine, Webber & Co. says: "The Boston News Bureau quotes a leading official of the Calumet & Hecla as follows:

"There has been considerable buying of copper recently for the business in general is improving. This is especially true of companies dealing in brass. For example one New York company did more actual business in seven months of the current fiscal year than it did in the entire twelve months previous. An official of another large brass company confirmed the report and informed me that if business continued at the same relative rate for the last four months for this year as has been the case in the first eight months the company's business for the year would prove to be a record breaker. These are simply examples of improvement which have been noted all along the line in the business world. Speaking specifically of the metal situation I would say that the outlook is very favorable. I doubt, however, if much copper has been sold at 13c. If some selling agencies have advanced the price it would be for the reason that they are sold out of their surplus on hand, which on Sept. 30 last was nearly 150,000,000 pounds, which could be materially reduced if the curtailment is continued and consumption increases as recently."

The local market was broad but not very active. American Saginaw sold at $2.12½, Butte-Alex Scott, part paid, at $2, Butte-Ballaklava at $5.37½, Denn at $3.87½, Shattuck at $22.87½, Amazon-Montana at $2.37½, $2.50 and $2.51¼, Butte & Superior at $7.50, Calumet & Montana at 93c and 94c, Calumet & Corbin at 30c, Calumet & Sonora at $10.12½ and $10, Chief at $1.75, Summit at 90c, 59c and 58c, Tuolumne at $8.81¼ and North American at $2.87½.

Amalgamated sold at $71.12½, $69.75, $70.12½ and $69.75, Butte-Ballaklava at $5.75 to $5.50; Butte Coalition at $20, Calumet & Arizona at $60 to $59.25, $59.75 and $59.50, Greene at $7.75, $7.87½ and $7.75, North Butte at $33.25 to $32, Superior & Pittsburg at $13.12½ to $13, Shattuck at $22.50 to $22.62½ to $22.50, Cactus at $65c, 57c and 58c.

Boston wired: "The Live Oak property near Globe is being examined by engineers in the interests of a local banking concern, who will undertake the financing of the company if a favorable report is forthcoming."

TWO PICTURES SUGGEST FUTURE OF DULUTH.

In the lobby of the Commercial Club quarters, Maj. H. V. Eva has had hung a couple of pictures that are attracting much attention, being in a way a hint of what the western end of Duluth will be after the steel plant is in operation. These pictures are photographs of the steel plant at Gary, Ind., and of the city of Gary. The city is a thriving, prosperous looking place, with features that resemble those of communities which have grown great by gradual increase of population and industry yet it is but a few years old, and the steel plant is one of the largest anywhere.

A legend calls the attention of the observer to "what a steel plant does for a town."

TOWN OF NEW RELIGIONS.

Detroit Free Press: Battle Creek enjoys a unique distinction, that of having been the home of more strange and freak religions than any other city in Michigan, if not in the United States. The intellectual soil seems to be fertile for the growth of mystic and occult isms.

Fifty-five years ago the Seventh Day Adventists located there and made Battle Creek their headquarters for the world. Their subsequent wonderful growth made the name of Battle Creek synonymous with Adventism. Then came the Spiritualists, and the city became widely known as the headquarters in Michigan for that cult. At one time they had a very large society, and all of the noted free thinkers and agnostics in the country came there to lecture.

It is singular that these two denominations represented the two extremes in religion, one extremely orthodox and the other the broadest kind of liberalism. More literature of these two faiths has been sent out from Battle Creek than from any other city in this country. The ablest and best known authors of both isms have resided here at some time. Among the first settlers were a band of Quakers. Subsequently they all became Spiritualists.

Next came a colony from the East who were imbued with Fourierism and extreme liberal ideas on religion and social life. They established a community three miles west of the city, built a college and other buildings and called themselves the Harmonists. Several authors and men of note cast their lot with this socialistic enterprise, among them being ex-Governor Talmadge of Wisconsin, who died while in the community.

One man who obtained a good following was Dr. Dowling. He had a strong personality and could easily influence people. He had a brand new religion, his followers calling themselves "Christadelphians."

Dr. Swartz of Chicago dropped down to Battle Creek and was the first person to teach the "mind cure" in that city. He got a following that increased and branched off into other systems of new thought, and several societies along that line were organized, including a "Metaphysical club."

The city has had followers and proselyters for the "Heremetic Brotherhood," "Age to Come," "Millennium Dawn," "Breath of Life," "Theosophy," "Gnostics," "Fire Worshippers," "Restitutionists," "Saint of God," "Church of the Larger Hope" cults. The latest introduction into the city is a "new thought" cult called "Flohim" Brotherhood.

FAMOUS WINTERS.

London Globe: In 1269 the entire width of the Baltic sea was crossed by sledge. In 1339 a great many persons were frozen to death in England. In 1409 the Danube was frozen up from her source to her estuary in the Black sea. In 1469 all vines in France were killed by frost. In 1609 and 1639 the port of Marseilles was frozen over and there was great suffering and distress. In 1709 France was icebound from north to south, the ice extending for miles seaward. Birds and animals died of cold.

John Wanamaker could not make a success of a store in Duluth—either a big or a little store, and in either case with adequate capital—unless he advertised! (And he wouldn't attempt it.)

WHEAT DULL AND WEAKER

Oversold at Start, It Becomes Top-Heavy at Close.

Cables Stronger---Argentine News Continues to Be Favorable.

Duluth Board of Trade, Oct. 19.—Wheat was lifeless today and there was very little doing in any phase of the market. From an oversold condition at the start values became top-heavy and weak. December wheat lost ½c and May was unchanged. Cash wheat was on a parity with December; oats gained ⅛c; rye and barley were unchanged. Durum was ⅛c off.

Flax was dull and without life. October lost ¼c and November declined ½c. December lost ½c and May gained $o. Cash flax was on a parity with October and ¼c under Minneapolis spot.

Values in wheat opened higher, shorts covering on cables abroad which were slightly stronger than expected. The situation was purely speculative as there was no bullish news of importance. Values displayed top-heaviness toward noon and declined, shorts again bought and the market rallied only to decline again. The fluctuations were in a narrow trend and the market was dull.

The decrease in stocks of 446,000 bu in wheat stores to 4,776,000 bu took some wheat out of the show window and as the increase in stocks in the Northwest has been worrying the bulls they viewed this feature with satisfaction. Shipments of wheat from this market in the last two days have amounted to more than 1,000,000. bu. Shipments not reported amount to 226,000 bu of bonded wheat and 64,000 bu of spring wheat. The outgo of wheat was only a spurt, however. Only one boat is loading today and it may be the last wheat cargo to leave this port this week.

Argentine news was simply a confirmation of yesterday's favorable cables. Rains have been widespread and copious and the wheat plant almost everywhere is looking in first class condition. The market did not respond to this news having already discounted it to a large extent, so far as the immediate effect is concerned.

The market today was oversold. It needed short covering to hold it up as there was little in the news to encourage speculative buying. Receipts are small but there is no demand. There was no export business today even in Manitobas. The demand from all sources was dead.

Flax trading was exceedingly light. Offers quickly dried up when values weakened. The foreign market was stronger. Flax stores increased 39,000 bu to 215,000 bu this week.

Winnipeg	33	22
Total	111	107

Wheat markets abroad closed: Liverpool unchanged to ⅛@¼d higher; corn ¼d lower to ⅛d higher. Budapest, ⅛c lower.

Broomhall cabled: The wheat market at opening reflected the steadiness in America yesterday and was ¼d to ½d higher. Shorts showed some nervousness on reports of further buying for American account. Following the opening the market was dull with October unchanged and the more distant months ¼d to ½d higher than the opening. There was some little demand. During morning dullness led to some little realizing and prices reacted slightly. Manitoba offers were lower and slightly larger and Argentine advices from our agent continue to confirm a favorable outlook there. At mid-day the market was dull but steady with foreign support and values were ¼d to ⅜d higher than yesterday.

The corn market was steady at the start and ⅛d to ⅝d higher, being influenced by the strength in America while La Plata grades were under pressure of increased offers. At mid-day prices held higher for American mixed. Our Argentine agent cables that the outlook for wheat in the Province of Pampa and Buenos Ayres is splendid.

Primaries — Wheat today, 909,000; shipments, 986,000; last week holiday; last year receipts, 1,667,000; this year receipts, 721,000; corn today, 590,000; last year, 193,000; last week, holiday; last year, 369,000; this year, 533,000.

St. Louis wired—It is reported that the Kehlor mills sold 12,000 sacks of flour for export yesterday.

Forecast: Wisconsin—Rain and colder tonight. Thursday partly cloudy with probably rain near lakes. Minnesota—Partly cloudy with rain or snow flurries in east portion tonight; colder tonight. Thursday partly cloudy except probably snow flurrier in northeast portion; colder in southwest portion. North Dakota—Generally fair tonight and Thursday; colder tonight in east portion. South Dakota—Partly cloudy tonight and Thursday; colder tonight.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Winter Wheat Gets Wetting and Bears Gain Power.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—Rain in the winter wheat belt had a bearish effect early today on the market here. In the Southwest particularly, there have been rather serious complaints of dryness injuring newly sown fields, and it was in that section the downpour was heaviest, with more predicted for tonight. Crop news from Argentina was also favorable. Opening prices were a 1-16c lower to ⅛c higher. December started at 93⅞c to 94c, a shade down to a shade up, and declined to 93⅝c.

Statements that exports of five or six boat loads of durum and some Manitoba were worked yesterday induced a rally. Demand, however, gave out and there was selling here for Argentine account. Close was weak with December at 93½c, a net loss of ⅝@½c.

Improved weather for conditioning corn made that grain easy. December opened unchanged to ⅛c higher at 46⅛c to 46¾c, and then fell to 46¼c.

The market, however, rallied shortly on predictions of rough weather coming. The close was strong with December ⅛c higher than last night at 47c.

Sales by a leading local speculator pulled down oats. December at the opening was unchanged to ⅛c higher at 30½c to 30⅝c, but dropped to 30¼c.

Lower hogs and no support from packers let provisions decline. First sales were 7½c lower to 2½c up with January at $17.35 to $17.46 for pork, $10.57½ for lard and $9.22½ for ribs.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Prices Open Irregular and Fall Off Under Free Selling.

Report That Bank of England Will Raise Discount Rate.

New York, Oct. 19.—There was a good deal of irregularity in the tone of the opening stock market today, losses and gains alternating all through the list. The favorite speculative stocks, however, showed the pressure of realizing sales and were all lower. Canadian Pacific fell 1¼; Baltimore & Ohio, 1, and Union Pacific, St. Paul, Reading, the Rock Island stocks, Chesapeake Ohio, and United States Steel, large fractions. Missouri advanced ¾.

Efforts to advance the market by bidding up a few stocks did not meet with success, the higher prices bringing out a flood of offerings which drove a score of the important stocks 1 to 1½ below yesterday's close. United States Steel, Reading, Union Pacific and the copper stocks were foremost in the decline. Trading had quieted down at 11 o'clock but the slight rally did not hold. Wheeling & Lake Erie first preferred rose 2½, Pacific Mail ¼, and St. Louis Southwestern preferred 1.

Stocks were affected by the belief that the Bank of England will raise its discount rate tomorrow and obstruct the borrowing in London by New York speculators. There was free selling and declines of a point or upwards in practically all the active issues. United States Steel, Reading and Union Pacific disclosed the speculative congestion in the decline as they have been showing on the advance. Reading and American Smelting lost 2, Mackay Companies preferred 2¼, the common, United States Steel and Amalgamated Copper 1¾, and Union Pacific and Baltimore & Ohio 1⅝. There was enough subsidence of selling pressure before noon to allow fractional recoveries, but the demand died down. United States Express rose 10. Bonds were irregular.

The market closed easy. Prices were marked up in the final hour in view of the lessened selling pressure. New York Central rose to 120, Atlantic Coast Line and Virginia-Carolina Chemical gained 1, The Texas company declined 2 and Colorado Fuel preferred 3. The higher level induced a renewal of offerings and prices yielded again.

New York stock quotations furnished The Herald by Piper, Johnson & Case.

Cotton Market.

New York, Oct. 19.—Cotton opened firm at an advance of 13 to 17 points and active months quietly sold up to a net gain of from 19 to 20 points on active covering by recent sellers and trade demand which may have inspired by the strength of Liverpool, and apprehension of crop damage either as a result of the West Indian storm, or through colder weather following the low temperature reported in the Northwest. Trading was very active during the early session and fluctuations were more or less irregular after the first advance.

FOR SALE—HOUSES.

FOR SALE — WE HAVE DECIDED not to advise building in the winter, except such houses as will be equipped with heating plants. It is now well onto fall and our season is short. We are equipped to build you a house in sixty days—built on honor by day labor with our guarantee behind it, all on time, just monthly payments. Every part of these cities bloom with our cottages—they fairly smile at you in their beauty and defy competition in material, price, workmanship and value. We airspace, we beamfill, we paper between roof boards and shingles, between floors and between siding and sheeting. Send for plans and pictures or call at our offices. Evenings by appointment or we will call at your residence if you desire. Edmund G. Waiton Agency, 114 South Fourth street, Minneapolis; 447 Endicott building, St. Paul; 312 Exchange building, Duluth.

FOR SALE—DON'T MISS THIS. IF you desire a fine new six-room home beautifully located, be sure and see one of the two out of five houses remaining unsold in Duluth's finest suburb and within a stone's throw of beautiful Lester park. Nice neighbors and everything up-to-date as regards houses. See us today or take a Lakeside car to Fifty-fourth avenue east and walk north four blocks. There you will see the five houses in a row. The last two on the west side are the ones remaining unsold, and our salesman at tent will show you the houses. If interested, 'phone or see W. M. Prindle & Co., 3 Lonsdale building.

MORELAND BROKEN IN TWO BY THE FIERCE POUNDING OF WAVES

Big Freighter's "Back Is Broken" on South Shore Beach.

New Steel Steamer Is Apparently a Hopeless Wreck.

Captain and Crew Are Taken Off By Life Savers.

At 10 o'clock this morning the big new steel steamer, W. T. Moreland, broke in two at Eagle River, Mich., on Keweenaw point, where the big boat ran aground yesterday, and apparently the boat is a hopeless wreck.

This message was flashed to Duluth this morning from Calumet, Mich., by the United Wireless company. The message contained the news that the crew and Capt. Claude Ennis of the ship have been saved. The life savers took the crew of the Moreland to shore last evening, while Capt. Ennis was taken safely off this morning, just before the big boat broke in two at hatch No. 10.

The Moreland is one of the best and most modern of the lake vessels. The boat is valued at from $400,000 to $500,000. The Moreland is the property of the Jones & Laughlin Steel company, and had made but a few trips the pres-

BOILER BURSTS; SIX ARE KILLED

Three Thousand in Factory Are Thrown Into Panic.

New York, Oct. 20.—A boiler explosion killed six firemen outright, fatally wounded two others and threw 2,000 women and girls and half as many men into a panic today at the bagging and rope plant of the American Manufacturing company at Green Point.

Circumstances surrounding the explosion are a complete mystery. When the big boiler in the two-story brick warehouse attached to the plant blew up, there was a rush for the doors, and many of the weaker ones were trampled under foot. All of the time the building was shaking, as another boiler blew up with great violence.

The bodies of the six firemen were terribly mutilated, and it was with difficulty that they were recognized.

JAQUES AT CAMBRIDGE

Tells Isanti County Voters How Miller Betrayed the People.

Speech Makes Good Impression and Increases Jaques' Strength.

Cambridge, Minn., Oct. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—"Clarence B. Miller's record of pledges broken and people betrayed is sufficient to defeat him in his attempt to gain a re-election, unless the voters of the Eighth district are satisfied with brazen misrepresentation in the halls of congress," declared Judge Alfred Jaques in an address here last night.

The Democratic candidate for congress addressed an enthusiastic audience and held the thoughtful attention of the crowd for more than an hour, going over Miller's record with that earnest, fair-minded and logical insistence upon a right and just interpretation which has characterized his campaign speaking during his tour of the district.

That record was handled without gloves, and Judge Jaques, in concise and convincing phrases, showed how the present congressman has committed sins of commission and omission as a member of congress of which no man possessed of the attributes of political honesty could be guilty and then ask his constituents to send him back to congress. Mr. Jaques intimated that he would like to hear or have his audience hear Mr. Miller's plea.

Miller Only on Trial.

"Whatever Mr. Miller has to say about the famous statesmen who have in part reclaimed the Republican party from public disapproval in the past, do not forget that it is not Abraham Lincoln or U. S. Grant who is now on trial before the bar of the people of this district," said Judge Jaques. "It is Clarence B. Miller, the man you sent to Washington to represent you, and who betrayed the trust you reposed in him. He is the man who is on trial, and it is my sincere belief, after traveling over the district and talking with hundreds of voters, that the verdict

Chicago Man Commits Murder for Revenge on Wife's Family.

Rocks Three-Year-Old to Sleep and Then Shoots Her.

Spokane, Wash., Oct. 20.—To punish his wife, who had left him, and to take revenge on his relatives, who were hiding his wife's whereabouts, Henry Schroeder, 52 years old, 5147 Lake avenue, Chicago, last night shot and killed his 3-year-old neice, Ruth Taylor, and then committed suicide. The little girl's mother was working in an adjoining room.

Both the man and child were dead when police officers arrived.

According to Mrs. Taylor, her brother-in-law came to her home Tuesday from Chicago, looking for his wife, who had been here with another man. The two had been at the Taylor home a few days ago, but Mrs. Taylor would not tell Schroeder where they had gone, fearing that he would injure them.

Rocked the Child to Sleep.

While Mrs. Taylor was preparing

ARIZONA BIGGER BY 66.2 PER CENT

Territory's Population Is Announced By Census Bureau.

Washington, Oct. 20.—The population of the territory of Arizona is 204,354, according to statistics of the thirteenth census made public today. This is an increase of 81,423, or 66.2 per cent, over the 1900 population, which was 122,931. Arizona's population increased 40,550, or 68 per cent, from 1890 to 1900.

MURDER MYSTERY AT DUNDEE, ILL.

Body Found in Field Has No Burs on the Clothing.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—A well dressed man whose body was found near Dundee, Ill., with a bullet wound through the heart, is believed by the police to have been the victim of a mysterious murder. Detectives were put at work on the case today.

The body was found in an isolated spot, and nearby lay a revolver, with one chamber empty. At first the case was thought to have been one of suicide. Today it was observed that there were wagon tracks near the body, although there is no apparent reason why a wagon should be driven to the place, which has a heavy growth of cockleburrs. Also it was noted that the victim of the bullet had no burrs on his clothing, which it is said he could scarcely have escaped had he walked to the spot where his body was found.

LINER HARD UPON REEF

American Schooner and Tug Lost Off the Florida Coast.

Reports of Disasters Due to Hurricane Are Received.

Key West, Fla., via Havana, Oct. 20.—The French trans-Atlantic steamer Louisiane, from Havre for Havana and New Orleans, is ashore on Sombrero reef, about fifty miles east of here. About half of her 547 passengers have been brought here and the others are thought to be not in danger.

News of the Louisiane's plight and the rescued passengers was brought here today by the United States revenue cutter Forward. The cutter will return to take the rest of the passengers from the wreck this afternoon. The steamer lies only eight feet out of water and it will be impossible to float her until her cargo has been jettisoned.

Driven Hard on Reef.

The French liner sailed for this country by way of Corunna, Spain, Las Palmas, Canary Islands, and Teneriffe with a general cargo and 547 passengers. When within fifty miles of Havana on Monday and in the path of the hurricane, the captain lost control of

MEXICO GIVES TIP ON DYNAMITERS

New Clew Obtained in Los Angeles Times Explosion Case.

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 20. — Information that may lead to the apprehension of three men believed to be involved in the Los Angeles Times dynamiting case was received yesterday by Governor Gillette from Secretary of State Knox, who wired the California executive that the state department was in receipt of advices from Mexican authorities that three suspects were thought to be aboard a Pacific mail steamer bound from San Francisco for Mexican and South American ports. Secretary Knox, in the telegram, asked whether the men should be kept under surveillance or whether they should be arrested when the boat put in at San Benito.

May Be the Acapulco.

Governor Gillette immediately forwarded the information to District Attorney J. D. Fredericks and Chief of Police Galloway of Los Angeles, then notified Secretary Knox that he would give the state department specific instructions as soon as a reply was received from the Los Angeles authorities.

The name of the steamer was not given in the Washington message, but the liner is believed to be the Acapulco, which sailed from this port on Oct. 5, four days after the Times building was destroyed. The boat is commanded by Capt. Trask. The steamer was scheduled to call only at Mazatlan, Manzanillo and Acapulco on the Mexican coast.

DAVID BENNETT HILL DIES AT HIS COUNTRY HOME NEAR ALBANY

Ex-Governor of New York and Former United States Senator.

Severe Cold Follows Minor Sickness---He Leaves Political Record.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 20.—David B. Hill, ex-United States senator and former governor of New York, died suddenly today at Wolfert's Roost, his country home.

About two weeks ago Mr. Hill was seized with a bilious attack while at his law office in this city, and although his condition was not considered serious at the time, his physician advised him to remain at home until he recovered. A cold developed and a few days later alarming reports of his condition were circulated. These reports, however, were denied by friends. In fact, the patient appeared to be improving until last night, when he suffered a sinking spell, which resulted in his death.

Born in 1843.

David Bennett Hill was born Aug. 29, 1843. When 17 years old he entered the law office of Col. John I. Lawrence of Havana, N. Y., and when 21 was admitted to the bar. He was chosen city attorney of Elmira, afterwards being elected alderman and still later mayor.

He was elected to the assembly in

WORLD'S BIGGEST SHIP LAUNCHED

Liner Olympic of 45,000 Tons Sent Into the Water at Belfast.

Belfast, Ireland, Oct. [illegible]—The first of the two mammoth White Star liners, the Olympic, was launched successfully amid scenes of much enthusiasm today, in accordance with the custom of the White Star line, there was no christening ceremony.

The new vessel is of 45,000 tons. She has been twenty-two months in building, and it will be eight months longer before she is ready for her trial trip. The Olympic is a triple screw steamer, her principal dimensions being: Length over all, 882½ feet; breadth over all 92½ feet; height from bottom of keel to top of captain's house, 105½ feet.

She exceeds by nearly 100 feet in length and by 13,000 tons any other ship afloat, and if stood on end would overtop the Metropolitan tower in New York by 182 feet. She is four times as long as Bunker Hill monument is high.

The Olympic will accommodate 2,500 passengers and a crew of 860. She has eleven steel decks and fifteen watertight bulkheads. A sister vessel, the Titantic, is being built and soon will be launched.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—Sale of general admission tickets to the third game of the world's series between Philadelphia and Chicago began at 10:30 o'clock today with about 4,000 persons, undaunted by the lowering skies, in line. Owing to the cold, Manager Chance of the Nationals said he might not send in Reulbach to pitch, as has been his intention. He declared that he would not make his selection until he had seen the twirlers in practice at the grounds. Manager Mack announced before the team left its quarters that he would send Coombs in to pitch.

Diamond is Dry.

The diamond was perfectly dry, having been saved from the early morning rain by a canvas covering. The outfield was still a bit treacherous from the moisture.

Four tickets to a person were sold at the grounds. Scalpers took advantage of this in a peculiar way. As a man purchased his tickets he was compelled to enter the grounds. This the speculators did, but immediately emerged and endeavored to make a profit on the three remaining tickets. In this they were usually successful. Boys who had advantageous places in line sold them for a high as $5.

The Philadelphians passed a restful night at their hotel, and seemed perfectly fit when they appeared at breakfast. The locals were in high expectation of winning today's game. Having suffered two defeats, they believed that a victory was due them on the luck of the game, if for no other reason.

"A for Athletics."

By 9 o'clock 500 persons were waiting at the main ticket windows. The two lines of prospective spectators converged at the box office in a form very suggestive of the letter A. Policeman Culhane, who has been on duty at baseball games for twenty years, and who believes in omens, viewed the symbol with forebodings.

"A—that stands for Athletics and nothing else," he observed with a growl.

NEW YORK WATER FAMINE BROKEN

New York, Oct. 20.—A heavy, driving rain which broke the water famine in Westchester county, where thousands have been on a scant water supply for weeks, was New York's portion of the West Indian storm, which made itself felt along the upper Atlantic seaboard today. There has been only one insignificant rain here in over 100 days, and woods and plains in the city's outskirts were parched powder dry, which resulted in numerous fires.

The drenching downpour continued almost without cessation from midnight.

RITES HELD FOR SENATOR

Senator Cummins and Governor Carroll Speak at Funeral.

Weather Prevents Outdoor Services for Senator Dolliver.

Fort Dodge, Iowa, Oct. 20.—Funeral services for the late Senator Dolliver were held in the city armory today. During the night many distinguished friends of the dead statesman reached the city. A special car over the interurban brought Senator Cummins, Governor Carroll and the state officials.

The program for the funeral was changed slightly in the absence of Rev. Frank Gunsaulus, and the eulogy on "Dolliver the Man," was given by C. M. Stewart of Evanston, Ill. President W. F. King of Cornell college, Mount Vernon, spoke on behalf of the Methodist educational institution, in which the late senator was always interested and for which he did much.

The weather was cold and gloomy hence the decision to hold the services in the Armory.

Appreciation by Cummins.

Speaking in behalf of the United States senate, Senator A. B. Cummins voiced his appreciation of the life of and work of Senator Dolliver. He said in part:

"In behalf of his colleagues in the

BANK OF ENGLAND RAISES ITS RATE

Protection of Reserve Sought By Increase to 5 Per Cent.

London, Oct. 20.—As anticipated, the Bank of England today raised its rate of discount from 4 to 5 per cent in order to protect its reserve, which had been steadily depleted despite the imposition of the 4 per cent rate three weeks ago.

The reserve this week is expected to show nearly $10,000,000 decrease. The Egyptian demand already has exceeded the estimates owing to the hasty marketing of the large crop of cotton. India is expected to take gold soon, and the South American demand possibly will appear early, and as very little gold from the mines is going to the bank of England, a strong protective measure was necessary.

A fresh outburst of speculation in America and the large number of American finance bills placed here, also are factors to be reckoned with in the monetary situation in the future.

CRIPPEN TO BE WITNESS

Dentist Will Tell London Jury of Disappearance of His Wife.

Chief Justice Takes Part in Quizzing Medical Experts.

London, Oct. 20.—It was decided today to place Dr. Hawely H. Crippen on the witness stand and let him tell his own story of the disappearance of his wife, Belle Elmore, the actress, with whose murder he is charged.

There had been much speculation as to whether Crippen would testify for himself, and the decision of his counsel was not made known until just before the resumption of the trial this morning, when Arthur Newton announced to the press that this course had been determined wise from the standpoint of the defendant's interests.

Medical Experts Examined.

Doctors Marshalls and Spilsbury, medical experts, who examined the human parts unearthed in the cellar of the Crippen home in Hilldrop Crescent, repeated the evidence which they had given in the lower courts. This was in confirmation of testimony given by Prof. Pepper, the pathologist, who swore that the members were human but that he could not determine anatomically the sex of the victim. In the cross examination of the experts, Lord Chief Justice Alverstone, who is presiding, joined.

Crippen, paler than at any time, followed the evidence with strained intentness.

The medical evidence closed the case for the prosecution and the stir in the court room as Mr. Tobin arose to address the court showed the keen in-

NEWS AND VIEWS OF POLITICS AND POLITICIANS

Some County Officers Confronted With Certain Divorce From Office, According to Opposition Candidate—Gordon, Smith, Caswell and Miller at Anoka—Second Ward Republicans Getting Scarce—Banquet Is on Tonight—Bert N. Wheeler's Campaign Pushed.

Rattling Good Speeches By Candidates.

"Those county candidates who are honored by being opposed by candidates on our ticket should be ousted from office," said E. A. Lindgren, who is running for county treasurer, at a mass meeting in Rowley hall last evening.

"They have come to think that they are married to these offices, but Minnesota has some pretty good divorce laws, and proceedings to divorce these men from the offices they hold are now in progress. The decree will be handed down Nov. 8, and it will be effective Jan. 1, 1911. It will be an absolute divorce, and I am convinced that it will be decreed by the voters of St. Louis county.

Among the speakers at the meeting were Thomas J. McKeon, candidate for judge of probate; Walter F. Dacey, candidate for county attorney; Charles Jesmore of Eveleth, candidate for sheriff; W. G. Joerns, A. R. McDonald, Charles J. Hector, chairman of the Jaques congressional committee, J. W. Rowley and Mr. Lindgren. The last named made only a brief talk, but it took with the crowd and was applauded vigorously. While not ranking as a Demosthenes, Mr. Lindgren has demonstrated during the campaign that he can always be relied upon to contribute something of interest to a program of speeches, usually springing an idea that is original and striking.

Mr. McKeon's speech was in his usual conversational and good-natured style, but he earnestly set forth his reasons for asking the votes of the St. Louis county electorate, chief among them being that in the office of judge of probate is needed a lawyer experienced in the law. His remarks were heartily concurred in by the audience, and when Mr. McKeon hurried away from the meeting to attend a lodge affair, he took with him the unmistakable assurance that he was leaving the house of his friends.

Charles Jesmore of Eveleth was called upon for a speech, which he declared he could not make, but the sergeant-at-arms started him toward the rostrum and he did make one, and a good one. Mr. Jesmore told about conditions on the range, and what he had to say was distinctly encouraging to the other candidates for county office.

Walter F. Dacey's talk was a heart-warmer. The candidate for county attorney went after the opposition with a sharp stick, and he didn't content himself with merely brandishing it. He made some thrusts that will be felt before the campaign closes.

"I have been all through the county," he said, "and I know something about the situation. It is a fact that the voters of St. Louis county are in a state of exasperated resentment because of the record made by Mr. Miller at Washington. You will find settlers in different parts of the county who are not saying a great deal about congressional politics, but you can learn from them that all they want is for Mr. Miller to take the stump and speak to them, explain why he did not do as he had pledged himself to do, and when he does that I have no doubt that Judge Jaques will receive their votes."

Mr. Dacey briefly stated his own cause as a candidate, emphasizing the statement that he believes the voters want a change in the office of county attorney, and he gave sound reasons for that belief.

Mr. Joerns and Mr. McDonald made the most extended speeches of the evening, propounding sound doctrine and winning the complete sympathy of their audience. Chairman James Walsh made a few remarks, following Col. Rowley's talk, and devoted them to the legislative field, predicting the triumph of Harry Cheadle, candidate for the senate in the Fifty-first, and Edward R. Ribenack, nominee for the house in the Fiftieth district, at the polls.

Speaking for the congressional committee, Chairman Hector gave some information about the progress of the campaign being prosecuted for Judge Jaques that was productive of greater confidence and renewed determination to work for the success of the judge.

Second Warders Plan To Boom Sessions.

There was a meeting of the Second Ward Republican club last evening in Polish hall but it wasn't much of a meeting. The attendance was so slim that no program of speeches was attempted, and the corporal's guard that was present just sat 'round and cussed and discussed campaign plans and projects and Wellman's failure to cross the Atlantic in an airship. It was decided at this meeting to have a larger attendance next Wednesday, for which time a big rally is on the cards.

Senator Laybourn, who is fighting for re-election to the legislature from the Fifty-first district, Ray M. Hughes, secretary to Congressman Miller, and W. A. Holgate, candidate for re-election as county treasurer, are expected to be the speakers at this meeting.

A week ago last evening the Second Ward Republican club had an attendance of thirteen members, with an outsider present to take the curse off, and last night there were less, with no one to take the curse off.

Outside of that, it was a very successful meeting.

Republicans To Eat And Listen.

This evening there will be a big gathering of Republicans in the Spalding hotel, where the Young Men's Republican club is to give a banquet. Tickets for this event are still in demand and the club members having their sale in hand say it is not improbable that there will be in the neighborhood of 450 men at the tables. Provision has been made for accommodating 500, if necessary. The banquet begins at 7 o'clock.

C. T. Knapp of Chisholm, Republican nominee for representative from the Forty-ninth district, came down yesterday to attend the banquet, and James P. Boyle of Eveleth, nominee for state senator, who is to be one of the orators of the occasion, came to Duluth today, as did the others from outside points who are to speak. Attorney General Simpson, Congressman C. B. Miller, State Senator George H. Sullivan of Stillwater, Alex Janes of Pipestone and Hans B. Haroldson are on the program and others will be called upon, probably, to contribute to the galety of the nations.

Anoka Hears Republican Orators.

There was a Republican meeting last night at Anoka, with Sam Y. (Yale?) Gordon, candidate for lieutenant governor, as the headliner and Clarence B. Miller sharing a bit of the spotlight. Walter J. Smith, Republican candidate for state treasurer, and Irving A. Caswell, clerk of the supreme court, also took part in the meeting, which was in the nature of a district rally, designed to strengthen the legislative candidates on the Republican ticket and to afford an opportunity for the state candidates to talk about themselves.

Senator Clapp spoke at Willmar last night and took occasion to say some remarkably nice things, considering the fact that he is an insurgent, about the standpat governor of the state. Governor Eberhart was in Houston county last night.

Wheeler Has Iden He Can Win.

Bert N. Wheeler, Prohibition candidate for senator from the Forty-ninth congressional district, really thinks that he has a chance to win, apparently. His adherents have issued a circular in which he argues that the range is getting too much, all of the three legislative candidates being range men. He pleads that "West Duluth and the West end are entitled to at least one of the three men in the state legislature."

His qualifications are set forth with some detail and his platform, containing reapportionment, county option, state wide prohibition, employers' liability law and initiative and referendum and recall planks, is outlined.

The circular bears the names of fourteen residents of the county, including that of E. Gust Hjerpe, Prohibition candidate for sheriff, who it is said, is also actually making a campaign.

Tifft And The Senate Committees.

Judge M. C. Tifft, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, has stated his position in relation to the appointment of members of senate committees so clearly that there seems to be no valid reason to refrain from voting for him on the part of any elector who is convinced James Gray represents the real public opinion of the state. Judge Tifft's declaration is evidence of his determination to let no special interest guide him should he be elected. He says:

If I am elected I will select as far as within my power and according to my best judgment, members of the senate whose character, attainments and previous associations guarantee that they will consider all proposed temperance legislation solely from the standpoint of the best moral interests of the people of this state and entirely without regard to the wishes of any special interest.

In the appointment of committees the welfare of the state should always be of first consideration. It should always be the aim of the presiding officer to see that a committee is composed of men who are capable of giving the matters which will come before them honest and efficient consideration without any preconceived notions of obligation to any one.

Sam Gordon, the Republican candidate for this office, has declared that he will appoint, if elected, a temperance committee that will report out a county option bill. Gordon doesn't go much farther than to say that he wants the senators to go on record for or against the proposition, and there his responsibility ceases.

Judge Tifft, on the other hand, positively declares that he will name men for committee service who will weigh the merits of all measures and that probably will be the attitude most generally approved.

John Lind On Non-Partisan Judiciary.

In view of the lively interest that is being taken all through Northern Minnesota in the candidacy of Judge Stanton for re-election to the district bench, it is particularly interesting to note what John Lind says about a non-partisan judiciary. All through the state there is an ever-recurrent mention of the desirability of keeping Associate Justice O'Brien on the bench, and in the north Judge Stanton's services are the subject of repeated eulogies. Mr. Lind is quoted as saying:

The importance of an independent non-partisan judiciary should not be overlooked by the Independent patriotic citizen. The Democratic party has named for two of the four places to be filled in our supreme court at this election two of the most eminent members of the bar in this state. Hon. T. D. O'Brien, now serving under appointment by Governor Johnson, is not only an able and just judge but distiguished for great service to the state in other fields. I sincerely hope that the voters will not overlook our judicial ticket.

Bryan to Be in St. Paul Monday.

The Democratic cause is to be boosted in this state by Col. John Coulter of Portland, Or., who reached the Twin cities today. He is to speak in Duluth, probably taking for his subject the initiative and referendum. His dates have not been announced.

William J. Bryan will speak in St. Paul Monday night for the state ticket and for John L. Gieske, Democratic opponent of Congressman F. C. Stevens. Hugh T. Halbert gave Stevens something of worry about in the primary campaign and Gieske will do as well, if not better, say St. Paul Democrats. The Nebraskan comes to Minnesota as one of the speakers on the Democratic national committee's staff.

Mr. Gieske is one of the most persistent Democrats in Minnesota, where it is necessary to be persistent if one is to be a Democrat. He has run against Stevens before, but never in such favorable circumstances as now.

Gray and Johnson Here Friday, Oct. 28.

James Gray and Fred W. Johnson, respectively candidates for governor and secretary of state on the Democratic ticket, will be in Duluth Oct. 28, when they will address a meeting at the Armory. They will be at Grand Rapids Oct. 26 and will put in the next day on the range, and they will do the same on Oct. 28, coming to Duluth in time for the night meeting in the Armory. Mr. Gray and Mr. Johnson will be at Cloquet on Oct. 29.

* * *

The Svea Republican club cinched its arrangements to have the Armory next Tuesday evening for the meeting which will be addressed by Charles E. Lindbergh, Insurgent member of congress from the Sixth district. Rev. Dr. Elmquist of Minneapolis also will speak at this meeting, for which elaborate plans have been made. It is expected to be one of the most interesting Republican rallies of the campaign.

The plans already formulated insure to Duluth some of the best speaking talent to be heard in Minnesota. Gray, Lind, Johnson, Lindbergh, Folk, McEwen, Jacques—these names indicate "some class."

Eberhart Is Being Heckled.

Governor Eberhart is being heckled, not by local interruptions during his speeches, but with letters. The dairymen got after him a few day ago, but they put their case badly and the governor "got away with it" all right, and now the advocates of primary election reform are getting into the heckling game, the Progressive Republican league of Hennepin county asking him to state his position on the primary election law and its extension to state officers and United States senators. He was also asked whetner he would favor an amendment changing the law so as to have delegates elected at the primary, to meet in convention and make the nominations.

The request was made in a letter sent today and signed by M. D. Robb, secretary of the league, and by E. C. Garrigues, Benjamin Drake, James A. Peterson, W. E. Davis and George S. Grimes, the executive committee. The letter follows:

Oct. 17, 1910—Hon. A. O. Eberhart, St. Paul, Minn.—Dear Sir: At a meeting of the Hennepin County Progressive Republican league, held at Minneapolis on the 6th day of October, 1910, by resolution duly passed, I was requested to write you as follows:

After carefully reading your keynote speech delivered at Mankato on Oct 5, the league has concluded to get your views on certain issues in the campaign that were not as clearly stated in your speech as it would like to have them, and with the view of having no misunderstanding as to your position, I herewith submit to you the following questions, and would request a speedy answer:

Do you favor the extension of the direct primary law so that it shall include all state officers, United States senators and delegates to national political conventions?

Are you in favor of so amending the direct primary election law that the voters instead of voting directly for the candidates should vote for delegates to select candidates at a political convention?

Will you, if elected governor of this state, request the legislature to pass laws in line with your answers to the foregoing questions?

In his keynote speech Eberhart said he favored amendments to correct the evils that have manifested themselves under the primary system, but he did not go on record as to specific reforms, except as to cheapening the cost of candidacies and keeping Democrats from voting the Republican ticket.

United States Senator Knute Nelson speaks tonight at Bemidji in the city hall. The brass band is engaged to meet him at the depot and escort him to the meeting place, where, according to the advance notices, Senator Nelson will deliver a message of especial importance to Northern Minnesota.

Elmer E. Adams has completed his petition of nomination as an independent candidate for the house from Otter Tail county and has filed. His name will be at the bottom of all the ballots. The names of the other candidates are printed in rotation, as to position, but as an independent, lacking party designation, Adams will remain at the bottom on all of the fateful sheets of paper.

Although F. H. Peterson was defeated at the primaries in his contest for renomination for the senate from the Clay-Becker-Wilkin district, an attempt will be made to re-elect him by the use of stickers, just as that scheme will be used in Senator Stephen's district by the friends of John Saugstad. In both cases, the anti-saloon forces are directing the movements.

* * *

Henry Emmel of Spring Hill, Stearns county, filed yesterday as an independendt candidate against Senator Ahmann. County option is not involved, but a bitter political feud is responsible for the move, it is said. Ahmann defeated W. F. Donahue and Joseph Friedmann at the primaries, and they are said to be backing Emmel, who was in the house two years ago. The fight is within the Democratic party, with a possible election of a Republican in Ahmann's place as the result.

DEATH CLAIMS ANOTHER MINER

John Lepisto, Injured in North Lake Mine Accident, Passes Away.

Ishpeming, Mich., Oct. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Lepisto is dead, making the fourth victim of the accident that occurred in the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company's North Lake No. 1 shaft Monday evening, at 7 o'clock. Lepisto was a resident of Michigamme, and has a wife and five children living there. The remains were taken there for interment in the Michigamme cemetery.

John Luoma, who had such a marvelous escape from death when he was thrown from the bucket, landing across the divider in the shaft, said that he and the others were standing on the edge of the bucket. When they came to a point in the shaft where the cross head should have been located he noticed that it was not there.

Men Become Excited.

He called to the other men to look out, telling them that the cross head was not in position. The men became excited, thinging that perhaps the cross head would strike them and knock them into the shaft. Luoma estimated the distance between the point where the cross head ought to have been and where it had become fastened at about seventy-five feet. If the men who fell away had dropped into the bucket they would have been all right, as the cross head fell back into its usual place about six feet above the top of the bucket.

CROOKSTON MAN IS CONVICTED AT WINNIPEG.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 20.—John Bratten, a prizefighter of Crookston, Minn., who was arrested by immigration authorities here, was found guilty of enticing Maud and Edna Pierce of Crookston to this city for immoral purposes. Bratten will get five years.

GOVERNMENT SUES ROAD FOR POWER SITE.

Helena, Mont., Oct. 20.—A suit to recover what is declared to be an extremely valuable waterpower site has been instituted in federal court here. The government is plaintiff and the Great Northern railroad defendant. The site of Kootenai Falls is involved. It was originally classified as mineral, but this decision was reversed by the land office officials of Kalispell. Later the secretary sustained the original finding, but the amended classification was never filed and the railroad secured the site, amounting to 320 acres.

LONG WAIT IS IN VAIN

Youth Brings Sweetheart to America But Father Intervenes.

Almost heartbroken over the alleged intervention of a prospective father-in-law, Joe Kopage a young German residing at 228 South Central avenue, came to the West Duluth police this morning for advice in matters matrimonial.

Although Joe has been in this country for nearly four years, he is not able to converse fluently in English, and Mrs. Bert Lesser of 5701 Raleigh street acted as an interpreter when Kopage laid the matter before Lieut. Charles E. Wilcox and Judge J. B. Flack of the local justice court.

According to Joe's story, he has a sweetheart in New York, who has just landed from Germany. He said that he had managed to save enough money to buy her the transportation from the old country to Duluth.

The girl's father, Kopage states, has notified him in a letter that the match has been broken off, and that the girl will stay in New York. No reason is ascribed for the sudden termination of the love affair, and Kopage decided to take the matter to the police to see if anything could be done.

Joe states that for the past few years he has been devoted to the girl, and that since their engagement he has given her a number of gifts. He asked of the police if the girl or her father could be compelled to return the transportation money to him.

Lieut. Wilcox told him that he did not believe that the case was one for the police. Kopage stated before leaving the station that he would go to New York in search of his intended, although he does not know where to look for her.

BOAST COST HIM $10 FINE

A boast that he "could lick anyone around West Duluth" cost Joe Burns, a longshoreman and a familiar character about the western end of the city, $10 and costs in police court this morning.

Burns made the boast with particular reference to Officer Fred A. Anderson of the West Duluth force, and when the patrolman told him to move on and not try to create any disturbance a scuffle ensued, in which the policeman was pushed through the plate glass window of William Fitzgerald's restaurant on Central avenue.

Burns was finally floored by the officer and after he had been subdued with a few raps from Anderson's club, he was marched to the station and locked up. He was arraigned in police court this morning and charged with drunkenness and disorderly conduct. He was found guilty and fined $10 and costs or ten days. He paid the fine.

RECEPTION FOR SCHOOL TEACHERS.

At a special meeting of the W. C. T. U., West Duluth branch, this afternoon at the home of Mrs. T. B. Jones of 610 North Fifty-sixth avenue west, arrangements were made for the reception which will be held under the auspices of the union tomorrow evening at the West Duluth Commercial club rooms, at which the school teachers of West Duluth will be guests of honor.

Only members of the union, their husbands and other invited friends, except the school teachers, are expected to attend. The affair will begin at 6 o'clock.

An address of welcome will be delivered by Mrs. H. Bevier, president of the union, and short speeches will be given by Alderman L. A. Barnes and Mrs. Helen Stewart. A musical program has been arranged.

RETURN FROM HUNTING TRIP.

A. L. Stevenson, William Chesney, Thomas Foubister, William Mallough and Peter Enette, a party of West Duluthians, returned last evening from a hunting trip near Zim, Minn. They had the misfortune to lose a team of horses Tuesday morning near White Face river, but the animals were recovered after a day's search through the woods. Mr. Foubister also misplaced a valuable gun while on the trip and was obliged to come back without it.

WILL OPEN FREE NIGHT SCHOOL

Rev. E. F. Stidd, pastor of Merritt Memorial M. E. church announced that he was ready to receive applications for the free night school which will be held this fall and winter at Oneota.

Those desiring to take up the work should address Rev. E. F. Stidd of 4602 Oneota street and state the subject which they desire to take up. In this way, it can be learned what courses will be the most desired.

Rev. Mr. Stidd states that he expects that the school will be opened in about three weeks. It will be held three nights every week at Merritt Memorial M. E. church, Forty-sixth avenue west and Oneota street.

The instruction will be along Commercial lines and English will also be taught. Several experienced teachers have consented to devote their time free of charge.

Mann Funeral.

The funeral of Charles F. Mann, 40 years old, who died Tuesday evening at the Duluth hospital was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Filiatrault undertaking rooms, Central avenue and Ramsey street and interment was at Oneota cemetery. Rev. W. G. Boyle, pastor of Asbury M. E. church officiated.

West Duluth Briefs.

Mrs. S. J. Needham and daughter, Gladys, left yesterday for Chicago. Before returning to their home in West Duluth they will visit friends in Cleveland, Cincinnati, Covington, Ky., and Western Canada.

Jesse Johnson of 5611 Britsol street, who has spent the past few months in Seattle, Wash., has returned from the coast and will remain at his home in West Duluth until after the holidays.

There will be no meeting of the Ladies' auxiliary of the Ancient Order of Hibernians this evening on account of the reception given the St. Louis county Hibernians at Cathedral hall this evening. Many West Duluthians are planning to attend the affair.

Mrs. A. T. Carlson entertained the Ladies' Aid Society of the Swedish Mission church at her home, 120 South Fifty-eighth avenue west, this afternoon.

The Women's Foreign and Home Missionary Societies of Plymouth Congregational church were entertained at the home of Mrs. C. C. Salter of 633 Central avenue.

Mrs. E. Filiatrault of 909 North Fifty-sixth avenue west and Mrs. E. J. Filiatrault have left for Faribault, Minn., on a few days' visit.

Yesterday the Duluth, Missabe & Northern laid off fifteen engine crews and put away the locomotives on account of the nearing of the close of the ore-hauling season.

Don't fail to attend the money-saving sale at the Boston store.

WILL DELIVER ALL PACKAGES

The express companies have capitulated, conceding the soundness of the contention of the Commercial club that the people of Duluth are entitled to better service from the companies.

The capitulation means that parcels consigned to residents of Duluth will be delivered in all parts of the city, instead of following the practice that has prevailed in the past, which was for the companies to notify the consignee who happened to live outside the "free limits" established by them, by postal card of the existence of the express package. Then it devolved upon the consignee to have the package transported as he pleased to where he pleased.

Some time ago the companies were advised that the Commercial club was back of a movement to give the people supplementary delivery service and they were asked to consider the problem. This they have done, with the result that beginning today an automobile delivery service was inaugurated by L. Hammel for the companies, an extra charge being made for delivering outside of the "free limits."

The supplementary charges are as follows: Not over 10 pounds, 15 cents; 10 to 52 pounds, 25 cents; 25 to 50 pounds, 30 cents; 50 to 100 pounds, 50 cents; trunks and bags, 50 cents each.

J. J. HILL IS ON THE RANGES

James J. Hill, chairman of the board of directors of the Great Northern Railway company, may visit Duluth this afternoon. He is on the range at the present time with some of the officials of the company inspecting the property of the Great Northern. He is expected at Superior this afternoon to make a personal inspection of the terminals and elevators of the company there. If time permits Mr. Hill will come to Duluth.

RAT PORTAGE MILL MAY BE REBUILT SOON.

F. A. Smith of International Falls manager of the Rat Portage Lumber company, stated at the St. Louis that the officials of the company had not decided as yet whether the mill destroyed in the fire that burned part of Rainy River will be rebuilt. The mill may be rebuilt the present season, but no official decision has been made, according to Mr. Smith.

As the Rat Portage company has about 400,000,000 feet of timber and possessed only the mill that was destroyed in the fire, the general assumption is that the company will rebuild in the very near future.

The Best Test of Any Heater or Range Is To Try It In Your Own Home

We Offer You a 30= Day Free Trial

We Have Perfect Confidence in the Capacity to Heat, Quality of Workmanship and Satisfaction of Every Heater or Range We Send Out. We Guarantee Satisfaction to You. No Cheap, Shoddy, Poorly Made Goods Could Be Sold on Such Liberal Terms.

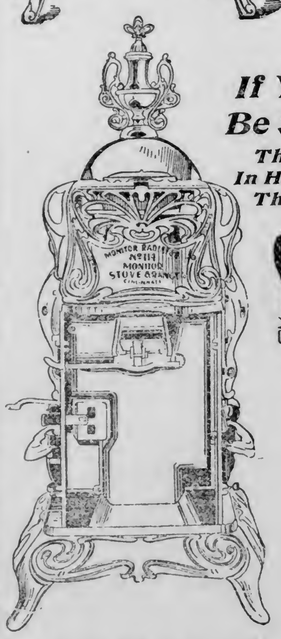

We will send any heater, range or gas range to your home and set it up for you free of any charge so you can see for yourself what a wonderful article you are getting—compare the quality of our heaters and ranges, also the size and make-up—with those you find in the ordinary store—you can use it for 30 days FREE—in that time you can tell about what coal it will burn, how well it heats, etc.—if not perfectly satisfactory in every way you may return it—If you decide to keep it we will arrange easy, satisfactory payments for you. Come in and look over the wonderful values we have to offer you.

Compare This High-Grade Genuine Detroit Steel Range With Any $40 Range You Can Find

A Detroit Jewel Range is one with over forty years' reputation of being a high-grade, well made, thoroughly reliable article. It has a large, six-hole top, good big roomy oven, made entirely of steel—a blued steel asbestos lined body—extra heavy duplex grates for either coal or wood, and extra heavy cast fire pot linings—a steel base—this range is fully the equal of any $40.00 range you can find in the ordinary store.

Remember, we are not offering a cheaply made, "no name" range, with light castings, small oven and cramped top—such ranges are easy to buy in most any ordinary store—they have no merit beyond cheapness in price. You will be astonished at this wonderful Detroit Jewel steel range — our price only $23.75

If You Want a Wonderful Heater Be Sure to Get a Monitor Radiator

The Only Heater Ever Made on This Principle. In Has 1,683 Square Inches More Heating Surface Than Any Other Heater Made. It Uses Less Coal.

JEWEL STOVES AND RANGES — LARGEST STOVE PLANT IN THE WORLD

You can easily figure out from this why you should get a Monitor Radiator — it will be money in your pocket —no one can offer you a heater that will be so absolutely satisfactory in every way. It is a raditaor and double heater besides taking all the cold air off the floors —a truly wonderful heater—we want you to see it—try it in your home on 30 days free trial if you like—One of these heaters will cut down your coal bill nearly half—we want to explain why. Come in and see this great heater.

Detroit Jewel Heaters Stand at the Top for Satisfactory Long Service.

We can give you a choice of two of the most reliable, fully guaranteed, best heaters made. They are well known and reliable. Try them in your home.

BAKE OVEN CURES PEOPLE QUICKLY

MR. E. U. GRAY.

The Bake Oven fixed my Rheumatism in just a few treatments. It made me feel about 20 years younger. That Bake Oven is a great invention, and Loughney & Loughney are performing wonderful cures with it. People do not need to suffer with Rheumatism now, that is one sure thing. They treat the chronic cases that were considered hopeless with remarkable success, and for old people it is fine. As for myself, I feel as though I cannot say enough for the Bake Oven, it made me feel so good. And I was a sufferer for over three years. At times I was laid up in bed before I went to them. I thought it would go away without it, but I'll never suffer like that again if there is a Bake Oven I can be baked in.
(Signed) Yours truly,
E. U. GRAY,

STORM WARNINGS ORDERED DOWN

Freezing Weather Continues But Wind Velocity Is Not So Great.

Storm warnings were ordered down on all stations on the Great Lakes at 9 o'clock this morning, and during the next thirty-six hours, H. W. Richardson, local forecaster, looks for low, temperatures, with partly cloudy weather and fresh, but not strong, winds from the northeast.

The mercury dropped below freezing last night and the lowest temperature during the prevailing cold spell was recorded at 7 o'clock this morning, 30 deg. The temperature at 7 o'clock last night was 34 deg. There was no snow during the night, but there may be a few snow flurries today.

The wind was very strong farther east on Lake Superior, but here the velocity was from thirty to thirty-four miles an hour from the north and northwest. The wind will get around into the East today, but will not be strong, it is predicted.

Freezing temperatures will probably occur again tonight, but Mr. Richardson looks for warmer weather tomorrow.

STORM DID NOT ENDANGER MANY VESSELS.

From the reports received by the various vessel agents, the storm that yesterday raged over Lake Superior, the first storm of the season, was not severe enough to do any damage to any of the boats. In fact, from the tenor of the reports received here, it is evident that Lake Superior did not get as severe a wind as some of the other lakes.

The boats arriving this morning have not been delayed because of the storms, and the reports of captains is to the effect that there was very little cause for any anxiety.

Yesterday's storm was the first real blow of the fall season. From now on the weather on the Great Lakes will be an unreliable nature, and this is hard for some of the grain boats, as often part of a cargo is lost in transit down the lakes in bad weather.

With but little grain moving from here, and even at the present time a light call for winter storage rates, it is not very likely that adverse weather conditions will be looked at with the same dread by the shippers.

DULUTH MAN IS THE LOWEST BIDDER.

Francis L. McDonald of this city was the lowest bidder for the extension work at the Marquette breakwater, the bids being opened yesterday at the local engineer's office. Mr. McDonald bid 84 cents per ton. Col. Finch has not awarded the contract as yet.

MACVEAGH DENIES HE IS IN ACTION

Has Taken No Part in Suit Against Illinois Central Directors.

Washington, Oct. 20.—Franklin MacVeagh, secretary of the treasury, in view of the published statement that he is a member of a committee of Illinois Central railroad stockholders to bring suit against the directors of that company for $10,000,000, said today that the only knowledge he had of any such a committee was obtained from the newspapers. He declared he had never heard of such a proposition otherwise, and had no connection whatever with any such transaction. The use of his name in that connection, Mr. MacVeagh added, was entirely unwarranted.

HOUPT TO HELP INDIAN AGENTS

Charge Against Men Who Seized Grip Will Come Up Friday.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charles C. Houpt, federal district attorney, will represent the United States tomorrow at a hearing in Minneapolis before Judge Charles A. Willard of the federal district court in the habeas corpus proceedings brought to release N. J. Sero and James Davis, two agents of the bureau of Indian affairs, who were arrested at Bena, Minn., after they had seized and searched a grip for whisky.

Judge Willard's decision will answer the question of the right of federal agents to look through the personal effects of transients who may be suspected of carrying liquor to territory where the Indian office has forbidden it. Much complaint has come from the northern country about the arbitary manner in which agents have opened packages of all descriptions when it was suspected liquor was concealed.

Seized Oliver's Grip.

The act that led to the arrest of Sero and Davis was the seizure of a grip belonging to A. A. Oliver, editor of the Cass County Pioneer. This occurred about the middle of September. The agents were found guilty of assault by Justice Ives at Bena, and were sentenced to pay fines of $100 each or spend sixty days in jail. They remained in jail a week and then were taken before Judge Willard at Minneapolis on habeas corpus proceedings instituted by E. S. Oakeley, assistant United States district attorney at Duluth. Judge Willard released both men on their own recognizance and set the time of the hearing Oct. 21.

Household Economy

How to Have the Best Cough Syrup and Save $2, By Making It at Home.

Cough medicines, as a rule, contain a large quantity of plain syrup. If you take one pint of granulated sugar, add ½ pint of warm water, and stir about 2 minutes, you have as good syrup as money could buy.

If you will then put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle, and fill it up with the Sugar Syrup, you will have as much cough syrup as you could buy ready-made for $2.50. It keeps perfectly.

And you will find it the best cough syrup you ever used—even in whooping cough. You can feel it take hold—usually stops the most severe cough, in 24 hours. It is just laxative enough, has a good tonic effect and taste is pleasant. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

It is a splendid remedy, too, for hoarseness, asthma, chest pains, etc.

Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in guiaicol and all the healing pine elements. No other preparation will work in this formula.

This recipe for making cough remedy with Pinex and Sugar Syrup is now used and prized in thousands of homes in the United States and Canada. The plan has often been imitated but never successfully.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Fort Wayne, Ind.

HOFFSTOT MUST TALK IN PUBLIC

Charge Regarding Selection of Jurors to Be Aired in Court.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 20.—Judge Cohen and Judge Swearingen today handed down an opinion that will result in the airing in open court of charges made by Frank N. Hoffstot, wealthy steel manufacturer and banker, indicted for conspiracy and bribery in the councilmanic graft cases. Hoffstot alleged that the jury wheel had been opened after it had been improperly sealed. An effort was made to have evidence taken by a commissioner, but the judges decided to air the entire case in open court Oct. 26.

DULUTH WOMAN'S FATHER CALLED

Captain Thomas Trevarrow, Father of Mrs. Grant, Dead at Laurium, Mich.

Calumet, Mich., Oct. 20.—(Specil to The Herald.)—Capt. Thomas Trevarrow died yesterday morning at his home at 606 South Pewabic street, Laurium, after an illness of about three months.

Capt. Trevarrow held the office of assistant mine inspector of Houghton county the past five years and was one of the best and most prominent authorities on deep mining in the Lake Superior district. He had been a resident of this district forty-four years, coming here in the early days of the mining industry in this region from St. Austell, Cornwall, Eng., where he was born sixty-three years ago on Christmas day. He was employed in responsible positions for twenty years by the Osceola Mining company, and worked for the Calumet & Hecla Mining company fourteen years before being appointed assistant mine inspector by the Houghton county board of supervisors.

Capt. Trevarrow was a prominent member of Calumet lodge of Odd Fellows and was also a member of the local lodge of the Modern Maccabees and of the Ancient Order of Foresters. He was a member of the Laurium M. E. church.

Those who survive are Mrs. Trevarrow and the following children: Mrs. Alan Paton of Ann Arbor, Mich.; Mrs. H. A. Grant of Duluth, Minn.; James of Detroit, and Miss Emma and Edward, at home.

The funeral will take place Saturday afternoon, from the Laurium M. E. church, Rev. W. M. Ward officiating.

PENNSYLVANIAN IS KILLED WHILE HUNTING.

Altoona, Pa., Oct. 20.—Frederick Moore, 20 years old, was the victim of the first fatal hunting accident of the season which was ushered in on Saturday. With Fred Shiveley, he went hunting for turkeys, and Shiveley, while walking in the rear, attempted to swing his gun around. The hammer caught in his pocket and the weapon was discharged, killing Moore instantly.

Episcopalians Pick Rev. T. P. Thurston for East Oklahoma.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 20.—The following new bishops were appointed by the Protestant Episcopal general convention now in session in this city:

Rev. George Allen Beecher of Omaha, to be bishop of Kearney, Neb.; Rev. Theodore Payne Thurston, Minneapolis, to be bishop of East Oklahoma; Rev. Francis L. H. Potts, Shanghai, China, to be bishop of Wuhu, China; Rev. Louis Sanford, Berkeley, Cal., to be bishop of San Joaquin, Cal.; Rev. Julius Walker Attwood, Phoenix, Ariz., to be bishop of Arizona; Rev. Edward A. Temple, Waco, Tex., to be bishop of North Texas.

A social service conference was on the program of the convention today. The house of bishops and the house of deputies were scheduled to hold two sessions, one in the forenoon and the other in the afternoon. The names of the new bishops were sent to the house of deputies for ratification.

A mass meeting for the discussion of the "Social Responsibility of the Church," was on the program for this evening. In the list of speakers were included the names of John B. Lennon, general treasurer of the American Federation of Labor; Rev. George Hodges of Massachusetts and Rt. Rev. Charles P. Anderson, bishop of Chicago.

NEGUANEE QUITS GAME.

High School Eleven Disheartened By Crushing Defeat.

Negaunee, Mich., Oct. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Football has been dropped from the list of Negaunee high school athletics this week, principally because of the lack of players.

It is also thought that the players were disheartened by their defeat of 35 to 0 at the hands of Ishpeming, Saturday.

The interscholastic series between the Negaunee, Ishpeming and Marquette high schools will be played out by the Ishpeming and Marquette teams.

North Dakota Youth Loses Them Exploding Dynamite Cap.

Upham, N. D., Oct. 20. — (Special to The Herald.)—Holding a dynamite cap between his index finger and thumb of his right hand and applying a hammer thereto, cost James Herman, aged 14 years, both of those digits.

They were torn off at the joints and the lad may suffer serious consequences from his injury. The dynamite cap had been found on the railroad track and his investigative turn of mind led him into the trouble.

WHAT'S THE USE

To Keep a "Coffee Complexion."

A lady says: "Postum has helped my complexion so much that my friends say I am growing young again. My complexion used to be coffee colored, muddy and yellow but it is now clear and rosy as when I was a girl.

"I was induced to try Postum by a friend who had suffered just as I had suffered from terrible indigestion, palpitation of the heart and sinking spells.

"After I had used Postum a week I was so much better that I was afraid it would not last. But now two years have passed and I am a well woman. I owe it all to leaving off coffee and drinking Postum in its place.

"I had drank coffee all my life. I suspected that it was the cause of my trouble, but it was not until I actually quit coffee and started to try Postum that I became certain; then all my troubles ceased and I am now well and strong again."

"There's a Reason."

FIRE DESTROYS CLOQUET BARN

Origin of Fire Not Known, Building Being Ablaze When Discovered.

Cloquet, Minn., Oct. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—A large barn owned by J. F. O'Brien on Fourth street was entirely destroyed by fire Tuesday evening. It is not known how the fire originated, the building being wrapped in flames when the fire was discovered. Mr. O'Brien owns one of the finest driving teams in the city, but fortunately the horses were out of the barn at the time of the fire, the only animal therein being a Shetland pony belonging to Alice O'Brien, and this was rescued. The barn was insured.

Bury Typhoid Victim.

The funeral of R. La Belle, who died at the Cloquet hospital Sunday night from typhoid fever, was held yesterday from the Catholic church, services being conducted by Rev. Father Crozier. The deceased was brought here from one of the lumber camps suffering from the disease to which he later succumbed. He had no relatives in the city. He was 24 years old.

Nestor Kujala has been bound over by Judge W. H. Skemp to the grand jury. Kujala is alleged to have waylaid John Holt on the Duluth & Northeastern tracks on Dunlap Island and robbed him of $47.

CLOQUET Y. M. C. A. HAS INSTRUCTOR

William Anderson of St. Paul Will Direct Educational Work.

Cloquet, Minn., Oct. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—William R. Anderson of St. Paul has been engaged as educational director at the Y. M. C. A. and has commenced work. He will have charge of the night school and all the other educational work at the association.

A schedule for the night school work, which has ever since the organization of the Y. M. C. A., been a prominent feature, is being arranged, and with a special director for the work, is expected to be more successful than ever. The work begins about Nov. 1.

The men's Bible study club was organized for the winter months with twelve men present. The club has heretofore been known as the Searchlight, but with reorganization is to be known as the Friendship club. The officers are: President, Wendel Davis; vice president, H. H. Lamson; secretary and treasurer, H. W. Lucas; leader, H. Mixsell.

WASH THAT ITCH AWAY

It is said that there are certain springs in Europe that give relief and cure to Eczema and other skin diseases. If you knew that by washing in these waters you could be relieved from that awful itch, wouldn't you make every effort to take a trip to Europe at once? Would you not be willing to spend your last cent to find the cure?

But you need not leave home for these distant springs. Relief is right here in your own home town!

A simple wash of Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol and other ingredients as compounded only in D. D. D. Prescription will bring instant relief to that terrible burning itch, and leave the skin as smooth and healthy as that of a child.

If you have not already tried it, get at least a 25-cent bottle today. We assure you of instant relief.

BOILER EXPLODES ON LOCOMOTIVE

Engineer and Brakeman Are Killed on the Northwestern Road.

Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Oct. 20.—The boiler of a locomotive drawing a heavy freight train on the Chicago & Northwestern railway exploded as the train was going up a steep grade near Hartwick, Iowa, today. Engineer Edward Kollman was instantly killed and Brakeman Charles Flia was so seriously injured that he died later. Fireman Frank Debales was perhaps fatally injured.

COMPTROLLER MAKES REPORT

Seeks New Laws Governing Payment to Heirs of Employes.

Washington, Oct. 20.—The comptroller of the treasury directed thirteen suits to be instituted against officers and others indebted to the United States; handled more than 154,000 papers, and passed upon many million dollars' worth of government transactions during the last fiscal year, according to the anual report of the comptroller, just issued. Express congressional authority is urged to permit payment without letters of administration, upon applications by beneficiaries of the estates of deceased persons for small sums due the estates from the government. These payments are now being made without express legal authority and are at the risk of the government.

Relief from the risk of double payments is sought in a recommendation that congress, in cases where $500 or less is due the estates of deceased clerks or other employes, authorize accounting officers to allow the amount found due the widow or legal heir. Such a provision already applies to officers and enlisted men of the army.

One May Overcome

constipation permanently by proper personal co-operation with the beneficial effects of Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, when required. The forming of regular habits is most important and while endeavoring to form them the assistance of Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna is most valuable, as it is the only laxative which acts without disturbing the natural functions and without debilitating and it is the one laxative which leaves the internal organs in a naturally healthy condition, thereby really aiding one in that way. To get its beneficial effects, buy the genuine manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, and for sale by all leading druggists. Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna is never classed by the well-informed with medicines which make extravagant and unfounded claims to cure habitual constipation without personal co-operation.

1870, and again in 1871. During his first term in the assembly he made his memorable fight to abolish contract labor, and during his second term he was a member of the judiciary committee with Samuel J. Tilden, they being the only Democrats on the committee, which had the task of investigating the alleged scandalous and corrupt conduct of certain New York City judges.

Was a Leading Democrat.

For many years Mr. Hill was a member of the Democratic state committee and in 1876 and 1884 he was delegate to the national conventions which nominated Tilden and Cleveland, respectively.

In 1882 he was elected lieutenant-governor on the same ticket with Grover Cleveland, and following Cleveland's election to the presidency of the United States, Mr. Hill became governor, subsequently being elected for two terms. He was governor for seven years.

In 1891 Mr. Hill was elected United States senator; in 1894 he was once more the candidate of the Democratic party for governor, but was defeated by Levi P. Morton.

Mr. Hill was the candidate of the New York Democrats for the nomination for president in 1892, but Grover Cleveland was renominated for that office.

Sponsor For Parker.

In 1904 Mr. Hill was credited with being the political sponsor of Alton B. Parker, who was nominated for the presidency by the Democratic national convention at St. Louis. Following that election Mr. Hill announced his permanent retirement from politics and since that time he had devoted himself solely to the practice of his profession.

DAVID BENNETT HILL

The Achievements and Mistakes of a Remarkable Figure in the History of American Politics.

Written By Savoyard in 1902.

Perhaps it was that desperately wicked and wonderfully fascinating child of Balzac's stupendous genius, Jacques Collet, who is made to say that one must plow through humanity like a cannon ball or glide through it like a pestilence. The metaphor applies to New York politics with all exactitude. A New York party leader should have the wisdom of Ulysses to comprehend, and the hand of Achilles to execute, and if he have both, so much the better. The American people have chosen presidents at twenty-nine quadrennial elections. New York supported the successful candidate in twenty-three of them; twice she divided her vote—1808 and 1824—and four times she was on the losing side—1812, 1856, 1868 and 1876. However, in 1868 a man of the name of Tweed did a deal of the counting, and in 1876 there were those who claimed that Mr. Tilden was elected.

De Witt Clinton and Roscoe Conkling were men who propelled themselves through politics, and Grover Cleveland may be said to be of their order. Martin Van Buren and Samuel J. Tilden glided through the mazes of politics, and we may add David B. Hill as one educated in their school.

There are few higher stations in American politics than the office of governor of New York. Not to mention the Van Twillers and Stuyvesants of the Dutch period, and the Ingoldsbys, Beekmans and De Lanceys of the Colonial period, we have in that high place, since the adoption of the Constitution of the United States, George Clinton, John Jay, Daniel D. Tompkins, De Witt Clinton, Martin Van Buren, William L. Marcy, William H. Seward, Silas Wright, Hamilton Fish, Horatio Seymour, John A. Dix, Samuel J. Tilden, Grover Cleveland, Levi P. Morton and Theodore Roosevelt.

Second to the President.

David B. Hill was seven years governor of New York, and so demeaned himself in the great office that in political importance he was second only to the president of the United States.

In the Continental congress New York had for representatives such men as George Clinton, John Jay, Robert Livingston and Gouverneur Morris, and later she contributed these great names to the United States senate: Rufus King, Aaron Burr, De Witt Clinton, Martin Van Buren, William L. Marcy, Silas Wright, Daniel S. Dickinson, John A. Dix, William H. Seward, Hamilton Fish, Preston King, Roscoe Conkling, Francis Kernan, William M. Evarts, Thomas C. Platt and Chauncey M. Depew.

David B. Hill was a senator from New York 1891-97, and it would be difficult to mention another statesman in our history who in a single term made so great an impression on the body. Could he have been to Cleveland what his predecessor, Silas Wright, was to Cleveland's predecessor, Martin Van Burean, Democracy would be wearing garlands this good day. As a debater Hill found no superior in the senate; as a lawyer he was equal of the foremost; it was Hill who furnished the supreme court with the law for the majority opinion in the income tax case.

It was a bleak day, Jan. 7, 1892. The sky was leaden, the wind was surly, the ground was covered with the dampest and the coldest of snow. About 11:30 o'clock David B. Hill entered the senate chamber through the east door. He wore striped gray trousers and silk hat, and when he removed his heavy overcoat he appeared in a regulation Prince Albert. His face, always pale, paler than Blaine's, paler than Tom Ewing's, was unusually pale that day. He was accompanied by his friend, follower, disciple and fellow townsman, Hosea H. Rockwell of Elmira, then contestant of the seat in the house of representatives held by Henry T. Noyes of the Twenty-eighth district of New York.

A Triumphal Entry.

It was said that it was the first time Hill had ever set foot inside the senate chamber; indeed, it was stated that it was the first time he had ever entered the capitol. The galleries were crowded for Hill was in every man's thoughts, and now he was to wear the toga of a senator. His desk was decorated with flowers, and his friend and fellow-senator, Calvin S. Brice, sat next him. The house of representatives, then overwhelmingly Democratic, was empty-unless, for the sergeant-at-arms, accompanied by five score members, was in the senate chamber to hail the man who they hoped and believed would be the next president of the United States. Senator Hiscock escorted his colleague to the bar, and Levi P. Morton, then vice president, administered the oath.

And now came congratulations, and for an hour the new senator held a levee in the rear of seats on the Democratic side. Gorman, Brice and Barbour conferred with him. His was that recently vacated by Wade Hampton, and it was remarked that in close proximity were the desks of Brice, Barbour and Daniel.

When Massena, penned up in Genoa, besieged by an Austrian army and blockaded by an English fleet was told that Bonaparte, then first consul, had crossed the Alps and was making straight for the plains of Italy, the grim old soldier exclaimed, "Making straight for the Tuileries, rather!" And as Marengo was but a station on Napoleon's way to the throne, the senate was intended to be a station on Hill's journey to the White House. New York was his; he had just triumphed in the organization of the other branch of congress; he had many friends in the leading Democrats of the South.

But there was a fatality in it. The "snap convention" was a blunder; the humiliation of the house committee of elections was another. The deaths of Henry W. Grady and John S. Barbour were irreparable misfortunes. But for these, Cleveland could not have been nominated and Hill might have been nominated.

Hill's Two Mistakes.

Fortune knocks once at every door. Twice she knocked at the door of David B. Hill. Adroit as he is in management, infallible as is his insight, nature and education denied him that rarest quality which in a soldier we call genius and in a statesman we call instinct. Had he been endowed with that attribute, he would have realized in 1888 that the Hill eggs were in the Cleveland basket. Doubtless Hill was loyal to the national ticket; but he should have been willing to fall outside the breastorks, although that was not necessary. Not to criticise Governor Hill, but for illustration, what would be the place in literature of that most delightful of historical romances, if Sir Walter had, as he did, given Gurth the victory at quarter staff, and had, as he did not, unhorsed Ivanhoe in the lists of Ashby de la Zouch? That is the way the Democratic party looked at it, and that is what overwhelmed all the practical politicians at Chicago in June, 1892. Had Cleveland been reelected in 1888, nothing could have prevented the succession to the presidency of David B. Hill in 1892.

Fortune again knocked at Hill's door in 1896, and beckoned him out of the convention of that year. More than a third of the membership would have followed him and nominated him, and who can say that he would not have polled more votes east of the Mississippi than Mr. Bryan? He was confronted with a revolution, and dealt with the frenzied delegates as Louis XVI. dealt with the sanguinary sansculottes, and failed as Louis failed.

He Would Not "Bolt."

He had precedent. He was the disciple of Tilden. Tilden was the disciple of Van Buren. The Democratic convention that nominated Lewis Cass for president in 1848 was not revolutionary; but there was a bolt. Van Buren was the candidate of the bolters, and Tilden supported him, and so formidable was the revolt that Van Buren polled more votes in New York than Cass. Perhaps there is no word for which Hill has more aversion than "bolter," and no word for which he has greater respect than "regularity." He might have reverted to the career of Tilden, the bolter of 1848, and the creator of the Democratic renaissance of 1874.

Tilden was a genius, the greatest teacher of Democracy since Jefferson, and, with the possible exception of Lincoln, the greatest politician of our history. He was an accomplished statesman before he was a voter. While yet a schoolboy he was a safe counselor. His cunning attained to the dignity of wisdom, and he was the most perfect and consummate master of detail of all our party leaders. Had Tilden been at Chicago the heresy of Bryanism would have gone the way the corruption of Tweedism went.

Hill preferred to retire to Wolfert's Roost to await the lull of the storm. That is not the way to meet revolution, not the way to exercise heresy. There never was one moment that Hill supposed that Bryan had the ghost of a chance to become president of the United States. Maybe that accounts for his conduct in 1896. Doubtless Hill would have led the Palmer and Buckner forces had he apprehended a chance of Bryan's election. It was the mistake that Hill made in 1896, when he could have crushed it, that gave vitality to Bryanism four years later. And so we had the campaign of 1900.

An Historical Parallel.

On the morning of Austerlitz the practiced eye of Napoleon glanced over what was to be that glorious field, and turning to Marshal Soult, he said:

"Marshal, how long would it take you to reach the heights of Prutzen?"

Napoleon knew that the army that held those heights at nightfall would be the victorious army.

In 1848 Thurlow Weed knew that Martin Van Buren held the key to the political situation, and well he knew that Van Buren would never open the door of the White House to Henry Clay. The Whig party loved Clay as no other American political leader was ever loved, more devotedly than the Northern democracy loved Douglas, than the Southern democracy loved Breckinridge, than the Republican party loved Blaine. "Henry Clay among men as Eclipse among horses!" "Place him before the crowned heads of Europe, or the diplomats of Ghent, or in the American senate, or at the bar of the supreme court, or before twelve men in a box, or on the hustins, and, by ——, he's captain of every crowd he gets in." That is what they thought of "Harry of the West."

New York was the pivotal state. Polk had carried New York in 1844 simply because Van Buren revered the memory of Jackson, and was the enemy of Jackson's enemies.

Weed Wanted Victory.

And so the Whig convention of 1848 assembled at Philadelphia. Months before in paragraphs in the Albany Evening Journal Weed had insiduously suggested the name of Taylor, then fresh from his victories in Mexico. The convention and the party wanted Clay; but Weed wanted victory. Talleyrand never played the game more skillfully than did the Albany editor. He knew men, their hopes and fears, their strength and weakness. He prevailed. Taylor was nominated. The party was enraged. Horace Greeley wrote the famous editorial, "The Philadelphia Slaughter House;" but Weed knew what he was doing.

Having managed the Whig convention, Weed now undertook to manage the Free Soil convention. The Free Soilers of New York were Whigs and Democrats, and the Whigs had no use for Van Buren, while the Democrats looked on him as a martyr. Van Buren cared nothing about slavery, and probably had little objection to it; but with the assistance of Benjamin F. Butler, who had been Jackson's attorney general, Weed made Van Buren the Free Soil candidate for president. He polled 120,000 votes in New York, and that gave the state to Taylor and elected him.

That was the rapier in politics. David B. Hill can take punishment, as sundry dents in Dick Croker's bludgeon in 1896, and if he would be his party's candidate for president in 1904, he must familiarize himself with the rapier.

"It Beats All."

This is the quoted from a letter of M. Stockwell, Hannibal, Mo. "I recently used Foley's Honey and Tar for the first time. To say I am pleased does not half express my feelings. It beats all the remedies I ever used. I contracted a bad cold and was threatened with pneumonia. The first doses gave great relief and one bottle completely cured me." Contains no opiates. RITES HELD FOR SENATOR senate I am bidding him a last good-bye, rather than uttering the eulogy which later on will pour from the lips of his friends in the chamber which he so often filled with the lofty strains of his inspiring eloquence. I am lamenting over the irreparable loss we have all suffered. I am thinking of his work, mightily advanced but still unfinished.

"We shall miss him as we would have missed no other man. To him was given a measure of affection rich in its quality and royal in its extent. No man surpassed him in the accuracy of his analysis, the depth of his thought, or the thoroughness of his investigation.

"His was a master mind, and it is inexpressably sad that at the climax of his influence, the zenith of his greatness, when his vision was clearer and broader than ever before, we must give him up."

Tribute by Carroll.

In paying his tribute of respect to Senator Dolliver, Governor B. F. Carroll said in part:

"Our state has given to the public many able and capable men, but there are few who have approached that degree of recognized ability and capacity for public service attained by him whose life we here commemorate. But we think of him no more as the aggressive, forceful and ever ready combatant of public life.

"All Iowa today joins in sweetly solemn memories of the life of this beloved statesman and glories in his grand and magnificent record of public achievement.

"Senator Dolliver's life work is ended. Two and a quarter millions of loyal citizens of our great commonwealth join with those of the nation in mouring his departure."

MORELAND BROKEN IN TWO BY THE FIERCE POUNDING OF WAVES

ent season. It was loaded with 11,000 tons of ore, which it took from Aljouez, last Tuesday. Capt. Kidd, the local representative of the underwriters, left last night for the scene of the accident.

One of the interesting features of the accident, is the reported fact that the Moreland was to have been equipped with wireless when she reached the lower lakes. This fact was given out today by Capt. Claude Ennis, in the wireless message to this city.

Capt. Ennis stated today that if the Moreland had been equipped with wireless, she could have made her plight known many hours earlier and might have been saved, according to the statement of the captain.

All last night a heavy sea poured over the big vessel, opening up her seams and filling her cargo hold. At 10 o'clock the strain on the big vessel became too great and the massive hull of steel broke in two.

The spot where the Moreland struck is almost the same spot where the steamer Colorado was wrecked fourteen years ago. This fact, and the fact that the big vessel was to have been equipped with wireless on her next trip out, contribute dramatic details to the story of the wreck.

There were twenty-four men on the Moreland, and according to the accounts of the rescue contained in the wireless to this city, no one has been lost. Many inquiries were made this morning by those who knew some of the members of the crew. There was one woman on the boat, and, according to the wireless story, she has been rescued.

The loss of the Moreland, if the vessel is a complete wreck, will be the most severe loss sustained on Lake Superior the present season. The big boat was one of the very best of the modern steel vessels.

KILLS NIECE AND HIMSELF

supper, Schroeder took the little girl in his arms and carried her into the parlor, where he sat down in an armchair and rocked her to sleep. Then he coolly took a revolver from a grip, and placing it against the child's breast, fired two shots. He then fired a bullet into his right temple, dying almost instantly. Schroeder left a letter in which he said:

"To whom it may concern: I am doing this terrible deed to punish my wife and all others concerned in it. I thought I would find my wife and the man she ran away with here in Spokane, but I could not find out from her sister where she went, so I have to take revenge in this way.

"After this deed is done, I will commit suicide, as there is nothing left for me in this world. The result is the conspiracy of my wife and her sister, Mrs. Ugan, No. 1239 Fifty-fifth street, Chicago.

The cutter found that those on board were not suffering, and after taking on as many of the passengers as the cutter could accommodate, sailed for Key West.

American Schooner Lost.

Capt. Bradish Johnson, arriving at Knight's Kay today, reports the American four-masted schooner Edward T. Stotesbury a total loss on Pigeon Key. One man was washed overboard and drowned. Three others were brought to the marine hospital here.

The schooner, Capt. Burke commanding, was bound from Tampa to Baltimore with a load of phosphate.

The schooner Serafina has been towed into port. The Spanish schooner Marta, from Havana, has been dismasted and abandoned.

Tug Has Foundered.

Beaufort, N. C., Oct. 20. — The tug Alexander Jones of Wilmington, N. C., foundered at sea in the West Indian hurricane while bound from Wilmington, N. C., to Knight's Key, Fla. Capt Sanders and his crew of seven men were saved by a passing steamer. The vessel was of sixty-nine tons net.

Barge Is Adrift.

Savannah, Ga., Oct. 20.—During a ninety-mile wind off Jacksonville yesterday the Texas Oil company's barge Dallas, with nine men aboard, broke adrift from the steamer Northfield. The Northfield reported here today that the fate of the castaways is unknown.

CRIPPEN TO BE WITNESS

terest with which the announcement of the line of defense was waited.

"Body Not Belle Elmore's."

This interest was whetted by the first sentence of counsel, who confirmed his earlier statement to the press that Crippen would enter the witness box immediately when his attorney had concluded his address. Medical witnesses would follow, Mr. Tobin said.

The defense, it is known, will attempt to prove that the body found in Crippen's home was not that of his wife.

Mr. Tobin said that Crippen had traveled in disguise because he had been informed by the quartermaster that he was to be arrested upon landing at Quebec. Crippen had hoped to get safely into the interior of Canada where he planned to be joined by Miss Leneve after the talk concerning their flight had been lost.

Counsel reviewed Bell Elmore's life, her association with a man before she married Crippen, the appearance on the scene of Bruce Miller of Chicago at whose assertions of innocent friendship Mr. Tobin scoffed, and finally asserted that the defendant's wife disappeared because her dislike of Crippen had turned to hatred.

As soon as Mr. Tobin had concluded, Crippen was called as the first witness for the defense and gave again his version of his wife's disappearance.

STRIKERS BLAMED FOR STABBING

Foreman of Chicago Garment House Is Cut on the Hand.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—George Albrecht, a foreman for Hart, Schaffner & Marx, the storm center of the garment workers' strike, was stabbed in the hand by alleged strikers today. As Albrecht descended from the elevated railroad he was surrounded by a dozen men. He tried to force his way through the ring when one of his assailants drew a knife and made a lunge at him. The foreman threw up his arm to defend himself and the blade pierced his hand. The men escaped. Aside from this incident the strike has been marked by three riots within a week.

TWO HUNTERS DROWNED WHILE HUNTING DUCKS.

Perham, Minn., Oct. 20.—Henry Schmidt, Jr., and Albert Rick, two young men, were drowned by the capsizing of a boat while hunting ducks near here Monday afternoon. The bodies have not been recovered.

Michigan, N. D., Market Day.

Michigan, N. D., Oct. 20.—(Special to The Herald.) — Extensive exhibits of live stock and poultry will be here next Saturday, when the city holds its annual market day to encourage the stocking of farms in this section. The Commercial club has offered some exceptionally fine prizes for the winning entrants.

SURELY BREAKS UP A BAD COLD

Most Severe Cold or the Grippe Relieved In Several Hours.

It is a positive fact that a dose of Pape's Cold Compound taken every two hours until three consecutive doses are taken will cure Grippe or break up the most severe cold, either in the head, chest, back, stomach or limbs.

You distinctly feel the cold breaking and all the disagreeable grippe symptoms leaving after the very first dose. It promptly ends the most miserable headache, neuralgia pains, dullness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, sore throat, running of the nose, mucous catarrhal discharges, soreness, stiffness and rheumatic twinges.

Pape's Cold Compound is the result of three years' research at a cost of more than fifty thousand dollars and contains no quinine, which we have conclusively demonstrated is not effective in the treatment of colds or grippe.

Take this harmless Compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine made, anywhere else in the world, which will cure your cold or end Grippe misery as promptly and without any other assistance or bad after-effects as a 25-cent package of Pape's Cold Compound, which any druggist in the world can supply.

Marvellous Strength Builder

MRS. M. P. COLEMAN.

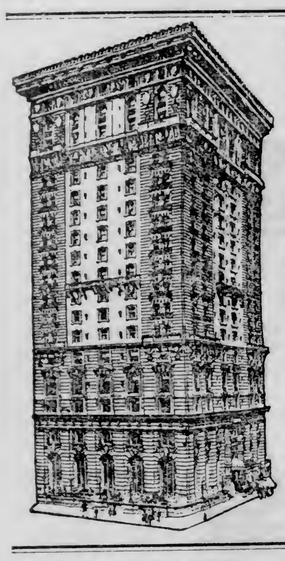

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey keeps Mrs. Coleman in the best of health. Without it her strength fails and she is unable to get around, so she never neglects to have it in the house.

She recently wrote: "I have been using Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey for three years, and it is of so much benefit to me that when my supply gives out, I give out too. I can testify that it has done me more good than any other medicine. I expect to take Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey as long as I live, and I will recommend it to others. I only hope I can convince other people of the wonderful good that is in it." Mrs. M. P. Coleman, 424 Walnut St., Lynchburg, Va.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

as a renewer of youth and tonic stimulant is one of the greatest strength-givers known to science. It aids in destroying disease, and by its building and healing properties assists in restoring tissues in a gradual, healthy, natural manner, thus keeping the old young in spirits. Prescribed by physicians and recognized as a family medicine everywhere. You should have it in your home. It will do you good.

If in need of advice, write Medical Department, The Duffy Malt Whiskey Company, Rochester, New York, stating your case fully. Our doctors will send you advice free, together with a valuable illustrated medical booklet, containing rare common-sense rules for health which you cannot afford to be without and some of the many thousands of gratifying letters from men and women in all walks of life, both old and young, who have been cured and benefited by the use of this great medicine. It is sold IN SEALED BOTTLES ONLY by druggists, grocers and dealers everywhere or direct for $1.00 per large bottle.

MOISSANT TAKES FEARFUL DIVE

Aviator Plunges 125 Feet Because of Carelessness But Is Unhurt.

New York, Oct. 20. — The heedlessness of a moment came near being the death yesterday of John B. Moissant, the American aviator, while he was trying out his new Blerlot monoplane at Belmont park. He fell 125 feet and wrecked his machine beyond repair, but picked himself out of the dust unhurt and was just about to fly a mile to his anxious wife in another monoplane, when she rushed onto the field in an automobile.

"Are you hurt?" she stammered.

"Why no, nobody ever gets hurt flying," answered Moissant. "The accident was my own fault for removing my feet from the rudder to regulate the oil feed."

Moissant had just made two brilliant turns of the mile and a quarter track when he took his spill. A puff of wind struck the tail of his monoplane and swung it to one side. The aviator quickly righted himself, and then in over-confidence lifted his feet from the rudder to tinker with the oil feed to his motor.

Dived 125 Feet.

Instantly the monoplane swooped sideways like a bird with a broken wing, dived 125 feet to the ground, struck on its right wing and turned completely over. Nobody who saw the fall thought for a moment that Moissant would ever be taken out of the wreck alive; but as it happened, the uninjured left wing broke his fall and he slid easily from his seat to the ground.

The damaged monoplane is a brand-new one-passenger Blerlot. Moissant still has the two-seat monoplane in which he flew from Paris to London and will use it in all events in which he competes at the aviation meet here.

NEW ADAMS HOTEL AT DEERWOOD IS OPEN.

Deerwood, Minn., Oct. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Adams hotel was opened yesterday by the proprietor and manager, C. H. Adams. It is two stories in height, steam heated, hot and cold water, bath rooms and all modern appointments. A dynamo in the basement generates the necessary electricity for lighting. The hotel is but half a block from the depot.

WEST END

BOY BREAKS ARM IN FALL FROM POLE.

While climbing a telephone pole yesterday afternoon, Harold, 8-year-old son of Mrs. E. D. Gray of 2509 West First street fell about ten feet and broke his arm in two places. He received no other injuries, according to Dr. Braden, who set the limb.

The boy was playing about the house at the time of the accident and the pole from which he fell, was in front of the Gray home.

On Sept. 12, E. D. Gray, father of the boy, lost his life near Deerwood, Minn., by falling between two cars from a moving train, his body being frightfully mangled. Gray was a conductor for the Northern Pacific railroad.

SEND CLOTHES TO SWEDISH SETTLERS.

Swedish immigrants in Manitoba, striving to make a home for themselves in the great Canadian Northwest, will receive aid from Duluth.

The ladies of the First Swedish Baptist church, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street, have prepared five barrels of clothing which will be shipped next week to a settlement in Manitoba.

The contribution was made at the request received here from the pastor of a Swedish Baptist church in the Canadian country and instead of holding a rummage sale this fall the ladies decided to send the old clothes away to where they will be much needed this winter.

WILL LECTURE ON HIS NATIVE LAND.

Rev. C. P. Carlson, for the past six years superintendent of the Eastern district of the Swedish Methodist church in Sweden and for a number of years prior to that, pastor of a church in Stockholm, will deliver a lecture on his native land this evening at the First Swedish M. E. church, Twentieth avenue west and Third street. The lecture is free and it is expected that there will be a large attendance.

Rev. G. Tapper, range missionary, who will be editor of the new Swedish Methodist church publication which will soon be issued monthly in Duluth, will also be a speaker at the West end church this evening.

ORPHEUS SINGING SOCIETY PROGRAM.

The Orpheus Singing society fair, which opened last evening for four days at 2112 West Superior street, was largely attended and a splendid program of speeches and music was carried out.

The program for tonight follows:

Song—Sylvia Singing society.
Address—Rev. Dr. J. A. Krantz.
Piano duet — Alma Lundquist and Edna Bergquist.
Recitation—Gust Johnson.
Soprano solo—Mrs. K. J. Hagberg.
Song selection — Sylvia Singing society.

TURN CHURCH INTO A HARDWARE STORE.

Charles Gustafson, who recently purchased the property of St. Luke's Episcopal church, Nineteenth avenue west and First street, will remodel the church structure for a hardware store. On the ear of the lot he will erect a residence. M. Gustafson is now engaged in the hardware business on West Superior street. The church congregation will turn over the new building to the present owner as soon as St. Peter's church is remodeled at Twenty-eighth avenue west and First street.

SUPERIOR PASTOR WILL SPEAK AT FESTIVAL.

Rev. Theodore Ekblad of Superior will be the principal speaker this evening at the two-days' festival, which will be opened tonight at Bethany Swedish Lutheran church, Twenty-third avenue west and Third street, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid society.

G. W. Olson of Minneapolis will speak at the affair tomorrow evening. A musical program has been arranged for each evening and refreshments will be served.

Silver Jubilee.

Large crowds are attending the silver jubilee "tombola" which is being held every evening at St. Jean Baptiste hall, Third street between Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth avenues west. The bazaar opened Tuesday evening and will continue the remainder of the week.

West End Shortrails.

A Democratic rally will be held this evening at the voting booth, Twenty-eighth avenue west and First street. Several candidates for county offices are expected to be present.

The marriage of Miss Annie Haggett and John A. Dixon took place Tuesday evening at the parsonage of Grace M. E. church of 310 North Twenty-second avenue west, Rev. M. O. Stockland officiating. They will make their home in the West end.

St. Clement's Court No. 675, Catholic Order of Foresters, will hold a special meeting this evening in St. Clement's hall on Third street near Twenty-first avenue west.

Mrs. H. W. Johnson of 2532 West Superior street has left for Los Angeles, Cal., on a month's visit.

A. Lofgren has returned from a trip to the Twin Cities.

Mrs. H. P. Wiggins of 2308 West Third street has returned from Eau Claire, Wis., where she has been visiting her parents.

T. H. Iverson has returned from a business trip to the range towns.

Mrs. Hugo Swenson of the West end has returned from a visit with relatives at the Twin Cities.

Theodore Gustafson has left for Spokane, where he intends to make his future home.

Mrs. Thomas Barks of 2120 West Third street will entertain the Ladies' Guild of St. Luke's Episcopal church at a house social this evening.

SON SURVIVES; FATHER DIES

Iowa Man Returns After Harrowing Experience in Border Country.

L. V. Simmons of Davenport, Iowa, passed through the city yesterday on his way home.

Mr. Simmons is the son of L. V. Simmons, who was burned so badly in the forest fire at Baudette, Minn., that he died in the hospital shortly after the fire had broken out.

Father and son were in the woods looking at land when the fire began. They were accompanied by Chris and William Jorgenson of Detroit.

They were caught by the fire. William Jorgenson and the elder Mr. Simmons were so badly burned that they died as the result.

The other members of the party, while badly burned, escaped with their lives.

WAS BLOWN UP; ASKS DAMAGES

Laborer Wants Big Sum From Swallow & Hopkins Company.

Alleging that he was injured while engaged in stripping at the Helmer mine near Kinney, during February of the present year, Olli Nykanen has brought suit in district court for $17,500 against the Swallow & Hopkins company.

The plaintiff was employed to place charges of dynamite in holes bored for the purpose. On the day in question he filled, he claims, twenty-seven holes. All went off but one and in accordance with his duties, he visited that one to find out what was the matter. When close to it, the dynamite exploded and he claims to have been severely injured as the result.

He claims defective material was furnished him by the company.

WILL ENTERTAIN FRESHMAN CLASS

Novel Entertainment Arranged for Boys' Department Friday Night.

The popular Friday night at the boys' department this week will be a social and open house to the freshman class class of the high school. Every freshman, whether a member of the club or not, is cordially invited. The social committee met last night and arranged the program. The first half hour there will be a short program of music and games in the clubrooms. This will be followed by an indoor parlor field meet. The group will be divided into two sides and will compete for honors in the following events:

200-yard dash carrying a blown egg —The man finishing first with a whole egg wins.

Running broad grin, stand facing the audience, keeping a changeable but continuous pleasant smile.

Long under swing, stand on a two-inch strip of wood on the toes, reaching the hand back and up between the legs. The one who reaches the highest point behind the back wins.

Continuous grin, the man who can stand the longest before the audience without a faint smile, winning.

Candle walk, carrying a lighted candle with one arm extended, the other behind the back, finishing with the lighted candle.

Shot put, throwing peanuts into the mouth of a jug four feet away. The one putting the most peanuts in in five trials wins.

Long lean whistle, the one who can keep up a whistle the longest length of time.

Standing broad grin, the one who can keep up a pleasant smile the longest length of time.

The evening will close with refreshments, and each guest will receive a complimentary ticket for a swim Saturday in the central natatorium.

The following committee will have charge of the affair: Howard Sukleforth, Ray Larson, Paul Flinn and Knox Winton.

GROWN SONS MUST WORK FOR LIVING

Judge Cutting Dismisses Non-Support Case Against Old Man.

An aged father does not have to support grown-up sons, although their mother may think so, according to a decision of Judge Cutting in police court yesterday afternoon after he had heard the evidence in the case against Nick Klilench, 68 years old, of West Duluth, who had been arraigned on a warrant sworn out by his wife charging him with non-support.

Mrs. Klilench claimed that he made $45 a month and that he did not contribute more than $1 a day towards the support of herself and children. Klilench stated that the "children" were young men, and that their mother wanted them to live at his expense while they did nothing. The court advised Mrs. Klilench to send her sons out to work and dismissed the case.

Potatoes for Sufferers.

Crookston, Minn., Oct. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Conductor James Byrnes of the Great Northern states that the fire sufferers are certainly not going to suffer for lack of potatoes for a few weeks at least.

Moorhead forwarded a car Saturday night to them, and Sabin and Glyndon are now loading a car each, which will be distributed among the losers.

Boys' Successful Corn Growing.

La Moure, N. D., Oct. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—La Moure county's corn-growing boys who win out in the county contest to be held here Nov. 11 will be rewarded with a trip to the state boys' corn growing institute in Fargo, Dec. 19 to 23. The corn contest in this county has been unusually successful and it is expected that there will be some exceptionally good displays made. In addition to the six trips that have been announced as prizes, there is also $25 in cash to be divided among the successful boys.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

The members of the Children's Home board are busy with preparations for the annual charity ball which will be held at the Spalding hotel, Nov. 22. For several years the women of the board have arranged a special scheme of decoration that has made the ballroom unusually beautful and each year an effort has been made to surpass all previous showings. None of the money secured from the receipts is used for the decorations for the board members do the work themselves and after the ball the decorations are sold and the sum turned into the treasury. A committee is meeting two and three times a week preparing for the decorations for this year, the details of which are to be kept secret, until the night of the largest social function of the year when, to quote a board member, "they will burst in all their loveliness" on the guests.

Mrs. S. R. Holden, president of the board has named the committees for the event and the details will be in the hands of the following members:

Music and program, Mrs. J. N. McKindley, Mrs. W. C. Winton, Mrs. G. Herbert Jones.

Hotel—Mrs. T. F. Cole, Mrs. L. S. Loeb and Mrs. C. S. Wilson.

Invitations and printing, Mrs. J. N. McKindley and Mrs. T. J. Davis.

"BOOK OF PARIS."

Claude Washburn's First Book Is Published.

A book of particular interest to Duluthians has just come from the press of Houghton-Mifflin company. It is "Pages from the Book of Paris" by Claude C. Washburn, a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Washburn of this city. The book is most charmingly gotten out with etchings and drawings by Lester G. Hornby. Mr. Washburn is 27 years old. He was born at Mankato, Minn., and attended the grade schools of Duluth. He was graduated from Harvard in 1905 and since that time he has spent much of his time abroad. He has published a few verses, some short stories that have appeared in McClure's magazine and others. His "Interview with Anatole France" in the Atlantic Monthly caused no little comment. Mr. Washburn is now in Italy.

The contents of his "Pages from the Book of Paris", which will be reviewed in the Herald later, are "The Book of Paris", "Sidewalk Cafes", "I Choose My Home", "Two Plays", "Au Bois", "Love in Paris", "In My Court", "Pere Lachaise—an Impression" and "An Interview".

The book is written in easy contemplative mood, recording the impressions that life in the great city has left on the responsive young American. The book will be read with particular interest by Mr. Washburn's friends in this city.

OUTLOOK CLUB.

First Meeting of Year on "W. D. Howells."

The first meeting of the year of the Outlook club will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. C. C. Cokefair of 2302 East Fifth street. The leader for the afternoon will be Miss McGiffert and the subject will be "W. D. Howells," with a review of his book, "The Quality of Mercy."

Wed in Spokane.

Miss Clara J. Reed of Duluth became the bride of Harvey Brown of Vancouver, B. C., at Spkane last evening. Miss Reed has lived in Duluth a number of years. She left for the West some three weeks ago. She was a graduate nurse, from St. Luke's hospital. After the wedding ceremony last night, Mr. and Mrs. Brown left for a wedding trip. They will be at home at Vancouver.

"Annette" Comnig.

Annette Kellerman, whose instructions in a recent popular women's magazine on learning to swim, have temporarily lamed more than one would-be swimmer in Duluth, will visit the city in person in November, to present an act at the Orpheum. Miss Kellerman has been the center of much interest throughout the country. She is lovely to look at and in posing for her photographs, in the aforementioned well censored magazine, she did not wear a hobble skirt—nor any other.

She ascribes her beauty of line to swimming. It is healthful and stimulating and brings wonderful results, says Miss Kellerman.

PRIMA DONNA IS LOOKED UPON AS A GOOD MASCOT

MISS TEXAS GUINAN.

Miss Texas Guinan, the prima donna of "The Kissing Girl," which will be seen at the Lyceum this evening, tomorrow and Saturday with a Saturday matinee, is looked upon by her manager and her associates as a mascot. Miss Guinan, in her brief, but rather notable career as a star, has never been associated with a failure in the musical comedy line. 'Every musical comedy with which she has appeared has had a run of at least 250 performances and her present vehicle bids fair to far surpass this mark.

"The Kissing Girl" is owned by John P. Slocum, one of the prominent figures in the theatrical world, and one of the first men to cast in his lot with the Shuberts. Mr. Slocum is in the city with the company.

Dancing Parties.

A number of informal dancing parties are being held at the main house of the Boat club. The cool evenings are delightful for dancing and other affairs will probably be planned until the very cold weather arrives. One of the recent parties consisted of:

Pen and Pencil Holders.

Here is a way of utilizing empty mustard tins, which, at a trifling cost, may be transformed into pretty and useful holders for pens and pencils and hung above the writing table. First wash and thoroughly dry the tin, removing the labels; then bore at each side a hole near the top, through which to draw the cord or ribbon. Next cover tin all over with some artistic-colored enamel—or pure white is equally suitable—and, if you are gifted with the brush, paint on this a scroll of flowers. With some gold enamel draw a glit band around the top to give a nice finish to the holder. When all is dry, thread some cord or ribbon through the holes made for that purpose, fix a rosette at the top, put in the pencils, etc., and hang up in a convenient place. Such a holder as this may be used for "spills" or, fitted with a bag stuffed with sawdust, it would do nicely for a pincushion for the bedroom.

When Varnishing Woodwork.

If varnish is to be applied to old surfaces it is necessary to wash them very carefully with soda and water before applying it. Varnish that has been kept a long time before using generally dries quickly and becomes hard. If any marks have been left by the brush these are best removed by polishing with finely powdered pumice stone and water, then by rubbing over with a clean soft rag which has been moistened with a mixture of finely pulverized tripoli and oil.

Helps for the Housekeeper.

A teaspoonful of olive oil taken each day will aid the digestion and ease liver trouble.

Don't forget that an apple put into a tin in which cakes are kept will keep them fresh a fortnight longer.

Smoking may be indulged in in any room, however dainty, with impunity if a large bowl of fresh water is placed in the room the last thing at night and allowed to remain until the next morning. The water absorbs the stale odor.

Mice hate cayenne pepper, and if the hole is filled with rags liberally sprinkled with it, and then stopped with mortar in which a little chloride of lime has been mixed, they will not atempt to come through it.

THE EVENING STORY

HOUSE THAT CHARLIE BUILT

By Andrew Bicknell.

"Charlie Towers building a new house? Never."

"It's corect. He has bought that eligible plot of land on High street, to quote the auctioneer's words, and the foundation is already down."

"But what does Charlie want with a house?"

Cissie Manners laughed and, moreover, flushed, and the party of girls picknicking on the river grew interested.

"Are we to congratulate you?"

"Oh, no, certainly not," replied Cissie. The conversation lapsed again, but the house that Charlie was building remained uppermost in the thoughts of the majority of the girls for the rest of the day, and many more days afterwards.

"You might cut me some more cake, Sadie. I'm too tired for anything in the way of exertion."

Sadie, the girl spoken too, sprang to her feet and hastened to obey.

"And please dont' look so absurdly confused."

"I confused!" She brushed the dead leaves carefully from her plain gray dress and Cissie involuntarily compared its primness and shabbiness with her own and her companion's spotlessly white, summer attire.

"I'm sorry." She bent over the cake to hide her confusion, and an awkward silence ensued. The "eligible site," the girls suddenly remembered, was the last portion of the grounds left by Sadie's father, and what the future for her and her widowed mother held when the money realized by the sale of that went they hesitated to surmise.

The news spread rapidly, and before the first row of bricks appeared above the ground level it was an eccepted fact that Charlie was going to take unto himself a wife, the house he was building for her reception. But who was she?

Cissie met him one day near the half-built house, and something in his manner sent a nervous thrill through her. They shook hands and they coughed.

"Do you know, Cissie," he commenced, "I want to see you badly. I want to ask you a question."

She flushed prettily.

"Not here, Charlie, surely?"

"Well-er," he laughed—"the house would certainly be a better place. Do you mind?"

He assisted her across the planks and through the building materials scattered about into what was eventually to be the front dining room.

"I have always valued your opinion, Cissie."

"If I can be of any use, Charlie?"

"You are good. It sounds like 'cheek' on my part to ask a comparative stranger."

"Stranger?"

"Well, nearly. But, standing here"—he stood before the space left for the window and indicated the sweep of country before them—"do you think a 'bow' window or one of those French affairs would be more suitable?"

"Really"—she choked back her surprise—"really I don't think I am competent to advise you properly."

"No?" He followed her clear of the brick and motar disappointedly. "I really thought you would know. Goodbye, if you are in a hurry."

He had a dim knowledge that he had committed some error of judgment and gazed after her helplessly.

A week later Mollie Stuart passed the house and stopped to inspect its progress. She was a pretty, merry, winsome lass, without a care and as yet fancy free. He came outside and caught sight of her.

"Mollie," he said delightedly, "just the girl I wanted."

"You wanted me? Go on!" She laughed, but for all that she dropped her eyes.

"Yes. Come in, please. I want to ask you——" Her quick, searching glance thrilled him and scattered his self-possession.

"You wanted to ask me?"

He took her arm and piloted her gently towards the rear. Suddenly he stopped.

"You are a good girl in a house, Mollie. Mother says so, and she is a good judge."

She smiled and waited for him to continue.

"Now, Mollie, candidly, would you advise me to put the kitchen cupboard on this side of the fireplace or that?" he questioned earnestly.

"Oh!" Mollie's half formed hopes dissipated.

For a second she felt annoyed and disappointed, and then the humor of the situation thrust itself upon her. She sat down on a hard board and laughed—shrieked.

Why not fix it over the fireplace?" she suggested.

"Over?"

"Yes; it would keep the bread nice and dry, you know. Good-bye, Charlie. You really are too funny."

Unlike Cissie, Mollie loved a joke, even if it was against herself, and before night more than half the village knew of the episode and was laughing at Charlie's method of obtaining first-hand advice. Cissie then told her tale, and poor Charlie found the presence of smiling village lasses leaning over his boundary wall somewhat disconcerting.

But when the house was completed more than one smiling face turned envious. It was really a pretty place, not too large, and, standing in its own grounds, it made a very desirable residence. Rumor became busy with the question of Charlie's choice. The gossips decided it could not remain much longer in doubt, and, therefore, when Miss Mattie Prim found herself stopped by Charlie at the gate her heart fluttered desperately.

"I want to—to ask you—" he commenced.

"Certainly." She laughed nervously. With a dim intuitively knowledge of the reason of his previous humiliating disappointments Charlie stammered quickly ahead:

"I assure you candidly it is not about the house—that is, directly. Indirectly, of course it is, and you—you alone—can give me the information I require."

She followed him breathlessly through the gate, along the passage to the side of the house and into the garden beyond. Inwardly she had a little qualm of regret. No one for miles around bred leghorns, black rocks and other birds like hers. Still, they would have to go if Charlie—

"Now," he indicated the garden with pride, "do you think Miss Mattie—do you think that is long enough for a hen-run?"

"Sir!"

"Oh, I am sorry. I do not want you to answer if you are betraying any of the secrets of your success; but, really, I do want to breed poultry like yours."

"Then," she sniffed contemptuously; "then pay for your advice."

He followed her to the front gate and leaned on it very dejectedly.

For a week Charlie was moody and taciturn. He confided his troubles to his mother, of course. She was a widow, and Charlie her only son, and although he had long passed the "apron-string" stage, he did not think it unmanly to solicit her assistance.

Curiously, the after effect was that Mrs. Towers became exceedingly friendly with Sadie's mother. Within a month they had strengthened a lifelong acquaintance, and were almost inseparable, and Charlie seemed to lose some of his awkwardness in Sadie's society.

One day the two old ladies were sitting together, obviously ill at ease. Sadie, as usual, thoughtful and careful of their comfort, busied herself to no effect.

"You might go down to the house and see if Charlie is there," said Mrs. Towers presently. And Sadie went.

She proceeded slowly and confusedly, rumors of Charlie's curious methods of obtaining information had reached her, and she felt uncomfortably certain her going to the house would be watched and commented upon. And again her face paled and flushed in turn, and her eyes, big and expressive, were eloquent of her secret.

"Sadie!" He met her at the gate, and gasped when she turned to retrace her steps. "Won't you spare me a minute, please?"

She hesitated, and then followed him. At the sunny border he stopped, and asked her opinion. Satisfied with her reply, he proceeded and gave a grunt of relief when she admired the French window.

He led her to the rear of the house, and asked her opinion upon the henrun, and then conversation lagged. They returned to the house, and Charlie showed her a side entrance.

"There are really two houses, although, outwardly, they appear one. This, the smaller, is for mother. She doesn't want to be far away, even though I am to be married."

"Married?" She turned white, and clutched the door for support.

"Yes. And if your mother, Sadie, would join her, I think they would be very comfortable. What do you think?"

"But what about me?"

"Well, you know—you must know, Sadie, I built the house for you. Will you not come, love?"

Half an hour later, Charlie, looking very proud and happy, pushed Sadie, blushing and confused, into the presence of the two old ladies. For a second she hesitated, whilst they searched her face with eager, questioning eyes, and then she flung her arms around Charlie's mother, and kissed her.

Fascination and Charm

By VIRGINIA HARLAN.

Everyone is familiar with the words Fascination and Charm, and yet very few people are prepared to produce a satisfactory definition of either quality—still less clearly to differentiate one from the other.

It would, perhaps, be true to say that fascination appeals to the purely emotional side of one's nature, while charm is an every day quality, which attracts rather from the intellectual standpoint.

The foundation of charm is undoubtedly the gift of sympathy, which enables its possessor to enter into the point of view of the person she—it is generally a "she"—is talking to, to understand instinctively what it is that he is trying to convey, and, in fact to be able to put her own personality into harmony with his. On the other hand a woman may be perfectly fascinating without possessing this gift in the smallest degree.

Where the charmer is soothing and restful, the fascination may only too often be found to be both distracting and maddening. Charm may be reckoned safely among one's comforts, wheras fascination partakes more of the nature of a whirl of excitement, which is pleasure while it lasts, but leaves its victim breathless and exhausted afterward.

Obviously, the question arises: "Why should not charm and fascination, both be united in the same individual?" Answer to this seems to be that the fascinator already wields so very much power that, as a rule, she does not take the trouble to develop the gift of charm as an additional weapon in her already over-filled armory.

Unfortunately a good many pretty girls are under the entirely erroneous impression that beauty by itself is quite sufficient to constitute fascination, and so they appear to imagine that all they need to do is to "exist beautifully" in order to capture the hearts of members of the opposite sex.

Hence the great number of languid, limp and lifeless beauties that one meets who seem to be in want of an electric battery to galvanize them into at least a pretense of being alive.

On very rare occasions, however, Providence is kind enough to send into this work-a-day world girls who possess all three incomparable gifts of beauty, charm and fascination. Perhaps it is just as well that such cases are rare, for they work deplorable havoc upon the hearts of the mere men, while it hardly seems to be quite fair upon the more humbly equipped members of their own sex. One thing is perfectly certain, namely, that both charm and fascination are almost necessarily based upon a sound foundation of self-confidence, for it is evident that no one will believe in a woman that does not believe in herself.

It has before now been pointed out that half the charm of American women (when they succeed in being charming) lies in the fact that she is perfectly certain in her own mind that she is "just the cutest and most adorable thing that ever happened."

One of the simplest and easiest recipes for fascinating the average man is to pose a helpless, kitenish kind of a creature who requires his strong arm to lean upon.

A girl who goes on this line will find plenty of men tumbling over one another in their anxiety to do things for her; whereas the girl who is great on the theory of independence will probably find that she may go on doing things for herself until her dying day.

The girl who is "a good sort," of whom men are inclined to make "a pal," is, as a rule, one who possesses charm, but has failed to acquire the secret of fascination. She is the kind of a woman that a man goes to when he is in trouble, but he does not make love to her. On the contrary, he probably selects her sympathetic ear into which to pour his ravings on the subject of beauties and perfections of the fair fascinator who has captured his weather-beaten yet still susceptible heart.

The Question of Stays

By MARGARET E. SANGSTER.

The old question whether or not to wear corsets is always cropping up. By some advisers corsets are considered to be the root of all evil. They attribute to their baneful influence every malady that mars woman's beauty and ravages her health and vigor. Others consider a corset a useful adjunct indispensable to the woman who cares about the fit of her gown. In the days of our grandmothers, when a corset was a formidable affair, made of stiff, unyielding material, with a bone up the front, as hard as a ruler and as inflexible as Spartan severity, a corset was an instrument of torture.

In "Janice Meredith" Paul Leicester Ford introduces his heroine in the act of getting into her stays. Her mother with relentless hand draws the corset lace tighter and tighter in order to give her daughter the hour-glass figure which was then greatly admired.

No wonder women fainted when tight corsest made deep breathing an utter impossibility. I remember a foolish girl of whom tradition said that her death from consumption was due to the fact that she slept for three years in the same abominably tight corset that she wore by day, never changing it, never relaxing and therefore losing the chance the night might have given her to resist the encroachments of the day upon her lungs.

A comfortable corset made in the modern fashion, to fit the natural figure, never tightly laced and with hose supporters attached, is a garment the pressure of which no woman need dread.

Whatever a lady finds most comfortable she is wise in wearing. As to the fabrics of which a corset is composed, and with reference to its color, she may suit herself. If she expects a corset to last it must be of strong material. If she is indifferent about her figure and desires abundant breathing room, let her select a style of waist that has no bones or stiffness and then arrange her clothing so that its weight will depend on the shoulders.

A red nose, imperfect indigestion, headaches and a bad temper are the evils that come in the wake of any mode of dressing that compresses the lungs. A wasp waist is inelegant. A large abdomen is as great a defect as a large waist measure, and it often is the consequence of a badly chosen and too tightly laced corset.

THE DOCTOR'S ADVICE

Giddiness.

The peculiar sensation in which "everything seems to be going round" is quite a common one, and in some cases it is sufficiently prolonged and severe to cause loss of balance, though often the patient is able to recover himself without falling, especially if he is able to lay hold of something by which he can steady himself. In most instances the cause of vertigo, as we call it, is the insufficient supply of blood to the head or brain.

After a severe illness giddiness is probably caused by impure blood supply; sometimes again the blood is contaminated with alcohol. In old people whose blood vessels have become hardened and unyielding, giddiness is often very frequent. Overfulness of vessels also gives rise to a kind of vertigo, and in all these instances the treatment required must necessarily differ.

The vertigo which occurs during convalescence after illness, for example, will disappear as strength is regained, and therefore a tonic is what is needed. Where the face is flushed and the head hot at the time when the attack comes on, it may be desirable to give a purgative medicine. Where there is a weakness, good food and gentle exercise must be taken, but saline purgatives with some diuretic can also be safely used. Sometimes vertigo depends on, or indicates, brain trouble, and this is usually accompanied by headache. Thus it is seen that giddiness is rather a symptom than an ailment, and one which varies very much in significance, since it may amount to nothing more than temporary weakness or stomachic disturbance, or it may indicate a condition demanding prompt medical attention.

To Relieve Corns.

A very old-fashioned way to relieve corns is to apply a poultice of bread and milk or bread and water before retiring, and in the morning the corn can be taken off with the finger nail. It is dangerous to try and pare corns with a sharp knife or razor, and old wives say that if pared with the finger nails the corns will not grow so quickly. Another method is to dip a crumb in lemon juice and apply it to the exact center of the corn; some try this mode with a crumb and acetic acid, and it is effectual, but care has to be taken not to injure the surrounding skin.

How the Sealshipt Oyster System Insures Oysters at their Best

Through a perfect organization—the Sealshipt System—Sealshipt oysters are shipped straight to us from Atlantic Coast and Gulf beds. Every mile of the journey under refrigeration—every mile under seal. And the seal which is put on at the seaside is broken only when the shipment reaches our stores.

The Sealshipt System as perfected today provides safety and satisfaction in oyster buying never known before. So truly protective is it that the United States Government has recently enacted an oyster law based in effect on the Sealshipt System of handling oysters.

The Sealshipt System safeguards the growing, the packing, the shipping and selling of oysters. Besides being under the supervision of State and Federal Government, the waters where Sealshipt Oysters are grown are analyzed by the Lederle Laboratories—the famous food experts.

Thus Sealshipt Oysters are protected at every move from oyster beds to you.

Sealshipt Oysters

Packed in the Prime of Their Freshness

The plants of the Sealshipt Oyster System are directly on the oyster beds. So the oysters are packed the day they are dredged. They are packed just as you get them from us—fresh and delicious—with the tang and zest of the sea.

Sealshipt Oysters are shipped in patented, air-tight Sealshiptors—perfect shipping refrigerators—which keep the oysters at a uniform degree of coldness in transit.

Sealshipt Oysters are all solid oyster meat—no water, no waste—hence their vast economy.

The Sealshipt price is the standard of oyster value. When you pay less, you get less.

DAY TRAINS ON BRANCHES

North Dakota Railroad Commission Orders Roads to Observe the Law.

Takes This Action After Hearing Complaints at Grand Forks Meet.

Grand Forks, N. D., Oct. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Orders were promulgated by the state board of railroad commissioners at its meeting here yesterday, compelling all railroads in the state to operate a daily passenger service over all branch lines, as provided by law. Mixed trains, however, may be used on some lines, but one train must run each way each day.

Tillman D. Smith of Upham appeared before the commission on behalf of Upham and several other cities, stating that the action of of the railroad in establishing a tri-weekly service on that line was not entirely satisfactory. Since the establishment of the tri-weekly service the several towns interested lodged a complaint with the state board, which was the result that the daily service was again established.

It was then asked by the Upham people, as well as others interested, that the board issue an order in the matter, being of the opinion that the action of the railroad in putting on a daily train again might be only temporary. Accordingly a resolution was passed affecting the entire state.

State Has Law on Matter.

The state has a law compelling the operation of trains daily, and it is under the terms of this provision that the state commission took its action.

Prosecutions of elevator men in the state who have failed to redeem storage tickets may be the outcome of an investigation instituted by the commission following the receipt of a complaint from farmers in several localities. It appears that the elevators have either failed or been closed up for other causes, and that the holders of storage tickets have failed to realize on them. This led to a complaint being laid with the railroad commission, and definite action in the matter may be expected within a very short time.

ACCIDENT TAKES A YOUNG FATHER

Is Killed at Putnam, N. D., While Engaged in Unloading Logs.

Shafer, N. D., Oct. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—While unloading logs from a wagon, Ernest Putman, aged 22 years, was instantly killed, one of the logs falling on him and breaking his neck. He leaves a wife with two children, the youngest of whom was born only three weeks ago. The young man resided at Maynard, but had removed here only recently to prove up on a claim.

At the coroner's inquest a verdict of accidental death was returned.

WELCOME WET WEATHER.

Red Lake County Farmers Glad Dry Spell Is Broken.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Oct. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The dry season has finally been broken by a heavy rain which visited the northern part of the state Wednesday and Thursday. The meadows have been dangerously dry all summer and fall and the farmers have been subject to much loss from grass fires which consumed much of their hay.

Hundreds of stacks have burned and not a few barns and other farm property have been destroyed.

Fall plowing has been greatly retarded also by the dry condition of the soil and as many as six horses are often seen on one gang plow, where in other seasons not more than four are necessary to do the work. Still a large amount of plowing has been accomplished, as the weather has been ideal for out-of-door work. It is predicted that the crops next season will eclipse anything ever secured in the valley, as a dry season is invariably followed by a bumper crop the next summer.

Rain Extinguishes Fires.

Bemidji, Oct. 20.—Mayor John C. Parker has issued a warning that any person setting a bonfire within the city limits will be arrested and prosecuted. A heavy rain Friday night did much toward quenching the fires which were burning in all directions. The rain came just in time to put out fires in the White Earth district which had destroyed 300,000 feet of logs cut by W. T. Blakley of this city for the Wild Rice Lumber company. Mr. Blakley also lost several sets of logging sleighs.

ONE DOSE MAKES INDIGESTION GO

Heartburn, Gas, Headaches and Other Stomach Misery Vanishes.

If your meals don't fit comfortably, or you feel bloated after eating and you believe it is the food which fills you; if what little you eat lies like a lump of lead on your stomach; if there is difficulty in breathing after eating, eructations of sour, undigested food and acid, heartburn, brash or a belching of gas, you can make up your mind that you need something to stop food fermentation and cure Indigestion.

To make every bite of food you eat aid in the nourishment and strength of your body, you must rid your Stomach of poisons, excessive acid and stomach gas which sours your entire meal—interferes with digestion and causes so many sufferers of Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Biliousness, Constipation, Griping, etc. Your case is no different—you are a stomach sufferer, though you may call it by some other name; your real and only trouble is that which you eat does not digest, but quickly ferments and sours, producing almost any unhealthy condition.

A case of Pape's Diapepsin will cost fifty cents at any Pharmacy here, and will convince any stomach sufferer five minutes after taking a single dose that Fermentation and Sour Stomach is causing the misery of Indigestion.

No matter if you call your trouble Catarrh of the Stomach, Nervousness or Gastritis, or by any other name—always remember that a certain cure is waiting at any drug store the moment you decide to begin its use.

Pape's Diapepsin will regulate any out-of-order Stomach within five minutes, and digest promptly, without any fuss or discomfort all of any kind of food you eat.

MINOT WONDERS WHO TOOK BEER

Contraband Held as Evidence By Authorities Cannot Be Found.

Minot, N. D., Oct. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The question of who stole a quantity of beer, already before the board of city commissioners at two hearings, one of them behind closed doors, has proved somewhat interesting, especially since about 300 citizens were barred from hearing the evidence that was being submitted.

Last spring when Minot was undergoing a session at housecleaning, a large quantity of beer that had been confiscated was stored in the city hall under lock and key. Recently President Arthur Le Seuer of the city commission discovered that a portion of the beer was missing, and an inquiry followed.

The investigations, it is claimed, have been directed especially against certain members of the police force, and that fact has served to give the case added interest. A crew of plumbers who did some work recently in the city hall are also up for examination by the commission, so that the question is one that is decidedly mixed.

BEST MANNER OF PLANTING TUBERS

Experiments Conducted at Williston, N. D., Experiment Station Show Much.

Williston, N. D., Oct. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Potato growing experiments conducted at the Williston experimental station by F. R. Babcock, detailed by the department of agriculture to carry on such work, were immensely successful and a statement of the results achieved has been made public by Mr. Babcock. The statement covers the experiments of two years and has to do with the depth of planting, the width apart and other conditions. The experiments were carried on under the dry farming method.

For two years the average yields of the potatoes planted different depths favored the planting at about four inches.

The closest planting yielded the largest number of bushels per acre, while the wider apart planting produced a better and larger quality. From this fact Mr. Babcock draws the conclusion that in the average dry year, potatoes should be given considerable space to get the best results. The figures showing the yield at various distances are interesting. The rows were placed three and four feet apart, while the hills are also shown at different distances apart.

YOUNG CALDWELL'S BODY IS LOCATED

Evidently Stabbed to Death and Indians Are Blamed for Crime.

Nothome, Minn., Oct. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Evidences of another Minnesota murder have just come to light in the finding near Sand Lake, twenty miles southeast of here, of the body of John Caldwell, who has been missing since Sunday, bearing wounds indicating he was stabbed to death. The murderer or the motive are not clearly established.

It is not known positively who committed the crime, but several Indians living in the vicinity of Sand Lake are suspected of having had something to do with it. Young Caldwell was about 25 years old and lived with his parents on a farm in Pinetop township ten miles east of here.

INDORSE BURKE AT DEVILS LAKE

Citizens in Mass Meeting Praise Executive and Attorney General.

Devils Lake, N. D., Oct. 20.—A big mass meeting of the law and order element of the people of Devils Lake was held Tuesday evening in the court house and in the course of their deliberations touching the enforcement of the prohibition laws in this city passed a resolution endorsing Governor John Burke and Attorney General Miller for their attitude in regard to the situation here.

The meeting was the result of a conference some days ago between the clergymen of the city. They concluded to call a meeting for the formation of a law and order league, and at such meetings signed testimonials endorsing the attitude of the governor and the attorney general. When the meeting was called to order in the court house there were about 100 citizens in attendance, and the number was about equally divided as to Democrats and progressive Republicans. There was one lone representative of the stalwart-blind pig element in the audience. Fred W. Mann was the presiding officer. The various phases of the subject were discussed at length, some of the speakers being: Attorney Traynor, Siver Serumgard, Geer and Brennan, Judge Dueil, Joseph M. Kelly, Clark W. Kelly, C. F. Burgess and Rev. Bailey. A committee was appointed to draft resolutions looking to the formation of a permanent organization to be known as the Civic league of Devils Lake, and a motion was made endorsing the present state administration for their stand in endeavoring to maintain law and order, and for their determined efforts to stamp out the evils which have for some time affronted the better citizens of Devils Lake.

SHIP CABBAGES TO THIS PLACE

Carload Is Forwarded By Progressive Sandstone Farmers' Club.

Sandstone, Minn., Oct. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first car of cabbage was loaded here Wednesday by the members of the Progressive Farmers' club for shipment to the Producers' Co-operative Market association in Duluth, of which the local club is a member. Some of the heads weigh fifteen pounds. Although the season has been a dry one, the farmers are not losing anything by it as cabbage, for instance, which brought $6 a ton last year, brings about $40 this year, and other vegetables have likewise risen enough in price to give the producer a neat profit, if the quantity is smaller.

The club can also boast of raising some good sized potatoes and many are averaging from one to two pounds. Another car of cabbage will be loaded Saturday and later on some potatoes will also be shipped by the club to the Duluth market.

IS GIVEN INTEREST IN IRON PROPERTY

Milwaukee Woman Declared Part Owner of Maas Mine Near Negaunee.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 20.—By a decision handed down by Judge Denison in the United States district court, Mrs. Margaretha Lonstorf of this city is entitled to one-third of the half interest in the lands comprising the Maas iron mine, Negaunee, Marquette county, Mich. This had been reserved by her nephew, George J. Maas, under his lease of the acreage to the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company.

Maas is ordered to pay Mrs. Lonstorf one-third of the royalties received from the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company, less expense, or $12,099.94. Maas has appealed to the United States court of appeals, which has refused to review the case until an accounting of the royalties received from the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company is made.

Maas, his mother and his aunt were partners in the exploration of the Negaunee mineral lands, the women sharing the expense. In Jan. 1901, the Cleveland-Cliffs company paid $610,000 for a half interest in the land for ninety-nine years, at a royalty of from 5 to 10 cents a ton, the minimum royalty to be $10,000 a year.

Mrs. Lonstorf's son, George, who has acted for her in the case, first discovered in 1903 that in making the deal with the mining company, Maas had reserved a one-half interest in the fee. Although Mrs. Lonstorf had accepted $100,000 as her one-third of the proceeds of the deal, her son began suit for title to one-third interest in the fee, a half interest in the fee received by Maas and an accounting of the royalties paid to defendant.

NOTABLE CATHOLIC EVENT AT GRAND FORKS NOV. 15.

Grand Forks, N. D., Oct. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—By a peculiar coincidence, the date fixed upon the opening of a fair for St. Bernard's academy here is also the day on which Mother Superior Stanislaus of the institution celebrates the fiftieth anniversary of her sisterhood. Nov. 15 is the date and it promises to be a big one in the history of St. Bernard's, which only a few years ago celebrated its twenty-fifth anniversary. Great plans are being made for the observance of Mother Stanislaus' anniversary and Catholics from all over the northern part of the state will take a part in it.

EAU CLAIRE JUDGE REFUSES DIETZS BAIL.

Eau Claire, Wis., Oct. 20.—Bail was refused John F. Dietz, Mrs. Dietz and their son Leslie yesterday by Judge Wickham. They arrived in charge of Sheriff Madden and Deputy Ackley from Hayward late in the afternoon and were taken directly to the courthouse.

Attorney Rubin asked bail for the Dietz family, but the judge declined to act as no record of the preliminary proceedings was presented, and he had not acquired jurisdiction. Date for a further hearing was set for next Wednesday at Hayward. The prisoners remained here over night.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Menominee—The suit of John Zoratsky against the Milwaukee & St. Paul railway probably will be settled out of court. The young man, who was injured in a wreck at Hilbert Junction, secured a judgment of $6,000 against the railroad company, but an appeal was entered by the company. It is now said that a settlement is at hand.

Ontonagon—A family reunion of the family of Louis Des Armiers of Ontonagon was held the first of last week. The family has not been together before in over twenty-three years and some of the family have not seen one another in this length of time, while other members have been absent for seven years.

Houghton — The Houghton high school football team moved into second place in the race for the pennant by defeating the Calumet highs last Saturday at the driving park. The game killed Calumet's championship hopes and left Houghton and Hancock to fight it out alone.

Calumet—The annual meeting of the Calumet Associated Charities will be held Tuesday evening, Nov. 1, in the Y. M. C. A. The call for the meeting was made by the board of directors.

Houghton—Contractor C. S. Davis of Houghton has been awarded the contract for the erection of a church edifice 30x50 feet for the Episcopal congregation at South Range. A large number of the members of this church are Italians and the organization is started under the direction of Rev. A. Anastasi, formerly of Calumet, but now connected with the Episcopal church.

Ontonagon—Ira Mitchell, superintendent of the logging operations of the Diamond Lumber company operating in Ontonagon county, has started one crew of men at work and is preparing to open other camps. The mill at Green Bay is cutting 130,000 feet of lumber per day and expects to run all winter.

Calumet—At a meeting of the directors of the Calumet State bank Monday afternoon, the resignation of Charles Anderson was received and acted upon and Geurino Martini, the Fifth street liquor merchant, was elected to fill the vacancy.

Marquette—Archie R. Davidson, a "trusty" employed at the prison barn, outside the wall of the penitentiary, disappeared Tuesday night. A reward of $25 is offered for his return to the institution. Davidson, who had been sleeping in the barn, was seen there at 9:30 a'clock. The man was sent up from Bay county in 1906 for a term of five to seven years. He had been convicted of burglary.

Negaunee—At both services last Sunday morning Rev. Charles Langner, pastor of St. Paul's church announced that those who own lots in the old cemetery will be given lots in the new burial grounds, which are soon to be consecrated, in exchange for them. He read a list of those owning lots.

Marquette—George Uhler of Washington, D. C., head of the United States steamboat inspection service, was in Marquette Monday talking over official matters with Local Inspectors Goulding and York. Mr. Uhler was accompanied by C. H. Westcott of Detroit, supervisor of this district. It was Mr. Uhler's first visit to Marquette.

Laurium—Pang Woon Foo, a Laurium Chinese laundryman, was arrested Monday night at Mill Mine Junction on the Copper Range railroad by Deputy Sheriff Thomas Gibson, just after Foo had purchased a ticket to Chicago. The man is wanted on a statutory charge in Laurium and he had been under cover for a week.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Denhoff, N. D.—Little time will be lost by the business men of Denhoff in the reconstruction of the several buildings that were destroyed several days ago by fire. Plans are already being laid for the work and some of the new buildings will be in course of construction within the next few days.

Fargo, N. D.—At a meeting of the directors of the new Scandinavian-American Bank of Fargo Monday evening the president and vice president of the bank were selected. Halver A. Hagen of Abercrombie was elected president and R. O. Belland was elected vice president.

Jamestown, N. D.—W. J. Lane of Fargo, a member of the board of trustees of Jamestown college, stopped on his way home from synod to look over the new buildings. He was greatly delighted with them.

Omemee, N. D.—The affairs of the Omemee Milling company have been placed in the hands of a receiver and N. P. Maakestad has been named as such official. The company has not been a glittering success financially, although the plant is well equipped with up-to-date machinery and the location is conceded to be a good one.

Fargo, N. D.—One of the most unique calendars that has been seen in Fargo for some time is the one that has just been prepared for Fargo and Moorhead Masons. The calendar is so prepared to bring out and emphasize the meetings of the different organizations of the Masonic lodge during the year.

Grand Forks, N. D.—John Clayton, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Clayton, 622 North Sixth street, died at 2 o'clock Tuesday morning. The child was but 9 months of age. The funeral services will be held at the home Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. J. K. Burleson officiating.

Mandan, N. D.—Senator W. E. Purcell delivered a very able and eloquent address on state and national issues at the opera house in this city Monday night. He had an audience of about 400 people and was enthusiastically received by his hearers.

Fargo, N. D.—John Jols, who was arrested Sunday for stealing a watch from the residence of E. A. Tullis, where he had been working, was in police court Tuesday and on being read the charge pleaded guilty and was held to the county court on a bond of $200, which he was unable to give.

Minot, N. D.—This city is defendant in an action for $2,500 damages. T. C. Peterson, the plaintiff, charges that the construction of a sewer with an outlet into the river on his property, unprotected, entitles him to the amount he asks.

Antler, N. D.—The residence of Victor Moody, a farmer residing near here, was completely destroyed by fire. The flames had their origin in an overheated stove, and they had such a good start that none of the building's contents were saved.

Grafton, N. D.—Argument over some matters connected with the administration of the affairs of the Polish church at Minto led to the arrest of Joseph Czaplewski on a charge of using profane language in the presence of women and children. When arraigned in justice court he entered a plea of guilty and received a sentence of thirty days in jail and a fine of $50.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Milwaukee—Thirteen children from two families were committed to the Home for Dependent Children Tuesday by Judge Karel, sitting in juvenile court, when testimony was offered tending to show that the parents were not the proper persons to care for them.

Lake Mills—Miss Hattie Krueger, aged 20 years, disappeared from the home in which she was working about 5 o'clock Tuesday morning and many persons hunted for her until 9 o'clock in the afternoon, when her body was found by her cousin, Robert Roehl, about six rods from the lake shore at the foot of Lake street.

Reesville—Calvin E. Baker, many years assistant in the high school here, is dead of Bright's disease and paralysis. Mr. Baker was born and reared in the town of Lowell, taught school for many years, was elected to many offices, and was one of the enumerators to take the last census. He served in the village council and was president of the school board for several years.

Neenah—Mr. and Mrs. John Hercher of this city were thrown out of a rig when their horses ran away, after being frightened by an automobile. Their injuries are serious. The accident happened near Park Falls, where Mr. Hercher has a paper mill.

Stevens Point—Jacob Childs, a resident of this city for ten years and who had lived in Amherst previously since 1845, is dead. He was 93 years old. For many years he owned and managed one of the largest apiaries in Central Wisconsin, retiring only a year ago. Interment was on Wednesday in Amherst.

Ashland—Locally, the supreme court decision on the 20 per cent law, will make no difference as to the result. The Republican county ticket, from Berg, the Republican nominee for the assembly, to Sollie, the nominee for coroner, would have been elected by a very large majority, even though there had been a regular Democratic ticket in the field.

Fond du Lac—A modern brick structure probably will be erected on the site of the old Turner hall, destroyed by fire Monday. Members of the Turn Verein said that the new hall probably would be erected through the united efforts of all the German societies. The loss on the old building is $12,000, with $6,000 insurance.

Madison—An order reducing the freight rate on brewers' grains from La Crosse to Troy Center and neighboring points from 12½ cents to 10 cents was made Tuesday by the Wisconsin railroad commission in the case of Hottelet against the Milwaukee road.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Brainerd—Judge of Probate J. T. Sanborn Monday married Ed Johnson and Miss Katie Kaijala, both of Cuyuna. The bridesmaid was Miss Sophia Hill and the best man was a brother of the bride, Thomas Kaijala. The groom has been employed several years as a miner at the Kennedy mine.

Little Falls—The last cake of ice in the Trebby Ice company's ice houses has been consumed and the company is now without frozen moisture. At present ice is being secured by Mr. Trebby from the Union Provision company as that company has on hand a greater supply than will be needed before the river freezes over.

Moorhead—At a meeting of the board of education Monday evening, the taxes for school purposes for the coming year were levied. The budget for the year calls for $25,530, and the estimated receipts aside from the special taxes, amount to $7,200.

Aitkin—D. M. Falconer has taken the contract to move Charles Benson's store at Deerwood from the present location facing the Northern Pacific road to the business street north. It is a double front building and will be moved with the stock of goods in it and business will be continued during the work. In addition to moving the building 200 feet it must be turned completely around.

Bemidji—Work began Tuesday on Bemidji's new jail which with the remodeling of the city hall is to be done by H. F. Bosworth at a total cost of $5,490. The contracts for the work were awarded at a meeting of the city council Monday evening.

Crookston—There is much interest in the coming wrestling watch between Ed Ober, the Scandinavian middleweight champion, and Henry Abar, at the Auditorium, next Friday night. Ober stipulating to throw Abar twice in an hour.

Winona—Charles Bryam, one of the best known engineers in the employ of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad, is dead at his home at Savanna, Ill., as the result of an accident in his engine cab at Fox River tower early Monday morning.

Stillwater—Saturday next will be tag day in Stillwater for the benefit of the city hospital building fund. The women board of managers proposes to make it a record day. The ladies appeal to all the people to help along the worthy cause.

Fergus Falls—An ordinance introduced some time ago to prohibit the cutting of ice in the river at any point below the Mt. Faith avenue bridge was given its final reading at the city council meeting Monday evening, but when placed on its final passage, it was defeated.

Crokston—J. D. Chubbuck, organizer for the Minnesota State Federation of Labor, announces that the plumbers of the city have organized and will order a charter in a few days as will also the sheet metal workers. Monday evening the teamsters met informally and will meet again to organize Friday evening.

Feeding and Eating

"In recent physiological studies of the alimentary canal the importance of emotional states to normal digestion has received striking confirmation . . . Pawlow's well-known observations showed the importance of appetite and a relish for food in starting the secretions of the stomach." — W. B. Cannon, M. D., in American Journal of the Medical Sciences.

TO digest a meal and get the full benefit of it, it must be relished.

The finest meal, taken while you have a "grouch" or are under nervous or emotional strain, will not "set" well. A plain meal, taken in conditions that make you enjoy it, will agree with you. Hunger and appetite must both be appeased. They are nature's guides to our proper nutrition.

Does an animal or man eat or drink because he has an abstr act opinion that his body needs so much albumen to repair tissue and so much carbon to supply heat or energy? Or does he eat bec ause he is hungry, and drink because he is thirsty?

In other words, does he not eat and drink because he likes it?

Good beer helps you to enjoy a meal.

It is therefore a valuable aid to digestion, besides containing some food itself.

IT'S YOUR KIDNEYS.

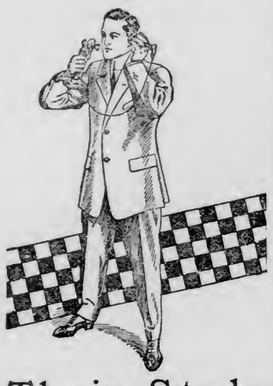

Don't Mistake the Cause of Your Troubles. A Duluth Citizen Shows How to Cure Them.

Many people never suspect their kidneys. If suffering from a lame, weak or aching back they think that it is only a muscular weakness; when urinary trouble sets in they think it will soon correct itself. And so it is with all the other symptoms of kidney disorders. That is just where the danger lies. You must cure these troubles or they may lead to diabetes or Bright's disease. The best remedy to use is Doan's Kidney Pills. It cures all ills which are caused by weak or diseased kidneys. Duluth people testify to permanent cures.

William Bain, 1402 East Fourth street, Duluth, Minn., says: "About three years ago I was in poor health as the result of disordered kidneys. My back also ached considerably. As I had heard and read a great deal about Doan's Kidney Pills, I made up my mind to try them and I procured a supply. After I had used two or three boxes, I was relieved and I have not had to take any medicine for my kidneys since. I am glad to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to other kidney sufferers."

This Week's Sunday School Lesson

WRITTEN FOR THE HERALD BY REV. J. S. KIRTLEY, D. D.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON: OCT. 23.

Review of the Quarter.

FOREWORD.

This quarter is more than a quarter, by several Sundays. So we can have a longer look backwards and we see the Master in many a critical and significant situation. We cover a period of almost two years.

1. PICTURES.—In Matthew xiii., from which the first lesson comes, we find a succession of "Pictures of the Kingdom." Joseph Parker calls this chapter the picture gallery of the church. Here are fine pictures of the Master's kingdom, His dominion as king, each with a special illumination. It works expansively from its very small beginnings, like a grain of mustard seed, to its all embracing largeness like the plant that grows so big from that same seed in the East. That kingdom grows intensively, finally permeating and vitalizing all that come under its sway, as the leaven spreads through the meal, in which it has been placed. Its values are so great that they give a joy for which all things may be surrendered, as a man sold all his property in order to get possession of a field which had some treasures stored away. It is so desirable that one should seek first the kingdom of God, like searching for the most perfect gem, and sacrifice everything for it. It is so powerful that it influences all kinds of men and so discriminating that it discerns the bad, like useless fish, and throws them away. Its resources are so complete that one who understands them, can find all the treasures of the past and present and future in them, "things old and new." One who is under the sway of Jesus is in that kingdom.

Question: Are you under Christ's sway and therefore in His kingdom?

2. DEITY.—There came a time when Jesus was anxious that His apostles should definitely know Him as their divine Savior. He had been letting them hear what He said and see what He did and feel what He was, and reach their own conclusions, without any further help from Him. Now He wants them to say it out. He had lost His popular following and was devoting Himself to training them. He felt the agony of the coming cross and He wanted to clarify and crystalize their views of Him. He draws them out by the two questions. Matt. xvi., 13-28. In reply Peter told Him that the people had traced resemblances in Him to all the great prophets, and that he, Peter, knew Him to be the Messiah, the Son of the living God. Jesus was comforted at the thought that He was more fully understood and that they were committed to Him. It was a great step in advance. He is now ready to give them, through Peter, the new task of authoritatively making known the terms of salvation, or entrance into His kingdom and to give them some new and startling truths.

Question: Have you confessed to Christ that He is your Christ and Savior?

3. TRANSFIGURED.—That was a wonderful experience of Christ (Matt. xvii., 1-18) when a section of heaven was cut out and brought to the top of Mt. Hermon, with glorious light and two of its inhabitants, and took Jesus in and let all the pent-up glory shine, unobstructed, from Him for a little while. It heartened Him at a time of great stress. They let Him know that heaven was interested in what He was doing and that He was completing what they had begun, fulfilling the law that Moses gave, and answering to the prophecies of Elijah and all the prophets. Three disciples were allowed to see it, the three who would get most good out of it and do most good with it. It gave them a new estimate of Him; gave them instruction at a critical time. It was a preparation for work and there was work awaiting them at the foot of the mountain, in the person of the demoniac boy. They were so full of the ecstasy of their mountain-top experience that they wanted to make it a permanent sort of spiritual picnic.

Question: What have you done with the rare experiences Jesus has given you?

4. HINDRANCES.—On His way up to Jerusalem to attend that fatal Passover in April, A. D. 30 (Matt. xix., 1-26), He found some things that distressed Him, for they were hindrances to the salvation of others. We are glad that He did not fail to see them, for He said things that are now doing us good. The disciples put hindrances in the way of the little children as they were brought to Him for His blessing and He, in turn, rebuked them, in words that have lived in our hearts ever since, as He told us we must have the spirit of childhood, or we are lost. A charming young man allowed his riches to come in between him and his salvation and Jesus told them those searching words that we need to hear today about the seductive fascination of riches.

Question: Are you allowing anything to stand between you and Christ?

5. WORKERS.—The Master wants men to work for Him, beginning early and working late (Matt. xx., 1-16). But He will take those who enter late. He pays for all we do. He gives salvation free. He rewards us for our work. He will never pay less than He promises, sometimes more. Those who think mostly of the awards are not apt to get more than they are promised. Those who leave it to His kindness and fairness will get more than they deserve, for He will reward the faith as well as the work.

Question: How much dead time has accumulated on your hands?

6. JEALOUSY.—As they were nearing Jerusalem (Matt. xx., 17-34) we would think they would not be thinking so much about getting the highest gifts in His kingdom. That James and John and their mother should do so and then try to get Him to promise in advance is hardly credible, after what He had taught them. In reply Jesus gives them and us the true principle of living, serving instead of being served, and He, Himself, was the perfect instance of it. The healing of the blind men was a commonplace and may be forgotten, but we must not forget the way to be greatest.

Question: To what extent are you living by the principle of serving?

7. TRIUMPH.—It was only in form, as He entered Jerusalem that Sunday morning, April 2, A. D. 30 (Matt. xxi., 1-17). He was doing His duty and proclaiming Himself their king and in the way the prophets foretold. But it was not the way they wanted. When He wept at sight of the recreant city they took it for weakness and their ardor was cooled. They felt His power again in cleansing the temple, as He had done three years before. He won the applause of the children.

Question: Are you willing to have Him reign over you in His meekness and might?

8. JUDGMENT.—In those two parables of judgment (xxi., 33-46) He lets them see the lightning flash and hear the roll of thunder. He impaled them on the horns of the dilemma and then showed their murderous hatred of God and God's messengers.

Question: Have you been true to tasks and privileges?

9. VIOLENCE.—His invitations to them had been like the kindly effort of a great king to get his people to enjoy the well prepared marriage feast of his son. They spurned him and his servants. He is as determined as he is hospitable and gathers all who will come (xxii., 1-14). He is exact as can be and deals thoroughly with the one who despises the laws of the feast. God is self-respecting and cannot be mistreated.

Question: Is your joyfulness due to carelessness?

10. VICTORY.—It was a continuous victory over His enemies in their controversies (xxii., 15-22, 34-46). In these three questions He brings out the supreme character of love and shows their cowardice and falseness and ignorance, for He was both Son and Lord of David.

Question: Have you any recourse in your warfare against Jesus?

11. TEMPERANCE.—Our lesson from Galatians (v., 15-26) gives us temperance in its broadness. Several questions are in order. How much does our nation lose in collecting licenses for the sale of liquor? How many men are disabled every year by liquor? How many homes blighted? How many hearts broken? How many lives ruined?

HALF MILLION FUND FOR CORRUPTION AT ALBANY

Sensational Stories Are Told at Hearing in New York.

Foelker and Elder Are Witnesses---$50,000 for One Vote.

New York, Oct. 20.—Representative Otto G. Foelker, the man who was carried into the senate chamber to cast the deciding vote for the anti-race track gambling bills urged by Governor Hughes, told the Merritt joint legislative committee yesterday the details of an alleged attempt in 1908 by Former State Senator Frank J. Gardner, who is now under arrest, to buy his vote.

Robert Elder, first assistant district attorney of Kings county (Brooklyn), repeated a conversation which he said he had with Gardner in March last, and which previously had been referred to as a "confession." Mr. Elder did not vouch for the truth of what he repeated, but he gave, for what it might be worth, testimony that involved more names of men now living and names of men higher in social, business and political life, coupled with the distribution of bigger sums of money, than anything yet heard in either the Allds hearing, or any of the previous sessions of the present committee of inquiry.

Half Million for Corruption.

The narrative created a sensation. Briefly, it told of a dinner at Delmonico's of prominent men friendly to the race tracks, of $500,000 subscribed to a corruption fund, of the distribution of this fund to politicians and to well-known political correspondents at Albany of the New York newspapers, and of the secret grievance of the late Senator Patrick McCarren that he worked for the passage of the bill against his own wishes and his own associates.

"In the month of March," testified Mr. Elder, "I sent for Gardner through his lawyer, who wanted to know what for. I told him for a personal chat and shortly afterwards Gardner came to my private office. I told him I wanted to know about the efforts made at Albany to defeat the race track bills. I told him that I had indictments against certain men and that his information might help.

What Gardner Said.

"Finally Gardner said: 'I don't mind telling you that there was a meeting at Delmonico's at which money was subscribed.' He mentioned the names of several men who were there, including members of the Metropolitan Turf association and the book-makers. He said that among the men there—that I remember—were James R. Keene, David Mitchell, Mr. Parsons, Harry Payne Whitney and Charles H. Hyde."

Charles H. Hyde is now chamberlain of New York city and was formerly a law partner of Mayor Gaynor. James R. Keene is the well known racing man and market operator. Mr. Parsons was not further identified."

"He (Gardner)" continued Mr. Elder, "showed there was a dispute about who should handle the money. Finally he said $125,000 was given to James Gaffney to take care of three or four members of the legislature Tammany men."

James C. Gaffney is president of the Gaffney Construction company, which has handled many municipal contracts.

Said Grady Got $4,000.

"I asked him the total amount of this fund," the witness resumed, "and he said, 'Oh, considerable.' I told him that I had heard $300,000. He said if I had guessed $500,000 I would have been nearer the mark. Of this sum he said Senator Grady got only $4,000 and I might imagine what the others got.

"Senator McCarren, he said, was angry because he did not have the handling of the fund and because a strange man was going up there, expecting to get away with such a proposition. He attributed the passage of the bill to McCarren's displeasure. McCarren was secretly in favor of the bill, he said, and wanted to be revenged because he had not been consulted."

Then came mention of the press.

"He, (Gardner)," resumed Mr. Elder, "said the newspaper men were liberally taken care of out of the fund."

Newspaper Men in It.

Asked for the names of the men Mr. Elder said:

"I recall he said a man named Joe McEntee of the Sun got $3,000, that Patrick Reilhan of the Press got $3,000, that Louis Seibold of the World got $3,000, George Gandr'n of the Brooklyn Citizen, $3,000, and Tyrell of the Brooklyn Eagle, $3,000. He said the Times man of Brooklyn got $300.

After Mr. Elder finished his testimony, George Tyrell, secretary to Comptroller Prendergast and until Jan. 1 the Albany correspondent of the Brooklyn Eagle, took the stand and testified that Gardner had offered him $300 at Albany and how he had declined it.

Just before adjournment was taken, Mr. Bruce, counsel for the committee, said:

"I do not state that these newspaper gentlemen accepted the money, but I shall afford them full opportunity to tell their stories."

Said Foelker Got $10,000.

"I asked about Foelker," continued the witness, picking up another thread. "He said Foelker had taken $10,000 to vote against the bill and then had voted for it anyway. He said:

"'You know Foelker was a sick man and we had a scheme to bring him to Albany and have three doctors there pronounce him too sick to go to the senate, But Canon Chase stuck so close to him that the scheme fell through.'"

Further questions brought out the name of the late Eugene Wood, smirched in the Allds' investigation, as also present at the meeting at Delmonico's.

Before Mr. Gardner testified Representative Foelker told how he had been told to "name his own price." He had been approached, he said, by both Gardner and Frederick Schroeder—formerly quarantine commissioner, now serving sentence in Sing Sing for larceny—and as high as $50,000 had been offered for his vote.

Mrs. Gardner, who formerly was May Yerbey, an actress, listened to her husband's quizzing by the commission and his refusal to answer.

She took it philosophically.

"If one marries a politician," she said, "one must expect unpleasant things to happen now and then."

HEAR TALKS ON MISSION WORK

Delegates to Congregational Council Also Addressed By Negro.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 20.—The call of the missionary field to the young man, the progress made by the colored race, and the prospects for further development of the negro under missionary endeavor were discussed at last night's meetings of the American Missionary association in connection with the conference of the National Council of Congregational Churches. Booker T. Washington, principal of Tuskegee intstitute, said:

"The two months which I have recently spent in Europe in observing the conditions and the prospects of the people who are farthest down, convinces me that the task before this association in uplifting the millions of negroes of this country has many more helpful elements in it than I found in Southern Europe in relation to the uplift of backward classes in that country."

Religion and Civilization.

Speaking broadly of the mission fields, the problems presented in various countries and the incentive to young men to enter into the work, Talcott Williams of Philadelphia said:

"You can have religion without civilization, as in Russia. You can have civilization without religion, as in France. You can even have civilization and a religion, bounded and determined by law and government regulation, as in Germany. But if you wish religion and civilization, inseparate, independent, mutually aiding each other, each living its own life, each giving strength to the other, you can only have it, and it only exists today in the English-speaking lands, under Protestant ideals, where a free church and a free state leave to every creed freedom, to all men liberty, and to each man the possibility and opportunity of faith."

President Cyrus Northrop of the University of Minnesota, the concluding speaker of the evening, discussed principally the work among the negroes and the poor whites of the South.

Western Union Re-elects Officers.

New York, Oct. 20.—Robert C. Clowry, president of the Western Union Telegraph company, was re-elected yesterday. All the other officers were also re-elected.

CLAIMS THAT HE ROBBED AN OKLAHOMA BANK.

New Orleans, La., Oct. 20.—A young man giving his name as A. J. Summerfield, walked into the office of the United States marshal here late yesterday and announced that he had robbed the Merchants' National Bank of Lehigh, Okla., of which he was cashier, of $3,500. He said he could stand the strain of being a fugitive no longer. Summerfield went to Lehigh a few years ago from Charles City, Iowa, he said.

DYNAMITE IS FOUND NEAR CAPITALIST'S HOUSE.

Portland, Or., Oct. 20.—Six sticks of dynamite and thirty feet of fuse have been found in a house adjoining the magnificent home of Charles K. Henry, a capitalist and real estate operator of this city. Mr. Henry is an ardent advocate of the "open shop."

YOUNG MOTHERS

The greatest crisis in a woman's life is when first she becomes a mother. All the physical strength of her nature is demanded at such times, and it is necessary that her system be thoroughly prepared for the event, in order that her health be preserved for future years. Mother's Friend is woman's safest reliance; it is a medicine for external use, composed of oils and other ingredients which assist nature in all necessary physical changes of the system. Its regular use before the coming of baby prepares the muscles and tendons for the unusual strain, aids in expanding the skin and flesh fibres, and strengthens all the membranes and tissues. Mother's Friend lessens the pain and danger at the crisis, and leaves the mother in such healthful condition that her recovery is always rapid and natural. Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. Write for our free book for expectant mothers.

MAKING IT CLEAR.

The local organ of reaction and Republicanism—it is working unconsciously to prove that they are one and the same thing—has succeeded, after great labor, in making its position clear on the political issues of the day.

It has explained very carefully that it is for certain candidates and against certain other candidates, and why it is for those whom it supports and against those whom it opposes.

It is for Adolph Olson Eberhart for governor, and against James Gray for governor, and its reasons are that Eberhart is a Republican and Gray a Democrat.

It is for Clarence B. Miller for congress and against Alfred Jaques for congress, and its reasons are that Miller is a Republican and Jaques a Democrat.

It is for George R. Laybourn for state senator from the Fifty-first district and against Harry Cheadle for state senator from that district, and its reasons are that Laybourn is a Republican and Cheadle a Democrat.

And the funny thing about it is that it seems to expect that these reasons, so abundantly sufficient to itself, are enough to persuade the voters in this year of enlightenment.

IT SHOULD BE DISCUSSED.

The Lakeside club tomorrow night is going to discuss the city's tax rate, and that's an encouraging sign. The tendency to look upon high tax rates as necessary evils, and to let the tax-levying officials have their will without public discussion, is too strong in Duluth, as it is in many other communities.

Not only should the Lakeside club discuss this important subject, but the West Duluth Commercial club, the Duluth Commercial club, and every other organization in the city should discuss it—but it should be before the levies are made, and not after.

If a 40-mill rate is necessary, discussion will develop the fact and the public can do its best to be content with it. If so high a rate is not necessary, then discussion should develop the faults in government that are responsible for an unnecessarily high tax rate.

Probably every item in the combined budgets can be justified on the score of need. Probably levies half again as high could be justified in the same way. Probably, too, if they had to do it the city and school district would manage to get along on half or three-quarters as much as they are asking the taxpayers to contribute for next year.

If there is waste anywhere, or the possibility of waste, the public ought to know it, and such discussions as that about to be had by the Lakeside club should disclose all the facts about it.

There isn't a bit of use talking about the tax rate when you go up to the courthouse to pay your taxes—it's too late, then. The time to talk about such things is before the levies are made. If the discussion by the Lakeside club starts a fashion of public scrutiny of tax levies that will bear fruit when tax-levying time comes again next year, it will be well worth while.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS.

At the general election Nov. 8 the voters of Minnesota will be asked to pass upon six proposed amendments to the state Constitution, submitted by the legislature at its last session. The voters should, of course, study these amendments in order to know how to vote upon them intelligently.

None of the six is of first importance, and no doubt opinions will differ as to all of them. For the convenience of its readers, The Herald will describe them, leaving each to the judgment of the voters.

The first amendment authorizes the state to pay half the cost of building roads and bridges, instead of only one-third. This is for the benefit of counties so poor that they are unable to provide the two-thirds now necessary to get state aid in road-building.

Amendment No. 2 repeals the provision of the Constitution requiring the state treasurer to publish a detailed financial statement in a newspaper at the state capitol each year. State officers believe this to be an unnecessary expense.

Amendment No. 3 authorizes the legislature to establish a hail insurance fund to reimburse grain-growers who suffer losses by hail. The fund, together with the expenses of administering it, are to be raised by taxing the lands protected by it.

Amendment No. 4 changes the constitutional provisions as to reapportionment by authorizing the legislature to pass a reapportionment bill at any session. The present provision requires a reapportionment every ten years, but leaves some doubt as to whether one can be made between times. Legal authorities, however, seem to agree that the legislature may pass a reapportionment law at any session even under the present provision.

Amendment No. 5 provides a state tax of one-fifteenth of a mill annually, the proceeds to be used in buying for the state lands not useful for agriculture, such lands to be reforested by the state.

Amendment No. 6 authorizes the legislature to exempt from taxation lands privately owned which are devoted to forestry purposes. The object of both of these last amendments, obviously, is to encourage the reforestation of the state and to permit the state to take the lead in that work. Criticism has been made of the policy of exempting private lands from taxation even for an admittedly worthy purpose, on the ground that it opens the way for abuses.

First in importance, of course, are the first and fifth amendments, and to neither of these can serious objection be raised. Both should be adopted, whatever happens to the other four amendments.

THE ASSOCIATED CHARITIES.

The purpose of the Associated Charities is to correlate and systematize charitable work. Enough is given in Duluth every year to relieve adequately all cases of need; but because there are many different agencies for relief, there is both overlapping and overlooking—so that some get too much and some too little.

Also, the tendency of indiscriminate and unregulated charity is toward the creation of a pauper class, confirmed in pauperism by the too great ease of getting a living through charity. The work of the Associated Charities is to centralize all charitable enterprises in such form that there can be a check upon them to prevent both overlapping and overlooking, and to change the form of charitable work from the simple purpose of relief to the more scientific purpose of redemption. Ordinary charity relieves human suffering out of the largeness of its heart, but it fails to take account of the need of making its objects self-supporting and independent. This omission it is the purpose of the Associated Charities to supply.

The local Associated Charities, the formation of which The Herald urged for several years before the work was taken up, has reached the stage where a professionally trained charity worker has been selected for its secretary. It is obvious that much—everything, indeed—depends on the character of the secretary, because he will really be the Associated Charities, subject of course to the orders of the officers of the association. The man selected, Courtenay Dinwiddie, comes highly recommended, and he will assume the duties of his new position Nov. 15.

Now that it is fully organized and ready for work, the Associated Charities should have the fullest possible public support. Its function in the community is highly important and vitally necessary, and its success depends upon the degree of public support and co-operation it receives.

DAVID BENNETT HILL.

During most of his mature life an active participant in politics, for the past dozen years David B. Hill has been largely a mere spectator, and a somewhat bewildered one. The overcoming of the Democratic party of Bryan in 1896 left Hill stranded, politically. Always a stickler of the most zealous type for party regularity, he could not support Bryan; yet he would not oppose him because he was the regular party nominee. He did not even throw his support to the Palmer and Buckner ticket, as many others of his type did. From that time he was largely a looker-on, though he took part in the national convention of 1900 and dominated the Democratic state convention of 1902, taking an active part in the losing campaign which followed.

As mayor of Elmira, governor of New York and finally United States senator, Hill was prominent officially and politically. Yet he had time to be one of the country's greatest lawyers.

His impress on the history of his country will probably not be permanent, yet in many respects he was a remarkable man. His private life and character were immaculate. No hint of scandal ever touched his name. Though a strong partisan, he fought Croker and Tammany. None ever dared charge that his participation in politics was commercial. His speech was clean, his personal habits ideal. Taking him all in all, he was a good deal of a man, and he deserves a higher place in the roll of the nation's great men than history is likely to give him.

THE EASIEST "EASY MARK."

The comic papers have been largely instrumental in creating the notion that the farmer is the nation's greatest "come-on," and that the bunco-steerer with his gold bricks and green goods and other swindling schemes finds his victims among the visitors from the country.

Nowadays, however, when the farmer takes city newspapers, has them delivered by the rural delivery carrier, and reads them and thinks about what he reads, the old joke about the "rube" and the easy picking he offers to the swindler is as dead as a mackerel.

The real "easy mark" is the American millionaire. He fills his palace with "old masters" painted day before yesterday in a Paris garret, and with "antiques" turned out by the gross in European factories.

United States Consul H. D. Van Sant, of Dunfermline, Scotland, tells something about the European view of the American millionaire, and the way he is taken in by the bunco-steerers of the continent.

According to him Americans not only pay absurdly exorbitant prices for "antiques," but many of the antiques they buy are no more antique than the alarm clock that calls their kitchen maid in the morning.

For instance, not long ago a dealer near Dunfermline bought an old Dutch cabinet for a few shillings, placed it on sale in an antique store, and sold it to an English earl for $1,460. Soon after, the owner became dissatisfied with his bargain and offered it in London. It was promptly snatched up for $5,000—by an American, of course. "The cabinet was bought in Culross, this district," says Consul Van Sant, "from an elderly Scotch widow, who now regrets having parted with it at such a low price. Several similar cabinets were recently offered near there for $15 to $25 apiece."

In another case an American indicated to a dealer that he wanted to buy a Chippendale table and sideboard. The dealer went out and bought the required articles for $25, and then sold them to the American for $500. Unquestionably the dealer paid a very low price, but it is also unquestionable that the American paid a very high one.

Says the consul: "Tourists should not purchase antiques of value without receivnig the advice or service of some trustworthy dealer or judge of such articles. Americans seem to be more readily duped in these matters than the English and French, notwithstanding the general reputation here of the American traveler for shrewdness and judgment in driving bargains."

Clearly the American rich man who chuckles over the comic paper pictures of farmers being misled into parting with their money by sharpers, and who when he goes to Europe innocently invites the sharpers of that continent to partake of his fat "roll," is funnier than the joke he smiles at. It is notorious that there are more "old masters" in private American galleries than the old masters could have painted if they had lived to an average age of 500 years. This condition is not without its bearing on the cost of living.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

SOME STRONG TALK ON STATE LAND METHODS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I will intrude in the Open Court once more to vent my feelings somewhat in regard to the recent fires and the attitude of the state and nation towards the settlers and public lands.

The cry has gone up for he state to give $100,000 to the sufferers. Eberhart, Iverson and the rest of the political clan at St. Paul, rush out with their tom toms to show their sympathy for the poor settlers.

Suppose these same clap trappers had been asked two months ago by those poor dead people and sufferers for even $10,000 to make roads and to prepare for just such a calamity as has overtaken them, what would these gentry have said? They would have laughed in their faces and told them the treasury was empty and not to bother the investment board so much, as they had to canvass the state for reelection so they could loan the state money out of the state for less interest than these poor settlers were anxious to pay.

I know what I am talking about.

In my township thousands of acres of state land are scattered here and there with slashings and underbrush, the result of state sales of timber and yet they will not even loan money to fix roads for the settlers so they may get out in case of fire. Not only this but when men from Illinois go to St. Paul for information in regard to sales of state land they are told not to wait for land sales. Then in a few days they are flooded with lists of lands from agents, they (the landseekers) never heard of before.

In these same state lands where the timber has once been sold, they (the Push) send appraisers out and add a cash value to the refuse timber, popple, basswood, so the settler must pay for even his fire wood to get a little home.

One case of how much these appraisers see and know of the land will be enough to show the outrage, as well as the rediculous way it is done.

The northeast quarter of the northeast quarter of section 28, 49-22, the timber was assessed at $25. On that forty acres there was one lone, dead tamarack standing.

Such is the work of the men who are now trying to make capital out of others' distress.

Now for Taft with his Ballinger.

On 400 acres of the finest land in Aitkin county, there has been filed by three different parties, stone and timber claims, by parties who will not improve it self. It is covered by inflammable material that menaces the whole neighborhood. The department at Washington has been notified of the fraud and perjury and that homesteaders would settle on these claims, yet so far nothing has been done to reclaim.

Now Mr. Editor, do not think that I or my neighbors object to the state helping these poor unfortunate people with the $100,000. Give two hundred thousand if needed. But the old saying, "A stitch in time, saves nine," and "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," is to the point in this case.

In conclusion, let the state change its methods of selling lands or else give it away and get the people to settle on it with a half chance to live on it.

If a state could by law, be tried for murder, Minnesota would be convicted in the first degree for the murder of those fire victims.

Change the administration at St. Paul and give the people a chance to examine the books.

W. S. MAYHALL.

Tamarack, Oct. 18.

The Path to Yesterday.

There's a path that leads to Yesterday
—you know it;
A rambling path of blossoms and perfume.
You remember how the wild grapes overgrow it
To the house upon the hilltop deep in bloom.

There's a path that leads to Yesterday through flowers,
Where the wood thrush is a voice of magic song;
Where the cricket snaps its fairy whip for hours,
And a barefoot boy goes whistling all day long.

There's a path that leads to Yesterday through dingles
Of the forest, where the wood pool is an eye,
And the sunbeam is a twinkle soft that mingles
With the gladness of a girl who dances by.

There's a path that leads to Yesterday, a-glimmer
With the pearl and purple footsteps of the dusk,
Where the first star leaps and flashes, like a swimmer,
On the violet verge of twilight washed with musk.

There's a path that leads to Yesterday that's haunted
With the shadows of old memories of bliss
And the ghosts of loves that roamed there once, who counted
Every moment by a heartbeat or a kiss.

Oh, the path that leads to Yesterday! It's calling!
Don't you hear it? How it calls through many things!
Through its roses, like the memories, now falling,
And the dreamlike nestward fluttering of wings.

On the path that leads to Yesterday we've started;
Hear it calling with its many whip-poorwills,
Like the voices of old happiness departed,
Through the darkness, where the moon rests on the hills.

—Madison Cawein, in New York Sun.

Pedigree of Fools.

From the Spanish: They say Lost Time married Ignorance and had a son called I Thought, who married Youth, and had the following children: I Didn't Know, I Didn't Think, Who Would Have Expected.

Who Would Have Expected married Heedlessness, and had for children, It's All Right, Tomorrow Will Do, There's Plenty of Time, Next Opportunity.

There's Plenty of Time married Donna I Didn't Think, and had for family I Forgot, I Know All About It, Nobody Can Deceive Me.

I Know All About It espoused Vanity, and begat Pleasure, who marrying That's Not Likely, became father to Let Us Enjoy Ourselves and Bad Luck.

Bad Luck took to wife Little Sense, and had a very large family, among whom were: This Will Do, What Business Is It Of Theirs, It Seems To Me, It's Not Possible.

Pleasure was widowed, and marrying again, espoused Folly. Consuming their inheritance, they said one to the other: "Have Patience, let us spend our capital and enjoy ourselves this year, for God will provide for the next." But deception took them to prison and poverty to the workhouse, where they died.

Strange obsequies were performed at their funeral, at which were present the fives Senses, Intellect, Memory and Will, although in a pitiful condition. Repentance, who came somewhat late, found no seat and had to stand the whole time, while Consolation and Contentment were represented by Desolation and Melancholy, daughters of Memory.

Despair, grandchild of the deceased, went about begging for several days, in which he could only collect six maravedies, with which he bought a rope and hanged himself from a turret, which is the end of the family of Fools.

WHAT WE USED TO LAUGH AT.

The Head Writer.

By M. Quad: It was early in the morning when I heard a great puffing and blowing on the stairs, and pretty soon footsteps sounded in the hall and a woman's voice said, "Now, John Quincy, you want to look as smart as you can!" The next moment the door opened, and a big fat woman and a small thin boy came into the room. She gave her dress a shake, snatched the boy's hat off and then, looking at me, she inquired:

"Is the head-writer in?"

"He is, madam," I replied.

"Be you him?" she asked. I nodded.

"O, dear!" she exclaimed, as she sat down on a chair and fanned herself with her handkerchief; "I like to have never got up stairs."

I smiled and nodded.

"You see that boy thar?" she inquired after awhile.

"Your son, I suppose?" I answered; "nice looking lad."

"Yes, he's smart as a fox. There isn't a thing he don't know. Why, he isn't but 8 and he composes poetry, writes letters, and plays tunes on the fiddle!"

"You ought to be proud of him," I said.

"Wall, we kinder hope he'll turn out well," she answered. "Come up here, John Quincy, and speak that piece about the boy who stood on the busted deck."

"I won't!" replied the boy in a positive tone.

"He's a little bashful, you see," giving me an apologetical smile. "He's rid fourteen miles this morning, and he doesn't feel well, anyhow. shouldn't wonder if he was troubled with worums."

"Worums be blowed!" replied John Quincy, chewing a way at his hat.

"He's awful skeard when he's among strangers," she went on; "but he'll git over it in a short time. What I cum in for was to see if you wouldn't take him and make a head-writer of him."

"I don't want to be a durned old bald-headed head-writer!" said John Quincy, picking his teeth with my scissors.

"The young never know what's good for 'em," she went on. "He wants to be a preacher, or a great lawyer, or a big doctor; but he seems to take to writing and we thought we'd make a head-writer of him. I don't suppose he'd earn over five or six dollars and board a week for the first year, but I've bin told that Gen'ral Jackson didn't get half that when he begun."

"Madam," I commenced, as she stopped for breath, "I'd like to take the boy. He looks as smart as a steel trap and, no doubt, he'll turn out a great man."

"Then you'll take him?"

"If you agree as to terms."

"What is them ter-ums?"

"You see my left eye is out?"

"Yes."

"Well, your son can never become a great writer unless you put his left eye out. If you will think back you will remember that you never saw a great writer whose left eye was not out. This is a matter of economy. A one-eyed writer only needs half as much light as a man with two eyes, and he isn't half so apt to discover hairpins in his butter and buttons in his oyster soup. The best way to put his eye out is to jab a red-hot needle into it."

"Good gracious!" she exclaimed.

"And you observe that I am bald-headed? You may think that my baldness results from scalp disease, but such is not the case. When a head-writer is bothered to get an idea he scratches his head. Scratching the hair wouldn't do any good; it's the scalp he must agitate. The hair is, therefore, pulled out with a pair of pincers, in order that a man can get right down to the scalp at once and save time."

"Can that be possible?"

"All this is strictly true, madam. You also observe that one of my legs is shorter than the other. Without an explanation on my part you would attribute this to some accident. Such is not the case. Every head-writer is located in the fourth story of the office and his left leg is shortened three inches to enable him to run up and down stairs. You will have to have a doctor unjoint your son's leg at the hip, saw it off to the proper length, and then hook it back in its place."

"Did I ever hear the likes!" she exclaimed.

"And you also observe, madam, that two of my front teeth are gone. You might think they decayed, but such was not the case. They were knocked out with a crowbar in order to enable me to spit ten feet. According to a law enacted at the last session of congress, any head-writer who can't spit ten feet is not entitled to receive congressional reports free of postage."

"Can it be so?" she said, her eyes growing larger every moment.

"And you notice my corpulent build?" I went on; "you might think this the result of high living, but it is not. Every head-writer of any prominence has one of these big stomachs on him. They are all members of a secret society and they tell each other outside of the lodge room in this way. I am naturally very tall and thin, but I had to conform to the rules. They cut a hole in my chest and filled me out by stuffing in dry Indian meal. It took two bushels and a peck, and then it lacked a little and they had to fill up with oatmeal. Now, then, madam, you see what your son must go through with, and I leave you to judge whether you will have him learn the head-writer's trade or not. I like the looks of the boy very much and if you desire to—"

"I guess we'll go hum!" she exclaimed, lifting herself off the chair. "I kinder want him to be a head-writer, and yit I think I ought to have a little more talk with his father who lives in Ioway to git to be a boss in a saw mill. I'm bleged to you, and if we conclude to have him—"

"Yes, bring him right in, day or night. The first thing will be to unhinge his left leg and—"

But they were out in the hall, and I heard John Quincy remark: "Head-writer be blowed!"

Clerical Slips.

Tit-Bits: One of the best known bishops has a fund of excellent stories at his disposal, although it is seldom that any but his intimate friends are favored with them. Here are one or two:

A certain preacher, discoursing on Bunyan and his work, caused a titter among his hearers by exclaiming:

"In these days, my brethren, we want more Bunyans."

Another clergyman, pleading earnestly with his parishioners for the construction of a cemetery for their parish, asked them to consider the deplorable condition of 30,000 Christian Englishmen living without Christian burial"

Still more curious was this clerical slip:

A gentleman said to the minister: "When do you expect to see Deacon S. again?"

"Never," said the reverend gentleman, solemnly, "the deacon is in heaven"

Failing in this, the works are to be located in 48-13, the new Superior townsite.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Buffalo Express: "My dining room is the hottest place on earth. I wish I knew what to do to cool it."

"Did you ever take a friend home to dinner when your wife didn't expect it?"

Yonkers Statesman: Patience—Isn't he the slowest thing you ever saw?

Patrice—He certainly is. Why, if he ever does propose to a girl I'll bet he'll send the proposal by a messenger boy!

Wasp: "Captain, is there no way in which the ship may be saved?"

"None at all, sir. We are going to the bottom, but I would not worry about the ship, sir, if I were you; she is fully insured. You'd better find a life-belt."

Toledo Blade: Friend—When you run over a log in a country road, what do you do?

Motorist—Thank heaven that it wasn't a porcupine.

Pittsburg Post: "What's the debate in the town hall about?"

"Whether it's better to keep up good roads and fine the automobilists for speeding or maintain a mudhole and charge heavily for hauling 'em out."

London Opinion: He—I have been trying to discover why a woman is so much more curious than a man. Why do you suppose it is, Miss Winnie?

She—I don't know. I'm sure. I've never been curious enough to inquire.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "I never saw the captain show cowardice but once."

"When was that?"

"You know how bald he is?"

"Yes."

"Well, in the last engagement when the enemy's aviator began to drop his bombs I saw the captain put on his cap."

Judge: "You will be glad to hear, Henry dear," said Mrs. Willoughby, "that my new dress does not button up the back."

"Hooray!" cried Willoughby, turning a somersault on the divan. "How does it button, my dear?"

"Down the back," said Mrs. Willoughby.

Punch: Enthusiastic Climber (to exhausted companion)—It seems a shame to leave you here, old man, but I mayn't get another chance.

Exhausted Companion—That's all right, old man; you go and climb the silly thing while I carve its name on my alpenstock.

Chicago News: "Yes," said the busy merchant, "I advertised for a porter, but only a strong muscular man can fill the place. What was your last occupation?"

"I carved spring chickens in a downtown restaurant," answered the applicant.

"Take off your coat and get to work at once," said the b. m. as he turned to his ledger.

Philadelphia Record: Borelegh—Ah, good morning, Wigwag. How do I find you this morning?

Wigwag—Your finding me this morning was purely accidental, I assure you.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: Next to taxes, wedding gifts seem to be the sorest trial.

Engaged couples can become sane again by getting married.

The good opinion a man has of himself never dies till he does.

It takes any of your friends an awful long while to be willing to try to show it.

We get so used to appropriating other people's principles that we appropriate their lack of principles, too.

Every girl owes it to herself to be good looking—but some girls are unable to pay.

Conditions.

Thomas a Kempis: No man can safely go abroad that does not love to stay at home; no man can safely speak that does not willingly hold his tongue; no man can safely govern that would not cheerfully become subject; no man can safely command that has not truly learned to obey; and no man can safely rejoice that has not the testimony of a good conscience.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Probably Are Grouchy.

Austin Transcript: The prominent Republicans, one of them living in Rochester, who were strongly urged last summer to become a candidate against Tawney and refused because they said it was a forlorn hope are now kicking themselves for missing the one great opportunity of their lives. The mill will never grind with water that has passed.

Roosevelt As a Dodger.

New Ulm Review: There are a good many Republicans in the colonel's own state who are quite as bad as Lorimer. Will Mr. Roosevelt refuse to associate with them? If so, it will keep him busy dodging them.

Looks Good to the People.

Winona Independent: From all parts of the district come assurances that Judge Buck is the man of the hour. His chances for election become rosier every day. The people are putting him under a microscope and he looks good.

Under the "American Plan."

St. Cloud Times: A report comes from Hokah, Freeborn county, that the school in District No. 68, has been closed for three years, for the reason that the children have all grown up. The married people, it appears, have adopted the "American plan" to the limit.

Shelves Knute Nelson.

St. Peter Herald: Admitting the charge that the Democratic and insurgent members of the Ballinger investigating committee were "playing politics," it must be conceded that the verdict of the committee is a popular one. Ballinger was justly convicted at the bar of public opinion months ago, but despite that Senator Nelson sought to shield him at every turn. The plan seems to be to whitewash the secretary of the interior at any cost, and Minnesota's senior senator has shown himself a pliant tool of the Taft machine. It is painfully evident that he has outlived his political usefulness, and that he should be replaced by a younger man—one more in touch and sympathy with modern thought and conditions.

Another Rap for Knute.

Two Harbors Journal News: We are afraid Knute Nelson, our senior senator, will get himself talked about if he isn't a little more careful about selecting his associates.

FAMOUS CASE IS CLOSED

Litigation Over Clark Mine Title Ended By Federal Supreme Court.

The last chapter in the story of litigation over the title to the Clark mine near Hibbing was written yesterday when a mandate of the United States supreme court dismissing the appeal of the plaintiff from the decision of the Minnesota supreme court was filed with the clerk of the state court.

The decision of the United States court was that it had no jurisdiction to hear the appeal from the state supreme court and it means that the ruling of the state supreme court upholding the decision of the district court in favor of the defendants, the Clark Iron Mining company, will stand.

The case was tried in 1906 and the decision of the lower court was that Clark heirs, suing under a patent they alleged their father received to the land in question, had no title. The Clark mining company is in possession of the land and will continue to hold it.

The litigation was long, involved and interesting. The Clark Iron Mining company took possession of the land in 1892, claiming title under a quit claim deed given by one James Rogers, the "Uncle Jimmy" Rogers of the testimony, who was said to have been a relative, but an entirely different man from the one to whom a patent to the land was issued in 1880.

About 1890, the real state of facts were discovered and the widow of James N. Rogers and the adult children gave deeds to the Clark company for their two-thirds of the estate. The minor heirs were involved in the suit which has just closed.

The suit in behalf of the minor heirs was based on the contention that the deed from "Uncle Jimmy" Rogers was invalid and the title reverted to the original patent issued to James N. Rogers, who died in 1896. The Rogers family lived in Oklahoma and did not pay any attention to the land or any of the developments on it until it was called to their attention.

In the trial of the case in 1906, a man named Baker appeared in the case, claiming that he had filed on the same land under a power of attorney given by James N. Rogers. His appearance further complicated the case, which hinged on fine points of law and facts dug up after nearly thirty years.

The decision of Judge Cant was that the plaintiffs had no claim to the land on the showing in court and the decision was sustained by the state supreme court. An appeal was taken to the United States supreme court and last April, it was dismissed on the basis of lack of jurisdiction. The attorneys for the plaintiffs filed a petition during the vacation of the court for a rehearing of the motion for dismissal and the decision of the court denying the motion for a rehearing of the motion for dismissal is the last word.

The Clark mine is a rich property. At the time of the trial its value was placed at nearly $1,000,000 and it is believed to be worth much more than that sum now.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

HIBKE — Henry Hibke, 46 years of age, a foreman in the employ of the Northern Pacific, died yesterday at Brainerd, after an operation. He is survived by a wife and two children, who reside at Woodland. The body was brought to Duluth today. The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock from the residence, Rev. J. C. Farles officiating. Interment will be at Forest Hill cemetery.

LUX—The funeral of August Lux, 59 years of age, who died at St. Mary's hospital yesterday after an operation, will take place tomorrow morning at 8:30 o'clock from the German Catholic church, Third avenue east and Second street. He had made his home in Duluth but a month, coming here from St. Paul. He resided at 1826 West Michigan street.

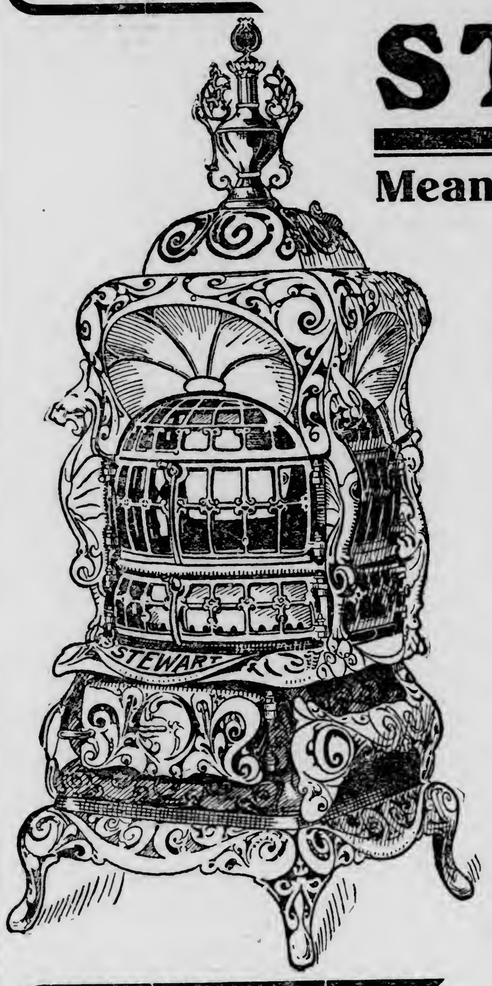

CULLEN—Mrs. J. A. Cullen, 42 years of age, died at 1 o'clock this morning of heart failure, at her late residence, 913 Park Place, after an illness of six months. Her husband is one of the well-known engineers in the employ of the Northern Pacific railroad. Mrs. Cullen had resided in Duluth the last ten years and has a host of friends and acquaintances who will be grieved to hear of her death. She is survived by four daughters, Mrs. James Morrissey, Grace, Genevieve and Kathleen Cullen, and one son, Eugene Cullen. The body will be sent to Brainerd, her former home, tomorrow for interment.

CASH NEEDED FOR RELIEF

Up to noon today, the public affairs committee of the Commercial club had received in cash contributions to the fund for the relief of the border sufferers $15,123.07. The cash contributions and subscriptions taken together amount to about $22,000, so there is still about $7,000 subscribed to the fund and not collected.

Efforts will be made today and tomorrow to get the money subscribed so as to complete the fund and turn it over to the relief committee which will have charge of the administration of permanent relief in the border towns. The lists of subscriptions have been turned over to the public affairs committee and members of the committee will call on the subscribers to send their checks for the amounts named by them.

The Herald fund now amounts to $2,562.30, contributions received today being $46.75 from the Swedish Mission church of the West end and $1 from "A Friend." Contributions will be received by The Herald and by the public affairs committee as long as anyone wants to contribute, for there will be use for as much money as can be raised.

STEWART STOVES & RANGES

STEWART

Means Less Fuel and More Heat

Do you dread the coming winter with its sharp, frosty nights? Are you prepared for it with a proper economical heater, one that will save fuel and not be a constant source of expense and dreaded annoyance? If your last year's stove wasted coal, you had to crowd it to the limit, constantly poking, shaking and feeding it with expensive coal. Were you kept warm? Not unless you kept close to the stove, your face burning with heat while your back and feet were cold. The moment you got away you were glad to get up near the stove again, resting your feet on the side rails.

The Stewart will keep you comfortable and burn less coal, giving a greater heat and more comfort than any heater made. We'll be glad to prove this to your entire satisfaction. The floors are kept warm by the double heating flue in the base. You don't have to crowd the Stewart. Every unit of heat is used and no unused heat passes up the chimney.

Let the Mighty Stewart Keep You Comfortable

The Stewart Flue System is the most perfect system known. It has accomplished two important things—increased the direct radiating surface of the stove without decreasing the radiation from the main bottom or main back and by surrounding the hot air flue entirely by heat, an extra strong hot air flue of large capacity is secured.

A Stewart Base Burning Heater will circulate every ounce of air entirely through the stove and into a room size 12x15 feet, with a 12-foot ceiling, in 50 minutes, so that you can readily see that by circulating this air through the stove in this time, it makes warm to a comfortable and even degree all parts of the room. Another important point, a Stewart heater will give one-fourth more heat with one-fourth less fuel than any other heater of equal size. These few facts explain why there are more Stewart stoves in use at the Head of the Lakes than all other makes combined.

Boys Are Arrested.
Tony Maroosis, a popcorn merchant, complained to the police last evening that a largo quantity of his stock in trade had been stolen last Monday night by several boys, among whom he named William Sundland and Roy Anderson. He said that the popcorn had been taken from his wagon, which he had left standing near 703 South Twenty-fourth avenue east. Juvenile complaints were made out against the two boys named by Maroosis and they will be arraigned in juvenile court Saturday morning.

Rapid Work on Pavement.
Hugh Steele, the contractor who is paving Michigan street, between Eighth and Twelfth avenues west, is pushing the work ahead at a rapid rate. It is estimated that he is laying 400 yards of concrete foundation a day. Should the weather continue good it is expected that he will complete the job in a comparatively short time. Sandstone blocks will be laid on the concrete foundation.

Held to Grand Jury.
Stella Thomas was found guilty after a trial in police court yesterday afternoon of a statutory charge and fined $60 or thirty days in the county jail. She waived examination on the charge of stealing $11 from Alvin Hanson and was bound over to the next grand jury.

Case is Continued.
The case against H. H. Talboys, agent of the Pluto Powder company, accused of unlawfully storing large quantities of explosives in the city limits, was continued ten days in municipal court this morning. Since Talboys' arraignment several other persons who have been storing powder inside the city or within a mile of the limits, have made application to the board of fire commissioners for permits.

Taken Back to Calumet.
An officer from Calumet, Mich., reached Duluth yesterday to take back Angelo Gotti, who is wanted in the Copper country for wife desertion. He alleges that Gotti has contributed nothing to the support of his wife or two children for a long time. Gotti has been making his living in Duluth by playing an accordion in different places in the city.

"The Neglected Corners" will be the subject of a sermon by Rabbi Letkovits at Temple Emanuel tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock.

Offered to Prove It.
When Anton Jankowski was arraigned in police court this morning for being drunk, his wife appeared and offered to produce all the whisky bottles he had emptied in his home the last few weeks. She claimed that she could bring a large number of them and that he had been drunk for a long time. She alleged that upon different occasions he had abused her and offered to throw her out of the house. He was fined $15 and costs or twenty days in the county jail.

To Operate at Skibo.
M. J. Nolan, a member of the firm of Nolan Bros. & Laird, lumber dealers of St. Paul, stated at the Spalding, that the company will operate its plant at Skibo this winter. The company will operate four camps. The present season the company has shipped 18,000,000 feet of lumber for cargo trade.

Bank Clearings.
Statement of Duluth bank clearings for the week ending Thursday, Oct. 20, were $4,677,887.57.

Fined For Begging.
Charles Walsh, who claims to be a barber by trade, tried to raise a little easy money in the city yesterday by begging. He bundled one hand in voluminous bandages and passed himself off for a cripple. He pleaded guilty to begging in police court this morning and got $10 and costs or ten days on the rock pile.

J. J. Cloudy, who has a tie camp about twelve miles north of Lester park, was fined $50 in the police court this afternoon for having deer meat in his possession out of season.

Thespians at Spalding.
The entire cast of "The Kissing Girl" is staying at the Spalding hotel, making that hostelry quite a center of attraction. Heading the company are Misses Texas Guinan, Ida and Yenita Fitzhugh and Harry Hermsen, Roy Torrey, Dick Temple and Louis London. The company is an exceptionally large one.

Tore Up Sidewalk.
Hugh J. Gallinger, a contractor, was arrested on complaint of the board of public works this morning for tearing up a sidewalk on Fourth street between Lake and First avenues east without having first obtained a permit. He pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $5. The board members state that other arrests will follow unless the provisions of the ordinances are observed.

CHISHOLM SENDS MONEY UP NORTH

Village Which Suffered From Fire Well Remembers Stricken People.

Chisholm, Minn., Oct. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. J. Hayes and Steve Musolf, members of the relief committee in behalf of the fire sufferers, left last evening for the scene of the fire to distribute the funds suscribed by Chisholm people.

They are taking with them $1,284.50, raised in this section. The village of Chisholm subscribed $502, the Hartley mine employes $196.50, the Monroe, Clark, Glen and Leonard mines $586.

The people of Chisholm not forgetting the terrible fire they passed through two years ago were liberal in their subscriptions to the fire sufferers of Baudette, Spooner and the other Northern Minnesota towns.

NASHWAUK HOME BADLY DAMAGED

Collapses When Jacked Up to Have Foundation Placed Underneath.

Nashwauk, Minn., Oct. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The large two-story residence owned by Pasquale Verra, a partner in the Nashwauk Italian Mercantile company was almost totally destroyed yesterday afternoon by dropping while set on timbers and jacks.

The structure which is located on Third street was built by Mr. Verra a year ago. It contained sever large rooms, and was neatly furnished throughout.

Mr. Verra's intentions were to raise it and lay a stone foundation beneath it. The contractors had the building raised about five feet above its former standing when it suddenly gave away dropping with a crash, almost completely demolishing the interior floors, plaster and woodwork. The addition on the back of the house is a total wreck

Verra Family Unhurt.

The Verra family occupied the house at the time of the accident but none was seriously injured beyond a few scratches received by one of the small boys. A plumber, who was at work underneath the house had left his work only a few minutes before the building went down. The residence was valued at $1,800. It is not yet known whether Mr. Verra will commence repairing the house this fall or not.

ADDITION WILL HAVE SIDEWALKS

Hibbing Council Heeds the Demands of Citizens of Brooklyn.

Hibbing, Minn., Oct. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The prosperous Brooklyn addition to Hibbing will have a large amount of sidewalks built at once, the Hibbing council having acceded to the requests of citizens of that place, and decided to call for bids for over 100,000 feet of lumber which will be used in sidewalk construction in Brooklyn. Bids will be opened at the next meeting of the council, Tuesday evening, Oct. 25.

The new walk and road recently constructed from the east end of McKinley street runs to the outskirts, so that several blocks of walks will have to be built.

Municipal Court Receipts Heavy.

The council received the report of the municipal court for last week, showing receipts of $570.76. Receipts have been heavy all the year in the municipal court, but last week was the banner week for some time.

The bid of the America-La France Fire Engine company was accepted for one combination hose and chemical wagon. This addition will be a splendid help to the department and gives it a very good equipment. The wagon will cost $1,800.

The Hibbing Produce company was given permission to erect an addition to its warehouse at the rear of the old Swan River Logging company building on Third avenue.

Nashwauk Helps Sufferers.

Nashwauk, Minn., Oct. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—A Charity ball will be given by the Nashwauk orchestra for the benefit of the Northern Minnesota Fire sufferers at the Nashwauk high school auditorium tomorrow evening. [illegible] exceeding $500 was collected A sum exc[illegible]wards helping the in this village to[illegible]wns in the sufferers of the strick[illegible] northern part of the state.

Crockett Brown, manager of the Unique theater has purchased a new electric piano from a Duluth firm and has installed the instrument in the new up-to-date playhouse on upper Central avenue.

Stops a Cough in Five Minutes By the Clock

Does This Harmless Home-Made Cough Syrup.

MAKE A PINT CHEAP.

Here is told how to make a home made pint of cough syrup cheaply, which has been known to stop a cough in five minutes by the clock. It relieves quickly and certainly brings about a cure, by its tonic laxative action and therefore is superior to ordinary preparations, which only relieve, and then aggravate by their constipating effects.

One dose is not laxative, but 8 to 10 doses daily create a mild laxative action and it is said that you can feel the medicine working on the lungs, throat and bronchial tubes, giving a grand feeling of freshness and strength to the entire system.

Any one can make a full pint very cheaply. Obtain of your druggist or have him order from the wholesale house, a 2½ ounce package of essence mentho-laxene. Empty it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with a home-made syrup composed of one pint of granulated sugar and a half pint of boiling water. When the syrup is cool add it to the mentho-laxene.

The dose is a teaspoonful 8 to 10 times daily or as required. Give children less according to age. It is perfectly harmless.

This is a pleasant tasting and quick acting remedy, liked by all who have tried it.

TWENTY-SEVEN TRAINS PER DAY

Of Ore Being Sent to Docks From Mitchell Assorting Yards.

Hibbing, Minn., Oct. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Oliver Iron Mining company is shipping ore after a shut down of a week. There has been a decrease of about 25 per cent in shipments of ore from Mitchell, the assorting yards for the Missabe road for the Hibbing district.

About twenty-seven trains a day are being sent to Duluth from Mitchell at present, compared with thirty-six trains during the most of the season. The big Hull-Rust pit, which has held the banner for the ore shipments for the past two years and which shipped over 3,000,000 tons last year, has shipped between 600 and 700 trains so far this year.

The mine is now sending out about four trains a day, which is considerably less than its capacity. It is expected that this will be the last big year for the Mitchell sorting yards, as next year the ore from most of the big Hibbing pits will be sent out over the new cut-off south of town to the Coleraine branch of the Missabe.

"THE BEAUTIFUL" HITS THE RANGE

Fall in Temperature and Rain Give Way to Some Snow.

Hibbing, Minn., Oct. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The rainstorm here yesterday, which was accompanied by a drop in temperature, was also accompanied by snow, which fell intermittently. It is quite cold here today with prospects of more sonw.

Virginia Has Blizzard.

Virginia, Minn., Oct. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Old winter got real busy here yesterday and gave the people a sample of what is to be expected. The rain turned to snow, which continued last night with the elements of a blizzard in evidence. If the cold continues it may result in an early suspension of mining, but old weather sharks predict there will be good weather after the storm.

Chisholm Also Has Snow.

Chisholm, Minn., Oct. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—A cold drizzly rain has been falling here since Tuesday afternoon. All outdoor building work has been suspended. A flurry of snow fell during the day.

Eveleth Also Visited.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first snowfall of the year came yesterday and the flakes dropped throughout the entire day. Most of the snow melted.

HELD FOR FORGERY.

Alleged Hibbing Forger Must Answer to the Grand Jury.

Hibbing, Minn., Oct. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joseph Slonan, arrested Tuesday evening charged with forgery, appeared in the municipal court before Special Judge P. S. Silliman and was bound over to the district court.

Mrs. V. C. Munson entertained Wednesday afternoon at her home on Fifth avenue at a delightful lunch.

Architect D. V. Case has secured the contract for designing a $10,000 schoolhouse at Baudette.

Mr. and Mrs. V. Munson and their son, Ralph, have arrived home from Duluth, where they spent several days visiting friends.

Judge Thomas F. Brady returned Wednesday afternoon from Virginia, where he spent the day on business.

ATTORNEY SCOTT HOPES OF WINNING ALICE CASE.

Hibbing, Minn., Oct. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—S. C. Scott, village attorney of Alice, the newly created village, one mile south of Hibbing, the incorporation of which has been attacked in the supreme court by the Scranton Mining company, is sanguine of winning the case which was argued before the state's highest tribunal this week. His confidence in this respect is shared also by Attorney V. L. Power, who has assisted him in defending the village.

CHISHOLM SCHOOL BOARD REJECTS BIDS.

Chisholm, Minn., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a meeting of the school board Monday evening nine bids were received for the contract to build the new school building in the northern addition to town. As the members of the board maintained that the bids were too high, it was decided to reject all bids and make also some changes in the plans of the building. It will not be long however before the work will have begun, as the board intends that the excavation shall be completed before the freezing weather set in.

EVELETH HIGH ELEVEN ARRANGES FOR GAMES.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The high school football eleven have arranged the following games: Oct. 22, Two Harbors at Two Harbors; Oct. 29, Hibbing at Eveleth, probable; Nov. 5, Biwabik at Eveleth; Nov. 12, Two Harbors at Eveleth; Nov. 19, Ely at Eveleth. Virginia, Minn., Oct. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Marriage licenses have been issued to the following Virginia people: George L. Noyes and Miss Rose Lenore Driscoll; John Sustavich and Katie Matkovich; Wiktor Borgs and Mary Kaminiski; Feilx Raitala and Sannie Kumara; William T. Brennean and Lottie Twa; Fritz Schrmer and Olga Waara.

The members of the I. O. O. F. band will give a grand ball at the Fay opera house tomorrow night.

The net receipts of the benefit dance given for the fire sufferers were about $200.

JUDGE FREEMAN TO DRAFT BILL

Range Municipal Judges Seeking Jurisdiction in Juvenile Cases.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge Vivian Prince returned last evening from Virginia, where he attended the meeting of the Range Association of Municipal Judges, of which organization he is president. The judge is heartily in favor of the range municipal courts having juvenile court jurisdiction, and that matter was fully discussed by the organization.

Judge W. E. Freeman of Chisholm was requested to draw a bill favoring the establishment of juvenile courts on the ranges. Another matter considered which will affect the local municipal court was that in favor of raising the jurisdiction of the range courts from cases involving $500 to $1,000, and the legislature will be asked to pass such a bill.

The judges at the meeting were entertained at luncheon at the home of Judge Prince's daughter, Mrs. J. Papic, in Virginia.

The next meeting of the organization will be held in Judge Prince's office here, Nov. 16.

"PEGLEG" BREAKS WAY INTO JAIL

Notorious Duluth and Range Character Pulls Off Stunt in Aurora.

Aurora, Minn., Oct. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Victor Aho, alias "Pegleg," a character, well known in Duluth and on the ranges, will spend the next thirty days in the county jail and his only regret is that he did not get the ninety for which he asked.

Aho has been around Aurora for a week or so and yesterday when refused money in a local saloon stated that he would go to Duluth to spend the winter, where he would be well taken care of. He threatened to throw a jug through the twelve foot mirror but was not taken seriously and was easily talked out of doing as he had threatened. He was quiet for a short time then he picked up a cuspidor and heaved it at the mirror, smashing it to splinters.

He was taken to the village jail and given a hearing before Judge Hillmans. He requested that he be sent to the county jail for ninety days but the judge allowed him thirty. If there had been a good old-fashioned rock pile maintained by the village Aho might have had all the time he wanted.

JAQUES AT CAMBRIDGE

against Mr. Miller has been written and that it will be handed down by that mighty tribunal on election day.

"A self respecting people ought not to reward the betrayer by re-electing him, and you will not.

"Mr. Miller may tell you of things that he has done in congress. But these things are trifles, as compared with the outrageous violation of his pact with the people that signalized his first introduction to official life in Washington. He may say that he has dipped deep into the pork barrel—for which you pay, and pay dearly,—but he cannot say that he obeyed the voice of the people!"

That Mr. Jaques made a very good impression and a convincing talk was demonstrated beyond question. His strength in this part of the district has been greatly increased as a result of his meeting last night, and his friends in Cambridge are taking up the fight to elect him with renewed faith and determination.

At Sandstone Saturday.

Sandstone, Minn., Oct. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge Jaques of Duluth will speak here Saturday night. A. W. Piper of Pine City will address the voters on Monday, and later on J. T. Mider, also of Pine City, will argue the principles of his party with the citizens. Judge Jaques made a favorable impression with the voters here on his first visit, and if Sandstone has its say he will go to Washington instead of the present congressman. Mr. Mider and Mr. Piper are candidates for the state legislature, the former on the Democratic ticket and the latttr on the Prohibition ticket. Both have many friends and admirers here, and will make the present incumbent hustle to retain his office.

TAFT BACK IN WASHINGTON

President's Wife Stays in New York to Do Some Shopping.

Washington, Oct. 20.—President Taft arrived here from New York at 7:34 a. m. today. He was accompanied by Secretary Norton and Capt. Butt, his military aid. Mrs. Taft remained in New York to complete some shopping.

The president went direct from the station to the White House, where he breakfasted. His address to the Y. M. C. A. international conference in the East room delayed his arrival at the executive office building until nearly noon. Several cabinet members called and the president went into informal conference with them.

The president will remain in Washington until Nov. 7, when he will go to Cincinnati to cast his vote the following day.

GOSSIP PICKED UP ALONG THE SPORTING HIGHWAY

The Old Roman Talks on the Game He Has Helped to Make—Battling Nelson and the "Come Back."

(BY BRUCE.)

Charles A. Comiskey, the Old Roman, the silver-haired veteran of baseball from those fierce days of the brotherhood fight until these days of steel stands and modern methods, the greatest card of baseball, a man personally beloved from the Pacific to the Atlantic, was here yesterday.

"I want you to meet Commy." Someone was saying that all afternoon. He met some of our best citizens, and every one he met he made a friend of, for Comiskey has the gift of making friends down to its finest little point.

Charles A. Comiskey—a man who has played a most prominent part in baseball of the past ten years. It was Comiskey and Ban Johnson who thought of the American league idea. These two men, more than any others, are responsible for the other great major. Since the days when the old Comanche was made captain of the St. Louis Browns, in those days when he was the greatest first baseman and field general of his times, he has been one of the greatest characters in the game.

Imagine a team in seventh place the greater part of the season outdrawing a team in the same city that has won three pennants in the past, and the present season was its fourth flag, (which the Chicago White Sox did to the Cubs), and you have some idea of the personal popularity of Comiskey.

His name is the magnet that draws the crowds, for today there is not anywhere in baseball as popular a man as Charles A. Comiskey.

Comiskey loves baseball. He loves to talk shop. He will tell you that big Ed Walsh is the greatest pitcher in the world, greater in the opinion of Comiskey, than Mathewson. He also has a good word for those players who are square and deserve credit. For Napoleon Lajoie, Comiskey has the highest praise in the world. Yesterday he ventured the opinion, that were there any doubt in the mind of Lajoie over the hits credited to him in St. Louis, that the big Frenchman would refuse to take the auto.

"He is the grandest man in baseball," said Comiskey. "He has gone along these years making friends and doing the right and square thing. He hasn't an enemy, and I want to say that if there was anything crooked about that St. Louis deal, Lajoie didn't have a hand in it. He isn't that sort of a man. He is big and square and always on the level; that is the reason Larry is perhaps the best loved player in the game."

Comiskey does not believe that there is anything in the Fletcher movement. When it was pointed out to him that the American league idea was laughed at by baseball men when it was first sprung, Comiskey replied that there were real baseball men behind this league, and such was not the case in the present movement.

Except in the mind of Fletcher, there are very few who take the movement to start another major seriously, is the view of Comiskey. Neither does he believe that any of the stars have signed with the promoter.

Some might imagine that Comiskey is rooting for the Cubs in the present series, just because they are a Chicago team. Well, he isn't. He is for the American league first, last and all the time.

"Philadelphia has one of the greatest teams that baseball has ever developed, and I like and respect the Cubs as much as any man," said Comiskey. "It is the same old story, a case of some fast and peppery youngsters. Then Connie Mack is one of the greatest, if not the greatest manager in the game today. I have picked the Athletics to win, and the two victories have not surprised me. When I heard of the first victory of the Athletics I gave most of my clothing away to the Indians, up there in the Rainy River country.

"In Evers the Cubs have sustained the greatest loss the team could possibly sustain. Zimmerman might outhit, outfield and perform better on the paths than Evers, and yet the Cubs would be much stronger, much more confident and would have a very much better chance to beat the Athletics were little Johnny in the game. The reason is his magnetism, his nerve, his brains. He is the kind of a leader who encourages men, puts fight and confidence in them. Therefore his loss is a very keen one to the Cubs.

"Say for me that the baseball players of today are better satisfied than they have ever been. They are better paid, better treated by the owners, and are better off generally than ever before in the history of the game. Don't believe all this talk about star players being signed for a new league. Practically all the players are signed by the two majors for next season."

Comiskey paid a very high compliment to Bender by stating that the Indian was one of the greatest players in baseball. "He has everything," said the Old Roman. "He has speed, great ourves, and is a thinker. That's what you want in baseball. This Indian is one who does think, and that fact makes him one of the greatest players. Then, in addition, he is a good hitter, fields his position well, and is an all-round strong player.

"Ah, but I had the boy when I had Fielder Jones, one of the greatest of them all," and Comiskey heaved a sigh. "Jones was one of the greatest players and managers the game has ever produced. He was a player who thought, and the game today requires men who think, for baseball is a profession, and only the men who think are getting to the top.

"Give me the thinking player every time. Jones was a great player, and the fact that he used reason and sound judgment upon every occasion made him one of the greatest managers the game has ever known. And, in addtion, they never made a greater outfielder.

"Some time I hope to have another pennant winner. There is nothing like winning. Personally, I would rather be a player than an owner. There is where the glory lies, my boy. The proudest moment of my life was when I was made captain of the old St. Louis Browns. You know I used to get out and play first base once in a while, when I took a team into Chicago. But there was a good deal of pressure upon the part of the youngsters; they told me that was a heavy handicap to the team—" and here the eyes of the old boy twinkled with merriment. "Aside from the fact that I can't play baseball any more, I don't feel a day older than in the days when I was one of the boys."

Comiskey left last night on the Northwestern for Chicago. He will witness the game this afternoon, and will have several Duluth men as his guests. Commy stated that he would not take his team to California for spring training next year, and that at the present time Ted Sullivan was looking for a new spring training camp.

After the world's series is decided, Comiskey will come up to Mercer, Wis., where he and some friends have a clubhouse. He comes here annually for hunting.

* * *

They are calling Battling Nelson the pugilistic Count of Monte Cristo. Most of you remember the come-back of the count. It was one of the best we have on record. Remember when he cried "One, two," and so on, like they do in a barber shop, only much more dramatic and more heavy on the nervous stuff, Bill.

The Count of Monte Cristo.

The Dane has counted one, for Monte Dale is the first victim in his effort to climb back to the pugilistic mountain top. Dale is a second rater at the best, and the victory of the Dane may not signify as much as some would imagine. The most significant part of it is that Nelson has courage and confidence.

In the past men who have tried to come back lacked something that was not physical. They simply couldn't fight, after they had got theirs. Nelson is not gun shy, or fist shy, to be more exact, judging from his performance at Kansas City, and loves the old gruelling as much as ever. That is the most encouraging detail of the efforts of the former champion.

A very significant remark was dropped by Charles A. Comiskey yesterday. "Don't butt into football," were the words he used. He referred directly to the long schedule and to the fact that at the present time the games of the world's series are being played at a time when the big football games of the country are at hand.

Don't Butt Into Football.

In other words, Comiskey deplored the fact that some of the magnates would hog all the possible season's time for baseball. Comiskey's idea is to permit each sport to have its rightful season, and declares the cause of baseball is injured by the long schedules of the present season.

ADAMS WILL MEET WASHBURN

Game Scheduled With Strong Wisconsin Football Team for Sunday.

Yesterday the Adams football team management scheduled a game with the strong Washburn, Wis., football team. As this team has defeated the Odanah Indians the present season it is expected to prove a very strong opponent for the Adams.

The Tigers failed to come through with the money demanded as a side bet by the Adams' management, and as a result of this failure, the prospect of a game between the two teams for next Sunday, is further off than ever. There is a possibility that the two teams may get together later in the season, but only possibility, as the schedule of the Adams team is full.

Manager Geistman stated yesterday that he was very glad to receive the suggestion as to the proper policing of the grounds, and that Sunday the crowd will be kept off the field.

FLETCHER'S CHECKS NO GOOD.

New York, Oct. 20.—Christy Mathewson of the New York Giants has made the discovery that checks now held by the star ball players, given to them some time ago by Promoter Fletcher, to be cashed after ten games were played, are of no more value than so much brown paper. They were supposed to be certified checks, good on demand at any bank after the player fulfilled his end of the bargain.

Mathewson took the check to three different banks and was advised that no bank would cash the check. Muthewson was one of the players that helped Fletcher get the players in line and he was disgusted when he learned the true facts. Mr. Fletcher's scheme is to have the ten games played at Kansas City.

Mathewson said yesterday that he would pay no more attention to Fletcher's scheme, as the bluff certified checks were enough to show him there was something wrong.

FLICKERTAILS HOPEFUL.

North Dakota University Eleven Sanguine of Beating Hamline.

Grand Forks, N. D., Oct. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The North Dakota university football team, which leaves here Friday evening for St. Paul to meet the Hamline aggregation, is having little opportunity for effective practice work this week because of the inclemency of the weather. The team is getting out each night, but with the thermometer at about 40 degrees, there is little enthusiasm.

The team has had to work on a soggy field from a rain in the early part of the week. The Flickertail aggregation, which put up a good game against Carleton last Saturday, is confident of being able to defeat the Hamline team this week. There will be seventeen men in the squad that goes to St. Paul Friday night in charge of Coach Dunlap.

HOW LONG WILL CUBS REMAIN INTACT?

How long will the present combination of Cubs last? This question forms one of the most interesting discussions of the day. No other squad of the past can show so many honors.

With the exception of Artie Hofman in center field, the squad is the same that won the National league and lost the world's championship in 1906. It will be remembered, however, that Hofman played in center against the Sox in that memorable series. This band captured their league title the next two seasons and also the world championships at the expense of the Detroit Tigers.

Only three organizations of the past can even be compared to the present Cubs in point of success, and none of these used the same line-up for five straight seasons. They are the Baltimores when Jennings and McGraw were the standbys; the old Chicago Colts, with Anson at the helm, and the St. Louis Browns of Charles A. Comiskey.

As far as can be doped out, the same Cub team will caper in the field next season with no changes in the regular departments. When this present year started there was talk of supplanting Sheckard and Steinfeldt. Steinfeldt has played as he never did before, and Sheckard has blossomed out again as a hard-hitting batsman. Neither could have been spared from this year's lineup.

Then there is scarcely a mite of a chance that Kling, Chance, Evers, Tinker or Schulte will be missing. The old standbys in the pitching department—Brown, Overall, Reulbach and Pfiester—will be on the job again for the sixth straight season. The only regular additions to the veteran squad —and already they are looked upon as vets — are Pitcher Cole and Catcher Archer.

BENDER IS INDIAN.

Great Philadelphia Pitcher Was Born in Brainerd, Minn.

Brainerd, Minn., Oct. 20.—(Special to The Herald.—The great pitcher of the Athletics, Charles A. Bender, who largely assisted Philadelphia in winning the first two world's series games, is a Chippewa Indian, who was born in Brainerd on May 5, 1883. When 18 years he played first base for the Carlisle Indian school, relieving the pitchers at various times. He also pitched for Dickinson college and Harrisburg Athletic club and was signed by the Athletics in 1903. He is a right hander and bats right-handed.

ALL STARS GIVE HARVARD HARD GAME.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 20.—The Harvard 'varsity football eleven yesterday afternoon had a game at the Stadium with a team made up of former Harvard, Yale and Princeton football players styling themselves All Stars, and won by the narrow margin of 6 to 0. The members of the All Stars team are all new Harvard law school students, and aside from their fumbling they put up so strong a game that the Crimson men were unable to get across the goal, the only points being made on two goals from the field by Lewis.

HIGHLANDERS HIT GIANTS' PITCHERS HARD.

New York, Oct. 20.—The Americans fell upon the Nationals' pitchers, Ames and Wiltse, and hammered their curves all over the ball yard yesterday, and won the sixth post-season game by a score of 10 to 2. Four doubles, two singles, two bases on balls and an error by Doyle sent eight runs over the plate in the second inning. The games now stand Nationals 3, Americans 2, one tie. Score:

OLD ROMAN DENIES DEAL

Charles A. Comiskey Says Fielder Jones Will Not Manage St. Louis.

The story going the rounds of the press of the country, stating that Fielder Jones will be the next manager of the St. Louis Americans, was yesterday branded as absurd by Charles A. Comiskey.

The owner of the Chicago American league team declared that he had not even heard of the rumor, but that if Jones returned to the game, he would play for the White Sox.

Comiskey declared that Jones was still the property of the Chicago club, in the event of his re-entry to the game, and that if St. Louis secured the services of the former great leader of the Sox, his services would have to be secured through the owner of the Chicago club.

From what Comiskey says of Jones, there seems little likelihood of his parting with the man who led the Sox to two great triumphs in 1906.

BETTING SWITCHES TO CONNIE MACK'S MEN.

Betting on the big game this afternoon has switched, sharply to the side of Philadelphia. The odds at the present time are that Philadelphia will win today's game and the entire series. At some of the cigar stores about town, odds of 10 to 5 are offered that the Athletics will win the series, with but a short supply of even money that the Cubs will take the game this afternoon.

There is also some money at odds of 3 to 5 that the Philadelphia team will take the next two games. Some of this money is being taken up by the Cub supporters, who are of the opinion that the Chance men will rally and at least bag one of the remaining games. In this hope, much reliance is placed hereabouts on the prowess of Cole, the mainstay of the Cubs in the box the present season

DULUTH ROOTERS WILL SEE BIG GAME.

A number of Duluth rooters left last night for Chicago, to witness the game this afternoon between the Cubs and Athletics. Dr. Patton of this city will be the guest today of Charles A. Cominskey, and will witness the struggle from the vantage point of the box of the White Sox leader.

A. B. Coates and "Doc" Bailey of Virginia, are also going to witness the game this afternoon, and Frank Wade of West Duluth is already there.

If the Cubs should happen to win this afternoon, it is very probable that some of the thirty-third degree fans will journey down tonight to witness the big game of tomorrow. If the Athletics win today, naturally the interest in the game will wane, for it will look very much as if the Cubs have been outclassed.

Y., Oct. 20.—At the conclusion of the second block of the 600-point world's championship pool match here last night, Jerome Keogh, led the challenger, Bennie Allen, by the score of 403 to 312. Allen had ill luck last night, his break shots leaving combinations of which the champion took full advantage.

FOSS DENOUNCES THE TARIFF LAW

Declares It Has Furnished the Issue for the Present Campaign.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 20.—The tariff in its relation to the high cost of living and its bearing on the necessities of life is declared to be the one vital issue of the state political campaign in a letter of acceptance issued by Congressman Eugene N. Foss, who was formally notified yesterday of his selection to be the Democratic nominee for governor. The letter says in part:

"The tariff is the issue today. It has been the issue in the minds of the people ever since the Payne-Aldrich bill was passed. The high cost of living demands an immediate reduction of the tariff on the necessities of life, untaxed food supplies for the people, free raw materials, and absolute reciprocity with Canada.

There is No Defense.

"There is no defense for this unjust taxation of the necessaries of life. There is no defense for the taxation of the food supplies of 90,000,000 of people that the big food trusts sheltered behind the tariff wall may force the people to pay the extortionate prices, or else adopt an un-American standard of living.

"There is no defense for the trade barriers we have erected against Canada."

"There is not a home in this country which is not being heavily overtaxed that the beneficiaries of special privilege may riot in the tariff graft of the Payne-Aldrich act. The people are tired of it and insist upon immediate relief."

ENFORCE NEW LAW IN 1911

Commerce Commission Will Act on Long and Short Hauls.

Sets Feb. 17 as Time for Amendment to Take Effect.

Washington, Oct. 20.—In a formal order the interstate commerce commission announces its intention to administer strictly the long and short haul provision of the recently amended interstate commerce act. The order was the outgrowth of a hearing held by the commission two weeks ago on the matter of the application of interstate carriers generally for relief under that provision.

By the terms of the order there will be no change in the existing status or the present rights of carriers until Feb. 17, 1911. They may file with the commission such changes in rates and tariffs as ordinarily would be filed in the course of their business under the present rate basis or adjustments. This accords to the transportation companies the right to file higher rates or fares to intermediate points, and through rates or fares higher than the combination of the intermediate rates or fares, provided that in so doing the discrimination against intermediate points is not made gerater than that in existence in 1910.

Subject to Complaint.

The commission announces that through this permission it does not necessarily approve any rates or fares that may be filed, all of them being held subject to complaint, investigation and correction if they be found in conflict with the law.

It is ordered "that the commission reaffirm its previously expressed view that a through rate or fare that is higher than the combination of the intermediate rates or fares is prima facie unreasonable, and will insist upon the application of that principle at the earliest possible date in every instance except possible extreme and unusual cases."

This is understood by the commission to mean that only in extraordinary cases will it exercise its authority conferred by congress to permit, in its discretion, technical violations of the long and short haul provision.

Provides for Relief.

The order provides that such carriers as may desire to be relieved of the requirements of Section 4 of the act shall file with the commission on or before Feb. 17, 1911, applications as provided for by the law.

The commission has indicated its definite purpose to construe the provision in the same spirit which actuated congress in enacting the long and short haul provision into law. It realizes, of course, as congress evidently realized in conferring upon it discretionary power, that some instances of technical violation of the law may be proper in the circumstances, but these instances are recognized to be extraordinary and comparatively of rare occurrence.

AERIAL BRIDGE IN OPERATION

Employes Work Hard in Wind and Cold Weather to Complete Work.

The aerial bridge was put in operation at 6 o'clock last evening, greatly to the satisfaction of the Park Point residents. They have had only words of commendation for the steamer Plowboy, which has been used as a ferry for the last nine days, but its conveniences are not the equal of those of the bridge. The structure has been given a thorough overhauling.

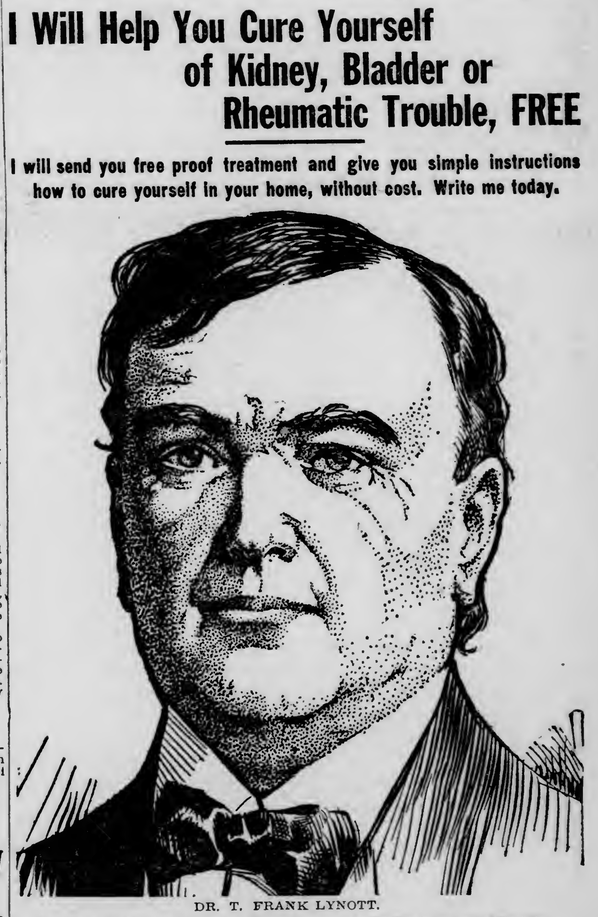

Despite the cold and the high wind of yesterday, the men worked throughout the day at top speed in order to have the structure in shape for operation in the evening. The setting of the overhead trucks was the last change that had to be made. The employes at the bridge did all the work.

TAFT TO ENTERTAIN THE MAYOR OF TOKIO.

New York, Oct. 20.—President Taft's dinner to the mayor of Tokio, Japan, to be given at the White House on Saturday night, will be attended not only by Mayor Gaynor of New York, but by Mayor Reyburn of Philadelphia and the three commissioners of the District of Columbia, Messrs. Rudolph, Johnston and Judson. When the president was in Tokio last the mayor entertained in his honor lavishly. The White House dinner is in part repayment of the hospitality with which Mr. Taft was everywhere greeted in Japan.

I Will Help You Cure Yourself of Kidney, Bladder or Rheumatic Trouble, FREE

"HONEST PAT" SAVES $20 FOR PRISONER IN CITY JAIL

Patrick Connors, alias "Irish", or alias "Honest Pat," as he is alternately called by the attaches at police headquarters, saved A. Johnson, one of the prisoners in the "bull pen," $20 yesterday afternoon. "Honest Pat," or "Irish," found the money on the cement floor of the lockup as he was squirting a germ-killer in the crevices, preparatory to flushing the jail out with the hose. The result was that Johnson not only got his bill back, but he got it in better shape than it was before.

Knowing that bills are generally supposed to be infected with millions of microscopic germs, Pat did the health officer stunt and thoroughly disinfected it, incidentally testing the efficiency of the germ-killer by snuffing out the lives of two cockroaches which were disporting themselves on the greenback by doing a Highland fling. After completing the operation he turned the money over to Jailer Dave Butchard, who gave it to Johnson this morning.

When informed of his good fortune Johnson was so delighted that he immediately started to hunt up his benefactor stating that he wouldn't quit until he had rewarded him with a $5 bill for his honesty. He hadn't found Pat up to noon, but he was still on the job, determined to locate him if it took all day. The officers at the station claim that Pat heard of Johnson's intentions, and was doing his best to keep out of Johnson's way, asserting that Johnson needed the money more than he did, and that the presentation would only embarrass him, anyway. At the last reports the hide and seek game was yet in progress.

THE MILITIA BOYS ARE CHEERFULLY DOING THE WORK OF SCAVENGERS

Burying Dead Horses and Hogs to Prevent an Epidemic.

Great Credit Due Them and All Duluth Citizens, Says Resche.

Baudette Is Now a Village of Tents and Box Cars.

After working night and day since he was first assigned to the job at Baudette and Spooner, the two border towns that were destroyed by fire last week, Col. F. E. Resche arrived in Duluth this morning.

He says that under the circumstances the people are as comfortable as possible, but that it will be six months before things are running smoothly and probably all winter before all of the troops can be taken away.

The colonel states that too much credit cannot be given Duluth people for their prompt response to the appeal for money and clothing. The Duluth trains were among the first to arrive, and the first help was best of all, he says. The Duluth committee was on the job at the first possible moment and the work they did was of the best.

"Those who think the militia boys are having a snap up there," says the colonel, "had better go up there and see what they are doing. They have worked sometimes as long as forty-eight hours in a stretch. All the dirty work falls to their lot and they are suffering the inconveniences as much as those who lost their all in the fire.

Bury Dead Animals.

"For their work, the boys can not get too much praise. They are on the job all the time and they are workers. It fell to their lot to bury all the dead animals and this was no pleasant duty. In one livery stable alone, there were fourteen horses that had to be buried that disease might not run rampant in the village. They were sent out on long search for dead people and animals. Six miles from Baudette they were called upon to bury a large number of hogs.

"Their work is disagreeable and they are sticking to it in fine shape. We couldn't have gotten along without them any more than we could have gotten along without the help that the people of the state and particularly Duluth were so eager to extend.

"It is cold at Baudette and the night before last it snowed. The cold and the snow will make things very hard and an extra effort must be put forth to get things going as rapidly as possible.

"While as much is being done as is possible for everybody, the men are called on a good deal to look out for themselves. The women are in box cars that are heated by stoves. We have given out thirty-three cooking stoves and a like number of heaters.

Camps Erected.

"A number of camps have been erected. We have a store house 24 by 120 and we are now working on an administration building. There are four cook camps at Baudette and some that have been erected a few miles out in the country. One of these I shut down, however, as I found that people were grafting.

"The temporary committee has used none of the money that has been subscribed. We have had no need for it there. Our duty has been simply to let our needs be known and let others furnish it.

Typhoid Epidemic.

"We have rented a building at Spooner which is being used as a hospital for typhoid fever patients. There are fourteen there at the present time and there would be many more had we the room for them. Dr. Haggard of St. Paul, assisted by six trained nurses are in charge.

"In all we have received seventeen carloads of clothing and provisions. Most of the goods were very useful and came at just the right time. Some of the goods were awful. One car had evidently been loaded with a pitchfork and the damp, filthy and ill-smelling clothes gave out an odor so strong that as soon as the car was opened it was seen that the contents could not be used.

"The cars from Duluth were in good shape and the clothing was of the kind that was need. St. Paul also came nicely to the rescue with one of the best of the cars that were sent.

"There are now 250 people being cared for at Baudette, 17 at Spooner in addition to about seventy-five soldiers. Needed goods, clothing, provisions, hardware and other necessities are coming in and things are going along as well as might be expected.

"The work will soon be turned over to the Red Cross society, which will take permanent charge of the relief work.

Livestock Saved.

"Fearing the fire the people drove their livestock into town before the fire got to them. This explains why there was any stock left at all. The horses and cows went without food the first four days. The car of feed from Duluth was the first car carrying provender to arrive. It did much to save the cattle as the other cars that were ordered in advance of the Duluth car did not arrive for several days. The service both on railroad and the telegraph lines was bad. I was several days trying to locate a car that had gone astray. All sorts of mistakes which caused delays and suffering, happened but for the most port we got along very nicely.

"It is probable that a part of the money will have to be used to start the citizens and farmers over again. Some of them have lost everything. A record is being taken of what they had before the fire, and it is very likely that if the fund is large enough they will be given as far as possible, half what they had. If a man had two horses he will be given one."

Col. Resche says that for the first few days there was excitement in plenty. A few of those who lost their property refused to help others to save theirs. The men were lazy, indifferent, and completely discouraged.

At the point of the bayonet they were forced to work. Everybody was treated alike and everybody had to do what he was ordered to do. Many did not like this but it was the only way to get order out of chaos.

After the fire tough characters began to flock into the burned districts. Soldiers at the bridge held them up and at once set them to work with pick and shovel. The Canadian custom officer had no badge to show and he was set to work. He thought it a good joke but the next day he visited Baudette decked out in all his official regalia. One dapper little Englishman, dressed in his best, was set to work nailing sheeting on a warehouse that was being erected and he nailed all day long. He was a pitiful sight when the day was finally over.

THE SITUATION AT PRESENT

Baudette is a town of tents and rude boarding camps erected by the temporary committee.

A hospital has been started at Spooner. A building has been rented and fourteen patients are already being cared for there. Only those who are very ill are taken to the hospital.

Suffering from the cold and weather is being made as light as possible. The women and children are living in box cars in which have been installed heating stoves.

The people are all fed from the boarding camps.

The soldiers have scoured the country for thirty miles around and find nothing that was not devoured by the flames.

The committee in charge is now working with some system. Records are kept and every one is given the same treatment.

Those who have means are already starting their buildings and it is expected that in two weeks a number of the families will have some kind of a shelter that they can call their own.

The telegraph service is very poor. Messages in a great number of instances are being delivered through the mail.

Order prevails and the tough characters who rushed in during the first few days are being driven out.

The people are as comfortable as possible under the circumstances, although it may be necessary to keep the troops there during the winter.

The relief work will be turned over to the Red Cross society tomorrow or the next day.

ATTENTION K. O. T. M.

All members of Duluth Tent No. 1, K. O. T. M., are requested to meet at the hall, 21 Lake avenue north, tomorrow, Oct. 21, at 2 p. m., to attend the funeral of our late sir knight, Henry G. Hidke. Funeral from the family residence, Hunter's Park, 3 p. m. O. P. MECALSON, Commander. J. B. GELINEAU, Record Receiver.

DEPENDABLE PROPRIETARY MEDICINES

It must be admitted by every fair-minded, intelligent person, that a medicine could not live and grow in popularity for thirty years and today hold a record for thousands upon thousands of actual cures, as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, without possessing great virtue and actual worth. Such medicines must be looked upon and termed both standard and dependable by every thinking person.

THE CALL OF THE WILD

The truancy rate is high in Duluth schools at the present time.

The fine weather has looked very attractive from the school windows and as this is the time of the year that the birds are flying, the boys armed with everything from "twenty-twos" to sling shots are touring the hills behind the city.

Up to this time there hasn't been a truant officer. Miss Jean Poirier, deputy state factory inspector, has been looking into truancy cases. It is probable that within the next few days an officer will be appointed by the school board.

Truancy is not confined to any one location. Miss Poirier says there are just as many from the Endion as there are from the Adams, Lincoln or the schools in any other part of the city.

This is the time of the year for "shacks." The boys build them themselves, and they are usually located in the woods. There they go when they should be in school. The time is spent in reading the latest adventures of Diamond Dick, Frank Merriwell and Old King Brady.

Soon the truant officer will be busy and then playing hookey will be attended with more difficulties.

Good results always follow the use of Foley Kidney Pills. They contain just the ingredients necessary to tone, strengthen and regulate the kidneys and bladder, and to cure backache. Sold by all druggists.

SAY HORSE WAS RACER

Claiming that a horse he bought for a family driving horse, represented to him as gentle, kind, well city broke, used to street cars, automobiles and other classes of traffic and trustworthy in every respect, was in fact a race horse, vicious and unmanageable except by a strong man and with modern and cruel bitting rig, Joseph Gauthier and his wife, Martha Gauthier, have brought suits against Jack Stone, their aggregate claims being $10,102. Damages are asked for injuries received by Mrs. Gauthier when the horse ran away shortly after it was purchased. The suits were filed in United States court today, Stone now being a resident of Wisconsin.

In his complaint, Gauthier says he bought the horse June 11 this year on the representation of Stone that it was a good family driving horse, had been used by Stone's own family and had been driven by the women of the family.

June 17, Gauthier says, he went out driving with his wife and daughter. He stopped at Seventh avenue east on Superior street and told his wife to drive to the fountain further east and give the horse a drink. She did so, and he says the horse ran away, the rig colliding with another and Mrs. Gauthier and the child being thrown out on the pavement.

He claims that Mr. Gauthier's health has been permanently impaired as a result of the accident and she is now an invalid. For the loss of her services and his own damage he askes $5,000, with $102 additional for surgical treatment for his wife.

Mrs. Gauthier's complaint sets forth the same allegations and she asks $5,000 damages for her injuries.

GETS $3,000 FOR HIS INJURIES

A jury in the district court after being out all night brought in a verdict this morning for $3,000 in favor of John J. Gram and against the Northwestern Steam Boiler works. The suit has been on for several days before Judge Ensign.

John J. Gram sued for his son, Henry Gram, a minor, who claimed that while he was employed at the boiler works he was injured. While digging a hole inside one of the buildings the top caved in and, it was claimed, injured him about the shoulders, hips, chest and collar bone.

In his complaint Gram asked damages to the extent of $20,000.

Patrick F. Murphy is suing the Duluth Crushed Stone company for $12,000 for injuries alleged to have been received while working for the company during June of the present year. He claims that he fell off the steam hoist and was struck by a projecting beam. He claims negligence on the part of the company and claims to be permanently injured. The trial is on before Judge Ensign.

ST. PAUL MAN KILLS WOMAN WITH CAR

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—In a condition nearing complete nervous collapse, Dr. Albert H. Goodrich, a St. Paul dentist, who ran over and killed Mrs. Caroline Wilson, 60 years old, of Minneapolis, late yesterday afternoon, at Ford and University avenues, Minneapolis, in his automobile, was released on bail this afternoon. A bond of $7,500 was required by Municipal Judge C. L. Smith, before whom Dr. Goodrich appeared and waived examination. F. M. Parker of St. Paul and E. Zimmerman of Minneapolis signed the bond.

Dr. Goodrich made no denial this morning of having struck the woman. His condition was such that he spoke only with the greatest difficulty.

Dr. Goodrich says Mrs. Wilson stepped from the curb directly in front of his machine, and that he "lost his head," when he struck the woman. He said he was not trying to get away, but was trying to get to the Prior avenue police station in St. Paul, where he was known, in order to give himself up.

Very Special Money-Saving Sale of Fine Rugs

Coming Just at the Right Time for You

Friday morning we will put on sale a large assortment of beautiful, durable, exceptionally fine domestic Rugs, at prices that will astonish you for lowness. Remember these rugs are out of the ordinary—not the cheap grades usually advertised by the ordinary store. Our reason for putting these rugs on at such big reductions in price, is because the manufacturers have discontinued the patterns—the designs will not be made any more. They are just as good for any person to buy, but we cannot duplicate them—or order smaller sizes to match, so we are offering them at a great sacrifice in price. Such rugs as Saxony's, Imported Wiltons, Anglo-Turkish, Arlington and Ardahan seamless rugs, Wiltons, etc.

Saxony and Imported Wiltons

In large 9x12 room sizes—regularly selling for $55.00—thick, heavy, beautiful rugs that will stand the hardest kind of wear. Every rug in the lot is a splendid specimen of rug weaving. At the prices we are offering these rugs for, it will not take long to dispose of the stock we have on hand. Come early, it will pay. Regular $55.00 values for

$38.50

Imported Wilton and Saxony Rugs

(8-3x10-6 Sizes)

The same kind and quality as the 9x12 sizes, but these are for smaller rooms. When you can buy such rugs for $35 it means about one chance in a life time—you must see these rugs to really appreciate their beauty and quality.

Regular $52 Values for Only $35

Wilton and Anglo-Turkish Rugs

Regular $40 Values for

$27.50

Just think of getting these splendid rugs for so little. They are in the largest sizes—9x12 feet—the regular prices in any store would be $40.00. We offer these for a little over half—you may be sure they will go quickly.

Arlington and Ardahan Seamless Rugs—$45.00 Values for $34.50

Usually these handsome rugs are priced at $47.50. They are in the 9x12 sizes—a large selection; beautiful in design and of fine, soft texture—all seamless — the patterns are copied from high-priced real Orientals—the colors are perfectly reproduced. A splendid wearing rug—and only $34.50.

$35 Wilton Rugs Now

$24.50

These popular Rugs are in 8-3x10-6 sizes—quite a number of fine patterns go in this sale at the low price of $24.50. These Wiltons are all from our regular high-grade, fine quality stock—but are "drop" patterns. Every one is an exceptional value—beside these we have many odd sizes and drop patterns that must be seen to be appreciated.

RECEPTION TO STATE OFFICERS

Hibernians of County to Honor F. L. Ryan and Miss May Hammill.

The Ancient Order of Hibernians of the county will give a public reception at the cathedral auditorium, Second avenue west and Fourth street, tonight in honor of State President F. L. Ryan of the A. O. H. and Vice President May Hammill of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the A. O. H.

Mr. Ryan was elected state president at the recent convention at Faribault, and the fact was gratifying to the St. Louis county members of the order. Mr. Ryan has been county president for a number of years and is popular with his fellow-members. Miss Hammill was also elected at the recent convention at Faribault.

Among the speakers at tonight's reception will be Bishop James McGolrick, National President James J. Regan and State Insurance President T. J. Doyle of St. Paul, Rev. P. J. Lee of Superior and Rev. D. W. Lynch of West Duluth, county chaplain of the order, who will act as chairman.

The ladies' auxiliary will be represented by some of the national, state and county officers, including Mrs. Mary Daley of Minneapolis, state president and national treasurer.

There will be musical numbers, Irish songs, and recitations by local talent. The reception will be open to the public as well as to members of the order.

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—"The Kissing Girl."
ORPHEUM—Vaudeville.
BIJOU—Vaudeville.

Green Room Gossip.

The Cort Theater company will tonight at the Lyceum present the latest musical comedy success, "The Kissing Girl," with the original cast, chorus, orchestra and stage setting used in its long run at Chicago, where the piece scored marked favor in a run lasting 250 days. The production has had the advantage of the personal staging of Mr. Stange, assisted by Charles Jones, who staged all the musical and dance novelties. In the work, the author and composer have returned to those principals in vogue in the palmy days of good comic opera when a succinct romance with music of quality was deemed the prime essentials in the composition of opera comique. That its authors have succeeded is evidenced in the golden praise so liberally showered on it by the dramatic critics of Chicago.

The musical program holds twenty numbers with several catchy ones.

For environment and costume charms, Mr. Stange has invaded the Bohmerwald mountains, in Bohemia, near Austria's boundary. The first act has a setting in this mountain atmosphere with a quaint old Bohemian inn, "The Hunter's Rest," presided over by a good old hausfrau, which is said to be admorably played by Ida Fitzhugh, an excellent German comedienne from the German capitals. The second act moves to the hall in a wealthy brewer's house. The last act is set in a German rose garden. The company is a large one, numbering an ensemble of seventy people, together with a complete orchestra, directed by Whitney Bennington.

There is at least one theatrical manager who sweeps off a stage. He is the manager who has charge of "The Ballet of Light" company, which is the feature of the Orpheum bill this week, and the cause of his sweeping the stage is tacks—just tacks. The eight young women who appear in the act dance in their bare feet on a canvas stretched on the stage. Once a careless or malicious stage hand dropped a tack on the canvas, and one young woman limped to the wings during the progress of the dance, and narrowly missed a bad case of blood poisoning. After that incident the manager of the company assumed the duty of sweeping off the canvas himself, and it is the last thing that is done before the curtain goes up on the act. After that nobody is allowed within ten feet of the place where the young women dance.

The dance is one of Loie Fuller's graceful and artistic conceptions.

Kitty Edwards, the graceful and dainty little singer, who is appearing on the Bijou bill this week, tactfully but firmly rebuked four people in the audience last evening who were interrupting her act. The four young people composed a party, and their conversation and laughter grew a trifle too hilarious. They were enjoying themselves, but the people sitting near them were not, and the singer found it impossible to do herself justice with such an interruption. She paused in her act for a moment and courteously requested the quartet to make a little less noise. Needless to say the request was complied with, and Miss Edwards was given an ovation at the close of her act.

Maude Emery, one of the principals with Harry Bulger in "The Flirting Princess," which Mort H. Singer is sending to the Lyceum Oct. 23 and 24, is the only woman in the world to make a success of growing peppermint for the market, a business heretofore controlled exclusively by mere man. She has improved upon methods employed by the best growers in several instances, and her forty-acre farm in New Rochelle, N. Y., is one of the best mint producers in the world. Last season she employed eighteen men to care for the same, the crop being the largest she had ever raised since starting the same some five years ago.

Griffith, the mathematician whose remarkable ability to juggle figures is creating so much comment among Orpheum patrons this week, was discovered by his present manager in a little town in Indiana. He is a Hoosier and is a product of the country schools of Indiana, where spelling bees and mental arithmetic tests are still in vogue. He is a mental freak, and his ability to handle huge figures in his head, is nothing short of phenomenal. To prove that his act is not "faked" or prearranged, Griffith makes it a practice to meet as many people as possible in each city he visits, and to call at the newspaper offices, where he is willing to submit himself to any tests that are desired.

Vardon, Perry and Wilbur, the three young men who are appearing on the Bijou bill this week, have just returned from a European tour. They are all Americans and Western boys, and have been together in their present act for two years.

Every line written of Miss Bartl must, under the terms of this contract, be submitted to her for approval.

SUES FOR HIS COMMISSION

N. Hungerford Asks $25,351.25 From Davidson-McRae Stock Farm Co.

Claiming commissions of $25,351.25, B. N. Hungerford has commenced a suit in district court against the Davidson-McRae Stock Farm company.

The plaintiff claims that he was employed by the company to secure purchasers for 12,700 acres of land in Aitkin county. He asserts that he secured J. H. Lunemann as a customer, but that the deal was not closed. This he says was the fault of the company.

He claims that the failure of the land deal was not his fault and asks that the commission be paid to him.

HEATON REBUILDING.

Residents of Wrecked North Dakota Town to Have Homes.

Carrington, N. D., Oct. 20.—With building progressing rapidly the residents of Heaton who have been living in railroad cars since the big cyclone of August will be enabled to return soon to their new homes.

When the cyclone took place, Supt. Burt of this division of the Northern Pacific sent a number of box cars to Heaton, and these were fitted up with bunks, stoves and other furnishings, and several families left without places of shelter because of the damage wrought by the great storm, have since lived in the box cars. The track on which the cars were placed was partly taken up, thus avoiding the possibility of accident of any kind.

Those residents of Heaton who have been obliged to live in this manner have all been well pleased with the condition, and had no complaints to make at the temporary inconvenience caused them.

CONDITIONS IN BURNED TOWNS

Dr. Hill of Board of Health Tells of Battle Waged Against Typhoid.

Bemidji, Minn., Oct. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. H. W. Hill, an expert on fighting epidemics, who is employed by the state board of health, was here yesterday on his way back to St. Paul from Spooner and Baudette, where he has been conducting a sanitary campaign in the burned cities. He is hopeful of overcoming the typhoid fever scourge that is sweeping over those communities.

"While we have succeeded in purifying the water supply and completed other sanitary measures, thus assuring, I believe, against the further spread from this time on, against spread of typhoid germs, the true extent to which these two towns are to suffer from this disease will not be known until three or four weeks from the time of the fire," said Dr. Hill.

"It usually takes three weeks for the disease to manifest itself on a person who has become infected. When the flames swept Baudette and Spooner from the map there were fifty-nine cases of typhoid on record. In the rush for safety it is likely many persons came out of the muddle with typhoid in their systems. How many will be stricken with the fever remains to be seen.

Water Supply Polluted.

"I found that the water supply was being furnished from polluted waters of the Rainy river and wells reeking with germs and that other conditions were extremely insanitary.

"With the assistance of the militia—and right here I want to say that great credit is due Gen. Wood and his National Guardsmen for they made quick sanitation possible—we started in to clean things up. With a squad of militia we filled up or otherwise put out of commission ten wells and established sanitary closets.

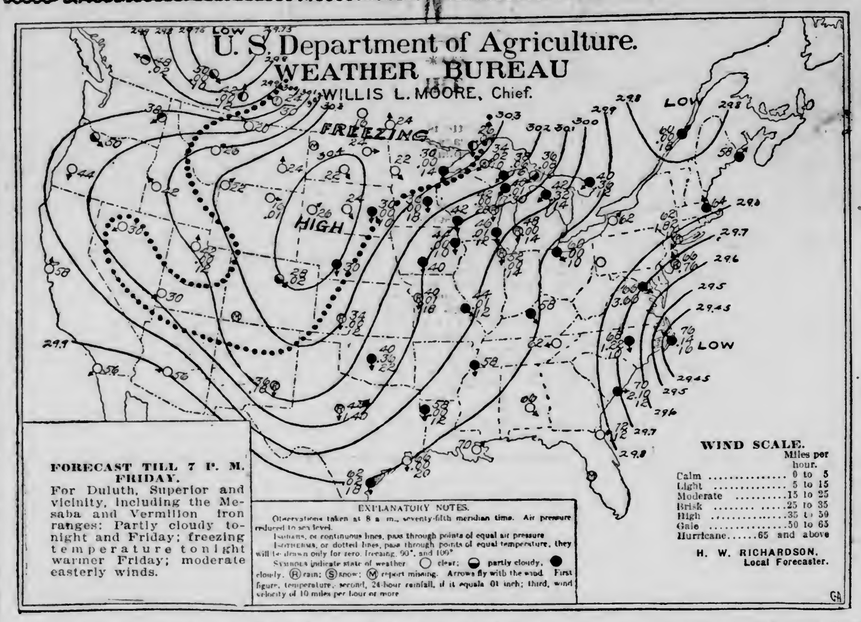

"The portable hypochlorite plant, shipped from Minneapolis, was attached to the inlet of the water supply, thus assuring a pure supply. This method is not an experiment. It is in successful operation in Minenapolis, East Grand Forks and Brainerd and International Falls is installing one at the present time. It means pure water.

"The two health officers at Baudette and Spooner resigned and I appointed Dr. D. G. Haggard of Minneapolis as health officer for both places and he is still in charge and will so remain indefinitely.

"Fever patients were daily being reported. We secured a large hall, wired it for lights, put it in sanitary shape and here we have established headquarters for all typhoid patients. We believe that by thus segregating them the danger of an epidemic is reduced to a minimum.

"In view of all these precautions, together with the strict measures which Dr. Haggard will continue to employ, I feel that there can hardly be any room for an additional spread of the disease which, immediately following the fire, existing under conditions which, had they been permitted to go unchecked, would have claimed its victims by the hundreds."

H. W. RICHARDSON, Local Forecaster.

'Twas cold yesterday and last evening, Geraldine. Likewise, 'tis cold again today and 'twill be cold again tonight. After the beautiful weather that had a long sojourn in our midst, it was unkind of the weatherman to send the mercury down the tube and lightly-clad humanity shivering to last winter's supply of clothing so suddenly. But the weather man is not noted for kindness. The mercury did not go above 44 deg yesterday and the low temperature, 30 deg was reached at 7 o'clock this morning. Freezing temperatures are predicted for tonight, with warmer weather tomorrow. There were a few flakes of snow in the air this morning.

Fine fall weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 6:33 and it will set at 5:12, giving ten hours and thirty-nine minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The Lake Superior storm has apparently moved its center to the lower St. Lawrence valley. During the last twenty-four hours it caused strong northwesterly winds throughout the Lake region, but this morning the wind on Lakes Superior, Huron and Michigan had diminished somewhat with a shift to northerly and easterly. This disturbance also caused more or less rain in the Lake region and Southwestern states. The western high pressure is central over the Dakotas and Nebraska. It has caused freezing temperature throughout the Northwest and Rocky mountain region. Another depression developing over Alberta is causing warmer weather over the extreme Northwest. The West India hurricane has advanced up the Atlantic coast to a point off North Carolina. Very heavy rains have resulted from New York southward along the coast to Florida. Indications favor generally fair weather at the Head of the Lakes during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Friday:

Upper Michigan—Partly cloudy with freezing temperature tonight; Friday fair and warmer.

Wisconsin—Partly cloudy with probably light rain or snow near the lakes tonight or Friday; slightly cooler tonight.

Minnesota—Generally fair tonight and Friday; probably frost in east portion tonight; warmer Friday.

Iowa—Partly cloudy tonight and Friday; slightly cooler in east portion tonight.

North and South Dakota—Generally fair tonight and Friday; warmer Friday.

Montana—Generally fair tonight and Friday; warmer tonight.

Upper lakes—Brisk north shifting to northeast winds, diminishing and becoming variable on Superior; threatening tonight; Friday partly cloudy; storm northwest warnings were lowered at Lake Superior stations 10 a. m.

COLD SPRING EXCITED

Over Strange Disappearance of Farmhand Named Guggenberger.

St. Cloud, Minn., Oct. 20.—The community of Cold Spring, near here, is wrought up over the strange disappearance of Mike Guggenberger, a farmhand, who dropped out of sight last week.

The farmers have been searching the woods around Cold Spring. Not the slightest trace of the young man's whereabouts or his clothing have been found. The theory is now held that Guggenberger drowned in one of the nearby lakes. This theory is strengthened by the fact that the dog which accompanied him when he left, returned home the next day.

Another theory is that the young man boarded a freight train passing through and skipped the country. The evidence seems to be against this, as it is stated that Guggenberger was never on a train in his life and had no money. Guggenberger appears to have been rather simple minded. He was working on a farm near Cold Spring and his wages were always paid to his father direct. The $100 reward offered by the relatives of the missing man dead or alive has as yet brought no responses. The lakes near Cold Spring, particularly Watab, will probably be dragged in the near future to see if the body cannot be recovered.

Health and Beauty Advice

By MRS. MAE MARTYN.

R. M. S.: Sallow complexion, liver blotches, pimples and other eruptions of the skin indicate the need of a good blood tonic and liver regulator. Dissolve one ounce of kardene in one-half pint of alcohol, add one-half cup of sugar and enough hot water to make a full quart. Take one tablespoonful five minutes before each meal. Kardene purifies the blood, arouses the liver, clears the skin, restores lost appetite and tends to strengthen and build up the entire system.

Annette: The affliction of over-fatness is to be deplored at any age, but it is a positive calamity to a young and pretty woman to become too fat in these days when fashion decrees the slender figure the only correct one. You can reduce your weight almost at the rate of a pound a day until you reach normal if you will dissolve four ounces of parnotis in 1½ pints of warm water and take a tablespoonful before each meal. You can buy parnotis from any first-class druggist. It is a harmless fat dissolver, and those who take it marvel of its wonderful effect. It makes one look and feel younger, brighter, more bouyant and energetic.

Fannie R.: To be sure a face lotion is far better than face powder, but you will have to be careful what you use as most "liquid face powder" contains injurious ingredients that are likely to ruin your complexion. Try this inexpensive one which is all right: Dissolve four ounces of spurmax in a half-pint of hot water and add two teaspoonfuls glycerine. Rub this on your face, neck and arms, and it will give your skin a very pleasing, delicate tone. This lotion does not show or rub off like powder and will remove that shiny, sallow look to your skin. This preparation is a wonderful skin beautifier and I find it excellent for rough, red or sallow skin, freckles and skin pimples.

R. T.: Unless you kill the follicles (roots) any treatment for superfluous hairs on the face or forearms will prove disappointing. Sometimes one application of a laboratory compound known as delatone will do this; sometimes two or three applications are necessary to forever rid one of the embarrassing and humiliating hairs. You will have to pay your druggist a dollar for an ounce of delatone, but at that it is cheaper than the electric needle. Just mix a little delatone with enough water to make a paste, cover with it the skin from which you wish to remove the hairs, allow to remain two or three minutes; then wipe off (the hairs come off with the paste) and wash the skin with warm water. If the hairs do return after the first treatment, they will be so light and thin as to be unnoticeable.

Mrs. David O.: The only reason why many hair and scalp specialists advise against frequent shampooing is the danger that comes through use of soap and inferior shampoos which contain alkali or other ingredients injurious to the hair. If your hair is thin, very oily and looks so dull, stringy and unkept a few days after shampooing, try shampooing with a teaspoonful of canthrox dissolved in a cup of hot water, then rinsing thoroughly with clear water. You can use this shampoo as often as you like, as it will benefit your hair and scalp wonderfully. It will relieve that itching sensation and make your hair beautiful, fluffy and appear twice as thick. This shampoo dries quickly without any danger of streaking or discoloration.

Miss H. I.: If you only knew what was in those cheap, greasy cold creams you have been smearing on your face, you would never use them again, as they are really harmful. Never use anything but a greaseless cream if you don't want hair on your face. At a small expense you can prepare an excellent complexion cream jelly by stirring together and allowing to stand over night two teaspoonfuls glycerine, one ounce almozoin and one-half pint cold water. Use this regularly and it will clear up your complexion wonderfully by removing all dirt and oil. It will also remove quickly those blackheads and other effects of hot weather such as freckles, tan and roughness of the skin of which you speak. This is the only reliable cream I have ever found for removing wrinkles without leaving the skin rough and flabby after massaging and for reducing the size of large, dirt-collecting pores.

Victoria: Your scalp needs a good, stimulating quinine hair tonic to remove the dandruff, stop irritation and falling hair. Get from any drug store one-half pint alcohol and one ounce quinzoin and mix it with one-half pint water and you will have a much better tonic than any of those ready-prepared tonics you have been buying. Brush your hair daily and twice a week apply this tonic to the scalp rubbing it in gently. This will do wonders for your dull, lifeless, falling hair, and put your scalp in a healthy condition. This tonic will make your hair soft, silky and lustrous. Keep the scalp clean by frequent shampoos with canthrox and you will not have further trouble with your hair.

Enid S.: Your headaches and generally despondent feeling very likely comes from your weak, inflamed eyes. You should attend to the matter immediately or you may have to wear glasses permanently. Get an ounce of crystos and dissolve it in a pint of water. Put a few drops in each eye two or three times a day and I am sure it will strengthen your eyes wonderfully and remove your eye troubles generally. I find this a splendid remedy. It does not smart the eyes and is fine for dull, tired, sore eyes that have that overworked feeling.

To the Common Council:

Your Committee on Streets, Alleys and Sidewalks, which was appointed and designated for the purpose of considering the petition for the vacation of a portion of Fifty-second avenue west and of the alley between Blocks 248 and 249 of the altered plat of West Duluth, Third division, and pursuant to notice published by the city clerk, meet in the city clerk's office in the city hall in the city of Duluth on Monday, Oct. 17, 1910, at 3:30 o'clock p. m. At said meeting no one appeared in opposition to the proposed vacation.

The object of the proposed vacation is to provide for an extension of the manufacturing site of the Imperial Iron Works. We cannot see that there is any objection to the proposed vacation and under the existing circumstances we are of the opinion that it is not necessary to make any reservations for sewer right-of-way, etc. We therefore recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

W. S. MOORE,
JNO. HOGAN,

LOT OWNERS,

WHY PAY RENT?

We will build on your lot in Duluth from $1,000 and up, without a down payment. We can build six more houses this fall.

Why not start the new year right by living in your own home. BE ONE OF THE LUCKY SIX and save money by having us build for you NOW.

Our organization consists of expert builders, architects, electricians, masons, etc., and our plan is to save you the trouble and expense of dealing with the middlemen. You come to us and give us an idea as to what you want; we discuss plans, details, etc., with you personally, and we then submit you estimates of cost. In merging of the many trades-professions and the middlemen necessary for construction in one company, we find economy for you and a fair profit for us.

If you so desire it we finance the erection without any disbursements whatsoever on your part, on the following basis, which in fairness will immediately appeal to you:

We take first and second mortgage for cost of construction; second mortgage to be paid off monthly on TERMS TO SUIT, and first mortgage to run five years or to be paid off at your convenience. YOU TO HOLD TITLE TO YOUR LOT.

In our architectural department we have plans of every description, or we will build from your own plans.

Either call on us or allow our representative to call on you at your convenience. Evenings by appointment.

GROWTH IS RETARDED

Forest Fires Prove a Setback in Upbuilding Country Districts.

Bishop McGolrick Says Term "Northern Minnesota" Is Wrongly Used.

That the border forest fires have seriously interfered with the upbuilding of Northern Minnesota is the opinion of Bishop James McGolrick, who has been at work for some time obtaining settlers for Hubbard, Becker and Mille Lacs counties.

The bishop has already noticed the affect of the forest fires in his work, and he attributes it to the fact that in all the Eastern newspapers as well as those in every part of the country except those in the immediate vicinity, used the term "Northern Minnesota" in connection with the fire instead of giving the exact locality.

People generally, on the outside, believe that the entire northern part of the state was on fire and that it was much larger than it really was.

The news flashed to the old world stated in general terms the same thing and many colonists who were ready to immigrate to this country, have since they read of the fires, refused to come.

Bishop McGolrick has large colonies in the counties mentioned and he is constantly at work through his agents in the larger cities and in Holland and Belgium trying to induce the better class of settlers to come to Minnesota.

His agents have informed him that they have much of their work to do over again. People who had made up their minds to come have now backed out. They think that the agents are trying to fool them when they are told that it was only a small part of the country and not in the vicinity of the colony that the fires raged.

The bishop thinks that more care to describe the exact locality of the fire, should have been taken. He thinks the term "Northern Minnesota" was not rightly used.

Of late the settlers have been coming in large colonies. Many of them come from countries across the water. The agents are careful to select only those who are healthy, are possessed of sufficient means to make a success of farming in this country and only those who would make desirable citizens.

Since the first news of the fire a marked decrease has been noticed in the number to come in.

LAST DAY OF CAMPAIGN FOR BETHEL BUILDING

Workers in Enthusiastic Rush to Complete Required Fund.

Old Bethel Crowded on Account of First Cold Snap.

At noon today the figures for the morning in the Bethel building campaign were charted at the campaign headquarters on Fourth avenue—$39,000.25.

Another total will be cast at 6 o'clock tonight and another at 10 o'clock tonight, when the campaign will close.

Great confidence was expressed by Messrs. Moody, McCabe and Silliaway that tonight would produce figures beyond the hopes of the great majority of the team leaders, workers and executive committeemen. More workers are in the field today than at any time since the campaign began, and their efforts will be maintained with undiminished enthusiasm and vigor until 10 o'clock.

There yet remains some of the best-known men in the city who have not been seen. They will have their opportunity to contribute toward the project this afternoon. Other campaigns have had tremendous accessions at the eleventh hour, and it is almost certain that the campaign on behalf of a new Bethel and Rescue home will be no exception.

The cold snap that struck Duluth Wednesday morning made great demands on the Bethel last night. Scores crowded into the reading room for warmth, and the rooms were engaged hours ahead of the usual time, but the number unable to get these accommodations was larger than in past years, because there is no branch Bethel this year to take care of the overflow from the old establishment.

The problem appears to have every indication of becoming more serious as the winter sets in. There are more lumberjacks and miners coming into town than ever before as the range is giving employment to more men than at this time last year and the report that Duluth and the country to the north is starving for labor has been spread broadcast. As boats tie up Duluth becomes the center for sailors seeking work to tide them over the winter. These men go to the Bethel; its the only place they know of where they can get accommodations at a fair price—that is, if they come first, for if ever the saying first come, first served were true, it is true of the old Bethel now.

In a month, the problem, now more threatening because of the closing of the branch Bethel because of high rent will be acute. This floating population is getting larger; as Duluth grows the problem expands.

How to Cure a Cold.

Be as careful as you can, you will occasionally take cold, and when you do, get a medicine of known reliability, one that has an established reputation and that is certain to effect a quick cure. Such a medicine is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It has gained a world wide reputation by its remarkable cures of this most common ailment, and can always be depended upon. WHEAT UP; OVERSOLD

Shorts Cover---Country Offerings Slim---Pressure Absent.

Market Is Lifeless---Flax Is Stronger---Trading Is Light.

Duluth Board of Trade, Oct. 20.—Wheat advanced today as the result of an oversold condition, a part of the large short interest accepting profits. Outside of this buying there was very little support to the market. There was no pressure and country offerings were slim. The strength at Winnipeg influenced the other markets to a large extent. December wheat advanced 5⅝c and May gained ⅝c. Cash was on a parity with December. Oats gained ½c and rye and barley were unchanged. Durum wheat gained ⅝c.

Flax was stronger. Trading was exceptionally light. October gained 1¾c, November 1c, December 1½c and May was unchanged. Cash was on a parity with October and ½c over the November option.

Wheat opened slightly weak in sympathy with lower cables and favorable Australian and Argentine news, but the market responded to the moderate activity of the shorts and firmed. Values advanced fractionally over yesterday's close and during there was trading extremely light.

The professional element wanted to bull the market and played for a rally but they got very little help and values refused to move. The news was bearish, but most of it was a repetition of news that had been fairly well discounted. After the long decline shorts took profits. There was practically no other buying. The market lacked life but it did not develop weakness as there was an absence of speculative pressure as well as offerings from the country.

Wheat in Minneapolis continues to increase rapidly, but stores here will show about a stand-off this week. In four days stocks have declined 219,000 bu to 5,003,000 bu. Stuff that has been shipped out but not reported includes 225,000 bu of bonded wheat and 139,000 bu of spring wheat. Loading are 138,000 bu of spring and 4,000 bu of durum.

Advices from Australia were favorable and optomistic reports came from Argentina where rains have been of considerable benefit. The shipments of wheat from Argentina this week will show an increase, being estimated at 800,000 bu against 784,000 bu last week and 88,000 bu a year ago. Private advices are to the effect that world's shipments this week will be liberal.

Reports from the winter wheat territory in this country are mixed but generally favorable. Moisture has fallen generously and has been of much benefit. Early sown seed in some parts of the central southern states is said to have suffered from ravages by the Hessian fly although it is too early to tell definitely the extent of the damage.

There was no export business today, bids being out of line for Manitoba wheat. A message from Winnipeg to B. E. Baker said that a comparatively large amount of wheat has been worked there in the last three days, the continent being the purchaser. Much of this wheat, said the message, is at Fort William. Most of the Canadian wheat must be exported as there is no market for it in that country. Before the United States can hope to export wheat in generous quantities the exportable surplus of Canada must be cleaned up. In the last few days a small amount of winter wheat has been worked by way of the Gulf of Mexico.

The cash demand was slow and the cash markets did not display any activity.

Flax was stronger on account of light offerings from the country and the strength at Winnipeg, where two or three leading crushers purchased seed heavily. The run of flax at Winnipeg is large and leads some people to believe that the estimate of the Canadian government was too small. Most estimates on the Canadian crop were around 4,100,000 bu, but some people think the three provinces will produce 6,000,000 bu. This estimate seems too large at a first glance, but the receipts at Winnipeg are so heavy compared with last year that well-informed people are coming to believe that the yield will be larger than either the government or other authorities estimated.

The foreign position was unchanged today, La Plata seed being quoted at, Antwerp at approximately $2.13 per bu.

The change in temperature did not have any effect on the flax market. Any flax that has not matured by now does not stand much of a chance, and the quantity of seed coming under this category is so small that its condition could not possibly have any effect on the market or the final return of the crop.

MARKET GOSSIP

Foreign crop conditions as cabled by Broomhall: "United Kingdom — The sowing of the new crop is being done under favorable weather conditions. France, Germany—The outlook for the seedings is favorable. Supplies of native wheat are moderate. A poor potato crop is confirmed. Roumania—There has been some rain, which will be beneficial for seeding. Italy—Drought continues in the south, otherwise the crop outlook is favorable. Indications are for a good corn crop, whilst a poor wheat crop is confirmed. India—Plowing is progressing rapidly, and in some parts sowing has commenced. Australia—There are reports of some damage to the wheat crop in New South Wales as a result of frost and drought, but elsewhere the outlook is favorable."

Broomhall cabled: The wheat market was unchanged to ¼d lower early, following the opening further declined ⅝@¾d with offerings larger and some rather prominent liquidation. Pressure was attributed to the continued favorable weather and crop news from Argentine, favorable Australian crop advices and the fact that recent buyers were not supporting. During the morning the bank rate was advanced and this caused renewed selling by large houses here. Private estimates point to liberal world's shipments again this week and the demand for forward cargoes are quieter. At midday the market was easy and ½@⅝d lower than yesterday.

Corn was quiet at the start and unchanged. Later American mixed was advanced ¼d on the steadiness of parcels and less disposition to sell.

Minneapolis stocks increased 875,000 for five days.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Eases Off on Crop and Shipment Reports.

Chicago, Oct. 20. — With indications of large world shipments and with favorable crop news from Argentina, the wheat market here eased off today. Australian prospects, too, were reported fine for a record yield. An advance in the Bank of England rate was also considered a bearish influence. Prices opened unchanged to ¼@⅜c off. December started at 93¼@⅜c, a loss of ¼c to ½c, rallied to 93⅝c, and then dropped back to 93⅛c.

Later a dispatch reiterating that damage is irreparable in Northwestern Argentina because rains came too late caused a decided advance. It was also said exporters were buying at Winnipeg. The close was strong with December at 94½c, a net gain of ½c.

Disappointment at the small amount of moisture shown in corn states steadied quotations for that grain. December opened unchanged to ⅛c lower at 46⅞c to 47c, touched 46¾c and reacted to 47c.

Absence of sales by the country was a bullish factor in later trading. The close was strong with December at 47½c, a net advance of ½c.

Light offerings kept the oats market relatively firm. December started ⅛c up to 30¾c, declined to 30½c and recovered to 30⅝c.

October lard was congested, and rose 20c, but the rest of the provision list was easy on scattered selling, and was a shade to 7½c lower. First sales for January delivery were at $17.25 to $17.27½ for pork, $10.40 to $10.42½ for lard and $9.12½ to $9.15 for ribs.

ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Open Active and Irregular and Decline at a Rapid Rate.

Recovery Sets in and Prices Rise to Above Wednesday's.

New York, Oct. 20.—Active trading at the opening of the stock market today showed irregular changes, but within a narrow range as a rule. International Harvester and Tennessee Copper rose 1¼. Anaconda, American Car and American Locomotive declined. Prices gave way at a rapid rate until United States Steel, Union Pacific and New York Central offered sufficient resistence to encourage the bulls to wait for a rally, but the market became quiet at a fractional recovery. Low figures showed Great Northern preferred and Erie first preferred down 1⅝, Atchison, Atlantic Coast Line and Western Union 1¼ and Reading, Southern Railway preferred, Louisville & Nashville, American Smelting, Colorado Fuel and Utah Cooper 1. International Harvester rose 4 points to 113. The Texas company also gained 1½ and Great Northern Ore certificates and American Malting preferred 1.

The morning stock market showed resistance to the effect of the rise to 5 per cent in the Bank of England discount rate. The evidence that that action had been sufficiently anticipated in the selling of stocks yesterday encouraged repurchases. Operations on the recovery centered in United States Steel and Union Pacific, the former rising 1 and the latter 1¼ over yesterday's closing. At noon active stocks were a fraction over last night. The check and dealings advance met some resistance today. Bonds were irregular.

The market closed firm. The active demand shifted to the prominent railroad stocks, which had been backward on the previous movement. United States Steel, after touching 79, was subjected to realizing. Union Pacific rose 3, Reading, Rock Island preferred, Great Northern Ore certificates and Virginia-Carolina Chemical 2, Amalgamated Copper 1¾, Pullman 1⅝ and Southern Pacific, St. Paul, Chesapeake & Ohio, Rock Island, Erie, Colorado Fuel, American Telephone and General Electric 1.

DULUTH HORSES BEST IN COUNTRY

"Nowhere did I see better horses than we have right here in Duluth," says Humane Agent George Fifer, who has just returned from Washington, where he attended the annual convention of the American Humane society.

Mr. Fifer says that the horses of Washington are the poorest from every standpoint that he has ever seen in an American city. He says that they are thin, crippled, ravboned and weak. They are driven for the most part by colored drivers who misuse them. The humane society of Washington had a huge bundle of whips on exhibition at the convention hall which had been taken from drivers who lashed their horses with them.

Delegates from all over the country attended the convention and they were quick to notice and remark upon the poor condition of the horses. Mr. Fifer says that he saw drivers running their horses through the streets though attached to a load of brick or rushed rock.

Although he visited a number of the largest Eastern cities, Mr. Fifer says nowhere did he see such horses as are owned in Duluth. "The horses here are among the best in the country," he said.

The convention was a great success according to the Duluth man and he comes home with many new ideas concerning the enforcing of laws which pertain to the cruelty to animals.

Mrs. Fifer accompanied Mr. Fifer on the trip.

FEVER PATIENT RUNS AWAY

Hatless and coatless A. H. Rohlf escaped from his residence at 231 East Fifth street this morning and ran at top speed down to Superior street and Lake avenue.

While the nurse who is attending him was temporarily absent from his room he partially clad himself and started away as fast as he could.

His wife discovered his absence almost as soon as he was gone. After telephoning the police she took up the chase. Two or three men who were near the place came to her assistance and went after the fleeing man. He turned down Lake avenue, but when he reached Superior street he was unable to travel much further, being almost totally exhausted. He was taken in charge by Patrolman Grandmaison, who brought him to headquarters, where his relatives were notified. It appears that in the delirium of his fever Rohlf imagined that some one was hounding him and trying to poison him.

Goes After Prisoner.

Deputy Sheriff Michael Horgan left today for Toledo, Ohio from where he will attempt to bring back M. Guttschalk, who is wanted in Duluth for trying to defraud D. W. Cusick out of $150. He carried with him a set of extradition papers prepared by County Attorney John H. Norton.

UP IN SYMPATHY WITH INDUSTRIALS

Coppers opened strong, but declined under pressure from profit taking longs. Buying soon appeared in Steel and when Amalgamated took on a firmer appearance the entire list strengthened, with a few exceptions.

Electrolytic prices for immediate delivery continue at 12⅞c and 13c for delivery in December and January. Lake Copper has sold in moderate amounts for 13c for shipment before the close of lake navigation and at 13¼c to 13¼c for deferred shipment. The United Metals Selling company is holding its price at 13c and is sold up to the end of the year. Copper exports continue heavy, the total for the month thus far being 15,081 tons. Exports of copper yesterday amounted to 878 tons.

The quarterly directors' meeting of the Cactus Copper company was held here yesterday. It was said that only routine business was transacted and that no news of interest to the public developed.

BUSINESS CHANCES.

BUSINESS CHANCES—AN IMPORTant revision of the Chicago division of the "Soo" Line in Clark county, Wisconsin, between Owen and Spencer has made it necessary to lay out two new townsites, which will be named Atwood and Osborn. Both are splendidly located in well developed rich farming country with ample territory to insure prosperous towns. The opening sale of lots in these towns will occur on the sites on Wednesday, Oct. 26th, as follows:
Atwood, at 11:00 A. M.
Osborn, at 3:00 P. M.
Terms of sale are either all cash; one-half cash and the balance on or before one year or one-third cash, one-third on or before six months and one-third on or before one year, interest at 7 per cent. The sales will be conducted by the Townsite Agent of the "Soo" Line. No reservations will be made, and all persons will be given an equal chance. The important fact that these towns will be upon the main line of the "Soo" system from Chicago to "Twin Cities," Duluth, Superior, Pacific coast and Canadian Northwest, and surrounded by a rich farming country with splendid market advantages makes them especially attractive for those desiring a location for any kind of business adapted to that territory. Attend these opening sales and secare choice of locations. For information apply to W. H. Killen, land commissioner, "Soo" Line, Minneapolis, Minn.

DR. CRIPPEN IS PUT THROUGH HARD QUIZ IN TRIAL IN LONDON

Dentist Spends Four Hours Under Cross-Examination.

Admits Leneve Woman Went to His House on Day Wife Disappeared.

Chief Justice Takes Part in Questioning the Prisoner.

London, Oct. 21.—Dr. Hawley H. Crippen for four hours today matched wits in his trial with Richard Muir, one of the cleverest criminal lawyers in England.

The fact that the defendant was to undergo a cross-examination by this representative of the crown increased interest in the proceedings, and when Lord Chief Justice Alverstone entered the New Bailey court room and the prisoner at the same time took his place in the dock, the spectators were already in their seats awaiting expectantly the opening of the contest between the keen lawyer and the cool doctor.

Before Crippen re-entered the witness box from which he gave his direct testimony yesterday, the lord chief justice announced that at its own request the jury would be allowed later in the day to examine microscopically the skin from the parts found in the Hilldrop Crescent cellar which bears, it is alleged by the prosecution, a scar such as Belle Elmore received from a surgeon's knife twelve years ago.

Alleged Assistant in London.

The quartermaster who, Crippen testified yesterday, entered into a conspiracy to hide him during the flight to Canada, is now in London. Mr. Muir talked with him last night.

When Crippen was escorted to the STREET CAR HITS SENATOR ALDRICH

He Is Able to Walk to Son's Home and Has Fully Recovered.

New York, Oct. 21.—United States Senator Nelson W. Aldrich of Rhode Island has quite recovered today from the slight bruises received last night when he was knocked down by a Madison avenue car at Sixty-ninth street. Early reports had it that Senator Aldrich was in an automobile accident and had been severely hurt.

Senator Aldrich was crossing the street when the car struck him a glancing blow, knocking him down. The senator, unassisted, rose to his feet and, disregarding a few slight bruises, walked to the Park avenue home of his son, Winthrop Aldrich.

Senator Aldrich was as well as ever this morning.

DEWEY'S COLLIER SOLD TO MEXICO

Craft That Figured in Battle of Manila Bay Disposed of.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 21.—The old steamer Zafire, which carried the coal supply for the American fleet at the battle of Manila bay, has been sold to the Mexican government, a bill of sale made out to Mexican officials, having been deposited in escrow yesterday by the collier's owner, J. W. Zeeve of Seattle. The purchase price has not been given out, but it is believed to be comparatively small.

Admiral Dewey acquired the Zafire from her British owners in Hong Kong just before sailing to attack the Spanish fleet. He needed a cargo of coal and the owners refused to part with it unless the collier was taken. Under the urgency of the occasion, Admiral Dewey consented and bought the Zafire and her cargo for $150,000. The vessel was never transferred from British registry and still flies the English flag.

PHILOSOPHER TAKES POISON

California Man Writes That He Is in "Dreamy Middle Age."

Denver, Colo., Oct. 21.—George Hubert Williams, aged 45, socialist and philosopher of Marysville, Cal., came to Denver three days ago, apparently for the purpose of taking his life. He drank morphine at a local hotel on Wednesday. He died late last night.

On the dresser in Williams' room at the hotel was found the following note, written with an indelible pencil stained as though by tears:

"I have drifted into a dreamy middle age. Poverty stricken and friendless, I view with alarm the prospect of a dependent old age. I never was fitted to cope with the material world and am afflicted in mind, body and estate."

BEVERIDGE WILL LOSE

Despite the Support of Roosevelt, Says Willis J. Abbot.

Ability and Insurgent Service Counteracted By His Unpopularity.

By Willis J. Abbot.

(Copyright, 1910, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—To the nation at large the Indiana political contest means Beveridge and little else. His opponent, John W. Kern, was a candidate for the vice presidency, but people forget very quickly even vice presidents who were elected. Nationally speaking, Mr. Kern is somewhat forgotten and for that reason I intend to devote this leter to Mr. Beveridge, his methods, manners and chances. In a subsequent letter I shall write what I know or learn about Mr. Kern.

Beveridge Self-Centered.

To begin with, Beveridge has the usual characteristics of genius. That is to say, he is self-centered, inclined to be haughty, and quite willing to tear down the structure on which he climbed to fame. Somebody, years ago, I think it was Gilbert M. Hitchcock of

IS NOMINATED FOR GOVERNOR OF MICHIGAN

LAWTON T. HEMENS.

Lansing, Mich., Oct. 21.—Lawton T. Hemens is the Democratic candidate for governor of Michigan. His opponent at the Democratic primaries was John T. Winship, who will be the Democratic candidate for the senate. Mr. Hemen's Republican opponent is Chase S. Osborn.

STRIKE TO HELP THE MACHINISTS

Boilermakers, Blacksmiths and Pipemen of Missouri Pacific Go Out.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 21.—All the union boilermakers, blacksmiths and pipe men of the Missouri Pacific Railroad company went on strike at 10 o'clock this morning in sympathy with the machinists of the road, who have been out for several months.

Fifteen hundred men are involved in the strike called today. The strike order was issued from St. Louis by the presidents of the unions of the boilermakers, blacksmiths and pipemen.

ROOSEVELT GOES TO NEW ENGLAND

Ex-President Will Support Lodge and Bass By His Speeches.

New York, Oct. 21.—Col. Roosevelt today moved on to New England, where he will speak in Massachusetts and New Hampshire. The colonel left for Boston at 10 o'clock, where he speaks tonight for Senator Lodge, who is a candidate for re-election. On Saturday Col. Roosevelt will address meetings at Concord and Manchester in the interest of Robert Bass, the progressive candidate for governor.

Col. Roosevelt was accompanied on the trip by Mrs. Roosevelt. They will return here Sunday.

ENGLISH STEEL MAGNATES VISITING THIS COUNTRY

—Copyrighted, 1910, by George Grantham Bain.

JOSEPH ELLIS, SIR JOHN RANDLES, G. MUIR RITCHIE, COL. SIR CHARLES ALLEN.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 21.—Sir John S. Randles, Joseph Ellis, Col. Sir Charles Allen and G. Muir Ritchie are four of the most distinguished of the foreign steel men now visiting in this country as the guests of the American iron and steel institute. They are all from England. Sir John S. Randles is chairman of the board of directors of the Workington Iron & Steel company. He is a member of parliament and was knighted by King Edward in 1905. Joseph Ellis is another director of the Workington company. G. Muir Ritchie is a director of the Cargo Fleet Iron company of England. Col. Sir Charles Allen has been connected with steel manufacture almost since boyhood. He is chairman of Sir Henry Bessemer & Co. and a director of the Ebbe Val Steel, Iron & Coal company. He served in an ambulance corps in the Franco-Prussian war. He is a colonel in the Royal Field artillery.

Mountaineers Rescue John Moore, Convicted of Murder.

Lovington, Va., Oct. 21.—Mountaineer friends of John Moore, under sentence to be electrocuted for the murder of Frank Howl, descended on the Nelson county jail here at 1 o'clock this morning, stormed the building and rescued the prisoner. It is supposed he will be taken to the mountains and liberated.

A crowd of seventy-five armed men from the mountain section of the county where the crime was committed, proceeded quietly through the town to the county jail. Admission was gained and the guards did not attempt

CLARENCE DIETZ AND HIS SISTER TOGETHER.

Ashland, Wis., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Clarence Dietz, who arrived yesterday, is still here visiting Myra. It is the first time they have met since they were waylaid. Myra is not well and suffers sharp pains in her side, running clear down into her foot. A hotel barber shop in Milwaukee has offered the girl $100 per week to act as cashier. The statement that she will accept a vaudeville offer is emphatically denied.

DECIDES NURSE IS MRS. LANDO

Supreme Court Overrules Finding of St. Paul Judge.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Minnesota supreme court in a decision filed today, upheld a marriage contracted between the late Dr. David Lando, who was a well known physician here, and Miss Ida Oberg, formerly a nurse in St. Joseph's hospital.

Dr. Lando went to Vienna, Austria, to study and Miss Oberg accompanied him. While in Vienna Dr. Lando died, but previous to his death he had introduced Miss Oberg as his wife.

In the contest over the estate of Dr. Lando, which is valued at $16,000, the question of the validity of the Austrian marriage was raised. Miss Oberg claimed that a marriage ceremony was performed by a minister in Vienna.

The proof of marriage was not accepted as sufficient by Judge Bunn in the district court, and he decided against Miss Oberg and in favor of Dr. Lando's father. The supreme court today held the marriage was legal and the widow was entitled to the estate.

DYNAMITE IN TREE NOT PLACED BY PLOTTERS.

Portland, Or., Oct. 21.—A workman in the employ of a grading contractor has told the detectives that he placed the six sticks of dynamite found in a cherry tree on the grounds of Charles K. Henry, a local capitalist.

The workman said his business took him in a direction opposite to that of the destination of the dynamite, and he had placed it in the tree pending a time for carrying it to the grading camp.

The discovery of the explosive led to a report that an attempt was planned to blow up the home of Mr. Henry, who has been active in advocating an open shop.

NEW BALLOON RECORD MADE

One Contestant in Race Has Traveled 1,100 Miles From St. Louis.

Three, Including One American Entry, Are Not Yet Reported.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 21.—Three balloons, the America II, Azuria and Dusseldorf II, contestants for the international balloon cup and prizes, remain to be reported. It is believed at the Aero club that the aerostats have landed in the wilds of Canada.

The Germania, according to a telegram from Haileybury, Ont., was seen there yesterday, going northeast into the forest of Northern Quebec. The Germania is covered with aluminum dust and it is easily identified.

The America II, the only American entry unreported, it is thought by aeronauts could not remain in the air eighty-seven hours, the time from when it left here Monday until 9 o'clock this morning.

So far the balloon which was reported to have passed over Kiskisink, Ont., is believed to have gone the greatest distance, about 1,100 miles. This balloon has broken all world's records made in competition.

Tells of Landing in Lake.

LIBEL SUIT BRIEF FILED

Government Acts in Panama Case Involving President Taft.

Jurisdiction of Federal Courts Is Declared the Real Issue.

Washington, Oct. 21.—The government's brief in the so-called Panama libel suit of the United States against the Press Publishing Company of New York was filed today in the supreme court of the United States. It was argued by Attorney General Wickersham, James C. M. Reynolds and Stuart McNamara. It not only contained a statement of facts, but an argument in support of its position that the indictment against the Press Publishing company should not have been quashed.

"In effect," says the government's brief, "the published articles charge that Charles P. Taft, Douglas Robinson and William Nelson Cromwell, with J. Pierpont Morgan and others, acting through an American syndicate, obtained control of the securities of the French company which owned the Panama canal route and its properties, for the approximate sum of $3,000,000.

FRANK GARDNER.

New York, Oct. 21.—Frank Gardner is the ex-state senator who was indicted last week on the testimony of Senator Foelker on the charge of attempted bribery. Foelker testified that Gardner offered him $25,000 if he would defeat the race track bills at Albany. Other indictments are expected.

Action By Canadian Manufacturers Predicted If Freer Trade Existed.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 21.—Senator Melvin Jones of Toronto made a remarkable statement in an address at Edmonton, Alberta, last night that if a freer trade relation was established in agricultural implement business with the United States, many Canadian manufacturers would move their plants to Pittsburg and Chicago to be nearer the source of raw material. Senator Jones is a strong supporter of the present Canadian government.

CLOQUET COUPLE PLAN BIG TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. Lynds Going on Another Globe-Trotting Expedition.

Cloquet, Minn., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Lynds will leave for a trip around the world, a journey which they have taken several times. Mr. Lynds has seen all the large cities of the globe, his last trip, from which he returned about a year ago, lasting about a year. He and his wife expect to be abroad for eight or nine months. They will visit Africa and Australia and Japan on their trip. Mr. Lynds is the treasurer of the Cloquet Lumber company.

Athletics Have Played Rings Around the National Champions.

Batting Averages of Teams and Players Are Compiled.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—Wet grounds and a drizzling, intermittent rain caused a postponement today of the fourth scheduled world's championship game between the Philadelphia Americans and the Chicago Nationals. It will be played off here tomorrow. Should Chicago win, the fifth game will be fought out on the local grounds also.

Chairman Herrmann made the announcement after an examination of the grounds by members of the umpiring staff. The latter found that the base lines were small rivers and the whole field saturated. There was likewise the official prediction that more or less rain would fall throughout the day, and there was nothing to do but to order the postponement.

"Fair and Cooler."

The forecast for tomorrow is "fair and cooler." Forecaster David Cuthbertson said that the weather probably would begin to clear tonight and that there might be even a bit of sunlight tomorrow.

About 200 persons, including a number of women with forlorn and dejected headgear, were lined up in the rain waiting for the ticket windows to open when the announcement was made. There were also many boys who had hoped to sell their positions to late comers.

If there is any advantage to anybody in the postponement it is to accrue to the Nationals on the theory that any possible change affecting them in the present gloomy position can be only for the better. A day's rest, however, can do the Athletics no harm.

Could Use Coombs Again.

In the unexpected event that Bender should be hit freely tomorrow, Coombs, with a day's recuperation to buoy him up, could be used again. Brown and Cole, either of whom may pinch for the locals, are in no particular need of a vacation. Cole has not pitched so far, and Brown has not worked since Tuesday, when the Athletics drove him from the box.

Capt. Chance of the Chicago team said that the day of idleness might prove the turning point in the series. Connie Mack accepted the incident as a mere delay of twenty-four hours in

EPISCOPALIANS FINISH WORK

Will Meet in New York City for Convention in 1913.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 21.—With only minor business to be acted upon, the delegates to the general convention of the Protestant Episcopal church went into session today resolved to finish and then adjourn sine die.

Both the house of bishops and the house of deputies were scheduled to hold sessions to finish their labors. It was not believed that adjournment would be taken promtly at 1 o'clock.

Bishops and other delegates expressed themselves as gratified at the work done by the convention. The next convention is to be held in New York city in 1913.

The closing exercises of the convention were scheduled to be held at St. Paul's cathedral with all delegates participating. Bishop Tuttle, the presiding bishop of the church, was to make an address.

WILL RECOGNIZE NEW REPUBLIC

England and Germany Agree to United Action By Powers.

Berlin, Oct. 21.—Great Britain has proposed that all of the powers recognize the republic of Portugal at the same time. Germany today replied approving the suggestion.

Papal Nuncio Leaves Lisbon.

Lisbon, Oct. 21.—Mgr. Tontifi the papal nuncio at Lisbon, today left Portugal. His destination was not announced. It has been rumored that the pope had decided to recall the nuncio as a protest against the anti-clerical attitude of the republic.

Antonio Almeida, minister of the interior, today returned from Coimbra and reported that the trouble at the university there was confined to the tearing up of royal portraits and the wrecking of furniture by the ultra-Republican students.

The government is investigating the affairs of the national mint, the director of which, Jose Lima, recently committed suicide. New adhesions to the republic are reported. Many wealthy citizens are contributing to the liquidation of the national debt. Government employes, soldiers and sailors are offering to donate a part of their wages for the same purpose.

START FIRES IN STREET CARS

The street railway company has begun preparations for winter. Yesterday the company started up the hot water heating plants in its cars. It will take about four days to get heat in all the cars, but once started up, the fires will not be drawn until warm weather sets in next spring.

Third Death From Wreck.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 21.—A special to the Times-Star from Upper Sandusky, Ohio, says the death list of yesterday's wreck on the Hocking Valley railway near Harpster, Ohio, was increased to three during the night by the death of Elmer Thompson of Leroy, Kan. Thus far the authorities have failed to establish the identity of one of the two women.

COPPERS DECLINE; UNDERTONE GOOD

Profit-Taking Causes Values to Ease Off--Trading Active.

The opening of the copper market was strong, after which values eased off on profit taking, recovered and advanced sharply because of the strength in the steels and in the railroads, notably Reading, then declined precipitately on account of profit taking and closed about on a par with yesterday to slightly lower. Some stocks showed considerable weakness and were off from one-half to a point. The undertone was fairly good despite the decline. Trading was active.

American stocks in London were strong. The attorney general said the report on the United States Steel corporation will not be issued until after the Standard Oil and American Tobacco cases are disposed of, which removes a troublesome factor from the market for some time to come. J. P. Morgan was reported ill in Cincinnati but not seriously. The Amalgamated declared a quarterly dividend yesterday of 50 cents a share payable to stockholders of record Oct. 29. Copper exports for the week ending Oct. 20 were 6,636 tons, a favorable showing.

The stock market is being directed by a masterly hand. The course of values clearly reflects a well-laid plan to distribute stocks by those who accumulated them on the decline, whether for the purpose of making a profit or to prevent a serious collapse in prices, and that this plan has been more or less successful is certain. To what extent the public has come in is problematical, and depends somewhat on the definition of the word "public."

Commission houses are carrying a larger volume of stocks, but are they being held for investors seeking a speculative profit as well as dividends, or are they being carried by the occasional large and small speculator? It is generally believed that it is the latter, for it is the non-dividend stocks that have been most active lately. A large volume of stocks undoubtedly has passed from strong to weaker hands lately, and this makes it necessary for holders to act with greater caution if they would avoid loss. The stop-loss order is more popular now than for some months.

Speculative sentiment has undergone a great transformation lately. Everything is now seen through rosy spectacles. Wall street sees the defeat of the Roosevelt candidate for the governorship of New York, the dropping of "my policies" by the Taft administration and the gradual assumption of power by the Democrats, who will see to it that the prosperity of the country is not constantly menaced. President Taft has told the interstate commerce commission that the railroads must be treated liberally and Wall street thinks the supreme court will fall in line with its consideration of the anti-trust cases.

The land has yielded big crops. Corn is king, the wheat crop was a bumper one and while the cotton output was smaller than expected, prices are good. Our foreign trade is breaking records, the money market is behaving itself and the public is itching to buy stocks, only it wants to wait so it can pay a higher price for them. Is it any wonder that Wall street looks on the situation through bullish lenses?

The stock market is showing a sublime contempt for news developments. It is no longer polite to talk about the coming elections and the possibility of a Republican triumph in New York must no be considered by some men. In the meantime wise people are using stop-loss orders liberally.

Cactus got a jolt today and declined from 51c to 35c and then rallied to 39c. Apparently some people who got out of Cactus bought Summit. That stock advanced from 56c to 63c. Amalgamated went from $71.37½ to $70.87½, to $71.75 to $70.25. Greene sold at $7.50 to $7.37½, Giroux at $8.12½ to $8. Ojibway at $8.87½ to $8.75, Butte Coalition at $20, Superior & Pittsburg at $13.13⅛, North Butte at $33.50 to $33.75 to $32.75, Shattuck at $23.

The local market was broad and moderately active. Sales were made on the Duluth Stock Exchange as follows: Butte Ballaklava, $5.75, $5.87½ and $6; Den $3.75, Live Oak $29, Red Warrior $2, Shattuck $23.50, Amazon $2.43¾ and $2.50, Butte & Superior $7.50 and $8, Calumet & Montana 94c and 95c, Calumet & Corbin 32c and 33c, Calumet & Sonora $9.75 and $10, Summit 59c, 62c and 63c, San Antonio $5.75, St. Mary's 17c, Tuolumne $4 and $3.93¾.

New York Evening Post: That speculation in a given stock may increase both in volume and in intensity as the floating supply of that stock diminishes seems a paradox. Exactly that has notoriously happened in Reading, the whole floating supply of which may be dealt in during a fortnight or less. It seems incredible that it should have happened in Steel common. As promoters' stock Steel common was all in Wall street. The flotation occurred early in 1901. The biggest day's market in the history of the Stock exchange was that of April 30, 1901. In the full five stock exchange days of that week the total of all transactions in Steel common was only 1,564,000 shares, or about 11 per cent. A day of 250,000 shares, in Steel common then was something to marvel at. The average for the week of April 30, 1901, was only a little more than 300,000 shares a day. The floating supply of Steel common must be much smaller now than it was then, but a day of 250,000 or 300,000 shares in the stock comes now on the fourth or fifth day of advance after weeks of dullness. There was a day of 250,000 shares last week, and the stock contributed 22 per cent of the week's total transactions, against a little more than 10 per cent in the great week of 1901. In the week of last October when Steel touched 94⅞ the total of stock exchange transactions was only 6,000,000 shares, or less than half the total in that April week of 1901, but the transactions in Steel common alone were more than 2,000,000 shares, or about 33 per cent of the total.

One of the largest lumber dealers in the Northwest is quoted as saying that the Anaconda makes on an average $600,000 per annum from its lumber operations, and has 100,000,000 feet of cut lumber on hand today. It cuts about 160,000,000 feet per annum, and its lumber operations are in the hands of very capable operators. This authority estimates that on a conservative basis the Anaconda company's lumber properties are worth $25,000,000 as they stand.

A summary of the dividends of Cobalt mines to date shows Nipissing in the lead, with a record of $5,040,000. Kerr Lake stands second, its total being $2,490,000; Crown Reserve third, at $2,122,000; La Rose fourth, at $1,679,000; Temis Kaming & Hudson Bay fifth, at $1,288,000, and Conlagas sixth, at $1,280,000. Other of the more important properties, in order of the amounts paid, are: Buffalo, $850,000; McKinley, $696,000; Temis Kaming, $525,000; Trethewey, $461,000; Right-of-Way, $415,000; Silver Queen, $315,000. The total paid out in dividends by fifteen properties beginning with 1905 has been $17,566,000. In 1905 the payments were $30,492; in 1906, $1,377,000; in 1907, $1,889,000; in 1908, $3,110,000; in 1909, $6,514,000, and in 1910, thus far payments have been $4,556,101. Two unincorporated properties, the O'Brien and Drummond, have paid in profits over $2,500,000, bringing the total to something over $20,000,000.

OBITUARY

Frank Eugene Aiken, a well known actor, is dead at his home in New York city at the age of 73 years. He was born in Boston and first appeared on the stage under the management of his uncle, George H. Wyatt. He later became leading man at Mrs. John Drew's Arch Street theater, Philadelphia, and prior to the Chicago fire of 1871 was manager of Wood's museum and Hooley's theater in that city. Aiken scored a great success as the earl in "Little Lord Fauntleroy," and in "Puddinhead Wilson." He was last seen in "Beethoven," at the New theater in New York last year.

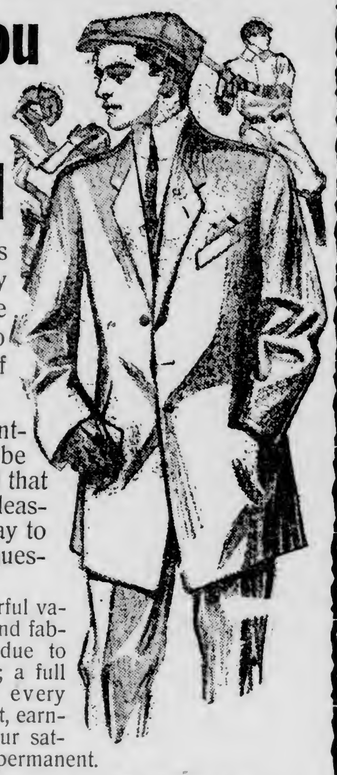

Mrs. Marie Dupuis is dead at the home of her daughter, Mrs. R. R. St. John, 3121 Humboldt avenue, south, Minneapolis. Marie Schultz was born in Germany, Nov. 13, 1838. She was married to Louis Dupuis in 1864 and they came to America the next year, locating in Iowa, where most of her married life was spent. Nine children were born to them, of whom three sons and two daughters survive. All the family but Mrs. St. John live in Washington.

Robert Richmond Reynolds, recently of Minneapolis, died in his home in Louisville, Ky., Oct. 17. He still retained membership in the Minneapolis Commercial club, and in the Reel and Rudder club. He is survived by his father, Charles A. Reynolds, and a sister, Lorraine Reynolds of London, Eng., and a brother, Albert Reynolds of Georgetown, Ky.

WEATHER—Probably showers tonight; Saturday partly cloudy; not much change in temperature; moderate to brisk variable winds.

Have You Ever Learned

how this store sells clothes; and why it has the absolute confidence of so many hundreds of alert men?

Better get acquainted here; you'll be everlastingly glad that you've found a pleasant, safe, sure way to settle all clothing questions.

You'll find wonderful variety of new styles and fabrics; better values due to great buying power; a full guaranty covering every garment; and efficient, earnest effort to make your satisfaction complete—permanent.

Superior Suits for $20

You just give your closest attention to these Suits. We've put into them the most thoroughly reliable fabrics—new, smart tweeds, cheviots and fancy worsteds. They have very distinguished looking finish and style. We believe that there is more practical, certain clothing value in these Suits than was ever before offered for $20. Other Suits, $12 to $35.

$20 Overcoats

Spend plenty of time in our Overcoat department—there's every desired kind, priced up to $60—and see if you're not a little surprised when you come to the $20 ones. These stylish, comfortable, well-made Coats give an average man all he wants in a practical every-day Overcoat. There are long and medium coats, with regulr military and the popular convertible collars.

Perhaps Your Feet Want Regal Shoes

They sure do if you walk a good deal. "Regals" have broad toes that let your toes straighten out and "work" instead of lying cramped and stagnant. "Regals" have enough air-space to let your feet "breathe"—they always try to breathe through the skin-pores. While "Regals" are "easy" Shoes, they give strong support to arches and ankles. Men who wear "Regals" can go through the busiest day without suffering from tired feet.

Just a Minute

Authority, to be beneficial for all concerned, must be bestowed only upon those competent of assuming it. This fitness to be placed in authority is not the result of a sudden burst of effort but is attained only after long years of careful preparation.

The title of "Style Authorities" so often bestowed upon this store is the result of many years of unremitting study.

MANY YEARS OF CRUELTY

Woman Married Twenty-One Years Says Husband Abused Her.

Chased Family With Razor on One Occasion, She Claims.

After having been married for twenty-one years and, according to the complaint filed this morning with the clerk of the district court, having suffered nearly every known phase of cruelty and inhuman treatment during that time, Mrs. Augusta Broquist, 42 years old, asks a divorce from her husband, John Broquist, 48.

They were married in Rhinelander, Wis., in October, 1889. Three children, William, now 16 years old, Annie, 14, and Esther, 12, were born to them. In August, 1906, he deserted her, the plaintiff claims.

Mrs. Broquist claims in her complaint that prior to the time of desertion she suffered nearly every known kind of cruel treatment and ill-use.

They lived on a farm near Pine City, Minn., and it was there that on different occasions cited by her in her complaint she was subjected to cruel treatment.

In January, 1906, she claims he came home in a rage. He started to get his gun, but one of the children got it first and hid it in the barn. He then got his razor and drove them all out of the house, the complaint says.

In February of the same year he came home again in a drunken condition, claims the plaintiff, and threatened to blow her heart out.

In July of 1906 he knocked all of the dishes off the table and then proceeded to choke his wife, she claims.

The plaintiff was just 21 years old when the marriage took place. Just twenty-one years later she filed her action for an absolute divorce. She asks the custody of the children, claiming that the father is not a proper person to have them.

MARINE

ARRIVES WITH BOW STOVE IN

The Steamer Martin Mullen Reaches Port and Goes to Shipyard.

The steamer Martin Mullen, owned by Hutchinson & Co., Cleveland, Ohio, came up today with her bow stove in, pushed back. In fact, so that the steamer was traveling on the resistance of her collision bulkhead. The Mullen was damaged in the collision, some ten days ago with the James Reed of the A. B. Wolvin company, the collision occurring in the St. Clair flats.

The Mullen came up the lakes loaded with coal, the boat being loaded at the time of the accident. The Mullen went direct to the shipyards, where she will undergo extensive repairs.

The underwriters' agent, after looking over the Mullen, gave the permission to make the trip up the lakes. Some temporary repairs were necessary before the boat started.

The bow of the boat is pushed back and but for the collision bulkhead of the boat, it would have been sunk at the Detroit flats. With reinforcements to the bulkhead, the boat was able to continue the trip to the Head of the Lakes.

There will be further investigation into the collision of the two boats, it is reported from Detroit. The Reed was quite badly damaged in the collision, and as each captain blames the accident on the other fellow, the investigation will at least be interesting.

It is expected that the Mullen will be at the shipyards for over a week. An investigation of the amount of the damage was being made today.

LOAD GRAIN FOR STORAGE EARLY

Independent Vessel Owners Are Anxious to Get Vessels Loaded.

It is reported here today that arrangements have been completed whereby vessels chartered for grain storage purposes for the last week of November will be loaded immediately, as the independents want to get out of the field as rapidly as possible in order to cut down expenses.

The lake insurance goes out of effect on midnight of the last day of November. Some grain storage charters are for the last week of the marine season. But if the reports of the arrangements entered into by some of the shippers and vessel owners are correct, these charters will be slipped ahead and the independents be allowed to get their vessels into winter storage at an earlier date.

Coincident with this report, is the statement that any other business that is possible to rush through, will be completed as early as possible by the independent vessel owners, as they desire to reduce expenses and get their boats out of the market for the present season.

The independents are not making any money at the present time, and the business in sight can be cleaned up in a very short time if arrangements to that end are possible.

TOMLINSON BOATS TAKE COAL FOR STORAGE.

Two of the Tomlinson boats will take coal for storage for the Berwind dock, indicating the little business in sight for the independent boats. The fact that these boats are storing coal at the Head of the Lakes does not indicate that the docks are congested as much as it indicates that there is little business in sight for the independents and that boat owners are willing to put their boats into the storage business.

That many of the independents will retire their boats early next month is generally admitted. The small amount of business in sight may be indicated when a 10,000-ton boat was sent to Marquette for a 5,000-ton cargo.

Peter Thompsons—trimmed with fancy braids, having character emblems on sleeves—all sizes. Prices, $12.50 to $24.50. We can't put everything in the paper, meaning of course there are lots of other girls' clothes, that will be shown to mothers and their girls, when they visit us.

Girls' Sweaters—warm, stylish—the most sensible of garments for girls to wear—and they cost but little—$2.50 for excellent Sweater Coats, in single-breasted style, with military collars and pearl buttons. They come in red and gray only—fit all sorts of growing girls from 4 years up.

Girls!

Think About This!

Women who were girl patrons of this store are among our best clients today—not only for their own, but their girls' clothes as well. The girls of today will be the women of tomorrow—walking in their mothers' footsteps, drest in S. & B. apparel.

What greater proof of the superiority of our Girls' Clothes than this?

Once you have bought things for your girl here—you'll keep it up.

S. & B. Furs

The fur business has already started. Encouraging, isn't it, to be selling Furs last week. Women have evidently taken to heart about being careful where they bought furs.

It is more than encouraging—inspiring, in fact.

The exclusiveness of S. & B. Furs means, you won't find their counterpart in town in the popular priced Skins, and in the very valuable furs. When women want that kind, they come here for 'em—9 times out of 10.

We are showing an unusually good assortment of inexpensive kinds this year—such as:

Natural Mink Scarfs at $19.50.
Natural Mink Muffs at $45.
Black Fox Scarfs for $15.
Black Fox Muffs at $16.50.
Natural Skunk Scarfs, $12.50.
Natural Skunk Muffs, $12.50.

Superb Fur and Fur Trimmed Coats as low as $45—for a full length brown or black Coney Coat—$50 for a Russian Pony Coat of fine quality.

Coats:

Notwithstanding the recent spell of Indian summer, we have been selling Coats steadily for weeks past—probably because, as one out-of-town shopper said yesterday—"You have the nicest coats in town." We certainly have some stunning coats—new ones are coming in every day, in fact.

—Strictly tailored, mannish styles, Russian, military cuts, belted and semi-loose effects in Touring and Polo Coats, also styles with shawl or sailor collars and extended revers.

Yesterday brought more of those dressy Broadcloth Coats in plain tailored models. Prices begin at $15, $17.50, $19.50, $25, $29.50—any price you wish to pay in fact.

Suits:

Word of mouth advertising is the best there is, as is proved by the way we are selling Suits these days. There are no suits in town as good as Silberstein's—is what it all means—we know it, have known it for a long time; more Duluth women are getting to know it every day, too, to their own great satisfaction.

Nifty Tailored Suits for street wear, of basket weaves, in plain and two-tone effects, the new mixtures, heavy Serges, Boucles and Zibeline Suitings in all the new Autumn Shades. Suit prices begin at $25, $29.50 and $35 for women who must be economical and yet want to be smartly drest

Editorial

We know the over-particular women in our two cities do their trading here.

They have been doing it for a number of years, too.

They have very good reasons for so doing, of course. In the co-operative spirit that is the secret of success in every business we wish to say.

—the woman of moderate means.

—the salary worker.

—the wage earner.

can get here, more comfort, wear and style in tailored garments than the same amount of money will buy her elsewhere. The unbounded faith of the public in this store and its merchandise will be the means of helping the "must-be-economical woman" to dress well and not pay all she makes for the privilege

Corset Clearance

The new Corset management is cleaning house—selling out certain lines at prices that make an irresistable appeal to economical women.

There are many styles to select from—some the very latest models, others of older stlyes—perhaps your favorite is among them.

Values to $2.50 at $1.00.

Ideal and Ferris Under Waists for misses and women—a few sizes in several dollar styles, to close at 75¢.

Other Ideal Waists—lace trimmed for children, in 2 to 10-year sizes, regular selling price is 50c—at 39¢ to close them out.

A Good Hat Makes a Toilette

Every woman knows it!

A new hat takes 10 years off our shoulders. Our husbands appreciate the fact—that is providing it doesn't cost too much.

S. & B. Hats of moderate price, about $15 or thereabouts, sometimes less, combine the inimitable grace and elegance of French hats.

The combination of inexpensive models now on display, make the choosing of a becoming Autumn hat an easy matter.

Tailored hats for the tailored suit.
Feather hats for afternoon wear.
Elegant hats for the evening.
Theater hats.
Motoring hats and bonnets—and hats for older women.

EXTENSIONS COMPLETED

Fifty-Four Contracts Let By Water and Light Department.

Eighteen and One-Half Miles of Pipe Laid Out of Department's Earnings.

With eight small contracts nearly completed, the only unfinished work out of fifty-four contracts let by the water and light department this year, the extension work of the department for the year is almost completed. In all, 51,444 feet of water pipe and 45,648 feet of gas pipe have been laid, or about eighteen and one-half miles of pipe. Of course, in most cases, the gas and water pipe were laid in the same trench, but the total of the extension is a satisfactory one, considering that the bills were paid entirely by the earnings of the department.

Despite the fact that the department failed to dispose of the 4 per cent bonds voted at the last city election, and was on that account handicapped for money, the year will be an entirely satisfactory one, both in the business of the department and in the amount of extension work accomplished. The extensions made this year cost approximately $100,000 all of which comes out of the earnings of the department.

Manager Case's last report to the board on the sales and receipts is indicative of the business now being done by the department. During September, 1909, 20,510,100 feet of gas was sold, while during the same month this year, 24,326,000 feet was sold. The gain in the water sales is proportionately large, as indicated by the receipts. During the period from Oct. 1 to 12, when most of the bills for September service were paid, $16,745.55 was received for gas, against $14,097.21 during the same period last year, a gain of $2,648.52. For water, the receipts during the early part of this month this year were $17,617.31 against $15,181.78 during the same period last year, a gain of $2,435.53, or an aggregate gain of $5,084.05. About $8,000 is outstanding and when that is collected, the gain will be increased to about $6,000, it is expected.

The gain every month during the year has not been so great, but the gross receipts and net earnings of the department will be considerably larger this year than was the case last year when the net earnings amounted to about $102,000.

Although much extension work has been done this year, the most important extensions have not been made on account of lack of funds. The net earnings of the department were just about enough to care for the ordinary extensions, while the extraordinary extensions had to wait for the sale of the $200,000 bond issue, which was not sold. For the Garfield avenue and Second alley extensions, the council turned over $25,000 from the sinking fund and that aid enabled the department to do the work.

Some of the extraordinary extensions planned are regarded as imperative and the question of issuing bonds to cover them will again be submitted to the voters at the city election in February, the provision to be made for bonds drawing 4½ per cent interest.

CAPT. HEDIN IS GIVEN A WATCH

Popular Ironwood Mining Official Remembered By East Norrie Men.

Ironwood, Mich., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Capt. A. Heding, the retiring mining captain of the East Norrie mine of the Oliver Iron Mining company, who was recently promoted to be head mining captain of the Oliver properties on the Gogebic range, Monday forenoon was presented, at the East Norrie mine dry house, with a magnificent solid gold watch, chain and charm.

The gift was presented by Tom Woolcox on behalf of the miners and laborers as a token of remembrance of his fellow workmen. After a short speech given by Capt. Hedin expressing his gratitude and loyalty to them for their kindness, the men returned to the mine to resume their work.

ASKS DAMAGES FOR INJURIES

Thomas Aho Wants $6,000 From Oliver Iron Mining Company.

Thomas Aho is trying to recover through an action in the district court, $6,000 damages from the Oliver Iron Mining company.

He claims that he was employed at the Normanna mine at Virginia during the month of April of this year. After blasting operations he found one of the supports jarred from its rightful place. In trying to replace it, a huge rock fell upon his foot, crushing it.

He states that he has been unable to work since and believes that his earning capacity will be seriously impaired from this time on.

The case was begun this morning before Judge Dibell.

COMPLAINING OF THE ACOUSTICS

Attorneys Say It Is Hard to Hear in Court Rooms.

The attorneys and judges are complaining of the acoustic properties of the courtrooms at the new courthouse. One attorney, who has had a string of cases this term said this morning in court that he wished they were back to the old building.

Names are very hard to get. The sound seems to float to every corner of the room and seems to be hard to understand even though one is but a few feet from the witness.

So hard is it to hear that one of the judges has had a new witness stand built. It is nearer the attorneys' tables. He has also moved his desk up opposite that of the new witness stand. This works much better, he thinks. He refuses to sit on the bench built by the contractors, claiming that he can neither hear the attorneys or witnesses from that point.

It is not known what could be done to better the condition, but all agree that some sort of a contrivance should be installed to break the sound.

It is hard enough for the jurymen, the judge and the attorneys to hear, but from the spectators' section of the room it is almost impossible to hear all that is said.

SUPERIOR

TO CURB WHITE PLAGUE.

Dr. Harvey Dee Brown Suggests Health Board Reorganization.

Dr. Harvey Dee Brown, who has been in Superior for the past few weeks inspecting the city in behalf of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis society, last evening made three recommendations to the Commercial club for the betterment of civic conditions.

"First," urged Dr. Brown, "build a sanitarium; second, reorganize the board of health and third, employ a trained social worker, whose duties would be to look after tubercular cases and keep a record of them."

The Commercial club appointed three committees to look into the merits of each recommendation and the committees will report back at another general meeting, Nov. 3.

EARNEST MONEY PAID ON CITY DOCK SITE.

A payment of $6,250 as earnest money was made on the deal for the McCord tract, which will be taken over as a site for a city dock at a consideration of $125,000. The city has put $25,000 in the present levy and has agreed to pay $20,000 next year and $10,000 a year thereafter until the balance is paid.

McConnell-Seavey.

A wedding of interest to many Superior people was that of Miss Laura McConnell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. McConnell of Billings Park and Clarke Seavey, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Seavey, formerly of Superior, now of Willis, Wis., which was solemnized yesterday at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Seavey will live at Willis, Wis., where Mr. Seavey owns a farm.

Rock Crusher Busy.

Contrary to the early reports that the stone crusher at Rockmount would be closed down soon, President Sam Anderson of the Superior Crushed Rock company states that enough men have been secured to run the works full blast and that they expect to turn out 20,000 cubic yards of the crushed stone this fall. About sixty men are now on the pay roll of the concern.

Well Known in Superior.

Frank A. Flower, whose death in Africa while on a government mission was announced in The Herald yesterday, was a former resident of Superior. In 1888 Mr. Flower came to Superior as city statistician and later he went into the employ of the Consolidated Land company in looking after legislation and securing the location of factories here.

For several years before he left Superior he was editor of the Superior Leader, a morning daily, which has since consolidated with the Clarion and is now published by J. S. Konkel as the Leader-Clarion, a weekly.

If a few more table guests would make it profitable for you to keep boarders, then you have business for a Herald want ad.

RAILROAD BEGINS WORK

After Long Delay Approaches to Viaduct Are Being Repaired.

City Attorney Secures Action Without Resorting to Courts.

The Northern Pacific railroad has started work on the south and east approaches of the Sixth avenue west viaduct. They have been in bad shape for many months, sadly needing repairs.

The city council instructed the city attorney last spring to institute proceedings against the company to compel it to do this work. Since that time he has been negotiating with the attorneys of the company, who in turn took the matter up with the officials. Had the city attorney resorted to the courts it is safe to say that the work would not have been started for several months to come. The legal mills grind slowly and take no heed of the pressing needs of the particular matter at issue. At different times the board of public works has been obliged to close the approaches. The planking was so rotten that several teams broke through. The rule laid down by the United States supreme court in the famous Lake avenue viaduct case, in which it was held that the railroad had to pay for the viaduct, is taken to apply in this case, holding that the railroads are obliged to keep the viaducts in repair.

No Other Stove Does This.

Cole's Hot Blast Heater maintains a continuous fire; also a steady, even heat. It will hold fire from Saturday night until Monday morning (48 hours). It will hold fire over night with less coal than any other stove. Open the drafts in the morning, and the rooms are quickly heated with the coal put in the night before. Come in and examine Cole's Original Hot Blast Heater. Price $12.00 and up, according to size. For sale by Bayha & Co.

DAMAGES FOR SPRAINED ANKLE

Alleged Defective Sidewalk Made Basis of Suit Against City.

Remi Vermander wants $590 from the city of Duluth for a sprained ankle he claims to have sustained through the negligence of the city in the matter of keeping its sidewalks in proper repair.

Vermander claims that the accident happened during the month of June, the present year. He was walking along Michigan street between Tenth and Eleventh avenues west about 10 p. m. when he stepped into a hole, he claims.

In falling he sprained his ankle, he says in his complaint. He claims that the city was negligent in that the sidewalk was out of repair, that there was no warning of danger and also that the street was not properly lighted.

The papers in the action were filed with the clerk of the district court this morning.

CITY WATER SUPPLY MUST BE INSTALLED.

Dr. H. E. Webster, health commissioner, has sent a letter to the Duluth Marine Supply company on Fifth avenue south, advising the company to connect its premises with the city water supply. It is claimed that the meat inspector recently detected some of the employes of the company washing livers intended for consumption with water dipped from the slip at the rear of the building.

The health officials say that this water is very filthy and that its use in this manner is a menace to health. The water main is said to end a block above the firm's place of business. It is claimed that before the company could reasonably be expected to put in city water, the city should first do its part by extending the main.

GIFT TO ORPHANAGE.

Clothing Firm Will Donate Part of Its Day's Sales.

Thursday of next week the firm of Kenney & Anker of this city will donate 10 per cent of its cash sales to St. James' orphanage. The children in the care of the orphanage were moved into the new building this summer, but there are yet many things to be provided. Kenney & Anker's generous offer is to help provide funds to complete the furnishing and equipment of the institution.

PREFERS EXECUTION TO HANGING BY MOB.

Jackson, Ky., Oct. 21.—Accepting sentence of death by electrocution rather than face probable hanging at the hands of a mob, Charles Little confessed and pleaded guilty in court to the murder of Matthew Crawford, who was ambushed at his distillery near this city last Tuesday. Little is in jail at Lexington, whither he was rushed under guard last night immediately after sentence was passed upon him. The trial took place while Crawford's friends were at his funeral.

Lands Superior Contract.

Washington, Oct. 21.—The Hecla Iron works, Brooklyn, N. Y., has been awarded the contract for the Marquise for the main entrance to the Superior, Wis., public building at $5,700.

Governor Catches Big Carp.

Stoughton, Wis., Oct. 21.—Governor J. O. Davidson, while fishing at Lake Kegonsa this week, drew in a monster carp weighing twelve pounds and measuring twenty-eight inches in length.

BUILDINGS TO COST $7,750,000

Government Will Ask for Competitive Plans for Federal Structures.

Washington, Oct. 20.—A massive aquarium for the fisheries bureau, a magnificent state dining room, and a comprehensive law library system are among the strong features of a trio of great department buildings to cost an aggregate of $7,750,000, soon to be erected in Washington under three architectural competitions.

The competitions are for the selections of architects of the buildings for the departments of state, justice and commerce and labor, costing respectively, under the authorization limiting the expenditures, $2,200,000, $1,900,000 and $3,650,000. The buildings will be erected just south of the treasury building.

The state department building is to have a ground area of 72,000 square feet. It will have 325 rooms, including a state dining room, two reception rooms and an international conference room, this feature alone taking up 6,000 square feet of floor space.

Big Law Library.

The department of justice building, with a ground area of 57,600 square feet, will contain 226 rooms. A feature will be the law library, which with the adjacent reading room will have a combined floor space of 7,500 square feet and main stock room on a mezzanine floor with 12,000 linear feet of book shelves.

The commerce and labor building, with 9,000 square feet of ground area, the largest structure of all, will have 450 rooms, including an aquarium occupying 28,000 feet of floor space and 75,000 square feet for the census bureau.

The state and justice building will be three stories and basement and the commerce and labor five stories and basement.

Collected Over $27,000,000.

Washington, Oct. 21.—Practically all of the corporation tax, aggregating in excess of $27,000,000, has been collected by the treasury department. The officials say it was collected with less annoyance and was paid apparently with less reluctance than any other internal revenue tax imposed.

Rhodes Scholarship Exams.

Washington, Oct. 21.—Examination papers for the Cecil Rhodes scholarships are being distributed by the bureau of education. The examination is to be held in every state of the union Oct. 25 and Oct. 26, for the purpose of selecting two students from each state to receive Rhodes scholarships in Oxford university.

MARKS EPOCH FOR CHURCH

Congregational Meeting the Most Important in Its History.

Movements for Centralization and Relations With Other Sects Are Begun.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 21.—The national council of Congregational churches, in taking final adjournment of its fourteenth triennial convention last night, closed what the leaders say was the most importat conference in its history. The session concluded a series of meetings which has lasted more than ten days.

Two decisions stamped the Boston meeting of the council as epoch-making, so far as Congregationalism is concerned—namely, the vote to centralize the source of denominational activity and authority, and secondly, the unequal number of affiliated Congregational church societies holding their annual meetings in connection with the council's triennial session.

Centralization Accomplished.

The centralization of activity and authority was brought about by the council's vote to constitute the members of the council the voting members of the various affiliated societies, which have heretofore been independent organizations. The effect of this action will be to bring the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, the Congregational Home Missionary service, and the American Missionary association under the direct control of the national council. This action will also tend to make the individual churches of the denomination, heretofore independent, answerable to the council.

A church policy committee will investigate the conditions and endeavor to adopt a workable plan for bringing about the proposed centralization. No radical transformation is looked for before the next triennial council meeting at Kansas City, Mo., in 1913.

The centennial of the founding of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions was held simultaneously with the meetings of the national council, and the centennial celebration brought to Boston missionaries of the denomination from all over the world.

Closer Relations With Others.

The meetings of the council and the affiliated societies were attended by 7,000 delegates and visitors, representing nearly 800,000 members of the denomination in all sections of the United States.

The council placed itself on record in resolutions as favoring closer relations with the Protestant Episcopal church in matters of church work and and worship, and as favoring a union with the United Brethren and the Methodist church.

SHAKE-UP IN THE NEW YORK POLICE

Baker, Bugher and Kirby Are Succeeded By Cropsey, Driscoll and Flynn.

New York, Oct. 21.—The long-expected shake-up in the administration of the police department occurred late yesterday when announcement was made from Mayor Gaynor's office that Police Commissioner W. F. Baker and his deputies, Frederick H. Bugher and Charles Kirby, had resigned.

James C. Cropsey, a Brooklyn lawyer, was named to succeed Mr. Baker; Clement Driscoll, who has attracted public attention recently by his activity as commissioner of weights and measures, was appointed first deputy, and Capt. William J. Flynn, chief operative of the United States secret service, was made head of the detective bureau.

The changes came with an abruptness not unfamiliar since Mayor Gaynor took office. It had been expected that the mayor, following the disagreement between Commissioner Baker and Acting Mayor Mitchel, while Mr. Gaynor was convalescing at St. James from his wound, would make changes in the department, and there was some surprise that he did not act earlier.

STEALS GAS TO HELP MAN HE WORKS FOR.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 21.—Charged with robbing the Philadelphia company of 50,000 cubic feet of gas daily for two months, Thurman Wells, an engineer of a local hotel, was arraigned in criminal court by a representative of the company and gave as his excuse that he was unable to secure enough gas to operate his boilers. Repeated complaints to the company brought no results, so Wells, according to his own statement, cut in a new connection from the main supply pipe, around the meter, thus preventing the gas from registering.

The hotel management knew nothing about the theft of the gas, but reimbursed the gas company, and Judge Carnahan paroled the prisoner for a year after reprimanding him, saying it was an unusual case for a man to steal something which did not benefit him, but to bring about better results in his work.

SHE SWEATS GLASS.

Peculiar Case of a Louisville Woman Puzzles Doctors.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 21.—One of the most remarkable cases ever brought to the notice of the local physicians, perhaps, is that of Georgia Brown, whose body appears to be full of broken bits of glass. More than 300 pieces of whitish-looking glass have come through her skin on various parts of her body. Her health seems to be excellent but for the wounds caused by the glass coming through her skin.

The woman declares that she has never fallen on any glass, and it would be impossible, according to the physicians, to swallow the glass and live more than a few hours.

The pieces of glass taken from her body ran from the size of a grain of corn to more than half an inch in diameter.

The case was discovered two weeks ago by Dr. W. H. Smith. Some of the glass had then already penetrated the skin, and almost the entire body of the woman was covered with little lumps.

USE OLD TELEPHONE TRICK.

Hotel "Rats" in Paris Get Big Roll of Bank Notes.

Paris, Oct. 21.—Hotel "rats" have just carried away from a hotel in the Rue de Rivoli, viz., $4,800 in bank notes. The thieves seem to belong to a rather better organized class than those who are usually called "rats," and who, as a rule, purloin purses and jewels from visitor's bedrooms. It was the cashier's till they raided, and the old telephone trick was brought into use successfully. Three strangers were loitering in the hall of the hotel, and managed on various pretexts to get all the attendants out of the cashier's room except the cashier himself. A confederate then rang up the hotel on the telephone, and the cashier went to answer the call. Why he went when there was no other clerk in the room is not explained. The telephone box is a few steps from the cashier's room in the hotel in question.

The cashier, on leaving his room, double-locked the door of the latter, but very unwisely omitted to lock the safe. The telephone call proved to be, as he thought, a mistake; but this was no surprise to one used to the Paris telephone, and he went back to his office, where a real surprise awaited him. The contents of his till had disappeared. How the thieves got into his room is not known, as there were no marks of the door having been broken open. They made away successfully with their plunder, and have not been traced. The booty might have been larger a few minutes later, as a clerk arrived with $10,000 more in ready money, having cashed various checks.

HITCHCOCK SEEKS CURB ON FRANKING PRIVILEGE.

Washington, Oct. 21. — Postmaster General Hitchcock aims a blow at the franking privileges of congressmen, so useful in political work, by the announcement of his intention to advocate the substitution of special official stamps and stamped envelopes for the various forms of franks now used to carry free of postage the vast volume of departmental and congressional mail matter.

All special official envelopes and stamps for free mail are to be issued on requisition to the various branches of the federal service requiring them, and records are to be kept of all official stamp supplies as will enable this department to maintain a proper postage account, covering the entire volume of free governmental mail.

WENDLING WILL BE TRIED IN STATE COURT.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 21.—Judge Walter Evans, in the federal court for the Western district of Kentucky, yesterday remanded back to the state court the case of Joseph Wendling, who is charged with the murder of Alma Kellner. Counsel for Wendling sought to transfer the case to the federal court on the ground that Wendling, being an alien, is entitled to a jury one half of which shall be aliens, and going on the assumption that the state court had no right to grant a jury composed of six aliens.

Judge Evans held that the state court has a right to grant Wendling such a jury but did not state whether this right is discretionary or compulsory.

SEEKS BIG DAMAGES.

After Settling With Soo Victim Asks for $54,000.

Fergus Falls, Minn., Oct. 21.—Earnest P. Lindgren has begun suit in the district court in this city against the Soo Railway company, on account of injuries sustained in an accident March 17, 1906. The accident occured near Vergas.

Mr. Lindgren, who was at that time a minor, was employed as a student brakeman and fell between two cars. It is alleged that his fall was due to a defective running board. Mr. Lindgren had his left arm cut off, three toes cut from one foot and one from the other, his eye was badly hurt, and he sustained other injuries. It is claimed further that he suffered mentally and that his earning capacity is reduced at least one half. He settled for $1,000. The complaint alleges that this was grossly inadequate, that he had no right to settle, being a minor, and he now demands damages in the sum of $54,000. Of this, $22,900 is for reduced earning capacity; $500 for doctors' bills and $35,000 for his injuries.

SEVENTY-SEVEN KILLED FIGHTING WESTERN FIRES.

Washington, Oct. 21.—Seventy-seven men heroically gave their lives in their efforts to subdue the disastrous forest fires which raged in the West during the latter part of August, according to figures given out by the forest service. These were mostly temporary employes engaged for the express purpose of fighting the fires.

The bodies of the victims were buried where they were found, but as soon as suitable arrangements can be made, those unclaimed by friends or relatives will be buried upon national forest reserve sites. A fund is being raised by members of the forest service for decorating the graves with simple but permanent memorials.

WOMAN LED DOUBLE LIFE

Played Revolutionist and Imperial Spy at Same Time.

Now Living in Berlin in Hourly Fear of Death.

Berlin, Oct. 21.—Two fascinating and romantic personalities who have figured prominently in the thrilling political events that have taken place in Russia during the last few years and now in Berlin and constitute objects of keen interest to students of Russian affairs, which reveal so many unique features.

Miss Leonidova is one of them, and State Councilor Leonid Menchikoff is the other. The life stories of both prove once more that "truth is stranger than fiction." Miss Leondidova appeared at Moscow some six or seven years ago, and began to associate with the writers, artists and students of the ancient Russian capital. No one knew whence she came or to whom she belonged, but she just took her place in that gay and ruthless Bohemian circle and was popular among her comrades by reason of her joyous nature and intelligence.

As a matter of fact, Miss Leonidova was the daughter of a high state official in a remote Russian province, and having lost both her parents at an early age, she was left alone in the world with a fortune entirely inadequate to satisfy her luxurious tastes. In Moscow she led a gay life, and soon became involved in financial difficulties, having contracted debts which she was unable to pay. But her friends helped her out now and then, and she muddled through her various difficulties, today in love with one young student and tomorrow with some talented young artist.

Rivalry Bitter.

In one of these youthful love affairs she found that she was competing for the affections of a handsome young fellow with a girl who was known to belong to the revolutionary party. The other girl, Alexa Spiridoff by name, emerged from this contest as victor, and drew to herself the bitter hostility of the jealous Leonidova. The latter, in her blind desire for revenge, went to the palace and denounced Alexa Spiridoff to them as a dangerous revolutionist.

Miss Spiridoff was exiled to Siberia, and the police eagerly seized upon the opportunity of utilizing Miss Leonidova as a spy for their own purposes. No suspicion had fallen upon her as the cause of Miss Spiridoff's arrest and banishment, and when the police authorities encouraged her to seek closer relations with the revolutionary party in order to worm out their secrets and then to betray them, she experienced no difficulty whatever in gaining the absolute confidence of the leaders of the terrorist group in Moscow.

Not only did she gain their confidence, but she herself became one of the leaders of the group, planning and plotting dynamiting outrages and murderous assaults on the czar, the members of the Russian imperial family and high state functionaries. All the time she was leading a double life, on the one side inciting her revolutionary comrades to new deeds of violence, and on the other side betraying them relentlessly to the police.

Police Make Plots.

These "agents provocateurs," who in the service of the Russian police encourage terrorist outrages, are the most revolting features of that corrupt Russian officialdom which creates outrages in order to have the glory of suppressing them. In many cases it has been proved that the Russian police themselves organize and stimulate those plots which they then reveal to the government, at the same time bringing heavy punishment on their deluded victims.

Not long ago Miss Leonidova fell deeply in love with a clever young writer, Alexis Petrinoff, also a member of the revolutionary party. She confessed to him her double life, and offered to abandon her work for the police if he desired this sacrifice of her. But Petrinoff, attracted by the slary of $500 a month which the police were paying to Miss Leonidova persuaded her to continue her treachery in order that he might live on the proceeds of her duplicity. Accordingly the two lovers together continued to betray their comrades and lived luxuriously on the proceeds of perpetual duplicity.

Then came exposure and discovery and the menace of death at the hands of the betrayed revolutionists The guilty pair hurried to Paris to present themselves before the supreme revolutionary tribunal, which met in that city far beyond the Russian borders and beyond the grip of the Russian police, to decide on their case. The revolutionary tribunal found that both of them were guilty and condemned them to death. Both were told that they would be executed by some emissary of the revolutionary party at some convenient time and opportunity.

Petrinoff, a coward, fled with precipitation to South America, and is now in concealment somewhere in the Argentine Republic. Miss Leonidova came to Berlin, where she lives in hourly fear of death at the hands of her former revolutionary comrades. Day and night, at home and in the street, the shadow of death hovers over her, for she knows she cannot permanently escape the relentless vengeance of the men whom she betrayed. This perpetual fear of death is far more terrible than death itself, and unless the revolutionaries strike their fatal blow with rapidity Miss Leonidova will become a raving maniac.

In Secret Service.

State Councilor Menchikoff was for more than twenty years one of the most active members of the Russian secret service. In 1887, when he was a revolutionary, and was sentenced to imprisonment for participation in a prohibited political movement. After his condemnation he gained the favor of the authorities by betraying his comrades. As a reward he was released from prison and taken into the secret police service. His career was intensely successful and for fully two decades he had a complete insight into the methods of the Russian police.

Last year the well known Russian revolutionist, Burzeff, began to make his astonishing revelations regarding the double activity of the Russian police in inciting outrages and encouraging conspiracies in order to reap the glory of discovering and suppressing them. Burzeff's revelations are still fresh in the public's memory. It is known that State Councilor Menchikoff gave him the information which enabled him to startle the world with his disclosures.

Menchikoff having been discovered as Burzeff's informer, has fled from Russia and is now in Berlin, a fugitive from the country which he served for so many years. He declares he will make new revelations regarding the infamies of the Russian police which will put into the shade all the strange stories related by Burzeff.

AN ABSOLUTE NESCESITY

So Thinks at Least One Traveling Man.

I would as soon think of starting out without my mileage books and grip as to start out on a trip without a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in my valise, said a traveling man who represents a St. Louis hardware house. Why? Because I have to put up at all kinds of hotels and boarding houses. I have to eat good, bad and indifferent food at all hours of the day and night and I don't believe any man's stomach will stand that sort of thing without protest, anyway I know mine won't. It has to have something to break the fall and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the crutch I fall back on.

My friends often "josh" me about it, tell me I'm an easy mark for patent medicine fakers, that advertised medicines are humbugs, etc., but I notice that they are nearly always complaining of their aches and pains and poor digestion, while I can stand most any old kind of fare and feel good and ready for my work when it needs me, and I believe I owe my good digestion and sound health to the daily, regular use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, year in and year out, and all the "josling" in the world will never convince me to the contrary.

I used to have heartburn about three times a day and a headache about three or four times a week and after standing for this for four or five years I began to look around for a crutch and found it when my doctor told me the best investment I could make would be a fifty-cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and I have invested about fifty cents a month for them ever since and when I stop to think that that is what I spend every day for cigars, I feel like shaking hands with myself for I can keep my stomach and digestion in first-class order for fifty cents a month. I don't care for any better life insurance.

My druggist tells me they are the most popular of all stomach medicines and that they have maintained their popularity and success because they do as advertised. They bring results, and results are what count in a patent medicine as much as in selling hardware.

IS GETTING DANGEROUS.

Duelist in Germany Struck Accidentally By a Bullet.

Berlin, Oct. 21.—Duelists will really have to be more careful. It is becoming quite dangerous to entrust them with pistols. For the second time recently a combatant has been struck accidentally by a bullet. It was only by a happy chance that he escaped a wound.

Herr Joachim von Bethman-Hollweg of Runowo, cousin of the German chancellor, went out in the Grunewald forest to fight a duel with the owner of a neighboring estate, Count Heinrich von der Goltz. The reasons for the combat were not stated, but it is held that they must have been very grave, inasmuch as the conditions were that shots should be exchanged until one of the parties was incapacitated.

At the second shot a bullet from Herr Bothmann-Hollweg's pistol ricocheted off a tree and struck his adversary in the abdomen. Count von der Goltz, who is 55, was not wounded, but was so severely shaken by the impact that the seconds decided that he was incapacitated under the conditions agreed upon.

ROBBERY SOLVED.

Hoosier Youth Tried to Corner False-Face Market.

Logansport, Ind., Oct. 21.—The attempt of 6-year-old Harry Jenness to corner the false-face market led to a solution of the mysterious robbery at the Adams Express company transfer station here last Saturday, in which a package containing $130 was stolen.

Ray Hawkins, aged 13 years, confessed to the police that he snatched the envelope containing the money as it fell from a truck in which it was being transferred from an express car.

With the money in his possession he rallied about him his chums, Garrett Finley, 13; Fred Jenness, 12, and set out for the theater, first laying in a supply of popcorn, peanuts and candy. Leaving the theater he made his way to a novelty store and solemnly ordered some false faces.

"Give me this many," he said, showing the astonished shopkeeper four $20 bills. For less than half that amount he secured every face in the store and tottered home under his burden.

An older brother hearing his story took him to police headquarters where he told his story and Hawkins was brought in and confessed. Hawkins returned $79.

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Need Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Brookfield, Mo.—"Two years ago I was unable to do any kind of work and only weighed 118 pounds. My trouble dates back to the time that women may expect nature to bring on them the Change of Life. I got a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it made me feel much better, and I have continued its use. I am very grateful to you for the good health I am now enjoying."—Mrs. SARAH LOUSIGNONT, 414 S. Livingston Street, Brookfield, Mo.

The Change of Life is the most critical period of a woman's existence, and neglect of health at this time invites disease and pain.

Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs.

For 30 years it has been curing women from the worst forms of female ills—inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, and nervous prostration.

If you would like special advice about your case write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

PORTIONS OF THE HUMAN STOMACH

Thrive at Lively Rate When Removed From the Body.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 21.—Along lines conceived by himself and worked out under the guidance of the Hopkins men who are at the head of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, Dr. Alexius Carrel has made one of the most important and startling medical discoveries of the age.

Briefly, Dr. Carrel's discovery involves a method for renewal from the human body portions of the stomach, blood vessels, skin, bone and practically every other tissue, and make them grow at as lively a rate as they did in the human form to which they belonged.

No public announcement of the discovery has been made yet, and but a limited number of the members of the medical profession are informed of the character of the discovery, or, indeed, that a discovery of this nature has been made by the experimenters at the Rockefeller institute.

Dr. Carrel has kept portions of the body alive as long as three weeks after they were taken from the persons to whom they belonged.

The method of cultivating the living body, or portions of it, is somewhat similar to the cultivation of disease germs, and is by the aid of culture material within sealed receptacles. The value to humanity of the successful development of the methods employed by Dr. Carrel is incalculable. Through the study of living tissues the whole progress of disease may be followed and the way pointed out for the application of proper and effective remedies.

YOUNG BRIDE

In Jail a Whole Day and Aged Husband Vows Vengeance.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 21.—Like a couple of "kids" making off for a picnic, William Kroener, aged 68, and Bertha Kroener, his wife, aged 21, left the Jeffersonville police court hand in hand, the latter having been freed on the charge of making a false statement regarding her health in order to secure a license that she might marry her aged lover.

After the marriage she was arrested for swearing falsely, it being alleged the bride was an epileptic and could not under the Indiana law secure a license without stating she was not afflicted with the malady.

The girl-wife spent the day in jail. The aged husband vows vengeance.

SORCERER PICKED ELITE IN CAPITAL

As His Victims and Police Say He Made Rich Haul.

Washington, Oct. 21.—When Leon De Voux, self-styled sorcerer, mystic and seer, threw his net in Washington, he captured "suckers" and "sheepheads" a plenty—and some few goldfish.

The goldfish—men and women of wealth and social standing in Washington—today are squirming. Having foolishly confided details of their domestic infelicity to paper and intrusted the paper to the seer, the poor goldfish who were unwary enough to be caught by the supposed efficacy of a charm composed of a lock of hair and some ashes in a chamois bag, are having some very unhappy moments. The police have the letters and are guarding them very closely.

De Voux, who was arrested and taken to the police court, sold love charms at prices varying from $20 to $100. A single day of business netted him $204.

One of the most startling of the letters comes, the police say, from a woman clerk in one of the government departments. She declares she wishes a return of love from one of the department chiefs.

The letters, hundreds of them, come from all over the world, London, New York, Washington, Chicago and cities in Maryland, Virginia, Ohio and scores of other states.

As a sample of some of the instructions, the following sent to a New York woman is given:

"Beloved Friend: These are the instructions which you are to follow: On Thursday, the 17th, in the afternoon, you will please take from the walls of the house in which you live two nails, and at 12 midnight you will be in a room seated at a table. Inclosed you will find a small square brick and a cone-shaped package. At midnight you will place the nails in a small tin plate, with their heads in opposite positions.

"Now you will take a match and light the four corners of the brick, and where the fire is burning you will blow it very hard for thirteen times, and each time you blow you will please make a wish.

"Now, then, you will please open the little cone and pour very carefully on top of the brick. Now you place the fingers of both hands together and hold both hands laced together above the burning brick five inches above the brick, so as to let the smoke from the brick pass up against the palms of your hands and pass through your fingers.

"This will take about one hour and fifteen minutes. Please sit in this position until all the smoke has ceased to rise, then leave it stand until the following morning, when you will place the ashes in an envelope and mail to me.

"The two nails you will keep until I further instruct you.

"Yours in Holy Occult Love,
"PROF. LEON DE VOUX".

His arrest was brought about by Mrs. Murrilla Thornburg, matron of the First precinct station, who posed as a government clerk.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF POLITICS AND POLITICIANS

LaFollette Man From Wisconsin Asks Some Pertinent Questions as Test of Insurgency—Lindbergh Meeting Wednesday Instead of Tuesday—Judge Stanton Generally Indorsed for Re-Election—Red Lake County Has Usual Row.

There were a whole lot of definitions sprung at last night's banquet of the Young Men's Republican club, and it's too bad that "Jack" wasn't there to make a volunteer talk about the things he has learned while here and written about to "Dad." Maybe Jack did attend that meeting, though, and hasn't got around to writing Dad about it. Anyway, here's a copy of his latest letter to Dad, and it deals with definitions. Too bad it wasn't available last night.

La Follette Man Defines "An Insurgent."

Dear old Dad—Met a man from Wisconsin. A fellow that is one of Bob La Follette's devoted admirers and followers. Got his definition of a progressive, or insurgent. Here it is, or rather here are the questions he asked me:

"Did he vote for the Payne-Aldrich tariff?

"Did he go into the Republican caucus?

"Did he stay out and vote for or against Cannon?

"D'd he vote for the old rules, or did he vote to have the rules changed?

"For which change did he vote?

"Did he vote to remove the speaker from the rules committee?

"Did he vote to oust Mr. Cannon from the chair?

"Did he vote to have the house itself appoint the Ballinger-Pinchot committee?

"Did he have his patronage taken from him?"

My new acquaintance calms that the answering of the above questions tells the story. He further stated that had he a vote here his vote would not be for Mr. Miller. By that statement it would seem to me that a fellow that is a devoted admirer and follower of Bob La Follette would not support Mr. Miller. You see this fellow says that there is no reason for compromise—that there is no half-way progressive, no mild progressive—that the only way the people at large are to benefit are to put men in office who will always vote as they talk when they are home with the people of their district. That they will not only hear the voice, but will obey it. He mentioned three members of the Wisconsin delegation, Messrs. Lenroot, Nelson and Cary. It seems these three fellows are dyed-in-the-wool progressives, and were renominated by larger pluralities than ever ever. He also mentioned Congressman Lindbergh of this state.

Now, dad, if there are very many in this district that get to looking at this question in the light that this fellow does, and I understand he is not afraid to talk it over with any one, then there is no question about Mr. Miller's defeat, all of which makes me feel very blue today. For there is no question in my own mind that if the definition of a progressive as outlined by my Wisconsin friend, is applied to Mr. Miller's case, that the majority of people will decide that Mr. Miller is not a progressive.

This makes me feel so badly that I am not in good condition to write you more today, and will let the rest go 'till some other time. Sincerely, JACK.

Mr. Miller said he was an insurgent and is one now. Too bad this letter and Jack were not available between 12 and 1 o'clock this morning, when Mr. Miller was insurging.

The Lindbergh-Elmquist meeting, for which arrangements have been made by the Svea Republican club, will be held at the Armory Wednesday evening instead of Tuesday, as at first announced. Inability to get the Armory Tuesday night was responsible for the change in plans, and yesterday the officials of the club got into communication with Congressman Lindbergh and Dr. Elmquist by 'phone and persuaded them to alter their dates in accordance with the necessities of the situation here.

Lindbergh Here Wednesday, Not Tuesday.

There is a good deal of curiosity being manifested by Duluthians in regard to the real inwardness of Congressman Lindbergh's coming to Duluth. He is the insurgent par excellence of the Minnesota delegation, and the question being asked is whether he has been prevailed upon to say something in his speech that may be interpreted to be an indorsement of the candidacy of Mr. Miller.

Maybe Mr. Miller has been making promises again.

Senator Clapp made a speech at Willmar this week that reminds one of old times, in a way. The senator was talking about the things that the Republican party has done in the way of state legislation, and he also adverted to what it has attempted to do. He told of the passage by Republican legislators of a tonnage tax bill and of its veto by the late Governor Johnson in these words:

Senator Clapp Hurks Back Just a Bit.

Look and see what the Republican party has accomplished in Minnesota, the senator went on. "This state today stands the acknowledged leader in the United States today as regards legislation for the people against corporations. The railroads have been compelled to submit to just rates and a fair taxation because of the work of the Republican party, and the United States Steel corporation would today have had to pay their just share of the tax burden through a tonnage tax but for the veto of a Democratic governor. It it reasonable, in the face of such happenings as these, to believe that the Republican party has the active support of these interests?

Just what sort of a hit would such talk as this make in Northern Minnesota?

Congressman C. B. Miller begins campaigning tonight, speaking at Two Harbors with State Senator George R. Laybourn, candidate for re-election on the Republican ticket. Other Republican speakers may be heard at the meeting, which will be held under difficulties, for the Metropolitan opera house, in which such gatherings are usally held at Two Harbors, burned down recently.

About the Burning of That Opera House.

In this connection, some rather dark hints have been thrown carelessly about at Republican headquarters. It is quietly whispered about that any observant person may have noticed the opera house did not burn down until after Judge Jaques had held a meeting in Two Harbors, and that it is only reasonable to assume the Democrats knew Mr. Miller would want to hold a meeting in Two Harbors.

The Democrats ignore the slanderous inference.

The newspapers of the Fifteenth judicial district are very flattering in their mention of Judge Stanton's candacy. The judge has just filed his petition with the secretary of state as an independent candidate for re-election. On the petition were more than twice the number of names required by law.

Judge Stanton Is Highly Praised.

In many of the newspapers of the district strong editorials have been published favoring the retention of Judge Stanton because of the very satisfactory character of his services. In a number of such editorials emphasis has also been laid on the necessity of "keeping the judiciary out of politics."

From the clippings which appear below some idea may be gained of the respect in which Judge Stanton is held, and the value placed on his work on the bench. His support includes the great majority of all of the papers published in the eight counties comprising the district.

Press comment:

Intends to Jump Traces.

Rainy River Region: And one of the very first cases in which we intend to jump the traces is in the election of district judge. Judge Stanton, the nonpartisan candidate for that office, is a man of such brilliant mind and so many sterling qualities that the voters would make a grave mistake if they failed to support him. If any office should be kept out of politics the judgeship is one, and we hope the voters in Judge Stanton's district will take into consideration his great record as a lawyer and a judge and re-elect him by a handsome majority.

Wants Stanton's Place.

Bemidji Pioneer: When Judge Stanton received his appointment by Governor Johnson not a word of criticism was heard. Republicans and Democrats alike commended the act of the governor.

Nearly every newspaper in the district made kindly reference to the appointment, and these encomiums are just as applicable now as when he was appointed. He has, indeed, by faithful and able service on the bench, justified the high expectations of the public. Opposition to his re-election has arisen solely because another wants his place, and it remains for the voters of this judicial district to say whether, upon this ground alone, an able and conscientious judge should be taken from our district bench.

Is Heartily Indorsed.

Bagley Herald: Because Judge Stanton's candidacy rests upon a record of exceptional value to the Fifteenth judicial district, having discharged the duties of his high office with promptness, thoroughness and fairness to all concerned and has lost no opportunity to advance the best interests of all, regardless of part or political fortunes. He has refused many flattering offers for the nomination of governor, and no doubt could be elected to this great office, but he believed he owed his entire time and energies to his present important position. The Herald heartily indorses his candidacy.

The campaign in Red Lake county centers on the county division question, Thief River Falls being the proponent of the scheme, to which Red Lake Falls objects with characteristic energy. For six years the courts have wrestled with the question of locating the county seat, with the result that Thief River Falls was defeated in its contentions. The division movement grows out of the preceding fight for removal of the seat from Red Lake to Thief River.

War Continues In Red Lake County.

Candidates for county offices in Red Lake are:

Auditor—A. A. Latendresse.
Treasurer—Gustav G. Kindseth.
Register of deeds—Frank Jeffers.
Judge of probate—Ira C. Richardson.
Sheriff—Charles J. Fellman.
Superintedent of schools—Herman F. Anderson.
Clerk of court—Charles W Johnson
Court commissioner—Simon Paul
Coroner—Joseph Belair

Jeffers, Johnson and Anderson are running for re-election. If it wasn't for the division fight, there'd be little use to hold an election in the county.

Why You Should Buy a Stewart Heater

Here are some absolute facts concerning the Stewart Base Burners. Study the detail construction shown in this illustration and note the large hot air flue that extends the entire length of the stove. The flue is over five inches in diameter and you will notice that it is curved over the fire pot. This is a great economical feature found only in Stewart Heaters. The cold air being taken in at the bottom of the heater is so intensely heated when it reaches the top that a match can be lighted by holding it twenty-four inches above the stove. No other heater will do this. The opening or collar of this hot air flue is seven inches in diameter—the largest on the market.

Cut Down Your Coal Bill

A Stewart Base Burning Heater will circulate every ounce of air entirely through the stove and into a room size 12x15 feet, with a 12-foot ceiling, in 50 minutes, so that you can readily see that by circulating this air through the stove in this time, it makes warm to a comfortable and even degree all parts of the room. Another important point, a Stewart heater will give one-fourth more heat with one-fourth less fuel than any other heater of equal size. These few facts explain why there are more Stewart stoves in use at the Head of the Lakes than all other makes combined.

WE TAKE YOUR OLD STOVE

Remember, we take your old Stove or Range and allow you all it is worth as part payment on a Stewart Heater. The balance we can arrange in small payments as low as—

ONE DOLLAR PER WEEK.

LOT OWNERS,

WHY PAY RENT?

We will build on your lot in Duluth from $1,000 and up, without a down payment. We can build six more houses this fall.

Why not start the new year right by living in your own home. BE ONE OF THE LUCKY SIX and save money by having us build for you NOW.

Our organization consists of expert builders, architects, electricians, masons, etc., and our plan is to save you the trouble and expense of dealing with the middlemen. You come to us and give us an idea as to what you want; we discuss plans, details, etc., with you personally, and we then submit you estimates of cost. In merging of the many trades-professions and the middlemen necessary for construction in one company, we find economy for you and a fair profit for us.

If you so desire it we finance the erection without any disbursements whatsoever on your part, on the following basis, which in fairness will immediately appeal to you:

We take first and second mortgage for cost of construction; second mortgage to be paid off monthly on TERMS TO SUIT, and first mortgage to run five years or to be paid off at your convenience. YOU TO HOLD TITLE TO YOUR LOT.

In our architectural department we have plans of every description, or we will build from your own plans.

We Are Going Sell Some of Our Best $18.50 Coats at $15.00 Tomorrow!

What do you think of that?

Yes, the coats are the most wanted long 52 and 54 inch models. Some of the collars are close-fitting and very protective, others are long lapel models which carry furs so gracefully.

Choose from Black or Navy Kerseys and Fancy Mixtures.

This offer is for one day only—our regular fifteen dollar line is undoubtedly the strongest in the city—and when we put a lot of our best $18.50 models in at $15.00—you've surely got great picking.

All sizes from Misses' 16, to Women's 44.

WE HAVEN'T HEARD

THAT ANY OTHER STORE APPROACHED OUR $25 to $45 SUITS IN STYLE OR VALUE,

HAVE YOU?

WE THINK ITS THE SAME ON COATS—DON'T YOU?

Girls Should See Our Nifty New Coats

Just look at the styles—see how smart they are—note their uncommonness—then have your mother examine the quality. Note that many of our coats are flannel lined.

Prices are almost the same everywhere—mostly $5.00 to $25.00, but it's what you get that makes the difference. Most for the money here.

Your Feet Deserve Carefully Fitted Good Shoes That Look Well!

SOMETIMES we advise a customer to take a $4 shoe—sometimes a $3 shoe, and sometimes a $5 shoe, but whatever shoe we advise, we do so having in mind that satisfaction which brings back a customer "for another pair like the last ones."

Our big assortment of various styles and sizes, lasts and qualities, enables us to fit any foot for any special need whether for house wear, for dress wear or for street wear.

The New Models in Women's High-grade Shoes Are Ready.

PATENT, dull or glazed kid leathers with cloth or dull kid tops—plain toes or tipped toes—welted or turned soles—either lace or button models—high or low heels. In fact, the shoe that suits you best is here and whether you pay us $3.00, $3.50, $4.00 or $5.00, you get the utmost of value and the best of style for your money.

Misses' Shoes at $1.50, $2. $2.50

HIGH grade shoes for girls' school or dress wear—the new styles made on natural foot-shape lasts for growing feet—and made of good materials—and sold at most reasonable prices—sizes 11½ to 2, in various good makes at $1.50, $2.00 and $2.50 the pair.

Children's Shoes $1.25 to $2.00

MANY of our children's shoes are cut from pieces of the skins from which our best women's shoes are cut. These pieces are too small to cut further for women's shoes, but afford plenty of extra fine material for children's shoes. That is why the stock is better than common in these natural foot-shape shoes which we sell in sizes 8½ to 11 at $1.25, $1.50, $1.75 and $2.00 a pair.

Boys' Shoes at $1.25 to $2.50

THESE are made from extra stout materials—with heavy solid leather soles, in blucher, lace models and offered as trade building values, at $1.25 to $2.50 the pair. They'll stand a lot of grief—and will outwear two pairs of thick, solid half soles.

Many New Winter Styles.

IN HATS TO BE SHOWN FOR THE FIRST TIME TOMORROW.

Have you failed to get your winter hat yet? Of course, the glorious autumn weather has not made it necessary to buy earlier—but now that colder weather has come, these rich new hats will be irresistible to you!

No two hats alike here—you can't bribe us to duplicate one of our hats.

We will, however, adapt, modify or originate a hat which will be particularly becoming to you and which will have a style and individuality of rare charm.

You Will Like Our Furs!

THERE ARE MANY EXTRA GOOD KINDS AT REASONABLE PRICES.

At $18.50 the set, we offer large shawl collars and huge half bolster muffs in either "Russian Wolf" or Wallaby. Each of these furs are rich in appearance—the former greatly resembling the black wolf and the latter somewhat like the black lynx. Both will wear splendidly.

Our Mink Furs are magnificent! And prices are most fair. You'll find it decidedly advantageous to make selections here now!

While we sell some furs at $375.00 the set—and they're worth every penny of their price—we do not neglect the needs of those who wish the less expensive!

CHILDREN'S BEAVER HATS. New shapes, in wanted colors. Prices reasonable!

WE SHOW MANY PRETTY HATS AT $5.00—BUT We can offer you most surprising hats at $6.00, $8.00, $10.00 and $12.00, and the woman who wants the finest possible can get it here—at a fair price!

For instance, we have some French hare muffs and collars at $5.00 the set, which are really quite satisfactory. But it is the furs at $15.00 to $75.00 the set of which we have greatest reason to be proud.

CHILDREN'S FUR SETS. Good furs—good styles—$4.00 to $20.00 the set.

BUTTER HAS AN ADVANCE

Buyers Are Surpised By Sudden Increase in Market Prices.

Eggs Hold Steady and Potatoes Have Promised Decrease in Value.

The features of the produce market this week have been a sharp drop in potato values, an advance in butter and a remarkably firm egg market. The advance in butter probably the most important development from a news standpoint because the strength in eggs and the weakness in potatoes followed naturally a period of expectancy. The price changes in eggs and potatoes were regarded by buyers as a matter of course, while the advance in butter was sudden and occasioned as much surprise as it was unexpected.

The butter market is now in an extremely healthy condition, the advance in prices for fancy creamery undoubtedly helping the market. Buyers this week have had no hesitancy in paying 31c freely for fancy makes of creamery butter. Some stock which has been held back on account of unsatisfactory conditions was allowed to come forward as rapidly as shipments could be made by the creameries which took advantage of the upturn to clear as much stock as possible.

On the advance retailers and consumers showed more willingness to take on stocks of butter when they learned that the risk of being heavily caught on a declining market had been minimized and all offerings sold more readily at the advance than when so much uncertainty pervaded the trade. Receipts showed a decrease from last week but were larger than at the same time last year. The volume of business was good and the market at the close of the week is in an exceptionally healthy condition. Prices for dairy and packing stock remain firm and unchanged.

The principal characteristic of the egg market was its sustained strength. Much of the firmness was due to the fact that the movement of strictly fresh eggs from the farms was of disappointing volume. The supply was insufficient to meet the requirements of the trade and storage eggs were substituted for fresh laid stock. Prices firmed from 27c to 27@28c. Fresh eggs were scarce and in sharp demand. Consumers did not enter the market as heavily as in the previous week although the consumptive demand continued moderate. The deficit in receipts was too great to be overcome by the falling off in the consumptive demand. The market at the close of the week is buoyant although the trade is in restricted volume.

Potatoes dropped from 70@75c to 65c a bushel. Shipments from Wisconsin and Michigan several days ago were affected by the temperatures which were unusually warm for this time of the year. Early clearance of fresh receipts seemed a necessity and those who held stock on track for higher prices found that their holdings were deteriorating. When temperatures fell sharply toward the close of the week there still was a heavy supply of stock on hand. The decline in temperatures did not affect values favorably as the shading of prices did not stimulate buying. The market was not in a healthy condition toward the close of the week.

* * *

The demand for poultry continued broad and arrivals were well taken. After the Jewish holidays, however, prices continued slightly weaker. Hens declined and there was a pronounced weakness in turkeys, both dressed and live. The poultry market has been active with the exception of turkeys, which have been the slowest sellers on the list.

* * *

The demand for cheese improved slightly, although the consumption was not as broad as receivers had hoped for. Foreign makes were stronger than Americans and a Swiss variety registered an advance of 1c. Buyers are complaining of high prices. The market is free of accumulations and receivers are not under the necessity of shading values to move stock.

* * *

Apples, pears, lemons and grapes held the center of the fruit stage. Lemons were rigidly sustained at firm prices. The demand was of good character and the supply limited. Grapes were received in large quantities from New York and Michigan. The quality of offerings was poor and the trade was restricted on that account. The season for Muchigan grapes is nearing an end, and New York will be relied upon to furnish the bulk of arrivals from now on.

* * *

Prices for canned fruits were checked by favorable weather, but the warm and agreeable climatic conditions did not increase the pack of any variety of fruit or vegetable. Recent heavy rains have put a stop to tomato operations. Few canned goods will be carried over into next season. In fact, there are many varieties already unobtainable, and it is probable that dealers will try to increase the demand for others to make up for their absence. Among the canned goods most affected are strawberries, blueberries, plums, pears, fancy apples, tomatoes, salmon and sardines. Offerings of maple syrup and maple sugar are difficult to find.

A shortage is declared to exist in the pickle crop which has just been harvested. The crop for 1910, it is said, did not make half of an average yield for the entire country. Pickling factories contract for 50,000 acres in this country, principally in Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Iowa, Wisconsin and Minnesota. Owing to the drouth a large percentage of seed did not germinate, and in no part of the country did the crop produce an average yield. The loss will fall on the farmers, as they get a stipulated price per bushel or pound for the cucumbers, with no increase in price to compensate for decreased yields.

Owing to the shortage in fruits and vegetables there has been an enormous increase in the consumption of pickled products, and there will not be enough to supply the ordinary wants of the retail dealers. The cucumber crop abroad and in Canada was a failure, and buyers are trying to get supplies in this country.

Nebraska, now candidate for United States senator, delivered me a long address in support of the theory that genius and gratitude are incompatible. Mr. Hitchcock at the moment was referring to Mr. Bryan—though he cited Napoleon and Washington as his examples. Probably he has not changed his opinion this year.

Here in Indiana the same opinion is quite generally held with regard to Senator Beveridge. He is admired rather than loved. Men hold him more of an orator than a friend, more of a man struggling for his own place in high public office than one who cares for his own party, or even his own faction in that party. In writing this I am giving the consensus of opinions gathered from Republicans only.

Helped by Magazines.

But Beveridge is a capitivating orator, and during the fight in congress on the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill co-operated ably and zealously with the insurgent element. He has with him the magazines—which nowadays exert great influence. Right now a reprint of a long eulogy of Beveridge published in a New York magazine is being circulated far and wide over the state.

Is Personally Unpopular.

In my own judgment, however—fallible as it is—Senator Beveridge is going to be beaten. Col. Roosevelt's strenuous speech-making in Indiana to the contrary notwithstanding. If not by a Democrat, by defections within his own party. He is not popular with his party; he is popular with nobody who comes within range of his egotistical personality. It was easy for him to control the convention which put him in nomination for this very simple reason: Out of the thirteen congressional districts in Indiana, eleven are Democratic. Unwritten political law gives to the senator of the dominant party control of federal patronage in all congressional districts represented in congress by a member of the minority. Senator Beveridge had, and used, the patronage for the eleven Democratic districts. He did not have to divide, for his colleague in the senate is Senator Shively, a Democrat, who could not get a "look in" at the White House. This control of patronage is the foundation of the Beveridge machine.

Of Unquestioned Integrity.

But, of course, there is much more than that in the Beveridge strength. All men admit his ability, many believe in his sincerity. I have been in Washington as long—or longer—than he, and have never heard a man question his integrity. If can asily contnd tion his integrity. He writes well—and too much. He can easily contend with Henry Cabot Lodge for the perilous title of the scholar in politics. Not rich himself, he is wealthy by a fortunate marriage. He is able to maintain the position which is now demanded of a United States senator since that end of the capitol became much of a millionaire's club.

A Belated Insurgent.

Senator Beveridge saw the force of the insurgent movement at home, and joined it at Washington, though somewhat belatedly. He voted against the Payne-Aldrich bill and that vote if anything will save his political future. But he voted for the ship subsidy bill, and for Mark Hanna's amendment repealing the interstate commerce law so far as it applied to ship owners—the amendment that was intended to legalize the J. P. Morgan shipping trust.

I find it the prevailing impression here that Beveridge is not a thoroughgoing insurgent. He is regarded rather as an opportunist who seized upon insurgency as a plank on which to make the safe harbor of another senatorial term.

Kern Turns Laugh on Him.

Neither is there very much enthusiasm over his campaigning methods. Some days ago an inspired newspaper man wrote a paragraph about "Mary in the vine-covered cottage." It was to Mary that the campaign should appeal, Mary's John needed work to keep the cottage and the vines going. The paragraph was a little idyl and if left as a bit of newspaper writing might have been effective politically. But Beveridge seized upon it as a new campaign slogan—like Bryan, Roosevelt and other political geniuses, he is always keen about new slogans. He used it in a speech which can only be characterized as "sloppy." His antagonist, John W. Kern, responded in a speech so full of incisive wit that the state is still laughing at Mary and her eulogist.

Senator Beveridge has a host of enemies in his own party, and an army of friends in the other one. That is true of every prominent candidate in a doubtful state today. I do not, however, transcend the truth in saying that if Beveridge had not cast aside the mantle of regularity and donned the habiliments of insurgency he would not have had a chance of re-election.

Saloon Question Not a Factor.

His campaign manager here—and it is worth noting that his campaign is being run with the slenderest assistance from the regular Republican state committee—assures me that the Republicans will have a majority of 34 on joint ballot in the legislature. His argument is that there are twenty-seven legislative districts which last year were carried by one or the other party by less than 100 votes. He insists that in that election the brewers were a great factor, contributing heavily to the Democratic campaign funds, and influencing through the saloons they controlled a heavy vote in the state. This influence, he claims, is eliminated in this campaibn, and he is right. Governor Marshall has scotched that particular snake.

No "Lorimerizing" to be Allowed.

There is talk among the cheaper type of politicians—some of whom are very rich men allied with the "interests"—about the possibility of Beveridge being beaten in the legislature even if it should be Republican. I am in a position to say that no effort to "Lorimerize" the Indiana legislature will succeed. There may be recalcitrant or treacherous Republicans, but the fighting governor of the state, "Tom" Marshall, is serving notice from every platform that the Democrats elected to the legislature must not enter into any combination of that nature. If Marshall's dominant influence shall control the Democrats in the legislature, the Republicans will have to fight out their own battles without any such Democratic aid as was thrown to Lorimer in Illinois.

ENLARGING TWINE PLANT AT NEW PENITENTIARY.

Stillwater, Minn., Oct. 21.—A section of twine machinery in the old state prison is being dismantled and prepared for shipment to the factory at the new prison. Numerous cars of binder twine fiber are being stored in the additional warehouse at the new prison. Within two weeks the manufacture of binder twine at the new prison will be more than doubled and additional prisoners will be transferred there. The vacated shop at the old prison will be utilized for the farm machinery department, which will be of considerable importance next season in turning out reapers and mowers.

Instant Relief for Sore Feet

Sore Feet, Tender Feet and Swollen Feet Cured Every Time—TIZ Makes Sore Feet Well No Matter What Ails Them.

Policemen all over the world use TIZ. Policemen stand on their feet all day and know what sore, tender, sweaty, swollen feet really mean. They use TIZ because TIZ cures their feet right up. It keeps feet in perfect condition. Read what this policeman has to say: "I was surprised and delighted with TIZ for tender feet. I hardly know how to thank you enough for it. It's superior to powders or plasters. I can keep my feet in perfect condition. Believe in my earnest gratitude for TIZ. I am a policeman and keep on my feet all day."—Emzy Harrell, Austin, Texas.

You never tried anything like TIZ before for your feet. It is different from anything ever before sold.

TIZ is not a powder. Powders and other foot remedies clog up the pores. TIZ draws out all poisonous exudations which bring on soreness of the feet, and is the only remedy that does. TIZ cleans out every pore and glorifies the feet—your feet.

You'll never limp again or draw up your face in pain and you'll forget about your corns, bunions and callouses. You'll feel like a new person.

TIZ is for sale at all druggists at 25c per box, or it will be sent you direct if you wish from Walter Luther Dodge & Co., Chicago, Ill.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

NEW HOUSE EVERY DAY

Spooner and Baudette Are Being Rebuilt at a Very Rapid Rate.

Militia Did Good Work Preserving Order and Cleaning Up Debris.

Bemidji, Minn., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Forty-one new houses have been erected in Baudette and Spooner and others are going up at the rate of one a day. This is made possible by lumber being rushed there from the Bemidji mills which are running night and day to furnish building material for the two stricken towns.

Company K, M. N. G., of this city, was the first to render aid, arriving in the burned district while smouldering wreckage was still hot.

Twenty-seven cars have been received at Baudette containing relief supplies for the sufferers. Eight have been unloaded and the contents distributed to the sufferers and nineteen stand on the railroad with seals unbroken. The supplies will be stored in a newly constructed warehouse as fast as possible and given out from that structure.

A force of fifty militiamen will be kept on duty for some time under the personal direction of Adjutant General Wood, who will remain in Baudette indefinitely. These fifty men will be obtained by volunteers from Companies A, B and C of Duluth and K of Bemidji.

Praises Work of Militia.

J. Evan Carson, sergeant of Company K, who commanded a relief squad, came to Bemidji last night.

"The work done by the militia under the direction of the state board of health was simply marvelous," said the sergeant. "They transformed a stretch of ruins littered with decaying animals of all kinds; a polluted supply of water and other disease breeding conditions into a germ-proof zone and it was done in mighty quick order, too.

"The spirit of the fire victims is splendid and excepting from the cold, most of the refugees being in tents, there is no suffering. The Red Cross society will build a new building on every farm where houses were burned and as a result many settlers will be better off than ever ebfore. In one instance it was discovered that a settler deliberately burned his cabin since the fire in order to have a free house built him."

BOAT-ROCKER IS ACQUITTED

Matt Frasier Found Not Guilty of Causing Death of Two.

Newberry, Mich., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald)—The case of the People vs. Matt Frasier, charged with negligent manslaughter, tried here, came to an end in the acquittal of the accused.

The case grew out of the double drowning fatality which occurred at Twin lakes last June whereby Alex Mattson and Herman Gustafson lost their lives. Frasier was in the boat along with the two unforunate young men when their boat overturned, but he managed to reach shore. Shortly afterward ugly rumors became current that the accident was due to the foolhardiness of Frasier, who it was said had deliberately rocked the boat. The parents of the drowned boys finally swore out a warrant. The result was not unexpected by those who had watched the progress of the trial.

PLANNING FOR BRAINERD MEET

Next Gathering of Northern Minnesota Development Association Important.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 21.—President W. R. MacKenzie of Bemidji, secretary of the Northern Minnesota Development association; W. H. Hughes, editor of Farm Stock and Home, and State Auditor S. G. Iverson met here yesterday to arrange a program for the association's meeting at Brainerd Dec. 1 and 2.

The next meeting will suggest to the state legislature quite a few things in the way of good legislation. Good roads good schools, good fire protection, more frequent and attractive land sales to appeal with special argument to the prospective settler, will be recommended for legislative action. there is to be no useless talk. No fooling on reapportionment will be tolerated. The Brainerd meeting is expected to submit a straight-out reapportionment bill, all ready for passage and so manifestly fair that the enemies of honest reapportionment will be silenced.

FARMERS GROWING CLOVER.

Adding to the Products in Vicinity of Bathgate, N. D.

Bathgate, N. D., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—H. L. Holmes, state auditor, and Alex Morrison of Necho are the first residents of this section to purchase a clover culler. The machine has arrived and they expect to operate it immediately as there was a great deal of clover grown here. The commencing of operations of this nature is an indication of the fact that farmers are beginning to take to the clover growing movement.

ATTACKS CREATION OF RAILROAD COMMISSION.

Helena, Mont., Oct. 21.—A hearing involving the legality of the act creating a state board of railroad commissioners is in progress in federal court here. The Montana, Wyoming & Southern Railway company is seeking an injunction restraining the commission from making effective rates on coal shipments from the Bear Creek field on the ground that they are confiscatory and prohibitory. Counsel from New York are here to represent the railroad, while the attorney general and his assistants appear for the commission.

ELECTRIC LIGHTS FOR PINE RIVER

Village Council Has Granted Franchise to Promoter of Plant.

Pine River, Minn., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The village council has granted a franchise to H. A. and T. L. Arvig of this place to erect and maintain an electric lighting plant.

Under the terms of agreement work will have to be commenced on the plant on or before Dec. 1, and it will be rushed to completion as fast as circumstances and conditions will permit. The plant will be furnished power by the dam which is being built in the river in the village by Webber & Hill, a firm of local merchants who are rushing the work with a large crew of men and teams. The dam is being constructed of concrete reinforced with steel and will furnish 300-horse power when completed. It is expected that all of the cement work will be done before extreme cold weather sets in and the machinery will be placed immediately.

PURER MILK IS WOMEN'S SLOGAN

Propose to Arouse Grand Forks to Appreciation of Conditions.

Grand Forks, N. D., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Although Grand Forks has an ordinance covering the milk question and also has a milk inspector and a dairy inspector, the women of the city claim that the milk supply is impure and unclean.

Through the Civic league, which has the co-operation of the board of public health, a campaign has been launched for more thorough enforcement of the law. The campaign will be waged with a view of creating public sentiment favorable to the movement.

PULCHER IDENTIFIED

As Man Who Sold Liquor to Indian That Killed.

Bismarck, N. D., Oct. 21.—Sam Neuman, the Indian, who is under arrest here, charged with the murder of Roscoe Conklin on Berthold reservation, was returned to the county jail here Tuesday afternoon after having been taken to Washburn, where he identified Joseph Pulchner as the man who sold him the whisky upon which he became intoxicated just before he shot and killed Conklin. Neuman stated positively that Pulchner was the man who furnished him with the intoxicants, and the man was bound over to the next term of federal court.

There is a heavy punishment for a man who sells intoxicating liquor to an Indian, and if Pulchner is convicted it is probably that he will get the limit in the light of the events which followed this particular sale.

BARAGA COUNTY COURT.

Short Session Held at L'Anse, the County Seat.

L'Anse, Mich., Oct. 21.—Judge Streeter held a short session of the Baraga county court here this week, soon disposing of the business in hand.

The first case tried was that of Richard Ralph, charged with robbery by Charles Erickson. Erickson alleged that Ralph assaulted him, and took his money from his pocketbook. The incident is said to have occurred Oct. 4, 1909. After hearing the testimony a verdict of not guilty was returned.

The personal injury case against the Niagara Mining company brought by Mrs. Hettu, arministratix of the estate of Ernest Hettu, was continued until the next term of court upon a motion of the plaintiff to amend the bill, which was granted.

Divorces were granted to Amelia Campeau Hosler and May Rinkey, the first charged her husband, Wesley Hosler, with cruelty and the second accusing her husband, Frank Rinkey, with desertion. Rinkey has not been seen for ten years.

The case of Thomas Bond, charged with violating the liquor law, was also continued until the next term of court.

The circuit court of Keweenaw county will open next Monday at Eagle River, with Judge A. T. Streeter presiding. The docket is an unusually short one.

STANDING TIMBER BURNS.

Fire Early in Week on Fond du Lac Reservation Does Damage.

Brookston, Minn., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Forest fires did considerable damage to standing timber on the Fond du Lac reservation the first of the week.

The fire spread over quite a bit of territory in township 50-17, and also in the southern part of township 50-18. In section 8-50-18 a fire got beyond the control of some homesteaders, and fanned by a southwest breeze, burned over the land occupied by Wesley Kern, and destroyed the house that was recently completed by Mr. Kern. A heavy rain fell on Tuesday afternoon and this prevented any further spread of fire, and the danger from further damage this fall is beyond a possibility.

MINOT COMMISSION SEEKS RATE REDUCTION.

Minot, N. D., Oct. 21.—The city commission is investigating the question of telephone and electric light rates with a view of bringing about a reduction in charges. Chairman Le Seuer and Commissioner McGahan have taken the matter up quite thoroughly and they believe that a method has been devised by which the local concerns can be compelled to make reductions. Comparisons between rates charged here and in other cities indicate that the Minot rate is considerably higher.

May Vote on Fair Tax.

Grand Forks, N. D., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Next Tuesday the board of commissioners of Grand Forks county will probably call for an election on the question of establishing a regular tax for the support of the Grand Forks Agricultural society, which holds a fair biennially in Grand Forks, alternating with the state fair.

WILL VISIT FARIBAULT.

Architect of North Dakota Institution Will Seek Pointers.

Grafton, N. D., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Before deciding on the manner of construction to be adopted for a new building that will be erected at the institute for the feeble minded in this city, the architect will visit the institutes at Faribault, Minn. and Chippewa Falls, Wis., to gather ideas, to get the very latest information on the subject of proper construction of buildings.

LIGHTNING FIRES HOLDINGFORD STORE.

St. Cloud, Minn., Oct. 21.—The store of Symalla & Co., of Holdingford, with all the stock, was totally destroyed by fire Tuesday night. A bolt of lightning which struck the store started the blaze and the building was in ashes before the fire could be quenched. The building was owned by Leon Kraemer of Avon and was valued at $3,000. It was covered with $2,000 insurance. The stock of goods was valued at $5,000 with $2,000 insurance. The stock consisted of general merchandise.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Grand Forks, N. D.—The work of repairing the De Mers avenue bridge is progressing nicely, and within a short time it will be completed. The finishing touches are now being put on the sidewalk on the north side of the north side of the bridge and the driveway is about half paved with cedar blocks. The workmen are now employed in laying timbers on the east span and on the Minnesota approach, and the block pavement will be put down on that end of the bridge within a few days.

Fargo, N. D.—Willie Kelley, the little son of Tom Kelley, residing in the Ely block, was burned Tuesday in the fire that broke out in the building about 11 o'clock which had been set by matches with which the child was playing. The boy was immediately removed to the county hospital.

Valley City, N. D.—F. E. Packard, formerly business manager of the Valley City Times-Record, has assumed the position of manager of the Fargo Daily News, announcement to that effect having just been made. The deal, it is understood, has been contemplated for some little time.

Grand Forks, N. D.—A meeting of the Young Men's Democratic club was held at the courthouse on Tuesday evening, at which time the organization was perfected and the election of permanent officers took place. Officers were elected as follows: President, A. F. Madison; secretary and treasurer, J. P. Conniy.

Fargo, N. D.—Richard A. Carrington, former advertising manager of the Daily News, has accepted the position of assistant advertising manager on the Anaconda Standard, the largest daily paper in Montana, and will be connected with the Butte office of the publication.

Stanley, N. D.—A Republican rally will be held at Stanley next Saturday, when C. A. Johnson, Republican candidate for governor, Former Governor Joseph M. Devine and Congressman L. B. Hanna will deliver addresses.

Dickinson, N. D.—Thrown from a caboose window by a collision and sustaining broken ribs and internal injuries was the result of a peculiar accident that happened to Charles Bennett, a brakeman on the Northern Pacific road a day or two ago.

Fargo, N. D.—State Secretary A. L. Miller of the Y. M. C. A. announces that the next state convention of the North Dakota associations will be held in Fargo. The dates for the convention are March 3, 4 and 5.

Bismarck, N. D.—Max Kupitz of this city and John Roche of Medora have returned from a hunting trip in the southern part of Emmons and Morton counties. They were successful in securing a fair quantity of game.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

St. Cloud—There is quite a colony of St. Cloud people at Miami, Fla., and their friends here are quite apprehensive of their safety. That section was visited Tuesday with the worst storm in sixteen years.

Moorhead — The young Kopperdal boy, who was arrested some time ago for passing a $10.00 forged check upon one of our prominent merchants, and who was released upon the amount being made good, is again accused of forging, this time defrauding one of the grocery firms of the city.

Stillwater—The city council Tuesday night appropriated $250 for the relief of fire sufferers in the northern part of the state. The council also passed a resolution giving $350 toward the maintenance of the armory for Company K.

Hinckley—The Northern Pacific lunch room has been purchased by the dining car service of the Northern Pacific system. O. H. Ingram who has had charge of the place for the past three years has built up a large trade.

Cambridge—Andrew Wicklund, one of the pioneer settlers of Isanti county, died at his home in Spring Vale Tuesday morning after an illness of several months with tuberculosis. Andrew Wicklund was born in Sweden Nov. 10, 1858. He came to America in 1867 and settled in Spring Vale which has been his home ever since. He was married in 1885 to Margaret Erickson.

Rochester—Harry Lewis, a junk dealer, whose bone pile has been the cause of much discussion in the city council and has caused protests to arise from the residents of North Rochester, may move his establishment to another city. Mr. Lewis has gone to La Crosse and Winona and stated that he was looking for a new location.

Minneapolis—F. E. Holton, president of the Minneapolis Credit Men's association, has received a telegram from F. R. Salisbury, a member of the board of directors of the national association saying that the board has unanimously voted to hold the next annual convention in Minneapolis in 1911.

Bemidji—Bemidji Wednesday afternoon saw the first passenger train that has ever passed over the rails of the new Soo railroad. The train consisted of two new passenger cars. They were started out of Moose Lake.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Calumet—The wedding took place Wednesday morning at the Sacred Heart church of Miss Syra Dommes of Swedetown and Frank Kreutzen of Raymbaultown. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Herculean. The best man was Hubert Kreutzen, brother of the groom, while the bridesmaid was Miss Edna Curry.

Houghton—Justus Crooker, a prominent farmer of Ontonagon county and son of James E. Crooker and Mrs. Robert T. Townsend of Rockland were married at the parsonage of the Houghton Presbyterian church Wednesday afternoon, Rev. Mr. Knowles officiating.

Calumet—R. M. Wetzel, health officer of Calumet township, states that owing to recent rains it would be well to boil the drinking water. The surface water flowing into Lake Superior may contaminate the supply somewhat, and until further notice he believes it would be wise to boil the water before it is used for drinking purposes.

Houghton—A surprise party was tendered Mr. and Mrs. N. G. McMillan of Sheldon street Monday evening, when thirty friends called and presented them with a beautiful souvenir of the Copper country. Mr. and Mrs. McMillan left Tuesday for Detroit, where they will locate.

Hancock—News has been received here of the death of Capt. Syd Scott, owner of the steamer Uarda, at Mount Clemens, last Saturday. Cpat. Scott was 69 years of age, and death was due to paralysis. He is survived by a brother, A. B. Scott of Hancock, and a sister, Elizabeth.

Calumet—Plans to increase the membership of the Calumet Y. M. C. A. by from 100 to 150 between now and the first of the year are being discussed, and it is expected that a membership campaign will shortly be launched.

Hancock—Several of the officers of the Fennia Manufacturing company have left for New York to endeavor to conclude a sale of a sewing machine brake patented by them to the officers of the Singer Sewing Machine company. It is expected to manufacture these brakes at the plant to be established here.

Calumet—Patrick Sullivan, the 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Sullivan of Caledonia street, died Wednesday, following a short illness at the Calumet & Hecla hospital. The decedent is survived by his parents, two brothers and four sisters.

Menominee—A society known as the Madrigal club has been organized in the Twin Cities. Prof. Richard W. Pellow is the director. Four concerts will be given during the winter.

RESIGNS AS HEAD OF NORTHWESTERN

Marvin Hughitt Is Succeeded By Gardner After Long Service.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—Marvin Hughitt, for nearly twenty-four years president of the Chicago & Northwestern railroad, gave up that position yesterday to become chairman of the board of directors. The board of directors, after accepting his resignation, elected William A. Gardner to succeed him. Mr. Gardner also was elected president of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha railroad. Mr. Gardner formerly was vice president in charge of the operation of the Northwestern road.

Mr. Hughitt is now in his 73rd year. He said after his successor had been chosen that he does not intend to rust out, nor retire from active service, but that in the new capacity of advisory leader he will take an active part in the management of the road. Mr. Gardner lives in Chicago.

MARVIN HUGHITT.

Other Changes Made.

The retirement of Mr. Hughitt from actual leadership, necessitated the following changes:

Richard Aistone, formerly general manager, now vice president in charge of operation.

William B. Cantillon, formerly assistant general manager, now general manager.

Samuel G. Strickland, formerly assistant general superintendent, now general superintendent of the lines east of the Missouri river, with the exception of the Minnesota & South Dakota divisions.

Chester T. Dike is named general superintendent of the Minnesota and South Dakota division.

CASE DECIDED AGAINST HIM

Victor Thompson Fails to Recover From Oliver Iron Mining Company.

A jury in district court yesterday decided that Victor Thompson was not entitled to any damages from the Oliver Iron Mining company.

Thompson sought to recover $5,000 from the company for an alleged beating he took from Nick Dillon, a policeman in the employ of the company.

The plaintiff claimed that he went upon the land owned by the mining concern in search of information and that the watchman beat him into insensibility with his club

The facts presented in the case tended to show that the plaintiff went on the ground looking for trouble and found it.

witness box today he assumed the same characteristic attitude as he did when he faced his own counsel. He rested his elbows on the railing, clasped his hands and looked inquiringly about the courtroom.

Mr. Muir asked Crippen whether he had seen or heard anything of his wife since early on the morning of Feb. 1. The witness replied in the negative, and in answer to further questions said that he could not prove any facts showing that she left the house alive. He supposed that she had gone to Bruce Miller, her professional acquaintance, who lives in Chicago. That was the only guess he could make. He made no inquiry.

Made No Inquiries.

The witness said he last saw his wife between 2 and 3 o'clock on the morning of Feb. 1, when they retired as usual.

That morning he prepared his own breakfast. Returning home in the evening he found Mrs. Crippen had disappeared, as she had threatened to do. He made no inquiries regarding the passengers listed on vessels sailing for America nor had he since suggested that inquiries regarding the whereabouts of his wife should be made.

Mr. Muir suggested if the witness' wife were alive she would call on her sisters in the United States. Crippen's reply to this was that if his wife had gone with another man she would not have "the face" to go to her sisters. This opinion from the witness box drew forth a chorus of "Ohs" from the spectators.

The doctor could not say whether his wife took any of her furs with her or if she had any quantity of furs and dresses.

Regarded Jewelry as His.

Regarding the disposition of Belle Elmore's jewelry, the witness said he considered that he was quite entitled to tell Inspector Dew that he had not pawned his wife's valuables, as these had been purchased with his money and he considered them his.

He had used the proceeds of the sales to pay for an advertising. He did not know what cash his wife had at the time she left him.

"I asked her," said the witness, "if she wanted any money. She replied, 'No, I want nothing.'"

Counsel took up the subject of the letters and the statements to Belle Elmore's friends which the husband had made regarding her death. Crippen admitted that all were lies and smilingly assented to the suggestion that he had to play the role of a bereaved husband.

When Mr. Muir asked Crippen if he thought that he had played the part of a bereaved husband well, the witness smiled and replied:

"That is for others to judge."

Asked About Hyoscin.

Lord Chief Justice Alverstone and Counsel Muir plied the witness with questions regarding his use of hyoscin, a poison which the prosecution alleges was administered to Belle Elmore and caused her death. Crippen admitted he had not purchased any hyoscin before or after the occasion proved by the crown, and on which he admitted buying the drug. He could not name any patients for whom he had prescribed hyoscin.

The witness suggested that it was possible that the human parts found in the cellar of his home had been placed there during a periodical absence of himself and wife.

Leneve Woman in House.

It developed during the cross-examination that no time was lost in establishing Ethel Clara Leneve, the doctor's typist, in the Hilldrop Crescent home. Crippen admitted that Miss Leneve had slept in the house on the night of Feb. 2, within twenty-four hours after his wife had disappeared.

Witness said he resolved to go away on July 9, after realizing that suspicion had been directed against him. He feared he might be arrested and jailed until his wife was found. He wished also to spare Miss Leneve, whom he persuaded to disguise herself and quit London by explaining that the statement which he had made to Inspector Dew involved her as well as himself. He told the girl that there would be a scandal, and if his wife was not located that there would be trouble. The only way of escape was for both to start a new home together, abroad.

Under Examination Four Hours.

Crippen was under cross-examination for practically four hours.

When the defendant was excused from the box, Dr. Turnbull, director of the pathological institution of the Gordon hospital was called by the defense. He bluntly declared the so-called scar on the body of the victim could not possibly be a scar.

annexing the world's championship emblem.

Averages of players and teams based on the three games already played show a big margin in favor of the Athletics. The latter have scored 25 runs to their opponents' 9. They have made 36 hits for a total of 53 bases as against Chicago's 17 hits for 24 bases. They have batted an average of .356 compared with .189 by their rivals.

In fielding the Nationals are 59 points behind the Americans, their respective percentages being .891 and .950. Philadelphia has won her games with the use of only ten men, while Manager Chance has employed eighteen.

The national commission decided today that in the event that it is necessary to play a sixth game, it shall be played on Tuesday at Philadelphia, allowing Monday for the clubs to make the trip from Chicago.

SAVED FROM DEATH CHAIR

resistance. The cell where Moore was locked up was soon entered and he was taken out.

Took Him to Mountains.

Precautions had been taken by the determined mob to prevent an alarm being spread. Almost as quietly as they had entered the town, they left it and started back to the mountains. It was not until some hours after the rescue that the news spread, and soon several deputy sheriffs were on their way into the mountains to try to rearrest the murderer. It is feared that bloodshed will result from any attempt of the authorities to recapture him.

Moore was condemned to pay the death penalty by electrocution at Richmond on Nov. 25. He had been convicted of having murdered Frank Howl in Nelson county last May. Many of the mountaineer friends of the condemned man believed him innocent of the crime.

brother-in-law of Douglas Robinson, and William H. Taft, then secretary of war, and brother of Charles P. Taft, and by the co-operation of these officials with them, they were enabled to effect the sale of the Panama canal to the United States for $40,000,000 and reap a profit of some $36,000,000, which was divided, as charged, among government favorites in the world of politics and finance."

The substantial question which the government claims is before the court, was set out in the brief as being whether the United States courts have jurisdiction to punish a corporation which printed in the city of New York a newspaper containing a libel, criminal under the laws of the state of New York, and circulated copies of the same within the federal territory of West Point.

Jurisdiction the Issue.

The government's claim is based on an act of congress of 1898 which the government urges "operates to transfer the state law to federal territory, for the purpose of punishing acts committed there, which if performed outside and in the jurisdiction of the state, would be amenable to its laws."

In the government's brief, it is argued that it is not only the right but the duty of congress so to legislate concerning territory under its exclusive jurisdiction as to preserve peace and good order therein.

"Because one may be punished for issuing a libel in New York is no reason," says the government, "for allowing him to go free of all punishment for circulating it at West Point. The people in the latter place are entitled to protection."

Inconvenience Plea Met.

The inconvenience to accused of being subjected to prosecutions in sundry places where their alleged libels are circulated was met with the argument that "the inconvenience which may be suffered by criminals has not generally been regarded as adequate reason for permitting them to operate without restraint."

The suggestion that the offense charged could be punished in New York state courts and therefore was not intended to be included in the act of 1898 brought forth the argument from the government "that the state of New York cannot punish an offense committed at West Point against the United States."

HOUSEWIVES FIGHT FRAUD

Raid Made on Short Weights and Measures of Foodstuffs.

Expected to Sweep From New York All Dishonest Dealers.

New York, Oct. 21.—Backed by a volunteer army of the housewives of Gotham, the city administration has begun a raid on short weights and measures of foodstuffs, that promises finally to sweep from town the last of the dishonest dealers who employ them. Though a force of men inspectors have for months struggled to show sporadic instances of the fraud that pinches the home table, no general clean-up of these prevalent practices had been projected, until the women took things into their own hands a few years ago. Within a week thousands of offers of co-operation have been made to the commissioner of the bureau of weights and measures by housekeepers in every corner of Greater New York, and today the department is counting on the active aid of one woman in every ten who does her own marketing. With this feminine force at work to detect fraud, the authorities believe the rooting out of every short scale and measure in the metropolis will be only the work of a few weeks.

Crooks Control.

That the criminal clan is more strongly entrenched here than ever before in the history of the underworld, is the opinion of veteran police officers who are investigating the recent jail delivery at Sing Sing. Professional crooks and highway men are now organized thoroughly enough to work out the escape of their convict comrades from headquarters in this town, they declare, while the same systematic collusion can spirit them out of the reach of the arm of the law. For almost a year detectives have been reporting the complete occupation of New York by a centralized force of criminals, though it had never been thought that they would have the audacity to reach up the river and release their fellows from prison. Unless the police soon get a grasp on this sorry situation, it is predicted that crime will run riot hereabouts.

Colonizing Clubs.

Completing the most remarkable colony of clubwomen in the world, the Women's University club is settling on the edge of an exclusive little quarter just above Madison Square. Over a dozen active organizations limited to feminine membership are now installed in these few blocks of female clubdom. In its narrow limits both suffragettes and "antis" have national campaign quarters, while ladies' leagues for uplifts of various sorts are clustered all about. College alumnae have set up their rallying places nearby, and the famous Martha Washington hotel for women is only a stone's throw away. In the very heart of this locality the Colony club of fashionable women is still attracting scores of the maids and matrons of the sporty set. Altogether mere man is being banished rapidly from three blocks, at least, of this old residence district.

Pitfalls Plenty.

To save hundreds of lads from seeing the worst of the world in the uniform of messenger boys, strong pressure is being brought to bear to abolish their employment here after 10 in the evening. With their badges and business to give them the entree to all night New York these youths are inevitably ruined both morally and physically, it is asserted by welfare workers who have investigated conditions closely. Many a man could not withstand the evil influences that are crowded upon these little blue-coats every evening. It is pointed out in the plea of the child crusaders. No one, even in Gotham, is willing to lead youngsters through the shameful sights of the dark hours, and it is likely that some substitute for the messenger boy will be employed during the midnight and early morning hours.

Hummel's Handicraft.

All Broadway is quivering over the report that "Abe" Hummel has begun the writing of a book of memoirs that must include almost the entire Who's Who of the White Light district. If the inside history of any incident in New York's night life is hidden from this sharp little lawyer, who has just returned from a trip around the world, no one of the leading actors are quite sure of it. For dozens of years everyone in sportive society, and many from the choicest social circles as well, have told their troubles to Hummel in his little legal den down by the criminal court building. Now that "Abe" is to take a turn at the telling, it seems certain that scores of sensations will be sprung. Though the celebrated confident can no longer practice law, he could make a mint of money by mislaying parts of his memory.

SQUANDERED TWO BIG LEGACIES

Gerke Meditates in Cell How He Will Spend Another.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 21.—The prospect of inheriting a third fortune to take the place of the two which he already has squandered in the last six months was about the only silver lining which Fred Gerke of St. Louis could find in his cloud today.

As he paved up and down the floor of his cell in the North Market Street police station, after his arrest at his wife's request, puffing nervously at a choice Havana, he was most emphatic in condemning his own folly, which, in the form of a two-days' stay and champagne celebration, had eaten up all but a few dollars of the $3,000 inheritance which came to him Thursday.

"Did you have a good time?" he was asked.

"Yes, I had too good a time," he replied with a deep sigh.

Last spring he received $2,200, but treated himself rather stingily with that money and it lasted him for more than a month. One of the expenditures which helped to eat it up was the $10 which Gerke paid a liveryman for hauling him four blocks.

After the legacy melted away Gerke, it is said, went to the stable and tried to get a rebate on the $10. The $3,000 which the prodigal received Thursday from the settlement of an estate in Germany fairly seemed to burn in his pockets. For a few hours he managed to hang on to it nobly, but struck the down grade with a hard bump Friday, when he became acquainted with Grace Coleman, aged 24, and Bernice Bradley, aged 26, and he spent his inheritance entirely then.

TRAINING BOYS TO BECOME CHEFS

London County Council to Start School for English Boys.

London, Oct. 21.—Whether the Englishman does or does not possess the true genius of cooking is to be put to proof. Next month the London county council will open a technical school for training boys as cooks, which will be the first of its kind in England.

For some years patriots here have lamented the fact that the foreigner has captured the whole of the vast and growing industry centered in the hotels and restaurants, as chefs, waiters and managers. They are just beginning to recognize that for this, as for all other professions involving skill and organization, training is necessary. Anything in the nature of apprenticeship in the kitchens of London's hotels is unknown. Boys are taken in to do the rough work, but they learn very little of the actual work of those above them.

The few Englishmen who attempt cooking practice the art in the most primitive way; they toss meat and vegetables in a kettle, in a frying pan or on a grill. Seasoning is undreamed of. It is to be hoped that their ideas of tasteless food will be altered at the new school for chefs.

When Isidore Salmon, who introduced the project, was interviewed, he said:

"There are no English chefs worthy of the name, because they are never trained for the work. It is quite the same with waiters. A man cannot become a waiter simply by putting on a dress suit; and in the case of a chef there is even more truth in the assertion. England can always supply the best butlers, but that is only because the butler begins as an underfootman, then a footman, and so on until he becomes a properly trained butler.

"The new school is an attempt to provide a good profession for boys. It is not only the hotels and clubs that require proficient chefs, but the dining cars and ocean liners demand highly qualified cooks.

"There are many difficulties, of course. In order to eliminate the old-fashioned system of apprenticeship, we have instituted a three-year course, at the end of which the lads will immediately be found a position."

Boys are to be received at the age of 15. Though the yearly fees will amount to about $50, the London county council will give a number of scholarships. Besides the regular domestic science course, every boy will be taught French, on account of its usefulness as the universal language of the kitchen and its importance in menu-writing.

SMOOTH SWINDLER

Got $2,800 From a Farmer on a Forged Deed.

Wooster, Ohio, Oct. 21.—Robert Torbett, a farmer, has been fleeced out of $2,800 by a smooth swindler, who, as William Hoover, came here three weeks ago, feigning intention to purchase a farm. He finally agreed to buy the Amos Moser farm, near Dalton, and agreed to meet Moser in Dalton Saturday to execute the deed.

In the meantime he returned to Wooster to borrow $2,800 to make full payment for the farm in cash, and Torbett agreed to loan it to him on first mortgage security.

Hoover showed up Friday with a deed to the farm and got Torbett's money. Yesterday Moser came to Wooster and was surprised to find a forged deed conveying his property to Hoover recorded. The authorities have offered $800 reward for Hoover's arrest.

CROWD ATTENDS KETCHEL FUNERAL

Church at Grand Rapids Filled ---Flower Girls Precede the Hearse.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Oct. 20.—St. Adelberth's Polish Catholic church was crowded to the doors today when the last rites were performed over the body of Stanley Ketchel, the murdered middleweight champion pugilist.

The body was escorted to the city from Ketchel's farm home near Belmont, ten miles from Grand Rapids, by a delegation of Elks and a large number of friends. At Leonard street the procession was met by the Polish military band and eight flower girls, who preceded the white hearse bearing the dead pugilist's body.

At the church a requiem mass was celebrated by Rev. Casimer Skory. The remains were interred in the new Polish Catholic cemetery.

ALL NAMED HENRY.

Family Whose System of Nomenclature Is Very Peculiar.

Berlin, Oct. 21.—Prince Henry XXIV of Reuss-Koestritz, who died the other day, belonged to a family whose system of nomenclature aroused the wrath of Carlyle. In Frederick the Great he speaks of "these strange Reusses who always call themselves Henry and now amount to Henry the eighteenth and odd, with side branches likewise called Henry; whose nomenclature is the despair of mankind, and worse than that of the Naples lazzaroni, who candidly have no names."

The dead prince was the head of the first branch of the "appanaged house," of the younger line of the numerous Reuss family, all the male members of which since the eleventh century have borne the Christian name of Henry, in honor of their famous ancestor, the Emperor Henry VI, but in 1701 it was decided that the figures should not run higher than 100, beginning afterward again at one.

As all the Reuss princes are distinguished by numerals in the order of their birth it so happened that the father of the dead prince was Henry IV, and he is now succeeded by his son, Henry XXXIX, both born in 1891. At present the youngest male member of the family is Henry XLVII, born in 1887.

The other branch calls the first prince born in a century Henry I, and goes on until the century is ended, when they also start again.

FORTY MILLION

In Diamonds Will Be Purchased Abroad This Year.

New York, Oct. 21.—Large shipments of diamonds and other gems received at the port of New York in September and during the first half of the present month have swelled the total valuation of diamonds and other precious stones received thus far this year to more than $32,000,000. One Maiden lane merchant estimated today that the receipts for the calendar year will be $40,000,000.

This estimate is much greater than the valuation of the gems received during 1908, when only $12,862,896 worth of diamonds and other precious stones passed through the custom house at this port. Last year the total import of gems was $40,494,356.

The largest previous importations of the gems for any one calendar year was in 1906, when $43,573,488 worth of diamonds and other precious stones were received at this port.

MOTHER'S PLEADING

Ignored By Girl Who Weds Man of Her Choice.

Springfield, Ohio, Oct. 21.—With her mother pleading and crying for her daughter not to marry him, Ethel Mason ordered Judge Geiger of the probate court, to issue a license for her to wed William B. Carter of Columbus.

Ethel told her parents that she was of age and was her own boss, and she was going to do as she pleased in the matter. The license was issued and the ceremony was performed shortly afterward.

The argument between mother and daughter was so heated that they had to be separated to keep them from coming to blows.

MENTAL STRAIN

On German Soldiers and Sailors Causes Many Cases of Insanity.

Berlin, Oct. 21.—Dr. Krausse of Berlin, a military surgeon, has provoked widespread astonishment by his statement, bristling with statistics, that cases of lunacy in the German army and navy have doubled in the last twenty years.

Dr. Krausse says that in the army the increase is due to the enormously greater demand on soldiers' brains and simultaneously on their physical endurance. In the navy it is due to the rapid changes in the climate during long voyages, to excessive heat and the mental work required in modern naval warfare.

Five in a hundred of the German troops fighting the natives in Southeast Africa suffer from mental collapse, the highest percentage ever known.

TWO TOWNS HAPPY

Over Presidential Order Restoring Certain Public Lands.

Dickinson, N. D., Oct. 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dickinson citizens are greatly pleased at the recent action of President Taft in restoring to the Dickinson and Bismarck land offices a large amount of land in the southern part of the state that was several years ago placed in the Lemmon district of South Dakota.

To the Dickinson district, this order has added approximately 1,500,000 acres, while the Bismarck district was also increased about the same. All of the land that has been restored to the North Dakota districts was at one time in the districts of this state, but went to South Dakota district through political manipulation.

HILL VISITS SUPERIOR

Empire Builder Does Not Bring Foreign Visitors to Duluth.

Says Proposed New Dock at Allouez Will Be Held Up.

No new ore dock will be built by the Great Northern at Allouez until the further development of the Western Mesaba range warrants, according to James J. Hill, who was in Superior yesterday. Mr. Hill said the present capacity of the ore docks is 4,000,000 tons greater than the docks have ever been called upon to handle and there will be no necessity for a new dock until shipments of ore increase.

Mr. Hill came to Superior in company with Prince Friederich Alexander Von Hessen of Germany and his party and, incidentally, the empire builder made an inspection of the Great Northern properties at the Head of the Lakes while showing the visitors around.

Prince Von Hessen's wife is a sister of Emperor William of Germany and the prince is known as the landgraf of Hesse. Others in the party of foreigners were Baron Gabendorf, Baron Schenk and Baron Riedesal of Germany and M. Lucien Garbun of France. The party landed at Quebec early in August and has been on a tour across Canada to British Columbia. The Pacific coast cities of the United States were also visited.

The foreigners, accompanied by J. J. Hill and President Louis Hill of the Great Northern came to the Head of the Lakes yesterday in a special train, the Great Northern officials having met the foreigners at Grand Forks, where the train was made up. The Great Northern properties on the range were visited, after which the party went to Superior, where the ore docks and elevators were inspected.

Mr. Hill was not in a communicative mood. He did say that the proposed new ore dock at Allouez will not be built immediately and that the interstate bridge will probably be used by the Great Northern. The wheat movement is light, he said, on account of the shortage of the crops and the railroads are not being taxed to care for it.

The foreign visitors were greatly impressed with the sights shown them in this section, especially the ore docks and the open pit mines. They said that ever since they had come to the American continent they had been impressed with the activity and progressiveness of the people and the great strides that are being made in the development of the land.

The special train left shortly after 6 o'clock last evening for St. Paul, no visit having been made to Duluth. After about two days in St. Paul and Minneapolis, the foreign visitors will go to Chicago and then to New York from which port they will sail for Germany.

CONGRATULATED BY THE BISHOP

Hibernians Hold Reception for Fred Ryan and Miss May Hammill.

Fred L. Ryan who was recently elected state president of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, and Miss May Hammill, who was at the same time elected vice-president of the women's auxiliary of the A. O. H., were congratulated by the other members of the order at a public reception last night at the Cathedral auditorium.

Bishop James McGolrick spoke at some length of the good work done by the order, its influence on education and religion and pointed out that an organization such as this is needed in Europe.

The bishop said that under the leadership and guidance of Mr. Ryan the order was sure to prosper and grow. His remarks were concluded by presenting to Mr. Ryan a beautifully bound green and gold volume of the life of St. Patrick.

J. J. Regan of St. Paul, national president of the order, and J. T. Doyle of the same city, state insurance president, were both present at the reception.

ALLEGED FIREBUG IS TURNED LOOSE

No Evidence That John Wasboe Set Fire to Bemidji Barn.

Bemidji, Minn., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Acting on the advice of County Attorney McKusick that there was a lack of evidence against the accused, Court Commissioner A. M. Crowell has ordered John Wasboe released from custody. He was being held on an arson charge preferred by J. J. Conger, who alleged Wasboe had set fire to Conger's barn in this city. After the fire department had extinguished the fire Wasboe was arrested by the police.

It was stated that Wasboe was found on the premises at the time the fire was discovered, and as he was somewhat intoxicated, there was at that time said to be reason to believe that he had accidentally fired the barn.

At the hearing Mr. Conger stated that so far as he was personally concerned, he knew nothing that could possibly connect Wasboe with the fire in his barn. The state in consequence had no evidence, and Wasboe was released.

PETITION FOR ROAD.

Brookston Township to Ask County Board for Highway.

Brookston, Minn., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—A number of settlers who reside in the eastern part of township 50-18 are circulating a petition, which will be presented to the board of county commissioners, asking for the establishment of a highway running south from the village to the county line.

The road as petitioned for will commence in the center of section 34-51-18, and will run east a half mile to the line between sections 34 and 35, 26 and 27, 34 and 35, and there terminating. The road mentioned will serve a large settlement of homesteaders and will be a great benefit to the people of this village.

REPUBLICAN "FRIENDSHIP" FOR ST. LOUIS COUNTY.

The United States Steel corporation would today have had to pay their just share of the tax burden through a tonnage tax but for the veto of a Democratic governor.—Senator Moses E. Clapp at Willmar Oct. 19.

It was left for the principal speaker in the Eberhart campaign force to raise from the grave where it was laid two years ago the corpse of the tonnage tax issue, and to seek to put life into its veins with the breath of sectional prejudice.

Admirers of the junior senator from Minnesota should hang their heads in shame for this piece of arrant demagoguery. Senator Clapp knows, if he knows anything about the tonnage tax, that it never involved a question of the amount of taxes to be paid by the iron interests, and that it was simply a question of the method of imposing taxes. The tonnage tax would ruin a section of the state for the profit of the rest of the state; so when a Republican legislature passed it—the same Republican legislature that refused to pass a reapportionment bill and denied the slightest measure of justice to Northern Minnesota—a Democratic governor, John A. Johnson, vetoed it.

The proposed iniquity of the tonnage tax was a Republican measure, conceived by Republicans, advocated by Republicans, passed by Republicans—and the calamity it threatened was only averted by the veto of a Democratic governor.

It is not surprising to find it part of the stock in trade of the Republican candidate for governor. Corporation servants who wished to save their faces have before this made public outcry against the iron interests, to conceal the fact that they were serving railroad and other corporations and betraying their constituents to do so. Men whose every public act was for the benefit of grasping corporations made use of the tonnage tax to pretend to be reformers.

Senator Clapp's demagogic appeal for Eberhart in Southern Minnesota cannot go unnoticed in Northern Minnesota.

DULUTH'S TAX RATE.

It's no great sport to be holding a debate all alone, so it is a pleasure to The Herald to note that others have become interested in the Duluth tax rate. The Lakeside club is going to talk about it tonight, and it has invited city and school board officials to attend its meeting for that purpose. They, of course, are the ones who should discuss this subject, which is entirely in their control. It is the public's part to listen to them and then to think over what they have to say.

The levies are made, now, and nothing that anybody can say will change them. The public's time for discussion will come next year, when new levies are about to be made. Now, it is up to the public authorities to explain how the rate is so high, and to indicate, if they can, how a rate as high or higher is to be averted next year.

It has been suggested that there are two reasons for the high tax rate—the low real estate assessments and the bad city charter.

The average taxpayer probably will believe that the real estate assessments are pretty high already. It is true that there are sporadic instances where assessed valuations are too low, but also it is true that there are sporadic cases where the valuations are too high. A complete reassessment would increase the assessed value of many holdings, but probably it would decrease the assessed value of others. On the whole the effect would be to increase the total valuation, and with an increased valuation the same amount of money could be raised by a lower tax rate. The extent of the reduction in the tax rate would depend, of course, on the extent of the increase in the assessed valuation. If assessments in Duluth are left on the same basis as assessments in other communities—and by all means they must be left there if injustice to the taxpayers of Duluth is to be avoided—it is highly improbable that even a complete revaluation would raise the total enough to affect the tax rate materially. Revaluation, you know, isn't necessarily an increased valuation. It may be more in the nature of a readjustment of valuations.

Improvements, undoubtedly, are already assessed fully, and no increase is to be expected from them. There are sections in Duluth where values have increased more rapidly than in others, such as East Superior street and the steel plant section, and some gain may be expected there. It should be remembered, however, that the county board of equalization raised both of these sections this fall, and some others as well. Perhaps it didn't raise them enough; but certainly it has taken some of the advance for use this year. That, naturally, limits the amount of advance available for use when the new revaluation of the city is made.

As to the charter, it is pretty generally believed that Duluth, if it is going to cling to the conventional system of city government, has about as good a charter as there is going. There is a division of authority between the engineer's department and the board of public works which could be remedied by consolidating those departments, but an amendment to that effect failed of adoption at the last city election and at the one before that. Probably it will be offered again at the next election, and if so it ought to be adopted. Otherwise, as city charters go, Duluth has a very good one.

If Duluth is to adopt the commission form of government, as it should do, "that is another thing again," as Mr. Perlmutter would say. In that case a brand new charter is needed, and the same charter commission that produced the present charter can be depended upon wisely to form the new one.

So far, in connection with this discussion of the tax rate, nobody has thought to take up the important subject of economy in public affairs.

A BOY AND HIS MOTHER.

The other day, out in North Dakota, a young man was caught in the heinous offense of stealing a ride on a freight train.

Taken into court by the railroad detective that had captured him, he explained that he had to travel to another town in the hope of getting work, that he had no money to buy a ticket, and that he thought to travel without cost by slipping into a freight train.

There wasn't any doubt about his not having the price of a ticket. Search failed to reveal on his person the color of a single coin. Asked what he had done with his money, he said that he had sent it all to his mother.

And they laughed at his story.

Then this letter turned up, addressed to the young man who stood before the bar of justice:

My Dear Son:
Your letter with the $50 came like a godsend to us. I have paid the rent and now will not have to move. With the balance I bought a new dress for Jennie, and I am sending her to school. God bless you, my son, for your kindness to your mother.

Whereupon the judge promptly dismissed the case. You can forgive a good deal to a young man who is able to earn a letter like that. Certainly you could forgive him for stealing a ride to a place where he hoped to get work and earn more money. There is a limit, of course, to what you would forgive, but fortunately you are not asked, in this case, to test that limit.

Maybe that young man is a bit careless about his habits. If he hadn't been he would probably have had a steady job, and could have sent money to his mother without leaving himself penniless. But, careless though he might be about some things, he remembered his mother, and reached to the bottom of his pocket to relieve her distress.

There are boys, sad to say, who are careless even about their mothers. They are far away, and distance helps them forget that their mothers are in need. Others, too, forget that a mother's greatest need, far greater than her need of money, is that her boy shall remember her and let her know that he thinks of her and loves her. Many a mother is waiting for a letter from a boy who is so wrapped up in himself and his pleasures that he forgets to send it. When she passes away, he will remember, and his heart will be sore with the knowledge that he could have made her happy by writing to her regularly. But now he forgets.

Mothers never forget, you know. There is one love that never fails, and that is mother love. Sometimes it seems as though it were the only really faithful and enduring love on earth. And it deserves something in return. At least it deserves an occasional letter from the boy who is far away. Those letters are epochs in her life, and it is pitiful to think how rare many boys make such epochs in their lives of their mothers.

Possibly that boy who stole a ride is a good deal of a scalawag, though it is hard to believe he is. But even if he is, his story teaches a lesson that many boys who think they are pretty good boys may well take to heart.

It is easy to give happiness to another—much easier than to obtain happiness for yourself. There is no easier way to do it than to write tonight that long-delayed letter to the mother who is praying for you back home.

INCREDULITY AND PROGRESS.

The only way to distinguish between a crank and a genius seems to be by reading their obituaries.

No great invention or discovery ever burst upon the world amid the acclaim and jubilations of humanity.

Mostly the discoverer has had to trudge wearily about, trying to convince somebody that he was right, and to undergo the humiliation of seeing the covert wink and sneer and the mocking tongue in the cheek that are the world's first recognition of the man who proposes something new.

A current newspaper item affords a humble example of this sort of thing.

Henry C. Weeks, a New York architect, died the other day, and it was noted that he was the man who years ago moved the mirth of his Long Island neighbors by pouring oil into swamps to keep down mosquitoes. When he died at the age of sixty-six, he had lived long enough to have the laugh on his neighbors, for not only has his method become the approved way of fighting the mosquito plague, but the mosquito has been convicted of such a variety of disease-distributing offenses that it has become well worth while to fight the entire tribe.

Weeks's neighbors called him "crazy" for pouring oil in swamps to kill mosquitoes, but he wasn't the first man to be called crazy for proposing something new, nor will he be the last. In point of fact, the man who develops out of his inner consciousness a new idea in mechanics, philosophy or politics must needs have a thick skin. If his skin is thin, and it bothers him to be called a crank or a lunatic, he would better keep his discovery to himself, or get some more pachydermatous individual to exploit it for him.

People called Fulton crazy, too, and they jeered him as he passed on his way to the yard where the Clermont was building. The idea of trying to make ships go with big tea kettles! It was preposterous, and the man who proposed it obviously was mad. But Fulton made the Clermont "go" with his big tea kettle, and did the world a prodigious service. Yet even such an eminent scientist as Laplace confidently had assured Napoleon that there was nothing in Fulton's idea, and that steam had about enough motive power to propel a toy, and no more.

The world, naturally, likes to have things go on as they always have gone on, and it reserves its bitterest punishments for those who propose new ways.

Disrespect for those with new-fangled notions isn't very remarkable. Out of a hundred inventors whose head bulge with new plans for revolutionizing the world, hardly one has a practicable scheme. The world sees much of the failures, and they obscure the successes. It does not stop to think, this headlong, heedless world, that every advance in its progress has been born in the mind of a man who was looked upon as a crank, and as being either silly or dangerous.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

THE BOY SCOUTS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I wish, through the medium of your columns, to give to the Boy Scout movement my hearty approval and to wish it all success until every boy who is eligible thereto is a member in good standing. I do not know of all of the good things that are taught in Scoutdom, but I am sure that there will not be omitted a teaching of the boy heart to love the things of nature, both animate and inanimate, and not to needlessly or ruthlessly destroy any of them; killing no birds or animals except for food and cutting no trees except what are required for camping purposes, leaving camp sites clean and free from waste papers, bottle or cans, and, in every case where campfires are built, quenching the embers with water before leaving. Our boys are our coming men and to the Boy Scout the writer turns with hope for future conservation of nature's bounties in forest and stream. None will be so well equipped as they to appreciate the woods and fields and none will have greater interest in prolonging the accessibility of the resting places on nature's boundless bosom.

Many times of late in my tramps afield have I found the lifeless bodies of little birds and animals, thoughtlessly slain by those who little appreciate either their beauty or value to the woods and fields, and with pity for the slayer I could only say: "Well, it was not a Boy Scout who did that." The shores of our streams have many delightful camping spots surrounded by beautiful trees and bushes, but alas, too many of them have been made desolate eyesores by hacking at and killing the trees, cutting away the bushes, leaving the ground littered with remnants of food, paper boxes, cans and bottles.

I feel sure the Boy Scouts will never do such careless things for they will feel that other Scouts will follow them and they will not want to be criticized by their followers.

Our Duluth Scouts are particularly fortunate in that, by reason of their exceptional location, they may enjoy such trips into the almost wilderness and learn camp life more thoroughly by reason of having to go light and depend upon what they can carry as necessities for the trip. These excursions will broaden and develop the boys, giving them greater knowledge of nature, more self-reliance, more charity for the weaker and less able Scouts, a better understanding of themselves and more love for the better and larger things of life.

May the Scouts prosper and may we all help them to it, is the wish of

ONE OF THE OLDER BOYS.
Duluth, Oct. 20.

This Sunset of Old Tales.

New York Sun—To the Editor of The Sun:

Sir—What is the average life of a good poker story, and how old must such a story be before it can be passed off on metropolitan newspapers as worthy of being wired as a special and printed on the front page? Almost every Sunday paper in New York city printed on Sept. 18 a special dispatch from Beverly, Mass., telling of President Taft's new (?) poker story. I have no wish to rob the president of any glory in the matter, but I wonder if he remembers, as I do, reading the following verses in a copy of the New York Sunday Mercury some thirty years ago. I quote from memory, as I lost the clipping long ago:

The Judge was a Christian and played on the square,
But he figured the cards mighty close;
He could call of your hand every time to a pair,
And could lay down a full when he chose.

The Colonel could play a more difficult game,
I don't mean to say he would cheat;
But he held the top cards when the big betting came
And some hands that couldn't be beat.

Coming home from the East the two chanced to meet,
They were very old friends, in the cars;
And as neither the other at poker could be beat,
They played euchre, five points, for cigars.

The game ran along pretty evenly, too.
When the Judge turned a moment his head,
And the Colonel in shuffling slipped the deck through
And the Judge got a "cold one" instead.

The cards were for euchre and the Judge was amazed
When he picked up four kings in a lump;
But the Colonel, not seeming a particle dazed
Turned up a red queen for a trump.

"Your say, do you pass, Judge?" the Colonel called out.
"Look here," said the limb of the law,
"I've mighty queer cards; if you're in for a bout
We'll try out this thing at a draw."

The Colonel considered and wriggled his neck
"I too, have a very odd hand;
If you give me that queen from the top of the deck
We'll play out the cards as they stand."

"Agreed," said the Judge, for he saw at a glance
That the Colonel had one of two things—
A full or four queens, and he hadn't a chance
To rake down the pot from four kings.

The Judge chipped for fifty, the Colonel came back,
The Judge answered him with a raise,
Of the bets the two made I could never keep track,
For they piled up like girls in a chaise.

At last said the Judge, "Well, I'm hunting no more,
Four kings; reach us over the pot."
"Hold on," said the Colonel, "I, too, have got four,
But they are four aces I've got.

The Judge took the cards, looked over them well,
Heaved a sigh from his trousers waistband;
"What I'd like to know is whatever in hell
That queen had to do with your hand."

Living and Seeing.

Emerson: If we live truly, we shall see truly. It is as easy for the strong man to be strong as it is for the weak to be weak. When we have new perception, we shall gladly disburden the memory of its hoarded treasures as old rubbish. When a man lives with God his voice shall be as sweet as the murmur of the brook and the rustle of the corn.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: Even iced virtue can spoil.

The trouble with duty is it's always in the way of what you really want to do.

A man's good opinion of himself makes him think other people have it for him, too.

The reason a girl can laugh so appreciatively at men's jokes is she doesn't understand them.

A woman has to talk about her tailor if it's only somebody who comes to the house to sew by the day.

POLITICS.

"Doc" Bixby in Lincoln State Journal: Back in Nance county almost a quarter of a century ago we had one of the hottest local campaigns ever waged in the cause of good government with John S. Shuck running for county attorney on one ticket and Clarence E. Brady on the other. I was then editor and part proprietor of the Nance County Journal (official paper of the county), while Mr. Shuck edited the Fullerton Telescope, our loathsome contemporary down the street.

At that time running a country newspaper in a village of 800 inhabitants was no big thing financially, and I thought I could discern in the election of Mr. Shuck a possible loss of the county printing, besides all the probate notices, which would compel me to wear that old, frazzled chinchilla overcoat another winter. The horror of the situation can only be appreciated by those who have felt the pinch of poverty when it didn't help matters any to holler "ouch."

In that campaign I was for Brady, and the enthusiasm I put into the work would have to be witnessed to be appreciated. Mr. Shuck was scheduled for a schoolhouse campaign. Somebody must get out and answer his sophistries. If I took the time from the office it would be necessary to hire another printer. I telegraphed to Ross Hammond to send me a printer. He staked a "typographical tourist" to railroad fare, and the fellow arrived on the evening train. He was a crackerjack at the case, but crumby. He had to be disinfected, fumigated and given lodgings in a straw pile. The party campaign committee gave him a suit of clothes and he went to work for $11 a week.

As for me, I hitched up the coal-black horse, purchased that summer from Rev. W. H. H. Pillsbury, and from that time until the polls opened camped on the trail of this foe of honest government, and told the people a lot of things I knew about him in retaliation for the ugly things he was saying about Clarence Brady.

After making a schoolhouse talk at night, I would drive home, get a few hours' sleep, write one or two burning editorials concerning the thoroughly perfidious and despicable methods of the opposition, and then drive off to another voting precinct and make as ugly and unwarranted attack upon Shuck as he ever thought of making against Brady.

It may interest you to know that Mr. Brady was elected. He carried the county by 62 votes, and the glad fact was known by midnight of the day of election. I went to bed that night feeling mighty good, but the next morning about the first man I met on the street was the defeated candidate. He showed no resentment; we shook hands, and there were tears in his eyes when he simply said, "Doc, I needed the office." Then is occurred to me that Mr. Shuck had a wife and some litle fellows to feed as well as myself, and that really the only issue in that campaign had been my own selfish desire for a business advantage, and I made up my mind then and there never again to get so excited in a political campaign as to do and say things as foolish and wicked as the things I did and said in that.

Since that time I have steadfastly refused to get wild-eyed over politics. I endeavor to discuss issues and people with candor and consistency, and to say nothing that I will feel like apologizing for after the campaign is over.

A Great Poker Game.

A sensational poker game which bids fair to become as much discussed as was the one in the recent Broadway theatrical production is described by Jack London in his latest novel, "Burning Daylight."

The scene is Tivoli, an Alaskan saloon. The players are Elam Harnish, or Burning Daylight as he is known, Jack Kearns, the proprietor of the saloon and two of its patrons. "In Alaska at that time," Jack London writes, "there were no rascals, and no tin-horn gamblers. Games were conducted honestly and men trusted one another. When a man betted a marker—a flat oblong composition chip worth perhaps a cent—and said it was worth $500, it was accepted as worth $500. Also in that early Yukon day no one dreamed of playing table stakes. A man was good in a game for all that he possessed, no matter where his possessions were, or what their nature."

The climax of the present game—a game in which all of Burning Daylight's striking characteristics stand out prominently is described as follows:

"Daylight leaned back in his chair and gazed up at the kerosene lamps while he computed aloud.

"'I was in nine thousand before the draw, and I saw and raised eleven thousand—that makes thirty. I'm only good for ten more.'" He leaned forward and looked at Kearns. "'So I call that ten thousand.'"

"'You can raise if you want,'" Kearns answered. "'Your dogs are good for five thousand in this game.'"

"'Wary dawg. You-all can win my dust and dirt, but nary one of my dawgs. I just call.'"

"Madonald considered for a long time. No one moved or whispered. Not a muscle was relaxed on the part of the onlookers. Not the weight of a body shifted from one leg to the other. It was a sacred silence. Only could be heard the roaring draft of the huge stove, and from without, muffled by the log-walls, the howling of dogs. It was not every night that high stakes were played on the Yukon, and for that matter this was the highest in the history of the country. The saloon keeper finally spoke.

"'If anybody else wins, they'll have to take a mortgage on the Tivoli.'"

"The two other players nodded.

"'So I call, too.'"

"Macdonald added his slip for five thousand.

"Not one of them claimed the pot, and not one of them called the size of his hand. Simultaneously and in silence they faced their cards on the table, while a general tiptoeing and craning of necks took place among the onlookers. Daylight showed four queens and an ace; Macdonald four jacks and an ace; Kearns reached forward with an encircling movement of his arm shaking as he did so.

"Daylight picked the ace from his hand and tossed it over alongside Macdonald's ace saying:—

"'That's what cheered me along, Mac. I knew it was only kings that could beat me, and he had them. What's the size of the killing, Jack?'"

"Kearns attempted to count the pot, but was too excited. Daylight drew it across to him, with firm fingers separating and stacking the markers and I. O. U.'s and with clear brain adding the the sum.

"'One hundred and twenty-seven thousand,'" he announced."

"Exercise and Rest."

Luther H. Gulick in North American Review: What is the relation between exercise and rest? Work is that at which we must continue, whether interesting or not, whether we are tired or not. It used to be thought that the prime requisite of rest was the use of faculties other than those involved in the labor of the day. But there is such a thing as fatigue which goes deeper than daily work. We can work so hard as to become exhausted—too exhausted for any kind of work. Perhaps this is will fatigue. It is coming to be regarded as fundamentally true that rest from such fatigue demands continuity; that, for example, four periods of fifteen minutes each of rest is not the equivalent of one hour's rest; that a man who goes on a vacation and takes half an hour of his business work every day, is doing the same thing as the man who had a horse with a sore back. He kept the saddle on only fifteen minutes each day, but the sore did not have a chance to heal. Rest periods must be sufficiently consecutive to overcome consecutive fatigue.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Willing to Believe Him.

Cannon Falls Beacon: J. Ogden Armour says he regrets the bringing of indictments against himself and his associates in the meat packing industry. No affidavit is necessary with this statement.

They are Forgotten, at Times.

Red Lake Gazette: Anyway it is a refreshing diversion now and then to have Col. Roosevelt go out among the people and assure them that the golden rule and the ten commandments are safe guides of conduct.

Progress, Looking Backward.

Little Falls Herald: Roosevelt said when in Kansas that directors of corporations should be held personally responsible when the corporation breaks the law. He has progressed since Paul Morton was in his cabinet.

In This Democratic Year.

Fairmont Sentinel: There is a much better chance for Democrats to win in Minnesota than there was for the Democrats to win in Maine.

What Will Happen to Sidney.

Madison Independent-Press: Tawney was defeated at the primaries but the man the opposition used to turn the trick will probably get his at the general election.

Where Repentance is Real.

Cambridge Star: Governor Eberhart thinks there ought to be a reform in the primary election law. As he was four years a member of the senate and four years presiding officer over the same body he might have accomplished something in the line of reform before the present campaign, so it seems to us. But a late reformer is better than one who never repents.

Means "Regular Insurgents."

Carlton Vidette: The "regulars" are almost as certain that the next congress will be Democratic as though they had advance knowledge of where the regulars' vote was going to be placed.

Using The "Recall."

Fairmont Sentinel: The "recall" works fine in Dallas, Tex. The school board was holding star-chamber sessions and the public was denied the privilege of knowing what was done. A "recall" election was demanded when two members of the board were compelled to go before the people and show why they should be retained on the board. The old members were defeated. The sessions of the board are now open to the public. The Minnesota Democratic platform indorses the recall.

Must Retire From Office.

Anoka Free Press: By the way, did you see what happened down in the state of Maine? Democratic from Governor to Poundmaster! What do you think of that? And the example set by Maine will be followed all over the country unless the Republican party awakens to the fact that corruption must be weeded out and that graft must be subdued and that such men as Cannon, Ballinger, Aldrich et al., must retire from office.

Of a Free People.

Another crown has tumbled down, and lies a battered thing;
A robe, a throne—these things alone can never make a king—
When folk press near and curse and jest, when folk begin to think,
Afraid and meek, all human-weak, a king, forsooth, will shrink,
In time we learn till we discern that flesh and blood make man
And tinseled show and jewel-glow pale
'neath the sterner scan.
So shall we praise in many ways the folk across the sea,
Who tumbled down the royal crown and found that they were free.
When alien folk may thus invoke the spirit of their land
And rise in strength to break at length the shackling gyve and
band,
Why may not we, who long are free,
put courage to the test
And show our worth to all the earth
by standing for the best?
'Tis not alone an emptied throne that makes a nation great,
'Tis men who serve, and never swerve,
the honor of the state.
A boy who runs, who fears the guns,
who trembles with despair—
We wag our heads and vow he dreads
the rising freemen there.
Yet do we know that nations grow not on these sullen things?
Fortune and fate will never wait on the downthrow of kings.

Look to our own—we have no throne, but they who seek high place
Must be all clean; not low and mean,
with smiling, crafty face,
Must have no cause with trampled laws, nor conjure to men's eyes
The wicked wrath of broken faith of which all honor dies,
And we who make the trust they break,
and know they shall do so—
We are akin to kings that sin and meet their overthrow.

The years are long and fattened wrong waits for a sudden end;
We may expect of our neglect such evils as they send;
We prate our pride, when, evil-eyed, stalks through the streets our shame—
No harm is here nor may appear but we must bear the blame,
Yet when a king his crown must fling
aside and wildly flee,
We hail the day and mark the way of freedom over sea.
When alien folk may thus invoke the spirit of their land
And rise in strength to break at length the shackling gyve and
band,
Why may not we, who long are free,
put courage to the test,
And show our worth to all the earth
by standing for the best?
When men have cause with trampled laws, then has a nation shame
And freedom seems but stuff of dreams, and liberty a name.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: The more a man gets left the more he talks about his rights.

A woman's chattering teeth never usurp the functions of her tongue.

Many a person with an eye for the beautiful has an ear for ugly gossip.

The world usually sides with the man who makes a noise like ready money.

And a woman can forgive a man almost anything except his failure to admire her.

Most of our troubles are silly troubles—that is, troubles that are unimportant.

If her husband isn't a paying proposition a woman is apt to consider marriage a failure.

A breach-of-promise suit is sure to demonstrate that some things are better left unwritten.

There may be such a thing as a man of very few words—but who ever heard of a woman like that?

A fussy old bachelor says that eating onions will often prevent a mustache from coming on a woman's lip.

Probably most of us would be more thankful for the things we have if there were not so many other things we want.

"KISSING GIRL" FULL OF SNAP

Lively Musical Comedy Delights Large Audience at the Lyceum.

John P. Slocum, owner of "The Kissing Girl" company which appeared last evening at the Lyceum, certainly knows the art of handling a musical comedy company.

The members of the company went at their work last evening like football players hitting the line. There was enough snap, life and energy to their performance to make a much less pleasing production than "The Kissing Girl" a success. Every member of the company was working every minute of the time. When an actor does his best it covers a multitude of sins, and in this case there was not a multitude of sins to cover. The big audience probably helped, for the Lyceum was practically sold out on the two lower floors, and a more warmly appreciative audience never welcomed a musical comedy. It seemed ready and anxious to see all the good points of the performance, and applaud.

"The Kissing Girl" is not the biggest musical comedy that ever came to Duluth, not the best, and not the most elaborate and expensive, but no company ever threw itself into the work with more life and vigor. It was refreshing after the lackadaisical performances so often seen in musical comedy, when the actions of the chorus become mechanical and the efforts of the stars lifeless.

Some of the music is charming, and all of it catchy. There are half a dozen numbers which will be whistled and the performance bristles with novelties. There is an acrobatic dance by a young woman who is called "Vanity" on the program, that is a winner, and a violin duet played by two of the members of the chorus made a tremendous hit with last night's audience.

Miss Texas Guinan, a strenuous young woman with more than her share of good looks, a passable voice, and a very attractive manner, romps through the role of Lena, "The Kissing Girl", and manages to keep things moving while she is on the stage. She is overflowing with life and good spirits, and found instant favor with last night's audience. Her most able supporter is Dick Temple in the role of Fritz. He is a clever comedian, who plays his part as if he liked it, and his two songs "Major General Pumpernickel" and "The Hair of the Dog That Bit You", were well done.

Louis London as Karl Oppe, the king's forester, has a voice much above the average heard in musical comedy, and he uses it to good advantage in several numbers, the best of which is probably "Good Old German Beer". Miss Venita as Christina, has by far the best voice among the women of the company, and her solo "Love Is Like a Rose" is the big song hit of the performance, due largely to the fact that she is assisted by the violin duet above mentioned.

Harry Hermsen as Muller the brewer, furnishes the necessary amount of knockabout comedy, and does it well. Miss Ida Fitzhugh as Margaret Kobus the landlady of "Hunters' Rest", gets a little tangled in her dialect at times, but she shows the same spirit that is evidenced by the rest of the company, and she "gets by". The play may be the thing in the straight dramatic line, but "the spirit's the thing" in musical comedy, and the spirit shown last night would make a success of the most defunct musical comedy corpse buried in the Broadway theater vaults. And when there is a bright and very tuneful show to begin on, the result cannot but be a very pleasing evening's entertainment. "The Kissing Girl" will be repeated tonight and tomorrow, with a Saturday matinee.

Green Room Gossip.

Wallace Decker, agent for "The Broken Idol" company, which will be seen here next week, left last evening for the West after arranging here for special cars for the transportation of the company from Duluth to Portland.

The announcement yesterday that Annette Kellermann would appear at the Duluth Orpheum, is proof positive, according to Manager Pierong, that Duluth is getting the very best attractions on the Orpheum circuit. Miss Kellermann's act is the most expensive on the circuit, and it will cost the local house at least $600 in addition to her salary, to stage the act.

Next week will be the last that the Bijou theater will be known under that name. After the first of the month it will be called "The Empress" to conform with the policy of the Sullivan & Considine circuit, which is to have all the theaters on the circuit bear the same name. The shows will also be booked intact under the new arrangement, instead of the acts being booked separately.

"My Jack O'Lantern" is the title of one of the biggest song hits in Harry Bulgers starring vehicle "The Flirting Princess," Mort H. Singer's success which comes to the Lyceum Sunday and Monday. It is sung by Maude Emery, and whistled all during the intermission by those who hear the same. Other song hits in the delightful musical comedy are "Cairo," "I've Been Kissed in San Francisco," "Pale Golden Star," "Oh, These Men," "He Loves My Dreamy Eyes," and "Tell Her in the Golden Summer." "The Flirting Princess," has a chorus of which the Chicago papers spoke highly during the past summer.

Nearly everybody knows the character of the old-time traveling medicine show, and to an actor a position with a medicine show is as near the bottom of the dramatic business as it is possible to get without falling through.

Jack McGreevy, who is appearing at the Orpheum this week, was once discharged from a medicine show, but is now one of the recognized headliners on the Orpheum circuit, which is recognized as being pretty close to the top of the vaudeville profession. He attempted to do blackface turn with Dr. Spau's electric belt show, and he and his brother, Tom, made such a wretched failure of it that they were discharged. But he wouldn't give up the idea of entering the show business, even by the back door, and he found a job with another medicine show and finally made good, later advancing to the vaudeville stage. His impersonation of a "rube" character is now one of the classics of vaudeville, and he is recognized as one of the few vaudeville actors who tries to make a genuine study of the part, instead of merely burlesqing it.

RAIN

The sun shone for a time yesterday and brightened the outlook, but the temperature didn't get above 38 deg. A light rain began to fall during the night and today is damp and dreary. The weather man predicts showers for tonight or tomorrow, with temperatures higher.

Threatening weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 6:35, although it was obscured by the clouds, and it will set at 5:11 this evening, giving ten hours and thirty-six minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Low pressure areas central this morning over Saskatchewan and Southern Wisconsin caused warmer weather over Western Ontario, Manitoba and Saskatchewan, and rains over the western lake region, the Mississippi and lower Missouri valleys during last night. The West Indies hurricane has moved out to sea, but during the last twenty-four hours rains resulted in North Atlantic districts. Freezing temperatures continue in the Northwest, the Rocky mountains and Eastern slopes southward to including Oklahoma, Colorado, Utah and Nevada, in connection with the high barometer condition overlying the Rocky mountains and Southwestern states. Indications favor further rains at the Head of the Lakes tonight with a good chance of clearing skies during Saturday."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Saturday:

Upper Michigan—Continued unsettled weather, with rain tonight or Saturday.

Wisconsin—Showers and cooler tonight; Saturday partly cloudy.

Minnesota — Partly cloudy tonight and Saturday, preceded by showers in extreme east portion tonight.

Iowa—Partly cloudy tonight and Saturday; cooler in east portion tonight.

North Dakota—Generally fair tonight and Saturday.

South Dakota—Generally fair tonight and Saturday; warmer in central portion tonight.

Montana—Fair tonight and Saturday.

Upper Lakes—Moderate to brisk variable winds tonight and Saturday; showers.

MICHELET DENIES FRAUD CHARGES

Points to Error of Year in Statements By Moorehead.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 21.—Simon Michelet, formerly Indian agent at White earth, is indignant at an attack upon him in a story published Saturday in the Boston Transcript. The article, written by Warren K. Moorehead, a member of the United States Indian commission, deals with abuses alleged to have existed at White Earth at the time of the pine-land allottment among the Chippewa Indians, and is particularly severe in its condemnation of Michelet and of the men associated with him in the conduct of the agency. The accusation is made that Mr. Michelet discriminated against full-blooded Indians in the allottment of valuable pine tracts, turning these tracts over to half-breeds or mixed bloods, who, under a federal law known as the Clapp amendment, were permitted to sell their lands, a right never enjoyed by full-bloods. This was done, Mr. Moorehead infers, so that lumber companies might secure the lands by purchase or otherwise, something which would not have been possible had the owners been full-bloods.

Mr. Michelet said today that many of the statements in the Moorehead article are wantonly untrue and others are based on misinformation.

"Moorehead," he said, "was not in White Earth at the time of the allotment or anywhere near there. He went up there several years later and he has got so many of his alleged facts wrong that his article is unworthy of credence in any important particular.

Terms Charge Absurd.

"The charge that I discriminated against full-bloods in the allotment of lands in order to enable lumber companies to acquire the tracts from mixed bloods under the Clapp amendment is absurd. The lands were allotted beginning April 25, 1905, and the allotments were completed that year. The Clapp amendment was not passed until June, 1906, a year later.

"At the time the lands were allotted mixed bloods had no power to sell their holdings or dispose of them in any way. Consequently the lumber companies could not have been benefited by the discrimination alleged. Mr. Moorehead made a little mistake of a year in his dates, and that error destroys the whole force of his criticism so far as it is directed against me. Unless I could have foretold a year ahead of time what was to happen later, there could have been no motive for discrimination such as he alleges existed.

Mr. Moorehead's article fills more than a page of the Transcript and constitutes a severe arraignment of the methods employed by interior department officials in their dealings with the Indians. The author writes as though sure of his ground. He is particularly severe in his criticism of Mr. Michelet, who is now connected with a real estate firm in Minneapolis.

BURNS PROGRAM AT HIGH SCHOOL

The memory of Robert Burns, greatest of Scotch poets, was honored at the Central high school yesterday afternoon by a Scotch program which was greatly enjoyed by the students and faculty. Alex G. McKnight spoke on the life of Burns and read some of his best poems. He explained that it was love which first caused Burns to express his thoughts and inspirations in verse. John A. Mathewson, recently arrived from Great Britain, sang several Scotch ballads which were heartily applauded. Miss Annabel McLeod also sang some Scotch songs which were well received, while Miss Helen McLeod made a decided hit in dancing the Highland fling.

The program follows:

ROCKEFELLER GIVES Y. M. C. A. $450,000.

Washington, Oct. 21.—Contributions of $1,000,000 for a world-wide expansion of the Young Men's Christian association, $450,000 of which was given by John D. Rockefeller, were announced at the conference of Young Men's Christian association workers in the east room of the White House yesterday. President Taft addressed the delegates and heartily indorsed the organization.

Mr. Rockefeller's gift, tendered on the condition that a like amount be raised, was met by contributions by many laymen interested in the movement.

The subject of the conference was the extension into the Far East, the Near East and Latin-America. More than 200 laymen from twenty-one states and Canada were present.

Thousands for University.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 21.—R. A. Long, Kansas City capitalist, has donated $20,000 to Transylvania university. Mr. Long is credited with being the originator of the Brotherhood of the Disciples of Christ.

POSLAM'S RARE HEALING POWER

Proved in All Troublesome Skin Diseases—Results Seen Over Night.

A skin affection treated with poslam, the new skin remedy, immediately becomes responsive, itching stops and the trouble grows less annoying, less extensive, until it finally disappears and the skin regains its normal color and texture. Germ life is annihilated. "For a great many years I have been troubled with salt rheum on my chest. Nothing gave me any relief. Now I am completely well and poslam has done it," writes Mrs. Jessie Beach, Rockford, Mich.

All skin diseases, including acne, tetter, piles, salt rheum, skin scale, barbers' and all other forms of itch, are relieved and cured by poslam, itching being stopped at once. The less serious troubles, such as pimples, red and inflamed noses, rashes, complexion blemishes, etc., respond so readily that results are seen over night.

Poslam is sold in two sizes (trial, 50 cents; regular jars, $2) by all druggists, particularly the Lyceum Pharmacy and W. A. Abbett's in Duluth, and the A. E. Holmberg Drug Co., in Superior. For free sample write to the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York city.

ROAST FOR RICH GIRLS

English Visitor Writes Home of Discovery He Has Made.

Palace of French Arts and Industries to Be Best Ever.

London, Oct. 21.—Lord Rocksavage, Lord Cholmondeley's heir, who went to the United States a little while ago, has been writing home his opinions of the American girls he has encountered during his visit. Although the future Marquis of Cholmondeley will be a wealthy man, comparatively speaking, nevertheless the family would like him to burnish the ancient title with some American gold. He went out ostensibly on business and to do New York, but at the back of his head was the determination to make the acquaintance of the most interesting American girls of the hour.

"They are mostly charming," he wrote, "but those with possessions are far too abominably independent for any self-respecting Englishman to marry. I defy any man to hold his own with an American woman who has a fortune of her own. She is so self-assertive and dictatorial that she would expect him to sink his individuality completely in hers. Some of the girls who have no money are delightful; cultured and well bred. They are full of fun and they don't want to have things all their own way like the millionaires' daughters."

I hope I am not revealing a confidence in announcing that this future marquis goes to particularize in respect to one very charming young woman who resides in Philadelphia. She is a beauty and belongs to one of the old Quaker families. Her photograph shows a tall, willowy figure and laughing eyes. It ought to be easy to put a name to her as, I am told, she has already caused a sensation on your side. She has never been here, but is coming over in the spring to make her bow at the court of Saint James. Although he won't admit it yet, Lord Rocksavage's friends on this side say he is completely smitten.

Fond of Practical Joke.

A crack polo player, he is a great chum of the duke of Westminster. He is very fond of a practical joke, and a couple of years ago played one on his own family at Cholmondeley castle. At midnight he and a party motored from Eaton hall, where he was a guest of the duke and duchess of Westminster, and attempted to burgle the castle. They managed to get as far as unbarring a drawing-room window, but were heard by the butler, who threatened to fire. On recognizing the voice of the heir he desisted, but only just in time.

The Cholmondeleys (who, by the way, pronounce their name Chumley) are big landowners, possessing about 50,000 acres in Cheshire. They also have property in Norfolkshire. Houghton hall, at present leased by Cora Lady Strafford, is theirs. This place is especially loved by Americans, who take it in time and again. Lady Strafford wants to purchase it outright, but Lord Cholmondeley won't sell it.

Mrs. Maldwin Drummond, the countess of Ilchester, Mrs. W. B. Leeds and several other prominent—and wealthy—American women are said to be interested in the wonderful Palace of French Arts and Industries which is to be begun shortly in The Strand. When complete, it is said, it will be the most perfect shopping center in the world. The most wonderful things from Paris in art, furniture, bric-a-bac, gowns and jewelry will be obtainable there.

A special feature will be dogs' dressing-rooms which will be under the supervision of an expert in these things from Paris. Here the daintiest canine garments, jewels and furniture can be bought. Those simply desiring to have their pets groomed can walk in and put them in the hands of experts; there will be a veterinary surgeon on the premises and a canine surgery where dogs who are indisposed will be treated.

The Beauty Salon.

Another important feature will be the beauty salon. The greatest experts in this line will be brought over from Paris and will be presided over by a fully qualified medical man, for the first thing which the promoters mean to guard against is the possibility of any dangerous experiments being carried out; but some wonderful things are to be done in beautifying.

Balmacaan was lent by Mr. and Mrs. Bradley Martin quite lately to Frederick Townsend Martin that he might have the time of his life entertaining what seemed like all the children in Scotland. Helping him was that interesting bachelor, William Gillett, whose boast is that he "is invited everywhere, but goes only to his friends." The master of ceremonies on the occasion was little Lord Uffington, who is funnily described in some American newspapers as Lord Tiffington Lord Uffington is, of course, Townsend Martin's great-nephew, Lady Craven, the litte boy's mother, being his niece. There must have been between 800 and 900 children at the festivity; those who were present said that it was twice as big as anything Queen Alexandra and Princess Victoria ever gave at Buckingham palace, and it cost the host at least $10,000. Lest the little ones should catch cold, he had enormous pile carpet spread all over the lawns, and a special train from London brought down the artists and the side shows to amuse the guests.

Search For Novelties.

One of the great toy merchants told me that for weeks before the festivity came off he was at his wits' end to find novelties for Townsend Martin in the way of toys, he being determined that only the most interesting should be presented to the children.

"I had to ransack Paris, Berlin and other big cities on the continent," he said, "to discover the things which I knew the host would like. I never met a man in my life who is so wild about children. He seems never to want to do anything else but play about with them. It is delightful to see him."

Mr. Gillett gives children's parties from time to time in London which, however, at the outside do not number more than fifty little guests. Prince Francis of Teck is also addicted to giving festivities of the same order. He says they are so infinitely more amusing than those for grown-ups.

Margaret Carnegie is growing up, and all her friends, to their great delight, think she is getting stronger. She has been very busy lately forming a children's league of which she is to be the president. It is called The Fairns' League of Kindness, and she herself has drafted all the rules and laid down all the duties. Each child member subscribes out of his or her own pocket money $1.25 a year, which is placed in a fund to be devoted to helping poor children. Every member has to perform some act of kindness toward some other child every week. Later Miss Carnegie means to produce a journal in the interest of the league. It is said that the doctors told Mr. and Mrs. Carnegie that it was advisable that their daughter should have some outside interest to occupy her, and that is how the league was started

ANOTHER CITY UNDER NEW YORK

Four Tunnels in Tiers to Run From Grand Central Station.

New York, Oct. 21.—Marvelous as will be the new Grand Central terminal within its own four walls, it will be hardly more remarkable than the series of underground connections by which it will be joined to the local transportation system connecting it with the whole of Manhattan, as well as with three of the other boroughs and New Jersey.

The plans provide for four superimposed subways beneath Forty-second street. Of these the uppermost will be a concourse, from which access may be had to any of the three levels below it, which will no doubt be extended east to Lexington avenue, connecting there with the proposed triborough route. Below this joint concourse is the level of the present interborough subway.

The Floor of One Another's Roof.

The floor of this tunnel will become the roof of the station of the McAdoo tubes at the Grand Central, and below that will be the Belmont tunnel to Long Island City, the operation of which seems to be getting within the range of probability as the result of the interborough company's latest proposals.

Taken as a whole, the new plans afford a most striking illustration of New York's underground development. The new terminals will provide facilities for handling 100,000,000 passengers a year —more than five times its present capacity — but with the arrangements which have been made for reaching and leaving the station without coming to the street the immediate neighborhood around the Grand Central will give only slight indication of this great increase in traffic.

A Street in the Air.

Another phase of this vast improvement is the plan to carry Park avenue around the new station. The new station will be surrounded by what will be in effect a broad terrace, perhaps fifteen feet above the present street level. To the south this will be connected with Park avnue by a bridge, extending from the Forty-second street front of the station to about Fortieth street, north of the station at Forty-fifth street, the new thoroughfare will be extended over what was formerly the present Park avenue at Fifty-sixth street.

The effect of this will be to create a new thoroughfare, which, it is believed, will relieve to some extent the volume of traffic on Fifth avenue.

HE WAITED FORTY YEARS FOR JEANIE

Patient Scotchman Rewarded When His First Sweetheart Arrives.

New York, Oct. 21.—After forty years of wedlock, but now a widow, Mrs. William McNabb, 60 years old, has arrived from Perthshire, Scotland, to wed the man of her first choice, who until this time has remained single. Mrs. McNabb was a first cabin passenger on board the Caledonia, of the Anchor line, in from Glasgow, and as soon as her baggage was inspected she hurried to a train that would take her to Pittsburg, where Charles McNair awaits her.

Sweethearts in the city of Perthshire, the young woman and young McNair, then apprentice as an engineer, had a quarrel, and the young man swore that he never would set eyes on his Jeanie again, and with Scotch persistence he kept his word and sailed away in a Liverpool clipper.

His chum was young William McNabb also an engineer's apprentice, and he also had made eyes at Jeanie, but with no avail until McNabb departed. There were a few tears at first, but at last William's suit was acknowledged and the couple were married.

Two years ago McNabb died and the widow, lonely and thinking of the past, soon learned the whereabouts of Charles McNair from relatives left behind in Perthshire. A corespondence began and McNair who had remained single, again asked his sweetheart of years before to become his wife.

There was no quarrel this time and Mrs. McNabb settled up her little affairs in the Scotch city and started. McNair was so busy in Pittsburg that he could not come to meet his intended bride, but the agents of the Anchor line attended to starting the widow on the right road to the Pennsylvania city.

When asked to tell of the romance, Mrs. McNabb said that it was her business and no one's else.

LABRADOR HAS BEEN CONQUERED

Hesketh Prichard, Novelist and Explorer, Makes the Crossing.

London, Oct. 21.—Important news comes in a letter from Hesketh Prichard, the novelist, cricketer, explorer, big-game hunter, and aide-de-camp to the lord lieutenant of Ireland, who set out from London three months ago to reach, if possible, unexplored portions of Labrador.

The expedition has succeeded brilliantly, and for the first time Labrador has been crossed, from the Atlantic to the George river, north of Naino, and many observations have been made of much importance to the future Labrador, especially as to the movements of the migratory caribou, on which the food supply of the Eskimo and the settlers on the coast to a great extent depends.

Mr. Prichard was accompanied by Geoffrey Gathorne-Hardy, a grandson of the earl of Cranbrook. They traveled up the unchartered Fraser river as far as it was navigable and then found themselves shut in by cliffs over 1,500 feet high. With great difficulty these cliffs were climbed with loads of provisions, etc. The journey was then continued over a rocky and woodless table land sometimes over 2,000 feet above sea level. Across this, Mr. Prichard and his party made their way, carrying enough food to take them to the George river, where they arrived on Aug. 19. The party visited the camps of the Nascaupis on the famous Indian House lake, where the Indians had killed many migrating deer in the spring. When the expedition left the George river to retrace their steps, the provisions were reduced to two pounds of flour and a little tea. The timely killing of a caribou stag enabled them to recross the table land and to regain their base on the Fraser river.

Apart from the flies on the high country, the explorers report a most enjoyable trip and good sport, bear and deer being shot. The success of the journey across the nearest unexplored dominions of King George will arouse much interest to London when the news becomes known here.

LOCUST PLAGUE REPORTED NEAR

Farmers Join to Protect the Feathered Crop Guards.

New York, Oct. 21.—To warn farmers and orchardists against the resurrection of the "Seventeen-year Locust" or "Periodical Cicada" that will occur in certain areas of this country next spring, a call for preserving the wild birds that destroy this pest is being issued from the headquarters of the National Asociation of Audubon Societies in this city. Two giant broods of these remarkable insects, that come to ravage orchard vegetation only after incubation intervals of thirteen and seventeen years, are set down by scientists as due to descend upon this continent within the next six months. Only the birds that can be counted upon to eat up by thousands the units in this swarming locust plague will avail to avert serious losses in the coming season, it is declared.

English sparrows, robins, woodpeckers, orioles, scarlet tanagers, cuckoos, goldfinches and nuthatches have been proved by the government biological survey to have rendered the greatest servico in devouring these periodical cicada on their last raids of the country, according to the records that have been searched by the Audubon workers. Eating the soft bodies of the locust pests, or their wings and heads as well, cat birds, flickers, towhees, gnatcatchers, martins, peewees, thrushes, vireos, chickadees and flycatchers are among their other destroyers. Only two species of all the birds examined at Washington have been found not to feed upon these destructive insects. To protect these birds and all other insect-eaters through the coming months is declared to be an emergency measure that must be seized upon by the farmers of the land.

Shielded in tiny shells, the periodical cicada are today preparing to burst in countless multitudes over the fields of both North and South, the entomological experts declare. Unnumbered hosts of these wierd insects will next summer slit young trees and deposit to blight their tender sprouts the eggs that will bring forth the species seventeen years hence, it is assured. Apple, peach and pear orchards and vineyards will feel their destructive power, the government authorities admit, unless an abundant force of the wild birds is preserved to lead the fight against the impending insect plague.

Comprehensive state laws for the protection of the insect-eating birds and widespread efforts to shelter and feed them through the storms of next winter are advocated in this emergency by the National Association of Audubon Societies, which has for years urged the people of America to consider such problems from the economic standpoint.

"The fear of the locust plague that is now spreading over the agricultural sections only points sharply the moral of our general campaign," said William Dutcher, president of the National Association of Audubon Societies as its headquarters, 141 Broadway, today. "For years we have been working to arouse the country to the danger of the destruction of the insect-eating birds, that will be invaluable in this particular case as they are in every case of insect pests. Since 1634, when these so-called 'seventeen-year locusts' descended upon the pilgrim fathers at Plymouth, the agricultural prosperity of this country has been constantly menaced by insect encroachments that can be met only by the birds that nature has provided as checks, not as targets for pot hunters."

CONCERNING WOMAN.

At the October meeting of the Women's Council which was held this morning at the clubroom of the library the rules of procedure which have, through precedent, become the rules for governing the body were formally listed by a committee which compiled them from the minutes of the Council since its organization. They are as follows:

"The name of this organization is 'The Woman's Council of Duluth.'

"Its object is to take the initiative whenever co-operation among the women's organizations in the city seems desirable.

"The officers are: President, two vice presidents, recording secretary, corresponding secretary and historian and treasurer. The Council is composed of the presidents and two other delegates from each of the women's organizations in the city, desiring representation therein.

"There may also be members at large at the discretion of the Council.

"Every organization represented in the Council shall pay into the treasury annually 10 cents per capita of its active membership. Philanthropic organizations shall be exempt from this ruling but will pay an annual fee of $1. Members at large shall pay annual dues of $1 each.

"Regular meetings of the council are held the first Friday of each month at 10 a. m.

"At the November meeting annual reports are given and the officers elected.

The reports of the various committees were presented. Mrs. F. L. Barrows reported in detail the bringing of Mrs. Caroline Bartlett Crane. Her report was accepted and a vote of thanks was passed by the council to Mrs. Barrows for her work, to the press, the Commercial club, the city officials and local physicians for assistance during her visit.

Miss Campbell, general secretary of the Y. W. C. A., told of an industrial exhibit which the association is planning for November or early in December, in which the products of the various local manufactories will be displayed. The exhibit is the first move in the work of the association to secure the interest of the girls and women employed in the industrial centers of the city. In addition to the local exhibits, there will be an exhibit of protective appliances for machinery which was displayed at the state fair, and it is also expected to secure speakers of national importance in the labor work.

The work of the summer schools was completed. The board of education assumed the entire expense of conducting the domestic science and manual training schools. The council undertook the active management of the schools.

There was informal discussion of other committee work, but no definite reports were presented.

At the next meeting of the council the annual reports will be presented and the election of officers will be held.

STATE D. A. R. MEETS.

Sixteenth Annual Conference Being Held in St. Paul.

The sixteenth annual conference of the Minnesota State Society, Daughters of the American Revolution is being held at St. Paul today in Park Congregational church with Mrs. C. W. Wells of Minneapolis presiding.

Mrs. M. D. Edwards, St. Paul, opened the conference with devotionals, after which "America" was sung by the audience.

Mrs. C. W. Wells, state regent, brought greetings. The minutes of the last conference and of the May meeting were read by Mrs. F. W. Little, state secretary. Then followed the reports of the state treasurer, Mrs. A. A. Pocock, St. Paul, of the state historian, Mrs. Grant Bronson of Northfield, of the state registrar, Mrs. W. H. Burris, Duluth. Mrs. E. H. Loyhed of Fairibault spoke on the "Continental Hall Pledge at Washington." Vocal selections were given by Miss Aurelia Wharry, and then the nineteen chapter regents made their reports. New business come up for discussion before the noon hour.

Mrs. H. D. Pattison of St. Paul made open the after-luncheon program with an invocation, after which unfinished business was brought before the meeting.

Four toasts were to be proposed as follows: "The Sibley House—An Historical Monument," Mrs. D. W. McCourt, St. Paul; "The Women of Yesterday—Sacrifice," Mrs. C. L. Chase of Minneapolis; "The Women of Today—Opportunity," Mrs. C. W. Benton; "The Women of Tomorrow—A Future Outlook," Mrs. Jay Cook Howard, Duluth. Mrs. W. H. Burris of this city will read a poem, "But One Ancestral Bar," and the conference will close with the report of the committee on resolutions.

W. R. C. LECTURES.

Prof. Lee Speaks at Memorial Hall.

Lee Carleton Lee spoke before two audiences yesterday at Memorial hall in the courthouse in a series of three lectures, the last of which will be given this evening. Mr. Lee is lecturing in Duluth under the auspices of the Women's Relief Corps.

His subject yesterday afternoon was "The Soul of Woman." The speaker traced the progress of woman from the earliest day to the present dwelling in detail on her far reaching influence for good. Although woman has shown her adaptibility in business, Mr. Lee thinks that her place ultimately is the home, although he thinks that the modern trend of woman into business has resulted in more and happier homes. There is no place, thought the speaker, for the married woman in the business world. When she enters matrimony her work is in the making of the home and the man's effort should be providing for the home.

"Today it behooves every good man and every good woman to stand guard over the American home, for a danger threatens it which is almost entirely unknown to the good women of the land," said the lecturer. "I say to you—and I know I speak for every clean and virtuous woman, for every student of history—I say beware of those who decry marriage; for even though they may not realize it they are endangering the virtue of our women, the morality of our state, the integrity of the nation. Beware of those who sneer at the love of man for they are attacking the greatest human power for righteousness. Shun those who teach woman a false idea of wife and motherhood, for these false prophets, while pretending to strike shackles from the limbs of woman are dealing her the blows of a poisoned weapon, whose virulence eating its way into the very heart of womanhood shall in the end destroy the very foundations of the great structure of civilization."

"When the People Wake," a study of present-day conditions in America, was the subject of the lecture last evening. The present unrest and discontent that seems to possess the people was spoken of and the historical basis for existing conditions detailed. The four causes of unrest, according to the speaker, are envy and jealousy, distrust, antagonism and materialism.

"Rome passed from the democracy to the plutocracy as America is about to do today," said Prof. Lee. "To what is our country coming? There are startling resemblances between the picture of Rome and America. Every evil that appeared in Rome is now found in America. Will the American people free themselves before it is too late? I firmly believe they will. We should use the picture of the past to guard against the evils of the present. The American people are not of the weak ones of the earth, they are able to overcome any danger. The American people are not afraid to be honest with themselves and there is no trial so hard, no danger so great, no catastrophe so dire that with God's help they cannot overcome it."

The subject of this evening's lecture will be "The Mind of Man." The lecture will be presented at 8:15 o'clock at the Memorial hall.

Cheap Kitchen Towels.

Buy from your baker a dozen empty flour bags, which will cost very little. Cut them apart and hem them and you will have strong, useful towels.

To Clean Water Bottles.

To clean water bottles take some vinegar, sand and a potato cut up into dice and mix all well together; then keep in a covered jar for use. When cleaning bottles put some of the mixture into each bottle and let it stand for two hours; then give it a good shaking, put it back into the jar, rinse the bottle in cold water and it will be perfectly free from all stain.

Mending Torn Lace.

Torn lace can often be neatly mended by machine. Lay a piece of paper beneath the lace and bring the edges as near together as possible. Then, with a very fine thread in the machine, stitch backwards and forwards irregularly and the tear will hardly be seen. Carefully pull away the paper.

Helps for the Housekeeper.

Milk will be found a most effective polish for glace kid boots or shoes. Apply the milk to the kid with a flannel, not making the flannel too wet; then rub the boots with a soft duster and polish them with a piece of velvet.

To cure a stye take the white of an egg in a saucer and rub in it a pinch of powdered alum. This will become a curd. Put it between two pieces of fine muslin and bind on the eye before going to bed. In the morning the stye will be gone.

It is a good plan when crocheting wool to place the ball of wool in a china basin; the basin being smooth inside, it does not pull out and unwind easily and also saves much trouble of getting entangled and soiled by rolling on the table.

At least once a month lamp burners should be boiled in strong soapy water. Lamp wicks should as often be washed in soap suds. Lamp chimneys should not be washed, but moistened with steam, wiped with soft linen and polished with paper.

When putting down your new linoleum or oilcloth have strips of moulding nailed about the linoleum where it comes to the board. This prevents dust from getting underneath and also preserves the edges from moisture under the floor covering.

Saturday club at the meeting. Reports will be presented by the Duluth delegates who attended the state federation meeting. Mrs. J. L. Washburn will report the business sessions; Mrs. J. W. Harbison the address of Mrs. Fanny French Morse; Mrs. O. A. Oredson, Governor Eberhardt's address; Mrs. D. H. Williams, the address of Mrs. Caroline Bartlett Crane; Mrs. N. F. Hugo, the discussion for reforestization, and Mrs. Robert Speigel, the social features and the roundtable discussions.

A social hour will follow.

THE EVENING STORY

THE FINISHING TOUCH

By Reginald Morton.

The sick man tossed wearily to and fro. Would sleep never come? One, two had struck, and still with hot eyes and feverishly active brain he lay staring into the dark.

He would end this wearisome vigil. Cautiously he raised himself on one elbow and listened. The gentle regular breathing at the foot of the bed told him that Elsie was in deep sleep which comes from many broken nights.

"The picture, the picture," he kept muttering to himself; "I must finish the picture."

Slowly and painfully he dragged himself from his bed to the easel, which stood in a corner of the room, and with the cunning born of a distraught mind turned up the gas by degrees. The weak fingers tremulously grasped the well-known brush, and with a sigh of satisfaction he started feverishly to work. A new-born force seemed to thrill his being, and his hand responded in obedience to its influence. Already his mind's eye saw the picture in its entirety, already the thunderous applause of the people smote his ears as he advanced, the adjudicated winner of the great and coveted prize. All the world should ring with his fame as an artist. Away with poverty—away with wants which starved his genius and ground him down into the very depths of despair and darkness. And Elsie—the thought of her stayed his hand, and he looked across with tenderness to where she lay quietly sleeping like a child. The promise that he had whispered in her ear in the first flush of their love should all be realized, and the look of care which of late had crept into and clouded the brightness of her sweet eyes should be banished forever. The brush was busy again now, and the hectic flush burned brightly on her cheek.

The hours of darkness passed until the grey dawn filtering through the faded blinds found the artist still painting and the sleeper still sleeping.

The tired brain was beginning to play queer tricks. The colors danced before his aching eyes; the figures on the canvas assumed grotesque and fantastic proportions, and at times a wave of blood red hue swept over the picture, obliterating all else. His temples throbbed with the noise of some giant engine, and an unknown force compelled him to paint to the time of the quick throb-throb. Fresh figures—the creatures of delirium—leaped to the canvas, laughing and mocking at him with hideous and derisive faces.

"Curse you, curse you," he muttered, and a big splodge of color marred the left-hand corner. The strength of the thrust overbalanced the easel, which fell to the ground with a crash, carrying the picture with it.

Elsie was on her feet in an instant.

"Maurice, Maurice, what are you doing?"

In the garish mixture of gaslight and dawn she saw the overturned picture and easel, and her husband sitting with uplifted brush, and eyes strangely glittering.

"They did it, they did it," he kept on muttering, incoherently.

In soft, persuasive tones she prevailed upon him to get back to bed.

He was still babbling childlike when the doctor arrived.

"Anxiety, weakness and want of sleep are responsible for this. I will send around a draught for him, and on no account must he be disturbed. And no more of that picture," he added, with emphasis. "His reason and life are worth more than all the pictures in the world. Tomorrow may find him normal again.

In the afternoon Elsie left the sick room and went out for fresh air. As she walked along, her mind naturally buoyant and optimistic, descended into the lowest depths of despair. The picture—the candidate for the Grand Prl of 25,000 francs at the Brussels International Art exhibition—had to be finished and sent off next day. And what a great deal depended on its final success. There were full two months arrears for board and lodging due to the indulgent Mother Guerin. In addition, there was the doctor, Mons. Vidal, who had been in almost daily attendance for the last three months. He was kind, too, and forbore pressing his claim. The interest which his patient's case aroused within him somewhat qualified the absence of monetary receipts. He watched the slow growth of the picture with the keenest attention and in his medical mind wondered which would finish the race first, the brush or those microscopical organisms which were attacking so voraciously the poor artist's lungs.

Sitting down on a seat near by, Elsie allowed her thoughts to run on despondently.

Never before had the future loomed so dark and hopeless. Her child, a gay little fellow of 5 years, had been sent away to friends; even one mouth less is something—what was to become of him?

Two bright tears slowly rolled down the pale, pinched cheeks and splashed on the time-worn dress.

She was too upset to notice the approach of a quietly-dressed stranger who, seeing her distress, stopped and looked at her in pity for some moments.

"Madame is in trouble?" he remarked gently, sitting down beside her. Elsie started and looked up. The kind fatherly gaze, the sypmathetic voice, invited confidence, and before she had quite realized the situation her tale was told in a few broken sentences.

"And this picture must be finished and sent off by tomorrow morning," he repeated. "Take me to it, my child, and we will see what can be done."

Elsie felt too weak and miserable to raise any objection and a few minutes' walk brought them to the humble lodging.

From behind the screen, which shut off the bed from the rest of the room, the quiet breathing of the invalid showed that the doctor's prescription had taken effect.

The stranger approached the window and gazed long and earnestly at the painting. Silently he took up a brush and painted swiftly.

Awe-struck and wondering, Elsie watched the growth and transformation of the picture under the magic power of his hand.

The hours crept on and still the unknown one painted. At last, just before midnight, he heaved a deep sigh and put down the brush.

"My child," said he, "I can do no more."

"Oh, monsieur," exclaimed Elsie, clasping his hand impulsively, "how can I ever repay you for what you have done. Let me know your name that I may always thank and pray for you."

"My dear little one," he replied with tenderness, it is quite impossible for me to give you my name. Your thanks and prayers will be reward enough to one who has only been too pleased to benefit those in distress with the gift Kind heaven has bestowed upon him. I leave the town early tomorrow morning, so farewell, as I doubt we shall ever meet again."

Stooping, he kissed her lightly on the forehead and was gone. With tears in her eyes Elsie remained in front of the easel.

The next day Elsie packed and sent off the picture. Maurice's attack of delirium would afford him little chance of recollecting the state of his picture when he last worked on it, and Elsie felt confident that if success were gained he would in his innocence accept the work as of his entire creation, never suspecting the true state of affairs.

"I don't remember finishing it," he remarked a few days later, on hearing that his work had been sent off. "I only hope it's all right."

Three weeks passed. Three weeks of nerve-torturing suspense and uncertainty, and still no news from the committee.

Then early one morning the doctor rushed in excitedly, waving a newspaper.

"There's your picture," he shouted.

As Maurice gazed on his work, placed so conspicuously and to the full advantage of the light beating down from the great glass dome overhead, his heart was filled with a sudden rush of awe and feeling.

"Good heavens, Elsie," he said in a hoarse whisper, "what an inspiration I had when I painted that."

Many years afterwards Elsie was casually glancing through a book of portraits when her attention was arrested by a face which seemed strangely familiar to her. Where had she seen that sympathetic, fatherly gaze? Suddenly the dim memories of bygone days quickened to life and she recognized the face as that of the unknown painter, who had saved them in their hour of need.

At that moment there entered an old friend who was a frequent visitor to the beautiful art studio in Paris which Maurice had opened to receive pupils. Better living and a renewed interest in his life and work had done much to conquer his malady and bring him back to health and strength.

"Monsieur, do you know who that is?" asked Elsie, showing the portrait.

"What! don't you know? That's Malheau, the greatest painter of his age. Surely you saw the obituary notice and account of his life about three months ago? Good old Malheau. A kinder and better heart never beat."

ALBENBERG'S

ON THE IRON RANGES

JAMES GRAY WILL SPEAK AT EVELETH

Democratic Candidate for Governor to Be Heard There Thursday.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Next Thursday James Gray, Democratic candidate for governor, and Fred W. Johnson, candidate for secretary of state, assisted by Democratic candidates for county office, will speak at Vail hall.

SIXTEEN CARD SHARPS FINED

Virginia Police Get Busy and Raid Several Gambling Joints.

Virginia, Minn., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Several of the gambling joints over saloons were raided early yesterday morning and sixteen manipulators of the cards were rounded up and fined in sums amounting in all to about $300. It is asserted the games had been running for some time and upon complaint to the police the places were raided and the participants were taken into custody. All paid their fines.

WORK SUSPENDED AT HOLMAN MINE

Reported Presence of Silica and Taconite in Ores Caused Shutdown.

Coleraine, Minn., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The news spread rapidly over this section of Itasca county yesterday afternoon that operations at the Holman mine at Taconite had ended for this season and the entire night force at the concentrating mill was laid off.

About 300 men were employed in these two locations. It is understood that the men with families will be taken care of at other mines, but many of the single men will be dropped from the payrolls. When the shipping season opens next spring a larger force than ever will be employed at the Taconite location. It is reported that this is a difficult mining proposition owing to the great amount of taconite and silicia in the ore.

Plan Busy Season in 1911.

J. W. Olcott and W. A. McGonagle of Duluth have been conducting a party of New York officials of the United States Steel corporation over the mining works in this section. It is supposed that their inspection led to the closing down of operations at the Holman mine. Great preparations are being made to carry on the stripping works at Coleraine more vigorously than ever. Several addition steam shovels will be put to work. The foundation is being laid for one of the largest machine shops on the range. It will be built of brick and steel and will be equipped with modern electrical machinery. A large dry is also being built near the machine shops equipped with electric lights, steel lockers, shower baths, sewer connections and having accommodations for nearly 100 men. The mining operations at the Hill mine at Marble will also be greatly increased the coming season.

HIBBING WATER IS O. K.

State Bacteriologist Has Made a Welcome Announcement.

Hibbing, Minn., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The local drinking water has been declared bacteriologically pure, according to the report received from Dr. F. F. Wesbrook, the state bacteriologist, who analyzed samples.

The sample from the hydrant at Fifth avenue and Lincoln street was found to contain some contamination, this being the result of the small amount of chemicals in use at the time, due to a shortage in the supply.

This shows that the results of the hypochloride treatment are highly satisfactory, and the state official in his report states that the method in use here to purify the drinking water is shown to be very satisfactory.

FOURTEEN DIVORCE CASES ON DOCKET

Perplexing Problems Will Confront Judge Hughes at Virginia Next Week.

Virginia, Minn., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The October term of the district court will begin here next Tuesday, Judge Martin Hughes presiding. On the calendar are eighty-six cases, of which eleven are continued from the July term. The new cases on the calendar are thirty-four for jury trial and eleven court cases. There are fourteen divorce cases on the docket. There are quite a large number of personal injury suits and the coming term promises to reach far into December. The grand jury will go into session on the same date and it is expected that there will be quite a number of indictments returned at this time. Deputy Sheriffs W. H. Oppel and Owen Gately are busy serving jury summons and expect to have both the petit and grand jury list complete by tomorrow.

MAKING PROGRESS ON NEW RAILROAD

Many Men Employed on Construction in Vicinity of Eveleth.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Good progress is being made on the Canadian Northern railway in this vicinity.

Large crews of men are working within two miles of this city. Contractor Jacobson has the contract in this vicinity on the new road and the railroad work affords much employment for local residents. A depot will be situated about a mile and a quarter from here and condemnation proceedings will be necessary to acquire a site.

COMPANY M'S BALL THURSDAY SUCCESS

Over 100 Couples Attended Second of Series of Hops Given By Militia.

Hibbing, Minn., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The dance given by Company M last evening at the Armory was attended by over 100 couples, and was thoroughly enjoyed by all. This is the second of the winter series of dancing parties to be given by Company M.

The new home which is being erected by Dr. J. Mark on Fourth avenue, between Washington and Lincoln streets, is well under way. The building will be a two-story frame building and will cost about $1,500.

Mr. and Mrs. John Healy, accompanied by their daughter and Mrs. Close, left for Duluth Thursday in Mr. Healey's auto.

In the municipal court Thursday, three of the men were fined $1 each for being drunk, while the charge against a boy giving the name of John Dolka of Calumet, Mich., was suspended on the promise of leaving liquor alone. Dolka is about 18 years old.

Miss May Cronin of Coleraine arrived Wednesday evening to visit with friends for a few days.

CREAM CITY DIANA.

Virginia, Minn., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Corlenta Wagner of this city and Miss Anna Sauer of Milwaukee have returned from a hunting trip to Lake Vermilion, where they succeeded in bagging nine ducks and eleven partridges. Miss Sauer has been the guest of Miss Wagner for the past several weeks and has enjoyed her outing and her hunting successes to the fullest extent. Miss Wagner is a niece of Conductor Charles Parker of the Canadian Northern, and is considered quite an expert at wing shooting.

MILLER TO TALK.

Congressman Will Be Heard at Eveleth Next Monday Evening.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Monday evening a Republican rally will be held at Vail hall, with Congressman Clarence B. Miller, Attorney J. Boyle, Republican candidate for state senator, Attorney O. J. Larson and Republican candidates for county offices as speakers.

On Nov. 2 the big Republican rally of the year will take place here with Governor A. O. Eberhart and others as speakers. Ex-Mayor Walter J. Smith, candidate for state treasurer, who made his debut as a state political speaker yesterday at Anoka, will also speak.

ENDS KIDNEY OR BLADDER MISERY

Kidneys Act Fine and Headache Vanishes After a Few Doses.

If your kidneys are disordered or you suffer with backache or bladder misery a few doses of Pape's Diuretic now will effect a cure.

Put an end to kidney trouble while it is only trouble—before it develops into Dropsy, Diabetes, Gravel or Bright's disease.

The moment you suspect any kidney, bladder or urinary disorder, or feel a dull, constant Backache, or the urine is thick, cloudy, offensive or full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a scalding sensation, begin taking Pape's Diuretic as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine, at any price, made anywhere else in the world, which is so harmless or will effect so thorough and prompt a cure.

Pape's Diuretic acts directly upon the kidneys, bladder and urinary system; cleans, heals and regulates these organs, ducts and glands and completes the cure within a few days.

Pains in the back, sides or loins, rheumatic twinges, Prostatic trouble, debilitating headache, nervousness, dizziness, weakness, bilious stomach, sleeplessness, inflamed or puffy eyelids, worn-out feeling and many other symptoms caused by clogged, inactive kidneys promptly vanish. Frequent, painful and uncontrollable urination due to a weak or irritable bladder is overcome.

Your physician, pharmacist, banker or any mercantile agency will vouch for the responsibility of Pape, Thompson & Pape of Cincinnati, who prepare Pape's Diuretic—50 cent treatment—sold by every druggist in the world.

GOOD YIELDS OF GRAIN REPORTED

Farmers in Littlefork Country Did Well Despite Early Drouth.

Tower, Minn., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Reports from the thrashing machines in the Littlefork country indicate a very successful year for the farmer, notwithstanding the drouth of the early summer. On the N. J. Benson farm some 2,100 bushels of small grain were thrashed, wheat yielding 24 bushels, oats 40 bushels and barley 30 bushels per acre. On the John Owens farm 1,700 bushels were thrashed, while on the Gus Johnson farm the yield of small grain totaled 1,900 bushels.

These farms are located four miles east of Cook, a station on the Canadian Northern railway and near the west end of Lake Vermilion.

On the Benson farm some 100 acres are under cultivation and besides the fifty acres that were sown with small grain, considerable hay was secured and the yield of all kinds of vegetables was large. The Owen farm has 100 acres under cultivation also, while the Johnson farm has some 150 acres. These farms are only twenty miles west of Tower, where a good market is found for the various crops raised.

PAVEMENT COMPLETED

Fine Thoroughfare Now Open Between Duluth and Superior.

Garfield Avenue Job Meets Approval of City Officers.

The paving of Garfield avenue, from the viaduct just below Superior street to the approach of the interstate bridge, has been completed in first-class shape by Contractor P. McDonnell.

The improvement is the largest which has been made in Duluth the present year. The paving covers the full width of the street and is over a mile in length. The cost will be approximately $100,000. Incidentally the last estimate allowed Contractor McDonnell by the council two weeks ago is about the biggest ever issued in the city hall. It called for $55,120.80, in part payment of the work.

The avenue is paved with sandstone blocks laid on a six-inch concrete base. The work was completed in record time, considering the fact that a long delay was caused by the placing of larger water mains in the highway at the last moment. It had been previously announced that no new mains would be laid because of lack of funds but after one side of the street had been torn up, Mayor Cullum devised a plan for raising the necessary money by borrowing from the sinking fund, technically selling part of the water and light department's bonds to that fund. This work was also done by Contractor McDonnell and the cost will be added to the paving.

The improvement was demanded for years by the large business interests of both Duluth and Superior. Garfield avenue is the only thoroughfare between the two cities, and the traffic passing over it both ways each day is tremendous. Before the pavement was put down the teams had to pull through mudholes and frequently plowed through water five and six inches deep. The money for the work was partially raised by subscription and the balance was paid into the permanent improvement revolving fund by the property owners and the city.

The work has been carefully supervised throughout by City Engineer T. F. McGilvray and Mayor Cullum. They state that it is fully up to the standard in every way and are well pleased with it. City Engineer McGilvray states that it is the equal of any other paving job which has been done in Duluth. All the sandstone laid in the city has been a uniform success, which is equally true of all pavings which cost $2 or more per square yard.

ron when they decided to land. In his telegram he said:

"We reached Lake Huron Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock and we were driven back again.

"The wind changed and the next we saw was the water of Lake Nipissing which we believed was Lake Huron. Not having enough ballast to cross the big lake, we made all arrangements to cut loose the basket if necessary and then decided to come down.

"We were about 6,000 feet up so we had to let out the gas, intending to alight on land, but we landed in the water close to Gull island, Lake Nipissing, where we had to fight two hours in the water, swimming and towing the balloon to shore.

Thought Moon Had Fallen.

"We were rescued by two Indians, but it was quite a while before they would come near us, as they thought the moon had fallen into the lake. However, they took us off the island and up to Nipissing village, where we received the kindest treatment from the citizens.

"My chum, Herr Assmann, had one arm broken and was badly cut."

ACCUSES MINOT POLICE CAPTAIN

Waitress Has Officer Arrested and Sues Him for $10,000 Damages.

Minot, N. D., Oct. 21.—Charged with public slander in one complaint and persistent persecution in another, Frank Henneghan, captain of the local police force, who it is claimed has his eyes on the chief's job, has been arrested and is now under $3,000 bail.

The warrant was sworn out by Laura Hanson, formerly a waitress in a local cafe, who asks for damages in the amount of $10,000.

In the first charge she recites the language that she claims was used toward her by the defendant and charges slander of the most damaging kind.

Alleges He Insulted Her.

In her second complaint she alleges that during the time she was a waitress in the cafe the defendant made insulting propositions to her and ordered cigars for which he refused to pay. She further states that Henneghan during the night has knocked on her door and made her open it, after which he would search the room.

She states that these annoyances finally cost her her job in the cafe and that she was reduced to poverty. It also brought about an estrangement between her and her sweetheart, causing her great mental anguish.

BIG GAIN FOR BETHEL FUND

Total Amount Subscribed Is Now Close to the $45,000 Mark.

Extension of the Time Limit May Yet Bring Success.

The Bethel building fund showed $44,267.40 at noon today.

Reports brought in by the executive committeemen and team leaders indicated that the extension of time for the campaign to run would bring results.

The way subscriptions came in this morning proved this, for the fund showed a jump of nearly $5,000.

That the fund will show heavy gains from now on until 10 o'clock Monday evening is firmly believed.

There are more workers in the field now than at any time during the campaign and it is believed that the entire city will have been covered by Monday.

There seems to be a general feeling that the needs of the Bethel were temporarily shelved during the keen public interest in the Baudette fire sufferers. Now that this situation in the northern part of the state has been taken care of, Duluth is turning to the cause at home. Some of the staunchest friends of the Bethel were the first to take a leading part in the Baudette relief measures.

HEARST'S LEAGUE ON STIMSON'S SIDE?

New York, Oct. 21.—John J. Hopper, nominee of the Independence league for governor, indicated the political preferences of the league when, during a speech in Jefferson hall last night, he said:

"Wall street is with Murphy and the Democrats, and with Roosevelt and the Republicans. If you are going to take a chance other than with the Independence ticket, for heaven's sake don't follow the flag of Democracy. The Democrats merely wish to take advantage of the present unrest and sweep to victory, power and plunder."

HOW TO GROW HAIR

A Simple, Safe and Reliable Way That Produces Surprising Results.

New Drug Crystolis Causes Big Stir Among Hair Specialists.

$1,000 REWARD IF THEY FAIL.

CUT OUT FREE COUPON BELOW AND MAIL TODAY.

The above Clearly shows the results from a few simple, home treatments with Crystolis, the new and genuine hair grower.

FREE TO HERALD READERS.

Those who have become prematurely grey or who are troubled with scalp or hair diseases—such as falling hair, dandruff, baldness, itching scalp, etc.—know full well the humiliation that they cause. There is no need, however, of such conditions. These troubles can be quickly overcome by Crystolis, the new drug recently discovered at the Creslo Laboratories. Since its discovery, a little over a year ago, Crystolis has been found to contain marvelous properties for producing a new growth of hair. In subjecting it to various tests in the worst cases of baldness, dandruff, itching scalp, etc., the result obtained by the experimenting chemists were considered almost miraculous. In every case it was found that where there were any hair roots left it would produce a new and luxuriant growth of hair in from four to six weeks' time. Grey or faded hair was often restored to its natural color in from 10 to 14 days' time. In minor cases of scalp and hair diseases—such as dandruff, falling hair, itching scalp, etc.—it was found that these unnatural conditions were corrected and often completely cured by two or three applications. The discovery of Crystolis will, without doubt, put an end to the troublesome scalp and hair diseases that are becoming so common with the American people. Women who have been forced into wearing false hair will greatly welcome this marvelous product, as, apart from its many other virtues, it adds a beautiful gloss and lustre to the old hair. Besides, it contains no oil, and has a tendency to make the hair light and fluffy.

The managers of the Creslo Laboratories have such strong faith in Crystolis that they have decided to make the following remarkable offer: They will forfeit $1,000 in gold if they fail to prove that Crystolis actually grows hair. They will forfeit $1,000 in gold if anyone can prove that they were not the first discoverers of Crystolis. They will forfeit $1,000 in gold if it can be proved that it contains any oil, dye of coloring matter of any kind. They will forfeit $1,000 in gold if every testimonial and sworn statement which they publish is not absolutely genuine.

Arrangements have been made with the Laboratories to furnish free information in regard to this new process to all Herald readers. Merely cut out and send in the coupon below, and you will receive free particulars of this marvelous new product by return mail.

LATEST SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

ATHLETICS TAKE THIRD

Mack Men Pound Three Cub Pitchers and Win Easily.

Coombs, Barry and Murphy Are the Stars of the Game.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—Philadelphia came out here yesterday and rubbed it in. The Athletics claimed their third successive victory of the world's championship series with the Chicago Nationals to the tune of 12 to 5, and if the big pennant is not nailed to the Quaker City mast today, Connie Mack will be the most surprised, bewildered, astounded and obfuscated gentleman on the baseball map. Captain Chance was ordered from the field in the third inning for disputing a decision.

In the three games played so far, the Easterners have pounded every assortment of curves which the entire galaxy of Cub pitchers could offer. Only "King" Cole, so-called pitching find of the year, remains to be seriously considered by Manager Chance, and he has been held back because of his inexperience in crucial games and a belief, also, that his assortment of shoots is just what the Mack men like.

Mack will in all probability furnish local enthusiasts with a view of Benden today. The big chief has a gory collection of Cub scalps taken in that three-hit game at Philadelphia, but his knife is newly sharpened for more. Who will go against him is a problem. Maybe "Three-Fingered" Brown—maybe Cole. And then, there are Foxen, an untried man, and Pfeffer, who has been of little use this year.

It is a matter of indifference to Mr. Mack. He and his players regard the game as a mere formality—a bit of red tape, with incidental profit of course—necessary to guarantee title to the bunting.

Third Game a Slaughter.

The combat yesterday was a slaughter. Big Ed Reulbach lasted just two innings during which he allowed one single and two doubles, passed two batsmen and saw three runs cross the home plate. McIntyre was the next twirler led forth for slaughter. He pitched just one-third of an inning, but that was long enough for the visitors to hammer out two singles, a home run and to send Davis to first rubbing his back where one of McIntyre's shoots had hit him. With the assistance of a boot by Schulte, four runs were scored under his beneficient reign.

The bright particular stars of the day were Coombs, Barry and Murphy. Coombs allowed only six hits, passed four men, and contributed a two-bagger and a single which added three runs to the Philadelphia collection. Barry hit as if there were another automobile in sight. Also he figured in double-plays. He made three hits, each one a double, drove in two runs and himself reached the counting station thrice.

Murphy's Mighty Wallop.

It remained for Murphy, however, to electrify the crowd. His first noteworthy exploit was to smash the ball over the heads of the right field overflow crowd into the regular bleachers for four sacks, driving in two runners ahead of him. At the time he didn't know how far the sphere had traveled, and stopped after covering the two bases allowed under the ground rules for hits into the overflow. Umpire O'Day waved to him to come in, which he did, with half the team slapping him on the back.

The hit was more than a run-counter, for it figured largely in the expulsion of Capt. Chance from the grounds. Chance, joined by most of his men, surrounded O'Day in an endeavor to persuade him that the rules made all hits into the crowd at any point or distance doubles. The arbiter couldn't see it, and when the Cub leader sought to prolong the argument, ordered him from the field. Archer, ordinarily a catcher, replaced him at the initial station.

Murphy's next sensational exhibition earned him an ovation. He ran back after one Hofman had marked for a double, jumped on the barrier in right field, grasped the ball by his finger nails, fell over backward into the crowd, and presently emerged with the trophy still safe. Meanwhile Sheckard thinking that there were two out or that Murphy couldn't possibly have captured the drive, sped around the bases. He awoke at third to find that he had been doubled at first.

Sheckard faced Cooms four times and all but once was allowed to walk. He brought two runs across the plate and fielded his position without a flaw. Both of Schulte's hits were doubles. Tinker made thre hits, one of which was a two-bagger. His fielding was not up to his stick-work, however, two errors being charged against him. He negotiated the only stolen base of the day.

Weather Not Favorable.

The brand of weather furnished constituted an argument against long schedules. Early in the morning it rained and while this shower passed, mist-like drops fell during much of the game. A chilling wind came from the northwest and the clouds were so overcast that the spectators had difficulty in keeping track of the ball.

There were 4,000 persons in line when the sale of general admission tickets began and when the turnstile count was completed, it was announced that 26,210 persons paid for their admission to the grounds. The stands were filled at noon, many of those present munching away at lunches and drinking coffee which was hawked about the stands in little tin buckets.

Many interesting expedients to secure tickets for persons who did not stand in line themselves were adopted. The experience of a messenger boy who was hired by the hour is typical. He was ordered to secure twelve tickets regardless of cost. He went on duty at 11 o'clock Wednesday night and was among the first to secure the four tickets allowed to a single purchaser when the box office opened. By special construction of the ticket booths and the use of guards purchasers were compelled to enter turnstiles immediately upon buying their tickets. This was to foil the scalpers. The boy gave up one ticket and immediately emerged with the three remaining ones in his possession to get a fresh place in the line. Twice he was able to purchase positions at 5 apiece from other boys who had been holding their places from just such a speculation point of view. It took him four trips to secure the desired admission cards.

An extraordinary incident of the game occurred in Judge Scanlan's court. The judge, having ascertained that the members of the jury were more interested in the game than in the case at bar, sought to right matters by allowing the score by innings read to them by a bailiff. This worked well until news of the defeat of the locals came in. Some of the jurors looked so melancholy that the court dismissed the panel for the day, explaining that in the circumstances, it seemed impossible for the jury to spare enough attention to the case and its result to hear any more evidence.

YOUNG CORBETT TRIES AGAIN AND LOSES.

New York, Oct. 21.—Young Corbett, once the foremost of lightweights, proved again last night when he met Willie Bercher at the Longacre Athletic club that he was another of the champions who cannot come back. The bout was stopped by the referee in the middle of the fourth round after Corbett had been knocked down twice, and was reeling blindly around the ring, a target for uppercuts and hooks to the face.

DE ORO RETAINS TITLE AT THREE-CUSHION GAME.

New York, Oct. 21.—Alfredo De Oro retained his title as champion at three-cushion billiards last night and held the Lambert trophy by defeating Lloyd Jevne 50 to 44 in the third and final night of their play. The total score of the match was De Oro, 150; Jevne, 121.

GOSSIP PICKED UP ALONG THE SPORTING HIGHWAY

A Great Baseball Machine Disintegrating—'Rasslers' Will Make Their Bow—The Football Situation—Another "White Man's Hope."

(BY BRUCE.)

Perhaps, and perhaps is the right word, for nothing is certain in baseball, as all of us have recently observed, the present world's series has progressed quite far enough for most of us to believe the Athletics celarly outclass the Cubs. So far there has been little doubt of the relative ability of the two teams.

And what will the result mean? Most likely that some of the Cubs will bid goodbye to the big league.

There has been a growing suspicion that the Cubs were slowing up, and yet many of the fans throughout the country believed that the great machine that has held together all these years, was still effective enough to defeat the new machine welded together by Connie Mack, considered by some, the greatest student the game has yet produced.

Steinfeldt is not as young and frisky as he was in halcyon days of old. Like Devlin of the New York Nationals, and also Bill Bradley of the Cleveland Americans, or formerly of that team, Joe has been dropped. Steinfeldt cannot capture hits that were rather simple for him in earlier and more active days.

They must all pass, and the greater they were, the sadder the passing.

Chance is still a great player and a greater manager, but he is not the great player he was, if all reports are true. Chance wants to quit active playing, and the desire is probably prompted by the knowledge that he is not the player that he was two years ago.

Sheckard has had a great season, and yet he is passing—almost through. It would seem that Hofman, Schulte, Tinker, Evers, Kling and Archer are still great players. Kling will not be on hand, that's a surety, yet he is a great catcher today. Archer is in his prime. It looks as if the great Brown is passing, while Reulbach and Overall have not been as effective this present season as they have been in years past.

It is really remarkable how long this great aggregation has held together. Look back over the records and notice Joe Tinker, Johnny Moran, little Jimmy Slagle, Carl Lundgren, with a few others of minor importance, are about the only players that have left the machine, since the pennant first came Chicagoward's luck in 1906, the season that the Comiskey White Sox captured the gonfalon.

It is very doubtful if Charles Webb Murphy really believed he would win the pennant the present season. In fact, it is hinted that Mr. Murphy helped frame the long schedule with the idea that some team other than his would get away from the world's series. Mr. Murphy, as has been stated, wanted to get all the money possible out of the regular season, not believing that his team would be in on the world's series money.

This is sort of sin and retribution, Bill. The lateness of the season will tell on the gate receipts, for after the passing of the first day of October the American public has had its fill of baseball.

There will be changes, undoubtedly, next season in the line-up of the Cubs. And with the changes will see the breaking up of one of the grandest body of baseball players, morally, mentally and physically, that the grand old game has ever produced.

It is sad, but true, and Jack Whitter neatly touched upon the sadness of things that are not as they once were. The saddest word of tongue or pen or typewriter has come to pass, it would seem, and the coming kids are having their day, which, one must suppose, is right and just.

Back to Football.

Next Saturday evening the local wrestling season will be taken by the hand and led firmly in and introduced to the company. The initial match will be between K. J. Wirtanen, a young Finn, who has gained a good reputation in the Copper country, and Fred Sahlman, a Superior boy, and Otto Makl of Fitchburg, Mass.

Wirtanen has agreed to throw his two opponents in ninety minutes of actual wrestling time, and the Finns of Duluth, a race that has taken great interest in the game since the ancient sport was practiced in the fields of that old country, are looking forward to it.

Since the development of Karl Lehto, the Finns of the Northwest have taken an increasing interest in the game. Wirtanen has worked with Lehto, has helped to develop him, and has also done much to make the game popular in the Copper country.

Wirtanen is the same man who made such a great showing against Chris Person, last winter in the Copper country, and is also an aspirant for the middleweight honors of the Northwest.

The Rasslers Are Ready.

Pushed rudely off the stage for the time being, by the great interest shown in the outcome of the world's series, football will again come into its own with the completion of the games between the Athletics and Cubs. From Saturday on, every game will be right in line with the working out of championships of states, sections or the entire country.

Here we are most vitally interested in the progress of the Minnesota team, for it looks as if the Gophers are going to make a mighty strenuous effort to win the highest honors of Western football, an honor that the old gold and maroon crowd just lost by a hair, last season.

With Walter Camp, the wizard of football, back at Yale, and with those old reliables packing their suit cases and hiking for Yale, who knows but that Yale may yet be considered in the championship running?

Almost every season they send out these distress calls from dear old Yale. Men like Shevlin, Heffelfinger, Hickey, Ralph Bloomer, Sherman Coy, Gordon Brown and a few of the other greats, respond—with the result—that you can never count Yale out of the championship, as a rule, until after the Harvard game has been played.

On the showing with West Point, we would hardly expect that Yale has the wonderful, the seeming invincible team of last season. But they have such a way at Yale. Their system is the greatest that any American college has ever developed. Its graduate system of coaching, with Walter Camp in general charge, has resulted in just the way that graduate systems should result, if they are handled on intelligent lines.

But, as Mr. Camp stated, when he was in this city, the new rules necessitate a new system of play. Therefore, under the new rules old Yale system may come in for a gradual change in its methods, which in the glorious past have been so eminently successful.

Yet, Walter Camp is probably just the man to take hold and make Yale successful under the new regime. So far there is no disputing the fact that Walter Camp is the greatest student and developer that this country has ever known. As a man who has studied football for years, and has combined the very hard degree of practicability with the leavening influence of higher thought, the success of Yale, even though the team has sustained one defeat the present season, may be all the greater the present season.

That is a brilliant possibility, not a hard and sordid probability. The chances seem to favor Harvard in the East, as they do at the present time favor Minnesota in the West. It would seem to us, out here, that Michigan must go through the hard, gruelling task of building a great machine out of material that as yet has not found itself.

On the other hand, there is the bogie man, Yost of Ann Arbor. With an ordinary coach none of us would consider the chances of Michigan worthy of further thought.

Yet Yost defeated both Pensylvania and Minnesota last season after the stalwarts of Notre Dame had made a dent in the escutcheon of the Michigan college. Yost is the man who can perform football miracles, and for that reason the progress of the Wolverine team will be watched with the closest interest.

In Our Very Midst.

Talking of football, let us talk some more. We have a very highly interesting situation in our city league. The Adams, Tigers and Fairmonts are extremely jealous of sweet victory, and there is a strong opinion, about equally divided three ways. The Adams are pretty positive that they can lick the football socks off of any team on this side of the bay, while the Tigers are nursing a peeve, which crieth strongly for victory. The Tigers made a proposition, which was not only called, but raised by the management of the Adams team. That is the status of the controversy at the present time.

To one unbiased it would look as if the Adams had the best of the argument. There is also the fact that the Adams team won the game, even though there was a dispute over the decision.

The Fairmonts of West Duluth, have kept modestly in the background. Their showing to date, however, entitles this team of grifty youngsters to a consideration. They have played gamely in every game the present season, and have reflected credit upon the team.

It looks as if football was a recognized institution in this city, for the public has taken very kindly to the game the present season. It is therefore well that the teams on this side of the bay, not mentioning the two here, are such enthusiastic rivals. Rivalry makes the game good, and at the present writing there is enough of that for the most enthusiastic.

Bob Edgren, the eminent sporting authority of New York, one of the many gentlemen who picked one James J. Jeffries to whip Jack Johnson, the very prominent colored heavyweight, has alighted upon another prospect—with both feet, and hard. He is touting Jim Stewart as the coming heavyweight champion. He styles him a larger and later edition of the famous Kid McCoy. So far Stewart has done nothing but build on the future. But Mr. Edgren is willing to take a winter book on him. He says that young Mr. Stewart is built on the general lines of a Greek statue, has speed and cleverness and packs a punch that stings worse than a call you deserve, and know it." Paprika is not in the same discomforting class as the Stewart stab, if Mr. Edgren is to be believed.

We have had so many of these flirters with possibility that many of us are just a wee bit wary. Let us go along and see, the while keeping an eye open for the man whom we all hope will burst forth one of these days and show the world that all the fighters are not dead.

NIGHT LETTER WARNS MANAGER PHILLIPS.

Graduate Manager Phillips of the Central high school has received some information regarding the Fargo high school football team, which will meet Central at Athletic park tomorrow afternoon. As the information comes from a friend, and not from any press agent of the Fargo team, Mr. Phillips believes it can be taken very seriously.

The man of Fargo states that the team coming here tomorrow is the finest the Fargo high school has had in years. He states that the team is particularly good on offense, being shifty and knowing a large variety of plays.

Warner, Crookshank and Nesbit are all stars of last year, and according to the friend of Mr. Phillips, they will all bear watching.

Pehlock is the quarterback of the team, and he is said to be a darb, and another man that the little bright orbs of the Duluth boys should follow with the bright twinkle of interest. Warner and Birner are both on the job for fullback, and both are good, judging from the friendly warning stuff from Fargo.

The information was borne to Manager Phillips in the shape of a night letter, and further urged him not to underestimate the strength of the Flickertail aggregation.

KENDIG FAILS TO RACE FRANK BRYANT.

Frank Kendig failed to put in an appearance for his advertised roller skating race with Frank Bryant, which was scheduled for last night at the Lincoln Park auditorium. Arthur Verdon, a former city champion, went on with the champion and was beaten by two laps in a mile race.

Joe Munch, the undisputed champion of the Northwest, has agreed to the terms offered and will be here next month for a race or series of races with Bryant.

THEORIES ARE BADLY UPSET

Dope Handed Out By Experts Goes for Naught in Games.

Cubs Have Slumped and Athletics Are Playing Better Than Ever.

Remarkable as have been the disastrous defeats of the Cubs in the games played so far with the Athletics, even more remarkable has been the unexpected upsetting of the dope in one particular. This is the great surprise of the season.

For years the Cubs have been known as the coolest and brainest proposition that baseball has ever known. This quality was deeply weighed by those who laid their little lucre on the outcome. And what have we observed so far? That the Cubs have been guilty of bonehead plays upon several occasions.

Many of the critics of the game were not backward about coming forward with the assertion that the Athletics would blow, would get stage fright and that the youngsters on the Connie Mack brigade would go to pieces in the nervousness of their first world's series.

Nothing like that has happened. We have seen the old and tried veterans, Steinfeldt and Sheckard, the heroes of many a hard fought diamond battle, fail to show in the series that is being played at the present time, while Brown, Overall and Pfeister, all veterans, all men who have traversed with steady nerves the gruelling path of strenuous and nerve-racking combat—these men have been tried and found somewhat woefully wanting.

On the other hand, just for a moment think of the work of Collins, Barry and Baker, all youngsters. These men were counted upon to explode with loud and reverberating report. They are going hot and gruelling. Well, so far the going has been so one-sided that you couldn't by the wildest and widest stretch of the imagination, call it gruelling. The Cubs have been kept on the defensive, and so great has been the playing of the Philadelphia infield, that this defense had so far proved impregnable.

While all brands of dope have been upset in the present series, the one particular brand that has been scattered over the floor, is the dope about the superior inside work of the Cubs, their keen wits, their coolness under fire and the theory that the youngsters on the Mack brigade would explode.

The Athletics are excelling the greatest ball they have played this present season, while the Cubs have slumped miserably, and their pitchers have failed to show anything.

The dope has gone on a wild and orgie-like rampage. But the worst jolt has been in the belief that the Cubs would show up the Athletics at the staid and steady stuff.

Some one once said baseball was uncertain. Let us insist he must be credited with having deep and penetrating powers of observation.

YOST'S PUPILS NOT AGGRESSIVE

Michigan Team Shows Improvement But Little Fighting Spirit.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 21.—The Michigan football team is improving slowly. To be sure, the first two games caused a good many to wander around with an I-told-you-so bearing and, if they had been skeptical of Michigan strength early in the season, they were perfectly justified in so acting, because the front that the maize and blue put up was indeed anything but encouraging. But it begins to look as though things were not so bad after all, for every afternoon's work shows some improvement.

One thing is lacking. That is the fighting spirit.

"Fight 'em, fight 'em!" Yost yells at his men from the beginning to the end of the season. They cannot be aggressive enough to suit the Michigan coach even when digging in and doing all they are physically able to do, and they have not been overexerting themselves this year. Now, such a statement does not mean that the players are not trying to play the game, because they are. They are under the same pall that kept them down when playing Marquette and Notre Dame last year. Try as they will they cannot get in and block, tackle and speed up as they should.

Cause a Mystery.

The cause for this is a mystery. While in training camp the Michiganders were bubbling over with enthusiasm and worked splendidly, but the instant they struck Ann Arbor and were ready for serious endeavor this fighting spirit left them. The condition of the squad could not be better at this time of the year. None of the men is badly hurt; true, several are nursing minor strains and bruises, but these are not serious enough to incapacitate them.

However, there is plenty of reason to hope for a winning aggregation before the season is out. This is not the mere optimism of a Michigan undergraduate. It is the firm belief of the players themselves.

During the scrimmmage yesterday afternoon the men worked reasonably well and especially strenuous were the efforts of the substitutes, some of whom were getting their first real work of the season. Perhaps this will do much to stir the veterans to greater efforts, because when a new man acts fairly well in your position it injects a personal note into the contest for jobs on the 'varsity and often-times this personal appeal is stronger than any other.

Ends Are Certain.

With Borleske back and in the game it looks as though the problem of filling the ends was settled. "Stan" played reasonably well against the M. A. C. and had only been in training four days before that contest. On the other extreme is Vic Pattingill and he has developed into that sort of a player that can be trusted to work at all times.

GREAT JOY IN PHILADELPHIA

Sleepy City Goes Wild Over Victory of Mack's Team.

Philadelphia, Oct. 21—The news from Chicago that the Athletics had taken the first game from the Cubs on their own grounds, thus giving the Philadelphia team its third straight victory in the series for the world's championship was received here with wild enthusiasm. The average Philadelphia baseball rooter believes that the balance of the world's battle will go to the crafty Bender, who is expected to hold down the National league champions while his teammates beat out another victory. There are many conservative ones, however, who are not yet ready to shout, and here and there a few bets were made that the American league champions will not make it four straight.

The series has the big city by the ears. There appeared to be more excitement about the central sections of the city than when the teams played here. There was much anxiety early in the day that the game would not be played, but when the news came from Chicago that the chances were good for a contest, there was much joy among the sheckard, the heroes of many a hard fought diamond battle, fail to show in the series that is being played at the present time, while Brown, Overall and Pfeister, all veterans, all men who have traversed with steady nerves the gruelling path of strenuous and nerve-racking combat—these men have been tried and found somewhat woefully wanting.

There was much anxiety early in the day that the game would not be played, but when the news came from Chicago that the chances were good for a contest, there was much joy among the rooters. Downtown streets in the vicinity of newspaper offices and other places where the game was reported, play by play, traffic was greatly interfered with and mounted police had to be called upon to keep the streets open for travel.

Seats for a game on Saturday, if one is necessary, were put on sale yesterday, and the demand was as great as for the first two games. Hundreds of people stood in the rain waiting for their turn to purchase the pasteboards. Only four tickets were sold to each person. If no game is played the money will be refunded.

'NOTHER WHITE HOPE.

While other cities of the country are discussing the pugilistic question and lining their claims to the championship, Decorah, Ia., is likely to again shine in the sporting world. It furnished Farmer Burns and Joe Marsh, two of the greatest wrestlers of their day, and these men discovered and brought out Frank Gotch, and now they believe they have a mightier than any of these in the person of Hart Palzer. George O'Brien, who is well versed in pugilistic matters, tells that Palzer is doing wonderful work and that he is today "the white man's hope" in wrestling the championship from Jack Johnson, the big negro. He is under the training of Sam Fitzpatrick, Johnson's former manager. The promising find is 6 feet four inches high, weighs 230 pounds, is 21 years of age, has a remarkably rugged build and handles himself perfectly. Besides this, he is a heady fellow and is what is styled a natural born fighter.

EVEN MONEY THAT ATHLETICS WIN TODAY.

Betting on the result of the remaining game or games—just depending upon the game today—of the world's series, is somewhat on the wane. It is generally conceded at the present time that the series will go to the Athletics.

At most of the down town cigar stores the money is even that the Athletics will take the game this afternoon. There are a large number of bets of 3 to 1 that the Athletics will bag the series. Those taking the short end are attracted by the odds, and the hunch that Chicago will have a reversal of form or luck, or anything that might possibly enable the Cubs to tie the series up. These bets, however, are small, and are in the nature of "hunch" wagers.

CHICAGO ROLLER SKATER ISSUES CHALLENGE.

Raymond Shaminiski, known as Chicago Shy, a skater, who claims to have taken part in some of the seven-day races of the Chicago auditorium, is here in an effort to get on a roller skating race with either Frank Bryant, the present champion of the Head of the Lakes, or any other skater.

According to the manager of the new arrival in the ranks of the roller speer merchants, the Chicago boy will put up a side bet of $25.

Kendig to Meet Hahmond.

Word has been received from Frank Kendig, the Duluth pool player, in which Kendig says he has been matched to meet John Hahmond of Milwaukee in a pool match for a purse of $200. The match will be played in St. Paul. Kendig is well known in this city, having played a number of matches here, losing only one since being at the Head of the Lakes.

LA FOLLETTE SOON TO LEAVE HOSPITAL.

Rochester, Minn., Oct. 21.—It is announced at St. Mary's hospital that the condition of Senator Robert La Follette of Wisconsin, who recently underwent an operation for the removal of gall stones, has improved so that it will be possible for him to be removed from the hospital tomorrow or Sunday. He will spend a week or two at a local hotel before returning to his home at Madison. It is not expected he will take part in any public business or in his own campaign until congress meets.

RHEUMATISM

PURIFYING THE BLOOD THE ONLY PERMANENT CURE

No case of Rheumatism was ever cured except by a thorough purification of the blood; just as long as the blood remains charged with fermenting uric acid poison, the painful disease will continue. The pains and aches of Rheumatism are simply superficial effects of the impurities in the circulation, and sometimes may be temporarily relieved by the application of plasters, liniments, hot cloths, etc. But the person who trifles with this dangerous disease by depending on local treatment alone, is certain to pay for the mistake with constant suffering later on. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism in the only way it is possible to cure the disease. It goes down into the blood, and removes the uric acid from the circulation, so that the nerves, bones, muscles and joints are lubricated and fed with nourishing elements instead of being continually irritated and inflamed with the sharp, uratic impurity. When S. S. S. has cleansed and purified the blood, the pains and aches cease, all inflammation disappears, stiffened muscles are made pliant, and every troublesome symptom of Rheumatism is permanently corrected. Book on Rheumatism and any medical advice free to all who write.

LODGE MEMBERS APPEAR IN THE COSTUMES OF THEIR NATIVE LAND

NORTH STAR LODGE MEMBERS IN SWEDISH DRESS.

An old-fashioned, old-country entertainment was provided last evening by members of the North Star lodge, No. 11, Independent Order of Good Templars at a reception tendered to members of Lyeglimt lodge, No. 7, I. O. G. T. of West Duluth. Between sixty and seventy members of the West Duluth organization were present.

The welcome speech was delivered by Gust Landin of North Star lodge after which Miss Hildur Lindgren sang a solo. Other musical numbers were given by Miss Lena Burg, Olivia Nesstrom and the North Star lodge orchestra. As a part of the affair a number of the young ladies of North Star lodge dressed in old style Swedish costumes. A supper was served the visitors during the evening.

North Star lodge is in a flourishing condition. It owns a lot on Twenty-sixth avenue west and Second street, 50 by 140 feet, and has plans out for a new lodge building. Just at the present time, it is not known when the proposed building will be financed so that its construction can be begun. It will probably cost about $10,000.

This will be Davenport Week at this store—every davenport in the house will play an important part.

$16.90 Right now is a good time to get interested. Supposing you would like something in the Pullman style, in best genuine leather and heavy, massive frame or something in the famous Kendal kind—a saving of 20 per cent to 30 per cent might make it worth while to make the purchase now. Should be pleased to see you.

CULMINATION OF EARLY ROMANCE

Marriage Follows a Separation of More Than Four Years.

A romance which started four years ago in Maine had a happy termination last evening in the marriage of Miss Agnes D. MacIntosh of Bangor, Me., and Joseph H. Tedford of Brookston, Minn.

Mr. and Mrs. Tedford had not seen each other for more than four years before their meeting yesterday at the West end. They were married by Rev. J. W. Loughridge, pastor of Central Baptist church at his residence, 113 North Twentieth avenue west.

Mr. Tedford is engaged in the lumber business at Brookston and he and his bride will make their home there. Prior to her coming to Duluth for the wedding, the bride visited for several weeks at the home of a relative at Stockford, New Brunswick.

Will Wed in Spokane.

The wedding of Miss Ellen Swanstrom and Oscar Hanson, both well known West end young people, will take place Sunday at Spokane, Wash. The announcement of the marriage, which was made today, comes as a surprise to their friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Hanson of the West end, parents of the groom, left last evening for Spokane to attend the wedding. Both of the young people have been in the West for about a year.

BUILDING BOOM AT THE WEST END

Permits Show Rapid Growth West of Point of Rocks.

The West end is enjoying a mild building boom as is shown by building permits which have been issued this week. The growth is not a temporary flurry, but has been steady for the past few months.

The largest single item of the week at the West end was for the erection of the Pittsburg Coal Dock & Wharf company, to cost $232,500. A $20,000 permit was also issued to Jacob Jacobson for the erection of a store on West Superior street.

The permits of the week at the West end follow:

To Pittsburg Coal Dock & Wharf company, construction of coal dock, east side of Garfield avenue	$ 232,500
To Jacob Jacobson, brick store building, south side of West Superior street, between Twentieth and Twenty-first avenues	20,000
To Peter Halverson, frame dwelling north side of West Third street, between Gilbert and Chestnut streets	1,000
To August Peterson, construction of frame dwelling south side of Gilbert	1,500
To Alfred Peterson, alteration and repairs to frame dwelling south side of Helm street, between Twenty-seventh and Twenty-eighth avenues west	400
To Scott-Graff Lumber company, frame garage south side of West Michigan street, between Twenty-third adn Twenty-fourth avenues	100
To A Magnuson, addition to frame dwelling north side of Magellan street, between Thirty-eighth and Thirty-ninth avenues west	800
To W. J. Lawrence, repairs to foundation of frame dwelling, north side of West Second street, between Twentieth and Twenty-first avenues	75

DULUTH TAXES LOWER THAN IN EUROPE.

"Duluth taxes are not high at all when compared with what citizens of European countries have to pay."

"This is what John J. Moe, former alderman and merchant at the West end says. Mr. Moe returned recently from a trip abroad and stated that he took particular pains to inform himself as to the taxation in the various cities in Europe.

"In some cities," said Mr. Moe "the tax rate was as high as 17 per cent. We, of Duluth don't half appreciate the advantage of living here when we kick about high taxes." Mr. Moe says that he does not favor a protest against the 4 per cent tax rate, which is to be levied for next year.

HILLSIDE CLUB WILL DISCUSS WATER RATES.

The West End Hillside Improvement club will take up the question of alleged excessive water rates this evening at its meeting, Twenty-third avenue west and Tenth street. The hillsiders contend that the large consumer is being furnished water at less than cost, and that the small consumers are obliged to pay a high rate to make up the deficiency. An equalization of water rates is what the club is working for.

The club will also discuss the matter of extending mains up the hillside and other subjects of special interest to the hillside section.

West End Shortrails.

Mrs. Nelson Wycklander has returned to her home at Bethel, Minn., after a visit at the home of her sister, Mrs. Frank Mitchell of 2614 West Fourth street.

Ed Thompson and W. M. Stout returned last evening from a business trip to Minneapolis.

The West End Republican club will meet at Sloan's hall Friday, Oct. 28, a week from this evening. A number of local speakers will address the meeting.

G. W. Olson of Minneapolis will speak this evennig at the festival of the ladies' aid society at Bethany Swedish Lutheran church. The affair last evening was largely attended. Rev. Theodore Ekblad of Superior was the speaker of the evening.

Rev. W. B. O'Neil will preach at the Second Presbyterian church Sunday morning, and in the evening Mrs. O'Neil will give the sermon. The other services will be as usual.

Rev. C. P. Carlson of Stockholm, Sweden, gave an interesting lecture on "Sweden" last evening at the First Swedish M. E. church, Twentieth avenue west and Third street.

UNKNOWN MAN FOUND INJURED BESIDE TRACK.

Sandstone, Minn., Oct. 21. — (Special to The Herald.)—An unknown man was found lying beside the Great Northern tracks two miles south of Bruno on Wednesday in a badly battered condition. He was noticed first by a passing engineer, who notified the officials and the section crew was instructed to go to investigate. They found him unconscious, his head being badly bruised. He was taken to Bruno, where Dr. Ball dressed his wounds and expects to save his life. He was evidently a foreigner and nothing could be found on his clothing to identify him.

CATSUP IS CONFISCATED

United States Marshal Seizes 19,152 Bottles in Wholesale House.

Claimed That the Product Contains Benzoate of Soda.

United States Marshal George J. Mallory this morning seized 19,152 bottles of tomato catsup at a local wholesale house and if the allegations of the United States district attorney that the product contains benzoate of soda is proved, and the court orders, it will be destroyed.

The catsup was manufactured by a Toledo, Ohio, firm and shipped to a Duluth wholesale house, the fact that it was involved in interstate commerce giving the United States court jurisdiction over it. In each of the 798 cases seized there are two dozen bottles. The bottles are not labeled, but the cases are labeled, the ingredients of the contents being given as tomatoes, granulated sugar, onions, spices and vinegar. It is alleged by the district attorney that the catsup also contains benzoate of soda, which he says is a poisonous and deleterious substance and on that account he asks that the catsup be condemned.

TWO ARRESTED FOR ST. PAUL CRIME

Motorman on Grand Avenue Line Murdered By Hold-Up Man.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—After a search lasting all night, the police today placed two men under arrest in connection with the murder of Motorman E. Alexander, who was shot and instantly killed in a duel with a highwayman at the end of the Grand avenue car line at midnight last night. Pending further developments, the police decline to make public the names of the men.

Conductor Walter H. Gross, who was with Alexander when the shooting occurred, was summoned to the central station this morning and identified the two men as having been passengers on his car at 3 o'clock the morning before. He was not able to identify either of them as the men who shot Alexander.

The car was about to be turned at a "Y" when a man in khaki uniform leveled a gun at Alexander and shouted "hands up." Alexander and Conductor Gross opened fire and the bandit returned it, killing the motorman. The man escaped in a waiting automobile. The shooting was the culmination of a series of streetcar hold-ups.

May Use Separate Coops.
The commission houses which have been crowding poultry into one common coop, will be asked by the health department to change their methods. Information has been received from a large St. Paul commission firm, which deals extensively in live and dressed poultry, explaining the method which it follows. The chickens are put in separate coops, similar to the shipping cases which are seen on the streets and they are fed and watered systematically. Each day's shipments are kept separate and after the coops have been emptied they are cleaned and allowed to dry before being used again.

Forfeit Bail.
Olof Egdahl, a bartender, was arrested last night on St. Croix avenue by Patrolman Riedal on a charge of disorderly conduct. It is claimed that he broke a window in one of the resorts. Louise Davis was brought in and booked on a statutory charge at the same time. Each forfeited $10 bail this morning.

Gets Suspended Sentence.
Next time Martin Thor of the West end gets intoxicated he will probably not tell the policeman who advises him to go home to mind his own business or seek warmer climate. It is claimed that he followed that course last night and was arrested. He got a suspended sentence in police court this morning.

Brothers' Names Differed.
Two brothers with different names, and yet with the same name, were arrested last evening for drunkenness by Patrolman Perkins, paradoxical as the same statement may seem. One gave his name as Henry Lake and the othe ras John Jarvi. But "jarvi" is the word for "lake" in the Finnish language. They forfeited $10 bail each when their names were called in police court this morning.

Sentence Is Withheld.
Russell Lockhart, the waiter who was arrested for non-support when his wife complained that he allowed her but 35 cents a day on which to live, was found guilty in police court yesterday afternoon. Both related their stories, and they were quite contradictory, except that they revealed a series of family quarrels in which warlike language played the most important part. The case was continued until Nov. 30 to give them an opportunity to settle their difficulties.

Given Chance to Leave.
Roland Meely was found guilty in police court yesterday afternoon of peddling without a license and fined $15 and costs or fifteen days in the county jail. A stay was granted until today to give him an opportunity to get out of town. The police believe that he was an undesirable citizen, possibly an advance man for a gang which had designs upon the city. He gave a very unsatisfactory account of himself in court yesterday.

Given Light Fine.
Joseph Gagne, custodian of the ball park, was found guilty in police court yesterday afternoon of striking Chester Swick, 9 years old, with a piece of hose. He paid a fine of $5. He disclaimed all knowledge of the assault, explaining that he was only forcing the crowd back from the field in order to give the players needed room.

George M. Marple, General Agent,
Northwestern National Life Insurance Company of Minneapolis, has removed his office to 802 Alworth building.

Extraordinary Values.

Bazar Draws Big Crowds.
Large crowds are attending the silver jubilee tombola, a big bazar, which is being held this week at St. Jean Baptiste hall, Twenty-fourth avenue west and Third street. The booths have been prettily decorated and a number of costly articles have been put up as prizes. The tombola will close Wednesday evening. The proceeds will go to the building fund of the French Catholic parish.

Temple Services.
"The Neglected Comers" will be the subject of a sermon by Rabbi Lefkovits at Temple Emanuel this evening.

COLD DAY FOR NEW YORK GAME.

New York, Oct. 21.—The crucial game today of the local post season series seemed likely to be played under unfavorable weather conditions. A chilling wind blew and the sky was overcast.

The series stands with three games won by the National league club and two by the American, with one game tied. A victory for the Nationals today would end the struggle and Manager McGraw was expected to put in Matthewson to pitch. Russell Ford, to be steadied by the veteran Lou Criger, looked like Manager Chase's most probable selection.

MILLER MAINTAINS THAT HE IS STILL AN INSURGENT

Claims Cannonism in House Is Thing of the Past.

Banquet of Young Men's Republican Club a Notable Gathering.

Clarence B. Miller last night at the banquet of the Young Men's Republican club told about 300 young men whom two years ago he started out, "single handed and alone," to preach the gospel of insurgency in this congressional district, and he asserted that he has been in that fight ever since.

In support of this assertion, he cited the reform of the rules of the house, amounting in their sum total to a revolution in the government of that body. Insurgency, he said, found its inception in dissatisfaction growing out of the conditions which made it possible for the speaker to control legislation under the unanimous consent rule. He briefly outlined each of the changes made in the rules, and then said the greatest reform realized was in the reconstruction of the committee on rules. For all of these things he voted, he said, as the record would show.

"I wish here to say that my vote is recorded for every one of them. There has not been a change in the rules of the house without my vote, and in a number of instances I was one of the originators of the resolutions, the adoption of which brought them about.

HANS B. HAROLDSON.

CONGRESSMAN C. B. MILLER.

"Young men took a leading part in this movement, and today Cannonism in the house of representatives is a thing of the past, and knowledge of that fact fills my heart with delight. The old guard has lost it's grip; the gavel still is in the hand of Joe Cannon, but it has lost its power to sting and strike down; so that today, the house is the seat of representative government."

Ignored Changes.

Mr. Miller did not pay the slightest heed to the charge made against him that he violated his trust in voting for Cannon and the old rules as soon as he reached the house, so far as attempting to reply to it is concerned, but he did give some attention to Judge Jaques, his Democratic opponent.

In short and in fine, Mr. Miller, in carefully chosen phrases that couldn't be called unparliamentary, said Judge Jaques is making a campaign for congress on a platform of lies.

"The record tells the eternal truth," he said, with dramatic force, and then he proceeded with his defense by relating how the house has rid itself of Cannonism.

Mr. Miller's address was delivered at the banquet of the club in the Spalding hotel, which was unanimously declared to be one of the greatest political banquets ever held in Duluth. The members of the club were given unstinted praise for the success of their efforts, particularly as their organization is only a few weeks old. There was an attendance of a few more than 300, seated at three long tables, with the speakers' table making a fifth.

At the speakers' table sat President H. S. Clapp, president of the club, Toastmaster W. E. Whipple, the speakers and other man of prominence. The speakers and the toasts to which they responded were: Hans B. Haroldson, "The Young Men's Republican Club"; Alex Janes, "The Political Aspect"; Attorney General G. T. Simpson, "The State of Minnesota"; Senator G. H. Sullivan, "Patriotism and Political Peace"; James P. Boyle, "The Young Man's Point of View"; Clarence B. Miller, "The Young Man in Politics."

Rev. J. W. Powell spoke the invocation, the banquet was enjoyed, and then President Clapp made a brief speech, telling about the club and winding up with the introduction of Mr. Whipple as toastmaster.

It being generally reported and believed that Mr. Whipple is an ardent champion of the candidacy of Judge Jaques for congress against Mr. Miller, the toastmaster's remarks were listened to with the greatest interest. Cannonism he described as an ailment similar to that of Hannaism which afflicted the Republican party.

Whipple on Cannonism.

"The party is now taking treatment for the removal of that ailment," he said, "and I am reliably informed that the chances for its recovery are good. A great deal has been said at political gatherings about the crime of '73, and it is my opinion that if prosecution is to be instituted against the perpetrators of that crime, the indictment will be laid in Vermilion county, Ill., for it was in that year and in that county that Joe Cannon was encouraged to enter public life."

He referred to La Follette as "that garrison of present-day Republicanism," and said that the real leaders of the party today received the Roosevelt indorsement a few days ago in Indiana, when the former president spoke in behalf of Beveridge and his co-workers. Concluding his speech with a feeling tribute to the late Senator Dolliver, Mr. Whipple quickly changed the mood of the audience to one of uproarious delight by saying that Mr. Haroldson, the first speaker on the program, would speak in English and not in Swedish.

What Club Stands For.

Mr Haroldson told of the formation of the club, and said of it that it was young but large and growing, and in the enthusiasm of its members was the equal of any political organization in the land. He told of the recent double-barreled meeting of the club, and when he mentioned the Adams Athletic club there was a storm of applause.

"The members of the Young Men's Republican club believe in progressive Republicanism," said the speaker. "The Republican party needs young, needs them while their ideals are pure and their political principles are unpolluted, and the Republican party, with its future just as glorious as its past, is attracting them. I deny that the young voters are flocking to the Democratic banner, as our detractors assert they are. We of the Republican party have already thrown our rascals out and do not intend to put Democrats—and therefore greater rascals—in."

Mr. Haroldson devoted some time to the younger candidates, saying of Mr. Boyle that he is the man with the Irish name and the Swedish hair; of Walter J. Smith that he is the man with the irresistible smile, who, starting life under the handicap of his name, has been adopted as the godson of Fate; of Mr. Miller that he is "the most popular young man in Northern Minnesota today."

Mr. Haroldson warmly praised Mr. Miller for his record in the legislature and in the house, and credited him with having helped to overthrow Cannonism.

The young Republicans heartily cheered this sentiment, but it was noticed that A. G. McKnight, Miller's opponent before the primaries, remained silent at the speaker's table throughout the demonstration.

"A Nice Old Fellow."

"Judge Jaques is a nice old fellow, all right," said the speaker, "but he's suffering a severe kind of hallucination. Why, I met him the other day and he asked me about the price of board in Washington! The Democrats are all right in their place, of course; but that place is out of office."

He said that the selection of the Democratic candidate for governor was made at Frank Day's "clap-in, clap-out party," James Gray happening to seat himself in the fateful chair and being made the nominee by the embracer, Day. Eberhart, he said, would have no difficulty in defeating such a "catch-as-catch-can candidate."

At the conclusion of this speech, which was frequently interrupted by applause and laughter, Toastmaster Whipple read a telegram from Senator Clapp, dated Fort Dodge, Iowa, in which he said he regretted his inability to be present and wished the club success in its work for progressive Republicanism.

Delegate From South.

Alex Janes was introduced as a representative of the southwestern part of the state, whose presence here symbolized the growing oneness of the commonwealth, the strengthening of the ties of friendship between the extreme sections of the state. Mr. Janes' mention of Mr. McKnight as a former townsman of his, was greeted with applause, and then he proceeded with his speech, which was an eloquent one, devoted largely to the young men feature of political activities. Declaring that political parties are a necessity, he directed his attention to the independent voter, who did not find unqualified favor in his view.

"The independent voter has his uses," Mr. Janes said, "but it must be remembered that the independent voter is the critic and not the creator. Critics in political affairs do good, but these same men as members of a political party could accomplish much more for the people. They should devote their energies to bringing about reform within the party, which is the agency of accomplishment and achievement in political affairs. It is their duty to strive for better conditions as Roosevelt and Clapp have worked to reform the Republican party."

Expressing contentment with the leadership of Roosevelt, Clapp, Beveridge, and, lastly, Taft, the speaker turned to state affairs and said the North and the South both are for Eberhart. Considering the record of Eberhart, the speaker complimented Mr. Simpson by inviting the audience to scan the record of the attorney general's office, which he described as being without a parallel in the history of the United States.

"The warm spirit of friendship that has come into being between the southwestern and the northeastern parts of the state," said Mr. Janes, "had its inception in the Republican state convention," referring to the nomination of Judge P. E. Brown of Luverne for the supreme bench. "We are with you when you ask for reapportionment. The southwestern part of the state wants you to have a full and fair share in the enactment of legislation and the counties with which I am most familiar the candidates are pledged to be with you. This is true in spite of the fact that some of those counties will lose by reason of reapportionment, but they want to be fair."

Mr. Janes quoted James Gray as saying the Minnesota Democracy is forging a new liberty bell, and then drew a word picture of Murphy of New York and Day of Minnesota ringing the bell, which mightily pleased the Republican audience.

Toastmaster Whipple said he hoped Mr. Janes would at the next state convention be ready with his counties to support the Northeastern Minnesota candidate for the supreme court, a remark that elicited a shout of approval.

Preparatory to introducing Mr. Simpson, the chair remarked that Winona has gained fame as a port of call on presidential tours. Of the next speaker, he said, in his capacity of umpire at an amateur ball game, that he fielded his position at an average of .999, and his batting was above .300 all the time.

Referring to the toastmaster's casual remark that among the many varieties of Republicans were those who were "in bad," Attorney General Simpson said he thought that applied to him, for the reason that he has been in office for about six years.

Tells of Fire.

He told of his recent visit to the fire stricken region of Northern Minnesota, and continued:

"From all parts of the state, from village, town and city, but particularly from this great city of Duluth, came immediately generous contributions of bounty and riches for the relief of the victims of that immense disaster. The pity of the scenes there! There were little children with but a single garment to cover their bodies, and I saw little girls who had walked barefoot for as long a distance as eighteen or twenty miles. And they did that not to have a banquet; they walked those weary, painful miles through the blackened waste for food to keep life in their bodies. There were sad scenes, many of them; but there was, too, a better side.

Militiamen Are Heroes.

"The troops, the state militiamen, who came there at the first call for help, have earned the profound appreciation of the commonwealth. I stand here as the representative of this state to voice publicly the state's feeling of gratitude to these men. They are heroes, and they have done and are doing a great work for the people. When they came to Baudette, there was an incipient typhoid fever epidemic there. These men stamped it out! Fearless of the invisible enemy, they fought with the danger and overcame it. They were ready to lay down their lives for the benefit of the state, for had not that epidemic been stayed these victims of fire and disease would have scattered throughout the state, unknowingly taking with them into all our communities the germs of disease.

"Human life and property are safer tonight in Baudette than they are in St. Paul and Minneapolis. I will tell you why. These militiamen have made it so. Your Duluth boys and the Bemidji guardsmen deserve the utmost credit for what they have done for the state."

Mr. Simpson related in dramatic style how he was awakened at night while at Baudette by a rifle shot. He peered out into the dark and soon made out the figure of a sentinel and heard the reassuring call, "All's well." Then he went back to sleep, secure in the knowledge that the guardsmen were on duty. Next day he learned that two nights before bolts on the bank vault—all that remained of the building—had been loosened and the next night the sentinel discerned a moving form approaching the vault. Repeated commands to halt being ignored, the guard fired. In the morning the object of his aim was found dead, shot through the head. It was a dog.

Thugs Leave Region.

"And that day every crook, thug and ruffian left the region, not to return. They knew then that your Duluth boys were there to shoot to kill, if necessary, and had the nerve to obey orders."

"Minnesota is the greatest state in the Union," said Mr. Simpson, with impressive slowness of delivery and distinctness of enunciation. "It is the greatest business organization on the face of the globe. I have made this statement in the southern part of the state to audiences that were disposed to unbelieving, but it is true. Northern Minnesota knows it is true. It conducts a great banking business for its loans have in the last six years aggregated $1,600,000. I know, for I handled them all."

Mr. Simpson explained the inauguration and administration of the land policy of the state, telling of the different funds created under its operation—the swamp land, school, university and internal improvement funds. The total wealth that has been coverted into these funds is $25,000,000, and this fund is inviolate, being sacred to the cause of educating generation after generation of Minnesotans. Eventually, it is computed, these funds will aggregate the tremendous total of $250,000,000.

"I repeat, the state of Minnesota is the strongest, most powerful business organization on the face of the globe," declared the speaker.

Prefacing his assertion with the statement that he was not a St. Paul or a Minneapolis man, he said of Duluth that it is a great city, "The Greatest City in the State."

He said that Minnesota was a state of pioneers and told of how at meetings of the attorneys general from all the states, he, as the representative of Minnesota, was unvaryingly able to point to some act of the Minnesota legislature which was just the thing that some other state was just beginning to realize it needed. He said he did not claim for the Republican party the credit for all of the good work that has made Minnesota foremost among the pioneers, but did assert that every act beneficial to the people had its birth in the hands of Republican officials.

"I have come to visit you, and social custom requires that when one makes a call, that person who is called upon shall return the call. So I want to ask you, when you are in St. Paul, to come and see me." With the long-continued aplause still ringing in his ears, the attorney general, accompanied by Mr. Janes, left the hall to catch the train for St. Paul.

The Toastmaster's Slip.

Introducing the next speaker as a tall man, a clean man and a fighter, Toastmaster Whipple said impressively:

"George H. Stillwater!"

But he amended that to "Senator George H. Sullivan of Stillwater," and the senator arose.

"I have attended all kinds of political meetings and have heard all kinds of political speeches, but never have I attended such a magnificent political gathering as this, or heard such an excellent series of political speeches," said the senator. Referring to Mr. Whipple's praise of him for his effective work as a parliamentary leader in the fight to defeat the tonnage tax, Senator Sullivan said that he but did his duty, and he warned the audience that its hopes had been raised too high if he was expected to live up to his introduction as an orator.

"But if you'll start a fight, "he smilingly ventured," I probably will participate in that and might share in the honors."

The senator said it was his hope that the young Republicans of the entire United States would catch the inspiration of the Young Republicans of Duluth. Urging the need of the participation by young men in political affairs, he said that the patriotism of the average man, who attended to his own affairs and performed his duty to state and nation by taking that part in politics devolving upon him, was of just as high an order as that of the man who offers his life for his country in times of war.

SENATOR G. H. SULLIVAN.

JAMES P. BOYLE.

He urged that all citizens make their representative officials acquainted with their wishes, and said that it was because of their failure to do this that these officials at times seem to fail in their tasks.

Created With Superiority.

He warned his hearers against false public opinion manufactured by journals from selfish motives, and ascribed to representative public servants a superior ability to penetrate these shams.

He saw in the tariff commission plan an assurance of political peace on the tariff question, a condition which never has obtained in the history of the country, and said that progress can be made only by compromise.

He compared legislative conditions elsewhere with those in Minnesota, to the infinite advantage of this state and praised the Republican legislative candidates of St. Louis county, particularly emphasizing the popularity of Senator Thomas Pugh and saying that he is a tower of strength for St. Louis county at St. Paul.

Mr. Boyle, the next speaker, made one of his eloquent talks, not taking up much time but impressing the audience strongly by his forcefulness and ability as a speaker. He said insurgency was no new thing in the Republican party; that insurgency was what has attracted the young men to its banner, and had been doing so ever since the party came into being.

Mr. Boyle spoke in appreciation of Governor Eberhart, quoting Roosevelt as having said complimentary things about him, and criticised Labor Commissioner McEwen for his denunciation of the chief under whom he serves. He told of the governor's interest in the welfare of Northern Minnesota and said that just at this time he is making a strong effort to bring about a solution of the fire danger problem in the north through united action by Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan. Not only would the Republicans of Northern Minnesota vote for him, he said, but many Democrats of this part of the state would do so.

Mr. Boyle eloquently presented the Northern Minnesota issues that will occupy much of the attention of the coming legislature, and said that the Republican platform pledged that party to a performance of these tasks.

"As for the argument that Democrats should be elected to the legislature to insure the return of Senator Clapp to congress—well, our Democratic friends need not worry. We'll take care of Clapp." He referred to Frank A. Day as "the genial gentleman who shapes the destiny of Minnesota Democracy, and said that Minnesota was tired of having Republican administrations headed by Democratic governors.

Given An Ovation.

When he ceased speaking, there was a tremendous outburst of applause, the young Republicans showing with a startling vehemence how much they admire the young man from Eveleth.

While the cheering was going on, Charles Boyle of Duluth hurried to the speaker's table and shook hands with his namesake, complimenting him on his speech.

Congressman Miller made the closing talk and when he took the floor he was given the compliment of an ovation that could not have been but extremely pleasing to him. His address was a finished oratorical product and was frequently interrupted by the cheers of his audience.

Charles O. Applehagen, sololst, and Prof. A. F. M. Custance, accompanist, supplied musical entertainment at intervals, and this is one of the songs Mr. Applehagen sang, to the infinite amusement of the banqueters:

"Tell the voters all to hustle, for our ticket's bound to go;
Tell the real red-hot insurgents to stir up old Uncle Joe;
Let us see the blooming Democrats all laid out in a row,
While we bury their remains in Minnesota.

"We must boost for Clarence Miller, and for Ray Lewis, too;
Boost for Laybourn with his whiskers, not forgetting Thomas Pugh.
Mister Gray will feel like 30 cents, before the campaign's through
He will find a killing frost in Minnesota.

"Wipe the floor with Slim Jim Hector, who is managing their race.
Hang a red light on Bert Wheeler, for he can't keep up the pace;
And the melancholy Jaques is a melancholy case,
For he knows his bluff won't go in Minnesota.

"When election day comes 'round, boys, sure we'll have lots of fun.
All the Dems will rush to cover, for we've got them on the run.
Old Lee Willcutts is like Teddy; he's the man behind the gun.
He's the party's Grand Old Man in Minnesota.

"Mister Gray with local option dope may think he's mighty smart;
He's like Walter Wellman's gas balloon! he's beaten at the start.
It would take a better man than he to cut out Eberhart.
He's the governor for us in Minnesota.

"Here's success to all our candidates, and Doctor Boyer, too
Here's good luck to Billy Anderson, and all his merry crew.
And this club of young Republicans, all loyal men and true.
The political backbone of Minnesota."

And to each of these verses came the chorus:

"Sure we'll be winners; we'll come out on top;
Look out, you Democrats, for something's going to drop.
Come, boys, get busy-Izzy; hustle. Don't stop,
While we boost the G. O. P. in Minnesota."

The song was written by Prof. Custance.

"Well, what do you think of our kids?" was the proud query put to out-of-town men who attended the banquet, by elder Duluthians as the gathering broke up.

And the reply was: "Great!"

Pleasant Home Steel Range

It's no joke, your home will be pleasant in the kitchen if equipped with one of our Pleasant Home Steel Ranges. This range has a three-wall construction that places it ahead of any other range on the market. The outside wall is built of heavy planished steel, then comes a wall of heavy asbestos felt and then an inside wall of cast iron. This cast iron lining protects the asbestos and adds to the heat-retaining powers of the stove. The result is a more economical stove and a more even baking oven. Come in and let us show you this range. For hard coal, soft coal, or wood.

To Grow Hair on a Bald Head

By a Specialist.

Thousands of people suffer from baldness and falling hair who, having tried nearly every advertised hair tonic and hair grower without results, have resigned themselves to baldness and its attendant discomfort. Yet their case is not hopeless; the following simple home prescription has made hair grow after years of baldness, and is also unequaled for restoring gray hair to its original color, stopping hair from falling out, and destroying the dandruff germ. It will not make the hair greasy, and can be put up by any chemist: Bay Rum 6 ounces, Larona de Compose' 2 ounces, Menthol Crystals ½ drachm. If you wish it perfumed add half to one teaspoonful Tokalon Perfume, which unites perfectly with the other ingredients. This preparation is highly recommended by physicians and specialists, and is absolutely harmless, as it contains none of the poisonous wood alcohol so frequently found in hair tonics. Do not apply to the face or where hair is not desired.

Be sure to ask the druggist for all the enclosures in the Larona de Compose' package. One of them entitles you to a handsome free sprinkler top for your hair tonic bottle and you are also entitled to receive the free advice of an expert on the hair by simply writing to the address you will find enclosed in the carton.

The above ingredients are all standard and are kept by almost any up-to-date drug store. W. A. Abbett, for instance, states that he is obliged to fill this prescription many times each week and that all of his patrons have reported the greatest degree of satisfaction.

ARE GOING AFTER WIFE-DESERTERS

Houghton County Authorities Rounding Up Derelicts All Over Country.

Calumet, Mich., Oct. 21. — (Special to The Herald.)—Angelo Yotti of Calumet, who was brought back from Duluth on the charge of desertion, will have his examination before Justice of the Peace William Y. Fisher next Thursday. Yotti was arraigned yesterday. Yotti is one of the first alleged wife deserters of Houghton county to fall into the hands of the officers since the board of supervisors ordered Sheriff Byers and his assistants to scour the country for this gentry and to make them either support their families or stand trial. A Calumet wife deserter was recently returned from Red Lodge, Mont., and is now under bonds to support his family. There are scores of other similar cases now being investigated by the authorities and alleged wife deserters in Montana, Minnesota, Arizona and in the Canadian mining fields will be returned here for trial shortly.

Laurium Chinese Accused.

Pong Yo Foo, the Laurium Chinese laundryman charged with criminal assault on a 14-year-old girl, who was captured while trying to escape on a train at Mill Mine junction, Monday, was arraigned before Justice Armit yesterday. His examination has been adjourned for one week. It is not unlikely that other local Chinamen may be called upon by the authorities to tell what they know of this or other cases of the kind.

Oscar Kleri, charged with assault and battery by the heavyweight Finnish wrestler, Matt Kangas of Ishpeming, has decided not to appeal his case to the circuit court. He was found guilty in the justice court. Kleri has settled his fine and the costs, $20.

John Gustovich, charged by Amelia Malkovich with a statutory crime, has been discharged because of the non-appearance in court of the complainant. Some months ago, it is alleged by Gustovich, his wife fled from Calumet, taking one child and a sum amounting to $700. She returned to find another, the Malkovich woman, installed in her place as housekeeper. The women could not agree and the housekeeper was discharged, later bringing charges against Gustovich.

HEAVY FROST, ALSO RAIN

Have Probably Quenched Red Lake County Fires.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—A heavy frost Wednesday evening destroyed the last vestige of leaf and grass. Ice was formed half an inch thick.

Drenching rains have put out all fires in Northern Minnesota, which will afford great relief to woods settlers and farmers on the prairies.

NORTH DAKOTA BOY SHOOTS OFF AN ARM.

Churchs Ferry, N. D., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—While Roy Matthews, living north of here was hunting yesterday with another boy and a man he sustained a serious injury, necessitating the amputation of one arm at the elbow. He was trying to remove a shell from his shot gun when the weapon went off, the force of the explosion tearing his arm almost off at the elbow.

New System of Fat Reduction

The saying that "there is nothing new under the sun" does not now apply to fat people. Here is something new for them—a new sensation, a new pleasure, a new and graceful figure, easily found by anyone who is passing beyond the limits of slimness. Everyone has heard of the Marmola Prescription; that harmless combination of fat-defying elements discovered by one of our foremost physicians. Now, from the same high authority there comes another idea—the idea of condensing these same pure, harmless ingredients into a pleasant little tablet. Taken after eating and at bedtime they help the stomach to dispose of all the fatty foods, converting them into compact, solid flesh, muscle and energy, without dieting or exercise. Marmola Prescription Tablets regulate the entire system—do for you what bodily exertion and self-denial can not do and the fat, once routed, is gone for good. You can prove all this at a trifling cost. Marmola Prescription Tablets are sold by all druggists or sent post paid by the Marmola Co., 491 Monroe Av., Detroit, Mich. A large case—sufficient to bring lasting results—is but 75c.

MILK RATES MUST STAND

State Commission Rejects Request of Bigger Creameries.

Holds That Change Would Disturb the Dairy Interests.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Realizing that a change or an adjustment of express rates on cream in five, eight and ten-gallon sized cans in favor of the large creamery shippers of St. Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth might wipe out the hundreds of prosperous creameries in small communities, the state railroad and warehouse commission today filed an order denying the petition of Twin City and Duluth creamery shippers for changes in the maximum rates.

All the railroads and express companies operating in Minnesota are made defendants and the plaintiffs are R. E. Cobb, Miller Holmes, Minnesota Butter & Cheese company, Milton Dairy company and F. J. Mumm company, known as centralizers.

These petitioners desired the rates so changed that the maximum rates would equal the interstate rate put into effect by the interstate commerce commission March 1, 1909. The dairy interests of the state outside of the three large cities, were opposed to the rates.

The commission holds that a change in the rate would materially increase the rates on the five and eight gallon cans and that this would unnecessarily disturb the dairy interests of the state.

KILLED BY STRAY SHOT

George Rowley, a resident of Spring Garden, was shot and killed by a stray bullet, while walking along the stock farm road opposite Smith's greenhouse shortly before 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Rowley was alone at the time. The bullet penetrated his lung just below the heart. He struggled along a short distance and then dropped to the ground dead. He was found a few moments later by George Drake, the rural mail carrier.

When the matter was first reported to the police it was stated that Rowley had been murdered, and Chief Troyer and the detectives immediately left for the scene in the police automobile.

STILL PREACHING AT 91.

London Standard: The Rev. L. C. Wood yesterday entered upon his ninety-second year. For more than sixty-four years he has been vicar of Singleton, near Blackpool.

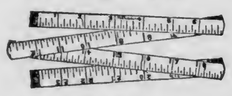

He is in excellent health, works hard in the parish, preaches regularly and presides at various agricultural meetings of associations with which he is connected. He attends all the public functions in the Blackpool district, and this week he delivered a panegyric on the late King Edward, which revealed great mental as well as physical vigor.

MORELAND TOTAL LOSS

United Wireless dispatches from E. de River, Mich., to The Herald this afternoon state that the big steamer Moreland which ran on a reef near Eagle River Tuesday night has suffered severely from the storm of the past two days, and is now considered as a total loss.

The boat broke in two about 125 feet from the bow the forward part remaining on the reef and the after part with the engines and most of the cargo of iron ore sliding back into deep water. The tugs and wreckers which were due yesterday at the scene of the wreck were delayed by the heavy storm and did not arrive until this morning.

It is expected that the captain and the crew will leave for Cleveland today.

The wreck has attracted a great deal of attention in the Copper country and the Keweenaw Central railway will run an excursion to Eagle River Sunday for the benefit of sight-seers.

MORE THAN 200 SAVED FROM SEA

Cutter Takes Passengers Off Wreck---Storm's Results Appearing.

Key West, Fla., Oct. 21.—Via Havana—The United States cutter Forward returned here today bringing the rest of the passengers from the French trans-Atlantic steamer Louisiane which went ashore on Sombrero reef during the hurricane of Monday. But half of the 547 passengers reached here yesterday.

The captain of the Louisiane reports that it will be impossible to save his ship until the cargo has been removed. He is awaiting orders from the owners.

The captain of the Norwegian steamer Fos, which is fast in the quicksand at Marqueses, has arrived at Tortugas island and reports his vessel is in good condition. He will return to her today to discharge her cargo.

Derelict Is Reported.

A derelict is reported near Sand Key. The ballast steamer Miami will leave today for Jacksonville with the mails. The steamer Mascotte is expected from Jacksonville with mails during the day.

Cable Manager Askins left yesterday with two chartered vessels fully equipped to make repairs in the Miami cable.

The American steamer Herman Frasche, which was ashore off Alligator Light, has been floated and is being towed into port.

The schooner Hanson B. Beecher is reported waterlogged and dismasted off Cape San Antonio, Cuba. The captain and crew refuse assistance.

Brazos Reports "All Well."

Savannah, Ga., Oct. 21.—The Mallory liner Brazos, from Galveston for New York, overdue on account of the hurricane, reported "all well" to the local wireless station last night. The Brazos was then about 100 miles off Savannah.

IS REPRESENTING MEXICAN ROADS

Frank L. Moe Says Duluth Is Known Even in Far South.

Frank L. Moe, general Western agent of the National Railways of Mexico, and who is making his first trip to the Head of the Lakes, is in the city today.

Mr. Moe is a brother of the manager of the United Wireless Telegraph company, and has enjoyed a visit with his brother while here.

In regard to the railways of Mexico, Mr. Moe stated that they were progressive, were fast taking up the most modern methods of railway operation and construction, and in this manner were vastly different from the railways of Mexico, operating under the older regime.

Mr. Moe has general charge of the Western office of Chicago, and from that office keeps a lookout over the Western territory. It was the fact that Duluth is rapidly getting the name of being one of the largest railroad centers in the Northwest, that brought Mr. Moe here.

With him is E. B. Brophy, traveling passenger agent of the National Railways of Mexico.

Taft Is Registered.

Washington, Oct. 21.—It will not be necessary for President Taft to go to Cincinnati to register in order to vote there on Nov. 8. The president last night registered by affidavit. NOTES OF BOYS' DEPARTMENT

On account of the wet weather the boys 'department troops of the Boy ouuts will not be able to have their outdoor scouting party to Hunter's Park as planned for tomorrow, but instead will meet at the boys' building at 2:30 and will carry as much of the program out as will be possible indoors.

The program will include, practice in the Scout commands, stretcher drill, elementary first aid, knot tieing contest, and some scout games. Points will be given to the Scouts for the best deeds done on the way up, and also for the observations they make.

Should tomorrow be a bright day the original program will be carried out.

Tonight the social committee will entertain the members of the Freshman class and the whole building will be turned over to the guests for the evening. There will be music, games, refreshments and an indoor parlor field meet. Each guest will receive a complimentary ticket for a swim in the pool at the Central department.

This afternoon the Junior club will elect its officers for the year. The Junior club is composed of the members of the boys department who are 10 and 11 years old. They have one gymnasium period every Friday afternoon at 4:15. There will be a short club meeting each week, at which time there will be a short talk or story telling period. The club will have an emblem, yell, outings, and will close the season with a banquet. When a Junior member reaches his 12th birthday he may become a regular member and have the full privileges of the boys' department.

A special meeting of the boys' department cabinet has been called for Sunday afternoon to make the final arrangements for the opening of the Bible study clubs, next week.

ONLY FOUR JURORS FOR CLARK'S TRIAL.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 21.—No progress has been made since Thursday morning in the selection of a jury for the Pemberton Clark legislative bribery case. But four jurors have been secured. Senator D. W. Holstlaw of Iuka, whose confession resulted in the indictment of Pemberton and Clark for conspiracy, has arrived in Springfield and will be the state's star witness.

Locates in Duluth.

George M. Marnle, who during the past four years has represented the Northwestern National Life Insurance Company in Minneapolis and Western Minnesota, visited Duluth last July and was so impressed with the city and surrounding territory that he is now located here as General Agent for Northwestern Minnesota.

Mr. Marnle recently brought his family from Minneapolis, and has taken up his residence in the Kohagen flats at 638 East Third street.

AT THE AUSTRIAN BORDER.

New York Sun: "You may talk about the difficulties you encounter with the customs inspectors on arriving in New York," said an English woman in New York the other day, "but you will find that worse troubles of the kind accumulate for you in certain parts of Europe. Especially is this apt to be true on the Austrian border.'

"I was coming up from Turkey on my way to Paris a few months ago. Owing to the fact that my cousin, who had been traveling with me, could not get away from Constantinople, I had to make the journey alone.

"The train on which I traveled is supposed to be one of the finest in Europe, but most of the way to Vienna it stops every few minutes. They told me the reason was that they had been unable to get enough coal to start with and that these stops were necessary to get fuel. Apparently they took on about a shovelful at each station.

"We reached the Austrian frontier about 2 o'clock in the morning, and then uniformed customs officials went through the train routing out everybody. They wouldn't let the women dress, and I had to hurry out with nothing on but a dressing gown, and the night was cold, too. We were huddled in a room in the station and our hand luggage was brought out, while every compartment in the train was searched. Then they made us open our bags and satchels.

"The man who attended to my luggage was a very disagreeable sort of person. He insisted upon by opening every parcel I had.

"Now, in my effects was a large box of Turkish delight, which as you may know, is a sort of sweet paste or gum and is considered a great delicacy out there. I was taking it to some friends at home. The box was solidly constructed; in fact, there were two outer cases of wood, and the candy was in a sealed tin box.

"'You must open this box,' said the official in gruff German.

"'I certainly shall not,' I replied, and I explained what it contained.

"'But it must be opened,' he insisted. He refused to believe me.

"'Then open it yourself,' I said; 'but you must fasten it up again.'

"He growled and started in. The outer case was securely nailed, and it took some time to get the top off. When he had removed that and revealed another wooden box the official swore. Then when he had got the top off the second box there was the tin. He spoiled the blade of his knife cutting that open and then when he came to the Turkish delight he was disgusted.

"Of course I laughed in his face. Then he refused to pack the boxes again, but I insisted, threatening him with all sorts of things about appealing to the British ambassador, and so on, so he finally turned in and did as I ordered him, while my fellow passengers chaffed him at being ordered about by a woman.

"I learned afterward that a woman traveling alone had been smuggling a lot of Turkish tobacco into Austria and that the officials had lately been keeping a sharp lookout for her. My being unaccompanied had aroused suspicion."

CLOUDS AND THE WEATHER.

Chicago Tribune: Cloud weather forecasts made by Dr. A. de Quervain of Zurich are of the utmost scientific and practical importance. His deductions are based on the familiar cumulus cloud of warm summer days.

When reaching heights of six or seven miles it becomes a trundle cloud. The high floating top assumes the shape of a fleecy ice needle cloud and extends sideways in anvil shape. The ordinary cumulus cloud undergoes similar transformation at a level of three to four miles, and so does not lead to the formation of thunder clouds, but merely to the production of fleecy clouds.

This sort of cloud can be regarded as a presage of good weather. The veil shaped hooded clouds have not been sufficiently explained. Often they encompass the top of a quickly rising cumulus cloud and until recently were thought to be instrumental in the production of hail. They are always found to be intimately connected with existing fleecy clouds, and on the other hand presage bad weather, occurring previous to thunderstorms.

Even such reliable presages of thunder storms are the remarkably delicate varieties of fleecy clouds which are mostly found floating about four miles high. On a darker layer they are superposed, delicate white heads. These lofty curly heads, generally in the morning, safely predict a thunderstorm within twenty-four hours. By balloon ascents it was found that the occurrence of these clouds coincides with a violent drop in the temperature.

MAY SPLIT THE D. A. R.

Clash Between Minnesota and National Organizations Occurs.

State Body Is Forbidden to Incorporate to Own Sibley House.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—A development that may grow into a split between the Minnesota chapter of the D. A. R. and the National board of that body occurred in the annual conference of the Minnesota D. A. R. in the Park Congregational church today.

It came when Mrs. L. C. Jefferson of St. Paul read a communication from the national board forbidding the Minnesota society to incorporate to own the Sibley house at Mendota.

It is probable that the state society will ignore the ruling of the board and incorporate anyway.

A suggestion was also made to the Daughters that they secure and preserve the funeral car of Abraham Lincoln, which is standing neglected on a sidetrack in Minneapolis. It is probable that this will be acted upon.

State Regent Presided.

Mrs. C. Wells of Minneapolis, state regent, called the conference to order. Mrs. Wells appointed the following committee on resolutions: Mrs. E. J. Edwards, Mrs. H. L. Stark, Mrs. W. J. Morehart, Mrs. Grant Bronson and Mrs. Leroy Boughner.

Mrs. A. A. Pocock, state treasurer, read her report, showing a balance on hand $67.32.

Other reports were made by Mrs. Grant Bronson of Northfield, state historian, and Mrs. W. H. Burris of Duluth, state registrar. Music was furnished by Miss Aurelia Wharry, who sang the selections accompanied by Prof. W. E. Mulligan.

Report Showed Prosperity.

Mrs. F. W. Little read a condensed report from the chapter regents of the state from Winona, Faribault, Duluth, Minneapolis, Red Wing, and Fergus Falls, showing the state organizations in a prosperous condition.

Mrs. J. Cooke Howard of Duluth reported that the Daughters of Liberty chapter of her city have recently given a theatrical entertainment for the benefit of the Sibley house, the proceeds of which were over $400.

When the matter of the Sibley house was taken up, Mrs. L. C. Jefferson of St. Paul sprung a sensation by saying that she held in her hand a letter from the national board of the D. A. R. in Washington, forbidding the state society to incorporate to hold property, and throwing the whole matter back into the chapters. The ruling is that chapters may incorporate to own property, but not the state society.

The matter was still under discussion this afternoon.

It is believed the Daughters will ignore the national society's ruling and proceed to incorporate the Sibley house association, making the point that it is a separate organization and does not involve the state society nor come under its by-laws.

JAQUES GETS GOOD RECEPTION

Largest Political Meeting Held at Isanti This Year.

Isanti, Minn., Oct. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—As the weather grows colder the campaign grows warmer. The largest political meeting so far this year, and the second largest ever held in the town, was the one addressed Thursday evening by Alfred Jaques, the Democratic nominee for congress from the Eighth district. He spoke in the Woodman hall in Isanti, having had two good meetings at Grandy and Maple Ridge during the day, and his clear and concise statement of the modern movement of insurgency, his fair and at the same time inspiring criticism of Congressman Miller's action in opposition to reform, met with approval by all present.

Hon. Frank Eddy had addressed a meeting the night before at the same place, calling for greater party solidarity. Mr. Jaques insisted that solidarity of action on the part of the people was far more important at this crisis.

WANT BRANCH OF Y. M. C. A.

Fully 200 Young Men Are Prepared to Join Association.

A movement is on foot among the young men of West Duluth to work for the establishment of a branch Y. M. C. A. for West Duluth and a mass meeting for this purpose may be called in the near future.

An association building at West Duluth, it is pointed out, would be self sustaining and would be supported by at least 200 young men and boys.

The West Duluth W. C. T. U., which has fostered the movement in West Duluth for a number of years, will donate two lots to the cause. The lots were purchased for this purpose some years ago, and are located at Fifty-seventh avenue west and Wadena street.

EPISCOPAL CONGREGATION FORMED AT PROCTOR.

An Episcopal church has been started at Proctor and although the congregation has not grown enough to warrant the erection of a church edifice, services are to be held weekly in the future.

Rev. E. B. Collier, pastor of Holy Apostle's Episcopal church of West Duluth is in charge of the work at Proctor. The first meetings of the Episcopalians were held in the village hall, but during the winter they will be held at the homes of members of the congregation.

Mr. Collier stated today that as soon as the congregation was large enough to support a building, a church would be built.

RECEPTION FOR SCHOOL TEACHERS.

All arrangements for the reception of the school teachers of West Duluth, this evening at the West Duluth Commercial club rooms have been completed by members of the local branch of the W. C. T. U., under whose auspices the affair will be held. The reception will start promptly at 6 o'clock.

The affair is by invitation only but members of the W. C. T. U., their husbands and the honored guests, the school teachers are expected to attend. Among the speakers will be Mrs. H. Bevier, Alderman L. A. Barnes and Mrs. Helen Stewart.

REPAIRS WILL BE MADE TO CHURCH BUILDING.

Extensive repairs may be made on Holy Apostles' Episcopal church, Fifty-seventh avenue west and Elinor street, this fall or early next spring, according to Rev. E. B. Collier, the rector.

A new basement will be placed under the entire building, the interior of the structure will be altered, and the entrance will face on Fifty-seventh avenue instead of Elinor street. The improvements will cost not less than $3,000.

In the basement there will be a furnace room and a room for social purposes, which may be used by the societies and guilds. It is also expected that there will be a kitchen provided for in the improvements.

The seating capacity of the structure will be increased by the removal of a partition which now cuts off considerable space, and it is expected that the auditorium will be redecorated. The church is an old structure, built about fifteen years ago.

The congregation will not take any action on the proposed improvements until Bishop Morrison returns from the East. Then, if it is not too late to start the work this fall, estimates will be secured and the contract will be let.

In case the congregation decides to let the matter go over until next spring, only a few minor repairs will be made this fall, and the more extensive alterations will be made early next year.

CALLS ROOSEVELT "TWICE A LIAR"

Cornell Professor Starts Uproar in Meeting at Ithaca.

Ithaca, N. Y., Oct. 21.—Twice in his speech last night Prof. E. P. Woodruff of Cornell university called Theodore Roosevelt a liar, and once an "unmitigated liar." His attack, made at a political rally over which he presided, threw the house into an uproar. There were catcalls, hisses, cheers and clapping, with a steady shout behind them all of "Parker, Parker."

Former Judge Alton B. Parker then sprang to his feet and begged the audience to allow Prof. Woodruff to be heard. The noisy part of the house complied and the rest of the evening went on more quietly.

As soon as Prof. Woodruff found his feet, he began to open up the Bellamy Storer episode, which Col. Roosevelt only recently declared was closed. He charged that when the colonel denied sending Bellamy Storer to the Vatican, he was an "unmitigated liar," and there were letters in his possession, said the professor, which bore him out.

The Harriman Fund.

The uproar had barely subsided when the professor took up his cudgels again. Roosevelt was twice a "liar," he said, when he denied that the late E. H. Harriman had subscribed to a corruption fund to be used for Roosevelt's election to the presidency.

He closed with a quotation from the Italian historian, Ferrero, translated from Claudius, to whom it was originally applied by the writer, to Roosevelt. The speaker was careful to specify that he meant to imply no comparison between the private lives of Claudius and Roosevelt.

The quotation follows:

"Uncontrollable Audacity."

"The youngest recruit in the ranks of the proletariat, who knew no scruples, and combined the violence of the demagogue with the self-assurance of the aristocrat, was prepared to assert his claim to dominate the community—not so much by his intellect, which was indeed in no way remarkable, but by the one quality in which he outshone all his rivals—by his uncontrollable audacity."

Judge Parker, who followed him, directed all his shafts at Candidate Stimson of the opposition.

ASKS CANADA TO HUNT BALLOONS

St. Louis Aero Club Alarmed at Lack of Reports.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 21.—Alarmed at the prolonged silence of three balloon pilots and their aids, who left here Monday in the international race, the Aero Club of St. Louis today asked the Canadian government to begin a hunt for them. It is believed that the balloons landed Wednesday night and that the six occupants of the three balloons are in distress in the forests of Canada.

The appeals for assistance were addressed to Lieutenant Governor, J. M. Gibson at Toronto and Lieutenant Governor C. Alphonse Pelletier at Quebec. The Hudson Bay company, with headquarters at Montreal, was also asked to begin a search for the aeronauts.

Three balloons are as yet unreported. They are the America II; Azurea, a Swiss entry, and Dusseldorf II, a German netry.

NEW YORK FLAGS AT HALF STAFF

Governor White Issues Proclamation on Death of D. B. Hill.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 21. — Governor White has issued a proclamation requesting that the flags on all public buildings of the state be displayed at half-staff until sundown of the day of the late Former Senator David B. Hill's funeral and that the citizens of the state unite in appropriate marks of respect to his memory.

"It is with sincere sorrow that I announce the death of David Bennett Hill, former governor of the state of New York," said Governor White. "This sad event marks the close of a remarkable career. For more than thirty years David Bennett Hill was a prominent figure in the public life of the state. The force of his personality impressed itself not only upon the people of New York, but upon the whole country, and at the expiration of his final term as governor, he became the candidate of his party in the state of New York for the presidential nomination before the Democratic national convention. As United States senator from 1891 to 1897 he found ample opportunity for the exercise of his skill as a parliamentarian, his brilliant powers as an orator and his uncommon gift as a leader of men."

750 Women's Newest Fall Suits on Sale Tomorrow

Continued warm weather during the latter part of September and early October played havoc with the New York tailors, and thousands of dollars in profits had to be sacrificed. During the past two weeks our New York buyers has purchased for us almost an entire new stock at great concessions in prices from early in the season. All the season's best models in vogue in Paris, Berlin, Vienna, London and New York, will go on sale tomorrow, priced—

$25.00, $27.50, $30.00, $35.00 and up.

We advise you to come early tomorrow, so as to have plenty of time to make your selection.

FROM AN

Economical Standpoint

In buying clothing for boys, it isn't always safe to be guided by prices. You must go further to make certain of satisfaction. See that the quality of the fabric is dependable—not the manner in which the garments are tailored. Consider the label identifying them.

Our Skolny and Standard Brand Clothes for Boys will bear the closest investigation. The more you acquaint yourself with them, the more you will be convinced they are the most economical garments you can buy for your boy.

Suits and Overcoats For Big and Little Fellows $2.50 to $20.00

We make a specialty of Boys' $4.00 and $5.00 Suits, with two pairs of trousers.

An exceptionally broad variety of styles in Shirts, Hats, Caps, Underwear, Neckwear, Sweaters and Shoes, at various modest prices are here awaiting to give good service to that boy of yours.

WHEAT DULL AND WEAKER

Statistics Bearish and Northwestern Stocks Pile Up.

Crop News Here and Abroad Favorable---No Exports.

Duluth Board of Trade, Oct. 21.—Wheat was dull and weak today and closed lower than yesterday. December lost ⅝c and May declined ¼c. Cash wheat was on a parity with the December delivery, rye and barley were unchanged and oats gained ⅛c. Durum wheat declined ½c.

Flax was lifeless with a weak undertone. The deferred months were stronger than the near futures. Increased flax receipts at Minneapolis caused the easier feeling in flax. Crushers bought the cash seed at Minneapolis and sold the Duluth options against it. Winnipeg flax was dull and steady. October flax declined 2½c and November lost 3c. December lost ½c and May was unchanged. Cash flax was on a parity with October, $2.65½, or 2c higher than the Minneapolis spot. Winnipeg October flax closed $2.45 bid, November $2.44 bid and December $2.38 bid.

The wheat market was dull and lifeless again today. The undertone was weak and there was no demand for wheat anywhere. Statistics were bearish and the remarkable increase in stocks at Minneapolis had a depressing effect. The cash demand was slow and although receipts were light the effect was noticeable. The professional element who have been moderately bullish lately played for a rally but they were unable to bull vaues in the early hours.

While the technical position of the market is stronger than several days ago many people regard it as still too high and think values must descend to an export basis. Stocks of wheat abroad are large and world's shipments continue heavy, amounting this week to an estimated movement of 10,400,000 bu exclusive of North America. Argentina shipments are estimated at 840,000 bu against 784,000 bu last week.

Wheat stores at the Head of the Lakes will decline about 500,000 bu this week. Most of this stuff is going into store at Buffalo although a milling interest at another lake port has taken one cargo of spring wheat. Some of the stuff sent out this week was bonded grain. As most of the wheat represented in the Duluth decrease will still show in the figures it cannot be regarded as having been removed from the store windows. The increase of wheat stocks at Minneapolis this week amounted to 1,133,000 bu. Receipts of winter wheat thus far at Minneapolis are about ten times the receipts last year and comprise about one-fourth of the entire receipts of wheat at that terminal.

A Buffalo dispatch said that earlier in the week Buffalo millers were favorably inclined to spring wheat for November shipment which was offered by Duluth sellers at lower rates. The demand, said a local shipper, was not as large as the dispatch indicated and that the situation was as dull as he had ever seen it at this period of the year.

Cables were slightly stronger but the effect was lost under the preponderance of statistics and news of weather conditions in this country and in the southern hemisphere. In the central states considerable moisture has fallen in the last few days relieving for the time being fears of a lack of rain in the winter wheat territory. The Northwest is exceedingly dry, and if there are not heavy snows this winter many people fear the outcome of next year's crops. While it is early to speculate on the moisture that may come to the Northwest this year there is no doubt that an unusually large precipitation in the form of rain or snow is needed.

The official wheat acreage of Argentina is placed at 15,440,000 bu against 14,417,000 bu last year. Argentine cables indicate a favorable crop condition. At the close yesterday a message was received saying that rains in the extreme northern part of Argentina had come too late. The report had no effect on values early today as later cables were more optimistic. The future markets at Buenos Ayres are heavy, indicating the favorable crop situation in the republic.

The short interest in wheat has been greatly reduced in the last few days and some people look for an upturn if for no other reason than that the bears would like to see a hard spot on which to put out more wheat. Short selling has been in progress for nearly three weeks and those people who advised buying for a turn said that the short lines could not be covered in the space of a few days without boosting the market. Unless an export demand develops it is difficult for many people to see how any advance can be maintained.

MARKET GOSSIP

Wheat stores are expected to decrease 500,000 bu this week. This is the first week in several months that stores have shown such a setback. The decrease is due to heavy shipments of wheat to lower lake ports before the advent of the stormy season and the close of navigation. Flax stores are expected to increase 35,000 bu. In five days wheat stocks decreased 137,000 bu to 5,085,000 bu and flax stores increased 29,000 bu to 205,000 bu.

* * *

Shipments not reported: Bonded wheat 226,000 bu, spring wheat 114,000 bu; flax 21,000 bu. Loadings: Spring wheat 213,000 bu, durum 30,000 bu, flax 14,000 bu.

* * *

Of the wheat outlook in Australia the October Crop Reporter says: "During the antipodean winter—June, July and August—climatic conditions are reported almost ideal for the newly sown wheat throughout the grain-growing regions of the commonwealth. As a result of the mild winter, characterized by infrequent freezes, many sunshiny days, plenteous moisture, and followed in September by copious spring rains, the present aspect of the plants promises a harvest two months hence that may exceed last year's record yield of 93,000,000 bu. In the chief producing states interest in wheat growing is decidedly in the ascendancy. Last season the 6,560,000 acres laid down to this cereal was over 1,000,000 acres larger than the previous year and 500,000 acres above average; this year the indications are for a further increase. In New South Wales and Victoria the area seeded for the next harvest exceeds any previous record and Western Australia, heretofore not an important factor in wheat production, is expected to produce an export surplus of 5,000,000 bu.

* * *

It is highly probable that the present crop year will see as large a carryover of wheat in Russia from the harvest of 1909 as from the 1908 crop, although the latter was over 100,000,000 bu larger. Even if Russian shipments equal the heretofore unheard of total of the last year, this year's wheat crop, which is the second of large proportions, is nevertheless the second largest ever raised and is virtually double the average yield of the final decade of the last century—a rate of gain that has not been equaled by the gain in consumption in the ten years that have elapsed since.

* * *

Foreign wheat markets closed: Paris —¼c to ½c lower; flour ½c lower. Antwerp—unchanged. Liverpool—⅛d to ¼d higher; corn ¼d to ⅜d higher.

* * *

Broomhall cabled: Liverpool — The wheat market opened quiet, but with a steadier undertone and values unchanged to ¼d higher. Offerings were lighter induced by the steadier American cables than expected and our forecast of smaller world's shipments for the week. Following the opening the market ruled dull with some support in the near months which further advanced ⅛d to ¼d. The distant month was heavy with large houses here selling prompted by the favorable outlook in Australia and good reports from Argentine where the crop is expected to show a good yield. At midday the market was irregular and unchanged to ¼d higher from yesterday. Corn was steady at the start and ¼d to ¼d higher and following the opening Platas further advanced ¼d. Support was due to the strength in America and the fact that the largest portion of the Argentine shipments went to the continent.

* * *

Forecasts: Minnesota — Part cloudy tonight and Saturday preceded by showers in extreme east portion tonight. North Dakota — Generally fair tonight and Saturday. South Dakota—Generally fair tonight and Saturday, warmer in central portion tonight.

* * *

La Plata linseed was quoted at $2.13 in Antwerp compared with $2.13 a bu yesterday.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Foreign News and Moderate Cash Demand Put Wheat Down.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—Fairly large shipments from Argentina, from India and from Australia encouraged bearishness in the wheat market early today. Furthermore, the crop advices from the Southern Hemisphere were reassuring in tone, and cash demand here was only moderate. Millers were evidently holding off. The opening was ⅜c lower to a shade higher. December started at 94¼c to 94⅜c, touched 94⅜c and then dropped to 94¼@94¼c.

A big increase in stocks at Minneapolis, corn weakness and rains in the winter wheat belt depressed the markets still further. The close was steady with December at 93⅞c, a net loss of ⅝c.

Purchases by shorts and commission houses were insufficient volume to keep corn nearly steady. December opened unchanged to ⅛c off at 47⅜c to 47½c, holding quite firmly at the first named price.

There was a later sag due to exhaustion of the export and shipping call. The close was easy with December at 46½@46⅝c, a net decline of ⅞@1c.

Oats were in good demand from shorts. December started a shade to ⅛@¼c up at 31¼c to 31⅜c, but reacted to 31⅛c.

Provision closed off with hogs. First sales were unchanged to 5c down, with the January option at $17.40 for pork, $10.37½ for lard and $9.17½ for ribs.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Market Opens Higher Under Continued Control of Bull Party.

Reaction Sets In, Advances Wiped Out and Losses Established.

New York, Oct. 21.—Prices of stocks advanced today on active opening dealings, a decline of ⅝ in Amalgamated Copper being the most conspicuous exception. International Harvester also declined 1¼. Rock Island preferred and Bethlehem Steel rose 1½, the preferred 1¼ and Rock Island, Baltimore & Ohio and American Car, large fractions.

A buoyant outburst in Reading which was not checked until it had risen above 156 imparted a very strong tone to the market. United States Steel touched 79⅜. The advance was so rapid that stocks were fed out to realize, and there was a moderate reaction. Subsequently the rise was continued, but there was considerably less business, Kansas City Southern and Westinghouse Electric rose 1½, Delaware & Hudson and Southern Pacific 1¾ and Union Pacific, Denver & Rio Grande, American Smelting and Sloss-Sheffield Steel 1. Virginia Iron yielded 4 points and Norfolk & Western 1.

The stock market indicated the continued control of the bull party in the speculation. The advance in prices was unexplained by any news. A fresh demonstration by the bulls carried Reading 156⅝, Union Pacific to 177, and United States Steel to 79½, new prices for the present movement. Realizing sales again carried prices back a fraction to a point. St. Paul and General Electric gained 1 and American Smelting 1¾. Pullman declined 1. Prices were receding at noon. Bonds were firm.

The market closed weak. The downward drift continued, the demand having lost all its aggressiveness. The rise in Reading and American Smelting was wiped out. Losses were established in Northern Pacific, New York Central, Atlantic Coast Line, Southern Railway preferred and Chicago-Great Western preferred of 1, Louisville & Nashville 1¼, Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie and Railway Steel Spring 1⅜, American Chemical and National Lead 1½, International Harvester 2, Tennessee Copper 2¼ and Sloss-Sheffield Steel 2¾.
